According to the new census figures to be made public soon the population of Canada is about 8,000,000. The census was taken with great difficulty, involving thousands of miles travel by canoe and on horseback.

Miscreants defaced the fine granite of the new county building in Portland Sunday night by painting upon it, a sign reading, "Deer for sale at 29 Deer street." The letters were done in green paint and were large enough to be read at a long distance. It was washed off with considerable difficulty.

The waters of New England claimed 328 victims by accidental drowning during the summer season which ended Saturday. Of this number 161 bathers were sent to their deaths, 114 fell from boats and 34 slipped from insecure places into the water. But 19 persons lost their lives as a result of falling from canoes. Of the deaths in boating and canoeing accidents, rocking the boat or canoe was the cause of but a very small percentage.

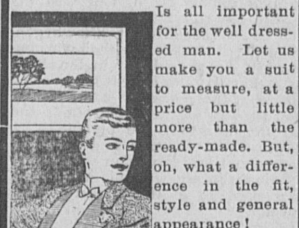

President Post of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. announced Tuesday that on account of the eight-hour restriction of the recent naval act, his company would not bid for either of the great battleships authorized by Congress in March. Mr. Post believed all the private ship building plants would refuse to submit bids for the same reason.

Let those men who give a girl a wink or nod in the streets beware says a Baltimore dispatch. Marshal Farman of that city is thinking of getting on their trail. His attention has been called to a crusade in the Western cities against flirting, and particularly by a letter he received from a mother declaring that married men who flirt with girls should be jailed. The writer of the letter not only recommends that flirting married men be arrested and jailed, but suggests that the whipping post would be good for them.

Old-fashioned poetry, but choicely good.
—Isaac Walton.

Alone With God

He who himself and God would know,
Into the silence let him go,
And, lifting off his feet from earth,
Reach to the inmost depth of all.

How small in that uplifted hour
Temptation's lure and passion's power!
How weak the foe that made him fall!
How strong the soul to conquer all!

A mighty wind of nobler will
Sends through his soul its quickening thrill;
No more a creature of the dead,
He knows himself a child of God.

CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT

Rockland, September 30, 1911.
Personally appeared, J. F. Gregory, who on oath declares: That he is president of the office of the Rockland Publishing Co., and that the issue of The Courier-Gazette, of September 29, 1911, there was printed a total of 4,500 copies before me.

J. F. GREGORY,
Notary Public.

The fifteenth anniversary of the Maine Music Festival is to be celebrated next month in notable fashion. Those who look back upon the beginnings of this institution, and recall the extraordinary labors of Director Chapman, are glad to see the triumph which he has won. It is a great thing that Mr. Chapman's fifteen years of consecutive effort has done for music in Maine. He has earned all the honor that can be bestowed upon him.

Massachusetts seems to be pleased with its encounter with the primaries. The Republicans have done a good thing in nominating Frothingham. We hope he will send Foss back to private life and if what our correspondents tell us can be believed, that is just what is going to be done.

"Why are you sad?" asks a poet in the Boston Transcript. One reason is because this weather compels an over-early starting of the family furnace, which dearly-bought experience teaches us will continue to require careful nursing until late next May. Why shouldn't we be sad?

An addition of 400 men is to be made this year to Uncle Sam's standing army—St. Louis Democrat.

This will give an opportunity for some of them to sit down.

Now it is Italy that threatens to make trouble for Turkey. One way and another this always seems to break out along toward the last Thursday in November.

OUR GRANGE FAIR

Program of Next Week's Events as Planned by Pleasant Valley.

The first week in October is always pre-empted by Pleasant Valley Grange as the time for holding the annual fair at the head of Middle street. The fair opens Tuesday and ends on Thursday night, and a liberal prize will be awarded to anybody who finds a dull moment in the three days. There are no flying machines, to be sure—the closest approach to such a thing being the busy members of the various committees in charge. The program for the three days is announced as follows:

Tuesday—Opening preparations. Officers and members present to assist exhibitors, information, entry blanks, tags, etc., secured at secretary's office from 8 a. m. throughout the day. Baby Show, 1:30 p. m. Special program for evening and other attractions announced later.

Wednesday—Examination of stock and other exhibits and placing of premiums and awards. 10 a. m. cat show, dog show, horse, poultry, swine, etc., complete with other attractions and amusements. Evening entertainment.

Drawing and training of horses and oxen, beginning at 10 a. m. continuing throughout the day, other attractions, amusements and sports. Grand ball in the evening.

For the drawing of horses a purse of $55 will be divided as follows:

First, $25; second, $12; third, $8; fourth, $5. Also for best pulling single horse, $3 first prize, and $2 second prize, and $10 for the winner at sweepstakes. The oxen-drawing prizes are as follows: Oxen 6 ft. 10 in. or over, 1st $5, 2d $3, 3d $2. Oxen under 6 ft. 10 in., 1st $5, 2d $3, 3d $2. Steers 2-year old, 1st $5, 2d $3.

ROCKLAND THEATRE

What the Lewiston Journal said about the two acts to be presented at Rockland Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday:

"Big City" vaudeville was duly represented last night at Music hall and the program was ideal in every way. "The Bare-foot Indian Girl," followed the opening pictures. Her specialty is the violin, and she has a beautiful voice. She drew forth the sweetest of tones. An artist in every particular, she won the audience at the start, holding them until the last note was played. Five numbers, including the most popular, constituted her program. For variety's sake she closed her act with the sentimental selection, "All That I Ask Is Love." This was played with a mingling of discords, giving up an excellent idea how a beginner would undoubtedly deliver the piece. This part of the act served as a laugh maker, thus we can say that "The Bare-foot Indian Girl," charmed with excellent playing, also amused.

"The Naked Truth," a 30-minute musical comedy offering, with Joe Edmonds and Gertrude Lang in the principal roles, supported by a company of eight singers, dancers and comedians, was offering number two. All that is required in a first-class musical show is found in "The Naked Truth."

There is just enough plot to interest, song numbers a plenty, comedy abundant, the whole being presented in a capital manner. Mr. Edmonds, as the Scotch tourist, proved his worth as a delineator of this class of character. His song, "I Am Just Crazy 'bout Harry Lauder," was one of the smartest heard here in months. Miss Lang possesses a well-trained voice which she used to advantage. The entire company is made up of fine musical comedy timber, giving a performance ranking with any organization which appears in theatres charging many times more than the local prices.

KNOX SUPREME COURT

Supreme court adjourned Thursday night. The Courier-Gazette's report of the final business transacted will appear in the next issue.

Judge Haley was tendered a complimentary banquet at the Beach Thursday evening, report of which is deferred to our Tuesday issue.

For tickets, rate, etc., regarding the Maine Music Festival, write or phone A. C. Jones at The Courier-Gazette office.

The Airship Didn't Fly

But It Caused a Great Howdy-Do on the Union Fair Ground—The Crowd Takes a Hand—Trustees Attack Machine, and Owners Threaten to Sue the Town.

An aeroplane that did not "fly in the air," and a big crowd that did, furnished more excitement at Union Wednesday than the good old North Knox Society has ever known in its staid career of 43 years.

It would be hardly fair to call the demonstration a "riot," but it was so close to it that the management of the fair and those who were in charge of the alleged aeroplane have not ceased to thank their lucky stars they escaped so easily.

When the North Knox Society announced that it had engaged a flying machine there was a lack of skepticism to declare that it was "only a bluff." Had they been clinging to the coat-tails of President E. E. Thurston the past three weeks they would have been fully convinced that the trustees were leaving no stone unturned that they might make good their promise. Negotiations were closed with at least three different aeroplane concerns and one after another flushed out. One of the birdmen scheduled to fly over the Union fairground was killed in another state. Still President Thurston persevered. The telephone and telegraph wires were kept so hot with messages that the insulation melted off.

Finally he got in touch with the Eastern Aeroplane Co., which agreed to "design and manufacture aeroplanes of the cross-country type," with a school aerodrome and factory at Allston, Mass. The president is H. W. Longfellow, who may or may not bear relationship to his illustrious namesake. If he had been at Union Wednesday, Sept. 27, from 4 to 6 p. m. he could have found abundant material for a fall poem. The secretary and treasurer is H. J. Warner, who came down to Union in charge of what he was pleased to term a Longfellow-Bleriot machine. With him were two aviators named William Rodd and William Donovan.

Manager Warner early in the morning explained to The Courier-Gazette reporter that his biplane had been in an accident at Skowhegan, and while the motor was then working properly, he should not undertake a flight that day. His reasons seemed to be that there was not a sufficiently good runway on the fair grounds and that the wings of the biplane were warped. Mr. Warner and some of those about him gave some evidence of being slightly warped themselves. Two of three of them were even "so."

In spite of this statement that the machine was not fit to fly with, the Eastern Aeroplane Co. proceeded calmly to build a canvas enclosure and charge 10 cents admission to witness this wingless wizard of the west.

The dimes and nickels of the credulous fair patrons fairly fought each other for the privilege of being first to enter Manager Warner's pocketbook, and the first full did not get in until the information gradually spread that the airship was an Ornament and never felt Real Air circulate through its wings.

By the time the crowd had witnessed two or three heats of the biplane, the crowd fairly manifested its impatience about the canvas bird over near the entrance.

F. M. Simmons, who was officiating as starting judge, announced that there would be no flight that day, but that an attempt would be made to go into the air Thursday. Fancy the dismay and disappointment of six thousand persons, fully half of whom had journeyed to Union for the express purpose of seeing a real airship for the first time. Many of them had paid real money to see what they were now convinced was a fake, pure and simple.

They commenced to surge toward the enclosure, growing angrier and angrier as they came in contact with the winter preparations for a flight. Finally when there were fully 1000 persons around the enclosure the crowd seized hold of the tent guys, and in a twinkling the biplane was exposed to public view.

Epithets were hurled at Manager Warner and his associates, who, if they felt any concern about their personal safety, did not display it. They leaned nonchalantly against the bare tent poles, smoking cigars and seemingly asking for their defiant manner "what are you going to do about it?"

When the demands grew more insistent Manager Warner undertook to make a speech, in which he said that the place was not favorable for an airship flight, and that the trustees were not giving him the police protection promised in the contract.

"Why didn't you fly at Skowhegan?" shouted a dozen voices.

"Why do you charge admission?" asked another chorus.

"It's a damned fake," blurted a husky farmer.

The crowd coincided with the agricultural gentleman's opinion, but all of them did not use the naughty swear word.

"Wheel her out!" demanded the crowd, angrier than before.

"If you don't we will," shouted another.

Manager Warner thought it wise to make a move, and his men began to make a great show of turning the propeller and starting the engine. The propeller revolved at great speed for a half minute, and the engine sounded like the Rockland catapult fired at 3 a. m., but the canvas bird clung gracefully to its position on the ground, and the aviator in his seat seemed in no immediate danger of falling a mile or two out of the clouds.

This bluff worked for about 10 minutes and then the crowd took charge of the machine and hustled it toward the gate. Manager Warner was in the aviator's seat this time, and didn't look real happy about it. Like Opie, the black of Boston Globe fame, he clung to his cigar. He resembled Opie in a number of ways.

In spite of the fact that they were recklessly carting around a machine that costs $10,000 according to the Eastern Aeroplane Co., the crowd remained good natured. Ripe fruit was occasionally hurled at him, but he bore a charmed life that day, for the tomatoes, apples, etc., went wide of the mark. The absence of hen fruit was commented upon by many.

It was impossible to get the aeroplane out the gate, which is all that saved it from being hurled into the picturesque river, but the airship received pretty rough usage before they got it back to its anchorage.

President Thurston arrived on the scene at this juncture, announcing his intention of protecting the machine, while it was under his jurisdiction. He said nobody had suffered more over its failure to fly than he had, and that he had done everything in his power to obtain a real flying airship. President Thurston is a vigorous talker, and an indefatigable worker for the North Knox Society, so his words carried weight, but the agency which finally put the mob to a complete rout was a downfall of rain and approaching darkness.

The fair itself was the largest the Society has ever given, and the attendance Wednesday was the largest ever recorded at the Union fair grounds. It is said to have been between 6000 and 7000, and but for the threatening skies would have been even larger.

Among the early arrivals there were seven Boy Scouts from Warren, who tramped from that town under the lead of the Scout Master, Rev. H. W. Webb. They represented the "Foxes" and "Prospects." They were less than two hours making the trip, and with headquarters on an elevated platform inside of E. E. Jameson's aeromotor were having a joyous time.

There was an especially fine display of apples in the exhibition hall, F. H. Lentest of Union having the largest exhibit. The June hailstorm did a large amount of damage in and around Union, but in spite of this there will be a fairly good crop. Prices are ruling low at present on account of the bumper crop in Canada, so the North Knox farmers are withholding their shipments until the quotations show an upward tendency.

One of the most striking exhibits in the hall was that of Seven Tree Grange, B. F. Jones master. A smart lot of Patrons, those.

C. T. Burgess exhibited on the fair grounds his fine herd of registered Jerseys. These won much praise, as did the herd of Herefords of Tree Grange, B. F. Jones master. A smart lot of Patrons, those.

The midway contained many of the attractions offered at the big state fairs. Games of chance were not in evidence. Fairly legitimate were most of the methods by which the fair patrons were separated from their loose cash. Booze was plentiful but if the women were counted the "drys" were in the majority.

The North Waldoboro Band did a very creditable chore with the ancient and modern selections, but did not attract nearly as much attention as the Corea Corsican Sextette composed of short-skirted maidens with flaxen locks.

The airship did not fly, but "Dare-Devil Cyclone" leaped the gap astride of a bicycle, and got applause instead of jeers.

The judge's stand was in charge of Franz M. Simmons of Rockland, who has come to be looked upon as one of the best starting judges in New England. He handled the field well and impartially. The other judges were F. W. Drew of Hallowell and E. A. Wentworth of Rockport. The

Thursday's Proceedings
The attendance was about 2000.

which was a half or third of what it would have been but for the airship fiasco of the previous day. The weather was splendid, though somewhat chilly for September.

The patrons found that the much discussed airship had been packed away, and was in charge of the North Knox Society, which, it is understood, placed an attachment of $500 upon it this Friday morning.

The contract, as it is understood by The Courier-Gazette, called for the expenditure of $1000 in case the Eastern Aeroplane Co. gave flights on the two days. Should weather prevent the company was to receive but $250. The North Knox Society claims that it expended $300 without getting any results except of a character which greatly injured the Association. The owners of the machine on the other hand threaten to sue the town for damages through alleged mob violence. Manager Warner, after visiting Sheriff Tolman Thursday afternoon seeking protection. Litigation in some form seems quite certain.

In the 2.28 pace the five starters finished in the following order: Tammam Girl, Dotty S., King Edward, Emily Gail and Lady Braden. The time: 2.29 3/4, 2.25, 2.26.

In the 2.18 pace, substituted for the 2.20 pace, there were four starters, finishing as follows: Pollard Wilkes, Miss Gamage, Frank C. and Chester B. The time: 2.21 3/4, 2.23, 2.21 3/4.

NEW EMPIRE THEATRE

At the New Empire Theatre for the last half of this week there is one of the best programs being offered in the picture and vaudeville line that has been seen in Rockland for some time, and anyone who saw the new program yesterday will say the same thing. The pictures are among the best ever offered in the theatre.

Goers of this city, while in the vaudeville line Jim West and the world's famous Morton Sisters are the big noise of the season, doing one of the best singing and dancing acts ever seen in the city. Mr. West will be well remembered by some of our theatre-goers as the principal end with the Primrose & Dockstead minstrels for five years, appearing here with the same company in the Farwell opera house some years ago, and under his watchful eye there is no wonder that Jim West and the Morton Sisters are known from coast to coast by every theatre-goer. One other act, and one of the best in this line is The Great Deigh line of the finest built young men seen in Rockland for a good many seasons.

His posing and balancing act being one of the most talked about on the street of any act of this kind for a long time in the city. The amusement good show with good acts just follow the crowd headed up Oak street. You can't go wrong; only get started early if you wish seats. Doors open at 1:30 in the afternoon and 6:30 in the evening.

The big audience was not disappointed either, as the bill all the way is a slashing good card. Tommy Hayes, musical artist, presents an act that is decidedly out of the ordinary, playing on the bones, glasses, knives, forks and spoons, also iron pipe and cigar boxes, all in all it is first-class comedy sketch "A Four-Leaf Clover" provides the feature offering.

The act is one of the most delightful productions of the season, being presented in a realistic rural setting, with poultry and flying pigeons adding to the picture. All the male characters in the sketch, four in number, are ably portrayed by Mr. Hildreth, and the changes are made with lightning rapidity, each of which provides a stronger and more interesting characterization than that which has gone before. The sketch itself is interesting and cleverly constructed, in fact, it is without a doubt the best ever presented at this popular resort. Next week "The Bare-foot Indian Girl" musical novelty, and Joe Edmonds & Co. in a one act musical comedy "The Naked Truth," eight musical comedy stars, five girls and three gentlemen. One of the biggest and best acts on the Keith circuit.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures radically—that is, it removes the roots of disease. That's better than lopping the branches.

From the horrors of Heart Trouble, if you'd be free, Dr. E. Holden Lansing you should see.

The railroad commissioners will inspect the Knox &amp; Lincoln division next Tuesday.

Next Thursday King Solomon Temple Chapter, will have work on the Royal Arch degree, with refreshments.

The Eastern Star sewing circle meets with Mrs. A. J. Spaulding, Thomaston, next Tuesday afternoon, if pleasant.

Edward M. Tolman is having two weeks' vacation from Thorndike &amp; Hix's. He is now visiting his aunt, Mrs. Ellen A. Dean, in Roxbury, and will attend Brockton fair.

Lady Knox Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold the first meeting of the season with Mrs. Sarah H. Kaler, 70 North Main street, Monday, Oct. 2, at 3 p. m.

The Maine Central's annual excursion to Thomaston and Rockland takes place Saturday and will doubtless bring a large crowd, as usual. It's the last event of the kind before the winter time-table goes into effect.

There will be a meeting for men at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Sunday, Oct. 1, at 4 o'clock. Rev. Carl N. Garland, pastor of the Methodist church, will be the speaker, and Raymond Green will be the soloist. All men and boys cordially invited.

"An Old Subscriber" writes from San Francisco: "I am ashamed of the good old state of Maine voting the state wet." "Old Subscriber" will be less ashamed when he or she learns of the corrected vote. Seven hundred dry will sound much better than 26 wet.

Mail was received at the Rockland office Wednesday bearing the postmark that showed it to have had passage in the first mailbag to travel in this country by flying machine. It was a part of the mail carried aloft by Postmaster General Hitchcock in his flight at Long Island.

You should get your order for Maine Music Festival tickets in on Saturday, Sept. 30, as the list closes that day. Sale of tickets is held in Portland Monday, Oct. 2. There has been no sale of tickets yet. Those who have been expecting tickets will understand by this why they have not arrived.

Last, and a long way from being least, comes our own Pleasant Valley Grange, which will hold its day and Thursday of next week. A good program is planned for each day, and with a bunch of good weather to flatter the occasion, Middle street will be the mecca of pleasure-seekers from far and wide.

W. M. Brewster, who has been touring Aroostook county the past two weeks, brought to The Courier-Gazette office Wednesday three potatoes, whose combined weight was six pounds. Some of the potatoes were Mr. Brewster's, and some of the potatoes were of the Cameron, living in New Brunswick, who picked from the ground 1107 barrels of potatoes in 5 1/2 days.

W. H. Simmons was called to Dorchester, Mass., the day after the sudden death of his brother, J. L. Simmons. The latter was a sufferer from Bright's disease, and was stricken while at work around his home, dying the same day. Deceased was 59 years of age, and a native of Union. Going from that town many years ago he obtained employment in a Waltham watch factory. Later he engaged in the hotel business at Greenfield, N. H., and for some years prior to his death ran a restaurant on Avon street, Boston. He was successful in his various enterprises, and his family, which consists of a wife, two daughters and one son, will inherit a considerable property. Funeral services were held Wednesday.

State Master C. S. Stetson of the Maine State Grange was a visitor in the city Tuesday, coming here for the purpose of organizing the new Pomona Grange. He expressed much gratification over the appointment of Senator Gardner, and regarded it as a wise move on the part of Gov. Plaisted, who might have found the Rockland man a formidable opponent at the next primaries. Mr. Stetson said he would like to see Senator Gardner made Commissioner of Agriculture in the event of a Democratic Presidency. Asked his opinion about the recent vote on the prohibitory amendment State Master Stetson said he was surprised that the constitutional amendment was retained, for he believed that it would be defeated and had reason to believe that from visits to the rural sections. He said that there ought to be some way to elect sheriffs and officials who would enforce the prohibitory law, but that he believed it impossible to do so with the cities of the state for repeal and the country towns divided. He admitted that it would be impossible after the vote for the rural sections to dictate to the cities "how they should regulate the liquor traffic."

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Meserve leave on their annual vacation next Wednesday, and will visit relatives in Bluehill and Sedgwick for nearly two weeks. Their ice cream parlors in the Rankin block will close next Sunday evening, and will not be open for business until they return.

This Friday evening cars will leave Park street at 7.50 and 8.20 for the dance at Crescent Beach, for the benefit of the Universalist fair fund. There will be cars after the dance.

He has served two terms in the House of Representatives, being on such important committees as prison, claims, railroads and rules.

It hardly seems possible that so many people are interested in the uses to which the Chi-Namel Stains and Varnishes can be put. The first day the Demonstrator was at H. H. Crie & Co.'s store the window and store were thronged. If you have not been to see her it will be worth your while as she can tell you many things about their uses in the house.

Liver complaints need not be endured. For hundreds of patients Dr. Lansing has cured.

MAINE BLOWN UP BY MINE

This is the Opinion of Those Who Have Seen the Position of the Ship's Keel and Double Bottom.

New York, Sept. 25.—The Maine was destroyed by an external explosion. There no longer remains any doubt as to the manner in which the United States battleship was sunk in Havana harbor on the night of Feb. 15, 1898, says the New York Sun correspondent at Havana.

The corfform about the wreck has been pumped out and the mud cleared away to a greater extent than ever before. The clearing away of the wreckage reveals the double bottom of the ship with part of the keel standing in a perpendicular position some twenty-eight feet higher than the natural position. This perfectly confirms the report and testimony which Ensign Powelson gave before the investigation board after the disaster and which was based upon the reports made to him by divers just after the explosion.

The correspondent saw the bottom of the vessel yesterday afternoon as it stands unsupported in a perpendicular position by stanchions. The lowest, or platform deck, is in the position described; it is an upheaved mass above the submerged bow. The position of this part of the bottom indicates that what is now the highest point originally and structurally occupied a position at about frame 18. It suggests that there was an explosion of a mine under that part of the ship, say about midway between the stem and the midship section.

The explosion there broke the ship into two parts, throwing one section, including the coning tower, toward the stern, the coning tower falling on the superstructure on the starboard side. From this position in cutting away the wreckage it has been allowed to settle to the main deck slightly forward of the after turret, which is on the port side. Thus the tower is on the opposite side to that on which the explosions took place. Other portions of the superstructure were thrown forward, falling upon the forward deck. The double bottom, as stated, is standing in a perpendicular position above frame 10.

It is a confirmed belief that such a tearing of the ship's bottom could not have been produced by an interior explosion. It is further said that no regulation military mine could have wrought such terrific havoc. It must have been a huge mine, as Capt. Sigbee and others suggested at the time, perhaps a mineship or a large cargo loaded with explosives.

Members of the Maine Board, including Rear Admiral Capps, are reticent in regard to the discovery and will not confess that the revelation is an important one, but anyone with eyes can see the upheaved bottom and guess its meaning. It destroys all reasonable doubt as to the blowing up of the Maine by a mine.

Naval officers at Washington were elated over the story from Havana. "The Naval Board of inquiry which investigated the blowing up of the Maine soon after it happened reported that there had been two explosions, one from the exterior and the explosion of the ship's magazine, and that the first explosion was the exterior one," said Rear Admiral Nicholson, acting Secretary of the Navy. "The report from Havana now bears out the report of that inquiry. I think it will be shown more conclusively when more of the keel of the vessel is exposed that there was an exterior explosion and that this exterior explosion caused the explosion of the magazine, which, of course, did the greater damage."

Army engineer officers refused to discuss the report. They maintain that it would not be known from this exterior explosion caused the explosion of the magazine, which, of course, did the greater damage. General Bixby, chief of engineers, stated upon his return from Havana last summer that in his judgment the condition of the wreck was such that it would never be known from this source what caused the explosion of the ship's magazine, which, undoubtedly did most of the damage and cost so many lives.

More than a month has now elapsed since the theft of "Mona Lisa"—time enough to carry the famous picture to the ends of civilization in the Old World or the New. The search for it continues, but with however dwindling chances of success. Whatever the purpose of the thief—and it certainly was neither an object lesson to the curators of the Louvre nor a ransom—it has probably been achieved by now; whatever the portrait's destination, it has probably been reached. The masterpiece—this has been more than hinted in Europe—may have become the secret possession of some countryman of ours; it may be hanging on the wall of some remote cattle king or planter in South America; it may be hidden in Paris, in New York or London at this moment, to come to light again after many years, as did Gainsborough's "Duchess of Devonshire." It may have been destroyed by the thief in a panic over fancied or real danger of detection.—New York Tribune.

The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my sides, especially my right one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon."—Mrs. SARA M. ALLEN, 2728 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

VINALHAVEN LADIES

The Lafayette Carver Circle Has Another Enjoyable Picnic.

Another picnic outing of more than usual interest is to be recorded in the annals of 1911 of Lafayette Carver Circle, Ladies of the G. A. R. This time the forces mustered at "The Bungalow," by invitation of Mrs. Ira O. Allen, where the large number who availed themselves of this privilege, found enjoyment in full measure and revelled in the beauties of a day such as can be furnished only by glorious autumnal weather. The situation, commanding an expanse of old ocean with the glamour of encroaching bay and surrounding islands, absorbed in cards, lost themselves in a popular retreat during the day for those who found the charms of nature all sufficient. Devotees of art needlework, sought the shady side and cosy corners and worked and chatted to their hearts content; while others, absorbed in cards, lost themselves in Five Hundred and devoted their attention strictly to the game and score card. Everybody's attention was centered on the same thing when the going for dinner and supper gave signals for the gathering of the clans. The long tables presented a display of all the best products of housewifely skill to satiate the appetite that could withstand the temptation of delicious fish smother, baked beans, cabbage and lobster salad.

When the guests had assembled the president of Lafayette Carver Circle, Mrs. T. E. Libby, casually stationed herself at the head of the table with the host and hostess and in her gracious manner presented, in behalf of the Ladies of the G. A. R., a handsome gold foil chain to the host, whose birthday anniversary happened to coincide with the day selected for the outing. The presentation of the gift, conspicuously tied with red, white and blue, loaded as it were, with the annunciation of good comradeship and best wishes, had more power to overcome the recipient and knock him speechless, as he expressed it, than did the fusiliades of war-times. The tri-colored ribbon served as a neck tie for the remainder of the day and the presentation speech in rhyme is here appended:

In the town of Vinalhaven,
On that island in the sea,
Is placed they call the Bungalow,
Well known to you and me.
The view from there is gorgeous
And the place we all agree
Is just the nicest ever
That a picnic should be.

So when the invitation came
From our hostess here, so kind,
We accepted with alacrity
And prayed for the sunshine.
And I guess our prayers were answered
For the day is bright and clear,
And the 20th of September
We'll recall for many a year.

And while we were gathered
Just a word I'd like to say
To Mr. Ira Allen,
Our host so kind this day.

We learned in some mysterious way
That at this time of year
He celebrated his birthday
(That's one reason we are here).
So we Ladies of the G. A. R.
Would beg that he would take
This little token we have brought
And wear for old time's sake.

He's a comrade of the comrades,
A man for all,
And to him we are indebted
For good times and lots of fun.

During the afternoon, Mr. Allen telephoned to "the boys" to come up and bring music for a good time in the evening, and the delegation, with all those who cared to remain until the departure of the late backboards, rounded out a happy day and merry evening with dancing.

The accommodations and conveniences of the bungalow, the capable and willing service rendered by the appointed committee; the whole-hearted hospitality of the host and hostess, assisted by Mr. Allen's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wall, left nothing to be desired; and all who participated would extend personal thanks for favors extended and enjoyment of the occasion.

On Matinicus

Lonely the rock in the sea
With night and day the sea and sky,
With the breakers for company
And the sun and moon's cry;
Lonely the rock and the home
Of the one who keeps the light,
Girded around by the foam
And the surf, by day and by night.

Only the Canvases wings
Of a shallop sailing by,
Or a tiny fishing boat,
Out of an empty sky.
Thought of the one who is led
In the hour of pursuit of gain—
The patient toiling for bread,
And the weary heart yearning to pain.

Alas, in the struggle of life
How many a life has been lost!
And still must continue the strife
How low down on the coast,
Petrels must harvest the deep
To feed the fledglings they love,
And the hungry lighter must keep
His food in the lower above.

The object of this advertisement is not to alarm, but rather to inspire hope in the mind of the despondent sufferer, even though it be the eleventh hour and all previous efforts to obtain relief have proven fruitless. ### POINTS FOR MOTORISTS

The Evils of Insufficient Inflation and Constant Overloading.

The first thing a driver does when one of his tires blows out is to look for some small sharp object that he is certain caused the trouble. The next move very often is to form an opinion that the tire manufacturer is wholly to blame for the accident. As a matter of fact, it is more than likely that the fault lies with the driver for there are two results of carelessness that no tire can possibly withstand insufficient inflation and constant overloading.

Few motorists ever concede the fact that they have been guilty of either fault. Some drivers claim that they have been particularly careful before starting on the particular trip when the blow-out occurred, to test their tires so as to be sure that the air pressure was absolutely correct and others claim that their cars were far from overloaded. Many drivers forget that previous careless treatment affected the tire's strength. That, perhaps, with the exception of a few times, ever since the first day of the tire's service, it had been compelled to carry an overweight of from one to two hundred pounds, and had probably been insufficiently inflated most of the time.

The fact that there was no overload or under-inflation at the time the blow-out occurred proves nothing. To draw a tragic parallel, a man may die suddenly of some internal disease which unknown to him has been developing for a considerable time. In the same way a tire will eventually succumb to a long sustained strain. In the greater number of cases it is only after a long period of heavy work that signs of wear begin to appear.

It should be remembered that tires are not made of granite or concrete but of rubber and should be treated accordingly.

The question of insufficient inflation and tire overloading are thoroughly discussed in the "Book of Ebendun" issued free to motorists by the Michelin Tire Company of Milltown, New Jersey.

Of all the hard, harsh and truthful things said of the saloon, the Portland Express not one is more severe than the picture given of this institution by that western liquor journal, The Wholesaler and Retailer's Review, published in San Francisco. In painting a word portrait of the American saloon, the liquor organ says: "Any man who knows the saloons well can honestly say that most of them have forfeited their right to live. The model saloon exists chiefly in the minds of the editors of liquor journals, in the imaginations of a certain type of ministers, and in the mythical stories sometimes rehearsed at saloonmen's campfires. Unfortunately the average tipping house is a place of ill-fame, a place of debauchery. With comparatively few exceptions our saloons are houses of drunken men, profanity and obscenity of the vilest possible type."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be forever lost. Cases of deafness of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars.

Crawford Ranges

few others would be sold

In the saving of time, trouble and labor and in superior cooking ability, no other range can compare with them.

The Single Dampier (patented) is the only perfect fire and oven control; one motion—slide the knob to "kindle," "bake" or "check," and the range does the rest.

The Two Hods in the base (patented) is a wonderful trouble-saving feature. One Hod for ashes, instead of the old, clumsy ash pan; the other Hod for coal.

The Oven with its cup-joint flues is heated all over alike; no "cold corners," no "scorching spots."

The Patented Grates save trouble and money.

Auxiliary Gas Ranges at the end or above the range, if desired.

Ask the Crawford agent to show you and write us for circulars.

TRIMMING FALL HATS

What the Millinery Trade Review Says About This Important Subject.

In previous issues mention has been made of fringe. Now as a rival for chenille fringe we have silk fringe and fringe of tiny beads, such as adorn the edges of a lamp shade. In just the same way it is used on the hats, although silk and chenille fringe appears around and over the crowns as well. Then, too, there are worsted fringes for the worsted fad. While it has made no strides forward toward the ranks of fashion, it is still a fad. White worsted as a trimming for black velvet hardly seems appropriate, yet it is used.

Wide silk braid used as a binding as well as trimming is also in evidence. White silk braid, the kind usually associated with the dressmaking trade, is used on velvet and velour hats, white on black or a deep purple, blue or green being smartest. Sometimes a band of braid is put over a high crown, giving it the appearance of being divided. This is a curious effect on one of the police helmet crowns, which by the way is a popular crown; buttons are a natural accompaniment to this braid and are usually used right in the braid.

Speaking of crowns, while of course high crowns lead, it is not at all unlikely that the dress hat of the better grade will be large and comparatively low. Crowns in any event are important and curiously shaped, being rounded for the most part, although some go to an extreme point like a dunce cap. Brims are not very wide and roll up at front and back or else form a decided peak at either of these points, the peaks being very well liked, that is, the close-fitting poke of the first and second empire which periods are being freely borrowed from the up-to-date hat.

It is time for fur to put in an appearance if it is to be worn, and the indications are that it is hands of fox and other long-haired furs that are introduced on many hats and turbans. Mole and sealskin are also used. There are not many all fur hats being shown, however, but a touch of fur is regarded as a smart touch and is frequently introduced.—The Millinery Trade Review.
