TWICE-A-WEEK

ALL THE HOME NEWS

BY THE ROCKLAND PUBLISHING CO.

Your labor only may be sold; your soul must not—Bucklin.

If the treasury department's plans for redistricting the customs territory of the United States are approved by Congress the number of custom houses will be reduced from 124 to 73. Many of the reductions will be in the west. Maine's 14 custom houses will be reduced to 4. Massachusetts from 11 to 4.

President Taft has signed the campaign publicity bill. The bill requires that all candidates for the U. S. Senate or House, either in general elections, primaries or nominating conventions, shall file statements of their expenses not more than 15 nor less than 10 days before the election or nomination. Expenses of candidates for the U. S. Senate are limited to $10,000 and those of candidates for the House to $5,000, and candidates are required to say what positions or honors they have promised in an effort to influence votes. Personal traveling expenses and official fees do not have to be listed. The bill applies only to Congressional elections.

Plans for President Taft's coming trip through the West and to the Pacific coast practically are completed. The journey will be almost as extensive as that taken by the President on his famous "swing around the circle" in 1909, when he traveled more than 43,000 miles and visited 33 States. He will break ground for the Panama canal exposition at San Francisco, make several sows of addresses and attempt to scale the four thousand feet of Mount Rainier's precipitous slope. According to the present arrangement the President will be gone six weeks. In that time it is expected he will make close to 200 speeches, from platforms, from the rear end of his private car, and at other places not on the regular schedule. Republican leaders look upon the trip as the most important, politically, that the President has mapped out since he entered the White House. He will go through the states of the West in which they recognize the domination of the progressive Republicans who are counted to oppose his re-nomination next year.

License vs. Prohibition.

New Jersey has approximately the same number of people as has the two states—Maine and Kansas. New Jersey is a saloon-riden state and Maine and Kansas are prohibition. New Jersey has 61,755 un-mortgaged homes; Maine and Kansas 192,046. New Jersey has assessed valuation of real and personal property of $918,418,741; Maine and Kansas $2,876,068,999. New Jersey has 6,075 insane and Maine and Kansas 3,519. New Jersey has an average school attendance of 289,167; Maine and Kansas 384,387. New Jersey has 9 colleges and universities with 3,214 students; Maine and Kansas have 15 colleges and universities with 7,604 students. New Jersey has 11,605 liquor dealers, including drug-gists; Maine and Kansas have 3,694.

TO THE FRIENDS OF MAINE.

Dear Friends of the old Pine Tree State, let us settle the question. Shall we have liquor license, (or local option, as they call it, to fool the people) or shall we vote "No" on the 14th of September, and keep it out of our State? Who is it that wants license? Is it the people of Maine, or is it the liquor dealers and those who are fooled by them? Is it our ministers, our teachers, our temperance workers? Is it our brave national leader, Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, who urges you to let license come into our grand old State—Maine, the flower of all the States, because of her taking the first stand for temperance and holding to her principles the longest.

Would you give it up to those who would rob you of all you hold most dear? If they work for license they do it to sell more liquor than has been sold here before. Have you any sons or daughters whom you want to buy this extra amount of liquor? For it must be sold. That is why they bring it here. Girls drink in license states, as well as young men and boys—for they break the law and sell liquor to children. In license states many of the saloons are made fine with flowers, palms and music so as to make the young think it is a respectable place, when it is only fit for the demon of the hot place.

The Bible says, look not on the wine when it is red, for it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder. Some serpent's sting is very poisonous and cannot be cured. We had better let the poisonous stuff alone. Keep it out of Maine. The very ones who are preaching license and crying "Let the people govern themselves" are the ones who make it and bring it into our State. They are criminals, because they are breaking our laws and trying to destroy our homes and loved ones by their selfish greed for money, the root of all evil. Shall we license these evils, give them the reins, so that the homes of the people won't be safe? No! I say a thousand times, no! H. R. B.

What There Is In It? The saloon-keepers all may be very nice men, but what is there in it for me? I blow in my money and wake in the pen, so what is there in it for me? Of course I'm as welcome as flowers in May when I come to the joint to squander my pay. But I wake in the cooler the very next day. And that's all there is in it for me.

My thirst costs me more than my clothes and my food. And that's all there is in it for me. I'm bound to vote "dry" on election day sure. For what is there in it for me? Why, new self-respect and a chance for my life. New clothes for the kids and a home for my wife.

The beginning of peace, the end of all strife—And that's what there is in it for me!

MRS. MARY HARRIS ARMOR

Editor of The Courier-Gazette—

Never have I listened to a more eloquent speech than that of Mrs. Armor at Postoffice square Monday night. It framed in living words the idea of eloquence given by Daniel Webster: "The costly ornament of words, the studied contrivance of speech, shock and disgust men where vital rights are concerned." "Action!" "Action!" "Action!" are the qualities which move the soul. Never were truths and fact, plith and point, marshalled more majestically or more inspiring.

All this from a woman from Georgia, whose father, by the attractive outfit of a saloon or saloons, so wasted his substance in riotous living that she was deprived of the sacred right of childhood to receive an education. A woman from Georgia—a State to which Daniel Webster addressed these words: "Hold on, my friends, to the constitution and the government established under it." And the same Webster, in the same State, in the very town of Macon, near the date of the above, addressed a letter to Mark A. Cooper of that city, containing these words, which same words were repeated in this manner: "Men more important than things—Men are more important than things." Beneath the whole contention heaves this eternal truth. Parties are taking a new alignment and the new South is leading in a royal good manner.

Why do some people in Maine condemn their own State in fact, if not in verse?

Why do the same people boast of the great saloon victory in the huge State of Texas?

Napoleon once declared after a doubtful victory: "One more such victory would ruin my army." The "model saloon" papers of the West proclaim the same conclusion.

A WAR OF HATS

Small Hats Will Come Out Victorious Says the Millinery Trade Review.

The merry war is waged between large and small hats, and apparently the latter will be the victor, for the great majority have small brims, and it is by the brim that a hat is judged, large or small. In height they are enormous at least—veritable towers, some leaning one way and some another, and others that are upright. Then there are pokes, which are entirely different in every particular, and have a way of being quite flat and jutting out to a great distance at the back. These are not heavily trimmed as a rule, but with this exception hats are very heavily trimmed.

There may not be such a variety of trimming used as formerly, but what is used is used with no thought of stint. Everything is enormous, wings, feathers, bows, ornaments—irrespective of the size of the hat on which it appears. Any contrivance to accentuate height is resorted to. Naturally the more conservative are going to want modifications of this mode, but as many argue, why bother to import hats that are not ultra—they can always be Americanized. Crowns are very prominent both as to shape and importance, for on the crown the great majority of trimming appears, the brims being left free, indeed, often there are no brims.

As is to be expected, there are many draped crowns, even very high ones, and these are higher nearly always at the back than elsewhere. Brims turn up often at this point and occasionally are pointed in the front, but these are about the only lines they assume. There is a fad for white or light crowns on dark brims. Bengali silk is used for many of the draped effects and, of course, velvet both in the plain and uncut variety. There are also fur crowns, it being expected that fur as a hat trimming will be very strong, although there are not many all fur hats being shown. One hat, a very small one, however, was greatly admired. It has the steple crown and is made of mole skin and edged with ermine, a green wing and handsome dull gold and green ornament being used to trim. Mole skin seems to be greatly favored, as does seal skin, and these two pelts have brought into favor the colors peculiar to them. There are many very dark hats—hats that appear black at first glance and on inspection turn out to be midnight blue, gunmetal, seal or maroon.

There are all sorts of high-standing wings, some rather tightly clustered and finished at their base with a large head, usually an owl. While one sees these effects in plain and fancy colors, the majority are snowy white, as are many of the handsomest wings. At the openings, white wings on black or dark hats were very numerous. There are many amber wings and fancies being shown, not a few having touches of black or white, and many in the kingfisher blue wings, not shaded but in two decided colors. A novelty is a wing partially covered with velvet, pasted flat on the wing, the feathers protruding from it.

This season the hats were wearable as well as being novel, a fact which adds to their value. One of the very smartest hats shown, a creation of Louison's was of a large velvet pressed shape, rather flat as far as the shape was concerned, but trimmed with a spreading coque novelty which covered the entire top to within two inches of the brim edge, a bunch of the feathers being bound tightly together and springing out and up from the crown in a manner difficult to describe, but perfectly stunning in its effect. Coque was also used to trim a poke of bright purple beaver, by Germaine, the feathers being introduced at the back. Large wings and shower effects were used cleverly on some models, as was a novelty ribbon in topaz satin, having a hair line of black, the ribbon being plaited into a conventional ornament which was used at the base of the wings.—The Millinery Trade Review.

The United States navy is about to astonish the world again with a new gun having a calibre of 16 inches, which will make the present world-beating 14-inch guns obsolete. The plans for the new gun have been made by Rear Admiral Twining, chief of the bureau of ordnance. The admiral said Thursday that the length of the gun would be 67 feet. The 14-inch gun is 52 feet long and about 8 feet in diameter. The 14-inch gun fires a shell that weighs 1,400 pounds, and can rip the armor off a ship at a distance of 11 miles. The 16-inch terror is to carry a shell of the enormous weight of 2,000 pounds, and will be effective at 15 miles, thus proving that the horizon cannot put a limit to modern naval science. A somewhat greater ship than is now projected is the necessary consequence of guns of the size contemplated by Rear Admiral Twining.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

Old fashioned poetry, but oh so good.

—Isaac Walton.

'Not Death, But Love.'

I thought once how Theocritus had sung Of the sweet years, the dear and wish'd-for years, Who each one in a gracious hand appears To bear a gift for mortals, old or young; And, as I muse in his unique way, I saw, in gradual vision through my tears, The sweet, sad years, the melancholy years, Those of my own life, who by turns had mine, A shadow across me. Straightway I was ware, So weeping, how a mystic shape had moved, Behind me, and drew me backward by the hair; And a voice said in mastery while I strove, 'Guess now, who holds thee?' 'Death,' I said. But there, The silver answer rang—'Not death, but Love.' —E. B. Browning

Word reached here Wednesday that the gasoline yacht Donsella owned by Edw. Ware of Waterville, had been stolen from its moorings near the Ware cottage at Spruce Head. Commissioner Simmons has commenced work on the state road on South Main street working northward from the South Thomaston line. The appropriation by the state and city calls for the construction of 2,000 feet. Chips and gravel are being used in the construction, with asphaltum as a binder. The committee on highways has charge of the job.

An automobile containing four prominent Maine Democrats passed through the city Wednesday afternoon enroute from Augusta to Crescent Beach. In the party were Hon. Fred Emery Beane, one of the newly-appointed associate justices of the supreme court, his son, who ran for Mayor of Hallowell last spring; Warden Wiggins of the state prison and Sheriff Charles M. The speaker at Oakland Park Sunday will be L. Wilbur Messer, general secretary of the Chicago Y. M. C. A., a man who has been brought closely into touch with the license system of the Middle West, and who can discuss the issue with the standpoint of authority. Mr. Messer, though an "outsider," has a direct interest in the outcome of Maine's election as he spends nearly half of each year in our state. He has a summer cottage at Crescent Beach.

Borers have been getting in their deadly work on the shade trees surrounding the court house, and one has already been killed outright. The county commissioners have engaged landscape gardener George Cates to attend to the other trees, and he has found many evidences of their inroads. A chemical solution is poured into the holes made by the borers, after which cement is applied. Mr. Cates at the same time, is trimming the trees of their useless limbs, a form of improvement which might be done to advantage in all parts of the city. The borers have been working on the court house trees seven or eight years, about the time that the Democrats have been in complete possession—although this is supposed to be merely a coincidence.

There will be a big time next Monday evening in post office square weather permitting. Ensign Corbett, the officer in charge of the local Salvation Army corps, has made arrangements for an impromptu band concert, including vocal and instrumental music and singing, to be given by the Provincial Staff Band of Boston. The band is returning to Boston from a six days' campaign at Bangor. It will leave the boat at Camden and rejoin it at Rockland and between times the "boys" will render some stirring music in the square. Every bandman is a Beach enthusiast and a working man. All have their different trades, but their evenings and week-ends are given freely as bandmen to keep along the army's fight against sin. Not one man receives money for his services—these are given voluntarily and just now being vacation time they are spending it in the Master's cause in Maine.

AS HE SOWED

So Is Alphonso Y. Stevens Reaping—
Fined $50 and Costs in Newport, R. I. and Must Answer to Boston Authorities.

Alphonso Y. Stevens, the Rockport school teacher indicted by M. C. A. secretary, who is alleged to have forged the name of Ralph W. Carleton to five checks amounting to about $350, was arrested in Newport, R. I. There he was arraigned on the charge of larceny and fined $50 and costs.

Thursday County Attorney Howard received the following letter from James R. Crowley, chief of police in Newport:

"Dear Sir:—Alphonso Y. Stevens, alias J. A. Shaw, was arraigned before the District Court on Tuesday, Aug. 22, 1911, on a warrant charging that on Aug. 21, 1911, he committed the crime of larceny to the extent of sixty dollars from Jacob Jacobs. Stevens went to the clothing shop of Jacobs and presented a check drawn to the order of A. Y. Sham, signed R. W. Carleton, endorsed by T. W. Freeman, clerk of the Aquidneck House, where Stevens was stopping, on the Camden Savings Bank of Rockport, Maine, dated Aug. 8, 1911. Shortly afterwards Jacobs saw Stevens in the custody of one of our officers.

"Stevens was much affected by his apprehension—he admits that he has laid down six checks of the same date, bank, signer and amount.

"I have requested the Providence Police Department through Deputy Chief Inspector Nickerson, to have a warrant issued for his arrest as a fugitive from justice.

"Stevens was fined fifty dollars and costs, amounting in all to about sixty dollars and in default of payment will remain in the Providence County Jail, Howard, R. I., for about two months. We have the check passed on Jacobs, and one other like it found on Stevens."

While this apparently disposes of the case for two months, County Attorney Howard has other information to the effect that Stevens will be taken in charge by the Boston police, and that he will not escape their grip so easily. The Knox county charges will be preferred later.

Damage sustained by the three-master schooner J. S. Lamprey, Capt. M. D. Cole, in an encounter with a gale off Matinicus Rock last Friday night was repaired at Machiasport before the schooner proceeded with her cargo of coal, bound from New York for Sackville, N. B. The flying jib, then the main jib were carried away and while the schooner labored in heavy seas her seams opened and she began to leak freely. Had it not been for a steam pump, the crew probably could not have kept the craft from filling and sinking. Capt. Cole describes it as one of the heaviest blows he had experienced for a long time.

ROCKLAND NOT ALONE

Bangor Finds a Similar Decline in Its Shipping Industry.

The Rockland correspondent of the Boston Globe in mourning the decline of the shipping industry of that city says:

"If the statement were made that no other port on the New England coast had suffered so much as Rockland from the decline of the merchant marine it would probably be looked upon in the light of an exaggeration. Yet the evidence is not lacking to substantiate such an undesirable claim. John W. Crocker states that when he was deputy collector of customs in 1871 there were 651 vessels owned and documented in Rockland.

"Similar statistics compiled today would show considerably less than one-twentieth of that number, and the new city directory soon to be published will show an equally lamentable falling off in the number of masters who claim a residence in this city. The practical extermination of the Rockland vessel fleet may be accounted for in part by the fact that lime is now shipped to Boston and New York in barges, while the vessels in which it was formerly carried were sold to other ports."

Rockland has suffered a loss that is pretty general to all the coast towns and cities of the state. The decline of the shipping has generally been accompanied by a loss in population. Rockland, oddly enough, according to the census figures, remains with exactly the same population of 20 years ago, 8174.

Bangor notes a decline in its shipping industry similar to that of Rockland. At the present time the total number of sailing vessels owned and documented in Bangor is 44 with a total gross tonnage of 9,355, while there are seven steam vessels with a tonnage of 2,643. It is impossible to give the figures of 40 years ago as all such records were lost in the fire but those who have been in the shipping business all their lives say that in 1871 there were about 250 sailing vessels owned and documented in Bangor.

According to the report of the harbor master in 1871 vessels to the number of 2714 arrived in Bangor. There were 48 foreign arrivals, and 64 foreign clearances. In 1910 the arrivals numbered 1,161, of which 520 were steamers. There were two foreign arrivals and the same number of foreign clearances.

The decline has been steady and continuous. In the past decade the number of vessels owned in Bangor has been diminished by practically one-half. Some have been lost, others sold, and there has been almost no building. The residents of middle age or a little more well remember when the river from the toll bridge down was lined with vessels on both sides swinging stern into the wharves and there was just room for the steamers to pass between. It was not unusual for half a dozen large vessels to be loading shooks for abroad at one time.

Unfortunately all this is changed and the river is often entirely destitute of shipping. The shipping industry, so far as Bangor is concerned, appears to be passed with a return very doubtful. There may be some hope of a revival if Congress ever reaches that point of wisdom that will cause the giving of aid to the merchant marine but in the meantime the shipping industry is at the point of stagnation—Bangor Commercial.

Railroad Man Writes Remarkable Letter.

In 1903 and 1904, I was a terrible sufferer for about five months with kidney and bladder trouble. I could not sleep nights and was obliged to get up ten or fifteen times to urinate. I passed mucus and blood continually. One doctor said I was going into consumption and gave me up to die. Had two other doctors but received no help from either of them and am sure I would have been in my grave had I not seen your advertisement in the "Daily Eagle Star". After taking several bottles of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root I was entirely cured.

In the last two years I have been a railroad fireman and have passed two examinations for my kidneys successfully so that I know that my kidneys are in excellent condition now as a result of your great preparation.

Yours very truly,
GEORGE KENSLEY,

109 1/2 Thirtieth Ave., South, Minneapolis, Minn.

THAT AWFUL BACKACHE

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and an amazing good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have the backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing will do this so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

Domestic Science Will be Introduced at Once into the Maine State Normal Schools.

In compliance with the terms of the act to encourage industrial education passed by the last Legislature the trustees of the state normal schools have taken steps to introduce immediately into the several normal schools courses in domestic science.

Courses in manual training are already in operation in all of the state normal schools. It is the purpose of the trustees to extend the manual training course in the Gorham Normal School one year so as to afford an opportunity to persons who may desire to qualify as directors in that branch.

The course in household arts in Farmington Normal School will be so extended as to provide opportunity for persons who wish to qualify as directors of domestic science. A general director of broad experience has been engaged to supervise the course. Under the direction of the state superintendent of schools the director will be at the service of local school authorities desiring advice relative to the introduction of this course.

The course at Farmington will cover three years' work. The aim is to make it practical and applicable, not only in towns and villages, but in rural districts as well. The first years' work will consist of Elementary Sewing, Garment Making, Textiles, Elementary Cooking and Table Service. The second years' work consists of Advanced Cookery, Menu Making, Marketing, Laundry Work and Dressmaking.

Students having taken the two years' course or its equivalent and found to be specially fitted for work in domestic science, may take the third years' course, thus fitting themselves to be domestic science teachers.

Actual practice in teaching will be given in the model classes of the Normal School.

Amalite
ROOFING
It Needs No Painting

AMALITE has a real mineral surface; it needs no paint to protect it. In rain and sun and snow and hail, Amalite takes care of itself. It needs no coddling; there is no maintenance cost. You lay it and leave it.

The mineral surface is durable, permanent, absolutely waterproof, unaffected by climate, insoluble in water, not injured by smoke.

Amalite is easy to lay. No skilled labor is required. You simply unroll it on the roof, and nail it down with nails which we supply to you. Cement the laps with the adhesive cement which we also supply free packed in the center of the roll.

Amalite costs no more than the kind of roofings that require constant painting. You get twice as much weight of roofing for your money as you do with other roofings.

Sample free on request. Address nearest office.

Everjet Elastic Paint

APRON AND RUG OPENING

The opening of the People's Apron and Emblem Rug Manufactory in Levensaler Block, Thomaston, has attracted a lot of people and all have been delighted with the splendid line of goods shown there by Mr. Handy and the fine material used and excellence of the workmanship in the manufacture. He has aprons of all kinds and styles and durability is the marked characteristic of each.

It is impossible to describe all the things and the only way to find out what a line he has is for the people to visit the store themselves. There are 30 different lines of aprons alone.

The line of emblem rugs too is a splendid one and must be seen to be appreciated. Mr. Handy has put extra time and labor in the manufacture of his aprons believing that the public will appreciate the extra work and the demand for these goods will grow.

We advise everyone especially the ladies to visit this opening and look over these goods for themselves.

Will be in Thomaston two weeks or more.

Attack Like Tigers

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Calif., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at W. H. Kittredge, Rockland; R. L. Robinson Drug Co., Thomaston; G. W. ### THEY GOT BACK ALIVE

But It Was a Strenuous Week Which Rockland Firemen Put in at Bristol, R. I.—An Exchange of Gifts, a Genuine Rhode Island Clam Bake and Other Sidehills.

(Written by Sheriff Tolman)

In my former article I referred to the fact that the deer's head and marble tablet had been left in Rockland. On Monday Johnny Mealey showed up with it. It was thought advisable to have someone come right along rather than to trust to any delays that might occur.

Wednesday morning the Hooks and guests were shown over the Bristol Rubber Works where one concern employs 1800 hands. They visited every department, were shown the process from taking the crude rubber, passing it through a machine by a cutting and grinding process, then mixing with lime sulphur, whitening and tar. Then it is rolled and the rubber of commerce is produced. This concern manufactures a great variety of goods—boots, overshoes, fire and garden hose, elastic for men and ladies' wear, and also druggists goods, water bags, bottles, nipples, etc., etc. Simon hooked a rubber cap, but none of the other boys were quite so successful. Every visitor who wished to brought away a sample of the crude and manufactured rubber, and every attention possible was shown to the "boys."

Capt. Coggeshall and members of the "Hydes" escorted the crowd to the "Star Theatre" for the afternoon's entertainment, which consisted of moving pictures, vaudeville acts and singing, much the same as we have at home. Among the artists was Clarence Bonner, who was associated with the late Robert Crockett in Rockland for three years as a singer of illustrated songs at Farwell opera house. He has a warm place in his heart for Rockland, and did all he could to help entertain by singing and story-telling every day and evening we were in Bristol. Thursday he donned a "Hyde" uniform and marched with the boys.

Wednesday afternoon while the entertainment was in progress a little incident occurred which shows the constant care and kindness we were receiving every minute we were in town. Philip Brady and Capt. Coggeshall held a consultation and soon waiters appeared with large trays filled with dishes heaped with ice cream. It was a hot afternoon and we all appreciated it. Passing out the captain stood at the door with a box of cigars and all who cared to had a smoke on the way back to the hotel.

In the evening we met at the Hydes hall. A mysterious looking object was on the center table, covered with the stars and stripes. We knew what it was and I think many of our hosts thought that something was up. On calling to order Capt. Fowle uncovered the object, which proved to be the deer's head and a marble tablet which were presented to the Hydes with a few appropriate remarks. Capt. Coggeshall feelingly replied. F. C. Blackington was then introduced and made an elaborate speech, telling of the fraternal feeling that has existed between the two companies for years. "This was more speaking and then a line of march was taken up. The whole fire department of Bristol, accompanied by a band, passed along the principal streets. Red fire rockets and roman candles lighted our way to the town hall, where a grand ball was given to us by the fire department.

Jim had been my marching companion about all of the time when we were in line but on this occasion Col. Bailey was opposite me with flames marching with Col. Cheeseman. The invited guests were divided up among the town officers it seems. Arriving at the hall the visitors were escorted through a line of Bristol firemen drawn up on each side of the entrance and raised caps who then followed them in. It was managed very nicely. Everything went like clockwork. Reaching the hall all stood in line while Capt. Coggeshall in behalf of the Hydraulics Company presented to the American Company a beautiful gold lined, silver trumpet. Capt. Fowle responded, followed by F. C. Blackington, after which the grand march was formed, some of our boys showing up well and having some of the pretty girls of Bristol as their partners.

It was hot but the natives didn't seem to mind it. Many of our fellows at the time were under the weather. Sid laid abed all day Wednesday and ate but little. Our landlord had a special table set for the invalids occupied by a time by McIntosh, Cross, Palmer, Niles and Tolman, where crackers, boiled rice, hot and scaled milk were served. Barney was also on the sick list, but I did not see him at this table.

Thursday morning we boarded the steamer "Sagamore" for Fall River. We had the band with us and music galore. T. S. McIntosh was on hand feeling better. At Fall River we marched a short distance to the trolley station and were off for New Bedford to the big firemen's muster. It was a fine road and is called the "gee whiz" line, on account of the speed they make. The engine had been sent on the day before. We arrived in New Bedford about 9:30. The streets were lined with people. The houses and big stores and blocks were decorated with bunting. But my wasn't it hot! At 10:30 the line was formed. There were some 40 fire companies in line with as many bands. Music on every corner. A large carriage was provided for the invited guests. Five large carriages preceded us containing the chief engineers of Massachusetts and Rhode Island cities, the board of judges and other distinguished visitors. The line passed a large receiving stand on which stood Mayor Ashley and members of the city government.

I was fortunate enough to receive an invitation to ride in our carriage, the fifth in the line. It was occupied by T. S. McIntosh, Sandy, Manson, Jam Donohue and myself. Before we started Sandy purchased a parasol that they were selling on the street—a fancy affair of red, white and blue and wanted all of us to have one. Jim said, "those are for kids, Sandy, the latter" "they will be a good thing for us this hot day!" Sid thought the fellow charged too much, 25 cents each. It ended by Sandy buying one for each of us. We also had small flags of green and blue attached to canes with the inscription "Bristol, R. I." on it that we decorated the carriage with. Well, say! We attracted more attention than anyone else in the line. It must have looked funny to see for full-grown men with those little parasols over their heads, but we received applause and laughter all along. We put them down for a time and no one noticed our team. But when we put them up they sat up and took notice. We made a great hit, especially with the colored people along the streets.

One thing I noticed, the engines were not decorated as they used to be when we had firemen's musters in Rockland years ago. Certainly bunting and flowers give them a much nicer appearance. The one that took the first prize for the best appearance was the Watchmacker, the old Gen. Berry, formerly of Rockland, now banded in East Providence. This company also took the second prize at the trial, throwing a stream of 231 feet. The first prize went to the "Hancock Company," which made a little over 234 feet. Many of the Rockland firemen had a fraternal feeling for the old tub, and some of them helped work the brakes when she won out. She is an almost sure winner at these contests, having won eight out of 10 trials.

At the park we found the Bristol tent pitched with big letters on the roof that could be seen across the grounds. There were boxes and baskets piled up in the center, having a big supply of food and drink, sandwiches, doughnuts, and cheese, crackers, bread, several kegs of beer, a dozen large cans of hot coffee, sarsaparilla, ginger ale, etc., etc. Here we made our headquarters for the day and waited for our time to play. Capt. Coggeshall thought that he would have the fourth place but it proved to be the 32d and it was five o'clock before the boys had a chance to exercise their muscles. Every available man went on the brakes, but the best we could do was 194 feet and did not win a prize. But this was much better than many of the other machines had done. The Hydes were above the average and our captain said that he was perfectly satisfied. They had entered the contest solely for the benefit of the Rockland boys, and for the purpose of giving them a chance to attend an old-fashioned muster. We reached Fall River about dusk, and were given a nice supper at a large restaurant, Col. Bailey taking charge of the checks. None of us were allowed to spend a cent. About 7:30 the "Sagamore" came in with a large crowd from Fall River that had been on a picnic at Rocky Point. We went on board and were back in Bristol an hour later. The band played, there was singing and dancing on board and another day was gone.

An air ship was seen during the passage in the direction of Providence for more than a half hour, when it changed its course and disappeared. Galvin borrowed the captain's glasses and we took a look, but about all we could tell was that the two lights moving steadily along until we lost them.

A tired crowd reached the hotel that night. The next morning many of the company dropped out and began the journey home. But those who stayed said that Friday was the best day of all. On Col. Bailey's farm, about two miles north of Bristol, was held an old-fashioned Rhode Island clam bake. It was a revelation to our boys. Many of them had seen nothing like it. On one table and at the same time were cooked clams, lobsters, Irish and sweet potatoes, corn, sausage and dressing, and all of the most delicious flavor. "Cub" Ellms laughed so loud and ate so much that he fell over backwards from the table and had to be fanned to be brought to. This was a big ball game. It was called at 3 o'clock by umpire J. F. Galvin of Bristol. The Rockland team won by a score of 24 to 16. The team was made up as follows: D. Sullivan, pitcher; Charles McWhinney, catcher; E. Ingraham, first base; John Marks, second base; Daniel Munroe, 3d base; Alphonso Rich, short stop; George Flint, Angus McLoud and Simon Hart, fielders. Hart was put off the field for putting up an argument with the umpire. Home runs were made by McWhinney and Flint. Simon made a home run, but dropped and was exhausted at the plate. Fon Rich came so near making a home run that he sent home a telephone message saying that he should stop another week. Auto races were then held on the race track and 98 persons were fed on the place with little trouble.

Friday evening they were entertained by the Defiance Company, with a fine concert, refreshments, speeches, story telling, etc.

Saturday forenoon the Hooks were about town and went through another rubber factory which employed about 600 hands. I think The Courier-Gazette a year ago told its readers something of the town of Bristol. Its chief industry is the manufacture of rubber goods. The several mills employ about 3000 persons. They have one newspaper published here The Courier-Gazette, twice a week. Its population is about the same as Rockland, rising to 10,000. It is governed by firemen termed the Council. Its rate of taxation is 14 mills and they raise about $90,000 which pays all expenses. Within a year or two a wealthy man, a citizen of the town, has built and presented to the town one of the best, if not the best equipped, school buildings in New England. Mr. Colt, the donor, is a manufacturer of rubber goods and it is named the Colt memorial building. The estimated cost at first was $40,000. It was finished at a cost of nearly $300,000. It is two stories in height, built of white marble and has everything found in the fittings and furnishings of an up-to-date school. Philip Brady is the secretary of the Board which manages the institution. He is a very pleasant gentleman who has given the most of his time during the week to look after the interests of the "Hooks" and their guests. He showed us over the building. It is lighted by electricity and heated by steam. The desks and chairs are of the most substantial character. Its chemical laboratory is supplied with the latest appliances for making experiments with electricity, water, air and fire. Its blackboards are of the best black marble. They teach photography, also, in all its branches. In the shorthand department all the leading typewriting machines are found. It has the implements and outfits for teaching the boys architecture, carpentry, etc. Everything of all kinds of work that is taught in the best technical schools. The citizens of Bristol are proud of this building and they should be. It offers inducements that no other town can to settle among them. Why can't some public-spirited man who has the means do the same for Rockland?

Well, we are near the end of our tale, and are about to leave the shores of beautiful Narragansett bay. It came too soon, although it was a strenuous week, and the most of the fellows are pretty tired. There is one other gift that I almost forgot, a loving cup presented to the "Hooks" by the members of the King Philip company. It is beautiful and a present that will be remembered and cherished. Saturday noon after dinner the Hooks were escorted to the station by the Hydes. Farewells were said, hands were shaken, and as we were shed by the pretty maidens of Bristol who were parting with the boys of the Pine Tree State for a long time. Three cheers were

When plays have served their purpose of runs in New York and the larger cities, runs of a single week up to an entire season, it is quite the custom for managers to organize cheaper companies to tour the one night stands, but in the case of "Madam X" this custom does not apply, for both the author and the producer who control the American and English rights, are very insistent in performances that will realize their standard of excellence, and that standard is a very high one. This secures to the public the advantage of knowing before-hand the quality of the offering and likewise secures the management a very big audience when "Madam X" is played here next Monday night. There will be cars to Thomaston, Warren, Camden and Crescent Beach.

WORK SHOES

Trust Taxes Workingman's Shoes

Leather Trust Cuts Quality—Four Profits Force High Price

If there is any man in this country who ought to get good, honest shoes at an honest price it is the workingman.

Yet what happens when he buys the average shoe for himself or his family?

Instead of a shoe that protects his feet properly for the work he has to do—he gets a poor, weak thing that breaks down, cracks and leaks, loses its fit and comfort.

Adulterated Leather in Trust-Made Work-Shoes

The shoe goes back on him because the leather is weak—tanned by a cheap, hasty "process" by the Leather Trust—"weighted" with adulterants to swell the profits of the Trust.

For those low-grade shoes he pays an outrageously high price—because the Leather Trust fixes the price of the leather to suit itself—and because the shoes carry four needless profits—

Profits to the Hide Trust, the Leather Trust, the Leather Jobber and the Shoe Jobber.

The Only Work-Shoes Independent of the Leather Trust

Why doesn't the shoe manufacturer buy good leather?

Man alive, he can't! The Trust controls the tanning industry of America. The ordinary manufacturer has got to take Trust-tanned leather or shut his factory down.

There is only one shoe factory in this country that is independent of the Leather Trust. That concern is Endicott, Johnson & Co., and they make the most dependable, sturdy work-shoes in the United States.

Shoes for the farmer, for the miner, for the bricklayer, for the teamster—for all heavy work and wet work outdoors and indoors.

They get good, old-fashioned leather because they tan it themselves in their own tanneries. They are the only shoemakers in the world who tan every pound of leather they put into their shoes.

Wonderful Endicott-Johnson Leather

Endicott-Johnson Work-Shoes are made of leather tanned and finished expressly for work-shoe purposes—

Chrome-tanned upper leather, heavy, tough and strong, but pliable and soft—so that the shoe will wear a long time, be easy to the feet and give them ample protection.

"Kromelk" soles (chrome tanned), the most durable sole leather ever produced—proof against weather and heat, and all but proof against wear.

Remember this "Kromelk" sole leather. It is the first and only perfect chrome-tanned sole leather in the world. Nobody but Endicott, Johnson & Co. can produce it—though the Leather Trust has tried.

Work-Shoes Honest All Through

Endicott-Johnson Work-Shoes are solid leather shoes—no "filler" or shoddy or pasteboard inside. Just good, honest Endicott-Johnson leather through and through.

They are handsome shoes—good lines and good style, because they are designed by the same men who design the Endicott-Johnson dress shoes that sell for twice the money.

And they are finished just as carefully too, inside and out. Endicott-Johnson shoemakers do not know how to make a poor shoe.

Now you would naturally suppose that shoes made out of this extra-grade leather, with such style and finish, would cost you more than the ordinary Trust-made shoes.

As a matter of fact Endicott-Johnson shoes come to you cheaper than any shoe of the same general type you ever wore.

How Price Is Kept Down

Endicott, Johnson & Co. make good leather in their own tanneries at rock-bottom cost, remember.

Endicott-Johnson shoes pay no profits to Trusts or Middlemen. They carry no exorbitant retail profits. Endicott, Johnson & Co. sell direct to your local shoe dealer who is willing to make his money by a fair margin on many sales—rather than a big profit on a smaller volume of business.

Endicott-Johnson Work-Shoes are made in several grades, selling at $2.00 to $3.50 a pair. You can have your choice of numerous shapes and styles, and a full range of sizes.

Other Endicott-Johnson Shoes

You can get other Endicott-Johnson lines—shoes for men and women, for boys and girls. The popular dress and business shoe is the ENDWELL (Goodyear Welt)—selling at $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00.

Go to the Endicott-Johnson dealer in this town, and look over his stock. Remember the name of the makers—
