WHITE BRONZE

MARBLE is entirely out of date. GRANITE soon gets moss grown, discolored, requires constant expense and care, and eventually crumbles back to Mother Earth. Besides, it is very expensive.
WHITE BRONZE is strictly everlasting. It cannot crumble with the action of frost. Moss growth is an impossibility. It is more artistic than any stone. Then why not investigate it? It has been adopted for over one hundred public monuments, and by thousands of delighted customers in all parts of the country. It has been on the market over 25 years and is an established success. Many granite dealers have bought White Bronze for their own burial plots. We have hundreds of beautiful designs of all grades of work, and want to have you see them if you are interested in a monument, headstone, marker or grave cover. On receipt of a postal card will be pleased to call with designs and samples of White Bronze. Yours truly,

BIDDEFORD RUM IN LOCAL PULPIT

Rev. Mr. Cann and County Attorney Richardson Make Saturday Night Visit

KENNEBUNK BOYS NOTICED IN A "SPEAK-EASY"

Biddeford Rum Conditions Exposed While Alleged Unlawful Conditions at Home Are Apparently Unnoticed—Biddeford Democratic Paper Says, Editorially, That It Would Be An Easy Accomplishment to Buy Two Dozen Bottles in That City

At the Sunday morning service at the Baptist church, in Kennebugk, Rev. F.
L. Cann caused something of a sensation when, after asking the congregation to be seated, he produced two pint bottles of whiskey which he purchased Saturday during a tour of the Biddeford bar rooms.

It seems that Rev. Mr. Cann was appointed on a committee last Monday at the York county ministers conference held at Sanford, to confer with Sheriff Emery as to the open nullification of the liquor law. Sheriff Emery had been invited to meet this committee and the date was set for Tuesday of this week. The investigation carried on by the reverend gentleman was to get evidence other than hearsay and the purchases were made in the presence of witnesses. It was not intended to make the fact of these purchases public but the presence of several Kennebugk men in these bar rooms made it seemingly necessary for Mr. Cann to state his object, rather than be misunderstood, or the subject of criticism—Biddeford Journal, Feb. 19th.

A DELUDED CLERGYMAN

"As proof that Biddeford is dotted with barrooms running wide open and that flagrant nullification of the liquor law is going on unchecked a clergyman, said to have been sent here by an association of ministers with headquarters at Sanford, whips a pint bottle of whisky out of each hip pocket and arrays them on the pulpit for the edification of the congregation at the Baptist church.

"The clergyman says he bought the liquor Saturday night in a tour of the barrooms. As he produces the infernal stuff in corpore, thus exhibiting proof of the corpus delicti there is no reason to doubt the good man's word. If he says he bought it here and shows the bottles containing it nobody will dispute his word. It cannot be denied.
"The marvelous thing about this minister's dramatic production of two bottles of whiskey in the pulpit is the fact that he should think he was a messenger of revelation. That he should think it extraordinary that whiskey could be bought in Biddeford Saturday night may, perhaps be not incomprehensible, seeing that he belongs in Kennebugk, but that anybody in his congregation was surprised is beyond belief.

"There has not been a Saturday night for years when it has not been an easy accomplishment to buy two bottles of whiskey, or two dozen for that matter, in Biddeford. There has not been a day or a night for twenty years when whiskey could not be bought in this city. It may be that it can be bought more freely just now than it could be at prior short intervals when some officer or set of officers have found it advisable from pecuniary or political motives to make a bluff at enforcing the law, but anybody with even a short memory finds no difficulty in calling to mind periods when Biddeford has been fairly drenched with rum. And there has never been a minute in the last quarter of a century it could not be bought. If it could not be obtained in barrooms, pocket peddlars and kitchen dives were an infallible resource.

"Minister Cann's performance is absolutely without point so far as it was calculated to show anything new or uncommon.—Biddeford Record, February 20th.

While the Enterprise believes that it is commendable on the part of the Rev.
Mr. Cann, or any other citizen, to try and secure evidence for the prosecution of illegal rum sellers in York county or in any county of Maine, the Editor is at a loss to understand why Biddeford was selected at this time as the place to expose when there is more important work to do right here in Kennebugk.

The outrageous conditions which are said to prevail in this village are freely spoken of in the factories and in the stores. Even the school children gleefully whisper to one another the stories of what is going on behind "the closed doors." It is alleged that these conditions have existed for two years. Loyal and true members of the W. C. T. U. have tried to check and break-up these conditions but they have been unsuccessful.

Either these stories are true or they are false. The Enterprise believes they are true. Our information comes from the most reliable sources.

If the Rev. Mr. Cann has not heard of these stories and desires to hear them for the purpose of an investigation the Enterprise will place before him, or at the clergyman of the town, what stories it has heard and the source of these stories.

The Enterprise is not criticising for that purpose alone. It desires to assist in letting in the light. The responsibility of permitting these conditions, if they exist, rests upon the board of selectmen. The fact that County Attorney Richardson, a prominent member of the Baptist church, accompanied the Rev. Mr. Cann to Biddeford, Saturday night, is significant, and although the expedition has the ear marks of trying to put Sheriff Emery in a hole and divert the criticism from the county attorney The Enterprise is willing to believe the prime motive of the Biddeford trip was otherwise.

Deploping the conditions of the Lawrence strikers or the getting of evidence against Biddeford rum sellers is well and good—after Kennebugk has cleaned its own door yard of alleged injustices and law-breaking.

The Enterprise refuses to lose sight of the main question—FAIRER AND BETTER CONDITIONS IN KENNE-BUNK AND FOR ALL KENNEBUNK CITIZENS.

Mr. Towne Charmed

The sewing circle of Ivy Temple P. S. held a Bunde social in U. R. hall, Monday evening. There was a large number present, and a very nice supper was served after which Mrs. Perkins, in behalf of the Temple, presented Mr.
Frank Towne, degree master, with a gold chain and K. of P. charm, in appreciation of the many kind acts he had shown the degree staff. The bundles were then disposed of and a smelling contest followed, Mrs. Bessie Shepard winning the prize. Mr. Leroy Nason gave a few piano selections which was enjoyed by all. The feature of the evening was vocal selections by Mr.
Harry Fall of this town. Dancing was enjoyed by many. The next circle will meet with Mrs. Anderson on York street, March 5.

It is rumored that negotiations are in progress whereby the management of the Moulton House, at Dunstan Corner, will lease the Morton house on Summer street for the serving of shore dinners, the coming season.

Boat House Fire

A boat house located on the island, below the ice pond of the Leatheroid company, was destroyed by fire, about 10.30 o'clock, Monday night. The sounding of the alarm from box 34 caused many people to assemble at the corner of Main and Water streets, but few went to the scene of the fire. The firemen were unable to give service, the nearest hydrant on Water street being too far away to reach the burning building by hose connections.

Loss is estimated at $300, which includes the house, some fixtures and an engine valued at $75.00. An insurance of $400 was carried at the office of C.
H. Cole.

The origin of the fire is unknown.
During the evening, William Young of Brown street, went to the boat house and worked for several hours. The fire did not break out until he reached home. It is thought, possibly, that the fire caught from sparks from a pipe.
The blaze could be seen in all parts of the town and many believed one of the factories in that location was being destroyed.

Deputy Lindsley, M. Watkins says he was dropped because he made raids and tried to enforce the law. Friends of Sheriff Emery, say that Watkins thought he was a bigger man than the sheriff.

Paul Revere Bells

A Boston man, Dr. Arthur H. Nichols, has been making researches in the history of the bells made by Paul and Joseph W. Revere. He secured the stock book of the famous founders and of the 398 bells listed has traced the history of 221.

Of the 221 bells traced there are:
Still in use, 77
Damaged by cracking, 47 Destroyed by fire, 20 Destroyed by lightning, 2

Among the bells mentioned in Dr. Nichols' work are the following found in York county, with the date of casting and weight:

1804, Parish of Wells, 1017, still in use in the Unitarian church of Kennebunk, part of Wells until 1820, identified by partly obliterated chalk marks, indicating weight in inner waist, inscribed "Revere & Son, Boston, 1803."

1817, Alfred, 622. In constant use on a schoolhouse until about 1908, when it fell and was cracked when the building was burned.

1820, South Berwick, 836. Thought to have been destroyed by fire.

1826, Kittery, 638, still in use, inscribed "Revere, Boston, 1823."

Sees Hope

At the Saturday meeting of the Boston Twentieth Century club, the principal speaker was Ray Stannard Baker. His subject was "The Progressiveness in American Life," with reference to the Progressive movement in National Politics.

"In a recent number of a New York paper," he said, "the question was asked 'what is the matter with business?' and the nearly unanimous answer was, 'Politics.' But politics is not a cause of unrest; it is rather a method of registering the results of unrest.

Mr. Baker said in part:
"Looking out across the political field we see men in both of the old parties, groups of men who have not the scientific spirit; when the tariff question comes up they oppose any honest investigation by an expert commission; when the trust question arises they oppose the creation of a bureau of corporations, or the extension of the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"They are hostile to any inquiry which will give the people any adequate idea of the actual value of the property of public service corporations. They fight every effort to investigate the resources of the public lands and of water powers. They prefer to have the public business done in the secrecy of caucuses and committee meetings. They prefer politicians, not experts, in public office.

"As for sympathy with men—the touchstone of the modern renaissance—watch any Legislative body and observe the fierce opposition to all measures for the protection of women and children in industry, for the shortening of cruelly long hours of labor, for an employers' liability system, for tenement-house reform, and for all other measures to lift men into a finer and better light. As for a broad vision, they have it not. They look backward for precedent, never forward with faith.

"Over against them, however, are forming two other powerful political groups: The Insurgents or Progressives of both the old parties, and the Socialists. Both are having complete publicity and expert service, and for getting all the facts before the people.

"It is as certain as anything can be that the spirit of progressivism is going to win in this country—that there is going to be a finer scientific attitude toward public affairs, a deeper desire for truth, more sensitiveness to human rights, better relationships between men and nations, and that our vision is going to be incalculably widened."

A large number of the books listed are gifts from friends and besides those mentioned many of the popular old books have been replaced by new copies.

On Friday and Saturday, March 8 and 9, the first annual meeting of the Maine Association of Agricultural Students will be held at the University of Maine following the annual Farmers week.

The Farmers' Week course will be under way beginning Monday evening, March 4. A great deal of interest is being manifested the present year in Farmers' Week and it is very evident at this writing that the attendance will be larger than ever.

Tuesday, March 5, will be known in the Farm Crops section as Seed Improvement day.

Thursday in the Farm Crops section the day will be known as Fruit day.

Friday will be known as Dairy Industry day.

York citizens are advocating two days for town meeting. One for the election of officers and the taking care of the regular business that comes yearly before the town; another day to new business and large appropriations.

Edward C. Moody of York village has filed the necessary petition at Augusta that his name may appear on the primary ballot in June, at which time the state primaries will be held. Mr. Moody seeks the Republican nomination for state senator from the First district.

An infrequent proceeding in Maine courts was the issuing of a temporary injunction by Associate Justice Leslie C. Cornish of the Supreme court last week Monday, to restrain R. F. Harmon from running the Brunswick Hotel at Gardiner as a liquor nuisance. This action was the result of a petition of citizens of Gardiner. Mr. Harmon is proprietor of the hotel.

If the public, instead of worrying over the high prices of butter and eggs, would refrain from consuming so much of these products for a short time, a real reduction in prices would immediately result and something would be done toward cutting down the high cost of living, in the opinion of George A. Cochrane, exporter and commission merchant, who has been in the trade for 50 years.

Following out its policy of retrenchment, the Boston & Maine railroad company is to cut its award of prizes for floral display at stations. Agents at the stations that have been accustomed to have flower gardens have received notice from the management of the road that they have decided not to furnish bedding plants this year for flower displays, and that there will be no prize competitions and award of prizes.

A Citizens' Meeting

A citizens' meeting will be held in Hay's hall, (over Ham's shoe store), Friday evening, at 7.30 o'clock. All interested in the movement for a fairer and better administration of the town's affairs are invited to be present. A preliminary gathering of twelve citizens was held Monday night and after talking over the matter, it was decided to issue a general invitation to the voters of the town. It will then be decided if the citizens party will nominate a ticket for the spring election.

Every part in the drama was well taken, being represented as follows:

"Joshua Jarvis, 'Uncle Josh,' from Vermont, a farmer who reads the newspapers and keeps his eyes open," was admirably taken by Edgar G. Huff, who both looked and acted the part.

"Count de Courville," noble in name, but ignoble in character," taken by Edward J. Stone, familiarly known as "Jerry." "Gerald Murray, a young New Yorker," by John Cluff; "Upton Downes, one of New York's choice Four Hundred," by Harold Cluff. This young man's one aim and ambition in life is to have a necktie for every hour in the day; "Joe Clarke's 'Slippery Joe,' a bunko steerer," by Lyman Huff; "Mulchaey, a dive keeper," by Luther Emerson; "Manson, a detective," by James Fisher; "Erastus, Mrs. Reynolds' servant," by Robert Cluff; "Mrs. Reynolds, Joshua's sister, a widow," Mrs. Frank Hutchins; "Letty, her daughter, in love with Gerald," Miss Claribel Huff; Miss Minerva Clackett, who is getting desperate; Mrs. Albert Moody. Every part in the drama was well carried out, and did the young people much credit. The songs by Miss Stinson formed an enjoyable feature, and the advice by the colored sister to the unmarried portion of the audience was valuable (?).

Mr. Frank Littlefield spoke a few words by way of introduction, and John Cluff in closing thanked the audience for their kind attention. It was also a success financially, more than forty dollars being taken.

The High school girls and boys are talking up a sleighing party to Wells Thursday evening.

How queer it is that girls and boys will work so hard at play when if asked to haul a set of long horse sleds two or three miles if it was work, "Oh dear! We cannot do it, why its three miles to Wildstown and back," and then to of hauling sleds up a half mile hill a dozen times. Why it would cause them all to faint. But this is what they are doing these nights and they enjoy it too, showing there is a difference between tweekledum and tweekledee. Well, we were all young once and they are seeing their best days and can be young but once. We enjoy seeing them all happy, only its funny, just the same.

Ogunquit

The Ogunquit Men and Boys' Club presented a minstrel show for the benefit of their gymnasium last Saturday evening to a large audience. The hall was full, all the seats were taken and many were forced to remain standing. The show proved to be the best ever produced here. Everybody was pleased with the performance and nobody could refrain from laughing at the jokes and antics of the men.

The evening of enjoyment began with an overture played by Miss Arlene Perkins to whom the club is under great obligations for her kind assistance. Then "In the Evening by the Moonlight" was sung behind the closed curtain and to the tune of "By the Watermelon Vine," the curtain rose revealing the minstrels, all eating a slice of watermelon which looked better than it tasted. In the front room sat the endmen with their gorgeous loud suits of all colors and hues. Bones and tambos in hand they began to start something. Seated in two rows and all dressed in white with the blackest faces imaginable and big red low ties which matched their enormous mouths sat the chorus.

"On Mobile Bay" was next sung by the entire company and suddenly they broke out in soft sweet whistling of "Every Little Movement." "Yucatan Man" was the final wind-up of the opening medley and was given with such vim and dash that it woke up the whole neighborhood. Interwoven among the following songs were the lively jokes which kept the audience in a continued uproar of laughter. All the well known townspeople were remembered and rapped with a stuffed club. The jokes were told in the funny negro dialect with rolling of eyes and wiggling of mouths that looked more like subways.

Alexander's "Rag Time Band" was sung by H. A. Maxfield, "Never Put Your Money in the Bank" was good "Advice to Young and Old" and well sung by Dana Perkins, who also accompanied himself on a banjo.

The next on the program was a song and dance in which Ray Hanscom did the honor and was warmly applauded.

Russell Hutchins followed by singing "You'll Do the Same Thing Over," and the way he "hollered" was a caution.

"Come After Breakfast," "Bring Along Your Lunch," and "Leave 'fore Supper Time," was given by Lech Hayes, who deserved the applause he received.

When "Varrell Hung the Curtain in the Hall," was an up to-date local hit. It told of the trials which George had in hanging up the curtain and caught the audience by storm.

"I've Been Told," was the last song and proved the saying, "Last, But Not Least." It was the funniest song about Woman Suffrage that will probably ever be heard. Mr. Jewell made a hit with this song and certainly had the audience going. The manner in which he imitated a negro was comical.

The reading of the newspaper caused many good laughs and finished the jokes in good style.

"The Grand Finale" by the entire company finished the minstrel show and was sung in a way that made a good climax to end up with.

The curtain fell only to rise for the first sketch of the olio, "My Friend Skaggs." The parts were taken by Mr. Jewell and H. A. Maxfield. The short time which Mr. Maxfield took to change from a negro to a white person was amazing.

The sketch was very witty and clever and Mr. Jewell kept the audience laughing by his impersonation of "Mr. Skaggs." In the sketch the rehearsal of "The Garden Scene," from Uncle Tom's Cabin, with Mr. Jewell as "Uncle Tom," and Mr. Maxfield as "Little Eva," took the "Cake." "Uncle Tom" was fine and "Little Eva" too cute for anything.

Mr. Jewell's solo on his "fluter-marina" was encored again and again. Then when he proceeded to show the audience a few steps, the curtain went down amid laughter and applause.

"Bungling Bros." in an acrobatic comedy was next and last. Ray Hanscom as P. B. Bungling and Russell Hutchins as L. R. Bungling did many difficult gymnastic feats. H. A. Maxfield as I. M. Bungling made a comical clown. His costume and makeup was complete, and the comical stunts he accomplished as a clown were extremely funny. The sketch closed the entertainment and everybody was sorry to have the show end. Dancing wound up the evening's amusements and every one felt well repaid for having spent such a pleasant evening.

Good Roads Movement

Two hundred or more representative residents assembled at the Acme theater on Thursday evening, and listened to talks on the good road problem.

Owing to the illness of Dr. Frank M. Ross, chairman of the local board of trade, the speakers were introduced by Secretary Frank W. Bonser.

M. W. Baldwin of Portland, told of the movement in his city and advocated scientific road building.

Parker L. Hardison, state highway commissioner, gave in detail the cost of different kind of roads per mile.

The principal talk was by the Hon. Paul D. Sargent, assistant director of public roads, Washington, D. C. Among other things, he said that the good roads movement of the past few years has spread to all parts of Maine and is now being considered by even the smallest of communities. That it is doing much for the development of the state, for visitors who have growled and grumbled over its rough and rocky roads of past years are delighted; the farmers are pleased, for the good roads have improved and increased the value of their property; the city and town people find it much easier getting about and the whole state is profiting.

"Throughout the state plans are being made for the annual town meetings to be held in March, and practically every municipality in the state will make some appropriation, even though it be very small, for road improvements. While a general impression was broadcast that this work was done primarily for the benefit of the automobilist the results to all classes whether automobilists or not, have proved so beneficial that it may safely be said that the whole state now approves a generous outlay for this work.

Mr. Sargent offered the following suggestions: First—and most important of all is in the man selected as road commissioner, the voters should make sure before he starts spending their money that he knows something of the work expected of him. An unqualified man can waste far more than he can earn and his work be dear as a gift. As a general rule a man who does not know how to make the most of that which is his own, is the worst man in the world to be entrusted with the spending of other people's money.

Second—Work on the roads should be done by a regular crew, who will soon become familiar with the work and what constitutes a day's labor.

Mr. Sargent also advocated a patrol system for the roads. His talk was illustrated by stereopticon pictures, showing good and bad roads in various states.
