MAINE UNIVERSALISTS AT LEWISTON.

Results of a Year's Good Work of Aid to Parish.

The Executive Committee Finds the Denomination in Good Condition.

Opening of the Annual Convention Last Evening.

(Special to the Press.)

Lewiston, June 4.—Messrs. Henry Lord, Marion Croston, R. Dresser and W. Hooper, executive committee, and the latter secretary of the Maine Universalist organization, have prepared their report and will submit it to the convention tomorrow.

The new policy of helping parishes instead of keeping missionaries in the field begins to be more thoroughly tested, and sufficient funds have been held for that purpose. On the whole they recommend the continuance of the policy but the executive committee should be authorized to send, at the convention's expense, several to represent the convention at any point where personal attention may advance the interests of the church. These are some of the results of the new policy.

Mechanic Falls.—According to the convention last year, we have deposited in the bank $600 to be used in paying the debt of the parish, they having paid this year the $800 which was to be paid last year. The result of the convention was that $600 more was deposited this coming year, and the result of the convention was that $600 more was deposited this coming year.

THE PRESS.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 5.

We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith. We cannot undertake to return or preserve communications that are not used.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

A Republican State Convention will be held in CITY HALL, Portland, Tuesday, June 12, 1888, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

For the purpose of nominating a candidate for governor, to be supported at the September election, and transacting any other business that may properly come before it.

The basis of representation will be as follows: Each city, town and plantation will be entitled to one delegate, and for each seventy-five votes cast for the Republican candidate for governor in 1884 an additional delegate, and for a fraction of forty votes in excess of seventy-five votes, a further additional delegate. Vacancies in the delegation of any city, town or plantation, can only be filled by residents of the county in which the vacancy exists.

The State committee will be in session in the reception room of the hall at 9 o'clock on the morning of the convention for the purpose of receiving the credentials of delegates.

All electors of Maine, without regard to past political differences, who believe in protecting the industries of this State and its agricultural products; who believe in protecting the laborer and the wage-earner in every right; who believe in showing a policy which inspires labor with hope and courage; who believe in giving safety to capital and protecting its increase, which secures political power to every citizen, common culture to every home, giving free popular education to the people; in favor of free suffrage and an honest government of the State; who approve the prohibition of the liquor traffic, and who promote the cause of temperance; in an economical, just and efficient administration of public affairs; a judiciously administered civil service; and who uphold all judicious measures for the encouragement of American ship building are cordially invited to unite with the Republican in the selection of delegates to this convention.

For order Republican State Committee.

J. H. HANLEY, Chairman.

WILLIS H. WING, Secretary.

At the present rate of progress the House won't get through the Mills bill before the snow flies.

About the only interest taken in the Democratic national convention hereabouts concerns the fate of the Hon. William H. Chittenden, whether he is to be continued or discontinued as a member of the national committee.

The Hon. William Emery of Alfred, better known as "Bill," is a shrewd politician and a shrewd financier—he puts his money where it does him the most good. When Mr. Emery attempts to rise to the level of a statesman the performance is painful to behold.

Murat Halstead says he need not see how the Republican convention can reasonably avoid nominating Sherman. If all of Mr. Sherman's supporters were as earnest as Mr. Halstead, it would be difficult to see, but unfortunately for the Ohio Senator there is a great lack of heart in his boom. It has considerable size but it is the most cold blooded boom of the kind.

Mr. George C. Gorham's alleged revelations relative to the relations existing between President Garfield's administration and Mr. Conkling are rather ancient history. He exploited the case long ago, and the best answer to it is the fact that the Republicans he tried to smother are today the most prominent and most popular in the party and still enjoy the confidence of the people, while his name has sunk almost into oblivion.

District Attorney Fellows' had luck still pursues him. Since he became district attorney the case against Squire and Flynn, two conspicuous public rascals, has fallen to the ground by reason of bad management; and now the prosecution of Kerr, one of the boodle aldermen, has failed by reason of disagreement of the jury. Fellows may not be blame, but it is certainly unfortunate for him that the predictions of failure under his management made before his election should come true so frequently.

The only curiosity which the Democratic election excites in the public mind is in its delivery on the tank. It is a case of a disposition to repeat the variance of four years ago as interpreted as a free trade as might be expected as a disposition would 'resident Cleve' the nomination of the 'so above' of the 'he'.

The ap. field has 747. Presidential honors of Gov. Gray of Indiana and Assistant Postmaster General Stevens, and though the friends of the two latter are working like beavers, the chances are that Mr. Thurman will get the nomination. Mr. Thurman's strength consists in his record as one of the oldest and strongest Democrats of the country, and his inclination to the Jacksonian system of disposing of the offices. Along with that may possibly be a feeling that his candidacy may make Ohio a doubtful State, though that is not probable, for the Old Roman is not popular with the most powerful wing of the Buckeye Democracy.

Concerning Fairness. Another wall comes from the Bangor Whig concerning the unfairness of the Press. This time the Press is rebuked for not publishing a letter from ex-Senator Henry Holbrook saying that in his opinion no serious complications would result from the election of Mr. Burleigh to the governorship. Inasmuch as none of Mr. Burleigh's organs have ever fairly presented the treasury matter, inasmuch as none of them has published the letter of the Hon. J. W. Wadsworth, the letter of the Hon. E. H. Banks, the letter of the Hon. William Rogers, and only one of them the letter of the Hon. J. W. Fairbanks it smacks a good deal of presumption for them to complain of the failure of the Press to publish Mr. Holbrook's letter. Mr. Burleigh has plenty of newspaper spokesmen; he suffers no injustice if the Press refuses to become one of them. Had the Whig been seeking after the fairness which it professes it would have published along with Mr. Holbrook's the letter of the Hon. E. H. Banks. Before it complains of unfairness it should set the example of fairness.

Now to the general charge of unfairness of the supporters of Mr. Cleves in this campaign. We have to say that it is unfounded. The criticisms of Mr. Burleigh's candidacy have been open and above board. They have been publicly made so that his supporters could see just what they were and meet them if they could. Their character has been, too, legitimate. They have not proceeded by innuendo or insinuation as did Mr. Burleigh's organ the Farrington Chronicle in the anonymous letter which it published concerning Mr. Cleves, or as did Mr. Burleigh's organ the Waterville Sentinel when it alleged that Mr. Cleves was the candidate of the politicians, while Mr. Burleigh was the candidate of the people, or as did the recent letter from Augusta to the Boston Globe when it asserted that Gov. Marble's friends were going to belt if Mr. Burleigh was nominated, and that Mr. Cleves was in league with their critics. They have called public attention to certain serious complications which might arise should Mr. Burleigh be elected Governor by reason of his connection with the Treasury and by reason of his son's connection with the Kennebec Journal, which does the printing for the State, and they have pointed out that his nomination would set a bad precedent which the Republican party might in the future have reason to regret. These were perfectly legitimate subjects for public discussion, and had the Republican press of the State shut its eyes to them it would have been guilty of culpable neglect.

It is Mr. Burleigh's organs know of any serious objections to the candidacy of Mr. Cleves or Gov. Marble it is their duty to state them. If they are stated directly and plainly so that they can be met we believe that neither of these gentlemen will complain. Mr. Cleves certainly went into this campaign expecting to be nominated. He did not expect the Republican party to take him without question on the valuation put upon him by his friends. But Mr. Burleigh's friends appear to have thought that when they had made up their minds that he was the proper candidate for the Republicans to nominate that was going to settle it. They apparently conceived that nobody else had the right to say anything about it. They looked upon their endorsement as a sort of imperial ukase which it was treason for anybody to question. They have found out their mistake, and that's why they are unhappy.

LIFE A BURDEN.

The Terrible Persecutions of the Jews of Morocco.

[Letter to the Boston Transcript.] The Jews of Morocco are to my mind one of the most interesting and the most trying race of people I ever met. Subject to restrictions in their life and business which would exterminate an ordinary race of people in two generations, they have grown, prospered, and in many places are masters of their masters. It would take more room than I can give to tell you the story of the Jews in Morocco, so I must be content with the shortest sketch possible.

No one knows just where the Moorish Jews came from, but of course they have been connected with the lost tribes and all that. The main facts are, they are in Morocco without knowing themselves just how they got there. Among the anomalies connected with them is that they are hated and despised by the Moors, subject to every insult and degradation that can be imagined; yet they are recognized as such necessary members of society that there is a law, which is actively enforced, forbidding Jews to leave the country under any circumstances. The Jews, outside of one or two coast towns, are traders in the interior, and are the lowest animals; and, whether the means of retaliation or the means which in the first place secured them this brutal treatment are not competent to say, they in return treat the Moors with fairly devilish cruelty when they get them in their power, as they often do through money transactions; for, as in other lands, the superior cunning of the Jews makes them the bankers of the country, and with a debtor's law which allows imprisonment of a man until his debt is discharged, there are ample opportunities for the Jews to act as debtors.

In return for this a Moor thinks no more of killing a Jew, he can do it quite as easily as killing a rat. The Jews are not allowed to carry arms of any kind, nor to ride upon a horse, mule, donkey or bullock, but must make all journeys on foot; neither are they allowed to wear any foot covering outside of their own quarter, where they are treated as a separate community, and are regulated and restricted so that they may always be known from the believers at a glance. They are forbidden to build any places of worship or to hold religious services of any kind, and their command is religiously disregarded, services being held regularly in their houses, with, in some cities, a guard posted to inform of the approach of strangers. If there is any noisy work to be done, as for instance the embalming of the heads of executed rebels so that they may hang longer at the traitor's gate, the Jews are pressed into the service; if the Sultan or one of his officers wishes a few thousand dollars to meet a sudden demand for money, the Jews are the first to be called upon, and they are not allowed to refuse. If a Jew meets a Moor, no matter how low the position of the latter, he is obliged to bow and kneel into the dust of the middle of the street so as not to touch the garments of a follower of the prophet, and he is not allowed under any circumstances to enter the street upon which a mosque is situated. The punishment for the disregard of any of these laws is simply terrible, ranging from banishment to death.

Of the peculiar marriage arrangements of the Jews I shall have more to say later, as well as of their household arrangements, and in changing the subject I may add that the Jews of Morocco look upon themselves as a persecuted race, but from my own observation I think I had rather be a Jew than a Moor as far as persecution is concerned, for his deadly hatred of the Moor, coupled with his own superior position, gives him the course of his lifetime a chance to return oppression for oppression, and to my certain knowledge the dungeons of Morocco are filled with Moors rotting to death in payment of debts owed to this same persecuted race.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The cold and unpleasant weather for the past few weeks, has, no doubt, caused many people to feel that the old suit is as good as the weather.

This is good logic for a rainy day, but when the warm days come you will be surprised to know that many of the nobby and most desirable things have either been sold or the line of sizes badly broken. Anticipating the wants of the late buyer we have been in the market the past week and replenished our stock with the most complete line of Men's, Youths' and Children's Suitings we have ever shown, and will give our customers the full advantage of having bought them cheap for cash.
