CLARION QUALITY MEANS ECONOMY

Economy in fuel, which is important, but also economy in attention, which is imperative. Very few housewives have time to bother with a poor cooking range even if they do not have to consider the food it spoils and the fuel it wastes. Better start right and be sure of right results with the bake-oven of a Clarion. See the CLARION agent, or write us.

"Wear your learning like your watch, in your private pocket, and do not pull it out merely to show that you have one. If you are asked what o'clock it is, tell it, but do not proclaim it hourly and unasked like the watchman."

A vigorous effort will be made to bring the National Forest Reservation in the White Mountains before Congress this winter.

The police commissioners of the city of New York have asked that 1000 additional officers be added to the police force. Burglaries are increasing there with startling rapidity.

Charles J. Gilden, who drove a motor car across the Arctic circle, is now on his way to the Antipodes, and will endeavor to drive to the most southerly point yet reached by a motor car.

The amount necessary for the proposed memorial to the late Patrick A. Collins, mayor of Boston, has already been pledged. Boston's executive was held in such high regard that the pledges came spontaneously.

William R. Hearst the Municipal Ownership League candidate for mayor of New York declined to accept a challenge of William M. Ives, the Republican nominee, to appear in a joint debate on campaign issues. Mayor McClellan, the Democratic candidate, also fought shy of the proposition.

Japan is building five immense battleships, having a total displacement of more than $8,000,000. Two, which have just been contracted for in England, will weigh 19,000 tons each, being the heaviest and largest fighting ships yet planned. Japan is also having built two great armored cruisers, each of 12,500 tons displacement.

Russia now has about 450,000 soldiers in the far East and only 150,000 of them are to be sent back to Russia at once. It is feared that if the entire army were sent home it would rise, at the first favorable opportunity, and overthrow the government. The Russian prisoners in Japan are to be sent back to their regiments as they have been taught too much by the Japanese to be safe to turn loose in Russia.

A striking demonstration of the growth of the telephone business is the vote of the stockholders of the big telephone company in New York city to increase its capital stock to $50,000,000. The total is now $15,000,000. Thus the amount of money which will find investment in the telephones of New York city will soon exceed the capitalization of the telephone companies of the whole country fifteen years ago.

Telling in Installments How He Traveled Many Miles and Visited Many States in Order to be With the Nat'l Editorial Association.

[21st Letter.]

We are now on the home stretch, rushing due east for the Red Letter state, Colorado. A state whose marvelous wealth, high mountains and rapid rivers, wide uplands and fertile valleys, is only equalled by her products of silver and gold, her mines of coal and iron. The Denver and Rio Grande railroad is the road which reveals this beauty of scenery and reaches the proud cities of Pueblo and Denver built on the wealth of gold and silver, coal and iron, and share with Colorado Springs the constant and increasing crowd of tourists.

We have crossed the Green river in Utah with its rushing waters and grassy banks, racing with turbulent vigor for the Grand Canyon in Arizona. Six years ago we had spanned this river, way north in Wyoming, and one year ago had looked in silent awe down the chasm of the Grand Canyon and since carried in memory a vision of beauty, power and mystery which the world can nowhere else duplicate or reproduce.

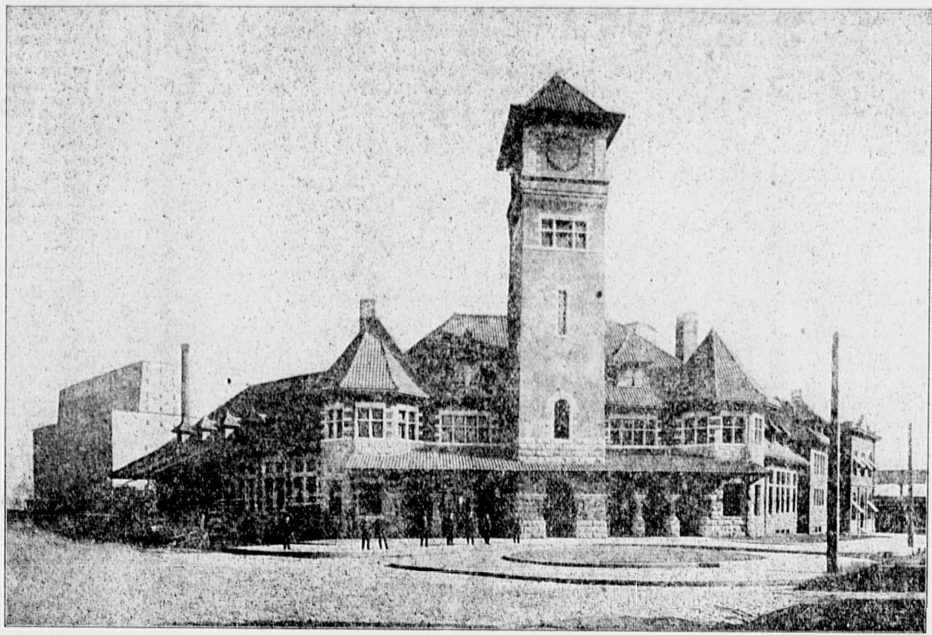

We enter Colorado, and at Grand Junction begin a race for the heights of grandeur where the Grand river has its birth. Side by side we race and run, we are pulling up, while the river with rush and roar, would pull us down. We pause a moment at Rifle, a singular name for a town, which will exist in history as the place where Roosevelt started north for Bear river on his last hunt for wild beasts. His description of that hunt includes a description of the song and small birds of the valleys as delightful as the rest was strenuous.

At Glenwood we breakfast, and admire the big hotel with its hot springs and wide outlook. Here we cross the Grand river, for it turns northward while we, lamenting its dancing waters, commence a hard pull for Tennessee pass, at which point our panting engines at the height of 10,240 feet stop to recover their breath. Soon we meet the Arkansas river jubilant and rejoicing. Rivers, we find, are mountains, we admire. Hand in hand we run for Leadville whose marvelous production of silver almost changed the complexion of our monetary system. Now with mountains piling higher, and with river rushing wilder, for miles and miles we run and race, and open our eyes wider and wider, as we glance the clouds, each a score of hundred dizzy feet in height, rising perpendicularly from the water and the track, splintered atop into airy pinnacles, backed behind against the almost continental mass through which the chasm has been cleft. This is the Royal Gorge.

"Oh! the crashing and the groaning,
And the deep and awful shudder
As that great red belt was parted and the mountains crash in twain!
And the Arkansas came roaring,
Raging with its dreadful thunder—
Sweeping through the mighty chasm dashing madly toward the main."
Before you have time to recover your poise of mind the mountains are be-heaven on Pike's Peak than you are from the top of Mt. Washington. The air is clear and no wish remains to see any further than you do see.

On we go to Denver. We are feasted by the Board of Trade at one of the largest hotels and talked to by the officials and then taken through its various streets to see its delightful dwellings and mammoth structures, and out on the heights have a magnificent panorama of distant mountains. It is a clean, attractive city and well known to many of our own citizens. We will refer to two events. Our attention was attracted to the grounds, tents and buildings of the Agnes Phipps san-tracks, and filling in the lake beyond and thus forming a new lake shore. It is a very expensive effort but by so doing she has rescued her outlook over the lake in part.

We leave the city by the Grand Trunk line. This railroad is a home line in this, that while the Maine Central with its owner, the Boston and Maine tends to carry everything out of Maine, the Grand Trunk brings most everything into the state of Maine, and from Portland, ships it across the ocean. This road is now building a continental track diagonally across the Dominion of Canada to the southern point of Alaska and her tonnage from hind you and a broad plain presents itself. A wide street crosses the track and we see a stone fountain from whence gushes water, and recognize the mineral spring in Canon City, whose tarium, in one of whose tents was Fred Davies of our own city. We did not know the fact till too late or we should have called on the dear fellow. We did have a pleasant call on Miss Annie from side to side, or look up to the pinnacles overhead and down to our running mate, white with dust, till the iron engine slows in astonishment. Sur-waters we had drank while a guest of Lieut. Coleman, formerly of Lincolnville, a year ago. On we go down the valley of the Arkansas extending wider and wider on either side, with Pike's Peak dominating the northern horizon till we reach Pueblo, the iron and steel city of the great red state, destined to be the leading city of that whole section of the country.

In its borders it holds a building called the Mineral Palace, which is an indication of its mineral wealth. It is situated at the junction of the Arkansas and Fountain River valleys. We turn north up the Fountain Valley and in the morning are at Colorado City and have a day for Pike's Peak and the Garden of the Gods. A red letter day but we cannot pause to describe it. You are about three times nearer these vast wheat lands will come to Portland as its natural outlet.

This road goes through many miles of our own land and furnishes the choice route to Chicago and western points. There is no more quaint and delightful city to visit than Montreal; no cleaner and more attractive one can be found than Toronto. Canada and Maine are mixed together geographically, and her French population form the large element of more than three of her foremost cities, and as far as mutual favor and mutual interests are concerned every citizen should patronize that road when it becomes convenient or a matter of choice. Our last view of the Dominion of Canada was from the head of Mount Royal, with the city near at hand, the broad St. Lawrence rolling to the Gulf, the delightful plains towards Lake Champlain, and the White and Green mountains bowing to each other. With this vision and pledge, we leave our cousin of the snowy north and are borne through green fields and white-housed villages of Maine, by busy mills with waiting waters to turn their wheels and come to the plains of Yarmouth and look to the terminal depot of this Grand Road in the limits of our own Portland. Thence to Brunswick and to Bath, and via the Knox & Lincoln with its ever fresh surprises in pictures of water and of wood, and we see Penobscot bay beyond the Rockland Breakwater.

This is the end.
Our enjoyment of all these many miles of home land, the land we love, has been full and deep; if any of our readers have found pleasure in their perusal, our joy is full.

Things That Never Die.

The pure, the bright, the beautiful,
That stirred our hearts in youth,
The impulses to worthless prayer,
The stream of love and truth;
The longings after something lost,
The spirit's yearning cry:
These things can never die.
The timid hand stretched forth to aid
A brother in his need,
A kindly word in grief's dark hour,
That proves a friend indeed;
A tear for sorrow softly breathed,
When justice threatens high;
The sorrow of a contrite heart—
These things shall never die.
Let nothing pass, for every hand
Must find some work to do;
Lest not a chance to waken love—
Be firm and just and true;
So shall a light that cannot fade
Burn on thee from on high.
And angel voices say to thee—
"These things shall never die."

Is there anyone left in Androscoggin county who is yet to be convinced that the Sturgis commission was a mere figment? If so that obstinate person should spend a day or a night in a perusal of the criminal docket, as it stands revised at the close of the supreme court term. One hundred and fifty-one liquor cases were disposed of, and the grand total of fines was $12,208. Sixteen rumrunners are now in the Androscoggin county jail, and 34 others might have been there had they not skipped town before they could be placed in custody. "The best part of this," says the Lewiston Journal, "is the fact that most of the rumrunners jailed were prominent ones, the kid-gloved fellows who eat sirloin steak, and usually let their bar-keepers go to jail." The Sturgis law has probably lost its sense of humor for such as these.

The comparison of liquor agency sales made in the September of 1904 and 1905, and the comparison of arrests for the same months, made in our issue of last Tuesday excited considerable comment, which would have been even more favorable for the agency had the correct amount of the September 1904 sales been given to us. It was stated in our Tuesday issue as $225, whereas the total amount was only $161. Agent Clark regards as even more significant the issues relating to pauper supplies. In September 1904, with Agency sales amounting to $161, and the saloons running wide open, 59 pauper orders were issued. In September 1905, with agency sales amounting to $225, and the saloons practically all closed, only 44 pauper orders were issued. Our readers may draw their own conclusions.

Col. William A. Gaston, Massachusetts member of the Democratic national committee and twice the party's candidate for governor of Massachusetts, announces that at the close of the present state campaign he intends to retire from active participation in political life. Col. Gaston has never been in harmony with a certain wing of the Democratic party, but the fact is indisputable that he has been a strong factor of the Bay State Democracy.

The South's welcome for President Roosevelt is fully as cordial as he has ever received while traveling in the East, North or West. He is the President of the whole country.

A CORRECTION.
In G. F. Alexander & Co.'s advertisement on the eighth page occurs a serious typographical mistake. In the paragraph "Do you want any German-American?" the type reads "would you pay $5 for 100 shares etc." The correct reading should be "would you pay $15 for 100 shares etc." This mistake of $10 a share has made matters very unpleasant for Messrs. Alexander & Co. The whole trouble was caused by the figure 1 pulling out. When the forms went to press the 1 was there, but in the process of printing was pulled out. We repeat the advertisement as it should be on this page and hope people will be charitable enough to not hold G. F. Alexander & Co. responsible for error.

He reports fine business, especially at Brockton, where he had a number of big attractions. His Lynn theatre, the Gem, which was opened some four weeks ago, has started off with large business, and notwithstanding the pleasant weather, which cuts off attendance at day shows, the Nickleodeon and Walker's Museum, in this city, report heavy patronage. At the former place of amusement the leading feature is a woman with a most incomprehensible appetite for hardware, who swallows swords, devours butcher knives and other kinds of cutlery, while there is a most excellent stage show. At Walker's Museum, Herman, the Coney Island life saver with his six life saving dogs, a skeleton contortionist, and an entertaining stage program are the features.

SOMNOFORME.

The Quickest, Most Simple and Safest of All Anesthetics.

Scientists are continually making discoveries that are of incalculable value to the general public. Who is there who does not dread the dental chair or the operating table?

The average person will suffer long and severely before allowing himself to be put to sleep for an operation by inhaling gas, ether or other anesthetics, even when he has confidence in the operator. The after effects are uncomfortable and there is quite an element of danger.

There is no longer any need of dread, for Somnoforme is here, having just made its appearance in this country, although it has been in use in Europe for several years.

Somnoforme is the invention of Dr. G. Rolland, late House Surgeon to the Paris Municipal Hospitals, Professor of Anesthetics and Dean of the Bordeaux Dental School and Hospital.

Dr. Rolland realized the need of an anesthesia, which, when properly administered, would present practically no danger, and which would be followed by quick return to consciousness without any anterior or troublesome after effects.

He began his researches and experiments solely for the benefit of his school, not anticipating that the result of his years of long and tedious effort would have such far reaching influence as has already attended the introduction of Somnoforme to the medical and dental professions. Somnoforme is composed of chloride of ethyl 60 per cent, chloride of methyl 35 per cent and bromide of ethyl 5 per cent. All these constituents are all more or less known anesthetic agents. To blend three well known drugs into one mixture from which the respective advantages of each one could be obtained and corresponding effect produced without having the inconveniences and the same degree of danger of the individual drugs was the problem which Dr. Rolland solved.

A long series of experiments made by Dr. Rolland show that the minimum of danger occurs in the administration of Somnoforme, which, during a short anesthesia, causes sleep without acting on the cerebral covering. It has also been proven conclusively that it does not act primarily on the cerebellum and secondarily on the cerebrum.

With Somnoforme complete anesthesia is obtained in less than half the time as with nitrous oxide gas, and an available time for the operation three times as long is obtained. The patient regains consciousness and control of himself very quickly and expresses satisfaction and wonder at the slight discomfort involved in the operation. The quiet anesthesia produced by Somnoforme is distinctly marked; indeed the complete absence of respiratory trouble is quite remarkable. This wonderful property is due to the fact that children without any dread of bad effects.

Somnoforme is administered by the Somnoforme Inhaler, a simple but wonderful invention. It has been tested in every conceivable manner, and can, without reservation, be recommended as absolutely perfect both from scientific and aseptic points of view.

Somnoforme is especially advantageous for dental surgery. Its great efficiency in short anesthesia recommends it as the ideal anesthetic for dental operations. It has a remarkable record, the number of times it has already been used being considerably over 1,500,000. The only dentist to use Somnoforme in this city is Dr. J. H. Damon, who early saw its value and its advantages. In the short time he has had it he has used it on nearly 500 patients, and has met with perfect success in every case. It is by thus showing up-to-date-ness and a desire to lead that Dr. Damon has built up an enviable practice and whose name is a household word in these counties.

Somnoforme is used by the following widely known hospitals in England: The Royal Hospital for Sick Children, Glasgow.

Guys Hospital, London.

Royal Berkshire Hospital, Reading.

Victoria Hospital for Sick Children, Chelsea.

Eugene R. Bowler Now at Head of Grand Encampment—Odd Fellows Hold Session in Portland.

The Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows convened in Portland Wednesday. The report of Grand Secretary Dyer showed that there were 146 lodges in the state with a total membership of 22,680. The average gain of 474. There were 1087 initiations and 330 deaths during the year. Knox Lodge of Rockland admitted 21 members and was in the front rank of lodges which made big gains. The lodge in Newport made the largest gain—39 admissions. The sum of $80,482 paid for relief, was $5000 greater than the previous year, and with the exception of 1892 the largest ever paid in this jurisdiction.

The annual meeting of the Grand Encampment was held Wednesday night. There are now 52 encampments with a membership of 4,746. Eugene R. Bowler of Rockland was elected Grand Patriarch, which is the head office of the Grand Encampment. Among his appointments is that of John Colson of Rockland as Grand Marshal.

Mr. Bowler is a native of Waldo county, having been born at Palermo in 1853. When he was but one year old his parents moved to Rockland, where the family has since resided. Mr. Bowler is a graduate of the Rockland high school and Gaskill commercial college of Manchester, N. H. He also attended the E. M. seminary at Bucksport. For a number of years he was associated with his father in the grocery business and in the manufacture of lime. Mr. Bowler is a member of Knox Lodge, No. 23, Rockland encampment, No. 36, Miriam Rebekah lodge, No. 33 and Canton Lafayette, all of Rockland. Mr. Bowler became a member of the grand encampment Oct. 17, 1900, consequently his advancement has been very rapid. Mr. Bowler is a man excellently qualified for his position and his administration will no doubt be successful.

The Rebekah Assembly convened Tuesday. The president's report noted a gain of six new lodges, making a total of 118 at present. There has been a net increase of 766 in the membership during the year, making the present total 17,411. Mrs. Annie K. Adams of Belfast was elected president for the ensuing year. Mrs. Lena Burkett of Union was appointed inside guardian.

FAITH NOT NECESSARY.

You may be just as skeptical and pessimistic as you please. Kodol will digest what you eat whether you eat or not. You can put your food in a bowl, pour a little Kodol Dyspepsia Cure on it and it will digest it the same as it will in your stomach. It is curing hundreds and thousands—some had faith and some didn't. Kodol will cure you if medicine can cure you, whether you have faith in it or not. Mrs. J. P. Bailey, Waikiki, says: "I am 31 years old. Several years I suffered extremely with indigestion and dyspepsia. My grandson, A. Bailey, Jr., a merchant at Alhambra, Va., sent me a bottle of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. The doctor ought to know of the supreme benefits an aged sufferer has received from this great medicine. It entirely cured me and can eat all food." Sold by W. H. Kittredge.

Offer to Refund Money if Hymel Does Not Cure Cataract.

To the Editor of The Courier-Gazette:

I have been asked recently if the advertisements printed in your columns regarding Hymel were true, where I offered to refund the money if this treatment does not cure cataract. I wish you would please print this letter in as conspicuous a place as possible in your paper, saying that we absolutely agree to refund the money to any purchaser of a Hymel outfit if it does not cure cataract.

This outfit consists of an inhaler of a convenient size to be carried in the vest pocket so that the user can breathe Hymel four or five times daily. With this is included a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hymel. The outfit sells for $1 and is a most economical treatment for the inhaler lasts a lifetime and there is enough Hymel for several weeks' use, while extra bottles can be obtained for 10 cents.

I trust this letter will settle any doubts that may have arisen as to my willingness to refund the money for a Hymel outfit, in case the purchaser is not perfectly satisfied.

Respectfully yours,
C. H. Pendleton, Druggist and optician and W. H. Kittredge.

THOMASTON
G. I. Robinson Drug Co., the enterprising druggists, have just received a large stock of Hymel, the guaranteed cure for cataract. With every outfit they give a signed guarantee to refund the money if Hymel does not benefit. This is the famous inhalation treatment that cures cataract without stomach dosing and is the only guaranteed cure for the disease.

The ushers' hop at Glen Cove Wednesday night was attended by about 40 couples, and was a successful affair in every way except the financial end. Hereafter the ushers will probably have their dances in Rockland.

The despatches of wrestling will have an opportunity to witness some first class sport in Armory hall, Wednesday evening, Oct. 25. The principal match will be between Joe Cousins of Lowell, Mass., and Herman Lisok of Rockland. Cousins is known as the "Greek Wonder," but it remains to be seen if he is wonderful enough to trim the athletic Lisok. There will also be a match between Frank Blackington of Rockland, who is locally noted as a man of muscle, and Benner, the Thomaston wrestler. The affair is under the management of Mr. Lisok, who has made an excellent reputation in local sporting circles both on account of his ability and his gentlemanly demeanor toward everybody. He deserves a good house.

Dr. Harry Richards of the Damon dental parlors met with a very painful accident Thursday forenoon. While the intention of bathing one of his eyes which had troubled him, he reached for a bottle supposed to contain witch hazel. The moment he applied the liquid he experienced a frightful burning sensation and it was found that he had poured the acid contents of a bottle of acid which had stood on the shelf beside the witch hazel bottle and resembled the latter. Dr. Damon relieved the pain by applying olive oil and Dr. Richards was taken to the office of Dr. Gribbin, the eye specialist. It is thought that the sight of the eye will not be lost, thanks to prompt treatment. Dr. Richards' forehead was lacerated by the acid, and the effects of the mistake are to be seen on the office floor where the bottle of acid was dropped.

S. Osgood Andros came east again this week on matters pertaining to the settlement of his father's estate.

The ladies of the Methodist church are planning to hold a big fair in their newly modeled vestry early in December.

The Lisok-Cousins wrestling match in Armory hall next Wednesday night will be refereed by Dr. G. L. Crockett of Thomaston. The match will be best two in three.

Thursday was a genuine summer day, with weather so warm that straw hats would have been apropos. We can't help throwing bouquets at such a well-behaved month as October has proven.

S. A. McTaggart, who comes from Dover and Foxcroft to succeed Cashier Langworthy at the Maine Central depot, will occupy the Singhi cottage on Broadway recently vacated by E. S. Levensaler.

The men from the warships who were here last summer appear to have been armed with Cupid's bows. At least four engagements have been announced since the fleet left, and it's hard to tell how many more are in prospect.

The members of Knox Lodge of Odd Fellows who plan to make the trip to Appleton Saturday night are requested to notify Frank B. Miller or John Colson as early as possible. The party will leave the hall Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Arthur Sullivan left Thursday for Pittsburg, where he has a position as front clerk in the Pitt hotel. He has agreed to give The Courier-Gazette one of his bright and snappy letters as soon as he has become accustomed to the Smoky City.

The city has received from W. S. White an offer of $1500 for the rock crushing plant on Limerock street and a special meeting of the municipal officers will be held next Monday night to discuss the proposition. The original cost of the plant was $2500.

Irvine E. Gamage, who recently sold out his hotel business in Augusta, is moving his household goods to this city, where his wife will spend the winter and which he will visit at frequent intervals. Eventually he is to be engaged in the hotel business in Connecticut.

Manager Crockett of the Farwell opera house announces "Buster Brown" coming to the city for Wednesday, Oct. 25, and this means a record breaking business, as all the boys and girls, both young and old have their hearts set on seeing this funny comedy which Melville B. Raymond will present on the above mentioned date.

R. Fred Crie, who recently returned from New Harbor acted as government inspector of the house dove for the W. H. Glover Co. Coming into the Glover wharf she ran aground, and at low tide listed so badly that she filled next tide. A bridge from the schooner to the Rockwell wharf was constructed, and the deckload was being discharged Thursday. It was expected that the craft would eventually be floated with but slight damage.

The Farwell tenement on Lindsey street, occupied by John W. Ishister, machinist, was badly damaged by fire shortly after midnight Wednesday. The fire was well in progress when the occupants of the house awoke to their danger, and is supposed to have originated from the chimney. Mr. Ishister's furniture, valued about $1000, was practically a total loss, and he was unfortunately unable to have an insurance. The loss on the tenement was covered.

Melville B. Raymond, who will present the cartoon comedy, "Buster Brown" in this city at the Farwell opera house next Wednesday, Oct. 25, says, there is possibly no boy or girl in the whole world, who has not heard of my great "Buster Brown" sixteen page, funny, illustrated picture book in four colors, such a book as is usually sold in stores for ten to twenty-five cents each. But instead of selling them to anyone, he has with his accustomed kindness issued strict orders to Mr. Davidson his advance representative, that, every boy or girl who will present themselves at the box office between the hours of 3 and 5 Tuesday, shall have one free of charge, as long as the shipment sent to this city holds out. The rule is, those who get in line first, will be the ones to be served first. Many a little one is sure to thank Mr. Raymond for their whole heart and soul for thus making them happy.

Spear & Co., 408 Main street, now have the Gillette Safety Razor, which is so extensively advertised. A new idea in Razors.

The date of the annual masked ball in Penobscot View Grange hall has been decided on as Monday, Oct. 20.

The residence of Mrs. J. P. Bradbury on Warren street, and the residence of Mrs. E. L. Cox on Knox street are being painted.

Capt. Samuel Rogers is home for a few days while his vessel, the schooner Samuel B. Hubbard, loads stone at Stonington for New York.

The attractive front of the North bank block is a reliable index to the fine quarters which that concern is preparing to occupy within a few weeks.

The B. B. B. Club holds a fair at the residence of G. E. Blackington, Limerock street, Saturday afternoon. The proceeds of which will be devoted to sunshine. The various departments will be under the charge of the following: damsel, Aileen Rodd; candy, Lucia Burpee; cooked food, Dorothy Bird; fancy articles, Madeline Burrows; lunch table, Emily Webb and Ruth Blackington; grab bag, Lillian Russell.

A Rockland man who was in Portland this week made a call at the county jail upon F. A. Robinson, a former Rockland barber, who is confined there in connection with the Young scrape, the merits of which are to be judged by the grand jury. Robinson appeared to be nearly a physical wreck. Those who were acquainted with him said the circumstances of the stabbing affray speak well of Robinson, and express the opinion that the woman in the case will not appear against him.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. held Thursday afternoon the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Ralph W. Blackford; vice presidents, Baptist, Mrs. M. F. Judkins, Methodist, Mrs. Aaron Jones, Episcopalian, Mrs. W. Smith, Free Will Baptist, Mrs. Eva D. Snow; secretary, Mrs. A. D. Bird; treasurer, Miss Alzira Crie. The ladies also discussed measures for raising funds to help defray the expenses incurred for repairs to the building.

The granite which is to be used in the United States Senate Annex will be cut in Concord, N. H. The New England Granite Works' contract involves nearly a million and a half dollars. The Booth Bros. & Hurler Isle Granite Co. was the lowest bidder on granite, but the contract unfortunately does not come within Knox county's borders. G. H. Blethen, superintendent of the MacMullin Construction Co. at Mount Desert, is in New York on business this week.

Writing to subscribe for his "home paper," The Courier-Gazette, Carl S. Baker, sends some interesting news concerning the North Atlantic Coast Squadron. The Texas leaves New York, Nov. 1st for New York and will go in the dry dock there for two weeks. On the 15th of November the Texas leaves Charleston, S. C., where she stops until the last of March, arriving at Hampton Roads about the first of April. The coast squadron for the winter will consist of the battleship Texas (flagship), the monitors Arkansas, Nevada and Florida, and six torpedo boat destroyers. This fleet of 10 ships will be in the immediate vicinity of Charleston all winter. Mr. Baker hears from good authority that the coast squadron will rendezvous in Rockland again next season. Our readers hope that this welcome rumor will be officially confirmed.

There has been many inquiries concerning the support Knox county gave the Maine Music Festival. To relieve the minds of the anxious ones we will say that Mr. Thomas, who had charge in this section, turned over to Mr. Allen of Portland, who had charge of the ticket sale, the sum of $32.70, and received commission on this amount. Mr. Thomas sold 57 course tickets, exceeding Bath's (the home of Madam Emmet) sale by a dozen. The sum Mr. Thomas turned in did not represent the sale of tickets in this territory. Waldoboro sent 20 persons not represented in the sale. Vinalhaven had quite a number, as did Rockland, Thomaston, Warren, Camden, Rockport and other Knox county towns. These people either had friends buy their tickets for them or else bought them in Portland themselves. As near as Mr. Thomas can figure his territory turned in at least $475. Then quite a number from this section went to Bangor. When the distance from Knox county to Portland is taken into consideration, the cost of transportation, the inability to return from Portland the same day and the extra cost of hotel bills and other things we venture to say that this part of the state more than held its own with any other section of the state.

Brewster's Millions

Copyright, 1904, by Robert S. Stone & Company
By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEN
(RICHARD GRAVES)

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—A supper in honor of the twenty-fifth birthday of Montgomery Brewster, grandson and heir of Edwin Brewster, millionaire, is interrupted by the announcement of old Mr. Brewster's death.

CHAPTER II.—He is invited to dinner by Colonel Drew.

CHAPTER III.—Monty offers to aid Mrs. Gray and Peggy, his foster mother and foster sister. He receives a letter from Grant & Ripley, lawyers, telling him that the fortune of his uncle, James Sedgwick of Montana, has been left to him. Mr. Sedgwick Jones is executor of the Sedgwick will.

CHAPTER IV.—Brewster is informed that the Sedgwick fortune is left to him on condition that on his twenty-sixth birthday, Sept. 23 of the following year, he be absolutely penniless. The conditions forbid him to give away or to loan any money, but to get "his money's worth." The Sedgwick fortune amounts to more than $6,000,000.

CHAPTER V.—Brewster is forbidden to take anyone to society. He believes himself in love with Barbara Drew, daughter of Col. Drew. Mr. Jones, in Montana, states the conditions under which Monty is to dispose of the Brewster money. Brewster employs his friends to help him get rid of the million.

VII.—Brewster makes friends with Mrs. DeMiller, a society leader. He gives a magnificent dinner, after which the glass ceiling falls on the table, ruining it.

VIII.—Brewster whips a newspaper man who sneers at him and Miss Drew. Brewster asks Jones whether he may marry and turn the money over to his wife and is told to "stick to his knitting." Monty confides in Peggy concerning his love for Barbara.

IX.—Brewster bets on a prize fight, hoping to lose. He tells Miss Drew he loves her, but gets no decided reply. His prize fight wager is a heavy one.

X.—Brewster decides to invest in Lumber and Fuel, a falling stock; his purchase sends it up, and he makes $28,000.

Other men came up and listened eagerly. Brewster realized that his dash in Lumber and Fuel had been a master stroke of cleverness when considered from the point of view of these men, but a catastrophe from his own.

"I hope you sold it when it was at the top," said the colonel anxiously.

"I instructed Gardner to sell only when I gave the word," said Monty solemnly. Several of the men looked at him in surprise and disgust.

"Well, if I were you I'd tell him to sell," remarked the colonel coldly.

"The effect of your plan has worn off, Brewster, and the other side will drive the prices down. They won't be caught napping again either," said one of the bystanders earnestly.

"Do you think so?" And there was a note of relief in Monty's voice.

From all sides came the advice to sell at once, but Brewster was not to be pushed. He calmly lit a cigarette and with an assured air of wisdom told them to wait a little while and see.

"She's already falling off," said some one at the ticker.

When Brewster's bewildered eyes raced over the figures the stock was quoted at 112. His sigh of relief was heard, but misunderstood. He might be saved after all. The stock had started to go down, and there seemed no reason why it should stop. As he intended to purchase no more, it was fair to assume that the backwash was at the breaking point. The crash was bound to come. He could hardly restrain a cry of joy. Even while he stood at the ticker the little instrument began to tell of a further decline. As the price went down his hopes went up.

The bystanders were beginning to be disgusted. "It was only a fluke after all," they said to each other. Colonel Drew was appealed to urge Monty to save himself, and he was on the point of remonstrance when the message came that the threatened strike was off and all the men were willing to arbitrate. Almost before one could draw breath this startling news began to make itself felt. The certainty of a great strike was one of the things that had made Brewster sure that the price could not hold. With this danger removed there was nothing to jeopardize the earning power of the stock. The next quotation was a point higher.

"You sly dog!" said the colonel, digging Monty in the side. "I had confidence in you all the time."

In ten minutes' time Lumber and Fuel was again up to 113 and soaring. Brewster, panic-stricken, rushed to the telephone and called up Gardner.

The broker, hoarse with excitement, was delighted when he recognized Brewster's voice.

"You're a wonder, Monty! I'll see you after the close. How did you do it?" shouted Gardner.

"What's the price now?" asked Brewster.

"One thirteen and three-fourths and going up all the time! Hooley!"

"Do you think she'll go down again?" demanded Brewster.

"Not if I can help it."

"Very well, then, go and sell out!" roared Brewster.

"But she's going up like—"

"Sell, hang you! Didn't you hear?" Gardner, dazed and weak, began selling and finally liquidated the full line at prices ranging from 114 to 112½.

But Montgomery Brewster had elegantly and all because it was he and not the market that got excited.

CHAPTER XI.

It was not that he had realized heavily in his investments which caused his friends and his enemies to regard him in a new light. His profit had been quite small as things go on the exchange in these days. The mere fact that he had shown such foresight proved sufficient cause for the reversal of opinion. Men looked at him with new interest in their eyes, with fresh confidence. His unfortunate operations in the stock market had restored him to favor in all circles. The man, young or old, who could do what he had done with Lumber and Fuel well deserved the new promises that were being made for him.

Brewster bobbed uncertainly between two emotions, elation and distress. He had achieved two kinds of success, the desired and the undesired. It was but natural that he should feel proud of the distinction the venture had brought to him on one hand, but there was reason for despair over the acquisition of $50,000. It made it necessary for him to undertake an almost superhuman feat—increase the number of his January bills. The plans for the ensuing spring and summer were dimly getting into shape, and they covered many startling projects. Since confiding some of them to Nipper Harrison that gentleman had worn a never decreasing look of worry and anxiety in his eyes.

Rawles added to his despair a day or two after the Stock Exchange misfortune. He brought up the information that six splendid little puppies had come to bless his Boston terrier family, and Joe Bragdon, who was present, enthusiastically predicted that he could get $100 apiece for them. Brewster loved dogs, yet for one single horrible moment he longed to massacre the helpless little creatures. But the old affection came back to him, and he hurried out with Bragdon to inspect the brood.

"And I've either got to sell them or kill them," he groaned. Later on he instructed Bragdon to sell the pups for $25 apiece and went away, ashamed to look their proud mother in the face.

Fortune smiled on his before the day was over, however. He took Surway Smith for a ride in the "green juggernaut," bad weather and bad roads notwithstanding. Monty lost control of the machine and headed for a subway excavation. He and Smith saved themselves by leaping to the pavement, and dropped to the bottom of the trench for below. To Smith's great surprise, Brewster's delight the automobile was hopelessly ruined, a clear loss of many thousands. Monty's joy was short lived, for it was soon learned that these two less workmen down in the depths had been badly injured from the green meteor from above.

The mere fact that Brewster could and did pay liberally for the relief of the poor fellows afforded him little consolation. His carelessness and possibly his indifference had brought suffering to these men and their families, which was not pleasant to look back upon. Lawsuits were avoided by compromise. Each of the injured men received $4,000.

At this time every one was interested in the charity bazaar at the Astoria. Society was on exhibition, and the public paid for the privilege of gazing at the men and women whose names filled the society columns. Brewster frequented the booth presided over by Miss Drew, and there seemed to be no end to his philanthropy. The bazaar lasted two days and nights, and after that period his account book showed an even "profit" of nearly $3,000.

Monty's serenity, however, was considerably ruffled by the appearance of a new and aggressive claimant for the charity bazaar at the Astoria. Californian of immense wealth and unbending confidence in himself, and letters to people in New York had given him a certain entree. The triumphs in love and finance that had come with his two score years and ten had demolished every vestige of timidity that may have been born with him. He was successful enough in the world of finance to have become four or five times a millionaire, and he had fared so well in love that twice he had been a widower. Rodney Grimes was starting to win Barbara with the same dash and confidence that he had won Mary Farrell, the cook in the mining camp, and Jane Boothroyd, the school teacher, who came to California ready to marry the first man who asked her. He was a penniless prospector when he married Mary, and when he led Jane to the altar she rejoiced in having captured a husband worth at least $50,000.

He vied with Brewster in patronizing Barbara's booth, and he rushed into the conflict with an impetuosity that seemed destined to carry everything before him. Monty was brushed aside, and Barbara was presented as if she were a mining claim, and ten days after his arrival in New York Grimes was the most talked of man in town. Brewster was not the sort to be dispatched without a struggle, however. Recognizing Grimes as an obstacle, but not as a rival, he once more donned his armor and beset Barbara with all the zest of a champion who seeks to protect and not to conquer. He regarded the Californian as an impostor, and summary action was necessary. "I know all about him," he said one day after he felt sure of his position. "Why, his father was honored by the V. C. on the coast in '49."

"The Victoria cross?" asked Barbara innocently.

"No, the vigilance committee."

In this way Monty routed the enemy and cleared the field before the end of another week. Grimes transferred his objectionable affection, and Barbara was not even asked to be wife No. 3. Brewster's campaign was so ardent that he neglected other duties deplorably, falling far behind his improprietous average. With Grimes disposed of, he once more forsook the battlefield of love and gave his harassed and undivided attention to his own peculiar business.

The fast and loose game displeased Miss Barbara greatly. She was at first surprised, then piqued, then resentful. Monty gradually awoke to the distressing fact that she was going to be intractable as she put it, and forthwith undertook to smooth the troubled sea. To his amazement and concern, she was not to be appeased.

"Does it occur to you, Monty," she

THE CHANGE OF LIFE

INTELLIGENT WOMEN PREPARE

Dangers and Pains of This Critical Period Avoided by the Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women realize that the most critical period in a woman's existence is the change of life, and that the anxiety felt by women at this time draws near to it without reason?

If her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy or congestion of any organ, it is at this time likely to become active and, with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden.

At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to begin their destructive work. Such warning symptoms as a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, dizziness, headache, dreading of impending evil, sounds in the ears, timidity, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period of life when a woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the world's greatest remedy for women at this trying period, and may be relied upon to overcome all distressing symptoms and carry them safely through to a healthy and happy old age.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism, and builds up the weakened nervous system as no other medicine can.

Mrs. A. E. G. Hyland, of Chester-town, Md., in a letter to Mrs. Pinkham, says:

"I had been suffering with falling of the womb for years and was passing through the change of life. My womb was badly swollen. I had a good deal of nervousness, dizziness, headache, and was very nervous. I wrote you for a remedy, and I am happy to say that I feel better. I have passed safely through the change of life a woman."

For special advice regarding this important period, women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. It is free and always helpful.

said, with a gentle coldness that was infinitely worse than heat, "that you have been carrying things with a pretty high hand? Where did you acquire the right to interfere with my privileges? You seem to think that I am not to speak to any man but you."

"Oh, come, now, Barb," retorted Monty. "I've not been quite as unreasonable as that. And you know yourself that Grimes is the worst kind of a booby."

"I know nothing of the sort," replied the lady, with growing irritation. "You say that about every man who gives me a smile or a flower. Does it indicate such atrocious taste?"

"Don't be silly, Barbara. You know perfectly well what you are talking to me about. That idiot Valentine in the hour, and I've not said a word. But there are some things I can't stand, and the impertinence of Grimes is one of them. Jove! He looked at you out of those fishy eyes sometimes as though he owned you. If you knew how many times I've fairly ached to knock him down!"

Inwardly Barbara was weakening a little before his masterfulness. But she gave no sign.

"And it never occurred to you," she said, with that exasperating coldness of voice, "that I was equal to the situation. I suppose you thought Mr. Grimes had only to beckon and I would joyfully answer. I'll have you know, Monty Brewster, right now that I am quite able to choose my friends and to handle them. Mr. Grimes has chosen, and I like him. He has seen more of life in a year of his strenuous career than you ever dreamed of in all your pampered existence. His life has been real, Monty Brewster, and yours is only an imitation."

It struck him hard, but it left him gentle.

"He said softly, 'I can't take that from you. You don't really mean it, do you? Am I as bad as that?'"

It was a moment of dominance, and he missed it. His gentleness left her cold.

"Monty," she exclaimed irritably, "you are terribly exasperating. Do make your mind that that and your million are not the only things in the world."

His blood was up now, but it flung him away from her.

"Some day perhaps you'll find out that there is not much besides. I am played with and thrown aside. I won't stand it."

He left the house with his head high in the air, angry red in his cheeks and a feeling in his heart that she was the most unreasonable of women. Barbara in the meantime cried herself to sleep, vowing she would never love Monty Brewster again as long as she lived.

A sharp cutting wind was blowing in Monty's face as he left the house. He was thoroughly wretched.

"Throw up your hands!" came hoarsely from somewhere, and there was no tenderness in the tones. For an instant Monty was dazed and bewildered, but in the next he saw two shadowy figures walking beside him. "Stop where you are, young fellow," was the next command, and he stopped.

"Help yourselves, boys," short. He was in a mood to fight, but the sight of a revolver made him think again. Monty was not a coward; neither was he a fool. He was quick to see that a struggle would be madness.

"What do you want?" he demanded as coolly as his nerves would permit. "Get up your hands, quick!" And he hastily obeyed the injunction.

"Not a sound out of you or you get it good and proper. You know what we want. Get to work, Bill. I'll watch his hands."

"Help yourselves, boys. I'm not fool enough to scrimp about it. Don't hit me or shoot, that's all. Be quick about it, because I'll take cold if I overcoat is open long. How's business been to-night?" Brewster was to all intents and purposes the calmest man in New York.

"Fiercer!" said the one who was doing the searching. "You're the first guy we've seen in a week that looks good."

"I hope you won't be disappointed," said Monty genially. "If I'd expected this I might have brought more money."

"I guess we'll be satisfied," chuckled the man with the revolver. "You're awful nice and kind, mister, and may be you wouldn't object to tellin' us when you'll be up dis way ag'in."

"It's a pleasure to do business with you, partner," said the other, dropping Monty's $300 watch in his pocket. "We'll leave care for you for your honesty." His hands were running through Brewster's pockets with the quickness of a machine. "You don't go much on jewelry, I guess. Are dese shot buttons de real ting?"

"They're pearls," said Monty cheerfully. "My favorite fool," said the man with the revolver. "Clip 'em out, Bill."

"Don't cut the shirt," urged Monty. "I'm going to a little supper, and I don't like the idea of a punctured shirt front."

"I'll be careful as I kin, mister. There, I guess dat's all. Shall I call a cab for you, sir?"

"No, thank you. I think I'll walk."

"Well, just walk south a hundred steps without lookin' round er yellin' and you kin save your skin. I guess you know what I mean, partner."

"I'm sure I do. Good night."

"Good night," came in chuckles from the two holdup men. But Brewster hesitated, a sharp thought penetrating his mind.

"By gad," he exclaimed, "you chaps are very careless. You know you've missed a roll of $500 in this overcoat pocket!" The men gasped, and the spasmodic outbursts that came from them were born of incredulity. It was plain that they doubted their ears.

"Say it ag'in," muttered Bill in bewildered tones.

"It's stringin' us, Bill," said the other.

"Sure," growled Bill. "It's a nice way to treat us, mister. Move along now and don't turn round."

"Well, you're a couple of nice high-waymen," cried Monty in disgust.

"Not so loud."

"That's to attend to business. Do you expect me to go down into my pocket and hand you the goods on a silver tray?"

"Keep your hands up! You don't want dat game on me. You got a gun there."

"I haven't. This is on the level. You overlooked a roll of bills in your haste, and I'm not the sort of fellow to see an earnest endeavor get the worst of it. My hands are up. See for yourself if I'm not telling you the truth."

"That kind of a game is dis!" growled Bill, dazed and bewildered. "I'm blowed if I know w't to 'clink o' you," cried he in honest amazement. "You don't act drunk, and you ain't crazy, but there's somethin' wrong wid you. Are you givin' it to us straight ahead, wa?"

"You can find out easily."

"Well, I hate to do it, boss, but I guess we'll just take de overcoat and all. It looks like a trick, and we take no chances. Off wid de coat."

Monty's coat came off in a jiffy, and he stood shivering before the dumfounded robbers.

"We'll leave dat coat at de next corner, partner. It's cold, and you need it more'n we do. We've de limit, you are. So long. W. C. right straight ahead and don't yell."

Brewster found his coat a few minutes later, and he went whistling away into the night. The roll of bills was gone.

The Food Value of a Soda Cracker

You have heard that some foods furnish fat, other foods make muscle, and still others are tissue building and heat forming.

You know that most foods have one or more of these elements, but do you know that no food contains them all in such properly balanced proportions as a good soda cracker?

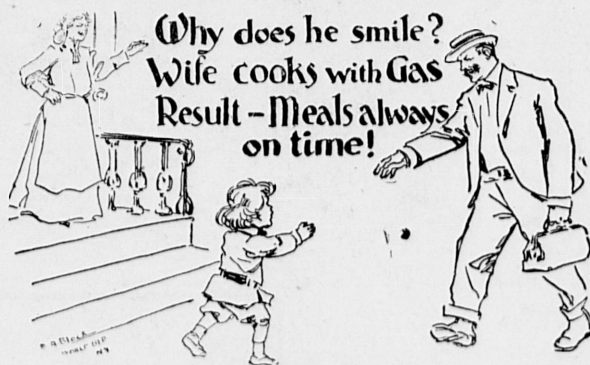

The United States Government report shows that soda crackers contain less water, are richer in the muscle and fat elements, and have a much higher per cent of the tissue building and heat forming properties than any article of food made from flour.

That is why Uneeda Biscuit should form an important part of every meal. They represent the superlative of the soda cracker, all their goodness and nourishment being brought from the oven to you in a package that is proof against air, moisture and dust—the price being too small to mention.

No Man Stronger than H's Stomach—Let M-o-n-a Strengthen Your Digestive System.

The stomach is your vital center. No man is stronger than his stomach. The average man measures his physical vitality by his heart, his kidneys, or his lungs. Yet it is the stomach that should first be considered when you cast up the account of health.

Every organ of the body is sustained and nourished by food which is converted into nutrition in the stomach and conveyed to every part of the system in the form of blood. For this reason, when the stomach is strengthened with M-o-n-a and is able to convert the food into nourishment, all other organs soon become well. This explains why every cure of heart, liver, or kidney diseases in the case where M-o-n-a is used.

A Domestic Tragedy.

Divorces are frequently pronounced in America on the ground of incompatibility of temper. In England we do not go so far as that, but I have just heard of a case where an old family servant who married the gardener separated from her husband on exceedingly slight grounds. She said that he would insist on the glasses being turned upside down on the sideboard and that there should be antimacassars on the dining room chairs. And so, as they could not agree, the unhappy pair separated. — London News.

Timely and Valuable Suggestions.
Many people, especially women, who lead closely confined domestic lives, suffer from what in general terms is called "nervousness." Among all forms of treatment none has even approached in success the intelligent use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rockland, N. Y., which promotes an easy and natural action of the digestive organs and imparts tone to the nervous system.

Mr. Strawbridge's proposition was to build a macadam road the entire length of Mechanic street to the village at his own expense, if the town would put in the culverts and gutters and maintain the road. Such a road would cost about $2,000. The town voted to appropriate $750 to rebuild culverts and ditches on Mechanic street, $350 to macadamize free street and $150 for clearing culverts and ditches on other streets of the village.

WAS WEAK AS A RAG

BUT FOUND STRENGTH IN DR. WILLIAM'S PINK PILLS.

Used After the Grip and Wasting Fevers They Make New Blood And Good Health Follows.

The evil effects that follow many diseases—particularly the grip and the wasting fevers, such as typhoid and malaria, are caused by the bad condition in which these diseases leave the blood. As a result, the flesh continues to fall away, the sufferer grows nervous and irritable, and even slight exertion causes a sense of weakness. These are dangerous symptoms and indicate that the system is in a state that invites pneumonia, bronchitis or even consumption. What is needed is a new supply of rich, red blood to carry health and strength to every part of the body. Such a specific has been found and in hundreds of cases it has been proven that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have accomplished this result.

"I was all run down from the effects of the grip," says Mrs. Amelia Hall, of No. 5, High street, Norwich, Conn., "and could not seem to get strength to walk; could not eat a full meal, my stomach was so weak, and I was so nervous that I could not sleep. I could not stay in bed a few minutes at a time, either night or day. The least little thing would startle me. I had difficulty in breathing, had frequent fainting spells and felt that every hour would be my last."

"My general health was completely wrecked and I had neuralgia and rheumatic pains, dyspepsia, constipation and many other ailments. My physician attended me for the grip and again for the condition that it left me in, but I got no strength from the tonics he prescribed. In fact, nothing helped me until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they cured me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mrs. Hall, because they actually make new blood. In the same way, they strike straight at the cause of many diseases like rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, stomach trouble, debility, spinal weakness and the secret sufferings that only a woman knows. But, of course, imitations or substitutes can't cure you. You must get the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. At all drug stores, or write to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES—At the Sunday 4 o'clock meeting there will be a duet by Misses Alice Fiske and Helen Bicknell.

The gymnasium classes commenced last Monday evening with a good attendance. The recent improvements and increased facilities provided this season are proving no disappointment and the outlook for the season in all the departments are excellent. The basketball teams have already commenced practice. There will be two crack teams to play teams from outside cities. Several business men's teams will be organized and a tournament will be held during the winter. The Junior department will receive special attention this season. Besides the regular work, those who wish will be given a series of lessons in the art of printing. Studies of the lives of great men will be taken up shortly and other features not yet developed will be introduced. The boys' gymnasium classes will be held Monday and Wednesday afternoons and Saturday mornings. The endeavor of the Association is to be of real use to the members by giving them something to do that shall be of benefit to them in after years. Again the Association has endeavored to introduce mechanical drawing, but lack of funds and equipment are likely to interfere with the plans. There is a good chance for a benevolent thinking man, who has the interests of young men at heart, to give a helping hand.

The officers and teachers of the Universalist Sunday school met on the evening of Oct. 12 at the residence of Rev. E. H. Chapin. In the absence of Superintendent A. P. This was followed by discussion. It was voted that "Rally Day" be the first Sunday in November and the teachers' committee was appointed to prepare a suitable program. The present system of records having proved unsatisfactory, this matter was referred to the committee on teachers and the secretary, to report at a future meeting. It was voted to hold a business meeting monthly. A social hour followed the meeting and light refreshments were served.

IN THE SHADE OF—Come, all ye little children And take a walk with me. Although it may be snowing, We'll go where flowers are growing, My garden you shall see.

In this November garden grow flowers bright and gay. On the eighth day of November—be sure you all remember—And come around this way.

There's blossoms for each girlie, There's blossoms for each boyie; To pick you're not forbidden, And at each root is hidden A trinket or a toy.

IN SPORTING CIRCLES.

Wrestling Match Scheduled for Next Week—Gridiron Meetings.

A scientific catch-as-can wrestling match is scheduled to take place in Armory hall, Spring street, next Wednesday evening, Oct. 25. The principals are both known to fame. One is Henry Lissos, a powerful Gentile, employed by Thorndike & Hix, whose ability in the wrestling line has already been demonstrated before the Knox county sports men. Lissos' opponent in this instance will be Joe Colcord, Lowell, Mass., who has earned the title of "the Greek Wonder" by his feats on the wrestling mat. He is ready to meet any man of his weight in New England. The preliminary wrestling match will be of special local interest, the opponents being Frank Blackington of Rockland and Benner of Thomaston. The sport begins at 8.15 sharp.

The Saturday football game in this city will be played by Rockland High and Castine. The latter town has always had a good football eleven, and in weight this year is said to offer a very favorable comparison with the bulky Rockland lineup. Manager Palmer is giving the public some good sport, and there should be a much larger crowd on hand than saw the Cony High game a week ago.

Through a typographical error Reuel White was credited with making the touchdown against Cony High, whereas it should have been given to his little brother Leslie. The push and strength of Reuel doubtless contributed much to the result, but it was Leslie who turned the trick.

The repairs which are being made to the Spring street skating rink are of a very thorough character. As a result in a sound roof and floor. It was hoped that the hall might be ready for polo practice the latter part of this week, but when repairs begin on an old building it is difficult to tell where they will end. Jose Colcord, the new proprietor, is in Boston this week, buying the skates with which the rink is to be equipped for public use.

RACING IN CAMDEN.

Some Race Sport Promised the Patrons of the Race Track This Saturday.

The races in Camden last Saturday afforded so much pleasure to a large number of people the Camden Driving Club have made arrangements to have more races of the same character this Saturday afternoon at the Camden Trotting Park.

There will be three races as follows: 2.40 class, best three in five, purse 50 bushels of oats; 2.20 class, best three in five, purse $40; 2.20 class, best three in five, purse $20.

These will all be in half mile heats and no entrance money required. In addition there will be a shoe race for boys for a purse of $2.50 and a foot race for boys for a purse of $2.00.

The races will start promptly at one o'clock, and from this time through the whole afternoon there will be something doing every minute.

The judges will be Franz M. Simons, Rockland, starter; E. E. Boynton, G. F. Butler, and H. J. Tibbets; Timers C. O. Montgomery, W. F. Bissell and Charles Murphy.

To see all these sports will cost but a quarter of a dollar, and there is sure to be more than a dollar's worth of fun.

There is a large list of entries and good time is sure to be made. If you have nothing to do this Saturday afternoon, or if you have leave it, and go to Camden.

SUSQUEHANNA LOST.

American Ship Commanded by St. George Captain Abandoned at Sea—The Crew Saved.

The American ship Susquehanna has been abandoned at sea and the crew landed on the Solomon Islands off the northeast coast of Australia. The Susquehanna was bound to Delaware Breakwater with a cargo of chrome ore from Nohoe, New Caledonia. She sailed from Nohoe on August 23.

The Susquehanna was one of the finest wooden four-masted clipper ships afloat. She was built in Bath in 1891 by A. Sewall & Co., and her measurements were: Length, 273.6; breadth, 45.1; depth, 28; gross tonnage, 2590. She was commanded by Captain E. A. Watts of St. George and was valued at about $60,000, partially insured. A Sewall & Co. were managing owners. The ship arrived in Tsin Tai April 15 from New York with a cargo of case oil and sailed from there for Nohoe June 28, 1905. The most of the crew were shipped in New York.

While the Susquehanna was lying at Nohoe, her crew assisted in fighting the fire which destroyed her sister ship, the Itanoke, in that harbor last summer.

THE AUTOMOBILE ISSUE.

Editor of the Motor Car Takes Decided Exceptions to the Views of Asa P. St. Clair and Dr. Reid.

New York City, Oct. 11.
Editor of The Courier-Gazette: In your issue of Sept. 9th, I noticed a letter on the automobile question, signed by one A. P. St. Clair. There are some people built so queerly that it is an utter impossibility to introduce to them anything new. They are perfectly satisfied to hang on to the same old thing that their fathers and their grandfathers and their great-grandfathers did for generations back without making any change whatever. These kind of people never create much commotion in the world. They live and die and are never heard of and do not amount to any more than a mosquito.

Many years ago when the railroad locomotive was first introduced, a great noise was raised by farmers and others. Many people would not ride behind the locomotive, preferring to stick to the old-fashioned method of traveling by coach and taking about five times as long. It was said that railroads were a menace to public safety, that they would destroy crops, and do about everything that should not be done. After a while the prejudice wore off, until now the railroad train is the only means of traveling around the country, quickly and safely, on long journeys.

I remember when trolley cars were first introduced in Brooklyn where I live, the newspapers could not say enough bad things about them. Every one condemned the trolley car, and it was suggested that a law be passed to prohibit their use. After a few years nothing was said, and certainly no one would care to travel in an old, slow horse-drawn car in preference to the easy fast running electric car.

I noticed in a previous issue of your publication, a letter from a physician by the name of Reid. Doctors are supposed to have a little more sense than the average every-day man, and I am somewhat surprised to note such expressions coming from an M. D. Most doctors have welcomed the automobile with open arms, and I know hundreds who use them and would not think of going back to the horse. It not only saves considerable time on their routes, but they can reach patients much quicker when necessary.

The automobile is the best thing the doctor ever had. One thing is certain, and that is that the opinions expressed by your two correspondents were not representative of the opinions of most of the Maine farmers, because only a few months ago, I took a trip on my automobile from Portland to the White Mountains, going through Standish, Hiram, East Brownfield, etc., on the inland trip and coming back through Bridgeton, Poland Springs, Gay, etc., and all the people I saw did not seem to be afraid of automobiles particularly.

In fact on several occasions when we had to stop to examine our automobile, farmers who lived nearby came down with their horses to get them used to the car. I noticed in seven or eight cases that farmers brought their horses right out in front of the machine, simply to get the horse used to the automobile.

We did not scare any horses in Maine at all worth speaking of, and certainly we were treated very friendly on our trip. If your correspondents were not to Portland and be obliged to perform errands around the city by taking cars pulled by horses, they would object very strenuously to such an old, slow, old-fashioned method of transportation. And yet the modern electric street car is nothing else than an automobile, except that the type used on the road is propelled by a gasoline motor and the street car is propelled by an electric motor.

Why do not these people who think $50,000 LOST

$50,000 LOST

By not giving a friend's advice proper consideration when we had the money handy ($1,000). Since then we have been looking for an opportunity to make good that loss.

How We Lost $50,000

We did not buy Gold Coin Mining Co. stock at ten cents per share when it was offered to us and we were urged to invest $1,000. Since then the shares have sold at over $5.00 per share and the Gold Coin has paid $1,200,000 in dividends.

Would You Have Bought Gold Coin?

Another Opportunity

In the Great COEUR d' ALENE District.

The GERMAN AMERICAN MINING CO.

offers us the best chance to make good that loss.

Have you ever heard of the BUNKER HILL & SULLIVAN and the HERCULES the two greatest dividend payers of the COEUR d' ALENE district? A line drawn from one of these great mines to the other would pass right through the German-American ground.

We expect the GERMAN AMERICAN to beat the dividend record of the GOLD COIN.

Do you want any GERMAN AMERICAN?

Would you pay $5.00 for 100 shares of stock that may be worth $400 within a short time? Put this question to yourself and answer it. If you would just fill in and mail to us the attached blank.

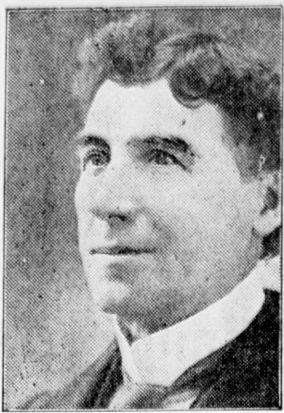

Sincerely Yours,
G. F. ALEXANDER & CO.

HON. JOHN TIGHE.
Assemblyman Tighe's letter should be read by every brain worker leading a strenuous life.

Hon. John Tighe, No. 98 Remsen St., Cohoes, N. Y., Member of Assembly from the Fourth district, Albany county, N. Y., writes as follows:

"Peruna has my hearty endorsement as a restorative tonic of superior merit. At times when I have been completely broken down from excess of work, so that my faculties seemed actually at a standstill, Peruna has acted as a healing restorer, starting the machinery of mind and body afresh with new life and energy."

I recommend it to a man tired in mind and body as a tonic superior to anything I know of and well worthy serious consideration."—J. Tighe.

Excess of work so common in our country causes impaired nerves, leading to catarrh and catarrhal nervousness—a disease that is responsible for half of all nervous troubles.

Peruna cures this trouble because it cures catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

they know so much about the automobile and really do not know a thing about it, send to the leading manufacturers for catalogues and find out what sensible people have to say about it.

What sensible physicians have to say about the subject, then they will be in a position to form their opinion, but living inland, hundreds of miles from civilization where they do not get in contact with anybody who knows anything, they have no right to form opinions on the subject.

Marks Dramatic Co. and Buster Brown Attractions at Opera House Next Week

"BUSTER BROWN."
This is an unusual story, of an unusual dog. In the first place, the dog isn't a dog at all and this may sound foolish until explained. The dog is impersonated by a human being. Those who have seen this man do at the Farwell opera house next Wednesday, Oct. 25, when the "Buster Brown" Company will be presented. In proper person; the actor who plays the dog, is a respectable young man, but in the stage he acts like a dog—the very highest compliment that can be paid him, for he has made a life study of acting like a dog. When this individual was very young, he ran away with a circus and the story of how he became an animal impersonator sounds very much like a fairy tale. However, the truth, as many a timer will testify. The circus which he joined was a little one ring affair, touring through the small towns of the middle west. They carried with them a bear, besides the horses and that was the performing bear. The principal duty of this actor was to take care of the bear when he was not working. One day the bear died and the manager tried to figure out what he should do to replace the attraction. The actor came to his rescue. He had the bear skinned and mounted by one of the circus men. This done he got inside of the skin and went into the ring. Of course the audience realized the deception, but the actor's performance was so much funnier than the real article, that no one thought of objecting. Before the end of the season, a then successful manager saw him and he was engaged at a big salary to create a similar part in a musical extravaganza.

Buster Brown at Farwell Opera House Next Wednesday Evening.

JOHNNY JONES.
"Do you know that I sometimes think that a fellow's luck comes from being born right. I got in the ground floor when they were handing out the birth invitations, and my dear old Dad and Mumsey are right here with me in 'Little Johnny Jones'." My word, what a big hit at this theatre nearly two years ago. The surrounding show is a capital one, including Stuart Barnes, "The Chesterfield" of monologue comedians; the Six Valdars, a wonderful troupe of comedy and trick bicyclists; May Belfort, English singing comedienne; Fred Ward and John Curran, in a new version of their funny character sketch, "The Terrible Judge"; Ken's mimic dog, the only canine impersonator in the world; Borani and Navarro, in an eccentric comedy and acrobatic sketch; Walter Daniels, impersonator of well-known stage favorites; the Pryors, novelty bandoliers, singers and dancers; Lea and Fay Durbelle, finger shadowgraphists, and the Maginleys, daring aerial acrobats. As is customary in the new line for comedy and interesting motion pictures will be exhibited in the kinetograph. Underlined for the week of Oct. 30, are the Six Musical Cutties, presenting one of the most artistic musical acts seen in the varieties.

KEITH'S THEATRE.
Those conversant with the value of vaudeville shows will certainly be impressed with the list of entertainers scheduled to appear at Keith's for the week of Oct. 22. Hal Davis and Inez Macaulay will be the principal attractions on the bill, appearing in their exciting comedy-melodrama "Pale," which scored a big hit at this theatre nearly two years ago. The surrounding show is a capital one, including Stuart Barnes, "The Chesterfield" of monologue comedians; the Six Valdars, a wonderful troupe of comedy and trick bicyclists; May Belfort, English singing comedienne; Fred Ward and John Curran, in a new version of their funny character sketch, "The Terrible Judge"; Ken's mimic dog, the only canine impersonator in the world; Borani and Navarro, in an eccentric comedy and acrobatic sketch; Walter Daniels, impersonator of well-known stage favorites; the Pryors, novelty bandoliers, singers and dancers; Lea and Fay Durbelle, finger shadowgraphists, and the Maginleys, daring aerial acrobats. A STANDARD ATTRACTION.
A company traveling today has a more enviable reputation than the well known and popular company bearing the name of Marks Bros., who will appear at the Farwell opera house five nights next week and Thursday and Saturday matinees. The company is headed by the charming actress, May A. Bell Marks and the supporting company is large and well balanced. It is perfectly equipped with all the attributes and embellishments necessary for a first-class performance, every play being presented with special scenery, beautiful and expensive costumes. Miss Marks alone wears over fifty different gowns during the engagement. The following is the repertoire for the week: Monday, "Little Starlight, the Indian Maid"; Tuesday, "The Children of the Slane"; Thursday, "For His Sake"; Friday, "At the Point of the Sword"; Saturday, "The Girl from Frisco"; Matinees, Thursday, "The Duke's Daughter"; Saturday, "A Woman's Secret." Ladies' tickets 15 cents Monday evening if bought at the advance sale before 6 p. m. Monday. Seats on sale at box office Saturday morning.

"DAN SULLY."
"Last night at the National Theatre Daniel Sully began a half week's engagement in 'Our Pastor.' Nothing done at the National this season has made a deeper impression. The playwright has not only provided Daniel Sully with an excellent vehicle—better than 'The Parish Priest'—but he has written a sound, 'holding,' picturesque drama, full of vivid character drawing and original ideas, which rises at least once in the scene, perfectly played by Mr. Sully and Mr. William F. Kohlman, between Father Duly and Pierre Wolf in the third act to the high-water mark of the best of contemporary American playwrights. 'Our Pastor' is called 'dramatic' advisedly because the plot and incidents are the outcome of the characters of its personages and their clash with each other."—The Democrat, Rochester, N. Y.

THE PHILAN STOCK COMPANY.
The Philan Stock Company will open a four nights' engagement at the Farwell opera house commencing Nov. 2, presenting high class plays at popular prices and a good line of vaudeville between acts. The engagement opens Thursday and will continue the following Monday with what is known as a hold over performance. Mr. Philan is well known in this section, having been at Cape Cottage, Portland, for two seasons with this same great company, presenting standard successes that have been praised by the Portland papers as well as the public in that section. The company is a large one numbering over 20 people and the list of plays to be given are new, each one being a production nicely staged, costumed, etc.

THE ISLE OF SPICE.
B. C. Whitney will present his Isle of Spice Company at the Farwell opera house for one performance on Wednesday evening, Nov. 1, this being a return engagement of the ever popular opera and one that gave the best of satisfaction when seen here last season.

MATINEES NEXT WEEK.
The matinees next week to be given by the Marks Bros. Dramatic Company will take place on Thursday and Saturday as Mr. Marks and his company give away on Wednesday for M. B. Raymond's musical comedy "Buster Brown," which scored a big hit Monday; tickets limited to 300.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidneys poison the blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.
