was not entirely extinct,—a single breath, however, only was drawn and the spirit of the unfortunate man left its earthly tenement. Every effort at resuscitation proved unavailing.

The body was found about 20 feet from the road, lying upon the snow, which was much trodden down for several feet around;—it appeared, also, that the deceased attempted to break off several twigs from a small pine. It is not improbable that, feeling unwell, he endeavored to obtain some boughs to lie upon, and that being seized with a fit he expired after hours of suffering.

We regret to learn that about all the subordinate officers in the Insane Hospital at Augusta, have been dissatisfied with the Superintendent, (Mr. Knapp) or he with them; and that they have all determined to leave, or he is determined they shall leave the Institution. It is even said, that they have made a written complaint to the Governor and recommended the Superintendent's removal, We know not who is most to blame in this matter; but it is unfortunate for the institution. Mutual confidence and harmony are indispensable to its success. The Governor and council should look into the matter.

SONG

BY MRS. HEMANS.

If thou hast crushed a flower. The root may not be blighted, If thou hast quenched a lamp, Once more it may be lighted; But on the harp or on the lute, The string which thou hast broken, Shall never in sweet sound again Give to the touch a token

If thou hast loosed a bird, Whose voice of song could cheer thee, Still, still he may be won
From the skies to warble near thee; But if upon the troubled sea Thou hast thrown a gem unheeded, Hope not that wind or wave shall bring

The treasure back when needed !

If thou hast bruised a vine, The summer's breath is healing, And its clusters yet may grow,
Through the leaves their bloom revealing But if thou hast a cup o'erthrown With a bright draft filled—oh! never Shall earth give back that lavished wealth To cool thy parched lip's fever!

The heart is like that cup,
If thou waste the love it bore thee, And like that jewel gone, Which the deep will not restore thee; And like that string of harp or lute Whence the sweet sound is scattered; Gently, oh! gently touch the chords Too soon forever shattered!
