ELKS BOWLERS

SWAMP CAPT. FARMER'S PIN PICKERS

The Elks bowling team played a return match against Capt. Farmer's picked team Thursday evening, Mar. 3d, on the S. A. alleys, the result being that when they left, Capt. Farmer and his crew were trying to dig themselves out from under the avalanche of 109 of the "skinny sticks" which covered them.

"Stoney" was the hero of the Elks with the splendid total of 320.

Ervin and Dunphy following with good averages.

The match was watched with interest by a large crowd.

MEDALS FOR B. & A.

SERVICE MEN

Bronze medals have been presented by President Percy R. Todd and the board of directors of the Angor & Aroostook railroad to the men in the railroad employ who entered the service in the world war. Sixty-two men in Bangor and along the line received the medals, which are of handsome and appropriate design.

The following letter of presentation accompanied the gifts of each man:

March 2, 1921.

To ex-service men employed by the Bangor & Aroostook railroad:

It is with deep regret as a citizen of this country that I feel that the lessons that we should have learned from the world war in which you took an active part are speedily being forgotten by a great body of the people of this country. To the minds of many this tremendous event is almost a thing of the past, and in the minds of some, at least, the services rendered by our soldiers and sailors are already forgotten. But to show that this is not true of all I take pleasure in presenting you with the enclosed medal as a slight recognition of the part you took in the war and hope you will always retain it as an expression of appreciation and good will from the directors of this company and myself.

Yours very truly,

Percy R. Todd,

President.

COUNTY FORD DEALERS

AT BIG MEETING IN HOULTON

At the Ford dealers get-together meeting held in Houlton Tuesday, Mar. 1st, Manager Jones of the Cambridge, Mass. plant paid a fine tribute to the local distributors Berry & Benn, when he said that "the Ford Motor Co. have been holding these get-together meetings of Ford dealers throughout New England for the past three weeks, but for show rooms, equipment and system, Berry & Benn have the best of any yet visited."

With the dealers, over 30, were several officials of the Ford Motor company including Mr. Esslinger, Mr. Cook and Mr. Webster.

These officials made several informal talks during the day and one of the features of the meeting was the showing of moving pictures of the Ford plant. One of the officials brought out the fact that Henry Ford had been experimenting for 15 years in perfecting the tractor, Fordson, and had spent $2,000,000 in the work. It was also brought out that 145,000 of the 350,000 tractors were Fordson's.

The out of town dealers were guests of the Ford Motor Co. at the Snell House for dinner, the Messrs. Mercier serving a most excellent repast.

Among those present were A. E. Webber, Danforth; Stetson H. Hussey, Farnham, Patten; Mr. Clark, Presque Isle; and representatives from the Fort Kent Motor Co. and Ashland Garage Co.

TOWN MEETING CANDIDATES

As far as can be learned at the present time the candidates for the office of Selectmen at the annual Town Meeting next Monday, March 14, are as follows:

First Selectman, Robert M. Lawlis, A. E. Astle.

Second Selectman, Howard Webb, W. R. Yerra.

Third Selectman, A. E. Carter, E. B. Leighton.

Mr. Webb and Mr. Carter are members of the present board.

BOWLERS GUESTS

OF PRESQUE ISLE

Royally Entertained by Mooseleuk Club of that Town

Thirty-four years ago an absent minded creator brought great joy to our family in the form of a child, endowed with a very peculiar type of beauty,—me! Since that day, which is under-lined in red ink in Redpath's history of Linneus, we have had some splendid sensations and surprises, but there isn't anything quite so satisfying and thrilling as being met at the station by a brass band.

That's what happened to about twenty-five of us Dux when we departed at Presque Isle, Friday, to bowl the boys of the Mooseleuk Club. And it was a Mooseleuk band, too, or at least 19 were and the 20th had belonged to the club, but resigned when they voted to admit Leon Howe and Joe Hedrich. It was a corking band. Everyone had an instrument and when they played, about everyone would work on the same tune, that is, all but Frank Hayes. The only thing he could seem to coax out that old bass-horn was, "Nellie was-as-a ladie but last night she dyed."

We paraded down Main street escorted by about 150 of Mooseleukers. Mitchell and Fullerton were at the head of the procession, closely flanked by the police department. An old lady from Chapman plantation, when the above mentioned paraded by, was heard to remark, "There go the two miscreants who chloroformed Allen Ward!"

The writer was the recipient of many admiring glances from females on the side lines as he walked proudly down the street with big Albert Joy, the guy who runs the "Merchant's Trusting Bank," and who will some day own it unless the bank examiners come often. Although naturally modest whenever, as often happens, I am the cynosure of feminine orbs, my waist band swelled with pride until it resembled Ralph Hardy's or Ed Wilkin's, until I overheard a woman say, "That little fellow with the pointed chin and unnatural nose must be Albert's little boy." I walked behind Hassell after that. I'd rather be Jason's chore boy than Joy's heir apparent.

The parade ended at the club rooms where we submitted to another operation by the band.

The first bowling match of the day started at 3.30. Five strings were rolled, P. I. winning four and the pin-fall by 70 pins. Hardy was high man with the nice average of 96. Bridgman cast most of the radiances for the Dux, averaging 93 and getting high single, 114. Jimmy Nason started strong but too many nights in Debec's red light district has hurt his staying qualities.

One of the finest suppers in the history of the human race was served in the club rooms at 6.30. And, Aunt Kitty! aren't those Presque Isle ladies easy to look at!

They took poor Bernard Archibald and Bill McGary right off their feet. Bernard would fasten his oculars on a little white aproned brunette and watch her twice around the room, without throwing his neck into reverse, just as an old owl will twist his head when you walk around his tree. McGary showed about as much interest as Bernard but seemed to have more self restraint. Still no one in our crowd would ever accuse Mrs. McG., of incurring needless expense if she should insist on accompanying Bill in his future excursions to Presque Isle.

But, seriously speaking, it is a lamentable fact that every member of the Mooseleuk club seems to have been able to persuade one or more handsome women to marry and help support him. A matrimonial bureau could out ponzi Ponzi if they could ever find out the line of argument which Loane, Franklin, Stevens or Jacques put up when they persuaded their wives to throw themselves away.

Even staid old "Pa" Lunt, his eyes brimming with tears and mouth with remark to a waitress,—"If you'll promise to be a half sister to me, I'll quit the Houlton Times and come up here as office boy for the Star-Herald."

At 7.30 we undertook the impossible; that is we tried to defeat the "big five" on their own alleys with at least a half dozen Mooseleuk members watching every figure our scorers put down.

The first string was a hummer and was won by P. I. with a four pin margin. Ralph Wood's smash ball ripped up 122 pins in this stanza with young Jim Moir breezing along with 110.

We were glad to see Judge Wood get the silk shirt which was offered for high single. It must be mighty hard for a Democrat lawyer to own

There will also be six other classes to be named later and the Chamber of Commerce Free for All with a purse of $1200.

Entries close June 1st with payment of 2 per cent. ($10) when horses must be eligible. Horses to be named July 14, with balance of entry 1 per cent. ($5).

Nominations transferable up to July 14.

All entries not declared out in writing by date of final payment will be held for full three per cent.

Time allowance must be claimed at time of making entry.

Entrance Fee 3 per cent. 7 per cent. additional from winners.

Northern Maine Fair

Purses and stakes aggregating $8,800 for four days' racing in connection with the Northern Maine Fair at Presque Isle, Sept. 6, 7, 8 and 9 are announced by R. J. Smith, the veteran superintendent of racing, who tops off the list with a $1,500 Merchants' and Manufacturers' purse for free-for-all pacers. The racing is in connection with the new Maine and New Brunswick circuit.

Six stakes, each valued at $800, and five class races, with purses of $500 each, complete the Northern Maine Fair's program and it is expected to attract the greatest bunch of trotting and pacing stars ever assembled in Maine's famous potato belt.

The early closing events, each worth $800, are:

2.12 trot and pace, 2.15 trot and pace, 2.18 trot, 2.19 trot and pace, 2.25 trot and pace. The five class events, each for apurise of $500, are: 2.17 trot and pace, 2.21 trot and pace, 2.25 pace, 2.25 trot and three year out and under trot. The 12th event on the program is the $1,500 M. and M. free-for-all. In the early closers nominations will close on May 1. Horses to be named on July 1. The class races will close Sept. 2. Entries for will be three per cent. in both stake and class events and the additional deduction from money winners will be seven per cent.

HOME NURSING CLASS

Through the efforts and under the instruction of Miss Clark, the school nurse, a class of High School girls have started a course which is proving to be very interesting as well as instructive to all concerned, including the teacher.

On four afternoons a week Miss Clark meets the girls at the Red Cross rooms where they are instructed in the physical culture relating to children. There are now twenty-five girls in the class and with the assistance of a number of merchants they have plenty to work with. Dunn Furniture Co. have loaned them beds, Frank P. Berry bedding and Hatheway Drug Co. several articles to use in the demonstrations and this week "Mary Jane," a full sized doll completely outfitted will arrive from Augusta, being loaned by the Department of Health for the purpose of showing the class just how she should be cared for.

The work laid out composes a course at the end of which those taking the full course will be obliged to submit to an examination and if satisfactory they will receive certificates, and it may be arranged so that they can get credit for something on their regular total rank in school.

This is a fine thing for the girls and under the excellent instruction of Miss Clark cannot help but be a very valuable part of school work.

"Mont" Gerow, the popular driver, who has been connected with the Reed Stables at Ft. Fairfield, Me. for the past 14 years, has accepted a position on the Newport, Vt. stock farm and has already left for that place to assume his duties.

PAST MASTER'S NIGHT

The annual Past Masters night of Monument Lodge No. 96 F. & A. M. was held on Wednesday with a large attendance.

Two candidates received the M. M. degree worked by the following officers, most of whom were Past Masters.

Past Master B. Archibald W. M. Past Master A. O. Putnam S. W. Past Master N. Tompkins J. W. Past Master Jas. Archibald S. D. Past Master Chas. H. Fogg J. D. Past Master Geo. A. Gorham S. S. Geo. S. Gentle J. S. S. R. Parks, Chap. T. V. Holdaway, Marsh. Hazen Nevers, Secy. W. B. Clark, Treas.

Following the work refreshments were served and a Victrola concert was given by A. E. Astle.

TWO RECORD COWS OWNED BY HOULTON MAN

In the latest "Reported Tests of Holstein-Friesian Cows," published bi-weekly by Malcolm H. Gardner, Delavan, Wis., Superintendent of Advanced Registry of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, the Summit Lumber Co., of Davidson, Maine, have two of their pure-bred registered Holsteins listed.

One cow, Marion Clover Blossom 3rd, is reported as having made at the age of five years and ten months, a record of 645.3 lbs. of milk and 23.546 lbs. of butter fat in seven days, equivalent to 29.43 lbs. of butter. Her record for thirty days is 2020.0 lbs. of milk and 89.487 lbs. of butter fat, equivalent to 111.85 lbs. of butter. The other cow, Beyta Korndyke Betts De Kol, is reported as having made at the age of four years and nine months, a record of 525.9 lbs. of milk and 20.366 lbs. of butter fat in seven days, equivalent to 25.45 lbs. of butter. Her record for thirty days is 2158.3 lbs. of milk and 83.034 lbs. of butter fat, equivalent to 103.792 lbs. of butter.

Tests of this kind are supervised by one or more representatives from the Dairy Division of the College of Agriculture, present at each feeding and milking, to weigh the milk and test it for butter fat content. A duplicate sample of this milk is forwarded to the State College, where careful check is made before the record is reported.

HON. JAMES L. DOHERTY

The many Houlton friends of James L. Doherty, a native of Houlton, were sorry to learn of his death which occurred at his home in Springfield, Mass. on Thursday last after an illness of some duration from stomach trouble.

James L. Doherty was born in Canterbury, N. B., March 24, 1865, moving to Houlton when a small boy. He attended the town school, graduating from Ricker in 1885 and entered Bowdoin, graduating from this institution in 1889 and then took up the study of Law in the office of Madigan & Madigan, being admitted to the Bar in 1891 he located in Old Town where he practiced, later going to Springfield where he has since resided and took an active part in the affairs of his city and state. He was City Solicitor of Springfield 1910-1912, a director of the Boston and Maine Railroad and Chairman of the five Federal Trustees of the New Haven stock interests in the Boston and Maine Railroad. He was a Director of the Chicago National Bank and Trustee of the Springfield Ins. for Savings in Springfield, and during the war was Chairman of the District exemption board.

An overseer of Bowdoin College, he took a deep interest in all of its activities and seldom missed any Commencements or reunions of his class.

Mr. Doherty was a self made man in every respect. He worked his way through school and college and after being admitted to the Bar gradually worked his way up the ladder of success until he reached a very high standing in the community and state in which he resided, being held in high esteem by all whom he knew or came in contact with him, and he will be greatly missed.

In Oct. 1895 he was married to Miss Harriet Madigan and besides his widow he leaves to mourn his loss, two sons, James in the Banking business in Springfield, and Louis, a student at Harvard Law School, having graduated also from Bowdoin. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Wilbur Bither of Linneus and Miss Jennie Doherty of this town, and three brothers, John of New Limerick, Thos. and Fred of Houlton.

The funeral was held from his late home on Saturday and interment was made at Springfield.

G. H. Page, one of the prominent business men of Fort Kent, was in town Monday and Tuesday, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Donell.

CHAUTAUQUA

PROGRAM

A Fine List of Entertainers for this Summer's Program

A male quartette is always interesting. The "Syracuse Varsity" boys will informally lead the way in an evening of rollicking music—College songs, new and old; favorite songs of Yesterday, and gay snatches of popular melodies with a harmonious stage setting, make this evening with the College Boys one of particular pleasure.

Strickland Gillilan, the best known lecture-humorist in the country, will produce laughter wholesale by his Lecture "Just Among Ourselves." "Strick" as he is familiarly known, has been writing stories and verses for the leading magazines and newspapers ever since he was able to walk. He is a sure cure for the blues. Brush the Great, the wizard of magic art, with his big show of illusions and surprises, is the joy of children, and the puzzle of grown-ups. He makes you laugh and then makes you think, and then makes you laugh again.

The International Concert Party is a quartette of gifted musicians who represent Sweden, Canada, Ireland and the United States. Mother Lake, the beloved lady who knows more about children than she does about grown-ups, will give her lecture full of heart-appeal, "The Divine Rights of the Child." The Arion Concert Company will surprise you by a novelty in every feature. Hear Winslow Rouse, the boy-soprano. He sings.

And, speaking of novelties, "Princess Nacomee" presents a distinctly novel Indian Company. These real "red-skins" will sing and play, and tell honest-to-goodness stories presenting a true picture of Indian life in music and legend. Chief Tahan has something to tell you which rivals the most thrilling fiction, in his "Up from Savagery."

The "New Englanders," headed by Miss Anna Eichhorn, among the best violinists in the East, will present a delightful program of vocal and instrumental music, with readings, and special unique costume features,—one especially pleasing, "The Girls of Different Periods."

The Lumberjack orator, Sherman Rogers, who is a recognized authority on capital and labor problems, will deliver his stirring lecture, "Quit Passing the Buck." Mr. Rogers is a contributor to the editorial sections of the Outlook and the Saturday Evening Post and is consulted frequently by capitalistic powers, as well as by the great mass of the laboring class. He is a "stand-patter" for Justice—justice for both labor and capital.

Perhaps the most elaborate event of the well-filled days will be the presentation of the big Broadway comedy "The Cinderella Man" originally presented by Henry Miller at the Henry Miller Theatre, New York. Here will be a sure-fire play, acted by a cast of New York Professionals, and headed by Miss Mildred Davis and John Ryan, two of Broadway's favorite players. These actors were hired especially for this production and will render the play complete with special scenery and effects. 'Tis said that this feature is worth the price of several season tickets.

And a series of Joy-Days for the Junior Chautauquans! Days filled with happy "good times," from the "Pied-Piper's P-Raid" to the "Jolly" Paget. New stories and games; a picnic and a Stunt-party, and the real fun of becoming "honor citizens" of the Junior Community. Oh! 'Tis a grand and glorious feeling! as Harry Lauder would chuckle, to be a Joyous Junior for Chautauqua's Jolly days!

We haven't space to tell you all about the big program, but we can assure you that every day will be a big day, and worth seeing and hearing.

HOULTON MUSIC CLUB

The Houlton Music Club spent a very enjoyable evening at the home of its founder, Miss Mary Burpee, Court street, on Thursday, March 3.

There was a large attendance and all were delighted to see present Mrs. M. L. Buck, pianist, who came as an accompanist for her niece, Miss Barrett.

Miss Burpee was chairman of the program and her thorough knowledge of her subject, "Shakespeare in Music," together with the careful arrangement of every detail and the pleasing execution of every number, made the evening one long to be remembered.

Mr. L. Mulkern Dist. Freight Agent and Jas. Burke, Traveling Freight Agent, both of the St. John office of the Canadian Pacific railway, were in town Tuesday on business.

QUARTERLY MEETING OF THE UNITED BAPTIST ASSOCIATION

Beginning Wednesday afternoon and continuing through Thursday, the United Baptist churches of South Aroostook will meet with the First Baptist church for their Quarterly Meeting. The missionary responsibility of our churches will be presented Wednesday afternoon in sermons and open discussion by different pastors. The Young People's work will be the topic for the evening service. The presidents of several C. E. Societies will give brief talks which will be followed by an address.

Thursday morning there will be a Woman's Missionary hour, the minister's conference and a discussion of local church problems. The afternoon service will consider the general subject of evangelism and there will be several sermons along this line. Rev. Margaret Koch and Rev. W. P. Richardson of Island Falls will preach at the closing service in the evening.

This group of churches comprise about 1600 resident members and gave over $6000 last year for benevolences. The public are cordially invited to attend all of these meetings.

Mrs. Chas. P. Barnes is in Augusta where she is spending a few days with her husband Speaker Chas. P. Barnes.

HOULTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The new directors of the Houlton Chamber of Commerce held a meeting on Monday evening for the election of officers for the ensuing year. The Treasurer and Secretary were not members of the Board, but are the same as last year and the list is as follows:

President, Frank A. Peabody
Vice Pres., A. J. Saunders
Secretary, Chas. H. Fogg
Treasurer, Arthur O. Putnam

The full board now consists of the above and Jason Hassel, Fred L. Putnam, Fred E. Hall, A. G. Munro, Frank P. Clark, L. S. Purington, T. V. Holdaway.

The members talked over many matters of interest and the meeting lasted until a late hour, and Houlton can be assured of a "live wire" board for the ensuing year.

If any citizen has at any time matters which they would like to have brought before the board they will be gladly welcomed at any meeting, the regular session being the first Monday of each month at the office of the president.

POTATOES

The potato market is a little better, buyers are offering $1.35 for Green Mountains, although the roads are getting hard, there are quite a few offerings.

The Produce News says:

For the first time in two months there is a slight improvement in prices, but the volume of the demand has not expanded to any extent. The recent thaw is said to have curtailed shipments as potatoes that are pitted in the fields are difficult to reach now with wagons, and cannot be hauled to railroad stations. Merchants here are complaining bitterly of the high freight rates on potatoes, which nearly eat up the entire proceeds of the sale at the present low prices. This would not be felt so much if prices were higher. A bag of Maine potatoes, weighing 165 lbs., which is now selling at $2@2.25 on the wholesale market, is subject to a freight cost of $1.55, the bag cost 25c, the cartage at this end 12 1/2c, while the commission man gets 8c for selling and financing. Thus it costs $1.80 to bring a bag of potatoes from Maine and sell it on the New York market, and with Cobblers selling today at $2.25 and Green Mountain at $2.75, giving the grower for his potatoes and work, 45c for 2 1/2 bu. of Cobblers, and 55c for the same quantity of Green Mountains. For several weeks past these potatoes were selling at about the cost of freight, and incidental marketing expenses. State potatoes are arriving more freely and sold at $2.50@2.60 on the 165 lb. bags, while the 10 peck bags ranged from $2@2.25. Some bulk stock at the yards sold at $3@3.25 on 180 lbs. of Maine, and $2.50@2.75 on State potatoes.

CONG. HERSEY REPORTS ON POST OFFICE CLOSING

March 4, 1921.

Charles H. Fogg, Sec. Houlton Chamber of Commerce Houlton, Maine.

Dear Charles: I have just received the attached letter from Secretary Moyle of the Treasury Department and it is about such a reply as I had expected, but I want to assure you and the patrons of the Houlton post office that we do not intend to let the matter rest there, but as soon as the new administration gets settled down which is coming in this noon the matter will be taken up and I expect favorable results.

Sincerely yours,
IRA G. HERSEY,

OUR NEXT SECRETARY OF STATE

The announcement that Mr. Chas. E. Hughes of New York has been definitely selected as secretary of state in the forthcoming cabinet is altogether gratifying. For some weeks it has been well understood that the appointment would be made if Mr. Hughes could be induced to accept it. It is none the less a gratification to know that the matter has now passed from the realm of probabilities and become an established fact.

As to the personal qualifications which Mr. Hughes possesses for this important post there can be no question. He is in the front rank among American jurists. His temperament was regarded as sufficiently judicial to warrant his appointment to the supreme court by President Taft. Mr. Hughes is very widely and perhaps justly regarded as a statesman of the coldly impersonal type, never stirred by his emotions and subjecting every question of public policy to the security of his relentless logic. For this reason, among others, he did not measure up to the highest expectations as a presidential candidate. But these qualities, whatever handicap they may involve during a political campaign, are undoubtedly assets in one who is charged with the conduct of diplomatic negotiations. Sound diplomacy calls for the exercise of intellect rather than emotional qualifications.

As secretary of state Mr. Hughes will not be a rubber stamp. Mr. Harding has given public assurance of this fact by his announcement that all information concerning the foreign policy of the United States must be sought, after March 4, from the state department and not from the White House. That is as it ought to be. The President is ultimately responsible for the efficient conduct of all the executive departments, it is true; but this does not mean that he should arrogate to himself the routine functions of any of them. Those who know Mr. Hughes will have no difficulty in believing that he accepted a post in the new administration with the understanding that he shall have adequate scope for his own initiative and that his calm judgment upon matters of diplomatic policy shall carry some momentum. To give up his law practice, which is one of the most lucrative in New York, must necessarily involve a heavy personal sacrifice. Mr. Hughes would hardly have agreed to do this if he did not see an opportunity for great public service ahead of him.

CANADA'S TARIFF POLICY

The tariff has more become an important issue in Canadian politics. At the opening of the parliamentary session in Ottawa last week it was announced that some tariff changes would be made, but that the policy of protection would not be altered in any substantial degree by the present government. That is enough to provide a clean-cut issue for the next Dominion election which cannot now be very far off.

Ten years ago the Conservative party rode into power upon the question of reciprocity. The Liberals, under the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, had been at the helm since 1896 and seemed to have a fair chance of continuing for a few years longer; but that reciprocity agreement with President Taft proved their undoing at the elections of 1911. During the war the Conservatives took some of the leading Liberals into camp and formed a coalition or Unionist administration which continued until the conflict was over, when some of the Liberals went back to their own camp. Despite these defections and the loss of some strength at by-elections, the administration still holds on and still calls itself Unionist government. It probably possesses a sufficient margin over its opponents in the House of Commons to carry it through the present session.

A HOULTON MAN'S

EXPERIENCE

Can you doubt the evidence of this Houlton citizen?

You can verify Houlton endorsement.

Read this:

C. O. Trenholm, 65 Elm St., Houlton, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills always do me good whenever my kidneys get out of order. They do just as represented every time and I recommend them willingly. I have to be on my feet many hours through the day and part of the night and it's mighty hard on the kidneys. My back ached so it almost put me past going. My kidneys were not acting regularly and showed other signs of disorder. Whenever I feel these symptoms coming on I get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at French & Son's Drug Store. After using them the trouble leaves me."

On the tariff issue Canada is roughly divided east and west. The industrial interests, which are centered in the East, are strongly protectionist. The agricultural areas of the West want the tariff lowered. The situation is something like that which existed in this country, as respects the North and South, in the years preceding the civil war. This does not mean, however, that in a general election either political party would completely sweep any section of the Dominion. There are various cross-currents which would exert their influence. If the Fordney bill, or anything similar to it, should presently become law in this country it would strengthen the hands of the high-tariff element in Canada. On the other hand the Farmer-Labor party has been gaining strength in the Dominion and its influence for tariff reform may prove to be considerable.

During the war tariff questions dropped into the background of politics in all countries. But there is no reason to think that this situation will last much longer. Both at Washington and at Ottawa the tariff issue is rapidly forcing its way to the front once more.

WHY GO TO HIGH SCHOOL?

Marshalling fact upon fact to prove that a young person cannot afford to lose a high school education, Dr. A. E. Winship, New England's famous educator and editor, presents as masterly a discussion of this theme as has been given to the educational world for some time. It is an article that ought to be read to every class of grammar school graduates when the decision is being made as to whether they will attend school longer. It ought to be read before parent-teacher associations and distributed individually in the homes of such pupils.

Dr. Winship contrasts a life salary ranging around a maximum of $16 a week, and a possible saving of $400 for the four years, if the pupil works, with the advantages of attending high school. He admits that if a student can learn to do what he wants to do better at work than after attending high school he will not debate that point, but adds significantly that he has never met such a person. Also he admits if a family really needs the child's financial help, he will not dispute them; but adds, again, that usually this plea is an excuse, not a legitimate reason, and that the gain is inconsiderable and the ultimate loss great.

The range of studies that broaden a person's interests, the multiplying of acquaintance and friendship, the significance of a good record from a good school, the enumeration of opportunities to which the door is absolutely closed if a boy or girl is not a graduate of a high school and a list of desirable professions and occupations where the high school product has the best chance—all are covered thoroughly by Dr. Winship. Then there are the by-products, not strictly commercial in aspect, but perhaps of the greater value in life after all—the ability to read intelligently and to talk with enlarged vocabulary and keen apprehension of facts, to think logically and clearly, to tackle new problems with confidence and success, to discriminate against frauds in social and business life, to evaluate people and conditions—all life itself—most helpfully; these are the assets of the high school graduates, as outlined by Dr. Winship.

COMING OF THRIFT

Having been for a long time the most reckless spendthrift of all nations, there are indications that the United States is definitely headed away from evil reputation in this regard and may become as noted for thrift as hitherto notorious for extravagance.

In all municipalities sentiment today, more characteristically than ever before, is against expenditure of the taxpayers' money for any but the most essential purposes, the public health and safety. Convenience, even, must await more favorable days for support.

Businesses that not long since were limiting their profits only by an easy conscience, and making their enlargements with assurance of expectation free as the unclouded sky, are studying the science of salesmanship and calling in experts upon costs and management.

The throwing away of money by individuals is a thing of the past. People are buying more carefully, counting the pennies, and paying serious attention to the pocketbook and its problems.

Even extravagant ideas, of all sorts have come into disrepute. Conservatism, prudence, moderation, thought for things practical rather than sentimental, whether the dealing is with matters of foreign policy, the workings of the government, commercial operations, finance, social arrangements, or so small a concern of life as the selection of a bathroom mat, are moving into the mood and manner of American life with a momentum wealth of promise for developments of visible upon all sides and with a permanent value in the future.

The progress is rather painful and occasionally humiliating, but none the less beneficial for all that. We need it, and deserved punishment.

"LET'S GO"

The chief of the morale branch of the war service said a few days ago, that "Let's go" was the one slogan that seemed to stir the soldiers to action better than any other.

This phrase is interesting for the very simplicity of it. It suggests that many of the big results of life are not achieved by any argument. If the chief of morale had talked for an hour to a group of soldiers about the duty of making an assault on some fortified position, they might not have felt any more like doing it. They might realize more keenly than at the start the awful peril of the thing, and the gruesome chances they were taking.

But when someone jumps up and says "Let's go," the thrill of consent and comradeship runs through the men like an electric shock. The psychology of it is the tremendous power of example. People feel they can do what other people do. They do not like to hang back where others show courage. One strong man exemplifying patriotism and heroism by his acts, counts more than long orations about duty and the logic of the situation.

So it is in all the proceedings of daily life. You may argue until you are hoarse, and you may not be able to inspire any active interest in some measure for the benefit of the community. But if some wide awake fellow gets up and leads the way, people are ashamed to show unwillingness to follow. They dislike to admit that they have less public spirit than other people have, and they are willing to go as far as other people will lead them. It is a great force working for progress.

If you can get leadership, you can get things done. So "Let's go!" here in Houlton for every good movement that will make the home town a better place to live in, a nobler realization of human ideals.

THE PROMOTING SPIRIT

A man was traveling in a Pullman car smoking room the other day through a neighboring state. He fell into conversation with the man next him. The latter disclosed the fact that he came from a certain city in that state. He began to dilate on the advantages of his home town. He inquired what his fellow traveler's business was.

Being informed that he was a newspaper man, he began to tell about the papers issued in his home town and what a fine chance a fellow would have to start in with one of those sheets. He seemed just determined to persuade this fellow traveler to locate there.

Pretty soon another man entered the compartment, and this booster began to try to interest him in his home city. Evidently he made it his business at all possible opportunities to boost his home community.

If there was a group of business men working as persistently to advertise Houlton by word of mouth, the results of their effort would be felt before long.

TRY THE OTHER TACK

Don't talk pessimism. It puts similar ideas into the minds of other people, and such ideas create doubt and uncertainty and hamper the ordinary progress of commercial activity and expansion.

If you can't see anything good in the future get some other fellow to do your looking for you until you can adjust yourself to conditions and acquire a better perspective of affairs in general.

If a man goes out in the morning and tells every person he meets that he is sick and keeps up the fiction from day to day, it will grow on him until he is in reality unfit for business.

It is so in the business world. If you want to create disaster go out and preach it until other people begin to take stock in what you say and to see things as you do. Then you will soon have disaster—at least for yourself. But if you want better times go out and preach them, and put the joy of confidence into other hearts as well as into your own. The response will be just as great.

Be a sport and act the part.

EDWARD P. RICKER DEFENDS TOURISTS BUSINESS

The following letter on Mt. Katahdin Park and tourist business is of sufficient interest to have a State-wide importance.

To the Editor of the Lewiston Journal:

I was an interested listener at the hearing at Augusta last week on the Mt. Katahdin Centennial Park bill.

I was concerned in it because my life has been devoted in large part to the upholding of Maine as a great resort-state; to the saving so far as I was able of its natural resources and beauties and to the increase of its industrial and social welfare.

At that hearing I heard Mr. James Q. Guinac, president of the Maine State Chamber of Commerce and Agricultural League, and I was shocked and surprised at the sentiment there expressed by Mr. Guinac.

No other interpretation could possibly be placed upon the attitude of this sponsor for a great state-wide organization than that he was opposed to the general policy of making Maine a resort-State. He expressed himself fervently as in favor of making this a work-shop rather than a playground and called into question the effect upon our people of the incoming of tourists and the companionship of guides and their influence on our social life. He said that he had noticed that the effect of tourists and guides was to change good reliable men, willing to work twelve months in the year, into whiskey drinkers and loafers.

As one interested all my life in the tourists business, I can not sit idly by and listen to this in silence. Does it look well for the head of a State-wide organization thus to condemn one of the greatest industries in Maine? Can he feel quite at home even in Maine citing as a bad example the Maritime provinces of which, as I understand, he was formerly a resident and a citizen? As chief officer of the State Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Guinac makes in my opinion, a sorry spectacle attacking any policy tending to attract more people to this state of such great scenic beauties and such unusual attractions. This is an industry in which respectable people are interested and which attracts people refined and respectable people to our State and it is not for him or any other man to stand up in public and attempt to smirch its character and its purposes. When he or any other person does so, he is in effect maligning some of the best citizens of America.

The importance of the Maine resort-business, as compared with other industries was calculated with considerable accuracy before the great war. At that time experts in the transportation and hotel business made important estimates from the best available figures, taking into the account people who came into the State only for health and pleasure. This was found to be in round numbers more than 400,000 and the period included the four summer months of June, July, August and September, without mentioning thousands more who come for the early spring fishing and for the fall shooting which does not end until December. It was further estimated by these experts, that each visitor from the time he crossed the State line until he returned again left at least $50, which was considered a low figure. Thus the annual revenue was estimated at that time to be nearly 25 million of dollars. Furthermore, it is to be considered that while much of the profit of Maine manufacturing must be distributed in other states because other states furnish a large part of the capital, the resort revenue comes from out of the state and is circulated among our own people. There is not a class that does not receive its share.

The above estimates of the annual income to Maine from the summer visitors were made before the war. The resort business since then has not only held its lead but has increased it. Its value each year now probably amounts to much more than $25,000,000. More people are coming to Maine. The season of 1920 produced more than 500,000 visitors from out of the State. Each is spending more money. The fifty dollars of years ago has without doubt nearly doubled. A simple problem in multiplication will demonstrate what all this amounts to, to our own people as a whole.

No citizen more than I appreciates the value of Maine's great industrial corporations. I take quite as much pride as any in our business advance in all forms, and as best I can try to encourage it. All should progress alike. For this reason I cordially support the simple proposition now before the legislature of a state park at Mt. Katahdin, because to me it seems large encouragement to our leading industry at small expense. For this reason, too, I appreciate the generous offer of the Great Northern Paper company of 15,000 acres as a gift to the State for park purposes. It can and should be accepted under proper conditions. It is not proposed to violate any property rights. Whatever may be said of the wisdom of the original disposition of Maine's 9,000,000 acres of wild lands for less than a dollar an acre, the present owners are rightful owners and will, of course, receive complete protection.

If land is taken for the benefit of the people as a whole, fair prices must be paid to individual proprietors. Nor will any sentiment be violated. Family memories can much better be perpetuated in a public park than in commercial timberlands which in time will be destroyed. No people can possibly be injured either in business or in sentiment by the establishment of a permanent institution of use and beauty for the direct benefit of all the people of the commonwealth.

We are concerned at present with the Mt. Katahdin region and no place in the entire state is better adapted to public development. Nature herself has made the selection. Whatever can be done to beautify this particular mountain and its environment, will undoubtedly attract many tourists and eventually become an important park for the propagation of fish and wild animals, which have done so much to make Maine the leading hunting state of the east.

It does not seem to me to be necessary to expend any great sum at the present time. I am not urging the State to borrow money to meet the expense of establishing a public park at Mount Katahdin. I am the last to urge any increase in the burden of taxation upon Maine people. But at least a beginning can be made in this great project which any well-meaning citizen can see means so much, not only to the pleasure, but to the business interests of all of the people of the State. Perhaps private capital will volunteer to assist this development, but this cannot be expected until the State itself has first made a start.

One of my favorite places in the far West has been Lookout Mountain—20 miles from Denver, and I mention this because it furnishes an excellent illustration of what we can do here at home. I telegraphed the other day to a friend at Denver who, by the way, happens to be an Oxford county, Maine, man by birth, and who in the last 25 years has been interested in development in the great West. He has meantime watched what we were doing with our great resort asset at home. With in 24 hours the reply came back, showing what state development can do in the way of attracting a good class of visitors. Six years ago the state began the construction of a highway to the top of Lookout Mountain. This was completed two years ago, and is eight miles long. From the very start it has been a success—not only in affording pleasure to many visitors but it has been a direct producer of business to the state. Last year there was an average of 3000 travelers each day up this road—most of them sightseers from out of the state. Since it was completed, railway travel has doubled and that by automobile has increased four times. Some idea of what can be done for a state by public development, can be seen from this example.

This simple accident of a break in one of the highways to the coast region of this state, gives some idea of the amount of travel. While the president of the Maine State Chamber of Commerce was ridiculing the resort industry at one hearing at Augusta, at another it was brought out that 230,000 persons crossed the Kennebec river at Bath, last year, by way of the railway and automobile ferries.

It is idle to discuss the importance of Maine's resort business. Millions are invested in it. Millions are added to our wealth by it and it is the great hope of our future. Even if some of our present industries should fail, the hills and the lakes never can be taken from us, or from the joy and comfort of the whole world that looks to them with anticipation.

The Katahdin Park plan is but a symbol of our duty in this matter. Let it be known thruout the world that we have established here a State Park, secure for all times, open to the nation, and we shall see the enormous increase of travel, not of whiskey drinkers, but of clean, intelligent, nature-loving people, who love the hills and who will be a mighty host of good friends to this state and to her institutions.

And I venture to say that, so far as health programs go, the establishment of this park as a place of rest, retreat and restoration of the physical and nervous energy of men and women, will play an important part. I am therefore desirous, as a life-long friend of this, my native state, and the native state of my fathers, to register my voice and vote against the short-sighted and dangerous policy of sneering at our summer and winter tourists or belittling the value of the scenic and health-giving elements of Maine.

To further emphasize Mr. Ricker's stand:

"Glacier National Park again has broken all its records for tourist travel, according to the report of George Goodwin, the superintendent of national parks. His figures show that this year a total of 22,449 tourists visited Glacier Park. The majority of these travellers entered the park via the main gateway, at Glacier Park Station, Montana. These tourists came from every State in the Union and from nearly every country upon the face of the earth.

A new wonderland section of Glacier Park is to be revealed by the Government next year, when horse trails will be completed, opening to the tourists a stretch of marvellous scenic beauty in that part of the Rockies lying between Many Glacier chalet village and the Canadian boundary. Therein are many square miles of picturesque country which hitherto has only been travelled by Indians and a very few white explorers."

COLLEGE GRADUATES NOW GOING IN FOR BUSINESS

"Business has displaced the ministry, medicine and the law as the occupational choice of college graduates," said Dean Wallace Brett Donham of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration in his annual report.

"While schools of theology, medicine and law have been of recognized value for many years, until very recently no effective method of training for transition from college to business has been devised. This transition is unquestionably more difficult than similar transition from the technical schools to engineering position," he stated.

"The busy practitioner of any profession has neither the time, the specialized training nor the equipment for instruction for beginners. This is particularly true of the business man."

Dean Donham called attention to the inadequate housing of the school of business administration and its limited endowment. He warned that the rapid growth of attendance probably will make it necessary in the near future to limit the number of students.

"The enrollment of the collegiate business schools in the Country prior to 1910, was so small that it was a negligible factor in our educational system," he continued. "After that year there was considerable growth, but the striking increase is the year 1919-20. Total gains in the leading schools run into the thousands."

For really satisfactory reading that leaves a wholesome feeling behind it we can recommend nothing better than the writings of David Grayson. After all the hectic philosophy one reads these days, a little of the home spun variety comes as a relief.

By the time a man is married his character is formed, and he changes very little. His mother has made him and no matter how hard she tries his wife can do little toward altering him. As a rule also, his mother objects very strenuously at any attempts at alterations. She considers him a perfect sample of her own handiwork.

Pleasure is a good thing and may not with safety be slighted. But when given first place it is debasing and elusive. Business is good and demands the best powers of most of us. But whatever be the reward, we cannot afford to be its slaves. Fortunate indeed is the man who can master his desires and strike a happy medium between business and pleasure.

Real achievements come through focused energy. Do not scatter your talents and energies carelessly about over any number of trades and vocations. Focus your energies on the thing you wish to achieve and let nothing divert your interest from the main issue.

The Houlton firemen met at their rooms in the engine house last Tuesday evening for their usual annual get-together meeting. The men received their yearly salary, which included the increase of $26.00 per man due them.

After the business of the meeting had been transacted, they all went to the S. A. bowling alley, where two teams captained by Chief Clark and E. J. Barker enjoyed a spirited contest. The results chalked up showing that the fire laddies can bowl as well as fight fire; the total summary gave the contest to Capt. Barker's team by a margin of 109 pins.

After the bowling game all returned to the Engine House where an oyster stew awaited them. A social hour was afterward enjoyed with card games and music. All present declared it a good time.

STUDEBAKER OWNER
DRIVES CAR 35,000 MILES

Covering 35,000 miles in a year, much of it over mountainous country, and spending not a cent for repairs, is the remarkable record set by a resident of Sonora, Cal., John Stout.

the conditions in which these diseases make their most successful attack, give vigor and tone to the vital organs and functions, and imparts a genial warmth to the blood.

Remember, the weaker the system the greater the exposure of disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the system strong.

If the liver is torpid or the bowels are sluggish, causing biliousness or constipation, Hood's Pills will be found of great service. They are especially made to be taken with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

MRS. ALICE GRESHAM TODD, mother of the first American soldier killed in France, who gives entire credit for recovery of her health to the well known medicine, Tanlac.

The following remarkable statement was made recently by Mrs. Alice Gresham Todd, the mother of Corporal Jas. B. Gresham, who was the first American soldier killed in France. The statement was made at the Gresham Memorial Home, which was presented to her by the patriotic people of Indiana as an evidence of their appreciation of the services rendered to his country by her son.

The shock of her son's death resulted in a serious breakdown in Mrs. Todd's health but every one will learn with interest and pleasure that she is now in splendid health again. Mrs. Todd gives the entire credit for her recovery to the celebrated medicine, Tanlac.

She said: "After my dear boy's death I had a general breakdown in health. At first it was just indigestion. My food would upset me and I had to diet myself very carefully. I also had rheumatism with severe pains in my shoulders, back and arms and at times I would suffer greatly, and my joints would become swollen and stiff. I was hardly able to do but very little about the house and at times could not even cook a meal. I became very nervous and restless and at night would lie awake for hours.

"A friend of mine advised me to try Tanlac. I am glad I did, for it proved to be the best medicine I have ever taken. It soon gave me a splendid appetite and relieved me entirely of indigestion. My rheumatism also disappeared and I am now able to do my house-work with the greatest ease. My nerves are steady and strong. I sleep well at night and my health is better than in years. I shall always be grateful for what Tanlac has done for me."

by name, in his Studebaker Big-Six. Just as remarkable is the fact that at the end of the long grind a careful inspection showed no indication of the hard usage the car had seen.

Mr. Stout's car, purchased in January, 1919, was placed in service running out of Sonora as a stage and rent car.

Back of Sonora there are many miles of the kind of roads that motorists see when they have had dreams, and it is this type on which the Studebaker was run most of its 35,000 miles.

"That a car should do 35,000 miles with absolutely no trouble of any kind other than an occasional puncture is quite remarkable in itself."

CANDIDATE FOR SECOND SELECTMAN

I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of Second Selectman at the Town meeting to be held in Houlton next month.

Having served the town in this position for a number of terms at different times I feel as though the experience gained at that time and my knowledge of the duties of that office qualify me to do the work in the interests of the town, and expend the money raised by the voters in a judicious manner.

The support of the voters, which included the women as well as the men of Houlton, is earnestly solicited.

declared an expert who went over the car at the conclusion of the distance. "This automobile not only did that but was in excellent shape at the end of its long grind."

"The transmission in this time was never cleaned out, and the differential, crank case and transmission had no attention other than the adding of more oil from time to time. When the car was ready to reassemble, it was found that the gears showed almost no sign of the distance that had been traveled."—Advt.

BANKRUPT'S PETITION FOR DISCHARGE

In the matter of Albert L. Snowman. In Bankruptcy.

To the Hon. Clarence Hale, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Maine.

ALBERT L. SNOWMAN of Woodland in the County of Aroostook and State of Maine, in said District respectfully represents that on the 24th day of January, last past, he was duly adjudged bankrupt under the Acts of Congress relating to Bankruptcy; that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said Acts and of the orders of Court touching his bankruptcy.

Wherefore he prays, That he may be decreed by the Court to have a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate under said bankruptcy Acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

Dated this 26th day of February A. D. 1921.

ALBERT L. SNOWMAN, Bankrupt.

ORDER OF NOTICE THEREON
District of Maine, Northern Division, ss. On this 26th day of March A. D. 1921, on reading the foregoing petition, it is—

Ordered by the Court, That a hearing be had upon the same on the 15th day of April A. D. 1921, before said Court at Bangor in said District, Northern Division at 10 o'clock in the forenoon; and that notice thereof be published in the Houlton Times, a newspaper printed in said District, Northern Division, and that all known creditors and other persons, in interest, may appear at the said time and place, and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further Ordered by the Court, That the Clerk shall send by mail to all known creditors copies of said petition and this order, addressed to them at their places of residence as stated.

Witness the Honorable Clarence Hale, Judge of the said Court, and the seal thereof, at Bangor in the Northern Division of said District on the 26th day of March A. D. 1921.

A Question for Every Citizen of Maine

SUPPOSE an important industry wanted to come to Maine and applied to Maine power companies and the power companies said, "You'll have to go to some other state; we haven't the power available."

MAINE WOULD LOSE MONEY, WOULDN'T IT?

Yet just that might some day happen unless the investors of Maine get behind the power companies of Maine with their investment money.

Either Maine will grow, as a result of having developed water power READY or else some other state will grow. So ask yourself this question so vital to the future of Maine:

"Where shall I invest my money, in some remote state, to build that state, or AT HOME, to build Maine?"

FISHING IN 1905

The following from the TIMES files of 1905 shows the fish that were caught in that spring.

Mr. Stephenson of Crescent Park furnishes us with the following information regarding the catch of fish at Nickerson's Lake this spring: Twenty five toge; thirty-two pickerel; six eels; four land lock salmon; five trout; four square tails. This is the biggest catch which has been made there in many years and shows that there are plenty of fish in those waters.

WOMAN'S CLUB

The meeting of the Houlton Woman's Club at Watson Hall, Monday afternoon was of unusual interest and of great educational value.

The program committee arranged the afternoon's program and the first number was a paper written by Mrs. Parker Hardison, and read by Mrs. Burpee who had heard the paper elsewhere and arranged to have it brought before the Houlton Club. It dealt with the Legislature of Maine and described that body very carefully in all its details, thus proving very instructive.

The next speaker was Mrs. S. S. Thornton who is always accorded a hearty welcome by the club members. Mrs. Thornton, as a member of our school board, attended the Educational meeting in Boston in January, and she told in a delightfully interesting manner of the important events of that meeting, which was in charge of the United States Commission of Education, Mr. Claxton.

It was one of a series of ten groups being held, this group including the New England States and attended by all the State Superintendents, Principals of schools and leading educators. The purpose of the meeting was to find out what to do to improve the school system.

Mrs. Thornton expressed herself as proud of Maine's report as compared with that of the other states.

The next speaker was Mrs. Margaret Dinsmore, who gave a very interesting paper on "Jurors and Juror duty," bringing first to the notice of the club members the question which just now is absorbing so much attention as to whether or not women shall be subject to jury call.

Then was discussed Grand Jurors and Traverse Jurors, and the why of juries, and the method of creating that jury was very carefully explained.

So the afternoon was a most profitable one to all who were privileged to attend.

An enjoyable musical number was given a vocal solo by Miss Natalie Smith accompanied by Lela Kelso.

BOWLING

even one shirt in Aroostook this year.

The second string was won by the Dux with five pins to spare. Three of the visitors had strings of better than 100 in this frame.

Fullerton was the victim of a frame up in this string as he would just get nicely squared away to shoot when a P. I. member would induce a lady to walk across the alleys, directly in Bill's line of vision. This always strains Bill's eyes and it ruins his powers of concentration,—on bowling.

We started the third string with a one pin lead on the total. Moir came through with his third string of over a hundred, and Hodgins floored 107. But we lost by 16 pins, Harry O'Donnell making a fool of himself by shooting 111.

We thought we did pretty well in the fourth game, averaging better than 93, but we lost by 31 pins.

This put us 46 pins in arrears and then the innate dirt of our adversaries came to the surface and they walloped us 72 pins.

The details of the afternoon and evening games are reluctantly given herewith:

Three prizes had been offered as follows: F. P. Stevens offered a silk shirt to the man rolling the highest single string and Ralph K. Wood was the winner. H. B. Holmes offered a solid silver pencil to the man having the highest average for five strings.

This was won by J. E. Hayes who had 100.45. Antone Olson gave a box of cigars for the one having the highest pin fall which went to the Mooseleuk Club. The hooley prize was given by W. S. Thompson which was awarded to Mr. Hagerman of the visiting club.

After we had called for a recount of Doc Walker's scores and found that we had sustained our annual trimming, we were royally entertained at the club rooms.

Jazz was free for the asking, served with the pick of Presque Isle's pulchritude.

Carter tried to trot a heat or two but his wind gave out. As a jizzer, Alton makes a fine third selectman.

Mitchell made a few disgruntled remarks, explaining to those present why the Dux team failed to bring home either the silk shirt, Oleson's box of fumigators or the "never sharp" pencil. He attributed our defeat to the fact that Presque Isle's supply of drinking water is limited, and a person simply has to have so much liquid of some kind, especially on a hot day in March.

Fullerton sang pathetically and Bernard played and dittoed. Then our hosts brought in Dal Luther to recite "The Cremation of Dan McGee," but we threatened a lynching and avoided further punishment.

It would have been a fine entertainment had it not been for the fact that every where you looked you'd see either Antone Oleson or old Frank Hayes.

If the Mooseleuks insist on having those birds present every time we meet, why can't their family call for them and take them home early in the evening!

If Presque Isle photographers never finish any more portraits until the Dux house committee send them an order for life size portraits of those two "wasted Sunday mornings" photography will not be very popular.

After a mighty fine evening of royal entertainment we repaired to the P. I. hotel for a few hours rest. And there, in that quiet little hostelry in the little village nestling in the valley of the placid Aroostook river, came near being enacted a tragedy that would have bereft a Houlton family of one of their principal means of support, the fertilizer industry would have lost a valuable salesman and the bowling fraternity would have suffered an irreparable loss. For Houlton's lead off man in the evening bowling contest had the night mare and declared he was a bird.

Fortunately he was sharing the same room as Pa Lunt and B. H. Brown and he woke them when raising the window, preparatory to his flight over the roofs of the village. Brown exorted with him, telling him that his plinions were too much in the pin feather stage of development to be capable of sustained flight. But no fertilizer man will believe another so Lunt had to join in and convince him that his systef of volplaning was all wrong.

Never mind, Jim, you aren't the only fertilizer man who has night mares this spring.

Saturday morning saw us all safely back in Houlton in a comparative state of sobriety, unanimously agreeing that the Mooseleuk boys, "God bless 'em," had again beaten us in bowling and in hospitality, but they can't surpass us in heartily wishing the time away until the two clubs meet again. It is the very pleasantest event of the year for many of us and this last visit was far and away the best ever.

JUICE TO BE MADE SO CHEAP IT WILL BE FREE AS WATER

Coalless cities and the furnaceless homes, often spoken of but generally referred to as a dream of the scientists, are coming in the very near future, according to Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, the world's famous electrical wizard.

Cooking and heating by electricity is nothing new; nor is the electrifying of railroads, nor the operating of factory plants by electricity, but the day is not far distant when this great service to mankind will be extended, says the noted engineer. It all depends on a means for reducing the costs of electricity to revolutionize all our domestic life.

Dr. Steinmetz's accomplishments have been such that anything he predicts about electricity is well worthy of serious consideration, no matter how bizarre his ideas may seem.

Wasteful Use of Coal

"Consider the enormous loss sustained every year by not utilizing coal to the greatest possible extent," he said. "Think of the enormous amount of coal used in the United States in the course of a year. In 1918 the consumption was 857,000,000 tons, which may not mean much to the average person until illustrated by a picturesque comparison by Dr. Steinmetz.

"Our present methods of utilizing coal are inefficient. In converting it into electricity we throw away about 80 per cent. of the chemical energy as heat. At the same time we burn many millions of tons of coal for heat energy and in this process waste the 20 per cent. high potential energy. It seems an economical crime to burn coal for mere heating without first taking out as much high grade energy, mechanical or electrical, as is economically feasible.

"The coal furnace fire is a source of trouble on cold days. The heat energy is hard to control. It takes time and attention to keep the fires regulated.

"But when heating is all done electrically and I want 70 degrees in my home, I shall set the thermometer at 70 and the temperature will not rise above that point. This temperature will be maintained uniformly regardless of the weather outside. This will also hold true on the warm day when the temperature outside may be 90 or 100 degrees. The same electrical apparatus will cool the air and, what's more, it will also keep the humidity normal at all times.

"Then, too, there is ventilation, which does not exist in the average home today. At present we have to depend on windows, doorways and electric fans to blow the bad air out, and with it we lose, in winter, most of the heat we produced in our furnaces. When electricity is developed we will have an apparatus for bringing fresh air into the house, destroying the bad air, and recovering the heat from the warm exhaust air.

No More Coal Ranges

"Cooking by electricity will also be much more satisfactory. No more coal ranges and a great deal of our food can be cooked on the table. This can also be automatically regulated. For example, we want to cook a cake. We know this should be at a heat of 230 degrees for a period of 45 minutes, so we set the regulator at 230-45 minutes and cease to worry. At the expiration of 45 minutes the heat is automatically turned off.

"Entertainment in our homes will also be improved. There will be no need to go to some congested, poorly ventilated hall for a musical concert. We just push a plug into a base receptacle, as we do for the vacuum cleaner, or table lamp, and we can have the concert brought into our homes. Music will be supplied by a central station and distributed to subscribers by wire, just as we get our telephone service today. Perhaps this may be by wireless, the home being equipped by a radio receiving apparatus. With this arrangement improved, we may hear grand opera stars as they sing in European capitals while sitting in our libraries at home.

"With the electrical improvements to come there will be a change in our transportation system. There will be more electric automobiles and electric bicycles and tricycles will be developed. Because of their simplicity and low price they will be available to almost everyone," predicts Dr. Steinmetz. "Our cellars will be the place to keep them. We will have drive-ways going under the house. This will eliminate the need for garages, which many times mar the beauty of the landscape of the property. While the cars are in the basement they will have their batteries recharged.

"Electricity will be used so generally then that the cost will likely be apportioned on the basis of a tax, like our water tax of today. The charge will probably be so much a plug, as we are now charged so much a faucet. Electricity will be so cheap that it will not pay to have meters installed, readings taken and a system of accounts kept.

"Today water is used universally and no one would think of charging a friend or even a stranger for a drink. The same will be true with electricity. When the friend calls with his electric vehicle, it will be driven into your cellar and the battery will be recharged while he is making his call.

Cleanly and Beautiful Cities

All these changes in our domestic life will tend to revolutionize the appearance of our cities. No dirt, dust or smoke will be permissible and our cities will be more sanitary. The streets will be beautifully clean. Without fires and with no animals for traction labor, there will be no dust or dirt. The atmosphere will be clear, something to be appreciated in those cities today where soft coal is used and the people often find it impossible to see the sky because of the smoke and gases in the air.

With clean pure air we will be able to make our yards more attractive, cities can improve and beautify their parks. Evergreen pine trees can be grown near our homes, adding to the health of the community. These do not grow in the cities today because of the smoke, dust and gases. Trees need fresh air and their needles are lungs. The evergreen does not shed its needles in the fall as other trees do their leaves, thus replacing their smoke-choked breathers with new. It has but one set of needles and in the city these become so clogged with dust and smoke that the tree dies from suffocation.

It is all a pretty picture, this day when everything will be electrical. But for the fact that Dr. Steinmetz foresees such a condition this thought might be dismissed as an over-enthusiastic dream. However wonderful as have been past achievements, we are safe in believing they will seem insignificant compared with those of future years.

GERMAN RUSES TO SECRETE AIRPLANE EQUIPMENT FAIL

The duplicity the Germans employ in secreting airplane equipment in violation of the treaty of Versailles is frequently giving rise to amusing incidents, according to reports reaching official quarters here. The latest of these occurred in one of Hugo Stinnes's Berlin factories, where interallied control officers agreed to inspect the three lower floors of a six story building in the morning and the other three floors after luncheon.

INCOME TAX FACTS

YOU SHOULD KNOW

Salaries paid to State employees, including also employees of a town, county, or hamlet, are exempt from taxation. Thousands of persons engaged in business for themselves or as employees in private business receive such additional compensation. A storekeeper may be elected mayor of his town. The amount paid for such service should be entered on his income tax return, but it is not taxable.

State employees, however, must consider carefully their income from all other sources. If, excluding the amounts paid them by the State, it equals or exceeds $1,000 or $2,000, according to their marital status, a return of income must be filed and the tax paid on net income in excess of those amounts.

The return must be sworn to before a notary or other person authorized to administer an oath. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return or in four equal installments, due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15, 1921. At least one-fourth of the amount due must accompany the filing of the return.

Salary exemptions allowed State employees do not apply to employees of the Federal Government, such, for example, as postmasters.

SOMEONE

Did you ever meet someone whose very handshake was a tonic?

Someone whose cheery morning greeting brightened the whole day?

Someone to whom you instinctively told the bright worth-while happenings in your life, forgetting all the shadows?

Someone who made you feel the world a better, cleaner, happier place in which to live than ever before imagined?

Someone who showed such cordiality and sincere pleasure in your presence that you must love them then and there?

Someone who forgot their own affairs in their interest to hear about you, your plans, your work, and your pleasures?

Someone who understood your struggles and quietly helped you onward toward your goal?

How often have you met someone who saw the good in you and told you of it?

Someone who never noticed your deficiencies and always put you at your ease?

Someone to whom you brought your hopes and aspirations confident of a sympathetic ear?

Someone whose very presence calmed your jumping nerves, straightened your bent shoulders, brought out your hidden and forgotten smile.

Someone who willingly gave his time, his knowledge, his experience to straighten out your problems?

Someone who strengthened your purpose and ideals and made you glad that you still had illusions?

Someone whose clear vision singled out the sham and imitation of your life and showed its worthlessness?

FRANK A. PEABODY,
HOWARD WEBB,
ALTON E. CARTER,
Selectmen of Houlton.

We have heard of a man who never goes to bed at night with a bill unpaid. Even his newspaper is paid for in advance. Such a rule might be difficult and sometimes impossible to live up to, but at least it is a goal worth striving for.

We are prone to think of age as an unlovely time, an undesirable thing, but surely there are compensations in being seventy years young. Life has taught us its lessons and we are no longer assailed by doubt and uncertainty. Life has brought to us no burden that we could not bear, and we can face it serenely and fearlessly. We have earned the right by years of labor and conflict, to do just as we please, and let the world fare on in its folly and strife, its storm and passion.

Its work and worry. We have earned a right to the stately surroundings that suit the dignity of age. If we do not possess such surroundings, if the fine mansions, carriages, service, riches, that are so becoming in age, are not for us still we may possess treasures that no one can take from us—honor, wisdom, experience and the grateful love and respect of the younger.

Rheumatism Left Him As If By Magic!

Had Suffered Over 50 Years!

Now 83 Years, Yet a Big Surprise To Friends

Regains Strength Goes Out Fishing Back to Business Laughs at "URIC ACID"

How the "Inner Mysteries" Reveals Startling Facts Overlooked By Doctors and Scientists For Centuries

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army, or fifty years ago," writes J. B. Askelman. "Like many others, I spent money freely for 'cured' cures and have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now, as if by magic, I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change."

HOW IT HAPPENED.
Mr. Askelman is only one of thousands who suffered for years, owing to the general belief in the old, false theory that "Uric Acid" causes rheumatism. This erroneous belief induced him and legions of unfortunate men and women to take wrong treatments. You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as try to get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints by taking treatments supposed to drive Uric Acid out of your blood and body. Many physicians and scientists now know that Uric Acid never did, never can and never will cause rheumatism; that it is a natural and necessary constituent of the blood; that it is found in every new born baby; and that without it we could not live!

These statements may seem strange to some folk, who all along have been led to believe in the old "Uric Acid" business. It took Mr. Askelman fifty years to find out this truth. He learned how to get rid of his rheumatism, neuritis, other disorders, and recover his strength from "The Inner Mysteries," a remarkable book now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over twenty years to a serious study of this particular trouble.

NOTE: If any reader of this paper wishes the book that reveals these facts regarding the true cause and cure of rheumatism, facts that were overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a post card or letter to Dr. P. C. Carter, 206-61st Street, Hallowell, Maine, and it will be sent by registered mail without any charge whatever. A lot of this notice has been forgotten. If you do not hurry, you will miss this good news to some who are afflicted.

Better Health

Your own doctor will tell you that poor health often starts with an upset of stomach and liver. You know the prevailing symptoms and the very first thing to do is to relieve the bowels—not by swallowing a convenient bit of physic but by taking a thoroughly good and scientifically prepared blood purifier. The standard remedy for years is that pure "L. F. Atwood" Medicine, endorsed by thousands of Maine people, many of whom you know. It has helped them; it surely will benefit you.

Sixty doses in a 50 cent bottle. Ask your dealer, or send for a free sample to the "L. F." Medicine Co., Portland, Me.

Waiting Means Losing

Real Economy Says

"If You Need a New Implement This Year, Buy It"

Suppose that the use of a certain new implement next season would save you $100.

How much will you lose by not buying that implement this spring?

You will lose One Hundred Dollars.

How much will the implement really cost you if you wait until next year to buy it?

It will really cost you the market price then plus the one hundred dollars lost by not having the implement in use in the coming season.

Waiting to buy such an implement would be just as poor economy as waiting until next year to put out a crop, in the hope of getting lower-priced seed.

Good implements are the best friends that a farmer can have. They are profit-makers—not profit-takers.

Year in and year out, good implements enable you to make the best of conditions as they come.

We have a stock of good implements here for your inspection. If you need any of them for use this year, you will lose good, hard money by waiting until next year to buy. In many cases you will lose more than one hundred dollars.

Can you afford to wait?

Figure it out for yourself—and then come and see us.
