Who'd Throw Away Insurance?

The man who deliberately destroys his fire insurance policy is no more reckless than the man who neglects to insure. Don't you risk it! Make sure your property is well insured. Any of the companies we represent will give you full protection at very little cost. Let's talk it over—the earlier the better.

HOW TO KEEP COOL.
Don't walk too fast;
Don't fume and fret;
Don't vow 'twill be much hotter yet;
Don't eat too much;
Don't drink at all of things composed of alcohol.
Don't read about the sunstruck folks;
Don't read the old hot weather jokes;
Don't work too hard;
Don't try to see the rising of the mercury.
Don't fan yourself;
Don't think you're hot;
Just cool off with "I think I'm not."
And, more than that, Don't read a rule beneath this head: "How to Keep Cool."

C. L. Morang is in Boston on business. Miss Sophie Walker is at Shore Acres for two weeks. Irving Whittaker, of Boston, is in the city for a short visit. Miss Ida Baker, of Rochester, N. H., is at home on her summer vacation. Miss Margery Sprague, of Concord, Mass., is the guest of Miss Eva Aiken. Miss Eva Dickey, of Wollaston, Mass., is a guest at the Black homestead on State street.

A baseball nine went to Bucksport last Saturday and were defeated by a score of 15 to 3.

Miss Mildred Varnum, of Bangor, is the guest of Mrs. H. E. Davis at the Foster cottage, Shady Nook.

Mrs. D. A. McRae and little daughter Bertha, of Everett, Mass., are visiting her parents, C. H. Grisdal and wife.

Mrs. E. G. Sweet, of Portland, and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Dewey and child are visiting friends and relatives in town.

Mrs. L. F. Hooper has closed her boarding-house temporarily, and is taking a much-needed rest among friends in Brooklin.

J. W. Young, of Webster City, Iowa, was in Ellsworth last week. Mr. Young is spending several weeks at Lamotte, his native town.

Ellsworth friends of Fred Flynn will be interested to learn that he has been asked to join the Sorrento baseball club for the season.

C. H. Knox and wife, of Chester, Mass., are here for a week's visit. They are the guests of Mrs. Knox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin P. Joy.

Mrs. F. B. Ingalls and her sister, Miss Florence Jordan, who has been visiting her, arrived last week, and are at the old homestead on the Surry road.

The woman's relief corps will meet to-morrow evening. As this is the only meeting that will be held during the month, a full attendance is desired.

The Ernest Elton Comedy Co., scheduled to appear at Hancock hall last Monday evening, failed to put in an appearance. No satisfactory reason was given.

D. F. Tribou has sold his variety store on Franklin street to his son, D. H. Tribou. Mr. Tribou says he may go into the shoe manufacturing business.

Adj.-Gen. A. B. Farnham was in Ellsworth Saturday discussing with Senator Hale the details of the visit of President Roosevelt to Maine on Aug. 26 and 27.

Herbert S. Hall, of Costigan, Charles S. Lord, of Northeast Harbor, and Mrs. William Dana, of Boston, were in the city last week, called here by the death of Mrs. Sara F. Hall.

private musicale at Bar Harbor on Saturday, Aug. 16, instead of next Saturday, as previously announced.

City Marshal Donovan is busy this week hunting deserters from the government training ship "Prairie" that is still lying off the coasting station at Lamotte. Mr. Donovan captured three last week. Thirteen got away last Sunday night.

Dr. Walter L. Foster, of Rochester, N. Y., Wm. L. McDonald, of Pittsburg, Pa., and Fred K. Swett, of Portland, arrived in Ellsworth last Friday. Mr. Swett was obliged to return to Portland Sunday evening. The others will spend their vacations here.

The Methodists and Baptists were favored with delightful weather last Thursday, the day of their combined Sunday school excursion to Newbury Neck. About 300 went, and a most enjoyable time is reported. Lynch's band, of Ellsworth Falls, was in attendance.

George E. Greeley, of Boston, a well-known and successful shoe man, arrived in Ellsworth this morning and is in consultation with the directors of the Union Shoe Manufacturing Co., with a view to reopening the factory. Mr. Greeley will remain here a few days, and it is hoped that arrangements can be made that will result in the resumption of shoe manufacturing in this city.

A. W. King has returned from a flying trip to Boston, where he went to consult B. E. Cole & Co. regarding their factory here and its relation to the proposed wood-working factory. While it is true that Brockton parties have approached Mr. Cole with a view of purchasing the building, and reopening it as a shoe factory, the promoters of the hardwood scheme have the first call on it.

Lieut. Col. Frederick Hale, of Gov. Hill's staff, and son of Senator Hale, gave one of the largest dancing parties of the summer season at his home on State street, Portland, Wednesday evening of last week. The germans were in honor of Miss Katharine Hale and her guests, Miss Miller and Miss Jackson. The dance was chaperoned by Judge and Mrs. Clarence Hale, and the guests included the young society set and several from out of town. The german was led by Wadsworth Noyes. Gouverneur Morris, author of "Tom Swallow", was among the guests.—Bangor Commercial.

Clerk-of-Courts J. F. Knowlton, who is auditor of the East Maine conference seminary, went to Bucksport last Friday to audit the accounts of the officers of that institution. He was accompanied by his daughter Hazel. Mr. Knowlton returned yesterday. Miss Hazel accompanied Railroad Commissioner Parker Spofford on a tour of inspection of the Penobscot Central, above Bangor, and today leaves Bucksport for Rockland for a few days' visit among friends in that city.

Winfred F. Aiken has been admitted a partner in his father's business—stoves, tinware and plumbing. Mr. F. B. Aiken is one of Ellsworth's oldest and most respected business men. When he came here, more than forty years ago, the firm of Aiken Brothers—there were three of them—was formed and continued until 1880, when two of the brothers withdrew. O. R. Aiken went to Providence, where he died. B. H. Aiken went to Vineland, N. J., where he is conducting a successful fruit farm. Since 1880 the business has been conducted by F. B. Aiken's ably assisted by T. F. Mahoney, who has been Mr. Aiken's faithful clerk for the past twenty-two years. Young Mr. Aiken is receiving congratulations on his accession to the firm.

"The Burglar." An audience that completely filled Hancock hall listened last evening to the performance of "The Burglar", given under the direction of Fred E. Cooke, with the intensest satisfaction. It was far and away the best dramatic performance that has been given in Ellsworth within the past decade. The cast of characters was as follows:

Wm Lewis, the Burglar..... Mr Byrne
John Hamilton, a retired merchant... Mr Cooke
Edward Bainbridge..... Mr Stockbridge
Paul Benton, an editor..... Mr Aiken
James..... Mr Campbell
Alice (Mrs Lewis)..... Miss McGowan
Fanny, her cousin..... Mrs Stockbridge
Mama, Ned's sister..... Miss Friend
Martha..... Mrs Giles
Editha..... Little Erva Giles

The cast is partly professional, partly local. The professionals need no praise; the locals acted their parts so admirably that a stranger would have had to be told that they, too, were not professionals.

A critique of the performance is hardly necessary. It is sufficient to say that a more thrilling and realistic piece of acting than that of Mr. Byrne, who played the part of "William Lewis", the burglar, has rarely been seen in Ellsworth. And most pleasing were the scenes when he and "Editha", so admirably impersonated by Little Erva Giles, met.

Mr. Cooke and Mr. and Mrs. Stockbridge, too, in their respective parts, were admirable, and they well deserved the applause and recalls that greeted them.

The local participants, Miss McGowan, Mrs. Giles, Mr. Aiken and Mr. Campbell, gave some exhibitions of acting far beyond the ordinary, and they, too, came in for a generous share of the expressions of satisfaction given forth by the audience.

Altogether it was a performance highly commendable to the participants, and eminently satisfying to the audience. The company is scheduled to appear at Bar Harbor to-night, and at Northeast Harbor to-morrow night, and it is earnestly hoped that it will meet in each of those places the success it so richly deserves.

FIRE AT JOLLY FARM.

Hon. John B. Redman's Farm Buildings at Bayside Burned.

The many friends of Hon. John B. Redman deeply sympathize with him in the losses of his Jolly farm buildings at Bayside, which were totally destroyed by fire last Saturday forenoon.

The house, ell and stable on the eastern side of the road were burned, together with practically all their contents. The large barn on the western side of the road was saved.

Mr. Redman estimates his loss at $2,400. The buildings were insured for $700, and there was $100 on the furniture.

The insurance on the furniture, however, does not begin to cover the real loss, for in the house were many articles highly prized by reason of associations, the loss of which is keenly felt by Mr. Redman.

The fire caught around the chimney in the ell. The wind was blowing from the east, and before the fire was discovered it had gained considerable headway. No one was about the premises except the housekeeper, who had arrived only the day before. Judge Redman and Mr. Better, the superintendent, were up town, and Fulton Redman, a nephew, who is spending the summer here, was with a friend aboard the judge's yacht "Wave Crest" out in the bay. The boys got ashore in time to save some of the articles on the first floor.

Mr. Redman had spent much time and money in making Jolly farm all that its name implies, and its loss is scarcely measured by its money value.

Besides tilling the soil Mr. Redman was gradually getting together some fine stock, especially cattle. These he will now dispose of.

The burned buildings will not be replaced at present.

THE PRESIDENT'S VISIT.

Will Spend Two Days in Maine—In Ellsworth Aug. 27.

Some changes have been made in the itinerary of President Roosevelt since the announcement of his coming was made last week.

The President will be in Maine Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 26 and 27. The special train carrying the presidential party will leave Boston Tuesday morning, Aug. 26. The first stop will be at Old Orchard. It will reach Portland at 2:30 p. m., and after a stop of two hours will leave for Lewiston.

At Lewiston a stop of only one hour will be made, the journey to Augusta being resumed at 6:30.

The party will reach Augusta at 8 o'clock, and while in that city, the President will be the guest of Gov. Hill. He will remain in Augusta over night.

Wednesday morning the President will leave for Bangor, where he will be the guest of the city, and at 2 p. m. will make an address at the fair grounds.

At 4 p. m. he will leave for Ellsworth, where he will be entertained at dinner by Senator Hale.

The party will leave Ellsworth at 10 o'clock, and will go direct to New Hampshire via Bangor.

There will be no receptions anywhere in Maine except at Bangor. Any speaking that the President may do, except, of course, at Bangor, will be at stations.

FOR BUCKSPORT'S SEMINARY.

A Gift of $10,000, Provided Friends Will Raise $15,000 More.

The East Maine conference seminary announces the conditional receipt of a gift of $10,000. This generous sum of money is to be given to the seminary provided the friends of the school shall raise an additional $5,000. The donor desires to remain unknown for the present.

Indications point to a successful issue to the effort now to be made to secure the $15,000. This amount will raise the endowment of the seminary to very nearly $50,000, which will place the institution upon an efficient basis.

This seminary has had a history of which its friends may well be proud. Its past work merits a future of still greater success. No school in the State possesses a more splendid location than does the seminary at Bucksport.

This conditional offer marks the growing confidence of the people in the school's future. The friends of the seminary believe that men and women interested in the educational work of the church and State will recognize this gift as a summons to them to give this institution the desired amount of money.

The prospects for this seminary were never better than they are now. A large entering class is expected.

F. Carroll Burrill Renominated by Ellsworth Republicans.

Ellsworth republicans met in caucus at Hancock hall last evening, and renominated by acclamation F. Carroll Burrill as their candidate for representative to the legislature.

The caucus was called to order by T. F. Mahoney, chairman of the republican city committee. A. W. King was chosen chairman, and F. W. Rollins secretary.

Hon. H. E. Hamlin presented Mr. Burrill's name. Mr. Hamlin referred to the custom of giving two terms to a representative, pointing out the advantage this custom is both to the representative and to his constituents.

He spoke of Mr. Burrill's efficiency in the last legislature, saying that that, as well as custom, entitled him to a renomination. He then moved Mr. Burrill's nomination, and that it be made by acclamation, adding that he hoped every republican would give his loyal support, and that the party would again send Mr. Burrill to the legislature, backed by a good, rousing, old-time majority.

The motion was seconded by O. W. Tapley, and when put was carried unanimously.

The meeting then adjourned.

STRIKE SETTLED.

Last of Hancock County's Striking Quarrymen Return.

EAST BLUEHILL, Aug. 5 (Special)—An agreement has been reached between the Chase Granite Co. and the White Granite Co. and their employees, and work at both quarries will be resumed as soon as possible.

When running full the Chase Granite Co. employs from 200 to 250 men; the White Granite Co., somewhat less than half that number. The quarry on Black Island, where a force of about twenty-five men are employed, is included in the settlement.

This agreement ends, for the present at least, the difficulties in Hancock county between the granite companies and their employees. The trouble began last May, and has dragged along until now. The situation at Stonington was relieved some weeks ago, but the men at Bluehill still hung out.

It will take three or four weeks for the Chase company to get into full running order, but resumption of work will begin at once, and men will be taken on as fast as possible until the quarry is worked at its full capacity.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 10—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic—A suggestion in addition.—II Pet. 1:4-5.

The reference here is to the familiar passage in the epistle of Peter in which he sets forth the necessity and importance of developing many of the Christian graces.

The lesson before us in addition consists of eight parts. (1) Faith. Faith is the foundation.

(2) Virtue. The word temperance here means self control. It has no special application to sobriety or temperance in drink.

(3) Knowledge. The knowledge here referred to is not the knowledge which comes through the study of books, but practical knowledge.

(4) Temperance. The word temperance here means self control. It has no special application to sobriety or temperance in drink.

(5) Patience. There is no more important virtue than that of Christian patience.

(6) Godliness. Godliness refers to reverence for God or to piety. It should include reverence for everything that pertains to God and should manifest itself in a pious and godly life.

(7) Brotherly kindness. All men are brothers in the Lord Jesus Christ. It follows therefore that brotherly kindness includes all men.

(8) Charity. Charity means love. It includes love to God and also love to men.

The importance of all these virtues, both singly and in combination, is evident and apparent to us all.

The Spirit and the Method. Never has the spirit of the Master been more richly shed abroad in the hearts of His disciples.

Contentment. No grace is more essential to happiness and usefulness than contentment. Her Angelus.

Vacation Days. Vacation time is here and the children are fairly living out of doors.

Mutual Benefit Column.

EDITED BY "AUNT MADGE". Its Motto: "Helpful and Hopeful."

The purposes of this column are succinctly stated in the title and motto—it is for the mutual benefit, and aims to be helpful and hopeful.

Dear Sisters of the M. B. Column: I have thought of you all many times during these long months of sorrow and care.

"Of all needless, useless things That we should quickly kill and bury, As deadly as a scorpion stings, Is unrelenting worry, worry."

With helping hand and cheerful greeting; It needs no store of worldly pelf To set the heart's joy pulses beating.

It is a pleasure to hear from "E." again, and we all appreciate her kindly deed in copying the poem from Flossie's quotation book.

Dear Aunt Madge: I was sorry to read of my brother Titus having left the editorial staff of THE AMERICAN.

I thank "S. J. Y." for her kind words, for I appreciate the blessedness of not being "shut out" of the good will and sympathy of those who are striving to make some pathway brighter.

While our county is stirred up over the Bucksport murder case, and neighbors are called to testify against neighbors, and grief and sorrow have entered many a home.

Mr. Titus will be glad to know the "M. B." do not forget their friends, and your little "sermonette" on the recent trial contains a volume of truth.

Now I have another delightful letter for you, one of "Ego's", and the birds and the flowers are very real to us.

Dear M. B. Friends: It has been quite a long time since I greeted you, and I didn't know but I should be forgotten.

There are roses in bloom, and all have bloomed beautifully, but the crowning glory is one that now has twenty-six full blossoms at once.

Were the birds ever more lovely than they have been this year, with their profusion of color and other blossoms?

Vacation time is here and the children are fairly living out of doors. You need only to guard against the accidents incidental to most open air sports.

FOUND IN A COPPER BOX Opened After Forty Years—Contents all Right, and of Great Interest.

It is interesting to note at this time, when the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics Association is preparing to have in Boston a genuine old-fashioned mechanics fair, some of the souvenirs that recall the earlier days of this association.

On September 30, 1857, a copper box was placed in the corner-stone of the old building of the association, corner of Chauncy and Bedford streets, Boston.

It is a medium-sized box, and shows in its outside appearance little evidence that it had lain more than forty years in the corner-stone.

There was a book entitled, "Franklin Statue Memorial," which was prepared and printed by authority of the city council of Boston in 1857.

There were also copies of the following Boston papers of September 29, 1857: Boston Evening Transcript, Boston Post, Evening Gazette, Boston Daily Traveller, Boston Daily Courier.

These relics are of the greatest interest to seekers of the antique. One can hardly help wondering what the feelings of those living at that time would be were they able to revisit this world, and dropping in at the fair, note the marvelous improvements and discoveries that will be exhibited there this fall.

There were also copies of the following Boston papers of September 29, 1857: Boston Evening Transcript, Boston Post, Evening Gazette, Boston Daily Traveller, Boston Daily Courier.

LOVE BY PROXY

(Original.)

"Walter," said Mrs. Bertha Turner to her artist cousin, who was painting her portrait, "why don't you marry?"

"If I were a man, with my knowledge of women, I could get any woman in the world."

Neither spoke for awhile. Then Bertha Turner said: "I have a plan. For you, my favorite cousin, I will execute it, though I would not do so for any one else.

"There's a beginning for you. Tomorrow after the sitting we'll see if we can advance a step."

The next day when Mrs. Turner arrived at the studio her cousin said to her: "Your effort has been a failure."

"I went to the window this morning. She came to her window at the same moment. As soon as she saw me she turned and walked away."

"That's very good. If she hadn't done that this morning, she would have done it this afternoon. Now, having shown her condemnation of your assurance, perhaps she will be forgiving."

"The sitting was cut short, for in the midst of it the girl opposite appeared at her window with her workbasket."

"She expects you to appear and look very penitent. She must be disappointed. Give me your coat. There; now put your hat on the back of my head so as to conceal my knot of hair."

"Aha, little one!" she said. "Who is hurt this time? Smooth that wrinkled brow." She presently burst into a laugh.

"Look," she said to her cousin. "I see nothing unusual."

"She's putting that sleeve in wrong side foremost. Fix your mind on your work, my dear. Don't be thinking about the man opposite."

"It's all up. Until today she has never failed to show herself at the window in the morning. I have not seen her since you left. I treated her very rudely."

"What is it?" Burne looked out and saw a flower on the window sill.

"She tells you," said his cousin, "that she appreciates your gift."

"That's what the flower she had placed on the window sill means in flower language."

"You don't mean it?" "Yes. Having shown her that you were offended at her apparent want of appreciation, she has hastened to tell you that you were mistaken."

Going to some pots containing plants in an improvised conservatory, she looked them over.

"Oh, dear! There is nothing to indicate forgiveness or forgive me. This forgetmenot will have to serve. Go and lay it on the sill."

"Burne was so moved at this successful step in his love affair that he made no end of blunders on the portrait, doing more harm than good."

"Now fight it out for yourself," whispered his cousin as she excused herself for a time. "and be brave."

Barne was brave and won.

A TEMPERANCE TOWN.

Former Maine Man Found One in California—A Success.

F. W. Bartlett, formerly of Maine, now of Fallbrook, California, is the guest of Dr. W. H. Field, of Auburn. Mr. Bartlett, says the Lewiston Journal, is a remarkable man.

Mr. Bartlett was very particular to whom he sold land. He had every deed drawn with a provision that if the owner should be found to use intoxicating liquors, the property should be taken away from him.

Only those who were willing to sign the contract regarding the prohibitory clause, were able to purchase lots of Mr. Bartlett, and to them he sold land almost for nothing.

In this way a thriving village has been formed. It contains three churches, stores of all kinds, and is in a flourishing condition.

Mr. Bartlett has been assisted in his efforts by his brother. They are now both deacons of the Free Baptist church in that town, which church they built.

These two men, especially F. W. Bartlett, are looked to by the villagers as leaders, and men from whom to get sound advice.

AS LIZA LOVED THE KING

By Curran R. Greenley

The old red brick mansion stood up grimly, its harsh outlines of uncompromising squareness half hidden by a riot of Guelder roses that climbed and threw long green arms of loveliness around the small diamond panes of the windows. A straight box bordered path led down to the gate through an avenue of beeches where the sunlight fell in lance rifts down upon the blue grass fresh with the green of May—Maytime in old Kentucky in the year of our Lord 1833.

Beyond the rustic gate a broad, white road ran from east to west. Those were strange processions that wound along the great highroad, the artery of trade from the east over the Alleghanias to Kentucky and the southern country that lay beyond in the gateway of the wilderness—long trains of white covered wagons filled with a medley of women, children, household gods, with their escorts of stalwart men on horseback. Already the hekirs to the west had commenced, often a tribe of Choctaws bound for the wigwam of the great father, grim, dusk faces under nodding plumes, animated bundles, with smaller bundles bound to their backs, astride of the ponies, silent as ghosts, and passing, always passing, up the long white road.

Twice each day, with the long tanara-ara of the bugles and the rattle of whip and hoof, came the stagecoach, a flash of color from east to west, and again the quiet of earth and sky. Over the hills, whose dim, blue line encompassed her world around, the child's heart went each day with the dying echo of hoof and bugle; over the hills, where the gold lights of sunset kissed the pink limestone cliffs, brightening to emerald green the tufts of maidenhair in the deep clefts, and farther up, where the mists caught and held them, deepening into the evening's violet crown.

A slim, shy maid of barely fifteen, in her long, narrow skirt and prim kerchief drawn tightly across the childish breast, the small brown hand shading her level brows, she watched with wistful eyes up the long ribbon of road—little Anne, with her peach blossom face and soft gray eyes that had dared to look from under their long black lashes at a face that was the face of a people's hero; not all the people, for here in her father's house Anne had heard fierce denunciations and even curses against that name. But when had politics ought to do with a maid's romancing? Deep down in her heart the girl cherished the memory of one summer evening, when all alone the great man reined in his horse and sprang from the saddle to walk and talk with a pretty child. Two years had come and gone, but over the low gate Anne leaned and dreamed of her hero as did that Lisa in far off Italy of her king.

The evening shadows grew longer and the sun vanished behind the hills as the tinkle of bells chimed up from the pasture. With eyes still dream thralled Anne wandered out and across the road to where the spring bubbled up from its mossy pool. A little rustic summer house sheltered it, and the little stream lost itself in a dense thicket of hazel bushes that grew close up to the arbor. The girl's light foot made no sound as she entered and dropped down upon the seat. Voices close at hand aroused her as a low murmur came from the hazel copse. "The best place is where the road comes through Hungerford's woods, this side of the mill."

Then another voice: "I don't like it. It's doing all the dirty work and getting the kicks for pay. Let them as wants him out of the way put him there." And the first voice answered with an oath: "What's that to you? The men that wants Andrew Jackson dead hain't the men as risks nuthin'."

"Andrew Jackson," Anne's heart gave a great bound, then almost stopped, as there was a rustle among the bushes. She strained her ears to catch the last words. "He'll likely spend tonight at Hungerford's, leaving there by daybreak."

"No. There hain't but one nigger along. He don't like company a-travelin' in." And the low chuckle died in the distance. It was nearly dark as Anne crept out from her hiding place and glanced fearfully up the long white road. She knew that Hungerford's lay fifteen miles away as the crow flies, and to reach it would mean a ride through the night—morning would be too late; knew too, poor child, that in the hearts of those about her dwelt the bitterest hatred of the man that she would have risked her life to save! Not that they would have lifted a hand against his life, but they would have laughed her story down and bade her hush, as children should.

Alone in her little white curtained room she knelt and prayed her simple prayer. She had always been afraid of the dark—the dark that was like whispering lips in your ear and the touch of soft fingers clutching at your gown—but the life of her hero was the high guard of the dead. One by one each door was closed. She heard her father's chair pushed back and knew that he was laying his pipe on the mantelshelf; heard her mother setting the house in order, and then it all grew still. The tall clock ticked louder and louder through the dark with an accusing voice—ten eleven, twelve, and at the last stroke a little dark figure hurried across the yard to the stable, where Harry Clay, the bay gelding, whinnied softly in his loose box. He knew the little fingers that slipped the bit between his veils, lips, and he laid his handsome head against her curls in mute caress as the saddle was girthed. Harry Clay had never carried that weight before, and when the flapping riding skirt struck his whiskers the fine ears lay close as he reared and pawed the air, with the nostrils flared, but a whisper, a touch upon the mane, and he dropped into a light canter along the footpath, his feet making no sound upon the turf. Fifteen miles to Hungerford's, and four hours yet until the dawn. Harry Clay quickens his stride as a clock from a farmhouse chimes out, "One, two," and they have passed the brick church at the forks of Otter creek, where she had knelt so often at her mother's side, "Three," and the white road runs backward under the flying hoofs. The moments speed, and they gallop into the shadow of Hungerford's woods. A dim old moon was shining, and a break in the trees let in the light full on the girl's face. There was a rustle in the shadows of the roadside, and the same rough voice cried out: "That girl of Montague's on the bay colt—stop her! Whoa, there!" But Anne brought the whip down on Harry Clay's flank. Not quite swift enough, for a pistol shot rang out, another and yet another, and she felt a dull shock as Harry Clay, maddened by the reports and the insult of a blow, tore down the white stones of the road, the fire flashing under the iron shod hoofs—on and on, while the miles rolled back in the dark and the gray of dawn came over the hills. There was something warm and wet that trickled down the great bay's shoulder as the little figure swayed and clung to the saddle. As the gold broke along the east a horseman rode out of the woods in the opposite direction, the same that had walked his horse and talked with the pretty child two years ago.

The reins dropped on Harry Clay's neck as Andrew Jackson rode alongside just in time to catch her as she reeled from the saddle, and then, with her head against his heart, the little maid sobbed out her story, while the sweet face grew paler and the wild roses died from the pretty cheeks as the drip, drip of the blood went patter-patter down. The grim, dark face hardened into steel as he beckoned to the negro that rode a little behind him. "Go back to the farm and tell them to make ready, and, mind you, lose no time in sending for the doctor." Very carefully and slowly he rode, bearing the light weight, while the still face lay against his breast, smiling dreamily.

At the farmhouse all was bustle and stir. Mistress Hungerford's capable hands laved the wounds and made all sweet and clean in the chamber where they carried her to await the coming of the doctor. Very quiet and still she lay when he came to bid her farewell. His face was sad and stern when he bared his head by the low white bed where Anne lay. They two were alone when Anne opened her great gray eyes on the face of her dreams, and in that look he whose heart lay buried in a woman's grave in Tennessee read the old story sanctified in the white shrine of the maiden soul; read also, with a soldier's unerring knowledge, the whiteness about the pretty mouth. The stern face grew tender and the eagle eyes were dimmed as he leaned to that unspoken prayer, laying his lips upon the white ones beneath, that quivered a moment and were still.

The child's eyes looked beyond the hills at last. Two kinds of dreariness. You hear often from car window observers of the "dreary" desert, the "hopeless," the "cheerless" desert, but the desert deserves none of these adjectives. It is drearyful, if you wish, in the way in which it punishes the ignorance and presumption of those who know not the signs of thirst; it sometimes is awful in its passions of dust, torrents, heat; it is even monotonous to those who love only the life of crowded cities—but it is never dreary or cheerless. Hopelessness may well apply to the deserts of Mulberry street and Smoky hollow, with their choked and heated tenements, their foul odors, their swarms of crowded and hideous human life, but the desert of the arid land is eternally hopeful, smiling, strong, rejoicing in itself. The desert is never morbid in its adversity. The desert is never morbid in its adversity. The desert is never morbid in its adversity. The desert is never morbid in its adversity. The desert is never morbid in its adversity.

Round Pegs in Square Holes. A great deal of misdirected effort in this blundering world is due to the fact that people are compelled to engage in work which they dislike, when just around the corner, so to speak, is work which they might love. Ambitious parents decree that the lad who would make a painter, whose eye for color and form is true or whose soul responds and fingers thrill to the vibrating chords of melody, shall instead enter a counting room and be apprenticed to a business for which he has no aptitude. Similarly, a boy who would succeed in farming or in the carpenter's shop is destined to a liberal profession and compelled to undergo a long course of training for this, which, owing to his lack of fitness, is almost abortive in its results. Half the failures and defeats in life may be attributed to the placing of the round peg in the square hole. Men and women are forced to work at that which they dislike and which does not enlist their highest powers.—Harper's Bazar.

KIFFERY TO CARISOU

One Week's Winnings of News, Novelty and Nonsense. The annual reunion of the 31st Maine will take place at Kenduskeag Sept. 10. Trolley cars will leave the foot of Main street, Bangor, between 8 and 9 a. m. for Kenduskeag. Louis K. Saunders, supposed to be from New Gloucester, was found dead in his bed at Rockingham hotel, Lewiston, last Thursday. The cause of death is thought to be consumption.

Patents have recently been granted to the following Maine inventors: W. H. Chapman, Portland, rheostat; A. G. Fitz, Auburn, last; G. E. Gay, Augusta, screw driver; W. S. Marsh, Intervale, jar opener. Julian Kent, of Baltimore, a colored seaman on board the five-master "Nathaniel T. Palmer" at Portland, was instantly killed last Thursday, by falling from the main cross-tree. He struck on his head. Death was instantaneous. Burnham was visited last Friday with a $10,000 fire. The Murray building in which was located the telephone exchange was burned. George Gilmore lost house, stable and store house, and Charles Sherman's buildings were damaged.

Mrs. George W. Merrill, of Bangor, died in that city last Thursday, aged ninety-eight years. She was prominent for her activity in charitable work, especially in connection with the children's home, and home for aged women, of Bangor. Mrs. Mary Musket, aged sixty, was found dead at her home in Saco last Thursday. She evidently had died from strangulation. She was ill during the night and fell, her throat across the edge of a pall. As she had not strength to rise, death followed. Last Thursday, Francis W. Carr, of Bangor, resigned his position as general superintendent of the eastern New England division of the American Express Co., after a service of twenty-one years. The officials and employees at the Bangor office presented Mr. Carr with a gold-headed cane.

The fourteenth annual reunion of the 22d Maine regiment association will be held at the hall of B. H. Beal post G. A. R., Columbia street, Bangor, Wednesday, August 20. Business meeting at 10 a. m. Bangor comrades will provide dinner. Orin Stearns is president of the association; Frank H. Jewell, secretary. A second distressing railroad accident within a week happened at Bangor last Thursday when W. A. Dolbear, a train man, twenty-two years of age, was knocked from a freight car in the Maine Central yard, fell under the wheels and had both legs taken off, an arm broken and received several scalp wounds. He died shortly after reaching the hospital.

The through service between New York and Maine, established for the first time this season, is proving immensely popular. One day last week the travel was so heavy that the train arrived in Portland in two sections. In these two sections were eight day Pullmans and a dozen other cars. All of them were crowded with people, the most of whom went to the mountains or farther east.

"Papa," said the Bangor maiden, who has just been playing a leading part as a sweet girl graduate at a college not a thousand miles from the banks of the Penobscot, "papa, wasn't my commencement gown a wooperino? I had all the other girls in the class skinned alive!" For a few moments the silence was broken only by the breezy breeze blowing the awning over the piazza, and by the plaintive calling of the lightning bugs. "And this," said papa sadly, "and this is the girl whose graduating essay was, 'An Appeal for Higher Standards of Thoughts and Expression.'"

The "Norumbega". The trial of the new Maine Central steamer "Norumbega" July 25, at Bath was a complete success, and the craft made a showing which was highly satisfactory to the officials of the railroad who went on the trip, also to the Kelley-Spear Co., builders of the hull, and the Bath Iron Works, constructors of the engines. The boat was sent over the Southport mile course five round trips, and exceeded the contract speed of sixteen miles by one-tenth of a mile. The engines worked without a fault, and those on board report a remarkable absence of vibration when the craft was going at the highest speed. The "Norumbega" will soon go into commission. She will take the place of the "Pemaquid" on the route between Mt. Desert Ferry and Bar Harbor. Capt. Dickson, who has been in command so long of the Maine Central steamers, from the old "Sebenos" up, will have command of the new steamer. The "Pemaquid" will go on the route between Rockland and Castine on the arrival of the "Norumbega", and the present timetable will be changed. Poisoning the System. CLARION RANGES, STOVES AND FURNACES. The product of 63 years' experience. Established 1839 WOOD & BISHOP CO., Bangor, Me. It isn't the easiest thing in the world to make good stoves and furnaces. There are a great many points in the pattern work—in the selection of material—in the carefulness of manufacture—on which depends success or failure. Experience is therefore an absolute necessity for good results. Our experience, coupled with the desire to make only the best goods, has produced the CLARION line—the highest grade goods made anywhere. If your dealer does not have CLARIONS, write us.

BAR HARBOR HORSE SHOW.

Arrangements for the Event at This Famous Resort. Several meetings of the general committee in charge of arrangements for the Bar Harbor horse show have recently been held, and details can now be rapidly pushed forward. It was voted to have practically the same programme for the exhibition of horses as last year. Chairman and committee were chosen, and in some cases associates were added as follows: Committee on trotting events, E. S. Clark, E. H. Greeley, Fred H. Leonard; on police regulations, William Fennelly; on running events, Dr. Guy Whiting, Capt. Thomas Bush; on horses for business or pleasure, A. D. Addison, A. L. Stafford and W. D. Hill; on foot racing, etc., W. H. Davis; on cattle, poultry and farm animals, J. M. Sears, Edward Kirk, Dr. C. C. Morrison; on advertising, William M. Roberts, William Fennelly and Herbert Jaques. The trotting events will consist of 2, 20, 2, 25, 2, 35 and 2, 50 classes. It is expected that the number of entries for the trotting races will be far greater than ever before, for the dates—Aug. 19, 20 and 21—were selected carefully with a view of not clashing with other trotting events on the Maine circuit. A special effort will be made to have the running races one of the chief features of the fair. Col. Morrill will bring a carload, the pick of his stable of runners. T. W. Lawson will also, it is thought, send down some of his blue ribboners to enter the competition in the show proper. It was voted to extend an invitation to C. H. Nelson, of Waterville, again to exhibit himself, the famous old trotter. It was decided to devote a portion of the show to cattle, poultry and farm animals, although it had been thought by some that all might as well be put out save the horses and dogs. The poultry and animal show is, however, quite an attraction to many people. It was voted to allow hoppers, and to place trotters and pacers on even terms. The winners in the show will be given cups, as last year, and it is hoped to raise these cups by gifts as previously has been done. One of the special features of the show will be the special race that will be pulled off between the fast runners owned by A. D. Addison and J. C. Livingston. It may be remembered that there was a special matched race between these last season which was won by Mr. Livingston. This result was not satisfactory to Mr. Addison, whose fast mare was out of condition, and it is understood that he wishes another trial of speed this summer.

REPUBLICAN NOMINEES.

STATE ELECTION SEPT. 8, 1902.

STATE TICKET.

For Governor: JOHN E. HILL. For Representative to Congress: (Third District) EDWIN C. BURLEIGH.

COUNTY TICKET.

For Senators: ALBERT R. BUCK, of Orland, EDWARD S. CLARK, of Eden. For County Clerk: JOHN F. KNOWLTON, of Ellsworth. For Judge of Probate: OSCAR P. CUNNINGHAM, of Bucksport. For Registrar of Deeds: WILLIAM R. CAMPBELL, of Ellsworth. For Sheriff: HOWARD F. WHITCOMB, of Ellsworth. For County Attorney: BEDFORD E. TRACY, of Winter Harbor. For County Commissioner: JOHN P. ELDRIDGE, of Ellsworth. For County Treasurer: OMAR W. TAPLEY, of Ellsworth.

FOR REPRESENTATIVES.

From Ellsworth, F. CARROLL BURRELL, of Ellsworth. From Eden, CHARLES C. MORRISON, of Eden.

From Mt. Desert, Tremont, Swan's Island and Cranberry Isles, A. E. FARNSWORTH, of Tremont.

From Deer Isle, Stonington, Sedgwick, Isle au Haut and Eagle Island, SUMNER P. MILLIS, of Stonington.

From Bluehill, Surry, Hancock, Lamaine and Trenton, O. W. FOSS, of Hancock.

From Bucksport, Penobscot, Dedham, Otis, Mariaville, Ankerst and Verona, OSCAR F. FELLOWS, of Bucksport.

From Orland, Brooksville, Castine, Brooklin, Long Island and Aurora, GEORGE H. TAPLEY, of Brooksville.

From Franklin, Gouldsboro, Sullivan, Sorrento, Winter Harbor, Eastbrook, Waltham and townships 7, 8, 9, 10, 21, and 33, S. R. DOWNING, of Sorrento.

The Ticket Completed.

Last evening the republicans of Ellsworth met in caucus and renominated F. Carroll Burrill for representative to the legislature.

This was the last of the representative caucuses to be held in Hancock county, and completes the ticket. A full list of nominations—State, county and representative districts—to be voted for on Monday, Sept. 8, may be found at the head of this column.

From top to bottom it is a list that deserves and we doubt not will, receive the individual support of Hancock county republicans. Many on the list are already public servants, tried and true; men who have administered their public trust with fidelity and ability; men who can be counted on to continue their work in the same satisfactory manner.

Loyalty to party in town, city and county should be the slogan in the short, sharp, and we trust, decisive contest that is about to be waged.

It can be stated positively that Congressman Littlefield of Maine is not a candidate for the speakership in the next United States House of Representatives unless something should happen to make it impossible for Speaker Henderson to serve in the next Congress. All this newspaper talk about Littlefield as a candidate has been without his consent, and this announcement would have been made sooner, if the Maine congressman had not felt that it would be a little undignified to rush into print to contradict a story which seemed to him so silly, and which he thought nobody would believe.—Boston Advertiser.

Portland, Lewiston, Augusta, Bangs and Ellsworth will be honored by "Win" from President Roosevelt on 26-27.

Among the State Assessors Coming. That noted State assessors will be in Ellsworth at a court-house in Ellsworth on August 15. The session will begin by 10 o'clock.

COUNTY GOSSIP.

Bears are a drawing card in Surry just now.

A cottage at Alamooseook lake near Bucksport has been named "Umdumbigssox". How to pronounce it correctly is as much of a mystery as the Ware case.

Hancock county farmers are having lots of things to contend with this season. Moose frighten the women folks—so bold have they (the moose) become; deer tramp down gardens, and cross toll bridges without paying toll; a cold wet spring made corn backward; showers interfered with haying, and this week reports reach us that stunks are swiping chickens and picking peas.

The summary by counties of Maine's contribution to the McKinley memorial fund is as follows: Androscoggin, $338.77; Aroostook, $44.10; Cumberland, $648.40; Franklin, $15.81; Hancock, $187.91; Kennebec, $632.52; Knox, $131.40; Lincoln, $81.78; Oxford, $109.49; Penobscot, $411.80; Piscataquis, $42.28; Sagadahoc, $105.05; Somerset, $183.55; Waldo, $94.09; Washington, $159.15; York, $207.65. Total, $3,479.29.

O. Gardner, master of the Maine State grange, announces a series of field meetings, or "grange picnics". One will be held in every county in the State. Hancock county's picnic will be held on Aug. 20, at the Bluehill Mineral spring, as delightful a spot as can be found for a picnic. Some noted men will be present at each of these meetings, but just who will speak on the 20th is not yet announced. Local committees are urged to supply good music and other attractive features. Meetings will be public, and every patron is earnestly requested to make special efforts for a large attendance to hear grange gospel from able speakers, and make the meetings a source of pleasure and profit at this, the vacation season of the year.

Those troublesome wards of the State are at it again. This time it's a deer, and a deer bold enough to dispute certain rules and regulations relating to highways. K. K. Thompson, keeper of the Mt. Desert toll-bridge, is responsible for the story. He says that one morning last week the man who was taking toll heard the footfalls of what he supposed was a horse, trotting on the bridge. He heard no vehicle but supposing that it must be fitted with rubber tires, he started from the house to collect the toll. Great was his astonishment when he reached the gate to meet, instead of a team, the largest buck deer he had ever seen. The buck didn't stop to have him open the gate, but bounded over it and kept right on, headed for Town Hill. That deer will probably turn up soon, asking for free transportation around the lower end of the island.

That was an interesting event at Bar Harbor last Thursday—the attention given to the eightieth birthday of ex-Mayor Abram S. Hewitt, of New York. Mr. Hewitt's long, active and successful life; his interest in business, politics, charities; his standing in social and religious circles—these things are very generally known throughout the country. And though a modest man, he was naturally gratified at the showers of congratulations he received from nearly every quarter of the globe. President Roosevelt wired: "Hearty congratulations upon your eightieth birthday, and congratulations to New York in having in you one of the best possible object lessons in good citizenship." Mayor Low wired: "I send you my own and the city's warm congratulations on your eightieth birthday. The flags of the city are flying in grateful recognition of your services to the city and your fellow men." Andrew Carnegie cabled congratulations from Scotland.

No less a person than the second assistant postmaster general, Hon. W. S. Shallenberger, who spends his summer vacation over in Brooksville, has been called upon to settle upon the spot a wrangle over the mail route between Surry and South Surry. Two factions figure in the case—one demanding that the mail carrier leave Surry on arrival of stage from Ellsworth in the morning, make his trip down the "Neck", and return to Surry in season to connect with the Bluehill stage back to Ellsworth in the afternoon. The other faction seems to want the carrier to leave Surry much later in the day, arriving at South Surry along towards night, and return the next forenoon. Within the past two years the carrier's arriving and leaving time has been changed, according as one faction or the other had the greater influence. The management of post routes comes under Mr. Shallenberger's jurisdiction, and when it became known that he was in the vicinity, he was prevailed upon to visit the scene of strife. He came; he saw; he-but it's too early to announce his decision, though a guess as to what it will be wouldn't be hazardous.

Sheriff Pearson Dead.

Rev. S. F. Pearson, the famous parson sheriff of Cumberland county, died at White Oak Springs hotel, Poland, about midnight yesterday.

Mr. Pearson was sixty years of age. He served with distinction in the Civil war. He was in business until about 1879, when he was ordained to the ministry. He had been an active temperance worker since 1872.

Mr. Pearson was elected sheriff of Cumberland county in 1900, and his relentless war on liquor selling in Portland during the past two years is well known.

His Campaign Started.

Rev. S. L. Hanson, of Bar Harbor, independent candidate for sheriff, opened his campaign last Monday night at Franklin.

It is his intention to speak in every town in the county before the close of the campaign.

A NOBLE ACT.

What an Ellsworth Captain Did to Help Relieve Suffering.

The characteristic modesty of Capt. J. Atwood Bowden, of the schooner "Willie L. Maxwell", prevented him from making known in detail certain acts of his at the time of the terrible volcanic eruption at St. Vincent last May.

The story, however, has at last leaked out, and is as follows: Another instance of American bravery and heroism has been furnished by an American skipper—Capt. J. Atwood Bowden, of the schooner "Willie L. Maxwell", which arrived at Philadelphia from Barbados a few weeks ago. The veteran sailor, with characteristic modesty, made no report of his heroic action and that of his crew in volunteering to go to the relief of the inhabitants of the island of St. Vincent during the volcanic eruption which occurred in that island on May 7 last.

The story leaked out recently when Capt. Bowden received an engrossed parchment testimonial from the English board of trade acknowledging his heroic efforts to aid the inhabitants of the island in the face of almost certain death and the loss of his vessel.

On that day the "Willie L. Maxwell" was lying in the harbor of Barbados, when word came of the almost absolute destruction of the residents of St. Vincent, which was being destroyed by fire and lava from the volcano.

Appeals were made to captains of vessels of almost every nationality lying in the harbor, but all refused until Capt. Bowden stepped to the front and offered the services of himself, his crew and the schooner to take provisions and clothing to the destitute people. He fully realized that he would have to sail into St. Vincent under a rain of fire and lava, but did not hesitate.

The schooner was loaded, and about to sail, when a British man-of-war entered Barbados, the commander of which called on Capt. Bowden, and after praising him highly for his bravery, persuaded him to transfer the vessel's cargo to the warship, which the skipper only consented to do on it being represented to him that the warship could carry the urgently-needed relief much quicker, being a steam vessel, than could be done by the trim Yankee schooner.

The British naval officers, in appreciation of Capt. Bowden's bravery, reported his plucky efforts to the British government, which forwarded to him the testimonial of which he and his men are so justly proud.

The "Maxwell" was formerly one of John P. Gordon's famous fleet of threemasters. A recent change in ownership has again placed Capt. Bowden in command, he having been for a short time displaced, owing to differences between him and some of the former owners.

OFF FOR PORTO RICO.

Ellsworth Boy Assistant Commissioner of Education in Porto Rico. Everett W. Lord, who has recently been appointed by President Roosevelt assistant commissioner of education for Porto Rico, is a native of Surry, where he was born about thirty years ago. His parents, Capt. S. L. Lord and wife, soon afterward removed to Ellsworth, where they still live.

Mr. Lord attended the public schools of Ellsworth, graduating from the high school with the class of 1891. Before entering the high school, he spent two or three years at sea with his father, and on his return took the full latin-scientific course in three years.

In the winter after his graduation, Mr. Lord taught in the Fallerton district in this city, teaching an ungraded school of about forty pupils. He was soon after elected vice-principal of the high school, and taught there for about two years, when he was elected superintendent of schools, being the first superintendent elected under the town system. In this position he had practically to organize and establish the new system.

After two years as superintendent, Mr. Lord declined a re-election, and went to California, where he spent several months in special study of public school problems and similar matters. He then returned East and entered Boston university, from which he was graduated in 1900 with the degree of A. B. During his college course he taught in the Boston evening schools, most of the time as sub-master of the Mather school, in Dorchester.

Two years ago Mr. Lord was elected superintendent of schools at Bellows Falls, Vt. While there he received several flattering offers from larger places, but he declined to leave until the position which he has just accepted was offered him.

Mr. Lord married Myrtle Ruth King, of Wellsville, N. Y., soon after going to Bellows Falls. Mrs. Lord will go to Porto Rico in a few months.

In addition to his practical experience in school management, the new assistant commissioner is especially fitted for his position because of his thorough knowledge of the Spanish language, of which he has made a special study for several years. His commencement thesis, "The Rise and Development of the Castilian Language," was called "the most careful study of Spanish forms ever made by an American."

Mr. Lord has published numerous short articles in prose and verse.

Mr. Lord left week before last, after spending a few days with his parents here, for his new field of labor. He takes with him the best wishes of a host of friends.

Peculiar Drowning Accident.

John Reed, a laborer at Trout Brook farm near Patten, was accidentally drowned last Monday, while riding a horse in the stream near the house.

The horse stumbled, and fell into a deep hole, pinning the man to the bottom, and in that position he was drowned.

AN OPEN LETTER.

Rev. S. L. Hanson Wants to be Sheriff, and Tells Why.

Rev. S. L. Hanson, of Bar Harbor, has announced himself an independent candidate for sheriff of Hancock county.

Mr. Hanson's name was presented at the republican county convention in May, and he received twenty-two votes.

Following is his letter to the public: The constitution of the State of Maine says: "The manufacture of intoxicating liquors, not including cider, and the sale and keeping for sale of intoxicating liquors, are and shall be forever prohibited."

The constitution provides for the sale, and keeping for sale, of such liquors for medicinal and mechanical purposes and the arid, under regulations provided by the legislature.

Laws have been enacted from time to time, and are now on the statute books of our State, designed to render this provision of our constitution operative so as to put an end to the liquor traffic throughout our State.

We place our executive officers under a solemn oath to sustain the constitution, and faithfully administer the laws made by their guidance.

The dominant party in our State, at its last State convention, spoke plainly and emphatically on the subject of temperance laws and their enforcement. It said: "We demand the continuance of all such statutes, and their faithful and impartial enforcement by the officers of the law."

The chairman of that convention, in his opening address said: "The times are demanding men for public places who shall be so protected by an armor of integrity that the thrusts of the enemy cannot prevail against it. Defeat and disaster surely await any party in Maine, when ever it shall appeal to the suffrages of the people with the names of men upon its tickets who do not stand squarely and fairly for law and order."

The present sheriff of our county has not faithfully and impartially enforced the law. All efforts to induce him to stand on the republican platform and thus stand pledged to enforce the law, if re-elected, have failed.

I have reluctantly consented to run for sheriff of the county, on the republican platform, because neither of the other two candidates would do so. Both are on the saloon side of the question.

Temperance men of all parties voting for either Mr. Whitcomb or Mr. Donovan, must vote for the saloon with their eyes open to the fact. Republicans who vote for Mr. Whitcomb, vote against their own party which says: "We demand the faithful and impartial enforcement of the temperance law, by the officers of the law."

I do not believe that a majority of the voters of this county can be induced to vote for the saloon. For any citizen to do so would mean to vote for the violation of the constitution of our State, and the violation of the laws on our statute books.

For a republicans to vote for the saloon would mean, in addition to all this, to revolt against his party.

The issue is clean cut and plain. It is "law and order," on the one hand, and on the other hand "lawlessness, nullification and anarchy." S. L. HANSON.

The Watchword of Women.

Modesty is woman's watchword. Whether thyroest her delicate sense of modesty, frightens her. For this reason many a woman permits diseases of the delicate womanly organs to become aggravated because she cannot bring herself to submit to the unpleasant questionnaires, offensive examinations, and obnoxious local treatments, which some physicians find necessary. Doubtless thousands of the women who have taken advantage of Dr. Pierce's offer of free consultation by letter, have been led to do so by the grave misapprehension that a treatment respectful to modesty, and which womanly may write to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., in perfect confidence, all letters being treated as strictly private and sacredly confidential, and all answers being sent in plain envelopes with no advertising or other printing upon them. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been widely hailed as "a god-send to women." It makes weak women strong and sick women well. "Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine or other narcotic.

Funeral of Mrs. S. F. Hall.

The funeral of Mrs. Sara F. Hall, who died at Bar Harbor last Wednesday, was held at the Congregational church, Ellsworth, last Friday afternoon, Rev. J. M. Adams officiating.

The services were very impressive. The casket was placed immediately beneath the choir loft, and was literally banked with the most beautiful floral offerings. Conspicuous among them were a basket from the church, a wreath from the Sunday school, a wreath from Boston relatives and a basket from Mrs. E. J. Walsh.

As the casket was brought into the church, Rooke's "Rest, Spirit Rest" was played by Miss Nancy M. Dutton. Selections by the choir, sung by Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. Royal and Mr. Brimmer, were Newman's "Lead Kindly Light," and "Nearer, My God to Thee." An aria, "And God Shall Wipe Away All Tears," from Sullivan's "The Light of the World," was beautifully rendered by Miss Bertha L. Giles. The organ postlude was Handel's "Dead March in Saul."

Mr. Adams paid a brief but touching tribute to the deceased, referring especially to her faithful work for more than twenty years as organist at the church.

The bearers were Mayor Greeley, Dr. Harvard Greeley, E. K. Hopkins and J. H. Brimmer. Interment was at Woodbine cemetery.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, since cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Iron For Color. Iron has been given for the cure of anemia or paleness from a very early date in medical history, and has always deserved the high praise it has received.

In no other preparation has Iron ever been so effectively and agreeably combined as in PEPT-IRON—a specific remedy for all forms and degrees of anemia, curing not only the paleness but also the nervousness and dyspepsia from which anemic patients so commonly suffer.

Pept-iron is a blood nutrient, nerve and stomach tonic, beneficial to all pale, nervous, dyspeptic people.

Mr. Chas. Dinswood, East Lexington, Mass., writes that his daughter was pale and had spells of not wanting to move about and of not caring whether she ate anything or not. Then she began taking Pept-iron and it gave her color, animation and a good appetite.

It leaves no inky or metallic flavor in the mouth, is agreeable to the taste, does not injure the teeth nor cause constipation.

Pept-iron is made in two forms: in a liquid-an aromatic cordial elixir—at $1 per bottle, also in chocolate-coated pills at 50c. or $1 per box. By C. I. HOOD CO., proprietors Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

CONGRESSMAN FITZPATRICK
Says Pe-ru-na is a Splendid Catarrhal Tonic.

Congressman F. Y. Fitzpatrick.

Hon. T. Y. Fitzpatrick, Congressman from Kentucky, writes from the National Hotel, Washington, D. C., as follows: "At the solicitation of a friend I used your Peruna and can cheerfully recommend your remedy to anyone suffering with catarrh or who needs a good tonic."—T. Y. FITZPATRICK.

Pe-ru-na is a natural and efficient nerve tonic. It strengthens and restores the activity of every nerve in the body. Through the use of Pe-ru-na the weakened or overworked nerves resume their natural strength and the blood vessels begin at once to regulate the flow of blood according to nature's laws. Congestions immediately disappear.

Catarrh Cured.
All phases of catarrh, acute or chronic, are promptly and permanently cured. It is through its operation upon the nervous system that Pe-ru-na has attained such a world-wide reputation as a sure and reliable remedy for all phases of catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice free.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Maine Central Officials Deny Truth of Story that Road is Sold.

A railroad yarn, important if true, was given to the public last Thursday. It was to the effect that the Pennsylvania system was about to absorb the Boston & Maine and Maine Central.

General Manager George F. Evans, of the Maine Central, is reported to have said: "There is absolutely no truth in the story. I should know about it if there was anything in it. The fact that President Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania, has been to Maine has no significance. Mr. Cassatt has a cottage at Bar Harbor and like other men, he went there to rest. He or the company he represents has not purchased any railroads in Maine to my knowledge."

The report, which was sent out from New York, was substantially as follows: "Private advices received by the Pennsylvania railway office, Wall street, from President Cassatt, who has been in Boston the past three days conducting secret negotiations with the chief officials of the Boston & Maine railway and the Maine Central, preliminary to the purchase of the two New England roads and the Boston & Maine system by the Pennsylvania, including the various steamboat lines and dockage in New York, Boston, Portland and ports controlled by the Boston & Maine."

"The deal, of course, makes the Canadian Pacific, which runs over the Maine Central tracks, a co-ordinate part of the Boston & Maine system, and taps the Cape Breton and Halifax territory via St. John, Vancouver and Maitaukang as well as all seaboard ports included in the Boston & Maine system."

"The deal is generally believed in Boston to have been consummated. Private telegrams received by Smith, Gay & Co. and Gay Bros. seem to confirm it."

CONFERENCE.

ELEVENTH ANNUAL SESSION AT BAR HARBOR.

A NOTABLE GATHERING—ABLE SERMONS BY DISTINGUISHED PREACHERS—NEW OFFICERS.

The eleventh annual session of the Hancock county conference of Unitarian and other liberal Christian churches was held at Bar Harbor July 29 and 30.

OPENING ADDRESS.
The conference opened on the evening of July 29 with a preaching service. Rev. H. H. Sanderson, of Dorchester, Mass., spoke on the "Plan of Religion in a World of Law".

People, he said, used to think of the world as a collection of unrelated facts and forces. Religion, therefore, partook of the same character, God was supposed to set in a fickle and capricious way. His will was not conformable to law.

As men began to see that law and order prevailed, they crowded religion out into the reign of the supernatural and chaotic. God's presence and activity were felt not in the law and order, but in the unusual, the miraculous, the mysterious.

Religion, however, ought to see God in the natural, not merely in the supernatural, in the order and regulation of the universe, not simply in its chaotic and unusual aspects.

Religion should regard all this law and order as the expression of the thought and life of God.

MORNING SESSION.
The morning session opened with a devotional service conducted by R. S. Forbes, who has charge of the summer work at Sullivan.

Then followed the business meeting. In the temporary absence of the president, D. Y. McFarland, Rev. H. H. Sanderson was elected chairman.

L. B. Deasy, of Bar Harbor, welcomed the delegates, and the usual committees were appointed.

The secretary, in his report, had urged the need of a closer organization. In accordance with this suggestion a committee was appointed to look into the matter and report later in the day.

The first address of the morning session was by Rev. W. M. Brundage, who took for his subject, "The Church and the People."

The speaker emphasized the fact that the church was not a social club, neither a philanthropic institution, nor a source for intellectual enlightenment. The club, the charitable associations, the press and the college have usurped these functions of the church. They can do these things so much better that the church is not able to compete with them.

The special feature of the church is that of worship. Its chief aim is that of inspiration. To make God real and near to men and women, to interpret our modern life in the light of religion, is the highest purpose of the Christian church.

THE Y. P. E. U.
The second address was by J. H. Holmes, president of the Young People's religious union. Mr. Holmes described the origin, the history and the work of the union, and spoke of the great need of organized religion among our young people.

The conference was glad of the opportunity of listening to Mr. Holmes' address upon such an important topic. After a long discussion luncheon was provided by the ladies of the Bar Harbor church.

AFTERNOON SESSION.
The afternoon session opened at 1.30 with a brief devotional service conducted by Mr. Foote, of Northeast Harbor. This was followed by a short business meeting. Reports from the various churches were called for, and all the churches, with the exception of Castine and Prospect Harbor, responded. The number of delegates attending the conference was 110.

The following officers were chosen: President, L. B. Deasy, Bar Harbor; vice-president, Rev. H. H. Sanderson, Dorchester, Mass.; secretary and treasurer, Rev. A. H. Coar, Ellsworth.

The customary resolutions were adopted. The committee on organization presented the following report:

Resolved. That an executive committee be chosen to represent the outward organization of liberal Christians in Hancock county.

Any church which so desires is invited to elect one member to such committee, and any church so represented is to be regarded as a member of the conference.

The purpose of this organization is to strengthen the feeling of fellowship among the isolated churches of the county and inspire and aid them to continue active work throughout the year.

This report was accepted. The first address of the afternoon session was by Rev. C. F. Dole, who spoke on the "Modern Thought of God".

That may be called modern, said Mr. Dole, which matches with our thought about other things. The old thought of God was that of a greater man, sitting on a throne. God was thought of as a jealous God, changeable in His moods.

Such a thought is no longer modern, because it does not harmonize with our ethical and scientific conceptions. The modern thought of God is that of a universal spirit. The world is the expression of His thought and life.

The speaker then went on to show how this thought was as rich and full as the old thought; how it deepened and strengthened our experience of God and thus enriched the essence of religion which is the consciousness of the presence of God.

The second speaker, Rev. D. M. Wilson, took as his subject, "The Modern Thought of Man." While mankind has been progressing, man has remained the same. The modern thought of man is, after all, only a return to the conception of man as held by Jesus and Channing.

There is no contribution which gives any added sense of worth and dignity of human nature. Perhaps the most important contribution is that given by modern science. It is that of the fixed evolution of humanity. Man is not here by accident. He is inevitable and cannot be banished.

The next element in the modern thought of man is that suggested by many philosophers of the uniqueness of every individual. Each one possesses a personality different from that of any other.

A third important thought is that of the infinite educability of the human race. Education will go on forever, and belongs to the individual as well as to the race. There is no old age in mental activity.

The third speaker, Rev. A. L. Hudson, of Newton, spoke on the "Modern View of Jesus". That is modern, said the speaker, which is dominant in the life of to-day. The modern thought of Jesus is the Unitarian.

Theology is beginning to see and comprehend the fact that the human leadership of Jesus is what the world needs to-day.

Rev. S. A. Elliot conducted the closing exercises. The keynote of the whole conference, said Mr. Elliot, is to be found in that phrase of Jesus: "I came not to destroy but to fulfill." All the speakers, while treating of the modern thought of religion, have felt obliged to say: "This is not new but the old thought."

The modern thought, then, is not simply the new thought, but also a new emphasis upon those truths of the past which human experience has proved to be of universal significance.

Not by revolution has come the modern thought but by evolution. It has grown out of the old, keeping that which is good and beautiful and true; discarding the false and the bad, bringing in new elements and a new emphasis to enlarge, enrich and complete the old.

At 4 o'clock the conference adjourned to meet next summer with the Unitarian society of Winter Harbor.

Brooksville.
A pretty wedding took place this morning at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Perkins, when their daughter Nancy Beckford was united in marriage to Rev. Charles G. Mosher, pastor of the Essex St. Baptist church, Bangor. Only the immediate relatives witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. E. S. Drew. Immediately after the wedding breakfast the newly-married couple left by team for Ellsworth, where they took the train for a six-weeks' wedding trip. The team which conveyed the bridal couple to Ellsworth was most elaborately festooned with streamers of ribbon, slippers and all the other emblems which go to make such a auspicious journey conspicuous. Their many friends extend to the bride and groom sincere congratulations and best wishes for many years of happiness and prosperity in their new life.

Last Thursday evening the guests of the Centre Harbor house gave a surprise party to Joe Babson and wife. Progressive euchre was played. Leroy Talcut, Joe Babson and Miss Bear carried off the prizes. At 11 o'clock refreshments were served. Among those present were: Mrs. Pulizzi, Miss Pulizzi, Mrs. Plerson, Violet Plerson, Nan Brecht, Mrs. Newton, Mrs. May Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Charles West, Mrs. A. Y. Hubbard, Miss Eva Hubbard, Eugene Eaton, Leroy Talcut, Mrs. Ellis, Mr. Jones and Mr. Mitchell.

Aug. 4. SREC.
Letter to Frank S. Lord, Ellsworth.

Dear Sir: You give full weight of good coal. So do we—21 inches to a gallon of paint that lasts twice as long as old-fashioned painter's paint, lead and oil; and allow our agent to sell it on this guarantee: "If you have any trouble with this paint, either now or in putting it on, or hereafter in the wear, tell your dealer about it."
We authorize him to do what is right at our expense.
We know a dealer in coal, who delivered his coal with a public weigher's ticket (full weight) invited complaints, and actually exchanged the coal when complaint was made. He had half the business; a dozen firms had the other half. We are 146 years old, but not too old to sell paint as that dealer sold coal. We like to pay damages—when there are any.

F. W. DEVORE & CO.
P. S. WIGGIN & MOORE sell our paint.

CITY MEETING.

Unpaid Taxes Receive Attention of the Board—Routine Business.

The August session of the board of aldermen last evening was not a long one. Mayor Greely was in the chair and the full board was present. Beyond transacting routine business, the only feature of the meeting was the evident determination of the board to begin early in bringing the tax collectors to account.

The board was informed that Tax-Collector Whitcomb had turned in $350, and had gathered in $75 since his formal report had been submitted.

Mayor Greely called the attention of the board to the fact that the present collector was required in his warrant to collect one-half the tax levy by Aug. 1, and that he had not done so.

Ald. Brady was of the opinion that the city government should push all the collectors, and especially at this season of the year when money is moving more freely than it does after cold weather sets in.

Considerable desultory talk followed, which finally took the shape of the following motion, offered by Ald. Stuart, and seconded by Ald. Patten.

Resolved—That John H. Bresnahan, collector of taxes for 1902, be summoned before the board August 19, 1902, at 7.30 p. m., to show cause why he has not collected one-half of the taxes committed to him for collection, as required in his warrant.

Street Commissioner Hurley reported that, acting under instructions received from the board at its last meeting, he had notified F. A. Eddy of the condition of the water course under buildings owned by him on the south side of Main street; had inspected same in company with Mr. Eddy, and had received assurance from him that the defect would be remedied at once.

George Wood was allowed $7 for loss of a sheep and two lambs.

Chief-Engineer Brown inquired what had been done towards purchasing a new horse carriage. The one now in use was steadily growing weaker, and the situation demanded immediate action.

Ald. Leland said the present condition of things was shameful, and that the board ought to do something. He had received specifications from several parties, and was ready to submit a report to the special committee at any time. No action was taken.

COUNTY NEWS.

The "Old Home" picnic will be held at Blunt's pond Friday, Aug. 8. All are cordially invited.

Mrs. C. A. Reynolds, daughters and son Walter, of Cambridgeport, Mass., are occupying their home here for the summer.

J. W. Young, of Webster City, Iowa, formerly of this town, is visiting relatives and friends here. Mr. Young is a prosperous business man in Webster City.

Friday evening, Aug. 8, an ice-cream social will be held in town hall for the benefit of the C. E. society. Ice-cream and cake will be sold and a social time enjoyed. All are invited.

Rev. A. B. Lorimer, pastor of the second Baptist church in Bangor, is occupying Mrs. Esther Whitaker's house. He preached an interesting sermon in the Baptist church Sunday. He will probably occupy the pulpit again next Sunday, and will give a lecture in the evening on "Sights and Sounds in India", as seen by him during his travels there.

Rev. J. S. Blair closed his pastoral labors here Sunday, July 27, and will leave town this week. Mrs. Blair will visit relatives in Mechanic Falls and Mr. Blair will spend the month in Aroostook and Penobscot counties. The first of September they assume their duties in their new field at Newton, N. H. Many regrets are expressed at their leaving, and the best wishes of all follow them.

Yachting parties are the order of the day. Last Monday, through the courtesy of Captains Chabrier and Fred Hodgkins, a party of ten gentlemen enjoyed an excursion down the bay, returning Wednesday. The party represented several professions and lines of business, being composed largely of former residents who have sought homes elsewhere, and are spending their vacations in their native State. The trip was greatly enjoyed.

West Franklin. Flossie Clark is ill. Skunks are plentiful and are thinning the ranks of chicken coops.

George Coombs is loading with cord wood at Egypt for Bar Harbor. A large amount of hay was housed during the good weather of last week.

There will be a short shut-down at the mill for repairs on the steam apparatus.

The schooner "Victory" is loading with pine boards at Taunton for S. S. Scammon.

The annual reunion of the Clark family will be held at the home of Jacob Springer on Thursday, August 28. It stormy the next fair day. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

A West Franklin man's pig broke loose last week. After much manipulation, the gentleman managed to effect a corner. Immediately there was a drop. Later he was selling pork on six months' credit.

South Deer Isle. Mrs. Alice Robbins returned from Brooksville Thursday evening.

Picnics and backboard parties are now in full swing, and summer people are arriving by every boat.

Mrs. M. D. Robbins and daughter Eva spent Thursday afternoon calling on friends at Stonington and West Stonington.

Haying is about finished in this section, with more than an average crop in most places. The favorable weather of the past week insures good quality.

Mrs. Martha Moore and daughter were in this neighborhood Friday calling on friends. All are glad to meet Mrs. Moore, who is a native of this place.

Quite a party planned to go to Isle au Haut Saturday on a blueberry excursion. Blueberries are held at a very high price here at present. Raspberries are ripe, and very plentiful where they grow at all. Some places where they were plentiful last year are destitute of fruit, the vines apparently having been winter-killed.

Aug. 1. Ego.

North Lamont. Lewis Smith, who has been visiting friends in Franklin the past week, has returned.

Melvin McFarland, of Boston, joined his wife here yesterday for a two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. Clarinda Eaton and daughter, Mrs. Allie Smith, of Methuen, Mass., are visiting relatives here.

Prof. Lewis Morse, of Kent's Hill, arrived Wednesday to spend August as the guest of Mrs. Lizzie Bragdon.

Aug. 4. Y.

West Hancock. Mrs. Alice Goodwin, of Boston, was a recent guest in town.

Miss Ida Cowl, of Brewer, is a guest of her sister, Mrs. A. E. Tracy.

Mrs. Maggie Sawyer has gone to Portland to visit her mother.

Miss Evelyn Butler, of Philadelphia, is a guest of her brother, Prof. W. R. Butler.

Aug. 4. SUMAC.

Mother Always Keeps It Handy. "My mother suffered from distressing pains and general ill health due to indigestion," says L. W. Spaulding, Verona, Mo. "Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. She grew better at once and now eats anything she wants, remarking that she fears no bad effects as she has her bottle of Kodol handy." It is nature's own tonic.

Prospect Harbor.

Mrs. J. B. Cole accompanied her husband on his trip east last week.

J. Milton Allen, of Bar Harbor, was a guest of L. B. Desay at Mrs. M. A. Handy's over Sunday.

E. H. Kingston and wife, of Melrose Highlands, Mass., are guests at W. F. Bruce's for a few weeks.

Rev. Mr. Sanderson, of Sullivan, preached an interesting sermon in the church here last Sunday morning.

Miss Anna Cook, who has been a guest of Miss Margaret Moore for a few weeks, has returned to her home in Wintthrop, Mass.

L. F. Sarvis and wife, who have joined our summer colony for over thirty years, arrived the first of the week and have rooms at F. C. Bickford's.

The V. I. society has fixed the date of its sale for the 14th, afternoon and evening, followed by a ball. There will be the usual variety of fancy work for sale, and a red, white and blue tea at the usual hour.

The fifth annual reunion of the Cole family will be held in Mrs. M. A. Handy's grove, on Tuesday, Aug. 19, to which all members of the family, either by birth or marriage, are cordially invited. A picnic dinner will be served. Entertainment in the afternoon. Members not able to be present please send greetings.

Aug. 4. C.

East Surry. The family of Everett Treworgy, of Holyoke, Mass., consisting of Mrs. Treworgy, two daughters and one son, are at the home of his father, Charles Treworgy, for a rest. Mr. Treworgy will join his family later.

E. A. Cooper, of Bucksport, instructor at the seminary, spent a few days last week at Contention Cove. B. H. Chatto drove to Bucksport Wednesday, carrying him, his wife and child. He came around in a yacht and back overland.

A section of Surry hitherto comparatively unknown is at last being appreciated for its beauties and advantages as a summer resort. Several cottages already dot the shores of that beautiful sheet of water known as Toddy pond. Its beautiful scenery cannot be surpassed in this county. Clear, transparent water, dotted with small islands, with shores of white sand, steamers could ply its waters for miles. A much-needed mail route, soon to be established in that vicinity, connecting Surry village and East Orland, will be a great boon to the place. On the borders of Toddy pond some of Hancock county's most energetic sons and daughters first saw the light of day, and by the untiring efforts of hard working parents and fine air are what they are to-day. Let us not forget old Toddy pond, but cherish it among our earliest memories.

Still the sons and daughters of old Surry turn their faces homeward these hot days. Every boat, and nearly every train brings some of them.

Rev. Mr. McGraw, of Surry, preached an excellent sermon at Rural hall Sunday forenoon. He is expected to preach here again in two weeks. Mrs. Treworgy preached one of her good sermons in the evening. Next Sunday evening there is to be a concert by the Sunday school.

Aug. 4. C.

Waltham. Mrs. Nettie DeBeek is visiting friends in Ellsworth.

Mrs. Lettie Willey is visiting friends at Contention Cove.

Miss Inez Jordan, of Ellsworth Falls, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles Davis.

The Jordan reunion will be held at Charles Biack's grove, Mariaville, Wednesday, Aug. 13.

Miss Frances Roberts who has been at work for Mrs. Mary Haslem, is now at work for Mrs. Bertha Haslem.

Misses Ethel Jellison and Frankie Cook, of Ellsworth Falls, who have been the guests of Mrs. Mary Haslem the past week, have returned home.

Mrs. Alden Haslem visited friends in Bangor the past week. Her sisters, Mrs. O. L. Martin and Mrs. Lovinia Woodward, of Clinton, Mass., returned with her.

Aug. 4. H.

South Hancock. Edward Keith, of Brockton, Mass., is a guest at W. T. Coggins's.

Dr. Edgar Young, of Everett, Mass., is visiting his parents, G. R. Young and wife.

F. M. Watson, of Brooklyn, N. Y., arrived last evening to join his family at the homestead.

Alexander Hackett, who has employment in a hospital in New York, came home last evening.

Harvey Phillips, who has a position in a broker's office in New York, is spending his vacation at R. H. Young's.

I. H. Coggins, of Maiden, Mass., spent Sunday with his parents, W. T. Coggins and wife. Mr. Coggins' friends are congratulating him on the birth of a little daughter (Mildred) born July 27.

Aug. 4. W.

Sedgwick. O. P. Carter and wife are at home from Sargentville for a few days.

The summer people are much in evidence. The town is full of rusticators.

Mrs. Fred J. Moore, of Lynn, Mass., and Miss Addie Lufkin, of the same city, are in town visiting their mother, Mrs. O. P. Carter.

At Sargentville the ice company is pushing its works as fast as possible. Three new rooms have been added to the house built last fall, and the tower and motor room are nearly completed. Quite a lot of machinery is in place. The foundation for the new house is being pushed. The foundation for the new brick engine-room and power-house will be started this week.

Aug. 4. C.

Surry. The surveyors on the Hancock county electric road were here last week making a few changes in the route.

Mrs. Sophia Patten and her daughters, Misses Lillian and Ruby, of Denver, Colo., are visiting relatives here. Surry is Mrs. Patten's native town.

C. A. Sanborn, wife and two children, E. F. Thomas and Miss Eleanor Osgood, of Portland, J. A. Lester, wife and little daughter, of South Thomaston, arrived at E. N. Osgood's Sunday. The three ladies of the party are Mr. Osgood's daughters. They will remain for several days.

J. E. Gott has finished gathering and marketing his gooseberry crop. His gooseberry lot covers a small plot of ground not exceeding six square rods, and the entire yield this season was 207 quarts. After appropriating a liberal supply for family use, preserving, etc., it yielded a cash result of $17.08. Mr. Gott thinks it pays to cultivate gooseberries.

A large bear was seen by Mrs. Mary Dunham and one of her daughters a few days ago in the edge of the field at their home on the West Surry road. A day or two after Mr. Dunham saw a cub not far from the same place. Bears and other wild animals are frequently met with in the large tract of forest in West Surry and vicinity. A bear was caught in a steel trap near Josiah Coulter's farm buildings last year.

Aug. 4. G.

Manset. Mrs. Howard C. Emery, of Bar Harbor, is having a few days with relatives here.

The hotel season is at its height now, and both the Ocean house and Stanley house are full and many find lodging in the houses near by.

Rev. A. H. Bradford, of Montclair, N. J., preached here Sunday evening, and gave a most interesting sermon on "Our Reasonable Service".

The fishing business has been somewhat better in the past few weeks than before. Among the latest arrivals are schooners "Cosmopolitan", "Vanguard", "Iolanthe", "Lizzie Walworth".

The Congregational society of South-west Harbor rendered the "District School" at Centennial hall Friday evening, Aug. 1, to a good-sized audience. The Baptist society served ice-cream.

The Baptist society will hold its annual mid-summer sale Wednesday, Aug. 13. Fancy articles, home-made candy, ice-cream, etc., will be on sale during the afternoon and evening. The young people of the hotels will give an entertainment in the evening.

Aug. 4. E.

Brooklin. Mrs. Belle Blake has gone to Machiasport for a few weeks.

John and Henry Forham, of Raymond, spent Sunday in town.

A MAINE HEROINE.
SUITABLE MONUMENT TO BE ERECTED OVER HER GRAVE.

HANNAH WESTON IN FIRST BATTLE OF THE REVOLUTION—INTER-ESTING STORY RETOLD.

The people of Machias are preparing to erect a suitable memorial over the grave of Hannah Weston, a heroic woman, who rendered notable service in connection with the first naval battle of the Revolutionary war in carrying from her home, in Jonesboro, to Machias, a distance of sixteen miles through a wilderness infested with hostile Indians, a supply of ammunition to be used by the patriots under Capt. John O'Brien in the attack upon the British man-of-war "Margareta".

The flight that resulted in the capture of the "Margareta" was the first naval conflict of the Revolution, and is recorded as the proudest event in Maine's history. The date of its occurrence, June 12, 1775, is to the people of Machias, and all that region what April 19 is to Lexington and Concord, and it is due to the efforts of Hannah Weston Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, that the noble service of the Jonesboro heroine is to be commemorated.

When it was found that the presence of the eastern coast of the "Margareta" was to lead to open hostilities, a messenger was dispatched from Machias through wilderness to Jonesboro and neighboring settlements to inform the people, and to request all men who were able and willing to bear arms to hasten to Machias to assist in the defence of the town and in the capture of the hated war vessel.

The word spread rapidly through the settlements, and the people made hasty preparations to respond to the call for aid. All gathered at the home of Josiah and Hannah Weston, from which place the start was to be made. Mrs. Weston took great interest in the preparations, and when the start was made her husband and two brothers were among the volunteers.

She had made careful inquiry of each man as to the amount of ammunition that he carried, and she felt confident that more would be needed if much fighting was done. After their departure she called at each home in the settlement and gathered up what powder, lead, pewter spoons, etc., had been left behind.

A collection of about thirty or forty pounds was made, and this was taken to her home, where it was packed ready to be sent to Machias. But not a man able to make the journey was left in the settlement, and on the following morning, accompanied by Rebecca Weston, a sister of her husband, she started to make the hazardous journey.

Mrs. Weston carried the ammunition, while the younger woman carried a hatchet and the two days' supply of provisions which they had taken along. The distance to Machias was sixteen miles, through a dense wilderness, with no guide save the footprints made by the soldiers who had gone on before, and an occasional blazed tree.

For the first five miles the two women experienced no difficulty, except from weariness of carrying so much weight over such a rugged path; but before reaching the river they missed their way, and their efforts to find the trail were fruitless.

The younger woman being of a comparatively weak constitution, became nearly exhausted from their wanderings, and at last the elder suggested rest and refreshment. After resting for a time Mrs. Weston encouraged her companion again to undertake the march. They had traveled for another hour through the woods, when they were overjoyed to find themselves upon the bank of the Machias river. It was then about 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Knowing that they were above the town, they decided that their only course was to follow the river; but fearing that they might encounter hostile Indians if they kept in sight of the water, they followed a course parallel with the river, but some distance from the bank. They found it very laborious to proceed, owing to the extensive swamps through which they were obliged to pass, and the brooks, which frequently obliged them to make long detours from their course to find a place where they might effect a crossing. But, feeling sure that they were following the right course, they pushed on with all their strength, expecting at every turn that they would be able to catch a glimpse of the town.

As the strength of Miss Weston was fast becoming exhausted, Mrs. Weston relieved her of her burden, and herself carried both ammunition and the provisions. When they had proceeded a short distance farther, however, the strength of Miss Weston gave out completely, and she dropped upon the ground. Mrs. Weston was still resolute and hopeful, and after a brief pause started alone for the top of the hill which could be plainly seen a little way ahead.

By this time night was falling, and if she failed to see the town from the top of the hill they would be obliged to spend the night in the woods. Her highest hopes were realized, however; when she reached the summit of the hill, she could plainly see a house a short distance below. Hastening back to her companion, she found her fast asleep. Quickly arousing her, they lost no time in climbing the hill and in making their way to the house.

The news of their arrival was spread through the village, and the crowds of people gathered at the house to extend congratulations and praise them for their noble act. Capt. O'Brien, Col. Foster and other prominent Machias men were among the number, and were loud in their praise of the two women. They had entered upon the difficult task because they believed that the ammunition would be needed in the battle that was threatening when the word was sent to Jonesboro, but while they were making their march through the wilderness the battle had been fought and won.

Upon their arrival at Machias they were informed that the "Margareta" had been captured, and that her commander, Capt. Moore, had been wounded by a shot fired by Mrs. Weston's brother, Samuel Watts, which must result fatally. This proved to be true, for on the following day the young British officer, the first naval officer to lose his life in the Revolution, was dead.

The ammunition, although it was not received in time to be used in the battle, was afterward used in the repulse of the British when they attempted to recapture Machias.

The return of the women to Jonesboro was made through the woods. Mrs. Weston was hailed as the heroine of the day, and every possible honor was shown her.

Hannah Weston Chapter D. A. R. has for six months been engaged in collecting funds to pay for a suitable monument and bronze tablet to be erected over the now neglected grave of the heroine, and Mrs. Weston's descendants, who number 400, and are scattered all over the country, are being asked to contribute, while others and the town of Machias have given toward the fund.

Mrs. Weston, whose maiden name was Hannah Watts, was born in Haverhill, N. H., on November 22, 1758, and died at Jonesboro on December 12, 1855, twenty days after she had passed her ninety-seventh birthday. She was a direct descendant of Mrs. Dustin, of Haverhill, whose capture by the Indians and subsequent escape made her a famous character in New England history.

ALASKA.

Was the Purchase a Wise One?
What it Cost—What it Pays.

There were those who laughed and scoffed when Alaska was purchased by the United States from Russia. It was called the purchase of an iceberg, and many held that it was merely a gift of money to Russia in recognition of its friendly attitude to the Union during the Civil war. If any of those persons are still living we hope, says the Kennebec Journal, they will read a little pamphlet, "Commercial Alaska in 1901," just issued by the treasury bureau of statistics. It contains many striking figures about this vast territory, so little explored and little understood until recently.

By reason of the application of modern systems of travel and transportation, Alaska is now as accessible as Arizona. Three days of travel by modern ocean steamers from Seattle, among the islands and along the coast which forms the southwestern extension of Alaska lands the traveler at Skagway; twelve hours by rail over the mountains carries him to the head waters of the Yukon, where comfortable and well-equipped river steamers carry him to the gold fields, of central Alaska or down the Yukon river, which is navigable for more than 2,000 miles at this season of the year.

From the mouth of the Yukon another comparatively short trip, by steamer, carries him to Cape Nome—the latest and greatest of the gold fields of Alaska. Gold, fish and furs are, according to this monograph, the principal industries of Alaska at the present time, and they send to the United States $15,000,000 worth of their products, $8,000,000 of gold, $6,000,000 of fish, chiefly salmon, and the remainder furs.

The cost of Alaska was $7,200,000. The territory is as large as the twenty states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee.

The direct revenue which the government has derived from it since its purchase amounts to over $9,000,000, and the value of the products are now twice as much every year as its cost. The total value of the products of Alaska brought to the United States since its purchase is (according to the best estimates that the bureau of statistics is able to make) about $150,000,000, of which $50,000,000 is precious metals, $60,000,000 products of the fisheries, chiefly salmon, and $50,000,000 more furs, chiefly seal fur.

Probably $50,000,000 of American capital are invested in Alaskan industries and business enterprises, including transportation systems. In the salmon fisheries alone, the companies engaged have a capitalization of $22,000,000, and the value of their plants, including vessels, is given at $12,000,000. In the mining industries there are large investments—the great quartz mill at Juneau being the largest quartz stamp mill in the world, while several other quartz mills represent large investments.

With the inflow of capital, the development of transportation systems and the gold discoveries, have come the building up of towns and the development of cities with modern conveniences of life. Nome City, which is located but a comparatively short distance south of the Arctic circle, is now as large as Augusta, having a population of over 12,000; postal facilities have been so extended that the number of postoffices is now about sixty, and mails are being regularly delivered north of the Arctic circle.

THE SAVING OF PETER

By EUGENIE UHLRICH

Copyright, 1901, by Eugenie Uhlrich

Mrs. Minna Schmitt stood at the kitchen door of Merriam's big house and looked at the changing west. Every moment the light was growing fainter and duller, and still Peter Burns did not come in to the supper that had been waiting for him over two hours. This was strange of Peter, and it would have been not only strange but suspicious of anybody else after having been "lectioneerin'" all afternoon with the old Judge, Mrs. Merriam's husband.

Mrs. Schmitt did not like the judge. The worst men in her eyes are those who always seem so nice and pleasant to everybody and between times get drunk and abuse their wives. If such men were only mean all the time, people would not blame their wives for everything that goes wrong, as the village did Mrs. Merriam when she had the old judge bound over to keep the peace. Since that time the judge had been obliged to live at the village hotel, and Mrs. Merriam was left in the big house. Now when the judge wanted to see Mrs. Merriam he drove up to the gate and whistled for her. Then Mrs. Merriam put on her best dress and went driving with him, for the judge was really very pleasant when he was in a "good temper," as Mrs. Merriam herself would have put it. Every evening she made Peter drive down to the hotel to see that the judge got to bed without his boots. The judge paid those of his bills that he could out of his practice, and Mrs. Merriam paid her own out of the place and the "summer guests." Sometimes she paid an odd one of the judge's.

Minna could not see but what it was much better so, though whenever she went to the village she had to hear something about women who wear the "pants" and like remarks, which passed for wit thereabout. But Minna, who had had a sharp and happily short married experience of her own, loftily ignored these supposed jokes, for her German tongue was too slow to risk answers. The delectable Peter himself, who made possible the harmony of the present conditions, was Irish. He drove the judge home one day when the judge's driving was a bit uncertain, even for a horse that could find the way home alone. Peter put up the horse and looked after things that evening, and he had been doing so ever since. Now he was the one person who was able to travel cheerfully the sometimes slippery path between the inn and the house at all times.

And still he did not come in. Minna bethought herself that she ought to go over to the stables. Tomorrow would be Sunday, and Peter often needed a stitch put in somewhere. It was not in Minna's quick fingers to see any one untidy on Sunday if she could help it. So she went over to the stables—not that she was curious or, even worse, worried. Things did look queer. The road wagon was standing in the driveway, the cushion left shiftlessly on the seat, and Peter's best coat lying across it. After a moment Minna's sharp ear heard deep breathing, and there on a bench inside the door lay Peter, fast asleep. Now Minna could not believe that any man would go fast asleep without his supper unless there were something wrong. But she was used to doing things, not standing and looking at them. She took the cushion off the seat and, along with the coat, carried it into the carriage shed. Something hard in one of Peter's pockets struck her hand, and she knew it at once for a bottle. It was almost empty, and the contents were not to be mistaken. Then she tried the other pocket. Behold, another bottle!

"That camel of a judge," she muttered. "He has five stomachs, and he does not rest until everybody is like him." The zeal to save woke in her, and she did not ask herself whether she had the fine zeal for every wavering soul or only for Peter's. She took the bottles and hurried to the kitchen with them.

Mrs. Merriam met her at the kitchen door. "Where is Peter?" she asked. Minna marched past her and tragically held up the two bottles in front of her. "Minna," gasped that lady, "what—what have you been doing?" "I?" screamed Minna. "Peter, you mean?" "Peter! Oh, Peter, Peter, you, too, Peter!" wailed Mrs. Merriam as she sank down in a chair. "But wait; this is the first time, and there is still hope for him. I have it"—and she hurried to her medicine shelf and came back with a bottle with some brown stuff in it. "This will make him wish he'd never touched any election whisky in his life. Run and slip them back, Minna."

Minna obeyed and then milked the complaining cows, grown restless waiting for Peter, and when everything was well done she went up to her room and cried a bit. In the morning she was up earlier than usual. There seemed no use in waiting for Peter to drive her to early mass this morning. She trudged along the damp road from which the late August sun had not yet drawn the dew, and her feet somehow felt very heavy.

"It is a damp morning," she said, looking against the shining mist. Here and there a dead leaf fluttered in front of her. The sun was soft and warm and the green of the trees deep and dark in the glistening moisture, and yet it all kept her thinking that winter was near and that she herself was thirty-five. As she passed a little house on the road where old Anse, the chore-man, lived with about a dozen grandchildren, she heard a child's fretful cry. "Must be it's sick. I'll have to ask Anse."

When Minna came out of the church, she had a start that must surely have given her a nervous shock had she been of less hardy fiber, for there was Peter waiting as usual.

"An' why didn't you wait for me, Mrs. Schmitt?" he asked.

"It was a good morning to walk," said Minna most quietly.

He helped her into the cart, and then he said slowly after they were started, "It was a very hot day yesterday." And he switched the lines to chase the flies off the backs of the horses. "A very hot day."

But Minna was silent. After a little Peter went on: "We went over a terrible lot of country yesterday, the judge an' I. I'm thankful we had a right good supper over at Harneck's, so, been' tired an' restin' me a minute, I fell asleep. It's too bad you milked the cows an' did that work."

"Oh, that didn't make much difference," said Minna. But there seemed to be something that did, so after a bit Peter went on again: "The judge is a terrible man to drink an' treat all roun' when he goes 'lectioneerin'." He gimme a couple o' bottles to treat the boys for him, but I met old Anse in the road this mornin', an' he told me one of the children was sick an' he didn't feel very well himself, an' so I gave him the rest."

Peter had the flattering sense that he was clearing himself without admitting the suspicion, which is really a very delicate thing to do. So he was the more surprised to see Minna jump around in her seat and fairly scream at him:

"You did what?" "Gave it to old Anse for the child." "Oh," she moaned, "for the sick child! I'll kill it!" "But it was good stuff," said Peter blandly. "The judge paid a dollar a bottle for the bit of a bottle."

"But it's bad, I know it's bad. Hurry up and tell Anse it's bad." Peter only stared at her and almost held the horses at a standstill. "Hurry up," she said and rattled the whip in its socket. At this ominous and unaccustomed sound the horses plunged forward so suddenly that Peter had to pull them to their hanches to keep them out of the ditch.

"I'll not drive a step, I'll tell you," he said, "until I know what for," for Peter could not stand bothering the horses when he was driving. Then Minna began to cry, and Peter as well as the horses was bothered.

"But, Mrs. Schmitt," he said, "sure, an' you're always such a sensible woman"—

"What's the use to be a sensible woman when a man's so foolish? It's all your fault," and Minna cried more.

"Well, then, if it is I'll be drivin' on," said Peter. "An' you'll be tellin' me how it is that it's my fault." Then he lifted the reins, but he did not start the horses. Minna looked over the fields, while the tears rolled down her cheeks. Then she stole a glance at Peter's face, calm and masculinely unrelenting. There came a trot behind her. McGolrick's mules were coming up the road behind them, and she and Peter standing still like that! So she began hurriedly:

"I was afraid you'd get like the judge, too, so we thought if you got good and sick you'd never do it again, and we put some ipecac in it, a whole ounce"—

"In what?" asked the hyperinnocent Peter.

"In the bottles of whisky," gulped Minna.

Peter whistled, and the horses flew. "Ipecac's bitter, isn't it?" But Minna did not notice, she was crying so hard. "Guess I better tell Anse that it's cheap 'lectioneerin' whisky an' the missus will send him somethin' better." Minna smiled so gratefully that Peter felt to wondering what he could do next to please her. When he came out of Anse's, he was chuckling. "The baby's all right, but Anse is havin' a time." Whereupon Minna giggled hysterically.

To make sure Minna herself took the basket and the port wine which Mrs. Merriam sent. When she came back, she walked rather slowly up the driveway, trying to decide whether she should stop and tell Peter. When she came to the stable door, Peter was pitching straw for bedding. He did not seem to be getting much on his fork, and presently he looked up as if seeing her there were the most unexpected happening. He pulled his hat down and came toward her. Leaning against the doorpost, he regarded the prongs of his pitchfork intently. About that time Minna found her basket handle very interesting, and she began to rub her forehead thoughtfully up and down its strands.

"The baby's all right, Peter," she said after awhile. Peter looked at her meditatively as if somehow she were saying something else.

MAINE'S WILD LANDS.

Valuation $6,000,000 More Than In 1900—Pulp Mills Did It.

The board of State assessors, George Pottle, of Lewiston, Otis Hayford, of Canton, and F. M. Simpson, of Bangor, has finished its hearings on the value of wild lands in Penobscot, Piscataquis, Aroostook, Franklin and Oxford counties. After it has held hearings in Washington, Somerset and Hancock counties its work in this particular direction will have been concluded.

Although the assessors have not yet completed their valuation of Maine's wild lands, they are satisfied that their value will be largely increased over that of two years ago. They believe that the sum of $6,000,000 should be added to the valuation of the wild lands above that assessed against them in 1900. This addition will make their value $25,000,000 and will add to the State's income from this source, at the same tax rate now in force, which is 2 1/2 mills on the dollar of valuation, the sum of $16,500.

The valuation of the timber lands of Maine, comprising nearly one-half of its territorial area, has fluctuated more or less during the past decade. The first valuation placed upon them by the board was in 1892, their valuation before that time having been fixed by the decennial commissioners who, prior to 1891, had charge of assessing the State's valuation. Under the rules adopted by the board after its creation, all values in Maine have since that time been fixed and determined. In 1892 the valuation of the wild lands was placed at $17,738,680. Two years afterward, however, the valuation dropped to $17,103,317, a loss of $635,363, and when the valuation of 1896 was made a further loss of $27,422 was made.

In 1898 the valuation was fixed at $16,238,828, a loss of $1,564,852 from that of 1892. Then the great pulp mills began reaching out for timberlands, and the prices paid were fabulous as compared with those of former years, and in 1900 the assessors jumped their valuation from $16,238,828 in 1898 to $19,127,828, an increase of $2,888,979.

The prediction of the assessors that $6,000,000 will be added to the wild land valuation this year will mean an increase over the lowest valuation of the past decade of the sum of $8,761,172, and an increase over that of 1892 of $7,204,320.

In these figures the valuation of the timber and grass upon the public lands in the State is not shown. The valuation of these reserved lands also will show an increase this year, as their value rises and falls with the valuation of the wild lands which surround them. In 1892 their valuation was fixed at $15,214; 1894, it was $157,960; 1896, it was $42,970; 1898, it was $424,866; and in 1900 it was $504,348.

Boston Herald Pictures.

It is an opinion of long standing with me, and I have heard the same opinion expressed by many others, that the illustrative work of the Boston Herald, both daily and Sunday, is among the very best that is produced by the newspaper-press of the country. When one views the illustrations in the Sunday edition of the Herald he is moved to wonder that such beauty of detail can be produced by the methods that are necessarily existing in papers of this character with speedy presses and great circulation.

When the half-tone process was first utilized in newspaper work there was great wonderment. There is increased wonderment to-day that the Herald has carried the process so near to artistic perfection.

And in the illustrating of events of daily interest the Herald is always at

I know of some fascinatingly interesting scrap-books that have been made from these cartoons, and they are a source of continual delight to the owners and their friends. Then, as the other sports come along, there is the same interesting and skilful portrayal of the most interesting features of the contest until those concerned in the sport have come to look to the Herald illustrations as something not to be omitted from their daily life.

Loss of appetite is commonly gradual; one dish after another is set aside. It is one of the first indications that the system is running down, and there is nothing else so good for it as Hood's Sarsaparilla—the best of all tonics.—Advt.

STATE OF MAINE.
TREASURER'S OFFICE.
AUGUSTA, July 29, 1902.
PURSUANT to chap. 8, sec. 73, of the Revised Statutes, I will at the State Treasurer's office at Augusta, on the twenty-fourth day of September next, at 11 o'clock a. m., sell and convey by deed to the highest bidder, all the interest of the State in the tracts of land hereinafter described, lying in unincorporated townships, said tracts having been forfeited to the State for State taxes and county taxes, certified to the Treasurer of State for the year 1900. The sale and conveyance of each tract will be made subject to a right in the owner or part owner whose rights have been forfeited, to redeem the same at any time within one year after the sale, by paying or tendering to the purchaser his proportion of what the purchaser paid therefor at the sale with interest at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum from the time of sale, and one dollar for release, or such owner may redeem his interest by paying as aforesaid to the Treasurer of State, as provided in chap. 4, sec. 73 of the Revised Statutes.

No tract, however, will be sold at a price less than the full amount due thereon for such unpaid State and county taxes, interest and costs, as described in the following schedule:

Table listing land parcels in Hancock County with details such as '1900 N 1/2 7th Division' and values like '$430 81 $5 05'.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE.

WHEREAS JOSEPH WOOD of Eden, in the County of Hancock and State of Maine, by his mortgage dated November 1, 1890, acknowledged the same day, and recorded the same day in the Registry of Deeds for said County of Hancock, in Vol. 247, Page 461, conveyed to the PORTSMOUTH TRUST AND GUARANTEE COMPANY, a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of New Hampshire, and having its place of business at Portsmouth, Rockingham County, State of New Hampshire, a certain lot or parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of said Eden known as Bar Harbor, and bounded and described as follows, to wit: Beginning at a stone post on Roderick Street at the Northwest corner of land now or formerly owned by James S. Moore; thence Northerly along the line of said Street four (4) rods to the South line of land of Parker C. Wood; thence Easterly along the line of said Wood's land and a continuation of said line in a straight course, six (6) rods to a stake; thence Southerly and parallel with the line first described four (4) rods to land owned by Tobias L. Roberts; thence Westerly along the line of said Roberts' land and the line of land now or formerly of said Moore six (6) rods to the place of beginning, containing twenty-four square rods.

AND WHEREAS the conditions of said mortgage have been broken, and now remain broken and unperformed, NOW THEREFORE, the Portsmouth Trust and Guarantee Company claims a foreclosure of said mortgage for breach of the conditions thereof, and gives this notice of its intention to foreclose the same, as required by statute of said Eden, Dated at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, this 16th day of July, A. D. 1902.

THE subscriber hereby gives notice that he has been duly appointed administrator of the estate of Calvin P. Haynes, late of Trenton, in the county of Hancock, deceased, and given bonds as the law directs. All persons having demands against the estate of said deceased are desired to present the same for settlement, and all indebted thereto are requested to make payment immediately. IVINS P. HAYNES, July 1, 1902.

THE subscriber hereby gives notice that he has been duly appointed administrator of the estate of Laura E. Nice, late of Black Island, in the county of Hancock, deceased, and given bonds as the law directs. All persons having demands against the estate of said deceased are desired to present the same for settlement, and all indebted thereto are requested to make payment immediately. FRANK L. Have you watched our Store grow? Have you noticed the Improvements?

The soul of the business is seen in this season's increase of store room, stocks and conveniences for customers. This spring finds our old store showing a larger spring stock than ever before. Our original store has again out grown the requirements of our stock. To get additional display room we connected the next building. This gives us floor room sufficient to make it the LARGEST DRY GOODS STORE EAST OF PORTLAND.

The following departments are enlarged:

CARPET, DRAPERY and HOUSE FURNISHING; READY-MADE, such as CLOAKS, SUITS, WAISTS, COTTON UNDERWEAR; LACES and WHITE GOODS; SILKS and DRESS GOODS; HOSIERY and UNDERWEAR.

In our new sales room we are showing a full line of carpetings, matting, oilcloths, lace and muslin curtains, draperies, window shades, rugs, art squares and house furnishings. This is the best arranged show-room in the State, and for convenience cannot be beaten.

We have taken all the ready-made-to-wear for Ladies, Misses and Children to the second floor. A trying-on room is connected with it, which our out-of-town customers will appreciate.

OUR SPRING STOCK of costumes, tailor-made suits, walking and dress skirts is ready. No superior stock anywhere. All alterations made free of charge. Our spring and summer waists and petticoats have also arrived. In wrappers and muslin underwear we are showing better assortments at less price than anyone.

WASH FABRICS in Silk, Cotton and Wool in variety of colors and materials never before equaled.

With our enlarged floor space we are prepared to do a large business. Our patrons will appreciate the convenience, the ease of trading in a modern, up-to-date place. Our prices are all right. No competitor can beat us on prices on the same quality of goods. Hope to see you all.

Advertisements. Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose. Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Barrels of Samples.

Over Two Hundred Thousand Trial Bottles Sent Free by Mail.

By special arrangement with the manufacturers of that justly famous Kidney Remedy, Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, the readers of THE ELLSWORTH AMERICAN are enabled to obtain a trial bottle and pamphlet of valuable medical advice absolutely free, by simply sending their full name and postoffice address to the DR. DAVID KENNEDY CORPORATION, Rondout, N. Y., and mentioning this paper, the publishers of which guarantee the genuineness of this liberal offer. Of course this involves enormous expense to the manufacturers, but they have received so many grateful letters from those who have been benefited and cured of the various diseases of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and Chronic Constipation, and all weaknesses peculiar to women, that they willingly send trial bottles to all sufferers. Upon investigation it was found that 91 per cent. of those who had used the trial bottle had received such benefit from it that they purchased large sized bottles of their druggists. It matters not how sick you are or how many physicians have failed to help you, send for a trial bottle of this great medicine, it costs you but a postal card, and benefit and cure will most certainly be the result. Favorite Remedy is the only kidney medicine that acts as a laxative—all others constipate. Put some urine in a glass tumbler and let it stand 24 hours; if it has a sediment or if it is pale or discolored, milky or cloudy, stringy orropy, your Kidneys or Bladder are in bad condition. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy speedily cures such dangerous symptoms as pain in the back, inability to hold urine, a burning, scalding pain in passing it, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night, the staining of linen by your urine and all unpleasant and dangerous effects on the system produced by the use of whisky, wine or beer. All druggists sell Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy in the NEW 50 CENT SIZE and the regular $1.00 size bottles.
