

GRANGE NOTES

Saturday's Meeting Had Good Attendance.

Phillips, Maine, Oct. 21.—North Franklin Grange held an all day meeting, Saturday, Oct. 21 with a very good attendance. Deputy J. A. Norton was present from Aurora Grange. Quite a lot of business was transacted. The members are planning to give an entertainment in the near future and as the committee is composed mostly of the younger members the entertainment is sure to be good. After the dinner hour, open session was declared during the literary exercises. First on the program was instrumental music, then reading by Calistra Shepard, Cassie Worthley, Mary Cushman, Sarah Graffam, Josephine Larrabee; song, Pearl Smith, Myrtle Staples; Remarks, James Morrison and J. A. Norton; dialogue by Christie Aldrich, Pearl Smith, Myrtle Staples, showing how well they could keep a secret. Order was again restored, and the meeting closed, all feeling they had spent a very pleasant day. Date of next meeting Saturday, November 4, afternoon meeting.

ANOTHER OPEN LETTER

In Regard to the Skim Milk Case. J. Blaine Morrison and Joel Byron, as the Board of Selectmen Tell their Story.

Phillips, Maine, Oct. 23, 1911. To the Editor of the Maine Woods: In a recent issue of your paper, we noticed a communication, of some length, from Laforest A. Worthley, in which he tells his side of the skim milk case between the inhabitants of the Town of Phillips and himself, which was tried at Farmington at the last term of the Supreme Judicial Court. Evidently Mr. Worthley is not at all satisfied with the result of the case, and he appeals from the verdict, not to the Law Court, but to the citizens of Phillips, hoping to gain their sympathy in the matter, by publishing through the columns of your paper, an absolute misstatement of the facts.

Mr. Worthley in his letter says that the Selectmen of the town of Phillips have not had anything to say, and still a little further along in the same letter he says that they, (meaning the same selectmen) have been telling their story night after night in the numerous gossip shops of Phillips Village. Very plainly his own statements in regard to this point are conflicting, and we hasten to enlighten him with the information that his first statement is correct, for since trying the case in court and recovering all that we claimed from him, we have had nothing to say, there was not anything for us to say. Explanations, if any were due, should come from Mr. Worthley. He realized this only too well, and ever since the Selectmen first discovered that he was palming off skim milk onto the poor of the town of Phillips and charging five cents a quart, he has been trying to explain himself out of the embarrassing and shameful position in which his own folly has placed him; he tried to explain to the Selectmen, he tried to explain to the Court and Jury, and now he is trying to explain to the public how he has been wronged and mistreated, but thus far his explanations have not proved satisfactory even to himself, much less have injured Mr. Chandler or any of the other parties connected with the case.

If it had been possible to do so, we should have much preferred to have tried this case in open town-meeting before the citizens of the town of Phillips or before the citizens of Mr. Worthley's own town, for we know that no matter before whom it was tried, with the truth before them, the result would have been the same and the defendant would still be dissatisfied. As everything that the Selectmen have done or said in relation to this matter from the beginning to its end, has been open and above board, we do not hesitate to meet Mr. Worthley and face any charges that he may allege against us either in open court, before the people or through the press.

Now as long as Mr. Worthley has opened the door, we propose to enter and state our side of the case, briefly as possible, and then leave it to the readers of these two letters to decide who is right and who is wrong.

The Croteau family, consisting of the mother and eight small children, have been totally dependent upon the town of Phillips for their support, ever since the death of Mr. Croteau, which occurred about four years ago; the town hires a rent for them upon a little place in the town of Avon, known as the Andrew Staples farm, which is the next place below Laforest A. Worthley's. When the present board selectmen was elected to office the first time, in March 1909,

REPEATING SHOTGUNS

If you want a serviceable shotgun, one that a scratch or bump won't ruin, that can be had at a price that won't ruin you, the Winchester Repeating Shotgun will surely suit you. They are made in 12 or 16 gauge with strong shooting, full choke barrels, suitable for trap work, duck shooting, etc., or with modified choke or cylinder bore barrels for field shooting. They list at $27.00, but your dealer will sell you one for less. They are a bargain in a gun, but not a bargain counter gun. They are the only repeater that is found that Worthley was furnishing the Croteau people with two quarts of milk a day, the children coming to his place after it every morning. As milk was a very necessary article for a family with so many small children, we allowed Worthley to continue delivering milk to them. Mr. Worthley never told us, nor had he ever told Mr. Chandler, the Chairman of the old Board, that the milk which he was selling was milk from which the cream had been removed, and the idea never entered the minds of one of us but what it was ordinary milk in its natural state. About once in three months Worthley would bring his bill into the office of the Selectmen made out in his own handwriting, for so many quarts of milk sold to the Croteaus, at the rate of two quarts a day at five cents per quart.

These bills were always paid when they were presented, were then filed away, and were introduced in court as evidence when the case was tried. Last December, Mr. Byron, the chairman of the present Board was down to the Croteau house, Mrs. Croteau was sick, and one of the little girls told Mr. Byron that they had just sent up to Mr. Worthley's for a quart of milk with the cream on it. Mr. Byron questioned them, and they told him that they had never got any milk from Worthley's but skim milk or creamery milk, as he calls it.

We then interviewed Mr. Chandler and asked him what kind of milk he was buying for the Croteaus when he was a member of the Board. He told us that he never supposed he was buying anything but new milk from Worthley and that the town paid five cents per quart for it, and was very much surprised when we told him that Worthley had never given them anything but skim milk. We stopped getting milk of Worthley and sent the children to Fred Wells' where they got new milk for the same price that we had been paying Worthley for his skim milk. Worthley evidently surmised that something was up and the next time that he saw one of the members of the Board, he pitched into him to ascertain the reason why we had stopped buying milk of him. It took but a few moments to give him the desired information, and Worthley was the one that got mad, not the member of the Board, as he states in his letter. Worthley then said that he had a bill for balance due for milk furnished, and we must pay it at once or he should bring suit against the town. We told him that we would pay him a reasonable price for what skim milk he had already furnished, unbeknown to us, but that we were done paying him five cents a quart for it. Worthley then left the bill with a lawyer and in due time we received a notice from him, but after explaining the matter to the attorney, we have never heard from it since. Now the bill that was left with the attorney by Worthley after he was discovered, was different than the bills that he had always presented to us. Instead of two quarts of milk a day at five cents per quart, the last bill was made out as follows: Two and one half quarts of creamery milk per day at four cents per quart, and also one quart of new milk, which the little girl had got there at six cents.

PICKEREL BETTER THAN TROUT

"The trouble with your finical fishermen who decry the pickerel not only as fish to have sport with but as a fish that to eat is," said a New York man who champions that fish of small pulchritude and much jaw, "that they don't know how to cook the pickerel after they have caught him. I confess that I didn't know myself until I heard Manly Hardy, the old Maine woodsman, deliver himself on the subject one day.

"People who come to Maine from other states, said he, seem to think that trout are the only fish to eat, but most of our Maine people, who are where they can get both pickerel and trout, don't put the former aside for the latter, not by a good deal. They regard pickerel as at least the equal of trout; and pickerel have also the saving quality of not palling on the palate nearly so quickly as trout will.

"The way we cook pickerel to have them better than trout is simple but effective. Take a large pickerel, say from two to four pounds, clean it nicely down the back. Then split it again under the backbone so as to remove that bone and most of the small ribs. Then rub with fine salt, putting most of it on the thickest parts of the flesh. Lap the sides of the fish together or put two fish flesh to flesh and let it lie for several hours or over night, so as slightly to corn the fish, as the salting must not be too heavy.

"When the pickerel is wanted for cooking, wash it clean, place it fully spread out on a wire broiler and broil before a hot fire. When both sides are thoroughly cooked serve with plenty of fresh butter spread on, and if you do not call it equal to any fresh water fish that swims, brook trout not excepted, then I don't envy you your judgment on the edible qualities of fish. And cooked in that way pickerel is just as good when cold, and that is something that can't be said of any other fish, I know of."

"After trying Hardy's recipe for cooking a pickerel I found that he had understated its results if anything. I venture to say if some of these carpenter at pickerel will paste that recipe in their hats and treat a pickerel according to its directions they will no longer look askant at the misjudged fish, but will be ready to take their rods and trolls and go out for many a bout with him, and ever after declare that when a pickerel has a fair chance in water free from the weeds or lily pads he can fight as long as most trout of the same size.

"And they won't have to go more than fifty miles away from New York in almost any direction to find the material aplenty to warrant them in saying so, either."

A GIFT WITH A THOUGHT IN IT.

What other Christmas present costs so little and means so much as a subscription to The Youth's Companion—52 weeks for $1.75? It is a gift which benefits not only the one who receives it, but every member of the same household.

With many Christmas presents the sense of novelty wear off by the week's end, but The Youth's Companion is as new and sought after the fifty-second week of the year as the first. It is elastic in its adaptability, too; for it does not matter whether the present is for a boy or a girl, young married people, sedate couples, grandparents—there never was one yet who did not set store by The Youth's Companion. You cannot make a mistake if you give The Companion—and it is only $1.75 a year now. On January 1, 1912, the price will be advanced to $2.00.

The one to whom you give the subscription will receive free The Companion's Calendar for 1912, lithographed in ten colors and gold, and you, too, as giver of the subscription, will receive a copy of the Calendar.

THE ORIGIN OF THE BOY SCOUTS.

The Boy Scouts of America are now said to number 300,000, and already there are discussions as to just how the movement began, reminding us of the endless questions about the origin of baseball. On the whole, the "scout" idea seems to be American in origin, although it is certain that general Baden-Powell used boy-scouts as messengers during the siege of Mafeking. According to Dan Beard, Baden-Powell himself declares that he "cribbed" the scout idea. A fair statement of the case is made by John L. Alexander, secretary of the Boy Scouts of America, who in "Harper's Camping and Scouting" writes as follows: "General Baden-Powell drew largely from all sources, and there is hardly a book written on boyhood that has not been forced to contribute something to the movement. He drew fully upon the works of Ernest Thompson Seton, of the Woodcraft Indians, and Dan Beard, of the Boy Pioneers, or Sons of Daniel Boone, so that even if the movement was started in England, its principles and fundamentals were produced on American soil."

CAUGHT LIVE DEER.

Phillips, Maine, Oct. 16.—C. Masterman of South Framingham, Mass., returning from a hunting trip in the Dead River region brought a live fawn back with him which he caught in a trap about 10 days ago.

Mr. Masterman while out hunting shot the mother of the young fawn and later set a trap for the offspring.

The fawn was about 6 months old and weighed about 50 pounds.

Mr. Masterman intends to carry the young deer home with him as a pet for his children.

ONE MAN KILLED

When Shot Gun Exploded— Another Badly Wounded.

Gorham, N. H., Oct. 17.—The accidental explosion of a shot gun caused the death of one hunter and the wounding of another at Shelburne, ten miles from here today. The man who was killed was Michael J. Cody, a clerk in the postoffice at Manchester, and his companion, P. H. Terrill also of Manchester, received a slight flesh wound in the abdomen.

The two men had been gunning in the Burbank valley, and were crossing a stream on a small foot bridge, when the bridge broke under their weight. Terrill's double barreled gun was exploded, part of the charge inflicting a slight wound on Terrill and a bad wound on Cody's leg below the knee.

Terrill, although bleeding from his own wound, attended to Cody as well as he could, applying a tourniquet to the injured limb, and making the man as comfortable as possible. Then Terrill made his way through three miles of woods to a farm house, from which he telephoned to the nearest doctor, six miles distant. Cody died just as the doctor reached him, some three hours after the accident. The man had bled to death.

Cody, who was about 35 years old, lived with a mother and sister at Manchester. He was married.

CHAMPION WOMAN SKUNK KILLER

Mrs. C. E. Googins, of North Hancock, claims the belt as champion woman skunk-killer of Hancock county. Mrs. Googins had been missing eggs from the nests for some time, and finally discovered the thief in a mother skunk, who had made herself comfortable under the barn. Mrs. Googins secured her son's shot gun and with a well-aimed shot under difficult circumstances, put the skunk out of commission. A short time later, after the clouds had rolled away, and Mrs. Googins had recovered her equilibrium (for the gun "kicked just a bit") she discovered three young skunks huddled together under the barn, and with one shot killed all three.—Ellsworth American.

EIGHTY-FOUR YEAR OLD HUNTER.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Eighty-four years of age, Alexander Patnode, a carpenter by trade, has been granted a license to hunt game. W. E. Johnson, the town clerk, was very much surprised when the applicant for the license gave his age. Mr. Patnode is probably the oldest hunter to enter the woods in this vicinity this season.

W. E. Johnson, the clerk of the town of Harrietstown, has thus far issued 700 licenses to hunters. For the month of September this remittance to the State Department for hunting licenses was $542.

ONE WAY TO GET DEER.

Paul Smiths, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Henry Rorke had the surprise of the season. He was hunting with a shot-gun for birds, and the gun was loaded with fine shot. Intent upon getting partridges he approached the vicinity of Paul Smiths spring and near it he saw a large buck lying down. Mr. Rorke had a single buck-shot shell and this he slipped into the gun as quickly as he could. He killed the deer in its tracks. It weighed 205 pounds and was the finest brought in here this year. Other hunters are now thinking that the way to get a deer is to hunt birds.

WANDERED IN THE WOODS FOR DAYS.

Weak and emaciated from hunger and exposure, Albert H. Perkins, a division engineer of the Conservation Commission, who got lost in the Adirondacks recently was found, five days later in the woods a little north of Raquette Lake. For four days all the wardens and guards of the region, and hundreds of others including the employees on several big private preserves, had searched for him. He was found just outside of Timothy L. Woodruff's preserve by a small party which had been out all day. He was feverish and unable to walk, so they carried him all the way to the lodge on the Woodruff estate. John McSweeney, superintendent of the preserve, telephoned to the commission's headquarters in Albany late in the afternoon, saying that Perkins probably would be fully recovered from the effects of his experience in a few days.

Perkins was lost Sunday evening, October 1, when he separated from a hunting party on Indian River, between Squaw Lake and Indian Lake. Soon afterward the party heard a shot in the direction Perkins had taken, and the fact that no answer came, led them to believe that the engineer had shot himself by accident and was in the woods dead or desperately wounded. Searching parties were organized as soon as Perkins' party could spread the alarm, and the entire region for miles at both sides of Indian River was gone over carefully by hunters, guides and employees of the commission.

ABOUT TO BE MARRIED—HAD HUNTER'S LICENSE.

Quincy, Mass., Oct. 17.—Aaron Sigelman and Miss Julia Bernstein had joined hands and were about to be pronounced man and wife today when a Quincy clergyman called for the license. The license, for a consideration permitted Sigelman to hunt moose and deer, and an hour later an irate couple were before the city clerk in Boston, where the license had been procured, demanding an explanation. It was explained that the groom to be had accidentally gone to the clerk who issued hunting licenses and had not mentioned marriage.

STRUCK BY STRAY BULLET.

Ernest Salisbury of Fulton Chain, N. Y., 22 years old, a lumberman, was struck by a stray bullet while hunting deer in the Adirondacks, near his home, about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Oct. 7. The bullet struck him on the right side, between the ribs and the hip, and passed through the wall of the abdomen. The intestines are not punctured and the wound is not considered a dangerous one. Unless blood poisoning should develop, Salisbury will make an easy recovery. Salisbury was seated upon a stump near the runway of a deer when he felt the sharp sting in his side and knew that he had been shot.

"MISTAKEN FOR A DEER."

James Whitcomb of Skerry is in a critical condition at his home with a probable puncture of the lung and in danger of pneumonia, the result of having been mistaken for a deer and shot by his friend, John Manning. Both men are experienced Adirondack guides. The two men started out Sunday, Oct. 8 from their homes at Skerry in the town of Brandon to hunt deer in the vicinity of Twin Ponds. Striking a runway they parted, Whitcomb starting out to round up a deer. A little later Manning saw a brown object moving in the bushes some distance away. Raising his 44-caliber rifle he fired and followed the first with a second shot before realizing he had mistaken Whitcomb for a deer. Only the first shot took effect.

WEARER OF RED IS KILLED.

Color Does Not Save Fred Allen from Careless Hunter's Shot.

Fred Allen of Conquest, N. Y. was instantly killed in the woods north of Forestport, N. Y., Friday afternoon, Oct. 6, by a hunter named Fred Dean of Alder Creek, who was hunting with another party. Allen wore a red sweater and a red cap, and had he been seen he could not have been mistaken for a deer.

Dean was watching a runway and saw some bushes moving. He fired at the stirring brush, and killed Allen instantly. It is thought that Allen was shot with a soft nosed bullet, as the wound at the point of exit was four or five inches in diameter.

GEMS IN VERSE

SONG OF THE FAILURE.

We come from fur bound regions,
Where the trapper's ranks that clash
in might,
Who are the lucky livers of the
regions,
Stand in their last and losing fight.

Between the roaring and snow cut
sleet,
Where the belligerent are snugly
seeking rest,
Until we come to wavering hands
of feet
That are sweeping the swept ways
of the west.

Not ours, the banner of utter defeat
Not to be ours the stand of the coward
If we sink at last onward to deceit,
Let us be one not to be overpowered.

So be it in the name, we'll take
the blame,
Those who have seen the goal and
have striven
For us to indulge in pursuits so tame,
To talk of what is gone and what is given.

And many are the feet that have passed by,
Trappers so seemingly venture so near
And we envy them not like the
azure sky,
That has cast them out to a fate
that is dear.

For we heed the music of the trappers only,
A voice in the descending distance
calls
To a dawnless valley they rally so lonely
All cuddled and muddled for fate to befall.

Along do they come, bold to behold,
In an unexpected moment do they never,
To be classed as is right on future
so old
Their march so long, dreary and clever.

From the regions where presents the
strife,
Out from the snow where the cold
winds blow
To return where each trapper lives
a life
Where all is snug, where the coals
glow.

RANGELEY

Rangeley, Maine, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Rose Adams is working for Mrs. George Esty.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Furbish and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bowley went on an auto trip to Portland last week.

On Wednesday evening, October 11 at the parsonage, Mr. Will Porter and Miss Edna Oakes were married by the Rev. L. A. White. They spent the week following at Kennebago.

A. D. Nelson of Medford, Mass., and Mrs. L. R. Mayo of Everett, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson.

Miss Carrie Dinsmore of Bowdoinham is in town where she will spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Ives Hinkley.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kempton visited their son, Willie, at Lewiston last week.

A new Washburn piano has been purchased and placed in the church vestry. It is a fine one and the people appreciate the gifts from the summer guests which made it possible for them to have it.

Miss Genevieve Harnden spent last week in town with relatives. Miss Harnden has a position as stenographer in Portland.

Frank E. Harris of Dallas had a valuable buck and lamb killed by bears last week.

Dr. Charles Stewart was in Boston a few days last week.

Mrs. Addie Richardson and daughter, Miss Prudence, are in Washington, D. C. for a short time. Miss Eugenia Easley is staying with Mrs. Maggie Soule during their absence.

Mrs. Elvena Soule and daughter, Georgie, have returned from a visit with the former's son, Mr. Leslie Soule, at Wilton.

Mertice, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Huntoon died Sunday morning from the effects of swallowing strychnia tablets. The little one was at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Eben Rowe, and had been in the house a few minutes when she was discovered eating the tablets. A physician was hastily summoned but there was no help and in less than an hour she was dead. All hearts go out in sympathy to the heartbroken family.

Mrs. Etta Lovejoy was in Strong last week to attend a meeting of the Pythian Sisters.

Dr. Charles Stewart is boarding at G. M. Esty's.

Frank Harris and Mrs. Charles Harris made a short visit to Boston last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Look came out from Kennebago last week and are now at their home on Pleasant street.

Mr. and Mrs. Strout, with their two sons are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Aaron Soule.

Among those who took advantage of the low rates to go to Portland last week were: Mr. and Mrs. Olin Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Oakes, Mrs. L. J. Kempton and Axel D. Tibbetts. Mr. Tibbetts reports his little daughter, Rena, to be improving, which news all her friends are glad to hear.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boutlier and two children are on a visit to Mr. Boutlier's old home in New Brunswick.

Sunday morning as Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nile and children were preparing to go for a drive an accident occurred which has made them postpone their trip indefinitely. Mrs. Nile and the two children got into the carriage—a covered buggy—when something started the horse so he jumped. Mr. Nile caught the reins, but was thrown down and dragged some distance. The occupants of the carriage were thrown out in the mud, the carriage was wrecked, and Mr. Nile received an ugly gash in his head requiring the services of a physician who had to take six stitches to close the wound. Mrs. Nile was somewhat bruised but they consider it a miracle that the little ones escaped unhurt.

FOREST FIRES

Commissioner Mace Criticized by George O. Smith. Commission Has Done Fine Work.

We notice in several of our Maine papers that State Forest Commissioner, Hon. Frank E. Mace, has been what seems to those who understand the matter, misjudged by George Otis Smith, director of the United States Geological Survey in regard to the fire protection work of the commission in our state.

The organization of the Kennebec Valley Protective Association, recently perfected at Skowhegan and made up largely of Kennebec lumbermen is understood to have for its object the protection of the timber land owners, when the means employed by the State are inadequate, and to promote and encourage the practice of forestry, and that object would at all times receive the aid of the commission.

From first everything goes to prove that the commission has the past summer done good work and with the amount of money at their disposal, it is a wonder they accomplished the work they did.

In different parts of the State wardens were appointed and for weeks they patrolled for miles in the forest and kept a look out from the mountain tops. Every dollar that was appropriated by the state was wisely invested. Competent men were appointed and thousands of dollars were saved by preventing the spread of fires.

True, there were several extensive forests fires. The Enchanted fire was set by lightning during one of the fiercest electrical storms of the season, but not always are there men on the spot or enough of them to prevent a fire thus started from spreading.

We have an able State Forest Commissioner, one who is doing his duty and doing it well, and the state and owners of timber lands must work together, and more money must be expended and more men employed when a dry season comes to patrol the forests, and every citizen and person who comes into Maine must also work to prevent forest fires.

In this part of the state there were a number of forest fires prevented last summer, the accounts of which were given in the Maine Woods, and we have great confidence and take pride in the Forest Commission of Maine.

TRAINING DOGS FOR BEAR.

A number of well-known hunters in Hancock county are training dogs especially for the bear hunt. The Airedale terrier is first choice for trailing the animal, being a canine with all kinds of courage, and, when he has the bear at bay, keeps it safe until the hunters arrive on the scene. The dogs are not allowed to trail any other kind of game animal, but when old enough to trail are put at work on bear tracks and their education is confined to bear.

STATE OF MAINE.

Treasurer's Office.
Augusta, Oct. 13, 1911.

Pursuant to Chap. 9, Sec. 44 of the Revised Statutes, as amended by Chap. 226 of the Public Laws of 1909, I will at the Treasurer of State's office at Augusta, on the twenty-second day of November next, at 11 o'clock A. M., sell and convey by deed to the highest bidder, all the interest of the State in the tracts of land hereinafter described, lying in unincorporated townships, said tracts having been forfeited to the State for non-payment of State, County and Forestry District Taxes, certified to the Treasurer of State for the year 1909. The sale and conveyance of each tract will be made subject to a right in the owner or part owner whose rights have been forfeited, to redeem the same at any time within one year after the sale, by paying or tendering to the purchaser his proportion of what the purchaser paid therefor at the sale with interest at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum from the time of sale, and one dollar for release, or such owner may redeem his interest by paying as aforesaid to the Treasurer of State as provided in Chap. 9, Sec. 46, of the Revised Statutes.

No tract, however, will be sold at a price less than the full amount due thereon for such unpaid State, County and Forestry District taxes, interest and costs, as described in the following schedule:

TRAPPING TIME HAS COME AGAIN.

With the fifteenth of October, the 1911 trapping season opened and many thousands of trappers are now planting their traps in the trails of the wary ones. There are probably 200,000 trappers in the United States
today, and while the fur-bearing animals have been thinned out considerably in many sections, many thousands of mink, skunk, coon,
etc., will be taken this season and will give up their valuable coats of fur to adorn the fair, and incidentally to place quite a nice collection
of shekel in the pocket of the trapper.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

While furbearing animals are becoming scarcer in some localities (maybe in yours) did you ever stop to consider "Who is to blame?"
Perhaps you as much as any one.
Did you ever catch unseasonable
fur? If not, you are not to blame.

During the past two years, when prices of skunk and rats were so high, these animals have been greatly reduced as they are the two
easiest of the fur producers caught.
This shows what persistent hunting
and trapping will do in a few years.
On the other hand take localities
where beaver have been protected
for a few years and reports show a wonderful increase.

PHOTO DEPARTMENT.

Some very interesting photos will come out in the MAINE WOODS
during the coming winter months.
We want to increase the illustrated
section, and any one having good photographs of fishing and hunting scenes, etc., are invited to send in copies of such, either mounted or unmounted accepted. If possible write short sketch describing the photo and telling where it was taken. Address, The Editors.

The Massachusetts man who handed a clergyman what he thought was a marriage license to hunt moose
and deer, couldn't have had the trick worked on him in Maine.
Here he would have detected the blunder through the difference in price.

There are just two classes of people who do not need to advertise—those who do not expect any business and those who have made as much money by generous, tactful advertising
that they have retired from business with a fortune.

Maine Woods, Phillips, Maine, Gentlemen: Enclosed you have my check for two dollars ($2.00). I want you to send me your paper,
as long as this pays subscription.

I feel interested in your state,
since it has gone wet and have been one of the boys to visit it occasionally for a fine deer hunt. My health does not allow me to come up this season, so be sure and send me
the paper. Send me several of your past issues that had anything
regarding hunting this season, as I feel one of you.

LIKES EDITORIALS.

Newtonville, Mass., Oct. 21, 1911.
Editor Maine Woods, Phillips, Me.

My dear sir: It is so unusual not to say "My dear Mr. Brackett"
that I hardly know a proper complimentary address—I have read
with unusual interest your editorials
on "Reckless Shooting" and heartily indorse your sentiments—I know
many hunters in Boston and vicinity
who would enjoy a trip in Maine
but will not take chances of losing their lives. The city sportsman who considers it disgraceful to return to his friends without game should either remain at home or leave his gun at the camp and let the guide
do the shooting. If necessary to point out where his first bullet hit
he can shoot it through the dead
deer at the camp.

In the recent affair where the guide was shot because a certain prearranged signal was not answered would have been equally disastrous to any other hunter who, for adventure might have been in that locality and ignorant of the signal arrangement.

I think in every instance where a person is shot for a deer it should be regarded as a case of murder and
the careless hunter properly punished
by suffering the penalty and outcome. Possibly this would oblivate further careless shooting.

Hope to find time for an article on a trip next month.

Yours truly, W. W. Blair.

NEW FEATURES INTERESTING.

features" which you have added to the MAINE WOODS makes the publication more interesting than ever.

Very truly yours,

Fly Rod's Note Book

BY FLY ROD

St. Anthony's Cottage,
Phillips, Maine, Oct. 25, 1911.

"Sporting Jurisprudence"
Every hunter understands
When he goes after game,
He takes his life in his own hands
And may chance to lose the same,
So if he by mistake gets shot
Or himself shoots his guide
I wonder if the verdict ought
To be murder or suicide."

This some unknown poet recently wrote which seems to express the idea many have of hunting in our Maine woods, but I claim if a person is careless in one place he is in another, and everyone knows that the most of the accidents among the hunters for the last few seasons
have been "carelessness" and called by some other name.

If one never shoots until he sees his game, and knows what he is aiming at, deer and not men will be shot. "I thought it was a deer, I saw something moving and did not suppose a person could be in that place," has in every case been the explanation given, when it was too late.

Again, no person has yet been shot wearing a red cap or sweater, and as I have before said it should be made a law for all hunters to wear them.

I do not agree with the man, who said, "when a man is so discouraged
with life that he can say, I am tired and sick of it all and wish I were dead," he is certainly in a mood to go hunting."

True, there have been far too many persons shot in our forest by carelessness, but think of the hundreds of people who go hunting who know
no more about hunting than a six year old boy.

It is care, knowing what one is shooting at that has saved many a life and should save many more.

I have not yet forgotten an experience of my own, in the good old days when I could tramp for miles
in the forest.

I was at York's Camps, Loon lake.
Jim Wilcox and Ben Gile were my guides.

There was quite a party of hunters, members of "The 6 O'clock club," that had come for the first two weeks in October, and one night after the day's hunt one of the guides remarked, "Fly Rod, if that party got a deer I am mistaken,
for they make more noise walking
in the woods than so many elephants."

I could not keep from laughing
when a deer that we started,
"whistled and Mr. W— calling me said, "For Heaven's sake boys what was that rushing through the woods?"

That night we held a consultation, and it was decided to leave camp before daylight the next morning. Roland York said, "I'll have hot coffee and corn cake ready at 4.30 o'clock if you will show this crowd that there are plenty of deer
around Loon lake even if they can't get one."

We all agreed to be so quiet about camp no one could accuse us of waking them up, and not walk on the piazza with our boots on.

I have not forgotten yet, how cold it was as I went in the kitchen
where I put on my hunting boots that Jim had "greased" for me in good shape and had even greased
the hinges of the door so it would not squeak when we opened it, for
we had no idea of waking the other guides whom we intended to get ahead of.

Was there ever such good coffee
and corn cake! I filled the pocket
of my hunting coat with corn cake,
and, just back of the band outside
of my red hat was a row of ginger cookies.

We had arranged with Mr. York
to find out when later in the day the others started hunting and where they were going. Unless they said,
"over on the ridge" he was not to tell where we had gone, but to be sure of no accident they were to be told if going our way.

It was not dawn as we started up Kennebago road. The ground was damp as it rained the day before,
and our foot steps made no noise.

A mile up the road we took the trail
over in the direction of where Ben Gile now has a hunter's camp.

I'll never forget that morning,
how I was to take the old trail and to my right a few rods away were Jim and Ben to the left, and we agreed no matter what happened
not to shoot unless we could see our deer plainly, and then often by a low whistle keep close by and only shoot ahead.

The boys tell the story how I shot the big doe, 200 yards away
and said "Boys I have dropped a deer with as big a set of horns as you ever saw" for in the excitement
the branches of the bushes and small tree looked "horns" to me.

I let the guides go after the deer
and waited a few rods away, and soon found the laugh was on me, for Jim said, "You have shot a big doe, Fly Rod, that any one would be proud of, but I thought you could see better than that even in the woods."

Deer meat was needed in camp,
and after the deer was dressed
and hung up in a tree, the guides
decided for me to sit down in sight
of a "deer run" where there were fresh tracks and they would go back up the hill and perhaps start a deer
and if he came along I could see distinctly, and not have a long shot.

I had been for an hour enjoying the silence of the woods when some distance away I could see the bushes
move, then in sight something looked like a deer, but I did not want another doe and waited.

I raised my rifle, took good aim
and watched as I saw the supposed deer advance, but dropped it when John Collins, the guide, and his man wearing a dark red leather hunting coat came in full sight a few feet below me.

"Are you Fly Rod's ghost or what has happened, you are not going to faint?" Mr. Y's greeting as they said, "how came you four miles from camp this hour in the morning"
for it was then only a little past 8 o'clock.

I could not speak above a whisper
as I asked him to take off that coat, and explained that I had my rifle ready to shoot him.

"And you are a mighty good shot"
exclaimed John. It seems they told Mr. York they were going up Spotted Mountain and had no idea we were in that direction, and we did not expect them.

I have never forgotten that event,
and shall always be thankful, I had promised "never to shoot until you see your deer."

Last Thursday noon it was my pleasure to receive a short call from Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Burrows and little son, Morris of Rangemere
cottage, Rangeley Lake House.

Mr. and Mrs. Burrows after a pleasant summer, were on their way to East Orange, N. J., where they will spend a short time with their parents, then go for the winter to their southern home in Florida.
May the days bring only good things
before they are welcomed back and another season has come.

Saturday noon "between trains"
as there is nearly an hour's wait for those coming from Rangeley, before the train for Farmington starts, I was delighted to have Mr. J. W.
Ferguson Kennedy, the Boston
artist "pull the latch string."

Mr. Kennedy, in company with Mr.
H. P. Smith of Boston, who has a beautiful summer home on Rangeley lake, with Freeman Tibbetts and Ben Gile for guides, has just returned from a two weeks' tramp to Canada. They went via Kennebago
lake and Seven ponds, to Megantic.
They found the trail in excellent condition. As they did not want a deer they did not shoot one although they saw a number.

The partridges were very plentiful
all along the way. Mr. Kennedy, who painted such fine pictures of Rangeley scenery and his wife who is a writer have spent the summer at the old Rangeley place, and made many friends during their stay and all hope they will return next season.

IS THE WORLD GROWING BETTER?

Many things go to prove that it is.
The way thousands are trying to help others is proof. Among them is Mrs.
W. W. Gould, of Pittsfield, N. H. Finding good health by taking Electric Bitters, she now advises other sufferers,
everywhere, to take them. "For years
I suffered with stomach and kidney trouble," she writes. "Ever since I used failed till I took Electric Bitters. But this great remedy helped me wonderfully." They'll help any woman.
They're the best tonic and finest liver

them. You'll see. 50c at W. A. D. Cragin's; Chas. E. Dyer's of Strong; L. L.
Mitchell's of Kingfield; Riddle's Pharmacy of Rangeley.

Among my best friends I count
many of the guides and it is always a pleasure to meet them or hear of their work.

"The Rangeley guides excel" I have often heard sportsmen remark
for they know all parts of the country.

Last week I received a letter from Herbert L. Moore, who with Charles
C. Turner, two of our well-known guides has for some time been up
in Canada with two New Yorkers,
twenty miles in the woods beyond
the railroad. Herbert guided Mr.
Huss, who shot a big moose with antlers of 56 inches spread. They reported a big caribou as shot, and a great trip. Both guides returned by Aroostook where they met other parties who had engaged them and I expect to hear of success next time.

Good luck to you, boys.

A letter from friends at Upper Dam gives reports of the best hunting ever known. Mrs. F. R. Baker
of Brooklyn, N. Y. with Clayton Sweet, guide and party spent the first two weeks of the hunting season in camp at Richardson pond and
Mrs. Baker shot two deer.

Mr. Harry Taylor of New York shot his two deer the first week of open season, and spent only time in the city to give friends a venison dinner before he started for Los Angeles, Cal., where he will spend the winter.

Surely the fish in the pool are free to rise at any time these autumn days, without fear of striking
a fish hook, but it is not safe for

CHAUNCEY B. PHILLIPS

The accompanying sketch represents one of Kingfield's respected citizens, Chauncey B. Phillips, and his sister, Mrs. Levi Thompson.

Mr. Phillips was a son of Davis and Allura Stevens Phillips and was born March 23, 1844. On Sept. 10, 1862 he enlisted in the 28th Maine Volunteer Infantry, Company D. and was honorably discharged August 31, 1863. Although broken in health Mr. Phillips has managed with the pension he receives to live comfortably and has been his own home-maker and housekeeper for twenty years, enjoying single blessedness to its fullest as he never has taken to himself a wife.

Mr. Phillips' father, Davis Phillips, was the second male child born in Kingfield. A brother of Davis Phillips and an uncle of the subject of our sketch served as lieutenant of E company of infantry in the 8th regiment, volunteer militia of Maine and received an honorable discharge. He was stricken with fever and died on his way home.

OBITUARY

MRS. RUTH RICHARDS

Mrs. Ruth E., wife of George K. Richards, Kingfield, Me., passed to the higher life on Tuesday, Oct. 10. Mrs. Richards has been a resident of Kingfield for the past forty years. She was a member of and an active worker in the Universalist church. Her faith was to her more than mere belief. It was her daily life. She was at one time superintendent of the Sunday school, and taught a class as long as her health permitted. She had been for years a member of New Century Rebekah Lodge, No. 102, of New Portland. The church and town meet with a severe loss in the death of Mrs. Richards, where for so long many have felt the genial warmth of her kindly nature, and the helpfulness of that hand that was always serving others. Her death was sudden, cerebral hemorrhage thought to be the cause. The services were conducted on Saturday, October 14, by her pastor, Rev. Lily R. Schafer. Relatives present were: D. L. Bryant, Somerville, Mass., and son, William, Conn.; R. K. Bryant, Canaan, N. H.; Mrs. Clara Chick, Monmouth, Me.; Mrs. Henry Morse, Winthrop; Mrs. Isaac Clarey, and Joseph Knapp, Livermore Falls, Miss Linnie Carville, Farmington. Mrs. Richards is survived by a husband and two brothers.

TAKE YOUR COMMON COLDS SERIOUSLY.

Common colds, severe and frequent, lay the foundation of chronic diseased conditions of the nose and throat, and may develop into bronchitis, pneumonia, and consumption. For all coughs and colds in children and in grown persons, take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound promptly. W. A. D. Cragin.

The Cause of Colds and a Safe Cure.

A common cause of many colds is the sudden checking of the unconscious perspiration by exposure to a change of temperature. Colds, whether taking the form of Coryza with sneezing, running nose, and perhaps sore throat, or with chilly and feverish symptoms, should never be neglected in the earliest stages, serious illness often results from such neglect.

It is well to get early to bed, to get the body well warmed, and most important to have the bowels move freely. There is no safer or better remedy to use at the beginning of a cold than "L. F." Atwood's medicine. Two to four teaspoonfuls will quickly relieve congested conditions, drive out impurities from the system and ward off further trouble. Always keep a bottle in the house. Any dealer will supply you for thirty-five cents. If you have never used them, write today for a free sample to the L. F. Medicine Co., Portland, Maine.

FIRED 12 SHOTS INTO BUCK

Then the Buck Stood and Watched Hunter for Fully Two Minutes Before Leaving.

Bangor, Oct. 25.—Not every sportsman who visits the Maine woods brings home a deer, even if he is fortunate enough to get a shot at one. But when one empties the entire magazine of a 12 shot repeating rifle at a buck and then, when one's supply of ammunition is exhausted, the animal calmly stands and surveys the hunter for a full two minutes before disappearing in the woods—when all this happens—Frederick G. Hastings of Athol, Mass., who was in Bangor recently, on his way home from Dobsis lake, thinks it hard luck. The fact that Mr. Hastings was once a member of the Massachusetts Volunteers militia and was credited with being a marksman of no mean ability, makes it all the more humiliating, he says.

"This is the fourth season that I have been coming to Maine after deer," said Mr. Hastings. "The second year I was fortunate enough to get a good-sized buck which weighed nearly 275. Last year I shot another which weighed nearly as much. But on the first trip, and on this one, there was nothing doing. Shame and humiliation will come with my recollection of that night all the rest of my life.

"I had been ranging through the woods on the east shore of the lake most of the afternoon without seeing any game, although there were plenty of fresh tracks. Along about sundown I came back to my canoe, together with Fred Errol, my guide. "Let's paddle along the shore quietly and we may possibly see something," said he.

"We started down the lake, Errol paddling in the stern, while I sat in the bow with my rifle—one of the old pattern 45-70, 12 shot Winchester carbines—across my lap. We had gone perhaps a quarter of a mile and had rounded a point when, directly before me I saw a good-sized buck, standing in perhaps four or five inches of water. The setting sun was behind the animal and shone directly in my eyes. Nevertheless, I raised my rifle and fired. The ball struck the water fully ten feet from the buck who raised his head and started down the lake, still in the water which was so shoal as not to impede his progress.

"Perhaps the animal thought that the splash of the water against the sun would destroy my aim and that it was his best chance for safety. At any rate, he kept on down the shore of the lake instead of turning and making off into the woods. I emptied my rifle at him, pumping the shots as fast as I could work the lever. To the best of my belief not one of them came within a yard of the mark. Probably most of them were much further than that.

"At last, after my final shot had been expended, the buck stopped and calmly walked onto the shore of the lake where he stood still under a big pine tree. I doubt if he had known from what direction the shots had come until then. He looked at our canoe for almost two full minutes, I should say, before he turned and trotted calmly off into the woods."

Mr. Hastings, whose disgust knows no bounds, says he is going to put in some time on the rifle range between now and next season when he is coming to Maine to try it again.

IDAHO STREAM STOCKED.

Two hundred thousand trout fry were placed in the streams of Kootenai county, Idaho, recently, by the state fish and game department. This is the result of a plan undertaken some time ago by a special committee of the Coeur d'Alene Commercial club, headed by J. V. Hawkins. Previously 100,000 fry were liberated in Hayden creek, tributary to Hayden lake; Wolf Lodge, Mica and Benwah creeks, tributary to Lake Coeur d'Alene, and Bond creek, tributary to the St. Joe river.

MOOSE SEEM PLENTIFUL

The commissioners of inland fisheries and game were notified recently that a Canadian Pacific train had struck a big bull moose near Mattawamkeag, cutting off two of its legs and otherwise maiming it. The railroad officials were ordered to put the animal out of its misery and Curator Thomas A. James of the state museum was immediately despatched to Mattawamkeag to get the hide and head. The meat will be given to the general hospital at Bangor.

Commissioner Blaine S. Viles reported that in a recent trip into the big game country he stopped his automobile beside a stream and that while there a big bull with the finest antlers came down to the water and drank without showing the least concern.

The recent capture of a young bull moose at Benton, well down among the larger cities and towns is also very unusual and is taken to indicate that the moose are very plentiful this year and that they are not so wild but what a reasonably careful hunter can get near enough to shoot one.

BOY CARRIES DEER FOUR MILES.

Claudius Lamy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Lamy, of Saranac Lake, performed a remarkable feat for a boy of his age recently. Claudius is sixteen years old and has been well known as a fast skater, but his qualifications as a Nimrod are just coming out.

His deed consisted of killing a spike-horn buck on the other side of Roger Mountain and "knapsacking" the carcass all the way to Saranac Lake on his shoulders. The task would have shaken the knees of many a grown man, but young Claudius did not seem to mind the work.

He left early in the morning with a rifle. He strolled over into the vicinity of "Scarface" and worked his way around the mountain, still hunting for anything that might happen in his way. It was a fine specimen of the spike-horn age that crossed the young Nimrod's path and went down before a well aimed bullet from the boy's rifle.

The young hunter dressed his deer, tied the four legs together and swung the body over his shoulder. He started for Saranac Lake with the deer on his back and his rifle across his arm. He finished the tramp the same way. The buck weighed 85 pounds dressed.

THE BOY SCOUTS

While the momentum behind the Boy Scout movement has been of very recent origin, there are already over 500,000 boys interested at the present time. During the past summer, camping has been the strongest feature of Scout Work.

Within the past few weeks, a prominent member of Rhode Island State Legislature has offered a prize to be contested for by Boy Scouts. The Woonsocket, R. I., Boy Scouts are equipped with Stevens Little Scout Rifles—fitted with an extra barrel made so it cannot be fired—for drilling and parade purposes. Because of this special barrel there is no violation of law prohibiting carrying firearms on the street. The barrel is interchangeable with regular barrel for target practice, in which the Woonsocket Boy Scouts have become very proficient. This Boy Scout organization has given Stevens Little Scout Rifles a thorough test and is well pleased. The Stevens is very desirable because of light weight, simple mechanism and semi-military appearance. Open sights with which these Rifles are equipped are a fair test for the boy's eye.

One twelve year old Boy Scout in a string of five shots put two in inner circle of Bull's-Eye—counting 25 and another in the 24 circle. For drill work, the Little Scout Rifle, manufactured by J. Stevens Arms & Tool Co., is just right. On parade the boys make a very fine appearance.

Apply to J. Stevens Arms & Tool Co., Chicopee Falls, Mass., for details of the interesting Boy Scout Movement and descriptive matter on Stevens Little Scout Rifles.

DEER MORE PLENTIFUL

In Spokane County, Wash., Says Game Warden J. A. Uhlig.

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 16.—Strict observance of the closed season during the last few years has increased deer 10-fold in Spokane county, Wash., according to J. A. Uhlig, game warden, who knows every section in the territory as well as he does his own backyard.

"There are plenty of deer in the northeastern and northwestern parts of the county," said Mr. Uhlig. "Most of them are in the foothills near Mount Carleton, about 30 miles north of Spokane, and on the Little Spokane river there are many signs as near as Deadman creek beyond Peone prairie.

"It began to look as if the deer would all be exterminated a few years ago. The law was made very strict and is being enforced to the letter. When the deer became scarce 10 years ago one might have to go to Mount Carleton without seeing a fresh track. At present there are many on the south side of the mountain."

Mr. Uhlig is a sportsman of the old school; believes in giving every wild animal a chance and what is more he practices what he preaches. He has the full support and cooperation of the shooting club in the county, and the officers and members of the various organizations are as zealous as he is in prosecuting offenders.

"NOTUS TO TRESHPASHURS"

Farmer near Henry Getting Tired of "Hel-Raisin'!"

There is a farmer up near Henry, about the Illinois River, where fishing and hunting is good, who is mighty tired of having his farm tramped over by hunters. Sometime ago he set to work to compose a notice on a couple barrel staves and nailed them to a tree, where they conveyed the following information:

"Notice—Trespassers will be persecuted to the full extent of two mongrel dogs which ain't never bin overly soshubel to strangers, and one double-barl shot gun which ain't loaded with softy-pillers. I'm get'n blame tired of this hel-raisin' on my property."

CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Made Safe by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

MIGHELS'S CAREER ENDED.

Philip Verrill Mighels, whose tragic death while hunting in Nevada has cut short a most promising career, was probably best known for his book "Bruvver Jim's Baby." He was a frequent contributor of verses to the magazines. Others of his writings are "The Ultimate Passion," "Chatwit, the Man Talk Bird," "Dunnie," "The Crystal Sceptre," and "Sunny-side Tad." Mr. Mighels was born in Carson City, Nevada, forty-two years ago. He studied and practiced law in Nevada for a while, but the desire to write was too strong for him, and he went into newspaper work in San Francisco in 1892, and later came to New York.

GETS PRIZE FOR CATCHING LARGEST SALMON.

Mrs. Llewellyn Carleton of Portland Monday received from the manufacturers of the kind of fishing rod she has used in her fishing at Sebago the past summer a prize for having taken the largest salmon from the lake during the year. The prize is a valuable one and Mrs. Carleton will proudly add it to her other trophies of the fishing trip and sojourns at Sucker brook.

LOOK HERE FOR YOUR ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES

AS TOLD BY THE MAINE WOODS

All persons writing to this column should make inquiries as short as possible. Write upon one side of the paper only and address all questions to "Answers to Inquiries" Editor, Maine Woods, Phillips, Maine.

QUESTION—(1) Where is the musk-bag of the muskrat located? (2) Will shooting a skunk with a .22 caliber rifle damage the fur?

C. F.

ANSWER—(1) The musk is found in two glands, those of the male muskrat being much the larger. Now when you skin a male muskrat, look closely at the fat on the under parts, well back, and see if you cannot find two thick, creamy yellow sacks, rather rough surfaced and full of fine veins. These are the musk castors and if you remove them carefully and squeeze them, each will yield from three to twelve drops of a thick, amber-colored musk. They contain the most musk in the early spring. The castors will vary in size from 3/4 inch long and 3/8 inch wide to 1 1/2 inch in length and 3/4 inch in width. If you don't find them on the carcass after skinning, examine the skin and you will find them clinging to it, along with the fat.

(2) No, a shot from a .22 caliber rifle, properly placed, will not damage the fur of a skunk, and is the most satisfactory way of killing one when trapped.

QUESTION—I have a Winchester rifle Model 1890, using the .22 short cartridge only and would like to know whether I can get it changed so that it will handle the .22 long, and if so, what new parts will be needed, and where can I get them?

ANSWER—You cannot do this work yourself but the Winchester Repeating Arms Co. will make this change for you if you will send the rifle to them. The charge for this work will be $2.60, and you will have to pay the transportation charges. I understand that the only new part needed is a carrier, but the barrel will have to be removed and rehammered. If the barrel is worn much it would hardly pay to have this change made, but that is a matter for you to decide. The .22 long cartridge is somewhat better than the short, for hunting, as the bullet has a higher velocity, and will kill game farther, but it is no more accurate than the .22 short, hardly as much so.

rate than the .22 short, hardly as much so.

QUESTION—(1) I want to buy a Marlin, .22 caliber rifle, Model 1897, with pistol grip. I like the carbine rifle, because it has a short barrel, and am thinking I would like to have this .22 caliber rifle with a short barrel also, the 16 inch length, but I have never seen a 16 inch barrel Marlin, and am not certain whether I would like it better than the 24 inch. Does it look as nice, or does it look clumsy? Will it shoot as well as the 24 inch barrel? I want a full length magazine.

(2) Do deer shed their horns every spring? I find the horns scattered all over the mountains. If they do, do the old horns drop off before the new ones come on? Do elk shed their horns also? E. H.

ANSWER—(1) I am sure that you would not be satisfied with the 16 inch barrel rifle. While the short barrel is very desirable on a big game rifle or a saddle-gun, the .22 caliber rifle is toy enough with a 24 inch barrel, and I certainly would not want one with a shorter barrel than 20 inches. The illustration of this rifle in the Marlin catalogue shows the 24 inch barrel, and if you will cover about 3/4 inch of the muzzle, you will have a fair illustration of the arm with 16 inch barrel. Yes, it looks too short, and in my opinion is not as handsome as the 24 inch length. It is more difficult to do accurate shooting with the barrel rifle, because the sights on the Marlin Model 1897 with 24 inch barrel is about 20 inches; on the 16 inch barrel, about 13 inches. Of course you can regain this lost distance by using the peep rear sight, but the peep sight on the rifle of 24 inch length gives a still greater sighting distance. The front sight also shows more clearly on the long barrel.

(2) Yes, deer lose their horns each year, in late winter or early spring, and grow a new set in spring and summer. The old horns are shed some time before the new ones appear. Elk and all animals of the deer family shed their horns annually, and in the American Natural History you can see reproductions of photographs showing the successive stages of the shedding and growing of new antlers of a captive elk.

QUESTION—(1) Is it unlawful for persons under 21 years of age to carry firearms in Pennsylvania? (2) Is a hunting license required of residents in this state?

C. P. Pa.

ANSWER—No, to both questions.

FIRE SCARE AT AUGUSTA.

AUGUSTA, Oct. 17.—The Augusta House, one of Maine's political headquarters during the past 40 years, was thought to be doomed today, so densely was it filled with smoke, but it was found that the fire was all in the basement among some waste and it was confined there. The damage was entirely by smoke. All the guests, including a number of State officials, were driven out of doors, the fire breaking out during the latter part of the noon hour.—Portland Express.

THE ROYAL MONTH AND THE ROYAL DISEASE.

Sudden changes of weather are specially trying, and probably to none more so than to the scrofulous and consumptive. The progress of scrofula during a normal October is commonly real. We never think of scrofula—its skin eruptions, eruptions, and wasting of the body substance—without thinking of the great good many sufferers from it have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, whose radical and permanent cures of this one disease are enough to make it the most famous medicine in the world. There is probably not a city or town where Hood's Sarsaparilla has not proved its merit in more homes than one, in arresting and completely eradicating scrofula, which is almost as serious and as much to be feared as its near relative, consumption.

"NATE" COLE KNOCKED OUT

Desperate Bear Pats Away Giant Logger and Hunter In One Blow.

"Nate" Cole was a log jobber and somewhat of a hunter. He was a powerful man, standing six foot four inches and with such broad shoulders that he could hardly pass through a common doorway. He was always ready and willing to have a scrap with anything that walked or prowled about the camp or the forest.

One day "Nate" and one of the members of his company were out in search of patches of timber. "Nate" always carried a light axe while his friend, "Bill" Kelley had a small shotgun charged with No. 6 shot for the purpose of shooting rabbits or birds.

"Nate and "Bill" came to a bear den under a rock about 12 feet down. They could see the bed of leaves banked high, closing around bruin entirely. "Bill" Kelly was rather a timid man, so he moved away as soon as he discovered bruin was present, but "Nate" went down on hands and knees and peeped into the den.

As soon as bruin found he was discovered he tried to make his escape, but the hole was small and he had to come up the perpendicular bank. "Nate" sprang to where "Bill" stood, seized the gun and fired into the hole, but missed his mark, the whole charge of shot passing over bruin's back. "Nate" then threw away the gun toward "Bill" and picked up his axe. The bear which had fallen back into the den when "Nate" fired was now making its exit again. As he came to the top of the hole "Nate" tapped him on the head as hard as he could, but "Nate" was somewhat disabled with rheumatism at the moment and a child could have done as well as he did. However, the blow knocked bruin back into the hole. Again he came to the top to be knocked back again by a light tap from "Nate's" axe.

The third time he came up showing his teeth. "Nate" made a desperate blow at him, but bruin was too quick. He ducked down into the den and "Nate's" axe dropped down into the hole. "Nate" fell across the doorway on his stomach and would have fallen into the den had it been large enough to admit him. Springing to his feet he ran to "Bill," and seizing him roughly by the shoulder, asked him to jump down in the den and get the axe. "Bill" declined.

"Nate" then noticed that the bear was almost out of the den, and sprang back, clinched the bear and threw him back, but he came up again and was again thrown back. By this time the bear was desperate. He came out of the den with mouth open, but he could not scare "Nate," who once more tried to force him back, but the bear gave "Nate" one slap with his powerful paw, knocking him down, and then walked toward the swamp where he was out of sight before "Nate" could regain his feet.

BURNHAM IS BACK PROTECTING GAME.

John B. Burnham has been appointed special game protector for Essex County, N. Y. on the application of the Binghamton Rod and Gun Club.

Timely advice given Mrs. C. Willeughby, of Marengo, Wis., (R. No. 1) prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. Doctors had said her frightful cough was a "consumption" cough and could do little to help her. After many remedies failed, her aunt urged her to take Dr. King's New Discovery. "I have been using it for some time," she wrote "and the awful cough has almost gone. It also saved my little boy when taken with a severe bronchial trouble." This matchless medicine has no equal for throat and lung troubles. Price 60c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by W. A. D. Cragin; Chas. E. Dyer, of Strong; L. L. Mitchell, of Kingfield; Riddle's Pharmacy, of Rangeley.

$22.88, which we ask you to please remit at once.

Very truly yours,

J. H. Byron,
J. Blaine Morrison,
A. S. Beedy,
Selectmen of Phillips.

Not receiving any reply we brought suit and recovered back three cents per quart for every quart of milk that we had paid for, or $35.50 whereas you will see by the above letter that we offered to settle with him before bringing suit upon a two cent basis for $22.88.

The witnesses for the town were Charles F. Chandler, Joel H. Byron, Mrs. Croteau and her daughter. Mr. Chandler and Mr. Byron testified as to what kind of milk they intended and supposed they were buying and the price paid. Mrs. Croteau and daughter testified to the kind of milk they received from the defendant.

Mrs. Croteau also testified that all of the milk that they ever got from Worthley's was carried in a five pound lard pail, and two quarts of milk in such a pail would fill it to within a half an inch of the top, which would be as full as the children could carry it the distance that they would have to.

The little girl also testified that in cold weather Worthley would set this milk out on the piazza where it would freeze before they came after it. Taxes are high in the town of Phillips, but we do not believe that there is a taxpayer in the town who would not willingly and cheerfully pay more tax than he is already paying rather than feed the poor of the town, and especially women and children upon frozen skim milk.

Mr. Worthley states that he lost his case because his best witness, Mr. Croteau had died. If Mr. Croteau had been living, he would have been the best witness for the town, because when he was living, he was buying skim milk of Worthley for five cents a pail, and as soon as he died and the family fell upon the town, the same pail was used, the same kind of milk was furnished, but Worthley instead of charging the town five cents a pail as he did Croteau, charged five cents a quart and got his pay. This is Mrs. Croteau's and her daughter's own story.

Mr. Worthley says that the suit was a personal matter, brought out of spite and revenge, and he says, (alluding to the Board of Selectmen) that it is time something was done to such people and that he hopes something will be done before long; but a Franklin County Jury, guided by the impartial ruling of the Presiding Justice, with no enmity or malice towards Mr. Worthley in their hearts, after listening to all the evidence, after hearing the defendant's story from his own lips, evidently thought that it was high time that something was done to him, and they with one accord, rendered a verdict against him, thereby establishing the fact, that there were at least twelve men who believed Mr. Chandler, Mr. Byron, Mrs. Croteau and her daughter, instead of the story of Laforest A. Worthley, and that they would not countenance for a moment the taking advantage of a widow woman and her little children, who, because of misfortunes that had befallen them, had been left in such a position in this life, that they were helpless to protect or defend themselves.

Thanking you for your courtesy and the generous space you have allowed us in your paper, we remain, Very truly yours,
J. H. Byron,
J. Blaine Morrison,
Selectmen of Phillips.

SWEET--BOSTON

Strong, Maine, Oct. 20.— A very pretty home wedding was solemnized at high noon, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Boston on Thursday, Oct. 19. The occasion was the marriage of their younger daughter, Lela Blanche, to Diah Sweet of Strong.

The bridal procession entered the room and standing within a bower of autumn decorations, the double ring service was most impressively performed by Rev. W. P. Holman, pastor of the bride and groom.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of light blue silk with hand-worked trimmings. She was attended by her niece, Mrs. Harry Hunter, as matron of honor who wore white

This was simply an attempt upon his part to tone up his case by trying to make out that it was 2½ quarts of creamery milk at 4 cents instead of two quarts of new milk at 5 cents, as all of his previous bills had before indicated.

We then wrote Mr. Worthley a letter of which the following is an exact copy:

Phillips, Maine, Jan. 27, 1911.
To L. A. Worthley, Avon, Me.
Dear Sir:— There is a small amount due you from the town of Phillips for milk furnished the Croteau family during a part of the time from Oct. 1, 1909 to the present date; any time that you present your bill we are willing to settle the same according to the customary price which is paid for skim milk.

In looking over the books of our town, we find, that according to our cancelled vouchers which bear your signature and according to the bills on file which were made out by you and presented to us, we have paid you for 1144 quarts of milk for the Croteau family the sum of $57.20 or at the rate of 5 cents per quart for the same delivered at your door, the above transactions covering a period of time from March 1st, 1909 to Oct. 1st, 1910. We have made due inquiries relative to the price usually paid for skim milk and we find that two cents per quart is all any one asks in this locality. We are willing, however, in order to settle the matter without suit having to be brought by us to allow you three cents per quart for the same, and going on that basis we find that we have overpaid you the sum of

PHILLIPS.

The first snow of the season here whitened the ground last Saturday evening. Beautiful weather was resumed Sunday.

Road Surveyor Whittemore is putting in a much needed sewer to drain lower Main street.

The Phonograph rejoices in new shingles overhead at the expense of the Masons and their goat.

The Ladies' Reading Circle organized at Mrs. Condit's Tuesday evening.

George Herbert Hewey sends in a dandelion and a strawberry blossom picked on the farm of his father in Avon.

Seven gallons of the beverages that cheer and inebriate are in the custody of our Caesar Toothaker, having been condemned, (probably as bad rum) for medical purposes.

Evening parties are now in order. MADRID.

Apples on the trees were badly frozen Saturday night.

Mrs. Charles Mooers, who was returning from Phillips Monday fell while getting into her wagon at the house of Isalah Chick, and dislocated a shoulder. She was attended by Dr. Toothaker.

FARMINGTON

HALLOWE'EN, F. H. S., 1914.

The sophomore class, F. H. S., give a Hallowe'en party to their friends at the High school hall, Friday evening, Oct. 27, 1911, one hundred seventy-five invitations having been sent out.

The very efficient committee, composed of the Misses Georgia May Coolidge, Louise Wentworth McLeary, Winnifred Gould, Marion Look and Margaret Moore have been very faithful in their work.

The teachers will act as chaperones.

The decorations are to be of green and white bunting draped over the electric lights. Jack o' lanterns, black cats and witches. A fortune teller will be ready to read the future to enquiring ones.

The invitations are triple folders of mottled cardboard, the first fold to be shown at the door and the middle fold contains the dance order of eight dances with extras. The last contains the invitation. It is sealed with a Jack o'lantern or other appropriate seal.

The music is to consist of violin, piano and trap drum.

Refreshments of new cider, apples, doughnuts, pop corn, peanuts, cake and cookies will be served. A very pleasant evening is anticipated.

Farmington, Maine, Oct. 23.—D. B. Blacknell and Miss Myrtle Barker of Rumford were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Small at the jail cottage.

LOCAL NOTES

Mrs. Evelyn Howland expects soon to go to Auburn for a several weeks' visit.

Last Saturday afternoon Miss Evelyn Jacobs celebrated her eighth birthday by entertaining the following Misses at her home: Roxie Davenport, Evangeline Reed, Iva Will, Linnie Kennedy, Sarah McKenzie, Clarice Davenport, Evelyn Pillsbury, Helen Bunnell and Gladys Toothaker. Refreshments of tarts, chocolate fingers, ice cream and a birthday cake, decorated with fancy candies and bearing eight candles, were served. A very pleasant afternoon was passed by the little ones.

C. E. Whitney of Farmington was in town this week on business.

DEATH OF DR. EDWARD PAYSON TURNER OF NEW VINEYARD.

Dr. Edward Payson Turner of New Vineyard, a member of the last legislature of Maine and a surgeon in New York City for a number of years up to seven or eight years ago, died Thursday night of last week at Stratton, whence he went on an automobile trip and was stricken with pneumonia.

Dr. Turner was a native of New Vineyard having been born on Nov. 16, 1854. He was educated in the public schools and at Westbrook Seminary, but did not take a college course securing his medical education in hospital work. For a number of years he was assistant surgeon on the New York elevated railroad. He started in politics as a democrat, but could not stand for Bryan and became a republican, by which party he was elected to the legislature.

Dr. Turner, who weighed considerably over 300 pounds, was a member of the famous Fat Men's Club of New England, and took an active part in the program of that organization on its great outing in Portland in 1909, where he was one of the fourteen biggest men, not one of whom weighed less than 300 pounds.

Dr. Turner owned a large stock breeding farm in New Vineyard. He was a great advocate of the Guernsey cow. His dairy was one of his prides, his herd being famous throughout the country. He also was an enthusiastic orchardist.

CHURCHES

Melvin Sherburne Hutchins, pastor.
Calendar for week ending Nov. 4.
Sunday, October 29, 10:45 morning worship, sermon "Lowered Standards." 11:45 Sunday school 7:30
evening worship, address, "Changing Human Nature."

Thursday, November 2, 7:30 P. M.
mid-week prayer meeting.

The subject of the sermon preached at the Union church Sunday morning by Rev. M. S. Hutchins was
"The Free Baptist Denomination."
The text, Heb. 11:33, "Who through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought
righteousness, obtained promises."

From "The Watchman" Mr. Hutchins read "On Thursday evening,
Oct. 5, 1911, a meeting was held in Ford Building, Boston, Mass., which is destined to be famous in the annals of Christianity in America.
Formally it marked the transfer of the missionary and publication interests of the Free Baptists to the appropriate Baptist corporations, accompanied by pledges of the hearty support and sympathy of the Free Baptists. But, in a larger sense, it was the first formal step since the primitive Christian church divided into East and West in the reunion of Christian denominations." There followed in detail a report of this meeting and at its close it was said that the genuine fervor of both denominations to make this union abound to the glory of God made a deep impression upon all present.

One hundred and thirty-one years ago, just after the close of the Revolutionary War when George Washington with other statesmen of the time were endeavoring to formulate a system of government that should meet the needs of the new nation,
a new religious interest was awakened, and Geo. Whitefield was preaching the gospel of freedom from formality and ceremonies and emphasizing the heart of individual experience.

The Congregationalist was then
the state church supported in part
by taxation of the several towns.
A newer denomination, the Baptist,
had come into the country teaching
that baptism should be by immersion; but otherwise having a theology
like that of the Congregationalist.
Both upheld the tenets of Calvin
teaching that from the beginning
some were elected to salvation and some ordained to damnation. Even for little children there was no hope unless they were among those elected to be saved.

Whitefield preached that God's free grace was sufficient to reach
every one who would accept it.
Among those who listened and were converted was a young man, Benjamin Randall. He was at first connected with the Congregationalists, afterward with the Baptists for
for whom he preached five years.
Not being able to support the theology of the state church, and seeing God's love reaching out to all,
in 1780 Benjamin Randall with his little church, the first Free Baptist church, began in New England the long process which has brought a truer knowledge of God, a sweeter conception of his love, his sympathy and his fatherhood. Other men joined in the work. They were unlettered men, for the most part,
and did not seek the cities or large towns; but wherever cross-roads
met, there they preached of God, and wherever cross-roads met, there were founded little churches. Because keeping from the larger places
the denomination did not become numerically strong.

Later there were three men in particular who pushed the work into larger fields, John Colby, David Marks going to Massachusetts.
Rhode Island, Pennsylvania and Ohio and Elias Hutchins in Ohio and North Carolina. There are four lines of work that may be given as claiming in a special way the activities of the denomination. The Free Baptists were the leaders in New England in the religious thought which discarded formality and coldness, and emphasized heart experience and the joy of the knowledge of God. To them in a great measure is due the change of New England
theology, from its teaching of a God stern, severe and cold, to that of a God of love whose abounding

grace was sufficient.

In the work of foreign missions
it early took a part, taking a field
in Orissa, India. Taking into consideration the comparative smallness of its membership, and the comparative poverty of its membership, its work has been very large.

To the Free Baptist denomination is due great honor and glory for its position upon the anti-slavery question. Other denominations were silent. Harriett Beecher Stowe, Frederick Douglass, Wendell Phillips, John P. Hale, James Abram Garfield and others have spoken and written in praise of the support
given the anti-slavery cause by the Free Baptists and their publication,
the Morning Star. In 1835 a meeting was holden in New York to decide upon the future course of the Morning Star, whose subscription list had lessened because, as some said, it had too much "pernicious political activity." There were gathered at that conference
representative men of the Free Baptists of the country. They loved their denomination and its welfare.
To stand by its principles at this time seemed to promise loss of power, of prosperity, of prestige.
These men discussed the situation
from early morning until noon, from noon until evening shadows came,
then on through the hours of night
until the light of the new day was breaking. Then they voted. Should the Morning Star continue its attitude and policy of warfare against human slavery? There was but one dissenting vote.

The history of Free Baptists in regard to education is interesting.
At first it seemed to them that the coldness and formality of some preachers versed in knowledge of Greek, of Hebrew, of Latin might be due to much learning, and they deemed warmth of heart and tender sympathy of more worth than education. But soon some began to see that the coldness came not from education. There was a growing wish to establish and foster educational institutions. Upon this rock the denomination split asunder, and another was formed. Three colleges, Bates, Keuka and Hillsdale were founded. Teachers went to the mountain regions of the south. They went among the freed slaves of Virginia. When you cross the forty-fifth parallel of latitude above Redington on the way to Rangeley you pass the northern boundary of old Virginia as it was first chartered.
So from her northern confines came
help for her enlightenment.

The pastor of a village church in Phillips felt his heart stirred to undertake educational work for the colored man in that place where was struck the first blow for his freedom. A young girl from Kingfield went forth to the same work. Then from the hills of Phillips went a young man, strong of heart and of brain, a young man whose soul was clean and pure. A. H. Morrell, Annie Dudley, and N. C. Brackett
called of God to work at Harper's Ferry and in Storer College wrought
that which has had meaning beyond telling for the negro.

And now the days of the Free Baptist denomination are ended. But is it dead? Is its work done? Lincoln has died, but is his work done?
Wherever liberty is bringing any cheer to the world Lincoln lives.
Wherever a blow is being struck to lift up the oppressed, Lincoln lives.

Aches and pains or rheumatism
are not permanently, but only temporarily, relieved by external remedies. Why not use an internal remedy—Hood's Sarsaparilla, which corrects the acidity of the blood on which rheumatism depends and cures
the disease?

Do we say Paul died at Rome? He laid the foundation for many a church, and he lives in his work.

The work of the Free Baptists can never die. It was a part of God's work. Those of us who have been from childhood surrounded by the spirit of their faith, whose ancestors
were numbered among their first members have a sense of bereavement. The denomination still lives.
In that triumphal day of the coming of the kingdom of God it will have a place. Wherever there is a struggle for human freedom, wherever there is an effort for the equalization of human blessings and joys, it lives. It has brought a new theology that has broadened and deepened and sweetened the conception of God. In the coming time when we realize more fully how near God
is, it will live in that knowledge.

The Maine State association will probably continue its existence as such for two or three years. This church may never lose its identity,
but as a denomination Free Baptists have ceased to be. But, wherever we are, and wherever we think upon the lessons of God's love, and of his plan for the blessing of man which they taught us, we may rejoice in the glorious history of the Free Baptists.

Summer in all its beauty portrayed in

The Sawyer Prints

The largest and most varied collection of Hand Painted Photographs of Maine scenery in New England may be seen at our studio, including local prints of Strong, Phillips and Stratton.

We shall be represented in Phillips by Mrs. Geo. B. Dennison; King-field by William P. Watson; Stratton
by Daisy H. McLain.

The grandeur of Northern Maine
is strikingly portrayed in the prints
of "Cathedral Woods," "Northern Maine" and "Mt. Bigelow" with its rugged contour of peaks against the sky.

Prints will be sent on approval by mail from our studio to responsible persons.

Practical Fashions

LADY'S DRESS.

Smart little one piece frocks are worn either with or without jackets, and our model offers an excellent design for one. It has the shirt waist effect of bodice and a plain three piece skirt. This style is suitable for cashmere, serge, zibeline, velveteen, ponge silk, linen, etc.

The pattern (5553) is cut in sizes 32 to 42 inches bust measure. Medium size requires 4 1/2 yards of 44 inch material.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

GIVES AID TO STRIKERS.

Sometimes liver, kidneys and bowels seem to go on a strike and refuse to work right. Then you need those pleasant little strike-breakers—Dr. King's New Life Pills—to give them natural aid and gently compel proper action. Excellent health soon follows. Try them. 25c at W. A. D. FIELD—CHEEVER.

The marriage of Miss Marguerite B. O. Cheever, daughter of Samuel W. Cheever, of 434 Broadway, to Elias Field, a lawyer of Boston, took place at All Saints' church, Brookline, on Wednesday at noon. Rev. Daniel Dulany Addison performed the ceremony.

The bride was attired in pearl gray broadcloth and black hat trimmed with white ostrich plumes. She was attended by Miss Frances A. Wilcocks, of Brookline, as maid of honor, who wore blue broadcloth with gold trimmings. Ralph Hallett, of South Boston, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Field will enjoy a tour to the White mountains and Quebec, and upon their return will be at home after January 1, 1912, at 6 Arborway Court, Forest Hills—Somerville Journal.

The Phillips relatives who were present were, Mrs. Mary Field, mother of the groom and his eldest brother, H. H. Field and wife. The guests included about 30 of the relatives of the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Field were remembered with beautiful and costly gifts.

Mr. Field is a native of Phillips and the son of Elias Field, Esq., deceased and Mrs. Mary Field. When he was very young his mother moved to Boston and he attended the Boston Latin school, Harvard College, and Harvard Law school and always won honors in his studies. After graduating he formed a partnership with Messrs. Wm. Murray and H. L. Brown, young lawyers, and this law firm is now well-known in and around Boston, as they have been very successful in their profession, and we predict for Mr. Field a brilliant future. His partner, Mr. Murray, who was also a classmate of his, was elected to Congress last year.

The bride is a most capable and efficient nurse and has been assistant superintendent at a private hospital in Gardner, Mass.

With many others Phillips friends join in congratulations and best wishes.

A Wrong Choice.

There is no act, nor option of act, possible, but the wrong deed or option has poison in it which will stay in your veins thereafter forever. Never more to all eternity can you be as you might have been had you not done that—chosen that. You have "formed your character," forsooth! No; if you have chosen ill, you have deformed it, and that forever!—Ruskin.

WHY HESITATE?

An Offer That Involves no Money Risk If You Accept It.

We are so positive our remedy will completely relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish it free if it fails.

Constipation is commonly caused by weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine. To expect a cure you must therefore tone up and strengthen those organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee. They are eaten like candy, and are particularly good for children. They seem to act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on the other organs. They do not purge or cause other inconvenience. We will refund your money if they do not overcome chronic or habitual constipation and thus aid to relieve the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments. Try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. Three sizes, 10c., 25c., and 50c. Sold only at our store.—The Rexall Store, W. A. D. Cragin, Phillips, Maine.

PLYMOUTH ROCKS ARE HARDY

Cross Between Black Java and American Dominique With Probably Other Asiatic Blood.

Plymouth Rocks, all things considered, are perhaps the most popular variety bred in this country at the present time. The barred, which is most raised, is commonly given as a cross between the Black Java and the American Dominique. Besides the Java other Asiatic blood has probably been used in making the breed. The Plymouth Rock is more like the Asiatic than the European chicken.

The greatest recommendation for the Plymouth Rock is the excellent growth made by the young chickens. In this quality they have no superior. The Plymouth Rock pullets are good layers, but as yearling hens are prone to turn the feed into fat rather than eggs.

One objection to the barred variety is the difficulty in keeping the breed true to the standard type. The pure breeds are required to have even and distinct bars of the same shade in male and female. These are difficult points to maintain and resort is often made to double matings or the keeping of two breeding pens, one to produce cockerels and the other pullets.

White and buff Plymouth Rocks are later products than the barred variety. Much of what has been said will apply to these also. The white variety is free from the color objection of the barred type, but the objection to the fattening tendency applies to hens of this variety perhaps more forcibly than to the barred. Buff Plymouth Rocks will average smaller than the other varieties of the breed. Although a solid color bird, they, like all buff breeds except the buff cochin, will be found difficult to breed of one color, owing to the tendency to possess black or white in the wings and tail.

To Cultivate Memory.

The best way to remember a thing is thoroughly to understand it, and often to recall it to mind. By reading continually with great attention, and never passing a passage without understanding and considering it well, the memory will be stored with knowledge, and things will recur at times when we want them, though we can never recollect the passages or from whence we draw our ideas.

Go Right At It

Friends and Neighbors in Phillips Will Show You How.

Get at the root of the trouble. Rubbing an aching back may relieve it. But it won't cure it. You must reach the root of it—the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills go right at it; Reach the cause; attack the pain. Have cured many Phillips people. Nathan B. Kennedy, Pleasant St., Phillips, Maine, says: "I have been a friend to Doan's Kidney Pills for many years. About six years ago I noticed that my kidneys were not acting just right. The kidney secretions began to pass too frequently and there was a constant, dull pain in my back. I often became dizzy and spots floated before my eyes. I knew that my kidneys were at fault and I tried in vain to get something that would help me. I finally read of Doan's Kidney Pills and getting a supply at Cragin's Drug Store, began their use. The results were gratifying. In little over a month I was as free from kidney trouble as if I had never had it."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

KEEP TOOLS FROM RUSTING

Combination of Graphite, Tallow and Gun Camphor, Melted Together, is Excellent.

(By H. F. FERGUSON.)

Any steel tool will rust if exposed to damp air, yet I have found that tools subjected to the following treatment every three months will not rust unless actually thrown on the ground or exposed to hard rain. Take two parts each of graphite and tallow and one part gum camphor; melt together, and if not soft enough to form a stiff paste add more tallow or lard. Remove all rust from the steel surface, wipe dry and apply the paste. Let it remain on for twenty-four hours, then rub dry. Unless the tool is needed even longer than one day will be still better for the tool to be covered with the preparation. The above preparation has the effect of a coating of oil though every vestige has apparently been removed for months.

REED'S MILL

Reed's Mill, Maine, Oct. 23.—The Ladies' Circle was very pleasantly entertained in an all day session on Oct. 18, by Mrs. Eva Davenport and her daughter, Miss Gertrude. They will meet in an all day session on Nov. 1, with Mrs. Lydia Dunham. It is hoped there will be a good attendance as this is the annual meeting for the election of officers. The schools in town, with the exception of the village school, will close this week for a week's vacation.

There was no meeting or Sunday school at the church Sunday on account of the rain.

Mothers, Help Your Children!

It is a fact, which mothers often fail to realize, that the common ills of children can be safely and quickly cured. It is a fact too often overlooked, that mothers can easily help their children past the many dangers of childhood into the perfect physical fitness of early manhood and womanhood.

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

The Family Laxative and Worm Medicine

is the means that mothers should use to help their children. This wonderful home remedy—60 years a standard—never fails to expel worms, and waste matter, leaving the blood pure, the stomach sweet, the bowels regular and the whole system strong and healthy. Give Dr. True's Elixir when the little ones are peevish, irritable and sickly—take it for your own ills also.

Sold by all dealers—35c, 50c, $1.00.
