SUMMER CHANGE MUCH APPRECIATED

Sunday Train with Through Connections from Portland, Boston and New York

The summer change which went into effect June 22nd, on the Sandy River and Rangeley Lakes Railroad, which includes a Sunday train with through connections to and from Portland, Boston and New York, is much appreciated by the people in this vicinity, also the very reasonable rates extended by the management to those wishing to take a day's outing via this Sunday train. The round trip fare is only 75c between Phillips and Farmington, and only $1.00 from Phillips to Rangeley and return. The new schedule also gives Kingfield a morning train, with through connections and we trust that this increased service will receive such patronage that it may be continued each season.

WANTS TO SEE PHILLIPIANS

Vienna, June 6, 1914.

To The Editor of Maine Woods:

Today I have the pleasure of sending you a $2.00 bill and will you kindly send me the paper for another year. At the same time would like to say, that should I ever forget to send the money on time, don't stop sending the paper right off and I will forward the cash immediately.

Last year I saw Celia Whitney, this year Dr. Cragin of Waterville and I wonder who is coming next year. I wish people from back in the woods would be coming faster to visit me.

Hoping that neither the measles nor any other Egyptian plague bothers the Phillippians until I decide to become a rover again and hunt American shores "to capture a few American flees," I remain with best regards to you and all friends,

Yours very truly,
Jack Hubel.

WILL NOT ATTEMPT STUNT AT PRESENT

On Account of Illness Mrs. Savage's Trip to Woods Is Indefinitely Postponed

It will be remembered by Maine Woods readers that in March of this year we published a letter from Bana Douglass Savage of Dead River, stating that she was to try Joe Knowles' stunt. Herewith is the letter:

Big Flemond Station, Via La Tuque, P. Q., Mar. 7, 1914.

To the Editor of Maine Woods:

Your letter of Feb. 21 at hand and in reply will say none of the papers have received any word from me. I will give you an outline of what I intend to do. I intend to go in the woods, starting July 18, coming out Sept. 14. I shall wear a pair of bloomers, nothing else, and I shall make a suit or covering to come out of the woods in, and my plan is just to get my own living, just to see whether a woman is not as able to get a living from the woods as man. As I always prided myself on being able to do all out door sports that man can, I hate to be beaten in this feat by man. The vicinity of Deer Pond camps will be the domain of my two months in the woods.

Yours respectfully,
Mrs. Bana Douglass Savage.

A few days ago we received a letter from her stating that on account of illness she would not be able to go into the woods as planned, but sometime in the future she hoped to be able to attempt it.

No woman is probably better able to accomplish such a feat than Mrs. Savage for she has much woods knowledge. Her hunting ground was to have been in the vicinity of Deer Pond and here is no bird or beast in the Dead River region that she is not familiar with, for she has hunted and fished over this territory all of her life, and is familiar with the rod and gun having been taught from childhood in this sort of thing from her father, A. B. Douglass, proprietor of Deer Pond Camps, better known in the sporting world as Gus. Her grandfather is Andrew Douglass, one of the pioneers of Dead River region, and who has won fame among the hunters and fishermen as inventing the means of walking down a moose.

If the time arrives when Mrs. Savage attempts the stunt it is needless to say there will be interest taken in the matter.

Mrs. Savage is still in Quebec where she has passed the winter.

MAINE AUTO ROAD BOOK

Road From Aroostook Border to New Hampshire Line Included in New Publication

The Maine Automobile Road Book for 1914 has just been issued and without doubt is the finest automobile guide of the Pine Tree state that has ever been gotten out. This book has been in preparation for one year, during which time the Maine Automobile Association's pathfinding cars have covered practically every important highway from Houlton in Aroostook county to the Atlantic ocean, and from the New Brunswick line on the east to New Hampshire on the west. In fact, the association has done even more than this, and has laid out routes covering practically all of New Hampshire, as well as the through trunk lines of travel from Boston to Portland and from the Massachusetts capital to the mountain resorts of the Granite state.

This book contains over 100 routes in detail, giving right and left turns, intermediate mileage and all landmarks along the way. These cover many routes of travel never before charted and which are among the best in the state. In addition, the book is splendidly illustrated with scores of pictures along the different routes, many of which were specially taken for this edition. All the different points of interest over which the tours pass are described and in fact nothing has been left out in the line of information which the tourist might desire.

Among the best features of the 1914 edition are three new maps specially prepared for this book. These include a general automobile road map covering every principal automobile road within the state of Maine as well as the greater part of New Hampshire. In addition there will be a sportsmen's map showing all of the great sporting regions of the state. This will be geographically correct, so far as the location upon request, by addressing the Touring Information Bureau, 12 Monument square, Portland.

Advance reports that have been received from the fishing resorts indicate that brook trout, muskellunge, pike and bass have been biting good. The weather has been very favorable, and fishing conditions are becoming better each day.

EXTRA-INNING TRAPSHOOTING MATCHES FOR STATE CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Few sporting contests could be more thrilling than the trapshooting championship match at the Georgia state tournament last week. Extra innings in the important matches are getting to be quite the thing, judging by the hard battles of marksmen at the state shoots in Georgia, Texas and Missouri. In Georgia the championship winner smashed his way through the tournament with victory after victory, but it was not easy progress.

In the state championship event at Augusta, three shooters, W. H. Jones of Macon, James M. Barrett of Augusta and Benjamin C. Yancey of Rome, all using Arrow shells, were tied with a score of 93 out of 100. In the shoot-off Barrett and Jones tied three times. Barrett finally won, 78 out of 80. The Augusta cup for the longest amateur run went to Barrett, who used a Remington pump gun and whose collection of honors included the high amateur average on all targets, 468 out of 500.

In Texas also the state championship was won only after extra innings. Tied with two other shooters, the score being 49 out of 50, W. H. Hodges of Tyler, using a Remington pump gun and Arrow shells, broke 25 targets out of 25 on the shoot-off and thus emerged the winner of an exciting contest. This is the trapshooting championship season and a rather exceptional season, too, in respect to the number of competitors who tried for highest honors in the various tournaments.

In the state championship event at Sedalia, Missouri, there was another tie for first place. The score of the high men was 99 out of 100, pretty nearly perfect, but one of the shooters was not a resident of Missouri so the title and trophy went to W. L. Mulford of Kirksville, who used Nitro Club shells. Mr. Mulford was high amateur on the regular program

GOOD LUCK AT POOL

Fishing at the Bangor salmon pool indicated that the June run of salmon is on, and there is apt to be a number of good catches made there. During the day 14 strikes were had at the pool, five of which were landed. James Stymiest got one that weighed about 18 pounds, Michael Flanagan caught two, one weighing about 21 pounds, James Mountaine captured one and Ernest Gross took one.

Henry Woodbury of South Portland, the commissioner of sea and shore fisheries, was at the pool inspecting the fish-way in the dam with Game Warden T. E. Sullivan. As they were coming down the pool Charles Bissell of Brewer was just landing a fine salmon, which they assisted in gaffing, much to the entertainment of the commissioner.

Fishing at Kineo

The fishing at Kineo, on Moosehead lake, is excellent at the present time and some fine catches have been made there. On Friday the following fish were taken about Kineo:

H. W. West, Boston, Mass., one togue, four pounds; Hiram W. Rickler, South Poland, four trout, six pounds, two togue, four pounds; W. A. L. Laughton, Philadelphia, eight pounds; H. Weinburg, Newton, Mass., one salmon, two pounds, three togue, seven pounds; Dennis Tracy, Bangor, three salmon, eight pounds, two trout, two pounds, one salmon, six pounds; W. L. Brackett, Boston, Mass., one trout, two and one-half pounds, one trout, two pounds; James Findley, Kineo, one togue, 15 pounds. E. M. Richards of Newton, Mass., and George R. Wallace of Fitchburg, Mass., who are at Kineo, are having excellent luck salmon fishing on Moose river.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Warren, New Haven, Conn., have just arrived at Kineo for their annual fishing trip.

C. A. Conklin, Atlanta, Ga., is at Kineo for the summer, coming early to enjoy the spring fishing.

in his possession, and for which he is responsible, giving this office not less than two days' notice of the date in order that a representative of the Quartermaster's department may be present at the transfer. He will also make return thereof to this office accompanied by the proper vouchers.

First Lieut. Gould will receipt to Capt. McDonald for the military property in his possession.

By Order of the Governor:

Albert Greenlaw,
The Adjutant General.

Capt. Gould first entered the National Guard in March, 1905, when he joined Co. D of Norway. Later he was transferred to Co. K of Brunswick, and became second lieutenant of that company in 1908. In the fall of the same year, he was transferred to Co. G of Bangor as second lieutenant. In 1909, he was elected first lieutenant of Co. G.

For four years he has been regimental athletic officer of the Maine National Guard at the annual musters, and has met with much success in this work, which has been a popular feature of the camps.

He has been the champion rifle shot of the state of Maine for several years, having participated in the national rifle matches at Camp Perry and the New England matches. He has won numerous cups and medals at these meets. Besides Co. G, he has been interested in the Bangor Rifle club and is now prominently connected with the Uniform Rank of the Knights of Pythias in Bangor.

Capt. Gould plans to reorganize Co. G, and believes he can make it the best company in the state. He will organize a baseball team, a track team, will have an orchestra, a chorus for entertainment purposes at the state camp, and will renovate the armory.

ONLY FLY FISHING TILL JULY 1 IN BELGRADE LAKES

As a result of a recent hearing held at Belgrade the State Commissioners of Inland Fisheries and Game has adopted the following of rivers, lakes and mountains are concerned. Both of these maps are printed in colors.

There will also be a third map printed in three colors, of the Pine Tree Tour, which this year is again a feature of the road book. The Pine Tree Tour is designed to cover all principal points of interest in the southern and western half of the state most visited by tourists, and is a definite trip outlined from start to finish so that one may go over it and visit these places without the necessity of mapping out the trip in advance or worrying over details.

This year's book has 352 pages and in addition to the routes, contains a specially prepared digest of the Maine automobile law, the Maine fish and game laws and the Maine forest fire requirements. Other features are requirements for automobilists entering Canada, a list of valuable facts about Maine, some information about the Maine Automobile association, and among the most valuable features is a series of indexes covering the list of routes, towns and cities, maps, etc., contained in the book.

Owing to the great cost of the book this year and the fact that it is clothbound, it will be necessary to make a small charge partially to cover the cost of preparation. The book, however, will be given free to members of the Maine association, to all automobile associations, information bureaus, newspapers, etc.,

of the three days' tournament with the excellent score of 481 out of 500.

At Milwaukee, F. J. Dreyfuss of Muskego was re-elected state champion. Mr. Dreyfuss, using the same kind of ammunition as the Missourian, broke 95 out of 100 targets.

COURSE IN FORESTRY

A two-weeks course in Forestry will be held at Camp Lunkascoo, the Maine forest school camp at Staceyville, from Aug. 17 to 29. The course will be given under the direction of the Maine Forestry Department, and is open to all men not less than 18 years of age. There are no entrance requirements, no examinations and no tuition. The expense of living in camp is to be divided pro rata between the men in attendance. Cots and cooking equipment are provided by the camp. The mornings will be devoted to lectures and study periods, and in the afternoons the men will be given practical field work. The course is especially adapted to owners of forest land, timber cruisers, guides, patrolmen, and men thinking of taking up forestry as a profession. It is primarily intended for all who wish to get a general knowledge of the ideas and methods of forestry in a short time and at a minimum expense. The applicants for the course will be in charge of John M. Briscoe, professor of Forestry, Orono.

Tobacco, Like Food, Must Be Fresh To Be Good

And tobacco cannot keep fresh after it is cut up, any better than bread or meat can. To get fresh tobacco, you must cut it off the plug yourself, just before it goes into your pipe. That's the way you use Sickle tobacco—that's the reason it burns slowly, and always affords you a cool, sweet, satisfying smoke.

Tobacco that comes already cut-up, in packages, gets dry and stale—burns fast and hot, and bites your tongue. The original flavor and moisture cannot escape from the Sickle plug—they are pressed in and kept in by the natural leaf wrapper.

More tobacco—fresh tobacco—no package to pay for—no waste—that's Sickle tobacco. Get a plug at your dealer's today.

Deihl, of Buffalo, Chairman of the A. A. A. Good Roads Board, and the speakers will include Governor Felker and State Highway Commissioner Hooker of New Hampshire; Commissioners Lyman H. of other New England States have also been invited to speak.

Hounds dogging deer were reported a few days ago in the northwest section of Portland. The man who entered the complaint said that two hounds drove a deer across his pasture several times during one afternoon, but he refrained from shooting the dogs until the owners had been given a chance to keep the dogs tied up. Any dog found chasing deer is an outlaw, section 17 of chapter 222 of the public laws of 1909 stating that any person may at any time lawfully kill any dog found hunting or chasing moose, caribou, or deer, etc."

A small doe, not larger than a good sized dog, appeared in the clearing near the William Young property on Fletcher street, Kennebunk, last Saturday about 4.30 o'clock. It appeared very tame and after a short stay in the field crossed at the rear of the house, over the new cemetery road and disappeared in the distance toward West Kennebunk. The baying of hounds 15 minutes later caused much fear among those who had noticed the handsome creature.

The indignation of some bird lovers and summer residents of Camden has been aroused by the wanton destruction of one of the most valuable as well as rare birds to be found in this region, says the Camden Herald. Shots were heard on or about High street on Monday afternoon and not long after was picked up a blackbilled cuckoo which had been shot through the head. As is well known this bird's food consists principally of the tent caterpillar which is such a pest in this locality. In these days of Audubon societies, Camden seems to be lamentably behind as little or no interest is apparently manifested in bird protection.

A gray squirrel that seems to have taken up his abode in the vicinity of the court house at Bath is an expert in walking the tight rope, making frequent trips to the telephone cable along the State road from Lincoln street around the corner of Center and down High and returning apparently just for fun of the performance. He is also unafraid of the cats and kittens in the neighborhood, sitting on fences or stumps of trees and chattering like a maiden lady at a 4 o'clock tea to the felines on the ground. They are so surprised at the squirrel's audacity that they look at him in amazement and some of the kittens play with the squirrel.—Kennebec Journal.

Supt. Libby of the Camden fish hatchery is very proud of two baby deer born last week at the deer park at the hatchery. They are cute little fellows and are attracting a great deal of attention from the many visitors at the hatchery.

Oscar W. Green of Jim Pond Camps was in Farmington recently to attend the graduating exercises of the Normal School. His sister, Miss Myrtel Green, of Skowhegan, is a member of the graduating class. Mr. Green and his brother Grover passed the winter in the camps at Jim Pond and got everything in good order for the summer season which promises to be big at that popular fish and game resort.

A place of particular interest to the citizens of Fort Fairfield is the C. H. Armstrong beaver dam, situated at the Conant road, says the Portland Press. These busy little beavers have been visited by many tourists sojourning through that part of the country, who steal a march on them quietly on a summer's evening, and watch them quietly at work gnawing down the branches, dividing up the trunks into suitable lengths for floating down the stream to their dams.

C. A. Weston of Madison who has a local reputation of being something of a fisherman, broke his record recently by capturing a 11-inch trout with his bare hands. Mr. Weston was walking on the banks of the Kennebec early in the morning and noticed the fish headed toward shore in a pool of comparatively shallow water made by some ledges. By some careful manoeuvring he captured the fish stated. It has been put in the large tank in the window of the Emery store.

The Lewiston Sun says: Poland Spring reports 85 varieties of birds this spring. A camper at Hammond's Grove, Cobbosseecontee, remarks that no one has troubled to list the varieties about the lake, "but we could certainly make Poland Spring go some." At evening, now, the cottagers may be found prowling in the groves and listening to the medley. A favorite is the shy little veery with his rich metallic notes.

The water in Varnum pond, Wilton, is reported as exceptionally low for the time of year. It seems that the dam, which was rebuilt last year, has shown faulty construction and the water has found easy outlet at the side. Repairs will be made at an early day by Wilton parties.

DEER BREAKS NECK AT BELGRADE.

The Department of Inland Fisheries and Game received notice Wednesday morning of last week that a deer had become entangled in a barbed wire fence at Belgrade, its neck being broken. It was found by the section crew of the Maine Central Railroad and through them reported to the office. Curator James, at the direction of the Commissioners, went at once to Belgrade and took charge of the carcass, the meat being sold to C. A. Hill, proprietor of "The Belgrade," for the benefit of the State.

THE CAMPS

There seems to be no limit to the popularity of camps. Many of the college boys are going to try their luck with the officers of the army in charge of Governmental camps for instruction in military affairs. Other smaller boys are clamoring for permission from their parents to enroll in one of the camps for boys that have become a common feature of our summer. Camp life claims older people too. The heart of many a staid business man is set upon two unshaven weeks in the woods renewing his youth. And there are camps for girls, too, where the mid-day blouse and bloomers are the fashion every year, no matter what advice from Paris declare to be the style. This lust for the life of the camp is a stirring of the primitive in us all. It is stronger because the city has grown so large and the life in it has become so unnatural. Some day the call of the wild and of the simple may become strong enough to summon the race away from the city. There is a spirit of revolt against the artificial and everyone of us has his share of this spirit. The camps point the way to what the spirit of revolt may one day do.

Way of the World.

The girl who declares she wouldn't marry the best man living usually stands pat and hooks up with a dead one.

DESCRIBES FOUR YEARS' SHOOTING EXPERIENCE.

It was less than four years ago, says Dr. William E. Quicksall, of Philadelphia, winner of the indoor revolver championship of the United States, that he took up short-arm shooting, which he found had a beneficial effect on his nerves. The story of his progress toward proficiency is exceedingly interesting, and, besides this, contains some very valuable suggestions for those who engage in any kind of competitive.

The announcement of Dr. Quicksall's victory has just been made by the United States Revolver Association, under the auspices of which the championship matches were shot contemporaneously last April in twenty-six different cities, including Toronto, Canada. The doctor from the Quaker City won his new title by capturing the Association's Match A with a score of 457 out of a possible 500, using a .38 calibre target revolver and Remington-UMC mid-range ammunition. This was an indoor, any-revolver contest. Dr. Quicksall won fifth place in the match last year.

"Owing to my work," said Dr.

from the fact that the act is contrary to his idea of the fitness of things. I believe that by changing the attitude of mind toward these things, many men who now invariably shoot below their averages in competition would improve their match scores considerably."

Dr. Quicksall, when he began in the sport of shooting, feared for a while that he was too old to learn. "I was a fairly good shot as a small boy," he said, "but I never owned a good weapon of any kind until I was thirty-two years old. Six years ago I bought a rifle and began shooting on a Remington-UMC advertisement containing the German ring target. I could not keep all my shots on the card at twenty-five yards, and improvement came slowly. In the course of a few months, however, I could shoot fairly well with a rifle, but did not use a pistol until less than four years ago. In October, 1910, I became acquainted with Captain George Hugh Smith, who gave me some pointers on how to shoot the hand gun. I then bought a target pistol and started to shoot in my cellar.

"From that time dates my real interest in the game. In six months

DR. WILLIAM E. QUICKSALL.

Quicksall, when questioned by the interviewer, "I had but one opportunity to shoot my matches during the week they were held, and had to shoot both the A and B the same evening. After a busy day, when night comes, I sometimes am in a state of mild nervous tension—'jerky'—which has to be worked off before I am relaxed and cool enough to shoot well. Nothing does this like shooting. The evening of the championship contest I shot Match B first and did badly, but after a ten-minute rest found myself feeling 'right,' having forgotten myself in shooting, and at once proceeded with Match A. "I find, when under a nervous strain," reiterated the doctor, "that there is nothing which does me so much good as to lose myself in shooting fifty shots or so with pistol or revolver, particularly if there is a little spice of competition to make me 'try.' One must so concentrate the attention upon 'holding' and upon a careful 'pull-off' that there is no room for a third thought.

"In this connection, I may say that I attribute part of my success in shooting to the fact that I have schooled myself to ignore any third distracting thought, or little annoyance, and I have never objected to loud conversation, the striking of matches behind me, and the like, but have always felt that the more of it the better for me in the end. It must be that it is not the mere striking of a match behind a man, for instance, that disturbs him, so much as it is the nervous irritation arising

I could shoot around 85 per cent, quite consistently, but I used a great deal of ammunition in that time. Most of my practice since then has been of the 'dry' variety, snapping the empty pistol at a mark on the wall of my room. Now I rarely shoot more than once a week, but practice five or ten minutes daily at the mark on the wall. Nearly all of my shooting has been done with the pistol, though I divide my 'dry' practice about equally between revolver and pistol. I am sure I have not fired 1000 rounds from a revolver in my whole life.

"Before I ever knew that I could shoot well, I made the deliberate choice of rifle shooting as the only sport within my means and opportunities. Fond of sport of all kinds I decided to go into some competitive branch, for I delight in a contest, be it running, rowing, pitching pennies, or what else. I thought over the different sports. One was too expensive, another took too much time, and for another I had no aptitude. Shooting only was left, so I started with the rifle, to switch over to the pistol and revolver."

Scotch Bard's Remarkable Eyes.

The most striking feature of Burns was his large dark eye. It was, we are told by one writer, "full of mind and literally glowed when he spoke with emotion or interest." Sir Walter Scott, who knew the poet when he lived in Edinburgh, says: "I never saw such another eye in a human head, and I have seen the most distinguished men of my time."

HOTEL ORCHESTRA HAS ARRIVED

Cordial Welcome Given the Ret- urning Summer Guests

(Special Correspondence)

Rangeley Lake House,
Rangeley, July 1, 1914.

"The good old fashioned Rangeley
weather, sunshine and clear blue sky to welcome us, and we are so glad to be back again" was the way some of the summer people expressed their pleasure on returning.

Everyone is smiling this afternoon
for the long cold rainy days are a thing of the past, and the coming days will be crowded with pleasures out doors
and in, for the next two months will be very gay at this hotel.

The orchestra came last night and gave their first daily concert in the parlor this afternoon and now there will be dancing every night in the casino.
The orchestra this season includes Miss Margaret Gardiner, pianist; Miss Florence Whitney, cellist; and Miss
Lenore Bouley, violinist of Providence,
R. I.

Last Thursday the Pilgrim Commandry of Farmington and the Camden Commandry with two bands of music, nearly 200 in number greatly enjoyed the elegant dinner served them and left here by special train over the narrow gauge railroad to Farmington at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The following parties from Newton, Mass., who are touring in Maine in their automobile were here for the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin E.
Smith, Miss Clara Nye Smith, Mr. and Mrs. G. Fred Simpson, Mr. and Mrs.
Edward P. Tuttle.

The following New York people who come for their first season are greatly delighted with the hotel and this part of Maine. Mrs. Thomas MacAdam
and son, Thomas B. MacAdam, Mr.
and Mrs. Z. Piercy, Miss Piercy and Raymond D. Piercy.

A cordial welcome was given the returning summer guests, who for years have been a part of the "happy family of the Rangeley Lake House." Mrs.
Thomas H. Bauchle and son, Thomas
H. Bauchle, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. N. L.
Tunis, Miss Chatillon, Misses M. C.
and E. M. Chatillon. They have all taken their old rooms where they will be at home until autumn days.

Hon. and Mrs. H. B. Austin, Mr.
and Mrs. D. F. Field of Phillips and Hon. John A. Peters of Ellsworth coming by auto were dinner guests on Friday.

Clarendon H. Pfeiffer of New York is among the new comers for the July
days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wilson of East Orange, N. J., on their return from Kennebago spent part of the week here.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. McMichael of New York, have taken the same cottage they have occupied for a number of summers which will be most pleasing to the many friends they have made among the guests of this hotel.

Irving Bickley of Boston is the guest of his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. J.
B. Marble.

Some people have been fishing the last week and some people have had luck too. G. N. Proctor of Fitchburg, Mass., had good sport with a 6-pound

salmon.

Mrs. R. A. Wetzler of New York,
Lorin Haley guide, a 5 1-2 pound salmon.

E. G. Moulton of Fitchburg, Mass., Wilmot Patterson guide, one 6 1-2 pounds.

But the fish stories of the week can be told by the Sasseen family of New York, who with Joe Tibbetts are for the first time having the sport of fishing in Rangeley Lake. The morning little Miss Regina landed her 3 1-2 pound salmon her young brother, Master George,
remarked "I'll catch a bigger one,
you just see if I don't" and the next day without assistance he hooked and for nearly an hour played with one of the gamy salmon in Rangeley Lake that when brought to net weighed 5 1-4 pounds. The next day Mr. Sasseen took a troll over the lake and will not soon forget the battle a 6 1-4 pound salmon gave him. Mrs. Sasseen intends her 21-2 pounder shall not be the biggest that she lands. Even the dog, Dandy, a handsome Irish terrier that is a pet for everybody intends to be a fisherman for he jumped into the boat when it was at the wharf and kept pulling up the line much to the amusement of those who watched him and much to the surprise of Dandy brought in a big chub.

Horseback riding promises to be a popular pastime this summer and some very fine saddle horses from Ira Hoar's stable are often seen waiting at the door for the riders to take a ten-mile gallop over the hills.

Mr. and Mrs. John List Crawford of New York who have greatly enjoyed the June days at this delightful hotel,
started homeward Monday.

Dr. Eleanore M. Arthur of New York has returned for another summer.

Mr. W. R. Eisenhowe of Philadelphia, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Ruth and Mr. and Mrs. M. Trump, reached here Monday coming by automobile and report the roads in excellent condition. Mrs. Eisenhowe and daughter, Miss Mildred came the first of June and the family will remain during the season.

Joseph Wadsworth has been joined by his cousin, John Mason Tilney of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Coming from Bryn Mawr, Penn.,
the following party are greatly enjoying their first season at this hotel: Mr.
and Mrs. R. White Steel and son, Carl
H. Steel, and daughter Miss Dorothy
S. Steel.

Mrs. W. G. Estes' brother, J. H.
Hill of Portland is here this week.

Mrs. David Magie, Jr., of East
Orange, N. J., came on Friday to remain the summer with her husband,
who has been here several weeks.

Another New York family who are greatly pleased with this their first summer at Rangeley Lake House are Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. McAlleenan and daughter, Miss McAlleenan.

Mrs. C. P. Stevens, her sister, Mr.
C. F. Thurston and brother, W. W.
Lee of Malden, Mass., return home
Thursday after several weeks' stay.

The golf course is now in good shape
and there are many lovers of the game
now daily on the links. The bright costumes of the ladies as they walk over the green makes a wonderfully beautiful moving picture.

The committee will soon announce the tournaments and the handsome cups that are on exhibition to be won.

ASSUMES OFFICE OF UNITED STATES MARSHAL.

John S. P. H. Wilson of Auburn,
chairman of the State Fish and Game Commission retired from that office
June 30th and assumed the office of United States marshal for the district of Maine at midnight. United States Marshal Henry W. Mayo retired at that time and the retirement of Deputy United States Marshal W. S. Hasty is the only change in the office force that is indicated just now.

Mr. Wilson has had many applications for places on his staff but as he has but three appointments as deputy marshals, cannot take care of all of them. He served three years as chairman of the Fish and Game Commission and was chairman of the State commi-
tee of his party two years until replaced by William H. Hines of Lewitton last March.

Fifty Against Two. It is not reasonable to expect two weeks of outing to overcome the effects of fifty weeks of confinement. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla along with you. It refreshes the blood, improves the appetite, makes sleep easy and restful.

COLONEL DOOLEY AT MOUNTAIN VIEW

The Little Brown House on the Trail Again Open

(Special Correspondence)

Mountain View House, July 1.—
The calendar says this is the first day of July but the weather is real November this morning.

Everything is in readiness for the annual Maine Sportsman's Fish and Game association and if half who have written they intend to come, arrive, this will be a packed house before Saturday night.

As two signs have been placed at the turn, off the main road reading
"Mountain View" the automobile parties will know when they reach this hotel.

The new orchestra is here and there will be music as well as dancing this summer.

"The Gordon Trio" composed of three most excellent musicians, Miss Eleanor Gordon of West Medford,
Mass., who plays the violin, Miss Ethel F. Hurd of Chelsea, Mass., the piano and Frank S. Gilkey, the cello.
This trio will add much to the pleasure of the guests during the summer season.

Col. John J. Dooley of Portland,
who is a member of Gov. Haines'
staff and was also on the staff of Governor Hill, Governor Cobb and Governor Fernald, accompanied by Mrs. Dooley is enjoying a stay in one of the camps and as the Colonel is a great favorite in Maine a host of friends who attend the association will be glad to be welcomed by him.

The traveling public is greatly pleased with the night Pullman that now reaches here every Saturday morning and we understand every birth was taken on the first sleeping car that came over the road.

Mrs. L. E. Bowley is this week entertaining three young ladies who have a host of friends that are glad to welcome them back to this region.
"The Philadelphia Triplets," Miss
Kathryn Roehen and her sister, Miss Mary Roehen and Miss Dorothy K.
Doorhess are back again. The "little brown house on the trail" is again open and tea and waffles served by these charming city girls.

Rev. Fr. J. A. Laflamme of Rum-
ford and H. G. Perry of Rumford registered here last night and this morning by automobile went to Rangeley in less than half an hour.

Rev. Fr. J. J. McLaughlin who on Sunday, as usual celebrated mass at the church, "Our Lady of the Lakes,"
went to Boston on the first Sunday
train, to spend part of this week
with relatives and friends.

J. R. McKenney, who for the winter has been located at Bemis as paymaster for the American Realty Co., was here this week with his bride. Mr. and Mrs. McKenney have the best wishes of a host of friends in this section.

The Bonney log cabin is now opened for the summer as the owners, two Providence, R. I. ladies,
Miss F. E. Dillon and Miss C. B.
Easterbrooks registered here Friday
and have since been joined by Miss Lillian Crofford of the same city.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Chase of Portland were week-end guests.

Everyone is now watching for the clouds to roll by as sunshine is much wanted and that is all that is needed to make the coming week a gala one.

SALEM PARTY CALLED HOME

It Is a Fact There Are Fish for Those Who Fish

(Special Correspondence)

Pleasant Island Camps, Cupsuptic
Lake, June 30.—"I liked this beautiful spot so much last year I could not help coming back for a month
this season," was the excuse a gentleman had for coming back.

Fishing has not been the attraction for many, who have taken to the woods the last few days to gather wild flowers and ferns, while some of the ladies are making balsam pillows, whose perfume will be a reminder of the happy days in Maine.

Dr. and Mrs. A. N. Osgood of Rum-

ford were recent guests for several days. They had a fine mess of trout and salmon to take home with them.

Thomas O. Rogers of Boston who for 25 years has been coming to this region for the summer days was greeted by old friends this week and plans to remain until September.
Lawrence A. Huntoon accompanies him and they will be at home in Johnson Camp. Mr. Rogers has hired the D. T. motor boat for the season, and enjoys trips on the lakes,
taking his friends for a sail.

One afternoon this week Mrs. Weston Toothaker heard someone on the piazza remark, "I don't believe there is any fishing, what is the use to go out?," and that decided her to prove there were plenty of fish for those who knew how to catch them.
Taking her fishing tackle, Mrs.
Toothaker pushed off a boat, took up the oars and alone rowed up the lake. In an hour she was back with a 3-pound salmon, which proves the fact, there are fish for those who fish.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Gates of Dix-field were here for the week-end.

A. Denzer of New York who came last year for the first time liked
so much he has taken the Home Camp until August. Mr. Denzer is accompanied by his friend, A. Guth-man of Atlanta, Ga., with whom he spent the winter fishing in Florida.

Mr. Guthman was never in Maine before, and is greatly surprised and delighted with the beauty of our lakes and mountains. They have Pete Lufkin for guide and with his motor boat go fishing or take trips on the lake. Monday Mr. Denzer caught a pair of salmon that he was proud of. One 4 pounds the other 3 pounds. Mr. Guthman has only 2 pounders to his credit as yet, but Pete says "He will have a chance to hook an eight pounder before he goes home."

It is most pleasing to have Lone Pine Camp taken for another season
by Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Walker of Orange, N. J., who are here for the July days.

North End Camp is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Grant of New York who came last week for the first time, and were so much pleased with camp life they were last evening joined by their friends, Mr.
and Mrs. C. Wesley Luyster from the same city and they plan to remain until August.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Wilkinson and son and a party of friends of Salem, Mass., who in their touring cars after a motor trip through the White Mountains reached here Thursday and the next morning received telegrams telling them that their places of business were all burned out in the big fire and they at once started on a hurried trip back to Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stern of New York came last evening for a month's stay in the Winter Camp
and plan to have a party of friends
join them in a few days.

Albert Green of Livermore Falls is here for a few days' fishing and will report his luck when the clouds roll by and the rain is over.

Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Hazen of Washington, D. C., brought in a handsome 3-pound trout the other morning.

The new tennis court is now completed and the lovers of the game spend hours enjoying their favorite game.

Mr. and Mrs. Humbert B. Powell and family of Philadelphia are among the old parties who arrive in a few days.

TRAIN SERVICE APPRECIATED

Camp Frye Opened--T. L. Page Able to Greet Friends

(Special Correspondence)

Mooslookmeguntic House, Haines
Landing, June 30.—The June days are ended, and now the school vacations commence and soon the merry children will come for the July and August days, which promise to be busy ones at this hotel.

"The fishing is good for those who fish," remarked a gentleman who was taking life easy this morning while his guide was waiting on the wharf.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Keeley of New York who were so much pleased with their stay last year have returned to enjoy several weeks of camp life.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Briggs of Washington, D. C., arrived last Saturday and have opened Camp Frye
for the summer.

E. L. Rankin of Boston was among those who availed themselves of the new train service and spent Sunday here. This train which leaves Boston on Friday evening and reaches here in time for breakfast every Saturday morning this summer and returns on Sunday night reaching Boston on Monday morning promises to be very popular.

Thirty members of the Knight Templars excursion last week spent the night here.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Woodman
of Portland were here for the weekend.

The W. F. G. Club last Thursday evening gave a very enjoyable dance at the Oquossoc pavilion. Excellent music was furnished by the Rum-ford orchestra. Sixty couples were present coming from all the camps
and hotels in the region.

Samuel C. Hutchins and brother,
W. Howard Hutchins of Lynn, Mass., are here for their annual fishing trip and with Geo. York, guide intend to be able to tell fishing stories on their return.

Miss Dora Reich, who has been spending a few days at her home in New York is back for the summer and fast making friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Glover of Camden are greatly enjoying their stay in one of the camps and this week will be joined by their son on Saturday. Mr. Glover has this week recorded three record trout that tipped the scales at 3 pounds, 3 1/2 pounds and 4 pounds each.

Miss Cecile Brown is entertaining her sisters of Lynn, Mass., Mrs.
W. H. Coolis, Mrs. Ola Furbish and Mrs. Eva C. Kane, who for the first time are visiting the Rangeleys.
They are greatly pleased with their stay in camp.

All are glad to see Theo. L. Page again able to greet his friends, as he has nearly recovered from his recent severe illness.

When the sun shines the tennis
court is very popular with the lovers of the game.

One can have some idea of the business that goes on here at the landing if they chance to be at the wharf at boat time, and when from all parts of the lake motor boats are coming for the mail and supplies.

SENTENCE WAS SUSPENDED

A muskrat trap set by Herbert M. Adams of North Lovell caught a duck, of unknown specie, so handsome that Mr. Adams kept it and carried it to Capt. J. W. Nash of Norway to be mounted. It was then discovered that it was a male wood duck, the having of which in your possession the law prohibits. Mr. Adams, with Commissioner Wilson and Capt. Nash, appeared before Judge Wm. F. Jones of the Norway municipal court, told his story and pleaded guilty, and by recommendation of the commissioner sentence was suspended.

Could Stand It Longer.

A lecturer one torrential night addressed an audience which might have been much larger without taxing the seating capacity of the hall. Naturally he was willing to curtail his address, and, having reached what he considered the psychological moment, said: "I'm afraid I've kept you too long." Whereupon a voice replied: "Go on, it's still raining."

William F. Nye is the greatest authority on refined oils in the world. He was the first bottler; has the largest business and NYOIL is the best oil he has ever made.

NYOIL HAS NO EQUAL.

Beware of scented mixtures called oil. Use NYOIL on everything where a light oil is needed. It prevents rust and gives perfect lubrication.

Sportsmen, use it liberally on your firearms and your rod. You will find it by far the best. Hardware and sporting goods dealers sell it in large bottles (cheaper to buy) at 25 c. and in trial sizes at 10 c. Made by

THRONGS ON WAY TO MAINE CAMPS

Portland, Me., July 1.—Hundreds of boys and girls arrived at the Union Station during the morning and early forenoon hours on their way to the several Maine camps and other resorts. When they had been safely started on their way, on later trains a large number of boys and girls arrived on the noon trains. This traffic with the other traffic that always comes to the railroad a few days before July 4 every year, made strenuous times at the station and kept everyone on the jump. Double trains have been the rule rather than the exception so far as the through expresses are concerned. There has not been a dull moment during the day, and, as yesterday, the railroad men employed at the station have hustled every minute. Word from New York last night said that the through trains from the big city would be heavy ones as the reservations for the Bar Harbor and the State of Maine Expresses were being taken quickly. As fast as new cars were added to the list there were applications for accommodations.

The Bar Harbor train was so heavy that it was necessary to bring it through in two sections, all Pullmans. The banner train of the day was the State of Maine Express which was hauled from the Metropolis in three sections.

The Bar Harbor train went out in two sections and the Rockland also went out in two sections.

This noon the Eastern division express from Boston came in two trains and so many passengers were bound for the Rockland section that the trains were continued through to the East.

Among the camps to arrive were Androscoggin, Kineo, Accomac and others.

One of the most inspiring scenes of the morning was the dining room at the West End Hotel at the breakfast hour. The several camps of boys and girls to arrive on the State of Maine Express dined at the hotel and they were enthusiastic youngsters and their laughter and chatter indicated that they preferred to start their good time before reaching their summer camps. About 300 were cared for. Their train was some late in arriving and through the efforts of Manager Mason of the hotel, the Mountain Division train this morning was held several minutes for the benefit of the young travelers.

Several of the camp parties this morning dined at the Station dining room, previous arrangements having been made with Manager Graham.

There is every indication that the business for the balance of the week from a passenger traffic standpoint will be heavy. All Pullmans arriving in Portland on extra trains are being sent back to New York to be in readiness for the heavy rush of business.

ORONO GUN CLUB HAS REGULAR SHOOT.

At the regular shoot of the Orono Gun club Saturday last, J. L. S. Hincks was high gun, breaking 69 out of a possible 75. H. H. Hanson was second with a score of 68 and L. Alford was third with 64. In the national competition shoot the ten high men who composed the club team for the day were: J. L. S. Hincks, H. H. Hanson, L. Alford, F. Webber, W. C. Mutty, C. H. White, G. F. Stevens, H. S. Scott, F. C. Barton and W. E. Farnham. The team represented broke 411 out of a possible 500.

GRIP OF SOUTH EASTERLY STORM

Portland Party Arrive for Some Fishing

(Special Correspondence)

Ox Bow, Maine, June 3.

My Dear Maine Woods:—

At the risk of encroaching again, so soon, on your valuable time and patience, I write to say that we all are greatly shocked by the awful fiery holo-caust at Salem, Mass. The whole country is aroused as never before by the thought of so great a loss of property, including the homes and all belongings of the noble army of martyr laborers. Doubtless the new city, to be, will be built on lines and materials more modern and more enduring. May the lessons of this memorable example not be lost to the multitude of cities and large towns throughout our beloved land.

Locally we are in the grip of a southeasterly rain storm, with the mercury standing almost unchanged at 50 degrees for the last three days. Crops look fine and pasturage and grass never better. The same may be said in truth, of fishing. W. D. Hinds, Chas. Lord, Henry Lord and Ralph Caldwell, all of Portland came in last night. D. Ellis Lit of Pennsylvania, Jerome Horstfield of N. Y., left this forenoon for Libby's Camps at the lakes.

We are advised by the authorities at Augusta that they are making arrangements to begin the construction of a new bridge over the Umecolus stream, at the Bow. The old wooden bridge is in a far advanced state of decay; hardly safe for even the lightest load. It has been braced somewhat lately. It is of the greatest importance that this matter should be attended to at once.

THE LAW AND THE GOSPEL

When 'sketters bite,
And flies alight
On forehead, neck and shoulder,
'Tis then beware,
Nor fret nor swear,
The trout are growing bolder.

The deer come out,
And look about,
The fields of verdant clover;
A rifle's crack
Gives them a whack,
And sends them back to cover.

Where meat is scarce,
And wardens sparse,
And children cry for bread;
Men give scant heed
To law, but plead,
"Twas shoot or join the dead."

BUCKSPORT SEES BIG BULL MOOSE

The Bangor Commercial says: Bucksport people in the vicinity of Steamboat wharf and all those assembled there were given a surprise Sunday morning about 9.45 o'clock when a large bull moose came running down on the shore. The animal made a bee line for the river, wading in on the mud flats about 75 feet on the north side of the wharf. The moose swam across the river.

When near the center of the stream the ferryman caught sight of the animal and went up to and around him. He could easily have touched the moose but made no attempt to do so.

One hundred people on the wharf watched the moose land on the Prospect shore, run up and through Capt. Wash Dow's lawn, and disappear in the woods. The ferryman says the moose would weigh 700 pounds, and in good condition. No one had any desire to stop him.

SPORTSMEN AT MOUNTAIN VIEW

Revision of Shooting Events—Good List to Compete for Cups

There is every indication of a record-breaking attendance, if the weather is at all favorable, for the 19th annual outing of the Maine Sportsman's Fish and Game association.

Those who have the outing in charge have their arrangements complete in every respect, and it only remains for a little sunshine to help out the success. The prizes, which have been on exhibit in Lewiston for a week, have been shipped to Mountain View, where they will be shown at the hotel previous to distribution Saturday night.

Automobilists are hoping that the mud will dry up a little, for an unusual number will go by machine, both from Lewiston, Portland, Bangor and other places.

The real feature of this year's outing is the complete revision of the shooting events, which compose the larger part of the program. The officers have broken completely away from previous year's events, and arranged a well-balanced list of 11 events which will give everyone an opportunity. Trap shooting has been added, and a pistol match for ladies. More prizes for the shooting contests have been provided than ever before, and include three fine rifles, a repeating shotgun, pistol and no less than nine silver cups, ranging from the massive G. M. Parks cup down to a beautiful little silver piece for the ladies' pistol match.

At the business meeting Friday night it is proposed to thoroughly discuss the questions connected with the game interests of Maine, which the association is interesting itself in at this time, and which will be brought before the Legislature at the next session.

The attendance at the outing will include most of the summer visitors of the Rangeley region, the guides and wardens, besides the members and friends from all over the state. Many of the events are open to all, whether members or not, and everyone will be welcome.

It is hoped to make this the best outing yet, but it will have to be a good one to beat the one last year, which was also held at the same place.

Along with the enthusiasm of the members of the association and their friends in regard to fish and game matters, shooting events, etc., is added the many attractions of the Mountain View House, which has the combination to make this the ideal place for such an outing.

Many no doubt will remain over Sunday as the tickets are good to return until July 7th.

NOTES FROM BELGRADE

Belgrade Lakes
June 29th, 1914

Beautiful weather and the fishing best ever!

Among the many old guests at Central House is Wm. B. Dick of Albany, N. Y., who is likely to prove himself champion fisherman of the season, having in two weeks caught 35 trout weighing from 4½ to 6½ pounds each. One week more will finish his vacation and greatly increase the number of fish, no doubt, by this lucky fisherman.

The Acme Theatre has opened for the season and apparently doing a good business. It is well patronized by the summer people, but much regret is expressed that it should be kept open on Sunday evenings.

A very popular place is the tea room conducted by Mrs. Allen, where a cup of most delicious and refreshing tea is served in a most pleasing and refined manner to both ladies and gentlemen who patronize the place daily.—Miss Hortense Hersom's summer school opens July 1st with 85 girls and more to come later.

The camp ground is a beautiful place and has become very popular and increases every summer in numbers.

MANY LADIES GET RECORD FISH

The Barker, Mooselookmeguntic Lake, June 29, 1914.

"There is everything to make one happy and comfortable in the attractive log camps, and I do not intend to do one thing for the next two weeks but sit by the open fire and rest and enjoy my smoke," is the way one of the New Yorkers expressed his pleasure at coming back again.

Surely if one wants peaceful days and nights, to forget business and the rush of the great busy city, there is no place to equal the Rangeleys.

The two bridal couples, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Schloss of Philadelphia and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Hickey of Cambridge, Mass., who have spent most of the June days here, started homeward Monday, planning to be among the annual comers in the future.

Camp Cupsuptic is taken for the remainder of the season by a family from Philadelphia, who are greatly pleased with the Barker. They are Mr. and Mrs. Millard Merz and son, Master Millard Jr. and Miss E. Dimond, Bob Martin is their guide and Mr. Merz is very enthusiastic over his first fishing trip in these waters. On Saturday he had the good luck to land a pair of fine salmon that weighed 3½ pounds and 4 pounds.

The ladies have again added their names to the fish record. Mrs. B. W. Gage of Brooklyn, N. Y., the day before going home caught a 3 pound salmon and one 4 pounds, Harry Nelson, guide. Mr. Gage, with James A. Stewart, guide, a 3 pound salmon and Miss Margaret Gage, Oscar Parker, guide, was high line with a 5 pound salmon and 3½ pound trout.

Mrs. W. B. Young of Norwich, Conn., Charles Record, guide, reeled in a 3 pound salmon for her last catch of the season.

Mrs. J. Goodfried of New York, who came last week for the summer, has not forgotten how to handle the rod and line for she brought to net a 4 pound salmon for her old guide, Gard Hinkley to net.

Miss Gertrude Bartruff of New York recorded a 3 pound trout this week.

Last Monday evening a most enjoyable social dance was given in the Casino, which was attended by guests from other hotels and the private camps.

Messrs. Sanford H. Cohen of Macon, Ga., and W. L. Weibel of St. Louis, Mo., who planned to remain for several weeks, were called home, but they were greatly taken with this part of the country and hope later to return.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pollock of New York, who were in Europe last summer are again welcomed at the Barker, and will be at home in Lynn lodge until the August days.

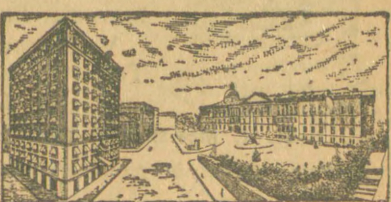

Coming in their touring car from Brookline, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Cobb and Miss M. Bradley reached bile, or a friend who owns one, you've here Saturday leaving the automobile in the garage, they went to the Birches for their annual sojourn in camp there.

J. D. Oppenheimer of San Antonio, Texas, who with his family are most happily located here until autumn, today accompanied his oldest daughter, Miss Ray to the girls' camp on Sangoo river, where she will spend several weeks.

Why is there not a girls' camp, also a boys' camp somewhere in the Rangeley region it is often asked, and it is hoped before another year someone will answer the question by building the much needed camp.

Black Bass Fry for Cobbosseecontee

Through the efforts of Commodore F. G. Kinsman of the Cobbosseecontee Yacht Club, says the Kennebec Journal who some time ago made application to the Bureau of Fisheries at Washington. D. C., for some black bass fry for the purpose of replenishing the stock of these fish in Lake Cobbosseecontee, a lot of the little fellows reached Augusta Tuesday from Nashua, N. H., and will be taken at once to the lake and there liberated. The introduction of these fish of a different strain into the waters of Cobbosseecontee is expected to prove a decided advantage in the line of propagation, producing a more hardy breed that will result in the future in better fishing.

THE AMHERST GUN CLUB

Organization Now 130 years Old—Its History

It was announced at the annual meeting of the Amherst, (Mass.) Gun club, which was held recently that the society is now 30 years old, says the Springfield Republican.

There are, in a community like Amherst, a great many organizations formed for one purpose and another in the course of a generation; but relatively a very few last for more than a few years at the most. One that has been active for 30 years and is still in a prosperous condition evidently serves a purpose. The club originated in 1884. The first meeting was held at the Amherst house, and a constitution and by-laws were adopted. H. E. Wheeler, late of Pelham, was elected president, and Henry Adams, secretary and treasurer. The executive committee was composed of John C. White, J. W. Howland and C. M. Osgood. There were about 25 charter members; of these 14 are now dead, and all of the first officers of the organization have passed away.

At the annual meeting held on May 6, 1885, it was voted to erect a frame building 15x30 feet for a club-house on the land of John C. White in the eastern part of the town. It was reported by the secretary at the next meeting, that a well-built house, 15x30 feet had been constructed during the past year, which cost in cash only $104.15. At a meeting held on March 6, 1888, it was voted upon the suggestion of H. H. Cooley of Springfield, that the name "Mountain View range" be adopted for the club. On March 13, 1888, there was a fire at the club-house which destroyed the secretary and treasurer's records, but the blaze was luckily extinguished before any great damage was done to the building.

There was an annual meeting held in May, 1889, and the next one was not held until August 15, 1899, when the club was reorganized, but with the same constitution and by-laws; and the records show at that time that there were 37 active members, 14 of whom have since died.

During the interim in which there were no annual meetings held, the clubhouse was frequented throughout the year by members and their friends, and many well attended shoots were held.

For a few years succeeding 1899 the club was very active. Shoots were held during the good weather nearly every week, and the out-of-town clubs frequently visited Mountain View range, and teams representing the Amherst gun club were sent to shoots throughout the state. Arthur F. Barwell, who was one of the charter members and always took an active interest in the organization, developed into one of the very best rifle marksmen of the state. In 1890, 1891 and 1892, he led the 2nd regiment infantry, of which he was the lieutenant, and he won many medals for his skill, including a $300 silver cup at a rifle shoot held in Brooklyn in 1895. Some crack pigeon shooters were developed, including L. H. Dickinson, James F. Page and Dr. H. B. Perry. In 1906 the club was practically obliged to vacate the grounds which it had occupied at East Amherst and through the efforts of Dr. Charles F. Branch and others, a new site was obtained in South Amherst, a 25-year lease of an extensive and sightly tract of land, was procured, and the old club house was taken down and moved to the new location. There was a special meeting held on August 20 at the new building, at which 31 new members were admitted.

The character of the club after its house was moved to the new location, changed; but comparatively few pigeon shoots were held, and the rifle range was never satisfactorily set up. The old Mt Doma country club house was given up and many of its former members joined the Amherst gun club, and the organization has now been transformed into a sort of a country club, and it is used a great deal during the summer months by members and their friends for evening and Sunday lunches. The total membership is now about 70, or nearly as large as at any time during the history of the club.

The list of the presidents of the organization from time it was first started is as follows: H. E. Wheeler, T. T. Sisson, C. M. Osgood, Henry Adams, A. F. Bardwell, E. P. Dickinson, Dr. H. B. Perry, Dr. Charles F. Branch, Frank A. Hosmer, James F. Page, Frank M. Thompson, and James W. T. Davis, Henry Adams, first of Amherst and later of Springfield, was for many years the secretary and treasurer, and probably did as much, if not more, than any other one person in organizing and maintaining the club during its first 20 years of existence.

MID-SUMMER RECREATION.

Many millions of sport-loving Americans seek recreation in summer at the sea-side, along the lakes, among the mountains, or in the woodlands, as the inclination may dictate. These summer sojourners return refreshed—having gained a new lease of life—and the annual outings are counted among the things that make life worth living. A graphic writer, commenting on the lure of the lakes and the wanderlust which leads to the northern woods, takes occasion to say:

High temperatures and excessive humidity have sent many of those who can afford to leave their business or their households on annual northern migration. While the more unfortunate mortals, who lack the necessary kopeks, continue to slave and slave at their daily occupations, these favored folk have packed trunks and traveling bags and have hied away to the shores of the northern lakes or the fastnesses of some cool mountain height, there to idle away the summer hours in pleasant surroundings, with no daily grind to mortify their flesh or their spirits.

It is most interesting to note how various people seek to find their various pleasures. Your ambitious society folk are careful to pry about and discover where the elect will spend their outings and no amount of persuasion can keep them away from fashionable watering places and summer resorts where Dame Fashion and Sir Gaiety reign supreme—if they can afford to spend the money.

Then there is the average pleasure seeker who cares not so much for the Four Hundred. Anywhere along the lakes where a summer hotel, summer girls and men of leisure are to be found will suit him.

And then there is the genus homo who is infected with the fishing and camping bug. Off to the lakes for him, with rod and reel, hip boots and khaki clothes and with no thought for social revelry or fashionable outing.

The Great Lakes furnish a source of recreation and relaxation to the great majority of pleasure seekers. Lake steamers will provide an exhilarating voyage for those who can spend the time and coin. Many seek respite from the discomforts of mid-summer weather in the vicinity of Mackinaw and here is where a large number of inexperienced vacationists make a mistake.

A gentleman who has made the trip to Mackinaw for many years called attention to this phase of the pleasure seekers' luck during the past week.

"When you go north, as far as Mackinaw or farther, you make the mistake of your life if you neglect to provide yourself with suitable clothing. People rush off to the north with their bags packed with the lightest and breeziest coverings they can get and when they reach their northern destination they find it mighty uncomfortable to stir out of doors for the greater part of the day. I always insist on the men in my party taking their overcoats and heavy underwear, and the ladies their furs. They find ample use for such trappings after they get north."

The same gentleman remarked on the difference in the way high temperatures affect one in Ohio and the middle west and in Florida, whence he had just returned. While the thermometer may register every bit as high a temperature in Florida as in Columbus, and while one may feel very hot in the sunshine, there is a decided lack of oppression and discomfort there as compared with here and there is nearly always a good breeze.—Sportsman's Review.

STILL LIKES TO FISH

Judge of Probate Nathaniel Hobbs of North Berwick, nearly 90 years of age, accompanied by Harry B. Ayer went out on Sebago lake recently for a try at the big salmon that are biting well now. The judge is an enthusiastic fisherman and hopes to have a fight with a large salmon before returning to his home. They are stopping at the Lakeside cottage, North Sebago.

Judge Hobbs has been going to Lake Sebago annually for many years and seems to take as keen interest and delight in the sport as ever, despite the fact that he will be 90 years old the 10th of September next. Judge Hobbs is one of those who doesn't believe in growing old.—Biddeford Journal.

LAKES AND PONDS OF WESTERN MASSACHUSETTS SHOULD OF-FER GOOD CHANCE TO
THOSE WHO SEEK
THESE FISH.

The opening of the bass and pike seasons has added greatly to the possibilities for those who want variety in their angling schedule. Both of these excellent game fish are found in quite satisfactory numbers in Western Massachusetts. Either of them makes a very satisfactory opponent too, with the bass leading the wall-eyed cousin by a few lengths as a fighter. There are indeed not a few famous fishing grounds in the country in which trout, salmon and such fish cut no figure at all, the entire stock being of bass, pike and pickerel, and these lakes and streams are drawing cards quite as attractive as the Maine woods and other places where the chief attraction is the speckled beauty and his relatives.

Both bass and pike thrive excellently in either a river or a lake or pond. There is no special kind of water which the bass may be said to prefer above all others. He will not be found frequently in lakes that are stagnant, but mud bottom, sand or rock, clean shores or bulrushes makes no great difference to him. It is largely a matter of food, and if he can hide under a grassy bank and wait for grasshoppers to fall in the is as well satisfied as when he is chasing minnows over shoal or poking his black nose around under rocks in hopes of a tasty crawfish or a juicy slug. It is largely on account of his fighting proclivities that the bass is so eager a biter. There are records of his having taken about everything. The spoon arouses his curiosity; he among all other fish enjoys a worm; squirmy little green frogs that make him feel like 1.30 on Thanksgiving afternoon, and for dessert he will have, thank you, a "squashy" locust or grasshopper, unless the thing he takes happens to be a fly that reminds him of one of those.

The wall-eyed pike, on the other hand, is not quite so omniverous. The best baits for him are usually a minnow, a nice fat worm or a spoon. He seldom rises to or "falls for" a fly, but in many places the small green frog you cast for a bass will be eagerly seized by the slender and more graceful wall-eye. The pike is really a river fish, although he has thrived surprisingly when planted in lakes throughout the middle West and can safely be said to flourish there no less than in running water. He grows rapidly. In lakes where he has been planted the man who fishes year after year can easily notice the increase in size of the average fish taken in successive seasons. There is probably a limit to the size which they attain, but in waters where they have long thrived, 5, 8 and even 10-pound specimens are by no means out of the range of possibility. As a general thing, however, the smaller wall-eyed pike, ranging from 1½ to 4 pounds, put up the best fight. An eight-pounder is not infrequently sluggish, and after one long run will be brought to gaff rather as a dead weight than as the fiery, hatred-expressing thrasher that the bass remains until the fight is hopelessly over. Nevertheless one cannot ignore the wall-eyed pike as a game fish, and as a table fish he has few superiors. Baked pike is "nuff said where he is a common visitor.

Both bass and pike are found in several varieties in fresh water. Leaving the pickerel out of it, in a group with the muskellonge and like specimens, there remain the walleyed pike and the sand pike. The sand pike is seldom found around here, but every sandy river in the West has him in quantities. Unfortunately, he cannot earn one's great respect as a fighter, although he fattens the day's bag very comfortably and holds his own when the butter and cornmeal have smeared his sides in the old frying pan. The bass is found in a greater range of variety. There is the rock bass, which resembles the fresh water sunfish and punkin seed, and there are the large-mouthed black bass and the small-mouthed black bass, sometimes called the Oswego bass. These latter two are so generally similar as to be distinguishable only to those who have frequently noted the difference between them, the part of the name referring to the mouth, giving the clew as to their main differences. should take no one's word for that. He should rig up a reel, lay in a supply of bait and put these varieties to the test. There will be no disappointment in the results; that is to say, not if there are any results.

Local bird lovers are enlisted in the task of taking the first national bird census, the figures for which are being gathered in every state of the union by groups of enthusiastic bird lovers, working at the suggestion and, in part, under the supervision of the United States department of agriculture. The census does not mean that every bird is to be "tagged" and its number taken, but does mean that a careful attempt will be made this year and each succeeding year for some time to come, to determine the effect of the federal bird protection laws that have recently been passed.

The census will be taken each year at the mating season, when the searchers will seek out nests and count the eggs or young birds in each nest. The information, as it is gathered will be sent to the United States department of agriculture, where the reports will be tabulated and the results of the census published. It will be manifestly impossible to cover a large amount of territory in the careful way necessary to determine the number of nests and the probable number of birds to be produced. Each society, therefore, that has undertaken the work is making a very careful survey of given areas of comparatively small extent.

The Allen bird club has undertaken the task of canvassing three areas, classed as uplands, woodlands and lowlands, the latter including the marshes and the places frequented by water birds. In the uplands are birds that frequent dry open meadows and waste lands, such as most of the many varieties of sparrows and the many kinds of meadow birds. A section of about 40 acres in East Longmeadow has been chosen for the canvass. The Advent camp ground and its neighboring woods have been chosen as the "woodlands," and the marshes along the Birnie road in Longmeadow will be the scene of the "lowland" work.

A committee of the members of the club is in charge of each section of the work. N. T. Smith is chairman of the woodland committee; J. S. Shmonds heads the upland committee and Prof. George B. Affleck is leading the lowland canvassers. Each committee will cover its territory carefully at least three times, about a week elapsing between inspections. Among the interesting and surprising discoveries that the canvassers have made is the presence of two mallard duck nests within three or four miles of Court square. It had not been supposed that the ducks nested so near.—Springfield Republican.

FOREST FIRE PROTECTION

Interesting Facts from Report of Forest Commissioner Viles.

From Bulletin No. 1 of the Department of State Lands and Forestry, Blaine S. Viles, forest commissioner, which has been compiled for the year 1913, we copy some of the interesting facts.

There are 42 Lookout stations in operation, 15 of these having been established the past year.

One hundred seventy-three patrolmen were employed during the season, and 71 fires were reported by them. When the weather conditions would permit, these men were engaged in the construction of telephone lines, lookout stations, trails, camps, etc.

Fires which could not be extinguished by the regular force, necessary extra help was employed.

The area of the Maine Forestry District is about 9,467,773 acres and area of forests outside the district is about 4,824,125 acres. Outside the district incomplete returns give 102 fires with an estimated area burned of 20,857 acres and loss of $148,265. These figures show a comparison of the efficiency of the two systems.

Improvements made as mentioned in reports of chief wardens were as follows:

Chief Warden A. K. Ames, Machias: During the season a watch tower has been constructed on Tug Mt., which covers the heart of the Machias river; about three miles of telephone line has been constructed from the Bacon place to this tower.

Chief Warden Frank N. McElroy, Patten:

Three tool boxes built and a good lot of tools furnished.

Chief Warden Forrest H. Colby, Bingham:

The telephone lines have been greatly improved and in many instances reconstructed. There has been a new camp built on Attean Mt., new tool boxes placed in several sections, and all the old boxes properly filled with tools.

Chief Warden George G. Nichols, Jackman:

A new telephone line installed from Heald pond to the County road, a distance of about three miles, and one new box at Boundary Bald Mt. lookout station. A new lookout station was built on Attean Mt. and one and one-fourth miles of telephone to connect same, a new box for same; and five new tool boxes distributed as follows: Two at Soldiertown, one at Brassau, one at Churchill, one at Spencer; also a canoe has been added to the service.

Chief Warden George E. Hathaway, Jacksonville:

A lookout station built at Cooper and one-half mile telephone to connect it with New England Telephone Company. A good trail has been cleared along the line; new and sufficient tools have been added.

Chief Warden L. P. Barney, Skinner: New line of telephone from Hollingsworth & Whitney Company's camps on Twp. 6, R. 7, to top of Tumbledown Mt.

BEAUTIFUL LAKE TROUT PRESENTED

The latest gift to the State museum was a magnificent specimen of a togue or lake trout, presented by S. L. Crosby & Co. of Bangor, taxidermists.

The fish, which tipped the scales at 26 pounds and measured 39 inches in length, was caught in one of the large lakes of northern Maine.

GAME WARDEN'S EXCITING FIGHT WITH BULL MOOSE.

Robert Low, one of the game wardens for York county, N. B., whose home is at Kingsclear, and who has hunting and fishing grounds on the Pokio stream, had an exciting fight with a big bull moose near Pokio a few days ago.

When Mr. Low reached the scene of the encounter his attention was attracted by seeing an elderly squaw starting off with a wicked look in her eye and an axe over her shoulder. In a few minutes Mr. Low found a big bull moose had been caught in the fence along the right of way of the St. John Valley railway, and evidently the squaw was as interested in the opportunity for procuring some fresh moose meat as she was in saving either the animal or the fence. Mr. Low took charge of the situation and after considerable difficulty, succeeded in disentangling Mr. Moose, who had got his feet all mixed up in the wire fence. His Majesty of the Forest did not appreciate the situation which had arisen altogether, and as soon as he found himself free, he put his head down and made a mad dash at Mr. Low, who was more or less bruised and injured from the blows which he received from the animal's feet and antlers. Finally Mr. Low took refuge in a big bunch of brush, and some Indians, who were attracted by the commotion, chased the big animal away.

SEBAGO'S MANY ADVANTAGES

Growing In Popularity as One of the Attractive Summer Resorts

Breathing the romantic atmosphere resultant from numberless Indian legends and with surroundings made beautiful by all the arts of Nature there is no more widely known or more popular summer resort in the entire State of Maine than Sebago Lake and this statement is fully substantiated by the thousands of summer visitors who flock to Sebago annually from all parts of the country.

It has been a comparatively short time that this beautiful spot has been widely known as a resort for summer tourists, but in the past score of years it is estimated that $1,000,000 has been expended by private individuals in summer homes on the shores of the lake. Where 20 years ago stood a few fishing camps, used for the greater part in the spring fishing season, there now stands cottages and camps, ranging in value from a few hundred dollars to many thousands. In fact, it is not generally known even among people who reside within a few miles of Sebago that on its shores are estates, used for summer purposes only whose values are estimated at more than the $50,000 mark.

From the early spring with the going out of the ice, people from all parts of the country journey to Sebago and if one loves the beauties of the out door, and he comes to Maine, Sebago Lake is usually his objective point. While the hotels and public houses are not the huge, impressive, structures to be found in the so called popular summer resort, what is lost in size is easily made up in comfort and "hominess" and no one has ever been heard to rail at the service offered by Sebago's accommodating hostilities.

Combined with the serene beauty of the lake itself and furnishing a perfect background for the island-studded waters is the varied shore line. Here the white sand of a beach gently shelves away from the shore to the deep waters of midlake, there a rugged bluff ascends abruptly from the very edge of the water, all uniting in forming a beauty unsurpassed and creating an impression never to be forgotten.

As a resort for fisherfolk Sebago had been known, and well known, for many years. The catches of red spots, salmon and other denizens of fresh waters at Sebago have been heralded in all parts of the country and the news of the outgoing of the ice in the spring, which precedes the fishing season but briefly, is as anxiously awaited as are the results of the primaries.

On every shore of the lake, from Sticky River to Chadbourne Bay, are groups of handsome cottages and camps and the total in numbers must reach nearly to 500. This represents an outlay of close to $1,000,000. These summer homes are grouped from Sticky river, on the west shore through Great Heath, Dundy Meadow, Long Point, Smooth Ledge Point Heath, Wards Beach, Long Beach, Nor'west River, North Sebago, Muddy River, Naples, Songo, South Casco, Sandy Beach, Raymond Cape, Frye's Island, Indian Island, Jordan's River, White's Bridge and Chadbourne's Bay.

Probably the first bonafide sporting camp was the Sokokis Camp, built 25 years ago at Sanborns Point. This camp has been called the pioneer of the so-called sporting camps and has always been very popular. The first house on record where visitors were received is the Kennard house at White's Bridge and this is still in existence and is as popular with the summer visitors and spring fishermen as ever. The Hawthorne, built some time after the Sokokis, on the bank of Nor'west River as a private cottage is occupied annually.

It was many years before visiting fishermen from other states discovered Sebago Lake as a fishing pond. However, local people from the towns surrounding the lake and from the neighboring cities and towns have fished in Sebago lake since time immemorial. Before the establishment of the sporting camps and hotels these parties would find their shelter in tent and lean-to and provide themselves with food from the near-by farm houses. So good was the fishing at the eastern end of the lake that apparently the thought of invading the western end, nearer the station, never occurred to the old timers. At the present time it is safe to say that there isn't an eighth of a mile of the lake's surface that is not fished most assiduously.

While it has been many years since Indians were seen in the vicinity of the lake they have nevertheless, left their marks to show that their hunting grounds at one time embraced the forests on all sides of the beautiful expanse of water, and as a result there are many legends in connection with the redskin who at one time established their villages in the vicinity of the lake. Any one of the natives will tell one some mighty interesting tales of the desperate struggles of rival bands of Indians over the fishing grounds at the mouth of the Songo river and when one is brought face to face with the famous Frye's Leap he will draw a breath of amazement, involuntarily take a mental measurement of the steep ugly-looking ledge and then picture the hardy pioneer leaping down the 50 or more feet into the wintry waters of the lake with a fitting background of disappointed Indians, cheated of their human prey, grouped at the top of the bluff. There are many such stories and they have never lost their interest still cherished by the old time fishermen.

Among the better known show places of the lake so far as summer homes are concerned are Verrill's on the Standish shore, Potts' at Standish Neck and Frye's Island, Blakeley's on Raymond Cape, Champlin's at White's Bridge, Bispham's at Songo and Sally Fisher's at the mouth of the river.

The lake has become a great vacation resort for actors and actresses and the banks of the Songo have afforded many a pleasant day's outing for actor folks during the past few years. Among the better known ones who have made this their summer headquarters are Sally Fisher with her husband, Arthur Houghton, the well known manager, and their family, Bobby North, erstwhile star of the Hanky Panky Company, Ross Snow, formerly with the Mutt and Jeff Company, McIntire, the Englishman who created such an impression as a member of the original Man From Home Company, Larry Wheat, formerly of the 45 Minutes From Broadway Company, Louis Epstein, the New York manager, and hosts of others.

The ease with which one can reach Sebago Lake and the natural advantages afforded there make this an ideal resort and its worth is becoming better known each year.

An attractive feature in connection with Sebago Lake is the fact that in addition to the beauties the lake itself possesses it is within easy distance and on a direct line with other resorts. The magnificent White Mountain resorts are easily reached by train and the resorts of Long Pond, Bridgton, Naples and other points to the north are within reach by steamer.—Sunday Telegram.

FOUND A STURGEON

When Capt. Henry Gallagher of the staunch little log towing steamer Connors went aboard the steamer as she was lying at her boom above the bridges in the Penobscot river, Thursday morning of last week, he received the surprise of his life.

On one side of the steamer swung the boom, while on the other side was moored the large flat boat used for bringing extra coal out to the tow-boat at such times as the tides forbade recourse to the docks. Over bow and stern are built sort of canopies or decks, with plenty of opening amidships through which to handle the coal.

As Capt. Gallagher stepped on the Connors and walked along her deck, he discovered a great thrashing in the coal light. Investigation revealed a big sturgeon, which had attempted to jump over the boat and steamer, but the gasoline engine giving out, it had dropped into the open boat and lay there, flopping vigorously but unable to throw itself out between the ends, which hampered its freedom. The fish was at once dispatched and proved to weigh 250 pounds, being seven feet long from nose to end of tail.

This makes the superstitious think there is a good luck attachment to the name of Connors. Years ago, before the Bangor dam was built, one of this famous family of log rafters was going up over Treat's Falls, as the pitch used to be known before the dam was built, when a big sea salmon leaped into the batteau. Mr. Connors promptly fell on the fish and succeeded in holding it despite its struggles.

BRIDAL COUPLES IN EVIDENCE

$1,000 Coon Cat Comes Again for the Summer.

(Special Correspondence.)

The Birches,
Mooselookmeguntic Lake,
June 25, 1914.

Summer time has come again at The Birches and the city folks are coming back to the log cabins they love so well, and all are looking forward to happy days.

Capt. Barker did not open this place for guests until recently.

Wm. L. Myers is head man on the island and looks after the comfort of all who come.

This has always been a favorite spot for bridal couples and Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Benchley of Cambridge, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. J. George Newhall of Philadelphia, Penn., after the June wedding came directly here to pass their honeymoon days in a log cabin, and plan to be among the annual comers in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Gardiner of Boston, who for nearly 20 years have spent the good old summer time in El Falaro Camp were the first to arrive and later they will be joined by their sons.

Mrs. A. F. Morrill and daughter, Miss Alice Morrill of New York City are in Camp Kilcare to remain until the close of the season.

In Camp Hiawatha a Boston bridal couple, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gray, are spending ten days.

One of the most delightful families who come here for an extended stay arrived last evening, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Morse and daughter, Miss Clara Morse of Stockbridge, Mass., who are today busy unpacking and putting Camp Bide-a-wee in order. They brought with them "Michael" the most valuable cat that ever came to these lakes for an outing. Michael is a handsome and huge $1000 coon cat, who remembers his friends and is perfectly contented and seems proud of the attention received.

The flock of hens have recently lost some of their number, and the men decided to set a trap and catch the hen thief. The next morning they found the trap had gone. Then they commenced to hunt in the woods near by. Judge of their surprise to hear the rattle of the trap as a big owl flew from a nearby tree, but hereafter he will sit quietly on the shelf for Billy is a good shot and a stuffed owl can't rob a hen roost.

The laundry is again in charge of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown of Auburn who have been here for several years.

The change of time giving two daily mails and express, with parlor car accommodations on all the trains is most pleasing to the traveling public.

From now until the July days each boat will bring those who come to make a long stay, and soon the cabins will all be occupied and this as usual in the season is a busy place and one of the most desirable for parties who enjoy log cabin life with all the comforts of home.

ANGLERS MET

At a meeting of the Cumberland County Angling Association which took place recently at the Falmouth hotel, secretary George C. Orr reported that salmon fry would be placed in Sebago lake this week, beginning today, from the Raymond hatcheries and following out the suggestion 25,000 will be deposited on the east shore and a like amount on the west shore. The advisability of holding a field day was discussed but no definite action was taken.

BALL GAME AT MINGO

Dinner For Winning Base Ball Team

Mingo Hill, June 24, 1914

This afternoon one of those enjoyable events which enliven the summer solstice occurred on the Mingo Springs ball field.

The West Rangeleys our star local team competed with the Mooseluckmeguntics captained by Herb Welsh the talented taxidermist from Haines Landing. If there is anything that "Herb" can't do once he undertakes it seriously, we have yet to hear of it, so we conclude that he does not really intend to trim his friends who frequently are his team mates when he rounds up a bunch of snappy ball tossers to give our boys a try. The game began just before three o'clock and owing to the vigorous prompting of Umpire Cassidy went the full nine innings, closing at four fifty in time to respond to the urgent whistling of steamer Rangeley waiting to return the down the lake boys to their homes.

The local team won by the score of 18 to 13, the contest being characterized by heavy hitting by both teams which although somewhat disconcerting to the pitchers gave the spectators great enjoyment calling as it did for much activity from the fielders.

Capt. Welsh lead both teams in hitting, never failing to make a base hit, having two three base hits, two two base and two one base hits takes credit, while only quick returns of long hits prevented home runs being made.

Archie Pillsbury of the locals also did good work at the bat, while his team mates all found the ball with frequency.

The fielding by both teams was quite brilliant at times but showed lack of practice by the locals and of team work by the visitors. The score by innings:

W Rangeleys . 8 0 2 4 1 3 0 0 x—18

Mooseluckmeguntics . 0 3 1 0 4 2 2 0 1—13

June 27th—Mr. Cole the genial host of the Springs today offered a dinner to the team winning the baseball game here the West Rangeleys to be opposed by a hastily organized team, made up largely from the hotel help. Of course the result was a foregone conclusion, the husky boys from the farms winning easily, but they all had lots of fun and a good dinner besides.

PROSECUTIONS REPORTED

Deputy warden Charles Chadbourne of Sanford recently reported to the office of the State Commission of Inland Fisheries and Game the payment of a fine of $12 by Charles Hofman for having in his possession a short black bass.

The warden on duty in the southern half of Aroostook county has reported to the State Commissioners of Inland Fisheries and Game that he cannot remember a year since he has been on duty that there have been so many brook trout taken as this year.

The State Commission of Inland Fisheries and Game have reported the following prosecutions:

Frank Oellet of Skowhegan was prosecuted for fishing in a tributary of Long Pond, Sandy River plantation. He was convicted and paid a fine and costs amounting to $25.

Edward Millet of Madison was prosecuted for the same offense, and paid the same penalty. Both prosecutions were reported by E. H. Lowell, warden.

E. D. Leighton of Parkman was prosecuted and convicted for taking six short trout. He paid a fine and costs amounting to $38.90.

G. W. Bennet of Parkman was convicted and paid the same fine for the same offense.

John R. Flint of Monson reported the prosecution before the Piscataquis municipal court at Milo on June 13 of W. W. Cross of Brownville for buying deer skins without a license. He was fined $50 and costs, which he paid.

The same warden also reported the prosecution of Thomas Wilson on June 10 for taking more than 25 trout in one day. He was convicted and fined $10 and costs. For the same offense H. E. Rhodes of Milo, C. O. Purdy of Milo and Percy Alexander of Brownville Junction were also prosecuted and received the same fine.

Deputy Warden E. R. Twombly of Enfield reported the prosecution before the Old Town municipal court on June 16 of James Upton of Brewer for having more than 25 trout in his possession at one time. He was

LADY CATCHES FINE FISH

Lakewood Camps, Middle Dam, June 29, 1914

All are asking if the warm weather is coming with the July days, for with the exception of last Wednesday there has not been a day but what there has been a big fire in the office.

Mrs. A. L. Salt of Summit, N. J., came from their attractive camp on Umbagog Lake last Saturday and made the trip to Bemis and back to meet her husband.

Mrs. Etta Dill of Rangeley has for several days been the guest of her niece Mrs. Coburn and on Sunday morning they went from here by steamer to South Arm where Capt. Coburn keeps his automobile in the garage. From there by auto they made a quick run to Andover stopping for lunch. In the afternoon they went to Bethel where they met Capt. Coburn's mother and Miss C. T. Crosby who was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ceylon Rowe. The party had a delightful return trip. Before they reached Andover they met 29 autos. Those who have never been in this part of Maine have no idea of the beauty of the scenery along the Androscoggin valley on the excellent roads. From Andover to South Arm for 11 miles, through the notch one takes a spin all the way in the forest without passing a house, and deer, rabbit and other game are often seen.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Brooks of Pittsburg, Penn., have been enjoying a weeks sojourn here and were greatly pleased with the place.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hamlin of Gorham, N. H., who were on their wedding trip came from Colebrook via Balsams and Dixville Notch.

Mr. A. M. Stone and daughter Miss Evelyn M. Stone of Worcester, Mass., also came this route stopping here on their way to Kennebago.

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Cooke of Providence, R. I., have returned for another season.

They greatly enjoy the fly fishing and Mrs. Cooke is one of the best fly casters among the ladies at Middle Dam, and has caught some fine ones, although they enjoy the sport and land many fish they are all returned to the water.

The last boom of logs has gone through this lake, down Rappid river and is now being taken across Umbagog Lake.

This is always good news for the fly fisherman, and they are having wonderful catches in the Pond-in-the-river.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Huskins of Lewiston with Bill Moulton guide on Wednesday had to stop fishing as they caught all the law would allow. Several 3 pounders came to their fly. On Saturday morning they returned home, taking a big catch of trout and salmon with them.

Messrs F. B. Grant of Providence, R. I., C. H. Bowker and son of Worcester, Mass., have had a great week outing, fishing and tramping. C. G. Bowker was very proud of the 4 pound salmon he took on the fly.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Spohr of New York who have been here several years arrived on Saturday and plan to enjoy life in Camp Satisfaction the most of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. N. N. Thayer of Boston who have been coming to the Rangeleys for twenty nine years are greatly enjoying this trip. Marshall Linell, their guide for twenty-four seasons seems to enjoy the sport watching Mr. Thayer cast the fly.

"I never had such good fly fishing in all the years I have been coming here as I had last Tuesday in the Pond-in-the-river" said Mr. Thayer, when telling of the mornings sport. He caught twelve fish from a pound to three pounds each, but as he only killed enough for supper some one else can hook them. The next morning he took a pair of salmon 2½ pounds each.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Garland of Worcester, Mass., who came the first of June, with Walter Walte guide are having good fly fishing and have caught a number of three pounders. Mrs. Garland yesterday morning with a four ounce rod, while casting at the foot of the dam, struck a four pound salmon, hooking him in the side. For half an hour there was some excitement as the fish made a run across the pool, then attempted to run up the fish way, and next down to Umbagog, but at last Mrs. Garland convinced the salmon to be reeled in, a handsome silver beauty.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Varney who are employed by Geo. Nason at Sawyer Lake on Azispos came on the carry yesterday, and report the best of trout fly fishing, and every one is greatly pleased at the new law allowing but 5 pounds to a person. Several parties are coming this week and Capt. Coburn expects a good season.

convicted and fined $25 and costs, which he paid. For the same offense Samuel Cole of Old Town paid a fine of $19 and costs.

Steadfastness.
