U. M. C. METALLIC CARTRIDGES

No matter how hard your pack pulls on the "tump line" it's best to keep your rifle ready—when the trail leads through deer country.

Your fusilade will not be stopped by a misfire or a jammed cartridge if you shoot U. M. C. CARTRIDGES. They make the deer drop his flag.

Made for Marlin, Remington, Stevens, Winchester or any standard rifles of any caliber.

Send for Game Laws and Guide Directory.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

WE WISH to announce to the public that we have leased a large territory at the foot of Kennebag Lake and have built there a set of camps which we will open to our patrons and friends the coming season. This new establishment in connection with our camps at Beaver Pond will give our guests the manifold advantages of a very large tract in which to hunt and fish. Our guests will be able to get both lake and stream fishing and fish of excellent size both salmon and trout may be had. We have our own steamboat on Kennebag Lake, also buckboards making two or more trips daily from Rangeley Lake House to connect with our steamers. Daily mail service is assured, also both telephone and telegraph connections. All telegrams will be immediately forwarded from Rangeley. We wish to say that either of our establishments are ideal places for women and children. The altitude is high, 2000 feet, thus making hay fever and like diseases unknown. Our terms are $2.00 per day per person; $1.25 for guides' board. We furnish reliable guides on application. Parties can leave Boston at 9 o'clock a. m., on either the Eastern or Western division of the Boston & Maine railroad for Portland, Maine Central to Farmington and the Sandy River and Phillips & Rangeley railroads to Rangeley, or from Portland via Maine Central to Rumford Junction, Portland & Rumford Falls railroad to South Rangeley and the Rangeley Lakes steamboats to Rangeley. From Rangeley our buckboards convey parties direct to our camps. All inquiries cheerfully answered. Write us early for any particulars; we are sure we can satisfy you. We make special rates by the month. Let us hear from you that we may reserve some of our best accommodations for you. Address

Mr. Carleton in the Woods.

Chairman Carleton of the fish and game commission informs the Kennebec Journal that the first week of open time this year more hunters were in Maine than the first week of any previous year since he has been a member of the commission.

Mr. Carleton was asked how he accounted for so many accidental shootings in the woods. "Pure, unadulterated carelessness," he said. "For the same reason that we have so many railroad and other accidents. So long as human nature remains as it always has been, people will be careless. There should be some sensible, wholesome law regulating the carrying of firearms, but I do not expect to see such a law right away.

"I leave soon to meet the wardens in northern Maine to arrange for our fall and winter campaign against poaching, and shall be absent two or three weeks. Incidentally I hope to do a little hunting, though I do not care to shoot a deer except it becomes necessary to do so for food. Neither would I shoot a moose unless I happened to stumble on a first-class specimen in every respect.

"It is difficult to satisfactorily arrange the warden service. When you consider the vast extent of territory covered by our forests—20,000 square miles of woodland and water—and the great number of men in these woods, some idea may be had of the difficulties of protecting game with the comparatively few wardens we are able to hire.

"A friend of mine, an experienced lumberman, a member of the legislature and connected with a company which cuts 35,000,000 feet of spruce logs each year, told me the other day that there are now in the woods—and will be until January first next—for lumbering operations, 35,000 men. Of this number three-fourths are nonresidents. Ten thousand of them are each day hopping down trees. It costs to pay and feed this great number about $56,000 per day. A large per cent of them have rifles and shoot game, and our wardens have to be nimble of foot to traverse these great forests in the deep snows of winter to protect the game and prevent the nonresidents—workers in the woods, from killing illegally. Deer are plenty. There are a good many moose."

Heald Pond Camps.

(Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.)
JACKMAN, Oct. 14, 1905.

The hunting season has opened and the killing has begun in earnest. Deer, duck and partridges are on the menu three times a day at the camps.

Deer are coming in every day although hunting is very hard and big game is more plentiful than it has been for ten years, so the old parties say, especially moose and bear. Moose tracks are to be seen anywhere in the locality and good, large ones, too.

Dr. Evans, who has been coming here from Moore City, Ind., says although he has hunted 28 years he always thinks he is at home here and comes for new health and a rest, which he finds in this beautiful spot. The beautiful scenery, the crystal spring water and the good air make him feel like a boy of 16, although he is 73.

The camps are well filled with parties who are enjoying the comforts of these camps.

Dr. Holt Went Hunting.

Dr. L. J. Holt of Phillips went partridge shooting a few days ago in Avon. He had a couple of dogs with him and was supplied with bird shells only. He started from home at 8 o'clock and returned at 11.30 with five birds and he shot at some on the wing that he didn't bring in. He also had the pleasure of seeing a bunch of three or four deer running away from him, being from a point so near him that he could easily have shot them with a rifle or buck shot.

"Woodcock" Was His Name.

Joe Alexander, of the secretary of state's office, Augusta, once owned a pointer that was a wonderful hunter. He was constantly doing things to prove his rare intelligence and Mr. Alexander rarely went out with him without discovering some new quality that had a tendency to endear him to his owner. Upon one occasion this rare bird dog surprised his owner by coming to a stiff point in front of a man who was a stranger to Mr. Alexander and for no reason that could be discovered. Mr. Alexander tried to push the dog along but he refused to be moved. The whole performance was a puzzle to Mr. Alexander. Finally he stepped along to the stranger and politely asked his name. When the name was given the secret was out—his name was "Woodcock."

"Partridge" Was the Sign.

Mr. Alexander's dog, referred to in the above paragraph, was indeed a rare one, but he could hardly be considered superior to the best one ever owned by Ernest Emery of the state library. Mr. Emery's dog, like the one owned by Mr. Alexander, has often surprised his master while out hunting, by the degree of intelligence that he exhibited. But one day he came to a stiff point in the middle of the street. There seemed to be no reason for it. The passers-by all became interested. They hunted high and low for a bird. None could be found, but the dog wouldn't move. Finally one of the on-lookers mentioned the fact that the dog was looking directly into a store door—the sign over the door was "Partridge."

"Retriever" Was a Boy.

In a certain Maine town there is a man, who years ago when it was lawful to sell game birds in Maine, made considerable money selling woodcock in the Boston market at 50c a pair. He didn't own a dog but he had a very active boy, a boy with the instinct of a hunter and good legs and wind who always accompanied his father upon hunting trips. The boy would jump into the bushes and scare up the woodcock and then "retrieve" them after the old gentleman had shot them. This continued with considerable success for several years.

Turnips and Deer.

"Turnips taste better to a deer than whiskey does to an Indian, and the animal will run as great risks to get the vegetable as the red man will to get the liquor," said Otto Wilke of International Falls, at St. Louis. "I know men who make it their annual custom to plant turnips in the spring in some secluded spot in a game country, just so they will be assured of easy venison in the fall, or during the summer months, if they happen to live in the woods themselves.

"If a turnip patch is located in any district where there are deer, every deer within that district will visit it several times a week, the time of day they make their visits depending upon the wariness of the animals and the nearness of settlers. Even after snow falls these visits are continued as long as any of the vegetables are left in the ground. Until the snow gets too deep you can see where it is pawed away night after night in a search for the succulent roots. This being the case, one can readily see that a person would not meet with much difficulty in getting a shot at deer by watching a turnip patch in a country where the animals are to be found.

"Through the more sparsely settled districts they are actually pests to the homesteader who has a garden, for nothing but an eight-foot fence will keep them from eating the growing things and trampling the ground all up like a flock of sheep. It does not matter how near the vegetables are to the house, the deer will get into them just the same, the only difference being that they will come around later in the evening, when the darkness covers their movements.

The Bear In Maine.

Wise men, who have studied the dental form of animals and learned concerning the foods they eat from the shape of their teeth, unite in declaring that the wild bears of Maine are fitted for a vegetable diet, and that if left to themselves, the natural bears would seldom eat any animal food unless honey may be considered as such.

From early spring, when they come out and eat the plump and fragrant checkerberries upon the sunny knolls, until in chilly November, when they climb the trees for crab apples and black cherries, the Maine bears gain most of their living from fruits of various kinds. They roam the meadows for ripe strawberries; they search out the clearings for raspberries and blackberries; they scour the hillsides and plains for blueberries; they swim among the bogs for cranberries and from open ground to autumn frosts, they prefer berries to all other forms of food.

Now and then a bear will make a meal from green corn. Once in a while we hear of a bear slaying sheep in pastures or stealing pigs from pens and yards, but this does not imply that bears choose flesh rather than any other food. On the contrary, there is plenty of evidence to show that the average bear would never look at meat, if it were not compelled to do so from hunger.

In Pennsylvania, bears are protected by law from March to October. This has been done so that the mother bears might have a chance to guard their offspring until the youngsters could look out for themselves. In our opinion the Pennsylvania law is a sensible enactment. The day when wild bears were a menace to the agricultural welfare of Maine passed into history more than 50 years ago. It can never return. Let us cease to coddle this ancient folly of placing bounties on bears and give the animals a chance to live. They will soon become extinct in spite of all we can do.—Bangor Daily News.

DEER SHOT AT REDINGTON.

Two Brought In and Several Shots Wound the Game.

Cony Hoyt of Phillips started for Redington on the freight train at 7 a. m., a few days ago and got off at Sluice hill. He walked towards Redington until he reached the dam. There he shot a fat doe deer and he returned to Phillips on the 1.30 train.

Mr. McLaughlin of Phillips also shot a nice doe at Redington.

MARBLE'S AUTOMATIC FLEXIBLE JOINT REAR SIGHT

Illustration shows how sight returns automatically and instantly to correct position for shooting after having been intentionally or accidentally pushed forward or backward, even to a horizontal position. The sight is fastened down by a locking button when desired. This sight is made with a base for, and is being used with great satisfaction on 1895 Winchester, which have long firing bolts. The lower sleeve locks the upper or elevating sleeve and prevents it from being accidentally turned. These are only three reasons why our sight is better than any other. Our new 56-page catalog gives full description and numerous cuts, also describes MARBLE'S IMPROVED FRONT SIGHT. Send stamp for catalog "D."

BEAVER CHEWED THE WEIR.

DEER IN POTATO FIELD, DIGGERS AT THE OTHER END.

Partridges Are In the Swamps Yet and the Bluebacks Have Not Been Running Up Stream.

[Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.] MOUNTAIN VIEW, Oct. 18, 1905.

Only a few rods from the state's weir on Kennebago stream where Superintendent Briggs of the State Fish hatchery and Wallace Reed are taking trout eggs, there is a beaver dam. This dam has caused the overflow of considerable poplar land and the beaver are the most independent set of workmen you ever saw. They evidently have a "union" of their own and they don't propose to be imposed upon or disturbed by anybody if they can help it. A few weeks ago when trout began to run into the weir the water was fairly high and the beaver looked upon the state's new fangled contrivance with an unfriendly eye. There was plenty of water in their back yard and they didn't propose to have any more backed up to them if they could help it. It is supposed that they held a family council and decided that something must be done to abate the "nuisance." At any rate something was done. They went to work with a will trying to gnaw the weir down and down stream the whole thing would certainly have gone, had not Superintendent Briggs been on the alert, as he always is, and discovered their trick. They began gnawing at a place in the framework of the weir where two logs are joined in such a way as to hold the whole frame in place. Had they been given a little time they would doubtless have used all of the slats for lathes and the logs for ballast in their own house. In the course of their operations they also chewed holes through the trap and were in a fair way to let every trout free had their actions not been discovered.

There are many funny stories told about the ways of the beaver. Up at the head of Kennebago stream the Berlin Mills company built a dam. The beaver objected and began to tear it down. The lumbermen discovered what was going on and undertook to drive the beaver away, but they stood their ground and the old papa beaver had to be severely clubbed before he would retire back to his own territory and be good. A family of Rangeley beaver are said to have flowed a farmer's meadow so that they were drowning cut the hay. The farmer blew out their dam and during the night the beaver built it up better and stronger than ever.

Mr. Spaulding, who owns and operates the Kennebago Farm now, owns the only potato digger that the MAINE WOODS correspondent has seen in Franklin county. He raised 2,000 bushels on 14 acres of land and the deer had all they wanted to eat of them. One day when the potato digger was running, a handsome big buck deer was standing at the other end of the field munching potatoes as contentedly as you please.

Partridges are not particularly plentiful here just at the present time, though it is known that many good broods were seen early in the season. It has been quite dry here of late and it is thought that the partridges are largely in the swamps. The rains will doubtless bring them out and then there will be excellent sport.

Quite a goodly number of spawning trout have been run into the weir on Kennebago stream until the gates were closed above and the water was lowered. It is hoped by the commissioners of inland fisheries and game that a few bluebacks (ogouassa) may be secured that their propagation may be attempted at the Rangeley hatchery, but none have as yet appeared in the state's weirs.

There are still quite a number of people at Mountain View enjoying the rare October weather and a part of them are doing a little hunting. Maine never before saw weather like the present. As I write (eleven o'clock on Tuesday, October 10) several of the guests are sitting on the piazza and the thermometer registers 60 in the shade. The first day of October was like all the rest since that date—bright and warm. The trees on the hill across the lake show every color of the rainbow but the leaves are falling fast. "Still hunting" is very difficult indeed but some birds have been shot.

Prof. A. Schroeder of Boston has been out a good deal with his beagle. He shot while he was here a year or two ago a fox, one deer and eight partridges. This year he didn't get any big game but he shot eleven partridges. Jesse Ross was his guide.

J. A. Baker, Jr., of New York City is out with Bert Herrick, guide. The records just now do not show any credit for Mr. Baker but he and Herrick are still here and Mr. Baker will doubtless get something before he returns.

Mrs. L. E. Bowley recently returned from a trip of a week or ten days, calling on friends in Portland, Fall River, Brockton and other places. She was in Brockton during the great Brockton fair and was a regular attendant.

Mr. Bowley, proprietor of the Mountain View house has received a letter announcing the recent death at his home in New Haven, of Mr. Bassett, who was here during a part of last winter and who was at Bald Mountain Camps last summer and the summer before last. Mr. Bassett died of a complication of pneumonia and Bright's disease.

GUIDE FATALLY SHOT.

Dan Durgin Accidentally Shot by Party He Was Guiding.

[Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.] BINGHAM, Oct. 18, 1905.

Another disastrous tale is recorded in the annals of Maine's hunting for this season. Dan Durgin, 26 years of age, a guide in the region about Bingham, was shot by a member of a party he was guiding about ten miles above The Forks yesterday. The man directly behind him was carrying a gun which was accidentally discharged, the bullet entering Mr. Durgin's leg above the knee.

He was brought down from The Forks over ten miles of a rough, uneven road and into Bingham.

He was immediately operated upon but was so exhausted by the long and tedious journey that he died during the operation.

Mr. Durgin was well known and very popular. He had lived at The Forks.

PICKFORD'S CAMPS.

BEAUTIFUL CAMPS ON THE RANGELEY LAKE SHORE.

These Camps Located on One of the Most Beautiful Locations In Rangeley Proprietor Pickford Has Had a Rushing Business This Summer.

[Special correspondence to Maine Woods.] RANGELEY, Oct. 14, 1905.

While on a trip in the Rangeley Lakes region a reporter for MAINE WOODS called on Mr. Henry E. Pickford, proprietor and manager of Pickford's Camps, located about one and one half miles from Rangeley village.

Mr. Pickford—"Harry," as his friends call him—told us that he had had an excellent business all summer and was planning for an increased business next season. This fall Mr. Pickford plans to build a new stable and make other needed improvements about the camps.

These camps are said to be the only public log camps on Rangeley lake and are placed at an altitude of 2,000 feet above the sea level. Says Mr. Pickford in his circular, "we can assure prospective guests that the camps are free from mosquitoes and black flies."

Some of the pleasant trips that may be made from this place are: Kennebago, Seven Ponds, Loon Lake, The Birches, Middledam, Upper Dam, Mooselookmeguntic House, Whorff's Camps at Dead River pond four and one-half miles from Rangeley, Billy Soule's, Pleasant Island and many others where good fishing and hunting may always be found.

The main camp is 58 feet long with a piazza ten feet wide. This camp includes the dining room and office. In the evening the dining room is frequently cleared and the guests enjoy a social hop to the music of the fine piano provided by Mr. Pickford.

About a mile from the camps is located one of the finest golf links in New England.

Altogether the camps are models of neatness and comfort; the cuisine of the best and as to Mr. Pickford—why he is as popular with his guests as a camp owner need be. This is synonymous with saying that Harry is the right man in the right place.

Mooselookmeguntic Lake Camp Notes.

Dr. H. H. Haskell of Boston, who has been at Allerton Lodge since Sept. 1, shot a nice deer a few days ago, Whit Oakes, guide. Dr. Haskell has been accompanied a part of the time by Dr. Cobb of Boston and his father and mother, Col. E. B. Haskell and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Boothby of Portland will be at their camp in a few days for the balance of this and a part of next month.

E. B. Newton of Newton, Mass., will be at Camp Newton for three weeks with a friend Ora Haley is his guide.

Boy Shoots Moose With 22.

Some months ago another moose that had gotten too near civilization was chased by dogs and attempted to cross the Aroostook river down near the Canadian Pacific station at Caribou. A young lad named Dorsey was down on the bank of the river and happened to have along a little 22-calibre rifle. The boy happened to be right in the path of the moose and as the animal broke through the bushes the lad fired. Luckily for the boy, the bullet entered the eye of the moose and penetrated to the brain. It was lucky for the boy that the moose didn't wink when the rifle was discharged. If the moose's eye had been closed, he would probably never have realized that he had been hit.

Mr. L. B. Jordan of Bangor was at Rossignoll's camp at Millinocket lake a few days ast week and brought out two fine deer to carry back to the city with him. He went into camp Tuesday afternoon and returned Friday. As this is his first experience hunting deer he naturally feels proud of his success. He has many good words to say for his guide, Mr. Rossignoll, who as everyone knows is a first-class hunter. Mr. Jordan says the deer are very numerous up there and none need go out without a deer. Mr. Jordan is employed in the banking house of Tyler, Fogg & Co. of Bangor.

Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Thomas of Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Murch of Bangor and A. F. Merrill of East Edgington are in camp at Millinocket lake for a short stay.—Millinocket Journal.

BRUNSWICK FOXHOUND CLUB.

THE WINNERS IN THIS SHOW, HELD IN BOSTON.

Lots of Good Hounds Shown. Large Attendance of Ladies at the Show, Which Was Very Successful In Every Way

[Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.]

BOSTON, Oct. 17, 1905.

The 17th annual exhibition and foxhound field trials of the Brunswick Foxhound club, which was originated at Brunswick, Me., were held in Barre last week and were among the most successful in every way, the club ever had. The weather was superb, there was not a moment of rain to bother dogs or hunters, the condition of the ground was excellent and there were plenty of foxes for all purposes. The dogs exhibited were all in good condition and some remarkable work was shown. The attendance was in every way up to the standard of the club and was highly satisfactory to all concerned. The prize winners were:

Hunting: First, Piedmont hunt, Sinner; second, Grafton hunt, Sam; third, Piedmont hunt, Spie.

Trailing: First, Piedmont hunt, Spie; second, Piedmont hunt, Sinner; third, S. T. Burnett's Webb.

Speed and driving: First, Piedmont hunt, Sin; second, Piedmont hunt, Sinner; third, Dr. Lamb's Doro T.

Endurance: First, Piedmont hunt, Sinner; second, Piedmont hunt, Spie; third, George E. Call's Rye.

Tonguing: First, Grafton hunt, Sam; second, Piedmont hunt, Sinner; J. T. Burnett's Webb.

The highest general average cup, the championship cup, the Woodstock kennel cup, the endurance cup, the hunting cup, the endurance cup were all won by Sinner, who is claimed to be the best foxhound ever hunted behind. The trailing cup went to Spie. The speed and endurance cup went to Sin and the tonguing cup was won by Sam, all very excellent dogs.

The Derby winners: First prize, Loud, owned by G. E. Call of Northport, L. I.; second, Rye, same owner; third, Lassie, owned by Mrs. L. W.

There were a number of late arrivals but the above include the greater portion of those who remained through the four days and part of the fifth. All had a delightful time, but if fox hunting and the securing of the brush had been the chief end of the meet, it could have hardly been called a success, for not a brush was taken, though some very good ones were seen. But this wasn't the chief end of the meet, in fact it was not even a minor object, the only end being to bring out and exhibit the best points of the best bred and best trained fox hounds in America which was done to the satisfaction of even the most critical of the experts present.

The headquarters of the club and its guests were, as usual, at George Prouty's famous Barre hotel, where, in the evening, not the least pleasant features of the meet took place. Here acquaintances were renewed, tales of the hunt were retold, new friendships were made and a feast of sociability that will long be remembered was had. The evenings were delightful especially to the ladies, who had a part in everything that took place and enjoyed their full share of influence and popularity.

Announcement was made that Harry W. Smith of the Grafton hunt and A. Henry Higginson of the Middlesex hunt have agreed on Casper Whitney of Outing as referee of the hunt match in Virginia next month, between Mr. Smith's American bred dogs and Mr. Higginson's imported pack. A great deal of interest has been aroused over this event, which is expected to determine which breed of dog is entitled to the supremacy.

Camps Being Built.
T. L. Page, proprietor of the Mooselookmegtunc House at the Rangeleys, is superintending the construction of the camp which is being built by Geo. H. Snowman at Haines Landing for Mr. Ridlon of Boston. Mr. Page is undecided as to when he will leave Maine. It will depend a good deal, he says, upon the weather.

Alec Campbell, the guide, has been getting out logs for Mr. E. A. Patterson of New York, who was here last summer. They are to be shipped to Mr. Patterson at Mt. Vernon, New York, for a camp. Mr. Campbell is peeling them now and they will be shipped in a few days.

Mr. Foss of Boston and a friend of Denver, who have been at Haines Landing, are up Kennebagos stream this week with Pete Lufkin for guide.

A Unique Diary.

Some genius has devised a diary for the use of the hunter during the hunting season. The diary is as follows:

October—Moonlight, third to 18th. The hunter's month. Deer began mating the first of the month. They have gone from their summer haunts and are on the ridges and in the back woods. Good woodcock and ruffed grouse hunting. The last of the migratory birds are going, robins and sparrows, and when the ground freezes the woodcock goes. Ruffed grouse and Canada grouse feed on berries. It is very important if you follow the food an animal or bird depends upon, for if you know where the food is found the bird will be found also. The ruffed grouse feeds off buds, insects, berries and pine boughs at different times of the year. The moose and deer are headed for the interior, where they will yard for the winter.

November—Moonlight, first to sixteenth. Cold nights. Animals are taking on their winter colors, snow offers easy hunting, the gray goose is flying South, the rivers and lakes are freezing. Deer and moose have yarded, and it is in these yards that the best shooting may be found. Can every hunter find the yards?

December—Moonlight, 3d to 25th. Snow makes easy tracking; bears are taking to their dens; deer moose and caribou are in their yards. Hunting season has closed.

INDIAN ROCK CAMPS.

BEST SEASON EVER AT THESE CAMPS AT INDIAN ROCK.

Boston Man Shoots Ten Partridges and Three Rabbits. Game More Plenty Than Ever Before and Big Deer Are Shot Almost Daily.

[Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.]

HANOVER, ME. Oct. 17, 1905.

Opening of the finest season at Indian Rock camps ever had. "Such weather" said a Boston man as he came into camp with ten fine partridges and three rabbits. The game was never so plenty as this year at Howard Lake. Three large deer, seven foxes, 20 partridges, eight rabbits and four coons have been killed around camp.

Mr. Ed Billings came in with a fine doe deer which he had shot in the oak on Oak hill.

Mr. Cliff Fyner of Lewiston was the next lucky hunter. He came in with a fine 200 pound buck which he and his guide, W. C. Holt, had found on Mount Dimmock.

A. R. Cole of Lisbon was the next. He found a fine large buck feeding on an old birch yard and a shot from his rifle brought him to the ground. He was a fine deer. A. R. Cole with his guide, W. C. Holt, went for birds and came in with ten fine partridges and three rabbits in one day.

The leaves are getting off and the coming week lots of game will be brought into camp. Mr. Holt, proprietor of Indian Rock camps says he never saw so many deer in the woods as this year. The fine log house which Mr. Holt has just built is a fine place for a tired hunter to lie around and seek rest after a hard day's hunt.

The coming week some fine parties are expected at camp. Deer and black bear are coming into the apple orchard around camp.

Late arrivals are: A. R. Cole, Cliff Fyner, Lisbon; Edward H. Pillingre, Worcester; Fred M. Witham, Lewiston; H. H. Hille, Richard Badger, Boston.

Cash In Advance.

Beginning with the first issue in January, 1906, MAINE WOODS subscription list will be upon a cash in advance basis. We find that a great many MAINE WOODS subscribers think that when they pay for MAINE WOODS one year it will be discontinued at the end of that time unless they renew. It has been the custom of this paper to continue subscriptions for three years in cases where payments were neglected for so long a time and then discontinue the paper. At the end of three years we turned the accounts over to a lawyer for collection.

This method has not been entirely satisfactory and we have often been importuned by our readers to adopt the "no pay, no paper" plan. This we will do and our readers who have not paid in advance are hereby requested to do so in preparation for the new plan.

THERE are more deer, moose and bears in Maine this year than ever before.

Now, don't mistake a man for a moose. There is absolutely no need of it. They don't look one bit alike.

A VIGOROUS effort will be made to bring the question of the National Forest reservation in the White mountains before congress this winter. Articles have been prepared by Dr. Edward Everett Hale, Senator Gallinger and a number of others upon the subject. The subject is worthy of careful consideration by the New Hampshire legislature and it will doubtless receive it.

THREE Providence men were arrested today on a charge of violating the Lord's day by hunting in Swansea. Many complaints have been received at the Boston office at the fish and game commission and Deputy Partridge was ordered to investigate. The men were locked up and gave their names as James Dinuingo of 72 Spruce street, John Venditto, 101 Dean street and John Cifelli, 30 Cutaw street.—Boston Herald.

This is a suitable time to call the attention of MAINE WOODS readers to the fact that Sunday shooting in Maine is unlawful and all who indulge in it are liable to prosecution.

"JOEL THOMPSON, while squirrel hunting last week was mistaken for game and fired upon by an unknown hunter, who ran when he discovered his mistake. Thompson escaped injury but was badly frightened."

The above paragraph appears in the letter which we print in another column from the pen of our bright Oxford Maine, correspondent, "Bruce Stewart." In our opinion the paragraph describes a person who is as cowardly as he is careless, a disgrace and a menace to sane, sober, respectable gunners; a person too contemptible to be recognized by decent people, but we can't recognize him, we don't know who he is. He shot at a man in the woods and ran away.

MOOSE SEASON ON.

KING OF BIG GAME NOW READY FOR SPORTSMEN'S RIFLE.

Moose Hunting Is Exciting Sport, Not Unmixed With Danger. Many Moose Are Reported In the Woods of Maine This Fall.

Monday the open season on moose, the king of Maine's game animals, opened. It is two weeks or more since the season opened on deer and since that time some hundreds have been killed. Now it remains to be seen how many moose will be shot in the same length of time.

The moose is easily the largest game animal of the temperate zone and one of the most wary to capture. There is a thrill of excitement connected with moose hunting that comes from no other big game hunting in Maine.

Sometimes—hunters say, the life of the hunter depends on the accuracy with which he sights his rifle at the charging moose. This is the time when everything depends on clarity of vision and clearheadedness.

Bull moose killed in Maine sometimes weigh as much as 1000 pounds each, though a better average would probably be from 700 to 900 pounds. The antlers of a mature bull moose weigh from 60 to 70 pounds. Of course a head is the best part of the moose with its wide spreading antlers and "bell" of hair which hangs pendent from the under part of the neck, giving the animal the appearance of having an abnormally developed Adam's apple.

The big bull moose commences to feel uneasy about the time in the fall that the leaves are turning from green to gold. Then is the time he starts out on his love making but it is not always of the gentle kind, more often being of a strenuous nature.

This is the time of year that the moose knows no fear and will tackle anything that crosses his path. Ill tides the unarmed sportsmen that chances in his way.

The cow moose usually gives birth to a calf in April or May and for the summer seeks the seclusion of some thicket by a pond or lakeside where she can safely rear her calf and wade in the water, for coolness' sake as well as protection.

Speaking of the rutting season an exchange says: This is the season when the guides formerly got many a fine bull by calling the animals with a birch bark horn, imitating the call of the cow moose to lure the bulls to their death. Paddling his canoe, with his patron seated in the bow, to some spot on the lake or pond where he has located a bull, the guide produces his cleverly made trumpet and begins to sound the low sibilant notes which the bull is longing to hear. If there is a bull moose within hearing he is almost sure to respond. In some cases he will approach the source of the sound gingerly picking his way through the dense thickets so cleverly that his huge form makes scarcely a sound as it passes. In most cases however, the bull answers with a bellow and sets out pell mell for the spot where he thinks his lady love awaits him. He repeats his bellow at intervals as he approaches and finally bursts from the woods near where the hunter waits silently in the canoe. After that the moose becomes a silent actor in the play, if the man in the bow of the canoe is expert enough with his rifle.

Jacking moose was at one time a popular method of bagging the big animals but there were times when the affair did not go so smoothly for the hunter. Sometimes the moose saw the light only to become enraged at it and charge the canoe. If in shallow water the man in the bow had to shoot quick and true or the chances were that he would have a quarter of a ton or more of flying hoofs, bristling hair and enraged moose, in the canoe with him. One story is related of a Maine guide who took a party out to jack moose in New Brunswick. They did not go out to shoot the animals but wanted to see how they looked at night. The guide paddled up to a moose standing among the lily pads so that his patrons could get a close view. The moose, a young bull, charged the canoe before the guide could back away and put one of his hoofs through the bottom. The craft was of course upset and its occupants thrown into the muddy water, while the moose put for shore with the canoe hanging to his hoof where the cedar sheathing had closed upon it when he tried to withdraw it.

Old moose hunters say that the best gun to use moose hunting is a 45-70 rifle, as the big bullet and stiff charge of powder give a great shocking effect. The 30-30 or 32 special is also a good moose gun though the initial impact of the bullets from these guns does not seem to affect a big bull moose as much as the larger calibers. Sometimes the 45-90 is used, though it is said that a 45-70 does equally as well.

Moose are reported to be more plentiful in the woods of Maine this fall than for some time before. The season on this game closes Dec. 1.

Moose Dies of Fright.
Some weeks ago a noble monarch of the forest succumbed to the inevitable in a most untimely manner. Up caribou way the moose are very "set" in their ways and when once started in a given direction do not turn out for small obstacles. The result is that moose sometimes pass through some portion of that village. During the summer months an antlered monarch wandered into the outskirts of the village, was set upon by a dog or two and straightway became bewildered. He rushed about from point to point trying to get out of the village, was shouted at by men and "shooed" by women. He was lacerated by barbed wire fences, lost both his antlers, then in the velvet, and finally laid down on the Vaughn house lawn and died. No fatal wound was visible on the carcass. The wise ones who witnessed the affair claim that the moose died of fright.

The rumor that there were no ducks at Merrymeeting bay has been proved a fact, by one of the veteran duck shooters of the Capital, who went down to that broad expanse of water and eel grass recently, for the purpose of satisfying himself that ducks were really at a premium in that vicinity. His home is at Richmond and after conferring with some of the best known duck hunters on the Kennebec, who make their home in the quiet village mentioned, and learning from them that the birds were very scarce at the bay, he made a trip down there himself, and although he spent the whole afternoon along the shores, he did not get a glimpse of anything that looked like a duck, nor did he find any gunners or hear a gun besides his own. The only bird which he bagged for the afternoon was one Wilson snipe and aside from getting nearly mired in a muck hole, during which incident he almost lost both of his boots, the afternoon was almost utterly devoid of excitement.

GUIDES CARDS.
Quite a number of sportsmen's guides have informed MAINE WOODS that sportsmen very often ask them for a card when they leave for their homes, the idea being to preserve the address of the guide who accompanied them during their outing. MAINE WOODS furnishes printing of every kind and we have naturally built up a desirable business in printing business cards for guides. This class of patronage has grown until we have set aside a certain press to be used on Friday of each week to print guides cards. Every guide who orders cards of MAINE WOODS may be sure that they will be mailed to him, postpaid on Saturday morning after we receive the order if it reaches us before Friday of the same week.
The price is 50c for fifty cards. Of course we know that cards can be bought cheaper but the cards we furnish are on first-class stock and the latest cuts of type are used in their printing. They are good enough to pass to any sportsman. Send cash with order.

HAMMERLESS SPORTING RIFLE

The smooth and easy action of this Rifle is the wonder of all sportsmen who have fired it. It's a Repeating Rifle—the magazine holds six cartridges. The cartridges lie side by side—not end to end—can't be exploded by jamming. Hammerless—there is no flying hammer to distract the aim. Perfectly balanced—the center of gravity remains constant, which isn't true of other makes. Absolute safety from the explosion of defective shells—the operator is protected by a solid wall of steel—made especially for us.

The Savage Hammerless Sporting Rifle is described in detail, with other models, in our handsome catalogue, free.

Ask your dealer about Savage Rifles, but write for catalogue today.

KINEO, MOOSEHEAD LAKE.

Opposition to Moose Law Now Being Liberally Discussed by Sportsmen.

[Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.]

KINEO, MOOSEHEAD LAKE, Oct. 16, 1905.

The cry here is still "on to the woods," the influx of sportsmen continuing unabated with as yet few returning. Beautiful weather and the anticipating of the opening of the moose season today has tempted many to prolong their stays and it will be the last of the week before the real results of the first two weeks' sport will be known definitely.

OPPOSED TO MOOSE LAW.

A conspicuous feature of the season here has been the liberal discussion of the moose law in its present form by the visiting sportsmen and those who have business interests, and it is apparent that the objection which has long existed to maintaining a close season on moose until Oct. 15, is now culminating in a determined movement to have this time moved back to the first of October, at a time when deer hunting now begins.

The sportsmen argue that there is not a reasonable excuse for the law in its present form and that there are a good many things to be said against it. First of all, October is the month to hunt in Maine from the standpoint of climatic conditions and this is in reality what the majority of visitors are coming for as much as the hunting. The majority of them are active business men who feel the need of a rest and change after a summer in the busy, hot, close city and their thoughts turn to the woods; the woods in autumn glory, crisp air and bright sun-shine; not the woods bleak with snow and with the thermometer uncomfortably close to the zero mark.

Then again there is an absurd side to the law, for everyone who knows anything about it at all knows that many moose are shot before the season opens and the heads brought or sent out later. It is the old, old story of adapting conditions to meet ones needs and a good many hunters who find it inconvenient or impossible, particularly the latter, to be in Maine during the open time on moose feel justified in making their kill ahead of time. This spirit has grown since visitors began paying $15 for the privilege of hunting and because of the strong opposition to the law in its present form both in the state and out.

Those who have business interests in the moose hunting sections argue that the season opens in the Provinces much earlier and that Maine should also be able to offer inducements to the early season moose hunters. To be sure Maine has features which more than offset this slight advantage, but a good many sportsmen are willing to put up with inconvenience to hunt moose at a time which suits them best and Maine is losing this business.

The general opinion among all concerned is that Maine has imposed a good many restrictions upon the sportsmen and that the time is now ripe for her to recompensate in a small way; that the state will make a serious mistake if it does not make immediate provision for the opening of the moose season October first, at the time deer hunting now opens and at a season agreeable to woods life. The "sport" of getting "frozen in" has long ceased to possess charms for those who have experienced it.

The objection to the law in its present form is so general here that it will surely reach the commission of inland fisheries and game through the proper channels and favorable action is confidently expected.

AMONG THE SPORTSMEN.

More beautiful weather than the first ten days of the open season has never been experienced here and everybody has found joy in them.

Among the week's arrivals are H. E. Judkins of Waterville and George B. White of Boston, who are at Cuxabexis lake for moose and deer hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Howe of Bangor, Dr. W. B. Berkler, A. L. Young and H. B. Adams of Auburn, passed through here during the week.

V. Pingree, H. O. Cutler, George Chelsey and A. Wentworth of Lewiston and H. Clark, Dr. Vose, S. Bourne, J. Miller and D. Robinson of Portland, make up a large party who are occupying a private camp at the head of the lake.

George M. Boynton of the Hotel North Augusta, is at Brassua lake.

J. E. Currier, H. G. Currier of Newark; W. L. Currier of Ottawa, and E. H. Best of Boston are at Camp Sunshine.

James Carstairs of Philadelphia, is in for an extended moose hunting trip.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Parsons, Master Harold Parsons and Miss Reed of Yonkers, N. Y., are in camp at Lobster lake, enjoying the shooting. Mr. Parsons and his son have spent several weeks here much of the time in the woods, the ladies spending part of their time with them.

R. B. Thompson of New York and B. Frank Knause of Brooklyn, are in for an extended hunting trip.

F. L. Luckenback and Miss L. M. Hall of Philadelphia, passed through here on their way to Jackman where they will enjoy two weeks hunting.

C. A. Archer of Salem is in camp at Russe's stream.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Winslow and Miss Mabel Winslow of Beverley are camping at Red Brook.

Others who have passed through here recently en route for the woods include Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Grew, Boston; H. E. Sheldon, Ed. D. Floyd, New York and H. D. Sears, Boston; Richard Hooker, Thomas Hooker, Jr., S. E. Howard, Jr., Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. C. Albert Grasser, E. E. Barker, Newark; C. B. Perkins, J. Tudor, Gardiner, W. T. Jenkins, Brookline; H. M. Oleson, Cross Forks, Pa.; E. W. LaCroix, Lynn; A. W. McAdams, E. E. Pettee, Newtonville; E. D. Stone, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Starr, Mrs. J. E. Underhill, Richard M. Starr, New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard G. Lippincott of Philadelphia returned home early in the week after a six weeks trip during which they enjoyed fine fishing, good hunting and superb weather.

Phillips Kay Hamilton of Philadelphia is back after a successful deer hunting trip.

A. J. Dudley of Brooklyn, returns home after nearly five months at his private cottage at the North West Carry.

NEWS OF THE POINT.

"Biled" shirts are disappearing here and the atmosphere characteristic of the early and late season is assuming itself but there is no let up in activity. Manager Judkins is on the go from early until late and Clerk Turner has all he can attend to at the store, while bookkeeper, Ernest G. Judkins is busy preparing his books for the auditor. The hum of the wood saw and the pattering of the donkey engine tells very plainly that the wood supply is to be sufficient to make it possible to laugh at cold winter and the appearance of double windows indicates that a cold snap may be expected most any time.

The recently completed schoolhouse is now completely furnished and spick and span as one could wish and school will open shortly. This building was the gift of guests of the hotel and will supply a long felt need.

Mrs. Viola Turner, wife of Clerk Turner of the store, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Merrill in San Rafael, Cal., for some weeks past is expected back about the first of the month. Mrs. Turner was called to her sister's bedside by illness, but on arriving found her condition much improved and her many friends will be glad to know that she is now fully recovered. Mrs. Merrill spent a number of summers here and was known to everybody as "Theresea," her genial disposition making friends among all.

The Food of Wild Deer.

Several Maine papers have been casting unfavorable reflections on the sincerity of the Bangor lumberman, who has said that the deer of the Maine woods are working great harm to the deciduous trees. Naturally, very much depends upon how wide a range a given herd of deer has. All animals have decided tastes for certain kinds of food, though most of them will accept that which is unpalatable to them sooner than go hungry. This fact is brought out very plainly among such animals as have become domesticated. The dog is from nature and from choice a carnivorous animal, but in the absence of fresh meat, the average dog not only thrives, but grows fat upon plain brown bread, while biscuit and cakes are eaten greedily. Down among the Maine islands many sheep get through the winter by strolling along the shores and picking up sea wrack, including snails and mussels and sea worms, as well as algae and kelp. Sheep do not have to be very hungry to eat frozen tomcods—not so ravenous as men would have to be to do the same thing. Most cats will eat soft bread and cakes of various kinds, though the nature of the cat kind is carnivorous.

Within the past ten years we have taken considerable pains to learn all we could about the kinds of plants, which deer select when roaming wild. It is perhaps safe to say that for nearly half the year the Maine deer select

Tim pond, one of the most beautiful lakes in northern Maine, is about one thousand acres in size and is completely surrounded by picturesque mountains, covered with green, unbroken forests, as yet untouched by the lumberman's ax.

Tim pond justly bears the reputation of being the lake where trout rise freely to the fly every day in the season. The lake is fed by many brooks and mountain streams, clear and swift running, making it one of the very best natural hatching and breeding places for trout in the state.

The water in the lake is noted for its purity, and the flavor of the trout is unsurpassed.

The proprietor of the commodious camps at Tim pond constantly makes it his business to see that there is no illegal fishing, and that everything is properly cared for, consequently the trout are increasing in size and numbers every year.

The altitude is 2,000 feet above sea level and the air is pure and healthy. To come here for a short vacation is to renew health and vigor. Many people in poor health, particularly those suf-

Peters Ammunition Still Winning!

At the annual meeting of the Ohio State Rifle Association and the Ohio National Guard, Newark, O., July 24th to 29th, 1905, many of the best scores were made with Peters Factory Loaded Ammunition, among them the following:

SKIRMISH RUN, won by Lieutenant Benedict, with a world's record. Score 96 out of a possible 100.

INDIVIDUAL SKIRMISH and PETERS TROPHY, won by Private Bradshaw. Straight 95 out of 100. Distance 1000 yards.

SIXTH INFANTRY MATCH, won by Col. E. T. Miller, Adjutant General, with a score of 50 out of a possible 50. Distance 500 yards. Including his sighting shots Col. Miller made the remarkable record of 11 straight bull's-eyes.

All the Revolver Matches at this meeting were won with Peters Cartridges.

At the annual shoot of the New York State Rifle Association, Creedmoor, New York, July 26th to August 1st, 1905, all the individual rifle and revolver matches with but one exception were won with Peters Cartridges, as follows:

ALL-COMERS SHORT RANGE MATCH, won by W. G. Hudson. Score 101.

ALL-COMERS MID RANGE MATCH, won by Lieut. K. K. V. Casey. In this match Lieut. Casey made a run of 17 consecutive bulls.

ALL-COMERS LONG RANGE MATCH, won by Lieut. Casey. Score 101.

THURSTON MATCH, won by Lieut. Casey. Score 131.

RE-ENTRY REVOLVER MATCH, won by Thomas Anderton. Score 146.

RAPID FIRE RE-ENTRY REVOLVER, won by Thomas Anderton. Score 132.

Peters Cartridges are the best, from the little 22 caliber up to the big 30 Government.

and subsist upon the tips and tender sprouts of birch. They seem to like the small gray birches better than the yellow birches, though they will take either in preference to beech or ash or maple. The clearings which bear suckers where the basket or canoe birches have been cut away, are much frequented by deer at all times of the year, except when the snow is very deep. Turn a herd of deer free among hard woods and they will select the different species of birches almost to the exclusion of any other trees, seeming to choose the small gray birches sooner than any others.

After the grass has sprung up and is green and lush, deer will nose about in the fields, picking out the clover and the heads of herds grass. They will eat oats sooner than barley or wheat. They do not seem to care for turnips or cabbages so much as for lettuce and peas and beans. They will eat the leaves and crowns of strawberry plants and the leaves and tender twigs of raspberries and blackberries, though they do not trouble blueberries, unless very hungry. Deer frequenting woods near cleared fields, will take clover, peas and beans before anything else. The next choice seems to be the tender tips and leaves of birches, though at times they will forsake a birch growth to get at raspberry or strawberry leaves. Not until they are very hungry will they nibble at any hard wood tree other than the birch. During the deep snows of winter deer hide away in cedar swamps and subsist upon the pungent leaves, though they grow poor and dark meated upon this diet. They will at times eat heartily of hemlock twigs, even in the summer, when more nourishing food is abundant. One winter we brought a pair of deer through in good health by feeding them on oats and clover. Though they had the run of a large orchard, they did not nip the apple twigs or eat from the scattering gray birches that grew in the orchard. It is our belief that a deer will subsist upon any food that will keep a sheep alive.

In view of the foregoing results, which have been gained from personal observation, confirmed by many talks with numerous hunters and lumbermen, we cannot think that the Maine deer present any serious menace to the hardwood forests of Maine. The gray birch is of no practical value, either as fuel or timber. The trees seldom grow more than 20 feet high, or reach a diameter of six inches at the butt. As nurses for small pines and spruces they perform a most useful service in the economy of nature, though their intrinsic value is next to nothing. Had the lumberman who has been quoted asserted that the moose were enemies to Maine hardwoods, he would have come nearer stating fact. During the time when the snow lies deep on the woodland, moose strip the bark from white maples and a few other trees wounding or killing many saplings in the run of a year. But as for the real injury worked upon the hardwoods of this state by wild deer, such talk is not borne out by facts.—Bangor News.

Lucky Phillips Hunters.

Last Wednesday night Geo. Hunter and Chester Fairbanks, hunting together in an old orchard in West Phillips, shot a buck deer that dressed 130 pounds. The deer was feeding when seen face on. The boys both fired at the same time, one shot taking effect, going through the shoulder. The deer then ran about 15 rods during which time Mr. Fairbanks fired five more shots bringing his deer to earth.

The same day Clarence Fairbanks and Fernando Dow got a couple of small does in the west part of the town.

Mr. Chester Fairbanks tells MAINE WOODS that deer are very plenty about Phillips this fall. He says you can't take a walk in the thick woods but what you will see a deer.

Got Eight Birds.

Mr. James F. McGerry of Manchester, N. H., was in town one evening recently on his return from a hunting trip in Redington. Mr. McGerry got a good big doe and eight partridges and returns to his home well pleased with the success of his trip.

HUNTERS IN FARMINGTON.

JACOB WIRTH AND PARTY GO TO KING AND BARTLETT.

Partridges Have Been Shot the Past Week. Fox Hunters Are Out and Deer Are Seen Almost Daily Near Franklin's Shire Town.

[Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.] FARMINGTON, Oct. 19, 1905.

Here in the shire town of the county, far from the deep woods of Maine, there is something doing in the hunting line almost every day. If the sport continues as it has started in Farmington we will soon have the reputation of being a great town for hunting.

One of the lucky hunters last week was Mr. Joseph Matthieu, who got two fat "biddies." Tuesday, Raymond Wade, the obliging clerk at Stewart and Brown's and solo trombone player in Wheeler's band, shot two partridges. The next day Mr. Davis left for Lewiston, as he jokingly said, "to celebrate his good luck."

Messrs. Allie Presson and Henry Manter are enthusiastic fox hunters and the first of the week they thought they'd try their luck. After walking miles and miles they returned, tired but not triumphant. Better luck next time, boys!

But apropos of fox hunting it is well to note that one local hunter shot two foxes in one day last week. MAINE WOODS is unable to give the name of this lucky Nimrod.

Master Stanley Moor, the young son of Postmaster Moor, goes up on Powder House hill every night after school and frequently gets a bird. He likes hunting very much he says.

Sandy River Station Agent Ned Adams of Farmington started bright and early this morning for "Harper's Ferry," New Vineyard, on a brief hunt. As we haven't heard as yet from Ned, of course it is hard to guess on his luck. But Station Agent Adams is usually lucky and this trip probably won't be an exception.

Ralph Norton, while hunting on Powder House hill, Wednesday, saw a large deer near the big iron water tank that stands like a fort on the hill. Mr. Norton promptly fired at the deer with a charge of buckshot, but failed to get him.

Several deer have been seen near the Norton schoolhouse on the Farmington Falls road.

The Wirth party, consisting of Jacob Wirth and Dr. Wm. Pillsbury of Camp Wirth, Varnum pond, and Mr. Geo. McL. Presson of this place, left Wednesday night for King and Bartlett.

Doctor Brigham Says

MANY PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womankind is not because it is a stimulant, nor because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructer ever discovered to act directly upon the generative organs, positively curing disease and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures and physicians who have recognized the virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due.

If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience it can be relied upon to effect a cure. The following letter proves it.

Dr. S. C. Brigham, of 4 Brigham Park, Fitchburg, Mass., writes:

"It gives me great pleasure to say that I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound very efficacious, and often prescribe it in my practice for female difficulties. My oldest daughter found it very beneficial for uterine trouble some time ago, and my youngest daughter is now taking it for a female weakness, and is surely gaining in health and strength."

"I freely advocate it as a most reliable specific in all diseases to which women are subject, and give it honest endorsement."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhoea, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that bearing-down feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. No living person has had the benefit of a wider experience in treating female ills. She has guided thousands to health. Every suffering woman should ask for and follow her advice if she wants to be strong and well.

camp for their annual deer and moose hunt.

The party will be gone two weeks and it is expected that they will return later, laden with deer. This party have hunted at the King and Bartlett preserves in years gone by, where they always had the best of luck with gun and rifle.

Mr. Ralph Bangs has shot several partridges this fall.

SEVEN DEER SHOT.

Ducks and Partridges Galore at Heald Pond Camps.

[Special Correspondence to MAINE WOODS.] JACKMAN, Oct. 16, 1905.

Everything is booming in camp and seven deer have been brought into camp since Oct. 8, which can be seen at P. M. Tripp's taxidermist shop in Jackman.

Twenty-three black ducks and 267 partridges have also been brought to camp since the season opened.

Game Shipments. (Bangor Commercial.)

The game shipments up to noon Friday were light, only ten deer being received. The small shipments were probably due in a large measure to the rain of Thursday which kept the hunters in camp, but this same rain should make the hunting conditions excellent for the next few days and make the game shipments correspondingly large. The rain will also give the hunters a big advantage in the first few days of the open season on moose which would ordinarily begin Sunday, as that is the 15th day of the month, but as Sunday is close time on all game the moose season will open Monday.

The finest buck head that has been seen in Bangor this year was brought down by Jabez S. Lowell of this city, a midshipman at the Annapolis Naval academy. Midshipman Lowell and his father, Waldo P. Lowell, were on a hunting trip in the vicinity of Ashland and had exceptionally good luck. Besides getting the big buck, young Lowell got a doe and Mr. Lowell, senior, got a good sized buck.

Fireman Peary on Train No. 29, running between Bangor and Vanceboro on the Maine Central, saw two large moose in the woods beside the track a short distance from Kingman one day recently. Both moose and deer have been seen frequently from trains to be unusually plentiful in that region.

The caribou reported on Mt. Katahdin a short time ago by Guy Haines of Norcross appear to be not the only members of that species of the deer family in that part of the state.

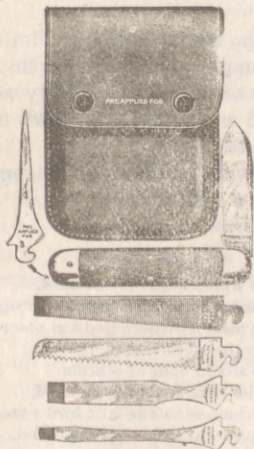

The total game shipments to date are 263 deer and six bears.

FIRST MOOSE SHIPPED.

LOBSTER LAKE FURNISHES A GOOD SPECIMEN EARLY IN SEASON.

Deer Are Being Shipped in Large Numbers Over the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad.

[Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.] GREENVILLE JCT., Oct. 17, 1905.

The first moose to be taken out of this region was shipped from here today.

It was a good specimen, shot on Lobster lake by A. H. Norton of Hallowell, Maine.

Deer are coming out in large numbers, 53 being received here for shipment yesterday. A. A. CARTER.

Freeman Hunters.

Albert Huff and Allie Durrell have gone to Dead River for a week's hunting trip. All are hoping to see some large game when they return.

Birds and deer are scarce and there is a great falling off. One local gunner reported that he traveled half a day and did not start a bird.

Youthful Gunners.

Harry Chandler and Scott Brackett of Phillips went gunning last Saturday up on Beach hill. They were looking for partridges, particularly, but birds weren't out much that day. But they each shot and brought home a rabbit.

"Please Smile AND Look Pleasant."

When a woman says "I am racked with pain," the word "racked" recalls the days when they stretched the tender bodies of women on the rack with rope and pulley until the very joints cracked.

Fancy an attendant saying to the tortured woman, "Please smile and look pleasant."

And yet the woman "racked with pain," is expected to smile through her agony and to make home happy. She can't do it. It is against Nature. Generally speaking, the racking pains of ill-health such as headache, backache and "bearing-down pains" are related to derangements or disorders of the organs distinctly feminine. When this condition is removed the general health is restored, and with health comes back the smile of happiness.

Any woman may regain her health at home without offensive questionings or examinations by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Sick women may consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free of charge. Such letters are treated as sacredly confidential.

"It affords me pleasure to relate the wonderful merits of your great medicines, especially your 'Favorite Prescription,'" writes Mr. J. Wesley Rhine, of Woodbury, N. Jersey, L. Box 262. "My wife has been using it for some time past, having suffered severely with bearing-down pains, aching in back, and many other complaints peculiar to women. She was very weak, could not do any heavy work or washing but can do all kinds of work now. She is soon to become a mother but we do not fear the result (as heretofore), all due to your wonder-worker, 'Favorite Prescription.'"

"Your 'Pleasant Pellets' are also worth many times their price. I have used them for biliousness and stomach trouble, and have found them to be all that you claim. They are my constant companions—once used, always kept."

backed by the general law of average proves that the first appearance of an advertisement does not bring business nor even create much curiosity. It costs little to advertise in MAINE WOODS. A trial (one time) insertion for business advertising is a waste of money. If you go in, stay in and it will pay you. "Keeping everlastingly at it" is the only way to success.

In continuity is strength. In disconnection is failure. Few people buy anything the first time they hear about it. There is not a solitary case where intermittent advertising has brought returns compared with that from continuous advertising—that everlasting pounding away at the public day in and day out.

"BOB CAT KITTENS" CAPTURED.

BIRDS PLENTIFUL IN A CERTAIN OXFORD COUNTY TOWN.

Moose Also Show Up Says Our Correspondent and Deer Much In Evidence.

[Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.]

OXFORD, Oct. 16, 1905.

I was much interested in the article, "Poor Partridge Hunting" which you reprinted from the Lewiston Journal. Evidently our Lewiston friend did not look in the right place for his birds. If he had come here we could have shown him plenty of partridges and a few woodcock into the bargain and we are only a short 16 miles from the twin cities.

Oct. 7 I went out to see what the prospect was (we natives do not do much hunting till the leaves are off) and in a little over two hours saw ten birds and put up three others, besides numberless squirrels and a good fresh buck track. Of course a stranger might not see as much but it is not uncommon for those who know the locality.

Birds are not all we have, for deer tracks and the deer themselves are seen almost daily and now a big bull moose is playing hide-and-seek with the people of Hebron and Paris, and a cow, his mate probably, has been seen.

The first party to return from South Arm, came deerless though they owned up to seeing dozens. They also saw a cow and a calf moose which came to camp and ate potatoes from a box on the porch. As souvenirs of the trip they brought home three bob-cat kittens. George Farris and party start for Echo camp Oct. 16 and E. L. Burns and sons and J. F. Fuller and son will go the latter part of next month as usual.

Joe Thompson while squirrel hunting last week was mistaken for game and fired upon by an unknown hunter who ran when he discovered his mistake. Thompson escaped injury but was badly frightened.

Many are rejoicing over the re-election of Capt. Nash of Co. D. 1st Maine. He has had remarkable success with the company and there is no reason why he should not continue to have.

As yet no deer have been shot near here. Most of the hunters prefer to wait for snow and make sure no wounded ones escape.

Herbert Flood and friends who have lately returned from their camp at C Pond are not talking much of their trip and it is surmised their luck was not of the very best, but any way they had the outing. BRUCE STEWART.

Game Laws of Maine.

Caribou—No person shall, within 6 years from Oct. 15, 1905, in any manner hunt, chase, catch, kill or have in possession any caribou or parts thereof.

Deer—No person shall hunt, take, catch, kill or have in possession any deer or part thereof, between Dec. 15 and Oct. 1; no person shall between Oct. 1 and Dec. 15, kill or have in possession more than 2 deer or parts thereof; a person lawfully killing a deer in open season shall have a reasonable time in which to transport same to his home, and may have same in possession at his home during the close season.

Special county laws on deer.

November is open season in York, Cumberland, Sagadahoc, Lincoln, Knox, Waldo and Kennebec counties. One deer only may be killed. In the towns of York, Kittery, Eliot and Wells in York county, and in Bath, West Bath and Phippsburg, Sagadahoc county, no open season. Close season in town of Swan's Island, Hancock county, until Dec. 15, 1908. Open season in towns of Eden, Mt. Desert, Tremont and South west Harbor, between Nov. 15 and Dec. 15.

Close season on islands in town of Isle au Haut until Oct. 1, 1907.

Open season in Androscoggin county during October.

Moose—No person shall at any time hunt, catch, kill or destroy or have in possession any cow or calf moose, and the term calf moose shall be construed to mean that these animals are calves until they are at least one year old and have at least two prongs or tines not less than three inches long to each of their horns. No person shall, between Dec. 1 and Oct. 15, hunt, take, catch, kill or have in possession any bull moose or part thereof, and no person shall, between Oct. 15 and Dec. 1, take, catch, kill, or have in possession more than one bull moose or part thereof.

No person shall at any time hunt, catch, take, kill or destroy with dogs, jack lights, artificial lights, snares or traps, any moose, deer, or caribou.

Rabbits—It shall be unlawful to hunt or have in possession, rabbits or wild hare, between April 1 and Sept. 1.

Squirrels, chipmunks—In Knox county, no open season.

Mink, sable, muskrat, fisher, close season, between May 1 and Oct. 15.

Beaver—Whoever at any time kills or destroys any beaver, except upon written permission of the commissioners, shall be fined.

Woodcock, blackduck, teal and any ducks known as gadwall, mallard, widgeon, shoveler, pintail, redhead, scaup, whistler, bufflehead, broadbill, close season between Dec. 1 and Sept. 1; ruffed grouse, woodcock, between Dec. 1 and Sept. 15; plover, snipe and sandpiper, between May 1 and Aug. 1; and it shall be unlawful to kill or have in possession quail at any time.

No person shall hunt wild ducks upon the shores, islands or waters of Merry-meeting bay, Eastern river or the Kennebec river below the Gardiner and Randolph bridge, between Dec. 1 and Sept. 1.

Limit—No person shall in any one day kill or have in possession more than 15 of each variety of the above named birds, except sandpipers, the number of which shall not exceed 70 in any one day; nor shall any person at any time kill or have in possession any of the above named birds, except for his own consumption in the state; nor shall any person at any time sell or offer for sale any of the above named birds; nor shall any person or corporation transport from place to place any of the birds mentioned, in close time, nor in open season unless open to view, tagged and labelled with owner's name and residence and accompanied by him, unless tagged in accordance with the following section:

Transportation of game—Any resident of Maine who has lawfully killed a moose or deer or one pair of game birds may send same to his home or to any hospital in the state without accompanying same, by purchasing from the duly constituted agent a tag, paying for a moose $5, deer $2 and 50 cents a pair for game birds.

Licenses—Persons not bona fide residents of the state and actually domiciled therein shall not hunt or kill any bull moose, deer, ducks, grouse, woodcock, or other birds or wild animals at any time without first having obtained a license. Such license shall be issued upon application and payment of $15 to hunt bull moose, deer, ducks, grouse, woodcock and other birds and wild animals during their respective open seasons in October, November and December. To hunt ducks, grouse, woodcock and other birds and wild animals during their respective open seasons prior to Oct. 1, a license fee of $5 shall be paid annually. A person having paid the fee of $5 may procure a license to hunt bull moose and deer by paying $10 additional. Such license shall entitle the purchaser to take to his home, properly tagged with the tag detached from his license, and open to view, 10 grouse, 10 ducks and 10 woodcock that he has lawfully killed. The holder of a nonresident hunter's license shall be entitled to offer for transportation within or without the state the carcass of one bull moose or part thereof that he has lawfully killed on the moose coupon attached to such license also the carcass of one deer, or part thereof, on each of the deer coupons.

No nonresident can lawfully hunt game at any time without a license.

October.
The thistle down rises, now here and now there,
Like feathers of snow on the breeze;
I watch as it melts in the blue of the air,
Still sailing o'er hilltops and trees,
Oh, where will it rest when the soft winds have died,
And where will its cradle be found?
And who that could find it, if any one tried,
Hid away on the nurturing ground?
When summer and autumn and winter have fled,
The thistle down, awakened from sleep,
Will spring her and there from its low lying bed,
And bright in the sunshine will leap.
Our words are forgotten: like thistle down light
They scatter and none may recall:
Do they go with a mission to bless or to blight—
To heal or to wound as they fall?
TROUBLESOME.

SANAZOL

LOTION AND SOAP
Positive Cure For All Skin Diseases.

The wonderful discovery of the famous specialist in skin diseases A. J. Fulton, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sanazol treatment is external only. During the hot weather those afflicted with skin eruptions and scaly skin diseases, suffer intensely. You can avoid this suffering and effect a cure by use of Sanazol.

Sufferers from eczema, lupus, herpes, ringworm, prurigo, scrofuloderma, skin cancer, pediculosis, psoriasis, ecchyma, lichen, syphilis and all other forms of ulcerative, scaly and parasitic skin diseases find immediate relief and permanent cure by the use of Sanazol. It removes pimples and blackheads and cures sweaty or aching feet.

Some of the now famous cures by Sanazol treatment were fully described in the New York World of March 9, and the Brooklyn Daily Eagle of March 29.

The Brooklyn Times of March 30th, says: "Dr. Fulton is a practicing physician and a skin disease specialist. The Sanazol treatment is the latest cure and medical men are of the opinion that America has triumphed over Europe." August Newman of Enfield street near Graves Place, Brooklyn, writes that he had been a sufferer from a skin eruption for eight years called various names by different physicians. Finally he was induced, in sheer desperation, to try Sanazol. He enjoyed his first unbroken sleep after the first bottle of Sanazol. His reward for a conscientious treatment of this remedy for two months was complete cure.

Write for testimonial and full particulars of Sanazol. Treatment requires combined use of lotion and soap. Sent on receipt of price or at drugist.

Lotion full half pint, $1.00; soap, 25c per cake or Address Sanazol Laboratory, dept. B, 4, 100-102 Elton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

NATURE'S ESSENCE

Extracted from the Roots of Native, Forest Plants.
Go Straight Back to Nature for Your Health.
There is Your Strength.

Consider your body as an engine which supplies you with all activity of mind and body. Keep the machinery well oiled and it runs smoothly. It does not groan in doing its work. But let the stomach, which is the fire-box to the human engine, get "out of kilter" and we soon meet with disaster. The products of undigested and decomposing food is poison to the system.

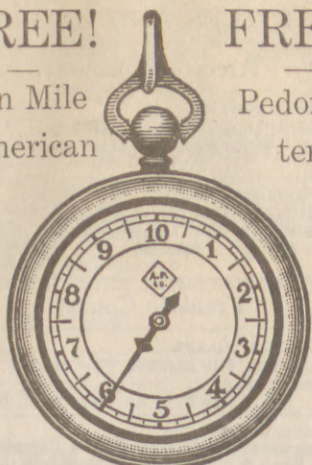

We do not live on what we eat but on what we digest, assimilate, and take up in the blood. The blood in turn feeds the nerves, the heart, and the whole system, and all goes well with us if the blood be kept pure and rich. If not, then the liver, which is the human filter within us, gets clogged up and poisons accumulate in the body from over-eating, over-drinking, or hurriedly doing both. The smash-up occurs when the blood is poisoned by the stomach and liver being unable to take care of the over-load! The red flag of danger is thrown out in the shape of eruptions on the skin, or in nervousness and sleeplessness, the sufferer becoming blue, despondent and irritable, because the nerves lack nourishment and are starved.

Nature's laws are perfect if only we obey them, but disease follows disobedience. Go straight to Nature for the cure, to the forest; there are mysteries there, some of which we can fathom for you. Take the bark of the Wild-cherry tree, with Mandrake root, Stone root, Queen's root, Bloodroot and Golden Seal root, make a scientific, Glyceric extract of them, with just the right proportions, and you have Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It took Dr. Pierce, with the assistance of two learned chemists and pharmacists, many months of hard work experimenting to perfect this vegetable alternative and tonic extract of the greatest efficiency. To make rich, red blood, to properly nourish the nerves and the whole body, and cure that lassitude and feeling of weakness and nerve exhaustion, take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It bears the BADGE OF HONESTY upon every bottle in the full list of its ingredients, printed in plain English, and it has sold more largely in the past forty years than any other blood purifier and stomach tonic. The refreshing influence of this

American Small Arms.

By Edward S. Farrow, Late United States Army.

As the author of "Farrow's Military Encyclopedia," "Camping on the trail," "West Point," etc., Mr. Farrow has long been recognized as an authority upon all things pertaining to military matters. His latest work, "American Small Arms," is a veritable encyclopedia of knowledge about the gun. It gives the complete history of all varieties of Small Arms that have been made in the United States since its settlement by the Colonists, and its descriptive text is profusely illustrated by diagrams and models showing the progress of American Arms up to the present day.

If you are interested in guns, if you own a gun, if you ever use a gun, you cannot afford to be without this book. It is the only work of its kind in the world.

BIG GAME HUNTERS ARE FLOCKING INTO THE WOODS.

The Trains Into Maine Are Now Bringing Crowds of Moose and Deer Hunters. Big Game Records Are Expected This Year.

[Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.]

GREENVILLE, Oct. 18, 1905.

On the Saturday morning train over the Bangor & Aroostook to Greenville there were nearly 100 sportsmen, while the 9.45 Boston sleeper was filled to the limit.

The sportsmen are coming in increased numbers this year from Boston, New York, Philadelphia and other cities to this section. The mecca of these sportsmen is usually Milo Junction, where they distribute for Patten and Norcross.

When a man goes moose hunting up here he needs to leave civilization far in the distance, for the king of Maine game animals, the moose, dislikes very much the smell of gunpowder. Of course the woods are dotted with comfortable camps near civilization, but those where the moose hunter must go are lodges in the deep woods, far from Broadway's bustle and confusion. Many sportsmen coming to Maine labor under the impression that the game is tied up to trees, waiting to be shot. After they come down and find they have got to walk from 30 to 50 miles to get a head they then commence to understand something about big game hunting in Maine. For the man who expects to shoot his moose from the cabin door, the long chase will be a taste of purgatory, but to the man thoroughly in earnest the trail is one filled with fresh excitement every moment.

The following party came on Saturday morning's train: C. J. Wiggin, general baggage agent of the Boston & Maine railroad; John Hunnewell, W. C. Hobart and Frank Delano, all of Boston, who were headed for Mr. Hunnewell's camp at Wilson pond, about six miles from Greenville.

These gentlemen have visited the region in company for several years and are thoroughly in love with their fall outing in the woods. None of the party care to go far enough back to seek moose, but nearly every one manages to bring down a couple of bucks during the time of their vacation. This year they have invited several Boston friends to spend a few days with them and the fame of the camp thus promises to become as general in Boston as it is now in the vicinity of Greenville.

Among the recent successful nonresidents at deer shooting are E. T. Reynolds and E. E. Winkley of Lynn; C. B. Prescott of Newton; A. D. Schofield and E. L. Baldwin of Boston; E. W. Loew of Nanuet, N. Y.; F. J. Saxton of North Easton; J. D. Picksley of Brooklyn, N. Y.; G. C. Hope of Woonsocket, R. I.

The favored residents were P. H. Hanson of Newport; George Robinson and H. G. Morse of Belfast; B. H. Voller of Guilford; Anthony Burton of Old Town; George D. Crane and Dr. H. E. Snow of Bucksport; H. S. Davidson of Waterville; F. A. Tenney of Hallowell and John Batchelder of Oakfield.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Tozier of Portland were fortunate in securing two deer each along the west branch of the Penobscot the latter part of last week.

The weather for the moose opening promises to be superb. Recent rains have improved the opportunities for still hunting and deer and moose will not be frightened by the rustle of the underbrush. Seven fine bucks went out from Bingham over the Somerset railway Saturday.

Kingfield Sporting Notes.

[Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.]

KINGFIELD, Oct. 16, 1905.

Willis Stanley and Arthur Woodcock were lucky hunters last Thursday evening, as they got a good, big deer.

A singular happening occurred in town one day recently, when a big, fat partridge flew into Alton Wilbur's hen yard. Mr. Wilbur succeeded in capturing the bird and now has it in captivity.

Speaking of an item which appeared some months ago in which an account was given of partridges fighting the Bangor & Aroostook train on the Patten branch, Mr. Ed Adams said that while on the section he had many times found partridges lying dead beside the track. He explained it by saying that probably the birds attempted to fly across the track just as the train came along and collided, which resulted disastrously to the bird.—Millinocket Journal.

NEW ENGLAND FOX HUNTING CLUB.

For Improvement of the Fox Hound, Sport and Good Fellowship.

MAINE WOODS has received the following circular:

The Brunswick Fox Hound club is now a recognized hunt club and believing there are many not in sympathy with their style of hunting and the southern strain of foxhound, we propose to form a new club.

We trust many old members of the once Brunswick Fur club will give this organization their support.

The object of the first meeting of the new club is to discuss the best methods of managing a real New England Fox Hunting club, the minimum expense of running it, etc.

Owing to the game laws in Maine and New Hampshire, requiring nonresident hunters to take out a license to hunt any wild animal in those states, we are obliged to confine our meets to Massachusetts for the present at least.

The first meeting of the new club will be held at the Bedford House, Bedford, Mass., Nov. 6 to 11, 1905. The rate for board will be $1.50 per day.

Foxes are plenty and the country around there is adapted to our style of fox hunting. Bedford, Mass., is situated on a branch of the southern division of the Boston & Maine railroad dating from historic Concord and Lexington.

A suitable place has been provided for hounds. Attend this meet and bring your hounds.

Kindly reply if you can attend, to R. D. Perry, Brunswick, Me., or W. B. Stone, Waltham, Mass.

Camp and Hotel Printing.

There is nothing like arranging for your printing early. The season of 1906 will be on before we realize it and we can't make a mistake by getting an idea of how to lay out next season's printing. Special prices and special arrangements for camp and hotel printing. We know what you need for cuts. J. W. BRACKETT Co.,

MAINE WOODS, Phillips, Me.

DEAD RIVER POND.

BEAUTIFUL SET OF CAMPS LOCATED ON THIS BODY OF WATER.

Dr. J. R. Kittredge and John G. Coburn

Lease the Camps and Will Open Them

Next Spring.

The camps at Dead River pond Rangeley have been leased by Dr. J. R. Kittredge of Farmington and John G. Coburn of Lewiston.

These camps are located on a beautiful sheet of water in a region where the fishing and hunting is good.

The improvements that will be made this fall include the construction of a new buckboard road from Dead River station on the line of the Phillips & Rangeley railroad to the camps, a distance of a mile and a quarter. The camps will also be thoroughly renovated and one of the best places for fishing, hunting or general recreation is expected to materialize under the able direction of Messrs. Kittredge and Coburn.

Mr. Coburn is a very popular man with sportsmen and wherever a fly is cast there you will find, sooner or later, genial Dr. Kittredge. He is an enthusiastic disciple of Isaac Walton and can recall many exciting experiences with the finny tribe in the inland waters of Maine.

These camps were leased of E. B. Whorff, who has conducted them successfully for some years. Mr. Whorff has not made public his plans for the future.

Later we may give more definite information regarding these popular camps through the medium of our advertising columns.

TRADE NOTES.

U. M. C. Reports.

Mr. Frank Snow and Mr. Bert Call tied for the first amateur average at Kendallville, Ind., Sept. 12 and 13, with a score of 374-400. Both are strong advocates of U. M. C. shot shells and used them in making the above scores. Mr. Call has shot at over 3,000 targets this year and has an average of about 91 per cent, using U. M. C. Nitro Club shells exclusively.

At the Iceberg Gun Club shoot, Beardstown, Ill., Sept. 13, Mr. Barton Lewis scored 374 out of a possible 400, using U. M. C. Arrow and Nitro Club shells. Mr. Frank Riehl was the second high man, scoring 363-400 with Arrow shells. Mr. Lewis has the honor of beating one of the most consistent professional shooters in the business.

At the Morristown, N. J. shoot, Sept. 28 there was some little confusion, owing to the club house catching on fire. The scores were a little mixed. However, the finals showed that Mr. Frank Butler won high professional average, shooting U. M. C. Arrow shells, and Mr. F. W. Moffatt won high amateur average, using U. M. C. Nitro Club shells. This was one of a series of shoots given by the New Jersey league.

At Richmond, Va., on Sept. 9, Mr. Walter Huff scored 99 out of a possible 100, with Col. Anthony a close second, with 96. Both used U. M. C. Arrow shells.

At Petersburg, Sept. 11, Mr. Huff broke 49 out of 50, while Col. Anthony broke 46 out of 50, using the same load—U. M. C. Arrow shells.

At Toledo, O., Sept. 8, at the grounds of the Little Home Talent Gun club, the three high men were as follows: Mr. George Volk, 92-100; Mr. F. E. Foltz, 89-100 and Mr. LeRoy C. Burton, 88-100. All used U. M. C. shells. These scores are exceptionally good for amateurs under hard conditions.

Mr. C. W. Budd shot in his old time form in Cincinnati, winning the high professional average by a score of 545-600, from the 20 yard mark. Mr. Budd used his regular U. M. C. load.

On the grounds of the Crescent Gun club, Chicago, Sept. 16, Mr. W. D. Stannard was high man, breaking 97-100, using Nitro Club shells.

At the Forest Gun club, Sept. 15, Mr. Frank Snow broke 171-180, using as usual, U. M. C. shells. This figures 95 per cent.

H. H. Stevens was one target behind the high gun for the high average at the Kane, Pa., tournament, Sept. 14 and 15. Mr. Stevens score was 342-360 (96 per cent.) He used U. M. C. Nitro Club shells.

Mr. W. H. Heer had little trouble in winning the Detroit, Mich. tournament, Sept. 7 and 8. His score was 379-400. Mr. Heer used U. M. C. Arrow shells.

Mr. T. E. Hubby was suffering during the early part of the summer from a severe attack of malaria. He began shooting again at McGregor, Texas, Aug. 10. Up to Sept. 4 he had shot at 1,255 targets, breaking 1,213—a score of 96.23 per cent. It seems almost remarkable that Mr. Hubby could do such phenomenal shooting so soon after a serious illness. Of course he always uses U. M. C. Arrow shells, regular factory load.

Mr. R. O. Heikes, who has been making the Pacific Coast tour in conjunction with his fellow snooter, Mr.

Tom A. Marshall and other well-known professionals, has been shooting at breakneck speed in spite of long jumps and continuous travel. Out of 900 targets his percentage is 96.3 per cent. Mr. Heikes used U. M. C. Arrow shells which he had used for years.

J. A. Marks, the well-known sporting goods dealer of Detroit, recently won a valuable Live Bird trophy killing 52 out of 60 birds from 33 and 34 yards in a series of four shoots. He shot U. M. C. Arrow shells. Mr. Marks is open to congratulations on this high amateur score.

"3 In One."

A significant but not a remarkable fact was developed at the recent meeting of riflemen at Sea Girt. The best shots in the country were there. Also the best guns. All the leading makes of firearms were liberally represented among the riflemen, each man having his own preferences and reasons for certain makes of guns. But every single participant or rifleman present was agreed on the fact "3 in One" oil was the first, the best, and the only gun oil on the market. There was no diversity of opinion on this score. They all used "3 in One," because it lubricates every delicate action point in any gun just right. It keeps all the wood and metal surfaces in first-class condition; prevents rust and cleans out the residue of burnt and smokeless powder.

"3 in One" penetrates the pores of the metal thus preserving and protecting the fire arm. Heavy oils and inferior oils have no penetrating qualities, so only grease the outside. "3 in One" is free from grease, acid or any injurious ingredient. A gun should be perfectly dry when "3 in One" is applied, for never in the history of mankind has oil and water mixed.

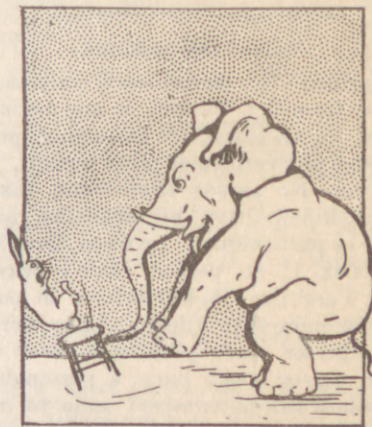

"3 in One" has always been manufactured by the G. W. Cole company, 141 Broadway, New York City, and they make no other oil and only one quality of "3 in One" the best. They report increase in the use of "3 in One" among all owners of guns. All leading gun manufacturers endorse and use "3 in One" some packing a sample with every gun sent out. For instance, Harrington & Richardson Arms Co., Browning Brothers Co., Parker Bros., Ithaca Gun Company, Hunter Arms Co., LeFever Arms company, Hollenbeck Gun Co., Marble Safety Axe Co., D. M. LeFever Sons & Co., N. R. Davis & Sons, Union Fire Arms Co.

A generous sample of "3 in One" will be sent free to any gun owner addressing G. W. Cole company, 141 Broadway, New York City. A generous quantity of samples will be furnished to gun clubs for the use of members, upon application.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

HOW THE RABBIT "GOT EVEN"

Old Tip, the elephant, was a practical joker. He was born with a funny streak in him somewhere that led him to look on the funny side of life and see a joke in even the most solemn matters. Moreover, he was forever playing jokes upon the other animals. Now, Tip's great size was not helpful to his playful bent, for when he tried to joke with the smaller animals he was at times a little rough, and that used to make them mad. However, most of them took it all good naturedly and laughed with him. It's always the best way, as you shall see. One day old man Rabbit was sitting on a stool combing down his sleeky fur and sunning himself, when old Tip stole softly up behind him and suddenly

PULLED THE STOOL OUT FROM UNDER HIM. Mr. Rabbit fell all in a heap on the floor—not hurt, but very indignant. "You're no gentleman," said he angrily.

"He, he, he! Haw, haw, haw!" laughed Tip.

"I say you're no gentleman. That's a low down trick, and I'll get even for this."

"Oh, don't get mad," said the joker. "No harm done; I only meant it for a joke."

But Mr. Rabbit went off vowing vengeance.

Next day Tip was sitting on a tub when Mr. Rabbit came up and gave it a tremendous shove. But, alas for revenge. It seldom pays, for the tub rolled away, and Tip sat down, bang! slap! on Mr. Rabbit. "He never smiled again."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
