RUM RUNNER

DESERTS HIS CARGO

While federal officers Whitten and McPheters and deputies Graves and Barrett were patrolling the road near Mars Hill, Thursday, they sighted a suspicious car and ordered it to stop. The driver paid no attention and put on speed. An exciting chase followed, the officers finally overhauling the fleeing car.

The occupants abandoned it and disappeared in the darkness. The car was a Buick roadster and heavily loaded with 200 quarts of Canadian whiskey.

It carried the number plate 16-309. According to the State automobile registry this number was issued to Arthur Witham of Old Town for a Ford car.

The plates used on this car were stolen from Mr. Witham from a Ford in the early summer.

Many of the children have given books for the children's room which are eagerly sought for by the youthful readers who love "Alger books" and "Boy Scout Series" and "Camp-fire Girls" books.

It is very nice to have our friends remember us with gifts of books in these times when books like other things are so much higher in price than they used to be.

TO GIVE SOCIAL

The Christian Endeavor society of the Free Baptist church, Military street will hold a social in the vestry of the church this Thursday, Nov. 4, at 7.30 sharp. The social will be in the nature of a Pie social. If you like come along and enjoy a pleasant evening. The boys are to have well filled pocket books, the girls are to make the Pies. If you don't like pie send some one that does.

Wm. J. Ormsby has sold his house on Court street to Geo. W. Rollins of this town. Mr. Ormsby has purchased the Connors house on Lincoln street.

TEMPLE THEATRE NOTES

Just take a look in at the world of amusements a minute. Here are the stars for the week of Nov. 3 at the Temple:

Tom Moore, Wanda Hawley, Elsie Ferguson, William Farnum, Enid Bennett and Grace Darling, all stars whom you can depend upon for a treat, and best of all, they are not old and worn when you see them, but new first run pictures coming on the screen like a piece of velvet.

The patrons of the Temple have a treat in store for them in the form of Musical Comedy, as Bob Ott is coming Nov. 15 for an entire week, and he has promised no end of fun and amusement.

Enid Bennett is back with us again and will appear in her latest production "Histrions," Nov. 12, at the Temple.

A meeting of the delegates from the different towns was held in the forenoon, at which time plans for the Farm Bureau Membership campaign were outlined. Membership and display cards were given out to membership chairman of the towns represented.

Following dinner reports by the project leaders were given. The potato report showed that six towns had carried twenty three tuber unit plots, twenty-one towns carried seventy-four commercial plots and five carried five mosaic demonstrations. Edward Rand, Sherman, says, "15 mosaic hills yielded 19 lbs. and the 15 healthy ones 40.50 lbs. making a difference of 21.50 lbs. in favor of the healthy hills. Judson Roberts of Island Falls, T. S. Robinson, Sherman, gave figures showing similar results. Six hundred eight barrels Green Mountains seed running low in Mosaic was located by the Farm Bureau last spring and men in Mapleton, Washburn, Presque Isle and Caribou purchased same. Forty-seven hundred barrels seed carrying a very low percentage of leaf troubles have been located for distribution this season. Thirty-two barrels seed potatoes were sent to Southern Farm Bureaus for comparative tests last spring. As a result of our work the county has sold twenty-six cars of seed to Southern men.

The soils report by Judson Roberts of Island Falls showed that eight towns held fertilizer mixing demonstrations with an attendance of 229 people. One ditch blowing demonstration was held in Presque Isle on the Ross Kierstead farm, seventy-five men attended.

A. M. Smith of Ludlow reported that thirty-one men in eleven different towns carried out spraying demonstrations. A total of 240 acres were sprayed. Eleven men used iron sulphate and twenty-one used blue vitrol. Seven reports have been received showing the increased yields were from 10 to 15 bushels per acre.

The interest of the meeting reached its top when chairman N. I. Colbath of Mars Hill announced that Kennebec County Farm Bureau had challenged any two other counties in the state to a membership campaign. Enthusiasm spread like wild fire and no man in the room would vote to accept such a challenge. All favored a clean cut proposition from Kennebec so that this own state county with its three year old organization can be tried out against Aroostook's 11 month old Farm Bureau. Aroostook feels

A GOOD PLACE TO EAT
WHEN IN BANGOR

The Bangor Young Women's Christian Association has surely set the standard, and a mighty high one, for cafeterias in this part of New England, says an exchange. On Main street, in the building once occupied by the fine old Bangor Exchange Hotel, and later by Bangor Lodge of Elks, where the Association had its headquarters, under the competent care and oversight of the Secretary, Miss Mattie Hopkins of Fort Fairfield, a few weeks ago a new cafeteria, wholly self-serving, was started, and the newness, neatness, smallness of price and the finest of quality in cooking have been attracting from 200 to 300 persons to a meal, who go away so pleased that they do all they can to get their friends to go there. Mrs. Hussey, the manager, is certainly a wonder. The quality and cooking of the food she serves leaves nothing to be desired—but of course you have to serve yourself, which, by the way, is much more easily and quickly done than you can get service by the waiters in the ordinary restaurants. Half price for a much better meal is the rule at this cafeteria, but of course you must be in for meals at fairly regular hours, as meals are not served there at every hour of the day and night. Perhaps the majority of the patrons are women, though probably a third are men, including many of the well known business men, who are willing to get a first-rate meal at a reasonable price and who are also willing to help patronize a good thing. Such an institution in any town or small city—or, for that matter, in any large city, too—is certainly a good and most helpful one; but for those people who really want to pay, and are bound to pay from $2 to $7 a meal, this fine cafeteria probably offers few attractions.

RECITAL AT AUDITORIUM

Music lovers will have a grand opportunity to hear a number of well known artists on Tuesday evening, Nov. 9, at the High School Auditorium, the admission to which may be had by securing tickets at Astle's Music Store.

Betsy Lane Shepherd, a celebrated Soprano, will be the feature of the evening, and she will be assisted by Mr. Igor Sokolof, cellist, Glenzi Thomas, pianist, and by "The Phonograph with a Soul."

Commencing Friday evening, Nov. 5, the Oddfellows will hold a social every two weeks in their hall, to which every Oddfellow and Rebekah is invited. The best of music and refreshments will be provided. Come and enjoy one of our socials and you will become a regular attendant.

ELECTION FOR PRESIDENT
AND VICE PRESIDENTIndications Point to a Large Vote and a Republican
Landslide

Tuesday marked the close of the political activities that have taken up a great deal of attention for the past three months, when the people of the United States cast their votes for candidates for President and Vice President.

The campaign has taken on a different aspect from any that have taken place for many years, in that the great factor was The League of Nations, especially article X, this was subject of much argument pro and con and with it the subject of Americanism. The Democratic party looking to President Wilson as their model and receiving the assurance that the principles which were laid down and carried out by him should be continued by Mr. Cox, the candidate for the Presidency on that ticket, while on the Republican ticket was a man who criticized severely the acts of President Wilson, Article X of the League, the irregularities of many departments as to war expenditures, the favoritism of the President for the South in every instance and the

CHRISTMAS PRESENT

FOR MAINE BOYS

Adjutant General George McL. Presson said Wednesday regarding the work on the Soldiers' bonus applications, etc., in his department:

"The clerks in my office are very busy in the final steps of preparing the application blanks for sending out through the mail, which will be done on Monday, Nov. 1. It is hoped to commence the actual payment of the bonus money sometime in December and to have it completed by Christmas—so that those who wish may expend it for Christmas gifts and all may consider it a Christmas present.

"Between 14,000 and 15,000 applications have so far been received for the blanks. Many of them are brought personally and some letters contain several addresses so that to date we have used about 13,500 one cent stamps in answering the letters. We feel that we are very well equipped for expeditiously handling the sending out of the application blanks and the payments when ready and hope that no delay will be occasioned by errors in filling in the blanks or returning them promptly to this department. The blanks are easy to understand and fill in and should be attended to at once after being received by the soldier boys."

The bond issue authorized by the 79th Legislature to raise funds for the soldiers' bonus was duly authorized on Wednesday by the Governor and Executive Council.

Fred A. Shean of the Shean Accounting Corp. left here Friday for Washington, D. C., where he will take a two months' course in Income Tax Procedure. During his absence the business will be looked after by the Treas. Fred L. Kent and his staff of assistants.

MRS. POLLY COOK PORTER

In the passing away of Mrs. A. Harris Porter early Tuesday morning, the town of Houlton loses one more of its older inhabitants whose parents were among the first settlers of the town.

Mrs. Porter was the daughter of Amos and Christiana Putnam and was born in Houlton on March 1, 1836, when the town was little more than a settlement, when the sturdy inhabitants had none of the luxuries of today and few of the necessities, and now today know of the hardships that the people of those early days had to contend with and the way that they overcame the difficulties in those days.

She was married to A. Harris Porter in 1868 and to this union four daughters were born, three of whom survive, Mrs. B. B. McIntyre, Miss Alice and Annie, the youngest passing away a number of years ago.

Mrs. Porter was a woman, who like many of her day, made home what it should be and with all the cares and responsibilities connected with her home, she found time to keep up with her social duties the work of her church, in which she was a very active member and the many responsibilities which came to one situated as she was in the community, a factor in all of its life and in the charitable work of the community.

About four years ago she suffered a paralytic shock which confined her to her home, and although physically inactive, she took a keen interest in her loved ones and the work of the Unitarian church, of which she was a member.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late residence, Rev. F. Dwight Mowrey officiating.

ODDFELLOWS BUSY
IN LODGE ROOMSVarious Branches of Order
Making Plans for a Busy Season

The beginning of the season finds the various branches of the Oddfellows lodges ready for the work, and some fine times are being planned for the winter months.

The Grand Lodge session held recently in Bangor was attended by delegates from the local lodge, and the reports which were brought back were very encouraging and interesting as the order is gaining rapidly.

Aroostook Encampment No. 41

On Tuesday evening, Oct. 26, a meeting of the Encampment was held and important business was transacted, among which was the selecting of degree teams which are to be under the direction of Patriarch A. E. Carter. It is the intention of the officers of the encampment to make a vigorous drive for membership that will boost Aroostook No. 41 "over the top," completing the work started in June when the preliminary work resulted in a large class taking their degrees.

Portia Rebekah Lodge No. 78

Oddfellows hall was the scene of a successful affair in Oddfellowship on Wednesday evening of last week, when the annual roll call of Portia Rebekah lodge was held, which was preceded by a 6 o'clock supper. The affair was attended by a large number who were loud in their praises for the success of the meeting.

Following the work a social hour was spent in music, games etc.

Rockabema Lodge No. 78

The meeting of Thursday, Oct. 28, was a rouser, about 85 members turning out. The work for the evening, the initiating degree, was conferred upon one candidate who is now eligible to join the large class awaiting the next step upward.

Past Grand Hunter, who attended the Grand Lodge, gave a most interesting report of the session. Others who spoke were D. G. M. W. S. Lewin, who next year, will assume the office of Grand Master, and Bro. Mitchell.

Following the work of the evening, a delicious oyster supper was enjoyed, which was prepared by Bro. B. J. Bell who is "some cook."

BOWLING

A new team calling themselves the "Scrubs" appeared on the Salvation Army alleys Oct. 27th, and clashed with Captain Farmer's quintette. They got trimmed two games out of three and lost the pinfall by 49 pins but that is a small matter. They have the "makings" of a fast team and will put up some fine scores before the season is far advanced.

Dow and Dunphy, the pride of the Houlton Grange clerical force, each had a fine total, averaging 90 1/3 for the evening. Give Willie Dunphy a few weeks practise on the maples and you've got to go out of Aroostook to get a bowler who will shade him very much, and "Smithy" Dow shows flashes of class. The two old veterans of many battles, "Father" and "Lefty" Lunt were away off form, but they can come back! Lyette is a dark horse as yet, "Jimmy" Nason was the primal cause of the downfall of the "Scrubs." He rolled as though he didn't have a cent and couldn't borrow any. With high average for the evening and an average of 97 2/3, he was easily the class of the evening. A single man ought to roll better than a married man, anyhow!

The details are given herewith:

	Scrubs
Dow	80	98	93	271
Dunphy	96	78	102	271
Lyette	72	83	84	239
C. Lunt	74	74	80	228

Next Monday afternoon, Nov. 8, 1920, the first meeting of the Woman's Club will be held and it is earnestly hoped that there will be a representative audience to start the season's activities in the right manner.

Manager Adams of the Dream and Heywood Theatres is making a hit with the dancing public as was shown by the large attendance at the Heywood on Friday night when he had Slavin's Atlantic City Six Jazz orchestra for music. The reception given these people was so enthusiastic that they were booked for a return engagement, and they play this Tuesday evening on their return from a trip to the Northern part of the county.

ACCOUNTING CORPN.

ORGANIZED

The Shean Accounting Corporation, a personal service corporation, organized at Houlton, to conduct a general business in accounting, auditing, book-keeping, etc., Wednesday filed a certificate of incorporation at the Department of State.

The capital stock is $10,000 all of which is common stock; nothing paid in; par value, $100; shares subscribed, nine; directors, Fred A. Shean (president and clerk), George A. Gorham, Charles H. Fogg, Houlton; Roy F. Kent (treasurer), Fort Kent; George H. Benn, Hodgdon.

The Holstein Meeting which is to take place in Houlton on Nov. 12-13 will be held in the Assembly room of the Engine House on Water street, and not at the Grange Hall as stated last week.

POTATOES

The local market continues about the same as last week with the price holding up well with few offerings, mostly due to rainy weather. What shipments are being made from 90 to 110 cars per week out of the county are from stored stock.

The Produce News says that in many parts of western New York the potato crop is falling far below expectations, and that in some sections the potatoes were so badly affected by blight that the growers were compelled to plow up entire fields.

New York—There was some increase in receipts this week, especially from Maine, New York State and Pennsylvania, but shipments from Jersey are falling off, while the supply from Long Island has shown little or no increase over the past few weeks. Many of the farmers in the nearby States are complaining of rot and it is thought this will curtail the yield to some extent, although Government reports are silent as yet on this phase of the situation. Maine potatoes, while desirable in size, were generally soft, and, owing to the unfavorable warm weather, had to be moved promptly. Sales were generally $1.40@1.45 on 165-lb. bag and $1.25@1.30 on 150-lb. bags.

State and Pennsylvania potatoes were rarely closely enough graded to reach $4 with most sales at $3.50@3.75, while those shipped in 150-lb. bags rarely brought over $3. Jersey long potatoes sold $2.75@2.85 at first of week, but toward the close it was possible to realize $2.90@3 on 150-lb. sacks, while some lots not closely graded went at $2.65@2.75 on No. 1's and $1.50@1.60 on No. 2's. Long Island potatoes sold generally $1, while a few of the more select lots brought $1.25@1.50. The unfavorable warm weather compelled prompt clearance of the stock and $4 was about all that best lots could average.

Chicago—Potatoes are easy; arrivals rather large, with 125 cars Monday 90 Tuesday, and with 345 on track, supplies are plentiful. A large portion of the supply consists of green stock or else too scabby for rapid movement. There was some improvement in the demand at the beginning of the week because of slightly cooler weather, but this eased off Tuesday with unfavorable weather. The movement from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan is fairly heavy, although many growers in these sections are holding for higher prices. In the Colorado section, growers are also holding for higher prices. There is a fine country demand for stock that is ripe and sound, but there is a scarcity of this stock. Green and scabby spuds sell at a discount of 25c cwt. Among reported sales were one car Wisconsin, $1.50; three at $1.75, and two at $1.75; Michigan round whites, car at $1.70. Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan round whites, ripe, bulk or sacked stock, $1.60@1.80; green, $1.40@1.50; scabby, lower. Early Ohio from the Dakotas about the same with poor stock selling down to $1.25.

Spokane, Wash.—Yakima is shipping 30 cars of potatoes daily. Heavy rain temporarily halted the digging of the immense potato crop in the Kalispell Valley. Potatoes have been coming into the new warehouse in large quantities for a week from shippers both inside and outside of the State. Growers are very well satisfied with the yield, which is surprisingly good, both in quality and quantity, and while the prices are disappointing the yield and quality are gratifying.

SISTER MARY FRANCINA

The friends of Sister Mary Francina were pained when they learned of her death which occurred at the Madigan Memorial hospital Tuesday, Oct. 26, after an illness covering several months.

Sister Mary Francina was born in Benedicta, and before entering the convent was known as Miss Sadie Allen. For some time she had been located in Portland, coming to Houlton in August. Her age was 27 years.

A Requiem High mass was said over her remains at St. Mary's Catholic church at 8 o'clock Thursday morning.

MELTING POT OF THE RACES BOILING OVER

Ellis Island, melting pot of the world, is boiling as never before, with the greatest flood of immigrants in history pouring into it. Millions more are clamoring at Europe's exits, anxious to come to America and Congress will be pressed to quickly enlarge both the physical plant and working force on the island to more than double its present size, according to Immigration Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis.

Since early last summer, aliens have been entering America's front door in unprecedented numbers. The problem of housing them until they can be admitted to the country has become painful to all parties concerned. Recently hundreds of immigrants detained for investigation had to sleep standing up, as the floors, benches and chairs already were filled with the backwash from the congested dormitories.

The tide is certain to become greater with each passing month. Commissioner Wallis felt assured. Steamship operators informed him their accommodations are booked to capacity for 12 months ahead. Government officials announce 267,000 applications had been made for passports in Poland alone, mostly Jews, while hundreds of thousands in other parts of Europe also were anxious to cross the sea to this country.

"Between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 Italians are seeking domiciles and citizenship here and more than 3,000,000 Poles want to come over," said Commissioner Wallis, who attributed the exodus from Europe to the harsh post-war living conditions and the economic situation.

Frequently the commissioner asked the aliens why they left Europe. Most of them replied "No money, no eat," he said. Many Italian farmers declared they quit their native soil because of the danger from explosions when plowing in former battlegrounds.

Added to the prospective influx of immigrants from the countries of the war allies will be millions in from Germany, who, as soon as the way is clear, will seek passage to America, the immigration officials have been informed by reliable and official sources. "The immigration in the future will be limited only by the capacity of the vessels," Commissioner Wallis said.

In the meantime while wondering how many years it will be before aliens quit coming across the sea at their present rate, Ellis Island workers are perplexed over their existing problems. The normal capacity of the island is reached when 2,000 immigrants are inspected daily. Yet, on a recent day, 10,400 aliens were fed there. During another day the same week 11,000 persons were detained in the holds of the vessels which brought them over, while officials struggled with the work of examining the 4,000 then on the island. For two days the island doors were shut against incomers, who remained on boats.

The rapidity of handling them depends upon the aliens themselves. Commissioner Wallis has found that some groups are easier to examine than others, while care must be taken in separating the many nationalities which make the island conversation sound like that at the Tower of Babel.

RATHER FIGHT THAN MIX
 "If we mix English, Irish and Jews there will be a free-for-all fight in ten minutes," said the commissioner. "The English won't eat with the Jews, and call them 'foreigners.'"

Three recent additions to the tasks of the immigration officials have made more tedious the handling of the aliens. Much time is required in vizing passports and the literary test which all immigrants must pass, also causes trouble. Each alien must read in one language before being admitted. In addition to its labors with the aliens, the immigration officials examine every seaman entering the port, even though he left it but a few days before. In the last eight months 800,000 seamen were examined.

Despite congestion everything possible is being done to make the treatment of the aliens on the island humane. Babies are given warm milk and crackers. Candy, cigarettes, fruit and other comforts are furnished adults. Sunday concerts, with bands, grand opera stars and others on the program, are held weekly. For those who cannot find a bed, 10,000 army blankets recently received from Washington are available for improvised sleeping equipment.

Ellis Island authorities are trying not to keep the aliens in the holds of the vessels after arrival and are striving not to delay commerce by holding up ships in that manner and so far they have succeeded. But, no matter how fast the immigrants arrive, the examinations will not be made less rigid but will continually be made more severe. Commissioner Wallis said.

Aliens who are refused admittance—and the percentage of rejected ones has increased greatly since before the war—are returned to the port from which they came at the expense of the steamships. Most of those admitted to America are going to industrial centers, but many are flocking to rural districts and farms, the Commissioner said.

MOTORS BEAT CAMELS AS DESERT CARRIERS

An old-world caravan route, north from China, over mountains, pass the ancient wall of China, across the 700-mile desert of Gobi and through the foothills of the eastern Altai Mountains or down the Selenga river to Verkhne-Udinsk is the only comparatively free way in to Siberia and Russia from the Far East. It is the route taken by an Associated Press correspondent in a recent trip across Russia.

Although involving great difficulties in travel, the cross-country trip is to be preferred to the Trans-Siberian railway zone through Manchuria, for there fractional strife between Russian forces—Cossacks, peasant revolutionists, free booters and bandit chiefs—has kept the country in a state of constant unrest since the comparatively orderly state of affairs which ended with Admiral Kolchak's complete downfall in the fall of 1919.

From Pekin the traveller may go by train to Kalgan, 100 miles northwest of the Chinese capital. Kalgan is the great trade mark of north China. There the camel caravans from Unga, across the Great Gobi desert, discharge their loads of wool and furs from the north, and reload with tea for the nomadic desert tribes of Mongolia and for Siberia. Before the decline of trade with Russia, camel caravans numbering thousands in each left Kalgan weekly for the month trip across the desert. Caravans numbering several hundreds of camels in each continue to make the trip. In crossing the desert the traveller passes several of these slowly moving caravans daily.

But twentieth century commercial progress and American business methods have entered into competition with the camel carriers across the desert. In 1907 an American business man in Kalgan drove a small American automobile up the steep Kalgan pass to the level of the Mongolian plateau, across the Gobi desert, and into the sacred Buddhist city of Unga. Shortly afterward regular communication by automobile was established across the desert.

Today automobiles owned by business establishments and by the Chinese government make the trip from Kalgan to the Mongolian capital in from three to five days, following the line of telegraph poles across the desert. Three small inns and numerous gasoline stations have been established along the route, and the "Living God" of Unga, highest of Buddhist priests of Mongolia, is himself the proud owner of an American motor car.

From Unga the route to Siberia is over the low ranges of the Kentei mountains. The usual method of travel is by the Russian conveyance known as a "tarantass" a vehicle not unlike the old American stagecoach. The country between Unga and Kiakhta is infested by native bandits and with Chinese brigands who have deserted from the Chinese and Cossack armies and taken to the free life of the hills.

Kiakhta and Troitzkosavsk on the Siberian side of the boundary, with the Chinese city of Mi-ma-sen, form the once prosperous trade center of southern Siberia. In the days of great commercial activity between China and Siberia "tea millionaires" men who made fortunes from one successful caravan trip from the south, were as numerous as the war millionaires of today. The glory of Kiakhta, however, like that of the caravan owners of former days, has passed during the years of revolution and civil war in Siberia, and life in the border city is, as in the

TRY TO BE THE FELLOW THAT YOUR MOTHER THINKS YOU ARE

While walking down a crowded city street the other day, I heard a little urchin to a comrade turn and say: "Say, Jimmie, don't yer know, I'd be happy as a clam, if I only was de feller dat me mudder tinks I am." "She tinks I am a wonder, and knows her little lad Would never mix wit' nottin' dat was ugly, mean or bad. I often sit and t'ink how nice 't would be—gee whiz, If a feller was de feller dat his mudder tinks he is." So, folks, be yours a life of toil or undiluted joy. You still can learn a lesson from the small, unlettered boy: Don't try to be an earthly saint, with eyes fixed on a star— Just try to be the fellow that your mother thinks you are.

TAKE TWO GUESSES

Put one hundred men on an island where fish is a staple article of sustenance. Twenty-five of the men catch fish. Twenty-five others clean the fish. Twenty-five cook the fish. Twenty-five hunt fruit and vegetables. The entire company eats what thus is gathered and prepared.

So long as everybody works there is plenty.

Ten of the allotted fish catchers stop catching fish.

Ten more dry and hide part of the fish they catch.

Five continue to catch fish, but work only part of the day at it.

Fewer fish go into the community kitchen.

But the same number of men insist upon having the same amount of fish to eat as they had before.

The fifty men who formerly cleaned and cooked the fish have less to do owing to the undersupply of fish. But they continue to demand food.

Gradually greater burdens are laid upon the fruit and vegetable hunters. These insist upon a larger share of fish in return for their larger efforts in gathering fruit and vegetables. It is denied them and soon twenty of the twenty-five quit gathering fruit and vegetables.

But the entire one hundred men continue to insist upon their right to eat.

The daily food supply gradually shrinks. The man with two fish demands three bananas in exchange for one of them. The man with two bananas refuses to part with one for fewer than three fish.

Finally the ten men remaining at work quit in disgust. Everybody continues to eat. The hidden fish are brought to light and consumed. Comes a day when there is no food of any kind. Everybody one the island blames everybody else.

What would seem to be the solution? Exactly! We thought you would guess it.

For we repeat that you can't eat, buy, sell, steal, give away, hoard, wear, use, play with or gamble with what isn't.—Selected.

OFFENSIVE CONDUCT

"That's what comes of riding in a silver," sighed the motorist who had barely missed running down a pedestrian.

"What do you mean?" asked the friend, between jolts.

"That fellow back there wouldn't be shaking his fist at me so aggressively if I were driving a larger and more expensive car."

AFTER EIGHT YEARS

Houlton Testimony Remains Unshaken

Time is the best test of truth.

Here is a Houlton story that has stood the test of time. It is a story with a point which will come straight home to many of us.

Henry Beek, Bowdoin St., says:

"For some time I have been annoyed by lameness across the small of my back. It made me very uncomfortable and mornings when I got up, I felt lame and sore. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills I procured a box at the Hatheway Drug Company and took them as directed. They quickly banished the pain. I hold a high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to advise anyone troubled with backache to give them a trial."

LASTING BENEFIT

Over eight years later, Mr. Beek said: "I have every bit as much faith in Doan's Kidney Pills now as when I previously recommended them. I haven't found it necessary to use a kidney medicine since Doan's cured me some years ago."

WILLIAM CARSON

The death of William Carson of Littleton, occurred on Sunday, at the age of 66 from heart trouble.

Mr. Carson was a native of York County, New Brunswick, and early in life married Miss Rachel Richards, also of New Brunswick, who survives him. About thirty years ago they came to Littleton settling on the North Road where they have since lived.

Mr. Carson was a farmer, an upright and respected citizen and was highly regarded by all with whom he came in contact. A member of the First Baptist church, and a loyal supporter of the Grange, being well known in this community.

His death, which was due to heart trouble, resulted after an illness of eight weeks.

He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, four sons, Lewis and Byron of Littleton, and John and Benjamin of Houlton, and on daughter, Clara now Mrs. E. E. McIntosh, also of Houlton, all of whom have the deep sympathy of friends both far and near.

Funeral services were conducted at his late home on Tuesday at 2 p. m., Rev. Henry C. Speed officiating. Interment being in the Littleton cemetery.

NATIONAL GRANGE TO MEET IN BOSTON

The two outstanding features for the big National Grange session in Boston, Nov. 10-19, will be the conferring of the seventh degree on 10,000 men and women, members of the great agricultural order of the Patrons of Husbandry, and the great exhibit of New England agricultural products that will occupy the entire exhibition hall of Mechanics building—to be open entirely free to every one for four days.

Besides all the other features of the national gathering these two are sufficient to draw a huge crowd, and the estimate of 20,000 Grange members brought to Boston for the event, not to speak of the thousands not members of the order who will go to see the show, seems fully warranted.

Announcement is made that the seventh degree will be conferred at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and at 7 o'clock in the evening on Friday, Nov. 12. In addition to the great New England crowd for the degree, 1000 candidates are promised from New York, several Pullman carloads are coming from Michigan and not less than 30 states who probably be represented among those who take the degree. Thus it will not only be the largest initiation in numbers ever carried out by any fraternal organization in the United States, but the most representative as well.

A great amount of work and liberal outlay will be put into the stage settings for the degree, the electric lighting effects and the music, as the Mechanics building stage is the largest on which the degree has ever been presented. A very attractive scheme of decorations for the hall itself is also being worked out.

The big day will be Friday, Nov. 12, when the new class takes the seventh degree. In the evening, after the degree work, there will be a reception to Gov. Coolidge and his council, to the mayor of Boston and members of the city council and to the heads of departments at the State House.

An added "big feature" of the session, just arranged for, is the securing of the Rev. Russell H. Conwell of Philadelphia to give his famous lecture, "Acres of Diamonds," at the Friday morning session, Nov. 12, at 10:30. No regular business meeting of the national grange can be held that forenoon, because the rehearsal for the seventh degree that afternoon will occupy Mechanics building, in order to make every moment count with something worth while.

HE SEES NO EXCUSE FOR OUR SHOE COSTS

The profiteer in this country is the retailer, and not the wholesaler, according to Hugo Rothenberg, a leather dealer of Copenhagen, Denmark, who has been in this country for several weeks studying conditions. He says that prices are much too high here, and asserts that, at least in the leather industry, there will be no big demand in Europe for some time to come, as so many manufacturers there have large stocks on hand that were bought during the war.

Prices are much to high here, and the trade balance is much too unfavorable for leather dealers of Denmark and other Scandinavian countries to buy up goods here," said Mr. Rothenberg at the Hotel Astor, where he is staying. "Of course, if the prices get down some, even to where they were in 1917, we will be encouraged to place some orders, but not as the market now stands. It looks now as though the prices must go down, for people in our country have stopped buying shoes and are wearing out their accumulated old ones, just as they seem to be doing here. This curtailing will undoubtedly be felt soon."

"With so much leather in this country the prices of retail shoes here seem to me to be extremely high. We are obliged to import much of the material we use in the manufacture of shoes, but still we sell at less profit than the dealers do here. We are satisfied with a moderate return. Our shoes now average from 40 to 50 crowns for the lowest grades to 60 to 65 crowns for the highest grades. They are always made of leather, never composition, such as is found in some of the shoes here. I believe that the prices of shoes have reached their peak and that we will never again find the quotations that recently prevailed. It seemed very odd to us in Denmark that in 1919 leather in the United States was higher than before the armistice."

Styles Last Longer in Denmark

"Styles of shoes do not change with us as they do in this country. They are designed along more conservative lines and the same styles are used for several seasons. Our firm is the largest leather firm in Scandinavia, and we deal in leather both wholesale and retail, as well as being manufacturers of shoes of all grades. We deal mostly in what is called upper and sole leather, and export to nearly all the other countries in Europe. We buy all our finished leather in the United States, and our raw hides come from South America. Of course this is the best market for finished leather, and we are compelled to get our leather here, even at the great discount of our money, but we are greatly curtailing our expenditures and only buy now for the immediate need. But America has to come to us for her calfskins, for the supply here cannot fill the demand. This country was always a large buyer of our calfskins, as we are principally an agricultural country."

"Denmark profited by the war, as she had much to export in the way of foods. But the recent labor troubles and the consequent strikes have been a great loss to our country. American and other ships loaded with foodstuffs were compelled to go to other ports to be unloaded. For three months our dock laborers were on strike last fall. Our trade balance was very unfavorable. In fact we have recently had more imports than exports, which is a great damage to us. We only have agricultural products to export. We send large quantities of butter to this country. We make margarine for home consumption so that we can export as much butter as possible. We also raise a large number of hogs and export large quantities of pork to England and Germany. Denmark never experienced a food shortage during the war. Our imports are chiefly luxuries such as silk, cigarettes, &c."

Housing Problem Acute

"The housing conditions in Denmark are very distressing. In the last few years labor and building materials, all of which must be imported, have been so high that no building had been done and with the influx of so many refugees we are overcrowded as to housing. Russian and Polish refugees are principally those who have come in. They find plenty of work and are satisfied to remain. We get out iron and steel for building purposes in Sweden. Our coal comes from England principally, although some is now coming from the United States. The latter is very expensive, but we must have it."

"In Denmark wages are much higher than before the war, but the prices of food there have not gone up in proportion to the wages of the workmen. It is simply that the workmen want their share of the profits lost by them during the war. Therefore, they are striking on all occasions and in all occupations. Our recent dock strikes tied up all shipping at our ports and was a great loss. This condition is the main cause of the unrest over the world. But the laboring men in Denmark are intelligent, and they are coming to see that strikes only injure themselves and they are not so ready to strike as they were some time ago. They don't want the plants to shut down, for they realize that the rioting and general demoralization when idle men are around only hinders them in making a living, so they are now satisfied with the present good salaries they are getting."

"Denmark is not an industrial country, as is America. We have but three millions population, mostly rural. Of course, Copenhagen, with its population of six to seven hundred thousand people, has its manufacturing enterprises, and there are large shipbuilding yards there, but on the whole the agricultural products are the most important resources of the country. Our form of government is very democratic although we have a King."

LINCOLN'S WAY WITH HIS WIFE

Diplomacy finds its finest test in the relationships of everyday life. Many a man who might get along very well representing his country at a foreign court is a complete fizzle in representing himself in the court presided over by his wife.

They came to Lincoln one day asking for subscriptions for the support of a volunteer fire department in Springfield. He at once expressed his sympathy with the project, says Alonzo Rothschild in Honest Abe but thought it best before setting down any amount to consult "a certain little woman" about it.

"I'll do so, boys," he continued, "when I go home to supper—Mrs. Lincoln is always in a fine good humor then—and I'll say to her, over the toast: My dear, there is a subscription paper being handed round to raise money to buy a new horse cart. The committee called on me this afternoon, and I told them to wait until I had consulted my home partner. Don't you think I had better subscribe $50?" Then she will look up quickly and say, "Oh, Abraham, Abraham, will you never, never learn? We are always too liberal, too generous. $50! No, indeed; we can't afford it. $25 is quite enough."

Mr. Lincoln chuckled as he added: "Bless her dear soul, she'll never find out how I got the better of her; and if she does she will forgive me. Come around tomorrow, boys, and get your $25."

MRS. NELLIE WOODSFORD SPEAKS TO MOTHERS

East Boston—At 23 Lamson St., Mrs. Nellie Woodsford and her children now "live happy and grateful" to the kind neighbor who recommended Dr. True's Elixir to them. Mrs. Woodsford says: "My bowels were out of order and my breath was bad. I was shaky all over. I had terrible headaches and it seemed I had suffered years before your Dr. True's Elixir was brought to me. After a short time I was myself again, my bowels were all right and I'm full of gratitude. "It may interest you to know also that once since my youngest child was terribly sick and it was a serious case. We all have your Elixir to thank for relieving her of stomach worms."

Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller has done wonders for children and grown-ups since 1851. Pleasant to take, mild in action.

FRANCE SHELLED INTO FERTILITY

Out on Long Island, which begins at Brooklyn and ends at Montauk Point, there is a wiry, brown man with a lot of white hair. For some years his job has been to do what other folks said he couldn't, writes A. H. Folwell in Leslie's.

"But you can't raise that here," said other folks.

"But I do," said the wiry, brown man. "Look at it."

The wiry, brown man with the white hair is Hal B. Fullerton. The land where he persists in raising things, to the agitation of people who know it can't be done, is the Pine Barrens of Long Island.

It will seem natural to you that the man who had shown Long Island how to grow real crops on the Pine Barrens should have been asked to go to France and help restore, agriculturally, the war-scarred areas of the Somme and the Aisne.

Mr. Fullerton files no claim that he is a wizard of the land. By study and experiment he has come to be on pretty intimate terms with mother nature, and he has a lot of faith in her. He had an idea she would not fail France any more than she had failed the Pine Barrens of Long Island. That was his hopeful state of mind when he left for France last spring.

He was not obliged to revise his guess. It was the experience of the Pine Barrens of Long Island all over again.

"Ah, M'sieur, nothing will grow here," a French official said to him pointing despairingly at the havoc of war.

"But it is," returned Mr. Fullerton. And it was. In a trench he had spotted alfalfa. Nearby, a stalk or two of wheat. Mother nature was throwing out some rather broad hints. Mr. Fullerton saw them because he was looking for them; not man-made restoration, but nature's own.

"This land was never so rich," Mr. Fullerton declared. "It has been fertilized by the waste of war. Everywhere, there is proof that its crop-yield will be big."

"But the shells, the hidden shells,"

JAPANESE CLING TO OLD METHOD IN MAKING PAPER

Much of what we envy in the artistic life of the Japanese cannot be attained by us because it is the fruit of a national education of several hundred centuries. We must also, in the domain of pure technique, give up trying to equal the Japanese where the perfection attained by them depends on natural products of the country that our own does not possess. Just as the production of the beautiful Japanese lacquers is directly dependent on the raw material furnished them by their own flora, so also the preparation of their paper depends on the incomparable quality of the material found in the bark of plants and mulberry trees that grows in their soil.

The Japanese plants are distinguished not alone by the advantages offered by the raw material. We must also take into account the mode of preparation, which in the course of the transformation of the flexible but strong tissue, does not cut up the cells but softens them and separates their fibers by beating and stamping, as formerly, before the introduction of machinery, we treated flax.

The kōsu is one of the six most important plants whose bark is used for paper. The shoots of the first year are barked and after the leaves have been removed furnish strips of several yards in length which are cut into lengths of about a yard and tied into bundles. The bark is softened in running water and then gently boiled in water containing wood ashes. It is then treated with channeled mallets on thick wooden planks. The product is twisted and turned frequently under water until it becomes a pulpy mass. This pulp finally reaches the artisan, who transforms it into paper by the method which we have, so to speak, abandoned in our manufacture. The fibers are fastened together, not with animal glue, but with a cement made of the roots of certain plants.

With the aid of a rectangular sieve of very fine bamboo fibers the necessary quantity of pulp is removed and after all the water has filtered through the sieve the leaf is partly dried, after which it is rubbed with a soft instrument on a plank and exposed to the sun until completely dried, when it is easily detached from the plank.

Japanese paper has many uses for which our paper is not fitted. It replaces in a surprising manner our window glass, the manufacture of which has only recently been introduced into Japan.

Domestic economy and costume make innumerable uses of paper. Extended in the form of cord it has astonishing strength. Gilt and cut into narrow strips it is used as embroidery. To it the Japanese braids owe their gentleness and that delicacy imparted to medieval silks by their filaments of cypress gold. Its incomparable constitution is closely connected with the Japanese arts of writing and painting, both of which use the soft brush where we employ the pen or pencil. The paper, rapidly absorbing India ink, enables the writer to use his brush more freely and lightly on its surface than we can use our implements.

LABRADOR BOUNDARY STILL IN DISPUTE

Recent surveys of Labrador which have disclosed immense resources of timber suitable for pulp and paper manufacture have led to a revival of efforts to bring about a determination of the boundary line between Newfoundland and the Canadian province of Quebec. This line has never been laid down by actual survey and its various definitions, as given in documents issued at intervals in the last century and a half are so vague that government officials do not know just how much of Labrador belongs to Newfoundland and how much to Canada.

That Labrador is rich in many natural resources, including enormous waterpower, has long been known, but the practicability of utilizing its forests for paper making was not demonstrated until the world-wide paper shortage led to exhaustive investigation of the territory. This resulted in applications by promoters to the Newfoundland government for timber limits in Labrador. As these could not be acted upon until it was determined whether Newfoundland owned the land in question, representatives of this colony were sent to London late in the Summer to discuss with eminent English counsel the preparation of a formal draft of Newfoundland's Labrador claims as opposed to those of Canada.

The coast of Labrador was annexed to Newfoundland in 1763. Ten years later, owing to difficulties arising out of grants made to a number of persons under the French rule, it was changed to Canadian jurisdiction. In 1809 it was again transferred to Newfoundland and has since been attached to this colony.

The difficulty arises over different interpretations of the words "coast of Labrador." One view is that Newfoundland can claim only the coast between Blanc Sablon and Cape Chidley, with perhaps a half a mile inland, and that the rest of Labrador belongs to Canada. As defined in the letters patent constituting the office of Governor of Newfoundland, the boundary was described as a line drawn between Blanc Sablon and Cape Chidley, which would pass through the ocean in certain sections and leave large areas of the coast to the westward of the line and therefore not under Newfoundland jurisdiction.

Many Newfoundland officials hold to the view that the correct delimitation was made in a sessional paper issued in this colony in 1864. Under the phraseology of this document Newfoundland would be entitled to thousands of square miles of the interior of the Labrador peninsula in addition to the coast.

INSULATOR IN TREE

Thirty-six years ago a telegraph bracket and insulator was nailed to a Douglas fir tree near Avoca, Cal. A few years later a falling branch badly damaged it and the wire which it had been supporting was removed. The tree was growing thriftily, adding every Summer to its diameter a new layer of woody material and this growth gradually pushed out around the bracket on all sides, leaving it buried in the tree trunk.

At the end of twenty-six years the tip of the glass insulator finally disappeared from view and the only trace of it that could still be seen was a scarcely noticeable lump which looked like nothing more than a healed over branch tub, says a writer in The American Forestry Magazine. A few weeks ago the tree was felled and the wood manufactured into barrel staves. The screech of the saw which happened to graze the edge of the glass called attention to this unusual fossil.

On splitting open the stove bolt the story became clear in its details. The clearly defined annual rings of the rapidly growing tree forms an unimpeachable historical record. The wood of the insulator bracket is still in good condition, and the oak of which it was made received an unintentional preservative treatment, having been thoroughly impregnated with the resin of the surrounding fir. The interesting specimen went to the wood collection of the forestry division of the University of California.

COLUMBUS FOUND ASPHALT

Most people think asphalt merely grows on New York's well paved streets and they little realize that it is brought 2,000 miles from a lake on the Island of Trinidad. At the recent convention of the Barber Asphalt Paving Company at the Hotel Pennsylvania Charles W. Baylis, Vice President of the company, told the romantic story of the island, where Columbus landed on his third voyage away back in the fifteenth century and discovered the lake.

"When Columbus landed on the island his ships were in a bad condition and the lake was a great find," said Mr. Barber. "Columbus used the natural product, which he called 'pitch,' to caulk his ships. It is interesting to note that he named the Island of Trinidad, which means Trinity, because of the three mountain peaks which first met his eye on the horizon. One can imagine that this landmark looked very good to him after his long voyage and to his religious nature called to mind the Holy Trinity.

"One hundred years later Sir Walter Raleigh visited Trinidad and once more the lake did service in mending boats. He wrote in his diary that he found it 'most excellent good and melleth not in the sun.' Many, many years after this the product, almost in its original state, was put to use by a process developed by a Belgian named Schmedt.

"The surface of the lake looks like an elephant's wrinkled hide. Enough asphalt has been taken from it in the last fifty years to pave a street eighteen feet wide and running clear around the world and yet its surface has been lowered less than a foot. It is in a constant state of gentle agitation, being of volcanic formation, and if you plunge a stick into it uprightly today tomorrow the piece of wood has disappeared.

"The Indians have a fascinating legend about the origin of this body of asphalt. On the Island of Trinidad there are large numbers of humming birds. The island in the Indian language is called 'Iere,' which means humming bird. Many hundreds of years ago one of the Indian tribes called Chaynas got to drinking their liquor, ran wild and killed large numbers of humming birds, bedecking themselves with the feathers. The Great Spirit who watches over the lives of the feathered kingdom was angry and in a single night the village of the Chaynas was destroyed with every soul in it and there in its place was this huge lake of asphalt. So the Indians think that the lake is haunted—that it is composed of the bodies and souls of these wicked people who lifted their hands against the sacred humming bird.

DEFIES THREAT TO FIRE ON U. S. SHIP

A curious story is told of an experience of the United States torpedo boat destroyer Broom at Kiel. The vessel received a wireless message instructing her to proceed to the Baltic in order to render assistance to the United States battleship Pittsburgh, which was ashore. When the Broom reached the end of the Kiel canal another wireless was received stating that the Pittsburgh was afloat again, and instructing the Broom to remain at Kiel.

The officer commanding the torpedo boat destroyer applied to the German naval authority at Kiel for berthing accommodation in the harbor. The German admiral in command refused to grant this, pointing out that the United States was still at war with Germany.

The American officer replied that he had orders to stay in Kiel.

"If you do I shall open fire," was the German admiral's response.

"Open fire if you like," the American retorted, "but here I stay until I am blown out of the water."

Immigration to the United States from the Old World, which aggregated over 1,000,000 persons yearly in the pre-war period, but fell off to nearly nothing during the World War, has since the armistice, had a great revival, and now new large hosts of aliens are seeking refuge in this country. Nearly 4,000,000 Italians, 3,000,000

Poles, and millions of Germans and others are said to be preparing to enter Uncle Sam's domains as soon as possible. The immigration problem is on this country once more in full force, and Government officials are having a difficult task in handling the newcomers. The steadily increasing arrivals inspected at Ellis Island, New York Harbor, from January 1 to September 28, 1920, totaled 417,876, distributed through the months as follows:

January 24,992; February 24,032; March 29,497; April 49,183; May 44,161; June 49,786; July 56,195; August 57,874; September 86,395.

The September figures nearly doubled those of all previous months since the war, and exceeded some of the monthly records during the rush days before the war.

LEVIATHAN'S UPKEEP COSTS $2,500 A DAY

The skeleton crew on the former American transport Leviathan, under command of Captain John Jamison, retired commodore of the American Line fleet, has been reduced to twenty sailors and firemen, who have been engaged during the past week in scrubbing the barnacles off her huge sides, which have accumulated with quantities of long green grass during the year and one month that she has been made fast to Pier 1, Hoboken.

Apart from the money the big liner might have earned in carrying passengers to Europe during the rush season last Spring, when tonnage was in such great demand, it has cost the United States Shipping Board $75,000 a month for upkeep, which totals $975,000 for the thirteen months' tie-up.

The Leviathan is 908 feet long and eighty feet deep from the boat deck to the waterline, so that by the time the stand-by crew have floated their stages around her sides and cleaned them with their long-handled scrubbers it will be time to start all over again.

Could Have Refitted Liner
Shipping men said recently that if a part of the money spent in overhauling the merchant marine with vessels that are now blocking New York and the other ports along the Atlantic coast had been used to refit the Leviathan a year ago the Government would have earned considerable money by chartering her to one of the big American steamship lines like the International Mercantile Marine Company, and would also have had a passenger liner that could be sold in the market.

Since the injunction obtained by William Randolph Hearst in January last which prevented the Leviathan being sold for $3,500,000, the U. S. Shipping Board has only received one offer for the huge vessel and that was from one of the newly incorporated steamship lines formed since the war, which offered to take her on the installment plan if the board would furnish the funds for the reconditioning of the Leviathan, estimated at $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 not including any repairs to the engines or boilers beyond a general overhauling.

This offer was refused by the Ship Building Board and the liner, according to officials in Hoboken, is likely to linger there until her rivets drop out and she falls apart.

Giant Liners Unprofitable

The big Atlantic steamship lines have discovered that the huge vessels of the Leviathan class can no longer be operated upon a profitable basis because of the high wages paid to the crews and the price of coal, which has increased to such an extent and is so scarce in all parts of the world except the United States, Great Britain and Japan. The International Mercantile Marine Company, for instance cannot afford to operate the Adriatic or the Celtic to the Mediterranean during the coming winter season.

In addition to the high wages, the crews have to be larger now on the liners than they were before the war, because the unions demand that one man must only perform one job, no matter how light it may be. For example, the assistant cook, who is shipped to toast bread in the galley, is not allowed to boil an egg; and the assistant sculleryman, who is installed to peel potatoes, is not permitted to remove the skin from an onion.

In other days the crew of a ship were ready to do anything when ordered, from scrubbing the Captain's dog on Saturday night for the church service on the following morning to painting the key of the keelson.

May Drop Bismarck

The Bismarck, under these circumstances, is not desired by the International Mercantile Marine Company, and it is understood that the Cunard Line is contemplating turning the Imperator back to the British Ministry of Shipping after she has made another voyage or two.

As there seems no immediate prospect of the Leviathan being sold, some of the officials at Hoboken have suggested that she might be used to partly solve the housing problem in New York by fitting her up to accommodate about 3,000 persons, which they claim the 55,000-ton liner could do very comfortably. Her costly furniture and fittings, worth more than $1,000,000, disappeared somehow after she was taken over in April, 1917, and have not been located since by the Government officials.

Experts connected with the big shipyards in New York said that it would take $2,000,000 to make the Leviathan into a floating up-to-date apartment hotel. The six passenger elevators are all in good condition and her spacious kitchens have ranges ready to cook all kinds of meals and there is sufficient gear in them now to cater for 5,000 persons easily three times a day.

The public rooms are ample and the swimming pool and gymnasium could easily be put into commission, the officials say. More bathrooms would be needed and furniture and bedding for the cabins and public rooms.

When fitted out properly the liner could be towed up the Hudson and moored within easy reach of the Manhattan shore, where the tenants could go ashore and return by tender at stated hours.

If the Leviathan became popular as a floating apartment house the engines and main boilers could be removed and sold as junk and the empty deck space used as a lawn, tennis court and exercise ground.

FINDS GERMANS

BEHIND HARDING

By Mark Sullivan

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 30.—Arthur Mullen, a good Democrat, who knows everything about Nebraska politics, told me this story:

There is a little town in Nebraska called Bismarck. From the name you can guess the origin of the population. Formerly Bismarck was overwhelmingly Democratic. The politicians and officials at the state capital in tabulating the election returns always knew that Bismarck would turn up 100 Democrats to two Republicans.

Exactly Reversed

That was the case until this year. At the primaries last summer, it was exactly reversed. Bismarck cast 100 Republican votes and two Democratic votes. As Arthur Mullen puts it ruefully, "There weren't enough Democrats left for seed!"

That is the story of the German-Americans, not merely in Nebraska, but everywhere. The Germans are against Wilson and against the league of nations, and this year they are going to vote solidly Republican. Inasmuch as Nebraska has a rather large German population, their votes will largely determine where the state will be found on election day.

Nebraska in 1916 gave Wilson a majority of 40,000 on the issue that "he kept us out of war." This year Nebraska is expected to give a Republican majority of almost the same size on the issue that "he tried to put us into the league."

Nebraska also has a fairly large population of Irish antecedents. They too, are against the league. But the Irish in Nebraska are not expected to vote Republican quite so solidly as the Irish in some other sections of the country.

In addition to these two elements, a certain number of Republican votes will be based on the general disapproval of the conduct of public affairs by Wilson and the Democrats.

League Not Unpopular

In Nebraska as a whole probably the league is a little more popular than Wilson personally. In the two large cities of Nebraska there are five daily newspapers, and four of them are of varying degrees in favor of the league. Only one is out and out opposed to it.

Omitting racial prejudices and omitting Wilson personally, if Nebraska should take a referendum on the league of nations alone, the result might be different from what the election is likely to be. And yet, even in Nebraska, quite aside from racial prejudices, there is a large group of good and thoughtful people who are sure that America ought not to go into the league. Senator Norris of Nebraska is a man who represents the common thought and aspirations of his people as accurately as any man in the Senate, and Senator Norris is wholly against the league.

It might be assumed that Mr. Bryan's disaffection from Cox would account in part for the anti-Democratic trend in the State, but apparently it does not. You never hear of Bryan as figuring in the situation. Anyhow, Bryan's position does not matter. Without him as a factor, or with him as a factor, Nebraska this year is pointed toward a fairly heavy Republican majority.

After the Moulting— EGGS

REMEMBER, going through the moult is like going through a long spell of sickness. To force out the old quills and grow new feathers saps a hen's vitality.

If you expect your hens to be fall producers and winter layers, then feed them Poultry Pan-a-ce-a during and after the moult.

Dr. Hess Poultry Pan-a-ce-a

It contains Tonics that put your moulted hens in fine condition—Tonics that tone up the dormant egg organs—Iron that gives a moulted, run-down hen rich, red blood and a red comb. It contains internal antiseptics that destroy disease germs that may be lurking in the system. No disease where Pan-a-ce-a is fed. It pays to feed Pan-a-ce-a regularly.

It brings back the singing—it brings back the scratching—it brings back the cackle. That's when you get eggs; and it's eggs you want—fall eggs, winter eggs—when eggs are eggs.
