He entered the service of his country as a young man of 20 years in the Civil war and served until his discharge, returning to Amity where he took up farming and followed that calling until he moved to Houlton, serving as County Commissioner for 20 years and Sheriff of the county from Jan. 1917 to Jan. 1 1921. WORLD WAR OFFICERS TO HOLD MEETING

At a recent conference held at Augusta, at which Colonel John A. Hadley, of Togus, former Adjutant General of Maine, and at present G-1 of the 97th Division Organized Reserves, Colonel Henry G. Beyer, Portland, Commanding Officer, 303rd Infantry, 97th Division, Organized Reserves, Major William H. Mitchell, M. C., U. S. Army, Executive 322nd Medical Regiment, Augusta, and Captain Oscar K. Wolber, Infantry, U. S. Army, Executive 303rd Infantry U. S. Army, Lewiston, Maine, were present, it was decided to hold a meeting for officers of the World War, in Room 317 Federal Building, (Post Office), Bangor, Maine, at 7.30 p. m. Wednesday, October 10, 1923.

The purpose of this meeting is to explain to officers of the World War the regulations governing their appointment in the Officers' Reserve Corps, and the advantages to them of accepting appointment at this time (before November 11) etc. Under present regulations, until November 11 (this year), an ex-officer of the World War may be appointed to the highest grade achieved by him during his previous experience, upon War Department record alone. After November 11, all persons desiring appointment to commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps, regardless of their former status, will be required to pass a rigid examination by a board of officers duly appointed for the purpose.

The Organized Reserves is the third component of the present Army of the United States, and is subject to call to active duty in case of a National Peril only, and taking into consideration the fact that practically ninety per cent of the officer personnel of this organization are veterans of the World War, this can be considered one of the most efficient organizations of its kind in the World. Also, a brief talk will be made as to what is being done in regard to the organization of the 97th Division, of which Maine is allocated a part.

All men interested in the Officer's Reserve Corps, especially former officers of the World War are urged to attend.

MAINE CO-OPS. MARKETING WELL

Results From Sales are Very Satisfactory to All Concerned

Single G, the thirteen year old veteran of the Grand Circuit won one of the most sensational horse races ever seen in Maine when on Wednesday afternoon at Bass Park, Bangor before a crowd of 25,000 he took the third and fourth heats of the 1.59 pace winning the race. All the honors did not go to the winner however. In the first heat Margaret Dillon was the winner and lowered the state record a quarter of a second placing it at the 2.04 1/2 mark. Here it rested until the second mile which Sir Roche won in 2.04 1/4. In both of these heats Single G was second.

John R. Braden won the free-for-all with Roy Gratton, which has just returned to the track after injuries received early in the summer forcing him to do the mile in 2.04 1/2. This equaled the mark that he made at Gorham last Saturday and which was the state record until it was broken by Margaret Dillon.

Margaret Dillon and Sir Roche were the first of the Grand Circuit trio to come onto the track in front of the packed grand stand and lined fence. They received a burst of applause that rivaled any they have heard on the "big time" but when Single G came out a few minutes later the veteran horse moving down the track at a slow, deliberate, lazy appearing gait, looking anything but a speed king the crowd was still. They did not appear to realize that the headliner was present and it was not until Starter Chester F. Pike of Windsor, Vt. asked Ed Allen, "Are you and Single G ready?" that the crowd woke up. The roar that arose then revealed any expression of words.

Margaret Dillon drew the pole and the trio got away on their first attempt. Dillon led to the last turn with Single G just behind. Sir Roche broke and was out of the race. As they made the curve coming onto the stretch Allen pulled Single G out and with a liberal use of the whip brought the favorite up on equal terms with the Dillon mare. Up the stretch they raced and went under the wire with many thinking one had won while his neighbor was just as sure the other was the leader. The judges ruled that Margaret Dillon had taken the heat.

In the second heat Dillon got away at the pole and kept in the lead with Single G just behind to the three quarters mark. Here Single G attempted to pass only to be forced out by McManemon who was not figuring on Sir Roche. The bay gelding, considered one of the best horses in the Grand Circuit in the final drive to the wire, if the first part of the race is not too fast, shot in to the pole and before the other drivers knew what had taken place was in the lead. Single G set sail after him, but second place was the best the favorite could collect.

With two heats gone the favorite had failed to win and the third choice in the betting had set up a new state

LEGION AUXILIARY ENTERTAINED FRIDAY

On Friday a most delightful picnic of the American Legion Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. L. K. Porter, at her farm home in Hodgdon. The day was a most perfect one; the country at its very best in color scheme and beauty. The ride to the Porter home is a most delightful one particularly as this time of year and after reaching the top of the hill where the Porter house is situated, it was a sight well worth traveling miles to see. The colorings of the trees and the deep valleys and hills in the distance showing up like a beautiful picture.

Picnic dinner was served on the large piazza with a very attractive menu. After dinner a short business session was held.

It was voted by the American Legion Auxiliary to lease the Gray hall and a committee for the purpose of drawing up by-laws, constitution, etc., be appointed by Clara M. Putnam, president of the Auxiliary to confer with the American Legion after they appoint a committee to meet in conjunction with the ladies. All were very much enthused over the outlook and it now looks as if something worth while has been accomplished.

It was voted that a whist party be held at Society hall on Thursday evening, October 11 and hostesses are to be solicited.

On Thursday evening at a regular meeting of North Star camp, R. N. of A. it was voted to hold a social in their hall on Thursday Oct. 11, to which Woodmen and their wives are to be invited. An enjoyable evening is hoped for.

It is proposed to reconstruct the building, recently purchased from the Woodstock Foundry Ltd. and to make a show room with plate glass front at the Main street end of the building.

To the users of this line of machinery the new firm wish to make known the fact that a complete stock of repairs is carried and ready for immediate delivery.

MEETING OF LOCAL RED CROSS CHAPTER

It is to be regretted that more did not attend the Red Cross service at the Temple Theatre on Sunday evening. Through the kindness and cooperation of the various churches evening services in the churches were opened early so those who wished to attend this service at 8 p. m. might do so.

Miss Eva Seates of Fort Fairfield who has been working throughout Aroostook county had charge of the program, the Red Cross Chapter local is indebted to the speakers and all who so faithfully stood by and tried to help make the meeting a successful one.

The evening's program was opened by Dr. F. W. Mann chairman of South Aroostook Chapter who explained the nature of the meeting Dr. Mann told something about the work done by the Red Cross of Houlton. This was followed by a recitation by James Archibald on the American and Red Cross Flag. The stars and stripes were carried on the stage while the audience sang the Star Spangled Banner with Miss Louise Buzzell at the piano. This was followed by the making of the Red Cross flag by four young girls dressed in white. The girls who took part were: Mary Dudley, Helen Dill, Averhill Gellerson and Edith Hoskins. This was one of the prettiest parts of the program and the thought left behind was one well worth remembering. The four girls marched on the stage with two strips of red and formed the Red Cross; the first girl recited: "The red in the cross stands for sacrifice, for giving life, as the warm crimson blood gives life to the body. The cross has the same length on all sides of its arms to signify that it gives light equally to all, high or low, east or west."

Second girl: "It stands alone always no words or markings on it, to show that the Red Cross workers have only one thought to serve. They ask no questions, they care not whether the wounded or needy be ours or of another people their duty is to give, and to give quickly."

3rd girl: "The Red Cross stands on a white ground because real sacrifice can come only from pure hearts. Service must come not from hate, but from love; from the noblest thoughts and wishes of the heart or it will fail."

4th girl: "It is drawing them by millions in our land to a wonderful army of rescue, to make, to save, and to give for others."

Rev. A. M. Thompson read and Rev. A. E. Luce offered prayer. Dr. F. W. Mann introduced Superintendent Thomas P. Packard who gave an excellent talk showing the work of a Health Nurse in the public schools and how the Red Cross helped to establish such a nurse. Mr. Packard gave praise to Southern Aroostook Chapter in trying to do and assist in health work throughout the Southern Aroostook Chapter. Miss Nan Clark was the first Red Cross nurse to come to Houlton and her worth was demonstrated at the expense of the Chapter. Miss Clark also demonstrated in other branches of Southern Aroostook the true value of a school nurse. It is hoped that in other sections of the Chapter seed has been sown which shall mature in due season and a school nurse may be seen in the near future in other fields outside of Houlton in Southern Aroostook Chapter.

Rev. F. Clark Hartley, pastor of the Red Cross across in a most eloquent appeal to the people. Mr. Hartley was in Halifax at the time of the Halifax disaster and was assigned to oversee the dressings which were pouring into the city; he spoke highly of the amount sent from the Boston Red Cross, Maine and Houlton, Maine. Many of our citizens lived over in memory the terrible disaster. How

EXCHANGE CAFE HAS NOT CHANGED HANDS

At the request of Mr. Barrett who has been conducting the Exchange Cafe for some time, he wishes us to state that he still owns the business and will continue to conduct it, notwithstanding the report in a local paper that he had disposed of the business.

Mr. Barrett since his connection with this popular restaurant has been doing a good business and it has been very convenient for those wishing to get their meals without going to a hotel and his satisfactory service to his customers is the best recommendation for his excellent patronage. He has been for over a year catering for the Houlton Rotary Club at Watson Hall and they as well as others of his customers are very glad to know that he will still continue to serve them.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Harvey spent the week end at their camp at Shin Pond having as guests, County Attorney and Mrs. Herschel Shaw, State Treasurer and Mrs. Bonney of Augusta and Mr. and Mrs. Davidson of Fort Fairfield.

SINGLE G WINS AT BANGOR---4 HEATS

Sir Roch Makes New Maine Track Record of 2.04 1-4

Caribou, Me. Sept. 28, 1923--Movement of the crop of members of the Maine Potato Growers' Exchange has been very free from the period Sept. 4 to Sept. 25. Movements by other operators have been the same. The result has been that a large volume of potatoes has moved into the markets within a very brief space of time.

Members of the Exchange have been allowed to dig at will and deliver in the same manner. The Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, Inc., sales agent for the Exchange, through their two hundred sales connections have rendered a distribution service very expeditiously and in an efficient manner.

Business Manager, A. J. Beck, recently returned from Boston, is very much pleased with the manner in which shipments have been handled, also the attitude of the buying trade.

Mr. Beck reports that a conference with Boston buyers disclosed that the quality and grade of the Maine Potato Growers' Exchange potatoes was most excellent. Several representatives of the table potatoes, as graded under the old system, which has been so long in vogue in Maine.

Mr. Beck reported that conferences held with J. B. White, Sales Manager for Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, Inc. revealed that, through his skillful use of Federated agencies, shipments had been handled through diversion so that every car had been quickly sold, without a sacrifice in price.

This conference also disclosed that, up to the present time, Boston is not as conspicuous a point on the marketing stage. Shipments of Maine Potato Growers' Exchange potatoes have been sold through Ohio and other Middle Western points, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Miami and Tampa, Florida.

The management of the Maine Potato Growers' Exchange is much pleased with this efficient distribution which was hardly to be expected this early in the game.

Four hundred cars of Maine potatoes remained on track in Boston, Tuesday night, Sept. 18. The next morning an embargo was placed on all shipments of potatoes into Boston.

J. P. Darling, Director of Transportation and Claims Department, had occasion to be in Boston at this time. Railroad officials and representatives of the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, Inc., informed him that there was not one car belonging to the Maine Potato Growers' Exchange in this number.

This fact demonstrates quite conclusively the coordination between sales and transportation departments. It further shows that the management of Maine Potato Growers' Exchange is not only formulating but putting into actual operation a program which insures orderly marketing and wide distribution for the potatoes of the Maine Potato Growers' Exchange.

WORK ON GOLF LINKS STARTED THIS WEEK

Work on the Golf links at the new Country club was started the first of the week and will be pushed as fast as possible before the ground freezes.

The work will be done by Sam Palar with a crew of men with tractors and teams from plans prepared by Mr. Peacock, Professor of the well known St. Andrews, N. B. course, who will arrive the last of the week with an assistant to supervise the construction.

Many of the promoters of this valuable asset have visited the Hatfield farm which has been purchased by those interested and all are most enthusiastic over the land as being most ideally situated for a Country club. In fact the course as laid out on the farm purchased will without doubt be one of the most scenic of any in the state, for there is not a place on the course but where there is a fine view of beautiful Nickerson Lake on the south and east, with scenic Oakfield hills on the west and the broad heights of Ludlow on the north with the spreading acres of farm and woodland, and the shores of the lake touching one half of the whole line of the property.

With an ordinary fall much can be accomplished in the way of constructing the links, so that they can be used in the early part of next summer.

A meeting of those who are to be the members was held at the Library of the Court House on Friday evening and a tentative plan for the different memberships was laid out, which will be acted upon at the next meeting, which will take place in the near future for formally incorporating under the laws of the State of Maine.

POTATOES

The market is quiet on account of the rain of early Monday morning and later in the day.

Buyers are offering $1.75 per barrel. The Produce News says:

There was a material increase in the receipts from Maine, while Long Island shipped freely. Some stock arrived from State and Pennsylvania sections. The sharp decline in Maine potatoes attracted more attention, but many of those arriving were too green and sold at rather low prices. Later in the week some export demand developed, and considerable of the Maine stock was shipped to Havana. Long Island potatoes were held with more confidence by the farmers, but, owing to the competition from Maine, prices were without any improvement.

Long Island sold generally $3.85@3.90, rarely $4 on 150 lb. bags, while bulk in 150 lb. bags brought $3.50@3.60. Maine Cobblers were shipped mainly in 150 lb. bags, which sold 2.75@2.80, rarely $3 while, a few Green Mountains brought $3.15@3.25. Jersey Giants were not plentiful, but neglected $1.75@2 per 150 lb. bag. A few round Jersey potatoes came in and sold $2.50@2.75 per 150 lb. bag.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Clark, Mrs. A. M. Clark and D. P. McLeod have returned from a trip up the Alleghash. Mr. McLeod is now at Long Lake where he will remain for a couple of months.

Mrs. Marion Fowler McKenzie
Seldom has our community been so shocked and saddened as on Sunday Sept. 23, when it was learned that Mrs. Marion Fowler McKenzie, wife of Harry McKenzie, had after a few hours illness passed to the Great Beyond.

Mrs. McKenzie was born in Lincoln twenty six years ago, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Fowler, coming to this town with her parents when a small child, where she has spent practically all her life. She was educated at the public schools here and had a host of friends. She possessed a very quiet disposition and her life was devoted to her home and family, she was an ideal wife and mother, and the husband and family are stunned by the blow that came so suddenly.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and a step son, Ralph, to whom she has in every way taken the place of a mother for seven years. One daughter, Helen, aged 6 years and a son Chas, aged 2 years. Her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Fowler of Millinocket to whom the loss is particularly hard, as she was their third daughter to die in early womanhood, one sister, Mrs. Lillian Maxwell, North Weymouth, Mass., two brothers William Fowler of Millinocket and Roy Fowler of Dixfield.

Funeral services were held at the Baptist church Tuesday afternoon where the beautiful white casket in which Mrs. McKenzie and her infant daughter were laid at rest was surrounded by a profusion of beautiful flowers, gifts of sorrowing relatives and friends. Rev. W P Richardson read comforting passages of scripture and spoke in a very feeling way of the beautiful and devoted life of the deceased. A choir consisting of Mrs. Margaret Crabtree, Joseph Nye, Mr. and Mrs. Will Brooks rendered two very appropriate selections. The pall bearers were William and Roy Fowler, brothers of the deceased and Norris and Roland Estabrooks cousins of Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie.

Mr. McKenzie wishes to take this opportunity to thank the many friends and neighbors and especially the members of the Friendship Club, who in so many ways showed their sympathy by the many acts of thoughtfulness shown him in his deep sorrow.

AROOSTOOK COUNTY POTATO YIELD IS 166 BARRELS PER ACRE

Arrostook county has a very good crop of potatoes of excellent quality, averaging 166 barrels to the acre, according to the report of Charles M. White, chief of the division of markets, department of Agriculture, who has just been on a business trip to this section where the farmers are now harvesting the crop.

Mr. White states that the potato crop is better than last year, but not as high as the year before last. The last estimate for this year's crop in Maine, made by V. A. Sander, government statistician for New England, was 27,000,000 barrels. Maine's yield of potatoes last year was 21,000,000 barrels.

The quality of the Maine potatoes is better than it has been for three years. The quality is running so high that the prospect is for only a moderate increase in the work of inspection which was recently commenced in this section under the supervision of the State Department of Agriculture.

Word has been received by Mr. White that in some other potato producing areas outside of Maine the crops are below normal in both size and quality, so that the outlook is very good for Maine potatoes. There is less competition than usual in marketing the crop, Mr. White reports.

The new organization, The Maine Potato Exchange, is getting on well in its marketing work. While there has been a slackening in the price, the growers believe that it is only a temporary and are feeling more optimistic than for two years.

States is about 44 billion dollars. Of this, 27 billion dollars is in 22,089 state banks and 17 billion dollars in the 8,229 national banks. In New England, 65 per cent of all bank deposits are in savings accounts; 51 per cent, on the Pacific Coast, 36 per cent, in the South; 47 per cent, in the East Central states; 45 per cent, in the Middle Atlantic states; 38 per cent, in the West Central states.

This is great advance in thrift in the American people is also shown in the next investment step, for 24 per cent more life insurance is being written this year than ever before and 1923 will end with probably more than 11 billion dollars of new life insurance for the year. Twenty years ago the total of life insurance in force was 10½ billion dollars. The average life insurance premium is $35 a thousand.

More people have more money, more life insurance and more sound investment securities than ever before in the United States. This country and its people are a great deal better off than they realize and infinitely better off than the people of most other countries. In addition to something like 3 million automobiles they will buy this year, Americans during the first six months of 1923 spent 603 million dollars, largely obtained through bond investments, in building new electric generating plants and transmission lines.

10-ACRE FARMS FOR

TUBERCULOSIS "CURED"

Tuberculosis patients discharged as "cured" from a sanatorium are confronted with a problem. In what work shall they engage to earn a livelihood?

Many are "cured" by modern scientific methods. But those who have suffered from the "white plague" are marked for life. The germ is eliminated but the scars remain. With one lung gone or both injured, a man is a pulmonary cripple. He may enjoy life and earn a living, but he must watch his step. Relapses are usually fatal.

W. A. Fraser, sovereign commander of the Woodmen of the World, a fraternal society with 800,000 members that is building a tuberculosis sanatorium at San Angelo, Tex., has an interesting answer to this problem.

"The Woodmen," said Mr. Fraser, "propose to settle 'cured' and convalescent patients on 10-acre farms near the sanatorium. There they will earn a good living in the open air and remain under the watchful eyes of the doctors."

"They will be encouraged to raise chickens, vegetables, fruit, goats and swine. The Woodmen plan to buy a large tract of land which will be cut into 10-acre farms for this purpose. Under the direction of agricultural experts, patients will be able to live prosperously and happily in their own homes when they will pay for over a term of years."

The Texas Institution is to be known as "The Woodmen of the World War Memorial Sanatorium," parts of the United States.

organization who paid the "supreme sacrifice" in the recent war, and a monument to the heroes inscribed with their names will be erected on the grounds. It is to be one of four tuberculosis sanatoriums to be established by the Woodmen in different parts of the United States.

Written petitions addressed to the legislature, signed in the aggregate by not less than twelve thousand electors, were presented to the Eighty-first Legislature, at least thirty days before the close of its session, proposing for its consideration a bill entitled as above recited in the Question. The measure thus proposed was not enacted by the legislature without change; therefore, according to the provisions of section eighteen, of article thirty-one, of the constitution, the same is submitted to the electors for acceptance or rejection. The petitions presented to the legislature contained a request that the Governor issue his proclamation referring the act to the people, at a special election to be held not less than four nor more than six months after such proclamation. The Governor thereupon, by proclamation dated May 18, A. D. 1923, ordered that the measure be referred to the people at a special election to be held on the third Monday in October, being the fifteenth day of said month, A. D. 1923.

Through a
Finer Than Silk

Raw materials of which portland cement is made come out of the ground usually as solid rock.

They must first be crushed, ground and reground until at least 85 per cent of the resulting powder will shake through a sieve that will actually hold water.

This sieve is considerably finer than the finest silk fabric. It has 200 hair-like bronze wires to the inch. That means 40,000 holes to the square inch.

But the several crushings and grindings necessary to reduce solid rock to this extreme fineness are only the beginning of cement making.

The powdered materials must then be subjected to intense heat for several hours in huge rotary kilns. Here they are half melted and become a substance much harder than the original rock—clinker, it is called.

Then the clinker must be crushed and ground until at least 78 per cent of the resulting product will pass through the sieve woven finer than silk. This is portland cement.

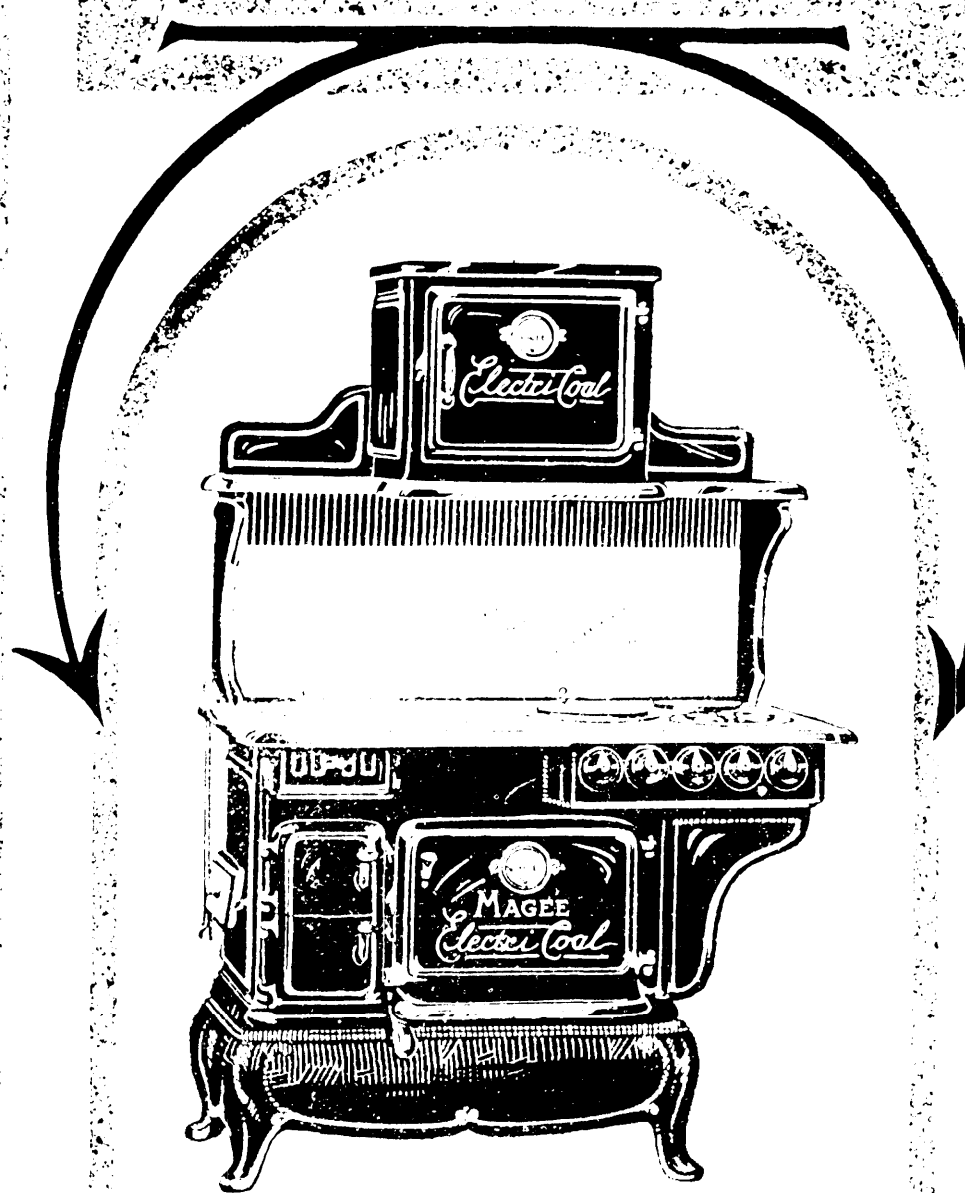

More than 80 power and fuel consuming operations are necessary in cement making. The electric power alone used in producing a barrel of portland cement would, if purchased at usual household rates, cost $1.70.

Few manufactured products go through so involved or complicated a process as portland cement. And it sells for less per pound than any comparable manufactured product.

PLAGUE DECIMATES

S. AMERICAN INDIANS

Tales of the far Mazarruni river jungles and savannahs in British Guiana were brought back by William J. LaVarre of New York and Washington when seen at the hotel, Biltmore, says the New York Herald. Mr. LaVarre who returned on the Lamport & Holt liner Van Dyke, announced an important shipment of minerals, botanical and life specimens for Harvard University and the American Museum of Natural History will arrive in April. He supervises research expeditions there which are engaged in permanent exploration of the interior for both institutions. He himself is engaged in mining and timber prospecting.

Aborigines in the South American jungles were all but wiped out in the last epidemic of Spanish flu, according to Mr. LaVarre, who said they had been reduced to one-tenth by the scourge.

They are not the fighting warlike type sometimes described. Mr. LaVarre said. Unlike the picturesque North American Indian, they are undersized and timid. Reacting to an environment in which jungles are so thick that they shut out the sun, they hang their heads and shiver at strange noises and are afraid to set foot from their campfires and walk in to the jungles at night.

Among fetishes to which these primitives are prey, the explorer said, is one called "beena," which he said, is wishing rather than willing. To kill a deer for meat the jungle redmen would cut a gash just back of his thumb and rub a beetle's nose into it. Having thus signified his desire to his deity, he would go out and slay it. No tribal hunter regarded his equipment complete without a string of old noses—deer, tapir and wild pig. The jaguar, however, was given a wide berth.

They are descendants of the Caribs described by Columbus. Mr. LaVarre called them, and are still living, on cassava root and wild pig, as told in old chronicles. Raw, cassava provided the Indian his "houetel," roasted, it yielded him a fattening breakfast.

HAPPY NORTH BORNEO

"British North Borneo" was the subject of a paper read at the Royal Society of Arts by Maj. Owen Rutter, who traced the development of North Borneo from the days of the pirates and headhunters of 50 years ago to its present state of commercial prosperity, says the London Times.

Maj. Rutter said that today the pirates are no more and the headhunters have ceased to raid. The descendants are fishermen or farmers, many of them have joined the native police. Today the seas of Borneo are as safe as the Solent, and its jungle paths no less secure than the pavement of Pall Mall.

The people live at peace. There are government stations all over the country, little towns have grown up, rubber, tobacco and coconut estates have been made. Harbor works have been constructed. The hill country has been opened up by means of wide paths. There are over 100 miles of railway, and, although the country has suffered in the past for lack of roads these are in the making now.

A true copy of abstract and order.
(L.S.) Attest: Walter B. Clark, Clerk

Speaking of the rubber industry which is North Borneo's chief commercial asset, Maj. Rutter said the prevailing rubber slump had hit companies operating in North Borneo hard, as it had those elsewhere, but only one estate of any size has had to close down. At Borneo, although worse off in one way than those in the Federated Malay States, were better off in another way. It was true that the slump came at a time when there shareholders had reason to hope for the handsome dividends which the Federated Malay States had been paying for many years, but it was also true that in evil times Borneo companies could look to the chartered company for assistance when others would look to their government in vain.

ROBIN'S NEST ON TRAIN

When "Wynken, Blynken and Nod" one night sailed out in a wooden shoe" their voyage was not one bit as adventuresome as the daily journey of seventy-five miles taken by five of the oddest passengers that ever rode on the Philadelphia and Reading Railway.

Every day at noon, standard time, a United States coach leaves New Hope, Penna. It gets to this city an hour and forty-seven minutes later, stays in the Reading Terminal until 3:15, standard time, then starts again for New Hope.

For ten days now a mother robin at the other end of the line has waited as anxiously for that train as all the people together in New Hope have for their mail. When the train reaches the New Hope station Brakenham Leon Nugent, who lives at 1612 French street, Philadelphia, sends away all the curious onlookers. Then the robin hops down from a nearby tree and disappears under the mail coach.

There, on top of a warm steam valve, protected by a drip pan, is a nest. The little mother perches on the edge and looks inside to see if any damage has been done. For with in the nest are five blue robin eggs warmed by the steam beneath, waiting the day when their shells can be broken by five little hearts.

The steam valve has a little trap, up there on top that makes it impossible to get into by a cat or a dog or a mouse. It is a very clever trap, and it is a very clever trap.

Wm. Chadwick, Houlton

been fixed she takes her place on the nest and through the night warms the eggs.

So far the plan has worked well, and the mother and the railroad have taken turns keeping the nest warm. But Brakenham Nugent is faced with a knotty problem. In not so long a time the nest will have five hungry mouths to feed, and catching worms is a precarious piece of business when a coach is riding the rails. Will mother robin keep her seat on the nest during the trip and start out in a search for worms when the train gets to the terminal?

RUINED RUSSIANS SMILE

AT WORLD'S ROUGH HAND

Building new American careers out of the wreckage of prosperity wiped out in the Russian revolution is a task optimistically undertaken by former subjects of Czar Nicholas who have found themselves stranded in Los Angeles, according to Elizabeth Beglaroff, Russian secretary of the International Institute of the Young Women's Christian association.

There is tragedy and pathos, says Miss Beglaroff, in the frequency with which well educated, refined and talented Russians of noble birth have found all occupations closed to them but those of menial sort. Some, however, are more fortunate. For instance, there is a former military officer who has found success as a collector.

While he was alternately swinging his pick and stooping to blow on his fingers a tall, broad-shouldered man came walking along the pavement. He wore a fur coat and a pair of beautiful heavy gloves. When he came opposite the old man who was resting a moment from his work, he suddenly snatched off his gloves, thrust them vigorously into the hand of the laborer, and with the tenderest and merriest of smiles went right on, without even turning round, and was lost in the crowd. The old man straightened and stood staring after him in utter bewilderment. Then, shaking his gray head over and over as if he were unable to explain the generosity of the stranger he slowly drew on the comforting gloves and continued his hard work.—Youth's Companion.
