

No return or historical sketch of the 4th Regt has been received, but the following condensed statement is given from records of the Adjutant's Office.

Fourth Regiment Infantry.

In February this regiment was at camp Pitcher, near Falmouth.

On April 28th their corps (3d) broke camp, marched to the left front and bivouacked for the night near the river, three miles below Fredericksburg. While Gen. Porter was continuing his operations, the 4th moved with its corps to the rear for the night being above Fredericksburg. They marched until midnight and then bivouacked near United States Ford. The next day they crossed the Rappahannock at this place, moving to the front.
The next day morning, May 2, their brigade was ordered forward to the woods held by the enemy.

At the battle of Chancellorsville when our right wing was pierced by "Stonewall" Jackson's flank movement, they did good service to retrench our position.

The regiment ^{of} participated in the battle of Gettysburg. On the morning of July 3d they occupied the right and front.

At the battle at Rappahannock Station they were in Ward's brigade.

The regiment shared in the famous made ~~in~~ in a dense woods ~~on the~~ day 2^d ~~and~~ the total loss of the command in killed wounded and missing in the engagement was thirty two
