U. M. C. CARTRIDGES

for every gun in camp

Different men differ as to their favorite kind of rifle. Practically all agree, however, on U. M. C. Cartridges. A glimpse at the interior of most any hunting shack presents these facts. There is a reason. U. M. C. Cartridges are made to fit and are tested in all the different styles of rifles made by the different arms companies.

Every rifle does better shooting with U. M. C. Cartridges.

I have leased the Mooslookmeguntic House and Log Cabins, situated on the shore of Mooslookmeguntic Lake, being the nearest place to the best fishing grounds in the Rangeley Lake region. Fish and Game Oddities.

A Southern Yarn.

A new fish story is related which may or may not be true, and as it relates to an Atlantian, we print it. The story goes that last spring, while a party of Atlantians were fishing at the Dead Lakes in Florida, a well known Atlanta lawyer lost his gold watch and a silver dollar from the boat in which he was sitting. Recently he made another visit to the lakes and during the first day's sport caught an 8 pound trout. His astonishment can be imagined when he found his watch lodged in the throat of the trout. The watch was running and the time correct. In masticating his food, the watch was wound up daily. In addition to the pocket piece he found accrued interest from April 25, 1905.

We do not vouch for the correctness of the story but presume it can easily be substantiated upon the return of the Atlanta fishing party from Florida.

Definition of Anecdote.

"What is an anecdote, Johnny?" asked the teacher. "A short, funny tale," answered the little fellow. "That's right," answered the teacher. "Now, Johnny, you may write a sentence on the blackboard containing the word." Johnny wrote: "A rabbit has four legs and one anecdote."

A New Fishing Scheme.

A gentleman from New York, who goes to Clear Water pond for a few weeks yearly, is getting a great deal of enjoyment out of his fishing. He goes there especially for rest and does not care to work very hard, so he has devised an original scheme for fishing. He has a strip of wood tied up in a tree by the shore of the pond, on the end of which he has tied a bell. He has also tied to the wood a fish line. This is fitted out with hooks, leaders, etc., in the usual way. When there is a strike, the bell rings and the angler gives the matter his immediate attention. Some of our readers, who have their own opinions in the best methods may be surprised to know that this gentleman has caught several fish and some good sized ones by this plan.

Trout Swallowed Ground Mole.

A correspondent writes us that some time ago when Mr. J. D. Brigham of Westbrook, Mr. T. Z. Hazelton and party of Portland were at the Birches they chartered the steamer, Metalluc, for a day's fishing. Among the fish secured was a handsome 3-pound trout, which the guide, Bob Martin, found when dressing had a good sized ground mole in his stomach. This was the second mole Guide Martin had found in the stomach of a trout that season. It would hardly seem that the trout has as dainty a taste as its appearance would suggest.

Pig Was Seasick.

The following oddity seems to prove beyond doubt that human beings are not the only ones who may become victims of seasickness.

William Haines, a well known guide of Rangeley, says that years ago when he lived on the south side of the lake he had occasions to take a pig across from the Ross district to his place. The wind was blowing quite heavily from the northwest, and his boat being in the trough of the sea, tossed and rocked from side to side quite badly. Before he was nearly across his passenger became very sick and vomited repeatedly.

The writer once knew a French bulldog that had such a delicate nerve system that the firing of guns near him on a heavy thunder storm would always make it sick.

Kingfisher Familiar With Deer.

Ansel Soule of Rangeley says he was once watching a big buck deer feeding in the edge of a pond, when a kingfisher came flitting along and lighted on one of its antlers. The buck shook its head several times and although the birds balance was somewhat disturbed it still retained its perch on the horn. Finally the deer became tired of it and plunged its antler into the water and of course dislodged the kingfisher.

RANGELEY LAKE HOUSE.

SEASON OF 1906 OPENS WITH GOOD LIST OF ARRIVALS.

Fish Record of the First Anglers who Visited the Rangeleys for the Present Season.

(Special Correspondence to MAINE WOODS.)

RANGELEY LAKE HOUSE,

RANGELEY, MAINE, May 15, 1906.

Business opened at the Rangeley Lake House last night; one day earlier and he has always been very popular and successful in hotel management.

Weston Lewis, Esq., of Gardiner president of the Sandy River railroad, who visited Rangeley last night accompanied by Howard Corning of Gardiner, was the first to register at the hotel this year. Mr. Lewis could not go fishing; he is too busy just now to take time for recreation of this kind. He was looking over his various interests here, including the extension of the Phillips & Rangeley road from the old station across to Marble's wharf near the hotel. This management and crew for the present season.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Marble, W. S. Marble and clerk, Charles Lincoln, are here and Mr. H. M. Burrows will arrive this week. Mr. W. G. Estes, who was head waiter here three years ago and who has been in the south and the Adirondacks of late is also here for the present season. He arrived Monday night accompanied by Mrs. Estes, Miss Nellie Madden and Miss Christine Marsh, waitresses who have been here for several seasons before. Bert Furbish, who has been here for several seasons past, will run the barber shop as usual; Charles Case, the printer, who has been here for seven seasons will print the menus as usual. The smiling face of Stephen Hubley, the porter, is on the spot. "Steve" has been here ten years. There will be the same "heads of departments" in the kitchen as usual.

Many improvements will be made on the golf course. It has been smoothed up materially.

Following is the list of arrivals on Monday, May 14: Weston Lewis, Howard Corning, Gardiner; F. N. Beal, Phillips; Percy Gardiner, M. C. Migel, J. H. Spofford, H. T. Sansbury, O. B. Newhouse; Joseph F. Laherty, A. L. Masson, New York; Mrs. W. B. Berry, W. B. Berry, Gardiner; B. W. Emerson, C. W. Mandant, Portland; J. E. Robinson, Boston.

RANGELEY LAKE HOUSE, RANGELEY, MAINE

than was advertised for the reason that there were several parties who wanted to come on that night. The largest party consisted of seven fishermen from New York whose names appear in the list of arrivals given further along in this column. This party engaged seven guides, among them Elmer Snowman, Isaac Tibbetts, George Henry Huntoon, John Oakes, and Melvin Tibbetts. The most of them went out trolling on Rangeley Lake bright and early this morning and we expect to hear good reports from them.

The first sportsmen to arrive were W. W. Lee and E. A. Hayes of Malden, Mass. They are old timers in this section and friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Stevens of Malden, who will be here very soon for a couple of months stay. Mr. Lee and Mr. Hayes, with Aaron Soule for guide, had very good luck fishing along the north shore of Rangeley Lake. They took three salmon that weighed respectively: 3, 4 and 4 1-2 pounds.

The Rangeley Lakes Hotel Company has received more letters this year than ever before from parties who intend to visit the Rangeleys. They have a stack of applications from fifteen different parties which came extension will be very much appreciated by the guests of the Rangeley Lake House as they will be landed at a beautiful stone station on the hotel grounds, only a step from the hotel or to the steamboats. This station will be used for the special benefit of the guests of the Rangeley Lake House and those who are going down the lakes. It will be known as Marble's and will be a decided ornament to the town.

Former guests will be interested to know about the organization of the

The fishing here is daily improving and the fishermen at the camps seem more than pleased with their success.

FROM BLAKESLEE LAKE

Under Date of May 11, Proprietor White Says Ice Is Firm.

(Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.)

BLAKESLEE LAKE CAMPS, EUSTIS, May 1, 1906.

In a letter to MAINE WOODS Proprietor Joseph White says: "Two inches of snow fell yesterday morning and things looked bad, but today the sun shines again. Shall give my rod another coat of varnish and oil my reel, because there'll be something doing as soon as there is open water enough to turn a boat around.

The camps will be opened June 1; there are 20 guests booked for that date. We expect to do a record breaking business this summer and are rapidly getting ready for it. New camps are being built and some new boats and canoes added to our fleet.

We shall put out about 10,000 trout and as many salmon in these waters this spring to offset the tremendous strain our rapidly gaining travel will make in fishing in years to come."

Fish Hearing at Rangeley.

The commissioners of inland fisheries and game met in Furbish hall, Rangeley, Thursday evening of last week to give a hearing on several matters. Dr. J. R. Kittridge asked that the regulation prohibiting fishing in Nash Brook or any one of the tributaries of the south branch of Dead river above Greene's Farm and on the south branch of Dead river to Flag dam in Franklin county, be removed and that these streams be open to fishing for three days in the week and that the catch be limited to 20 trout to each person in any one day.

The petition was opposed by Mr. Flagg and Gus Johnson, living in the vicinity of the streams affected.

The commissioners ruling was that it shall be unlawful for a period of four years from May 15, 1906, to fish for, take, catch or kill any kind of fish at any time in any of the tributaries of the south branch of the Dead river, above Flag dam, in Franklin county, except on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays, from the time that the ice is out in the spring until Oct. 1 each year and during the open season on those waters it shall be unlawful to kill or have in possession more than 10 fish in all in one day taken from any of said waters.

FISHING AT TUFTS POND.

E. R. Hackett Lands a 3 3-4-Pound Salmon at Kingfield.

(Special Correspondence to MAINE WOODS.)

KINGFIELD, May, 15, 1906.

Tufts pond has been visited by many fishermen the past week, and several good strings of trout secured but the catch of the season to date is the record of that twenty-one inch in length salmon, weighing three and three fourths pounds, safely landed by E. R. Hackett, while B. M. Sanders thought the three pound trout which was easily caught, worth bringing home on Saturday last.

GRAND LAKE STREAM NEWS

SINCE ICE LEFT MAY 5, FISHING OF THE BEST.

White House and Cottages Fast Filling With Guests.

(Special Correspondence to MAINE WOODS.)

WHITE HOUSE AND BIRCHES,
GRAND LAKE STREAM,
May 12, 1906.

Since the ice left Grand Lake May 5, the fishing has been remarkably good—better than for years. Mr. E. F. Caldwell and friend from New York who have been guests at the White House left for home today after making a record of 174 salmon in four and one half fishing days.

Miss Crosby (Fly Rod) caught 49 salmon in two days and two hours fishing.

F. H. Ball, proprietor of the White House is having an addition built to the piazza of the main house, continuing it around on the west side. This will be an extra comfort to his guests.

Following are some recent arrivals: Edward F. Caldwell, New York City; H. A. Van Liew, New York City; Miss Cornelia T. Crosby, Phillips, Maine; Charles Houghton, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Yates, Princeton; Nellie M. Smith, Beverly; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lyman Underwood, Boston.

Some Good Catches.

OUANANICHE LODGE, May 16, 1906.

Ice left Grand lake on the west side Friday at 4 p. m., but was not all gone until the following Wednesday. The fun commenced Wednesday by the local fishermen getting at work and picking up some nice salmon.

Wilford Eaton and wife of Calais and C. B. Lowell and wife of Boston were first on the ground and succeeded at once in landing a lot of fine brook trout and salmon, also one lake trout, weighing 9 pounds. Following this came Mr. Caldwell and friend of New York with phenomenal success, the first named gentleman landing 91 fish in four days, his friend being within half a dozen fish of his number.

Next came the White party of Brookline, Mass., five in number. They went right up the lake to Sunset Camp. Friday, their first day out, gave them 45 salmon, others about the lake doing fully as well. The Murchie-Lord party, with Mayor J. M. Johnson of Calais, at the head and in charge of Captain Bolan and launch Sunset, went to their camp at Dyer cove Monday afternoon. They had their usual good luck, but up to Friday noon had not succeeded in breaking their record for big fish, which they established a year or two ago of 20 1-2 pounds.

Arrivals the past week are: Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Eaton, Calais; Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Lowell, The Whangdoodle Club, five in number, under charge of Commodore Boynton of the Boston Yacht Club; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Holmes, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Niles, Princeton; E. C. Hersey, Portland; the Norman H. White party, five in number, Brookline.

RUNAWAY CAMP NOTES.

Early Anglers at Clear Water Pond This Week.

(Special Correspondence to MAINE WOODS.)
CLEAR WATER, May 15, 1906.

The camp was opened April 26, and Messrs. Lord and Whiting entertained Mr. Harry Kelt of Boston and Mr. Sterne Wheeler the great button manufacturer of Naugatuck, Conn., until the arrival of Messrs. H. S. Hanson and Geo. Bradford, who could only stay a few days.

The late going out of the ice made the fishing poor at first, but Mr. Wheeler landed a 9 pound togue and one of about 3 pounds and Pay Director Williams of the U. S. navy, who spent a few days at camp as the guest of Mr. Whiting, captured two fine togue of 6 pounds each. Dr. Wheeler also brought in a fine string of brook trout caught on the fly, running from 2 1-2 pounds to 1 pound.

The last of the spring party left May 10. Mr. Whiting remained and is entertaining a house party for a few weeks. Mrs. F. E. Whiting and Miss Agnes Thrasher of Portland are at the camp, and Mr. Phillip E. Whiting, Harvard '07 who came down for a few days, has an 8 pound togue, one of 4 1-2 pounds, 2 square tails of 2 pounds apiece and a 3 pound bass to show for his two day's fishing.

FLY ROD CATCHES 19 SALMON AT
GRAND LAKE STREAM.

Fishing There Is Good but Fish Are Small.

New York and Brookline Parties

Fishing. Fly Rod Hooked 10 Salmon That Escaped.

(Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.)

THE WHITE HOUSE,
GRAND LAKE STREAM,

MAY 10, 1906.

Of my trip and the delightful entertainment I'll write later, but to night only of my guide, Thad Coffron, who has paddled me about the lake to day, and smiled to himself as I would exclaim "Oh, there goes that salmon" and give a regretful good bye to the silver beauties I only had the pleasure of seeing make a few wild dashes for the lake as they shook off the hook. They did not all say farewell, for 19 came to my net and are now cosy in boxes of moss amid branches of pine and spruce ready to take a trip to friends many miles away. I must relate something of this, my first days fishing for several years. Breakfast at 8 o'clock and with fishing tackle, my five ounce fly rod, a basket of lunch, warm wrap outside, two sweaters and my cordroy coat, I made slow time to the shore of the stream, where I met several guides renewing old acquaintances.

"I suppose you have forgotten how to handle the rod Fly Rod, and you don't intend to troll with that light rod" remarked one.

I was not quite sure I could hook a fish but was willing to try. I looked at my watch just as the canoe was pushed from the shore 9.02 o'clock and began to reel out. It was not five minute before something unexpected happened, and the guide remarked, "I'll have to look out for the canoe if you don't keep in your seat, that is only a salmon, don't get excited." My sporting blood was up, for sure enough I had hooked a salmon, who was first making a circle through the air, then a run for the canoe, and then a dash up stream. Eight times he came out of the water, once under the canoe and then I had him in the net.

The Grand Lake Stream salmon do not grow big but one like this of 2-12 pounds will give one sport enough, and today I have landed 19 that weighed from 1 1-4 to 2 1-2 pounds each. I must tell the truth and say that I hooked ten more that I did not weigh and only remember them by their graceful curves through the air, and the smiles of Thad as my "Oh dear I have lost another!" was heard by the nearby anglers, some of whom were helping along the fishing dealers business, by giving the fish leaders, all rigged out, as little souvenirs of their attempt to land them. Mr. Ball has just boxed my salmon, and reminded me that it is eight o'clock and I am ready for another days sport at 7.30 o'clock in the morning.

Two happy New Yorkers who are guests here, Mr. Edward F. Caldwell and H. A. Van Lien can reel off a better fish yarn than I, as Mr. Caldwell caught 24 salmon today and his friend "went him one better."

The ice left here on the afternoon of May 5th and the salmon were ready for the first bait ready for them, and everyone is catching "a lot of them."

The following party met at camp yesterday: C. A. Hopkins, Rev. E. A. Slack of Brookline, Mass., Mr. Henry E. Cobb of Newton and Mr. Jacob P. Bates of Boston, have invited me to lunch with them tomorrow and "swarp fish stories" which I plan to do if the rain doesn't come down in to big drops Hoping to meet many old friends, where the fish are rising during the coming days and wishing all good luck. Fly Rod.

HEAD POND CAMPS,
JACKMAN, May 10, 1906.

We are all ready for the early fishermen. But don't expect the ice will be out before the 12th or 15th. But it has all left the shores of the pond and all is needed is a good wind to clean the thing out. I am looking for some good fishing this spring and there were some good salmon and square tailed trout taken here last spring. It should arouse the spirit of fishermen who is seeking for big gamey fish. I am looking for a good season and hope to see all my old parties and will welcome all who come to spend a season with me and will try to do my best at all times to suit my parties.

On account of the season being so backward the fishing in Lake Cobosseecontee has not been as good as last year up to this time, although some good catches have been reported, one salmon being caught weighing 9 pounds.

White Perch and Trout.

A few weeks ago several MAINE WOODS readers expressed their views through these columns as to the relative value of spotted trout and white perch and in general about the white perch as a food and game fish.

The argument was brought about by the statement of Gen. E. C. Farrington of Augusta to the effect that the white perch is the equal of the trout for game qualities and also for food. We recognize Gen. Farrington as an authority upon the question, and when we asked for a letter upon the subject they came promptly from people of experience in trout and white perch fishing. The writers agreed with Gen. Farrington that white perch are very valuable as food fish and that they are gamy to an extent that is not thoroughly appreciated by anglers who have devoted themselves principally to trout and landlocked salmon waters.

But the main question, as we understand it, is whether or not it would be Smelts and Fishing.

The letter by Mr. T. R. Sessions of Boston, in another column is interesting, as setting forth the views of an angler who would like to have folks eat all the smelts. But that is a big contract. Several million smelts were "born" this spring in each of the Maine ponds and lakes where this valuable food fish exists and as it is a smelt trait to multiply faster than any other fish, we fear Mr. Sessions may continue to be dissatisfied on account of the number of smelts in sight and inside the fish.

Fishing Has Commenced.

SINCE last week's MAINE WOODS was issued, the ice has left the last of the Maine lakes. Moosehead and the Rangeleys were as usual, the last of the larger waters to open, and travel to these popular resorts has begun. We also have very encouraging reports in regard to business prospects from the Dead River region, Sebago, Belgrade, Grand Lake and the other localities that sportsmen like to visit for trout, salmon and bass fishing.

The conditions this spring are not much as they were last year. The weather at the opening last year was warmer than it is this and the fishing was better. Apparently the very best fishing this year will be in June or the latter part of May, as is usually the case.

Votes For Schofee.

CHERRYFIELD, May 7, 1906.

To the Editor of MAINE WOODS:

Here are three votes for Hillard C. Schofee. There are many admirers of of your bright paper in this section and if a few of them who are friends of Guide Schofee would wake up and send in votes for him he would be in the contest sure. There is no more popular guide in Washington county than Schofee and a better bear hunter never drew bead on game.

Yours truly,

Game Warden C. S. Adams of Jackman went to Skowhegan recently with Benj. Dewitt of Skinner, Lowelltown, whom he took before Judge Bacheller on the charge of illegally trapping beaver. The court imposed a fine of $125 and costs which amounted to about $25 more. Case continued in order that respondent might earn the wherewithal to liquidate the fine at so much each week. Dewitt was discharged only recently after serving 30 days for the same offense. When he was taken the first time he told the warden that two skins constituted his whole stock but Adams found two more at his camp and brought him here on account of those.

FLY ROD INTERVIEWED.

TELLS ABOUT THE BIG TROUT AND SALMON OF RANGELEYS.

Amos Ellis and L. E. Bowley Talk for Publication. Big Season at Rangeleys Expected.

Miss Cornelia F. Crosby, better known perhaps by her nom de plume as Fly Rod, Amos Ellis, proprietor of Bald Mountain Camps, and L. E. Bowley, proprietor at the Mountain View House at the Rangeley Lakes, were guests at the Falmouth recently and many Portland people, who have enjoyed rare sport in capturing the big trout and salmon for which the Rangeley regions are noted, called during the evening to see them.

Although Miss Crosby is at present using crutches she is just as enthusiastic over fishing as ever and she left Portland on the midnight train on her way to Grand Lake Stream in Washington county, where she intends to fish for several days.

If there are any three people in Maine able to give a visitor the inside information regarding the best fishing and hunting grounds in the good old Pine Tree State this trio were certainly at the Falmouth.

An Argus reporter called at the Falmouth during the evening and had an interesting interview with them. Miss Crosby did most of the talking, for being a newspaper woman herself when she is not engaged in trying to lure the gamy trout and salmon from the Maine lakes she is accustomed to meeting newspaper men and knows as a rule just about what they would like to ascertain.

Mr. Ellis was Senator Frye's guide for many years and was with Senator Frye when he made his famous capture of an 11 1-2-pound lake trout on a fly.

The trio all agreed that the ice would be out of the Rangeley Lakes now in a very few days.

There is sure to be a rush of fishermen to the Rangeleys this year for Mr. Bowley and Mr. Ellis say they have already received more applications for accommodations at the lakes thus far than ever before.

Among the guests who are going in within a day or two are Fred Comee of the Boston Symphony orchestra, the Damon party of Fitchburg, Mass.; Mr. Waugh and family of Brookline, Mass.; Clarence Hoops and wife of Philadelphia, W. G. Clark of North Attleboro, Mass.; Charles Sumner Cook of Portland and party, Hiram Ricker and party and Samuel Boothby and party.

The camps owned by Mr. Bowley and Mr. Ellis are among the finest in the state and are located right in the heart of the fish and game region. In speaking of the hunting Mr. Ellis said: "There is all kinds of game up our way with the possible exception of moose. We don't see a moose very often, but there are any number of deer there, in fact only last Friday while I was walking about on my farm I happened to look up and there I saw four deer only a few yards distant watching me from the bushes.

"I notice that the people down in this section of the country are worried over a possible ice famine this summer. They wouldn't have to worry any about the ice if they lived up in the vicinity of my camps, for the ice there has been good and thick and there has been enough of it on the lakes during the past winter to supply several good sized cities.

"We are now going back to our camps to take care of the rush of fishermen which will set in within a few days," said Mr. Ellis in conclusion, "and I suppose we will be pretty busy for the next few months, for summer travel to the Rangeleys is continually increasing and there will be more people there this year than there ever was before. However, it is a great country up there, there's plenty of room, the best of fishing and a man who comes up to the lakes and spends a few weeks is sure to return home with a big string of fish and thoroughly satisfied with the time he spent there."—Portland Argus.

wise to plant white perch in waters that now have trout only or trout or landlocked salmon for the sake of warm water fishing. We are not convinced that it is wise, especially in waters that furnish summer fishing for trout and salmon.

We publish in another column a letter from Mr. C. M. Lakin of New York, who admits the great value of white perch but thinks they should be kept out of trout waters. We want Maine residents and Maine visitors to read this article whether they agree with Mr. Lakin or not and then if they are interested, express their own views for publication in the MAINE WOODS.

AT SWEET'S POND
ARE MANY BEAUTIFUL COTTAGES
AND MORE ARE BEING ERECTED.

Fishing Poor, Said to Be Caused By Too Many Smelts. Some Sea Gulls are Summering at the Pond. Yellow Oilskins Latest Dictate of Fashion.
[Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.]
NEW VINEYARD, May 14, 1906.

Among the hills of New Vineyard, like a sparkling gem in Nature's diadem, Sweet's pond, prosaic in name but beautiful in fact, may be found by the angler or seeker after Nature's beauty. Recently a MAINE WOODS reporter made a trip to the pond. It is only a short drive from Phillips to Sweet's, but when accomplished under weeping heavens the journey seems longer. We went alone as our friend who was going refused to take the chances of getting a wetting. Hardly a sportsmanlike excuse, neighbor!

Arriving at the pond it was first necessary to get a boat, but through the courtesy of Mr. F. L. Dyer of Strong, the newspaper man was enabled to secure the desired article of Mr. Leonard Hackett. Mr. Hackett has some nice boats for rental.

Styles at the pond during the recent dampness seemed to prevail largely in yellow oilskins.

They are decidedly dressy when seen at the distance of about a mile; but shed water so easily that it is a pleasure to wear them in a rain storm.

One odd happening of this years vintage at the pond was the coming of ten longs to F. E. Hackett and is commodious, well designed and located on a good site.

The Dickey brothers of Strong, Chas. and Eugene, have a small camp here, as has Messrs. Frank Goldsmith and Ed Records also of Strong.

Messrs. George and Elford Winslow of Strong have a boat house on the north shore, but no cottage or camp. They have a boat which is propelled by turning a crank, but they have recently secured a gasolene engine which they will install soon for the boat's motive power.

Mr. Fred Luce of New Vineyard was at the pond at the time we called. He has a camp and boat house, but says the fishing is so poor this spring as to be wholly uninteresting. "Way," said Mr. Luce, "when I was a boy 12 years old I fished here one day with a friend and we caught 69 togue that would weigh from 1 to 3 pounds each. In those days the fish were small but plenty. I don't know what the reason is that the fish refuse to bite this spring unless it may be that they have too many smelts for feed."

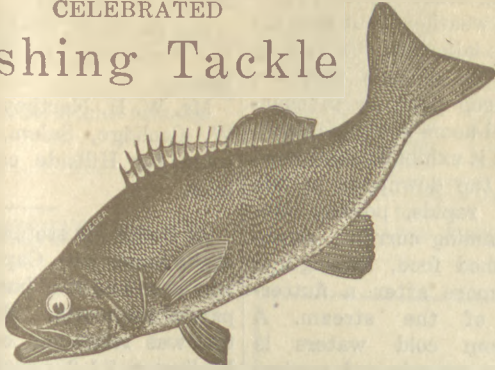

Pine Point camps are owned by Mr. Walter McLain of New Vineyard and Mr. Wm. Lee of Stratton. The interior of the cottage is finished in Colonial style, has a fireplace, a window seat and a "den." It commands a fine view of the pond, looking westward. The owners plan to rent it to parties. The first party to occupy it will come in July. Mr. McLain has gotten out some very pretty post cards of the cottage.

CAUGHT SUCKERS ON FLY.

TWO AT ONE CAST, AND THEY FOUGHT HARD.

Also Caught Others While Fishing For Trout In Connecticut River. Sometimes Taken In Swiftly Running Water.

NEWBURYPORT, MASS., May 5, 1906.

To the Editor of MAINE WOODS:

I just received a copy of your paper May 4th issue and am favorably impressed with its contents: Should say that unquestionably it is one of the very best guides procurable for those who are in request of best localities for fishing to be found. On page 5 I take note of an article from P. M. Berry of Passaic, N. J., under the heading of "Sucker Takes Fly." Now I can fully endorse his statement in regard to the habit of at least one species of sucker and can go him one better, as while fishing one afternoon for trout in Little Greenough Pond, situated in the town of Millfield N.H., the boat being handled by Geo. O. Maxwell of Errol, I was successful in landing two suckers at one cast.

The circumstances were these. We had been casting for trout for an hour or more and not having any success were about to give up the attempt, when, on nearing a small cove near the landing place were pleased to note that what we surmised were a goodly number of trout feeding. Occasionally a whopper would produce large circles on the surface of the water. Consequently I made several casts for these big ones. As often as I would make a cast, just so often would one of these fish make a plunge for the flies but falling a little short each time, I at last tried the experiment of slacking back a trifle.

The first time this was done there was a tightening of the line and I found that there was something doing almost immediately. From the indications I might expect a big fight from one of the largest trout in the pond and as the space I could use to handle him was limited on account of a promiscuous growth of lily pads I saw no way to do but to give him no time to play, as by the amount of strength he was using I readily saw that my tackle would be gone also fish if he once got entangled in these pads. Taking note of this fact I at once asked Maxwell to swing the boat around as quickly as possible and catch hold of the line and take chances on landing him. I was fishing with a six foot leader and two flies and what was our mutual surprise and disgust as he pulled into the boat the products of the cast which was nothing more or less than a sucker on each fly, each of over a foot in length.

Being reminded of this incident by reading the article in MAINE WOODS I would say that the sucker will take the fly. I caught several of them the same season, that of 1904, at different times while fishing for trout in the Hall stream which empties into the Connecticut river at Beecher Falls, Vermont. These were sometimes caught in swiftly running water.

FISH FROM TIM POND

or a dozen sea gulls. They came early in the spring, almost before the ice was out, and have been in the vicinity constantly since. These gulls find very good feed in dead smelts as well as an occasional live one. They are very tame and frequently alight, resting on the water not far from boats on the pond.

Camp Anona, owned by Messrs. H. H. Gleason and Fred Morton of Avon was the first place the writer visited. This is a very pretty camp of six rooms and also has a stable and boat house in connection. Almost directly back of this place is the Dyer camp owned by the Dyers of Strong, Charles and Frank. To the left is a camp owned by H. J. Bates of Strong and others. This entire group is located on the north shore of the pond, near the island and also near the "dead stream."

Across the pond two camps are in process of construction. The one being built by Messrs. A. D. Turner and Fred Smith of New Vineyard is particularly beautiful in architectural design as well as finish. The rooms are finished in hardwoods. When completed this will be the most elaborate camp on the pond. The other camp mentioned be-what poor this spring, the principal reason advanced for this condition of affairs being an over supply of feed. There are many smelts in the pond's waters and it is thought the trout, togue and salmon gorge themselves on these.

What the Trout Ate.

Here is a brand new fishing story from a friend: "I went out fishing the other day, so of course I had a little experience. I went to big Falls. I soon became interested; the fish bit well and so did the mosquitoes. For some reason I could not drown them.

I felt a nibble on the hook, but looked and saw two grey squirrels. They climbed up onto me and I held my breath. When they reached my head they barked and I lost my breath and away they ran for a tree. I then turned my attention to the rod but the trout had gone.

I caught 12 very pretty trout that weighed 6 pounds. In dressing them I found a frog and some fur in the stomach of one of them. After that, my appetite for trout, which had been very good, suddenly left me.

THE SPECKLED BEAUTY.

BROOK TROUT ARE NOT EXCELLED BY ANY FISH.

Finds Habitat In Streams and Lakes of Northern Portion of United States, and From Maine to Labrador, and Along South Atlantic Coast Some Qualities of Gameness and Peculiarities. Noble Fighter and Omnivorous Eater.

The United States has in its waters 15 species of trout, says the Bangor Sunday Republican, as follows: The red spotted or brook trout, the Dublin Pond trout, the Dolly Varden trout, Oregon charr, bull trout, malma, golet; the European charr, saibling; ombre chevalier; the long-finned charr, the Greenland charr, the Artic charr, the Sunapee trout, the Aquassa or blue-black trout, the Naresi trout, the Lac de Marbre trout, the lake trout, forked tail, togue; the Siscowet or Siskowitz and two imported species, the Swiss lake trout of Lake Geneva and the European trout or saibling.

The trout, with its long, graceful body, beautifully and irregularly speckled, broad, square tail, symmetrical head, its determined jaw and strong mouth, requires much of the angler. He must be calm, quiet, strong in arm, head clear, with firm and quick decision, and fish for the love of the sport.

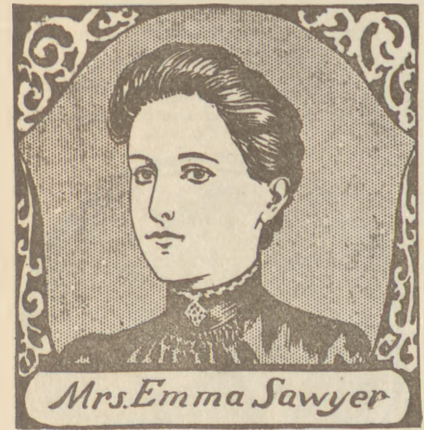

The coloration of the brook trout is highly variable with age and locality. The upper parts are usually grayish, much mottled with dark olive or black. The dorsal fin and anterior part of caudal base and top of head are also mottled. The caudal has narrow dark bars. The lower fins dusky with a creamy white anterior edge bound behind by a narrow black streak. On the sides numerous pale brownish blotches encircle small vermilion spots. It may be identified by the mottled coloration on the back, and, if caught in Pennsylvania or southward, by the absence or very faint development of the teeth on the root of the tongue. The teeth on the head of the vomer are present, but none on the shaft of the bone as in the salmon trouts. The shape and coloration of the brook trout vary somewhat, depending upon the waters inhabited, in some being very much darker than in others. Trout are sometimes taken from a deep pool in some shaded rocky glen and found to be almost black; where from a more open part of the same stream the fishes captured will be so much lighter in color as to appear almost to belong to another variety.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

Increasing Among Women, But Sufferers Need Not Despair

THE BEST ADVICE IS FREE

Of all the diseases known, with which the female organism is afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal, and statistics show that this disease is on the increase among women.

Unless early and correct treatment is applied the patient seldom survives when once the disease is fastened upon her. We believe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most efficient treatment for chronic kidney troubles of women, and is the only medicine especially prepared for this purpose.

When a woman is troubled with pain or weight in loins, backache, frequent, painful or scalding urination, swelling of limbs or feet, swelling under the eyes, an uneasy, tired feeling in the region of the kidneys or notices a sediment in the urine, she should lose no time in commencing treatment with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it may be the means of saving her life.

For proof, read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Sawyer.

"I cannot express the terrible suffering I had to endure. A derangement of the female organs developed nervous prostration and a serious kidney trouble. The doctor attended me for a year, but I kept getting worse, until I was unable to do anything, and I made up my mind I could not live. I finally decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a last resort, and I am to-day a well woman. I cannot praise it too highly, and I tell every suffering woman about my case."

Mrs. Emma Sawyer, Conyers, Ga.

Mrs. Pinkham gives free advice to women; address in confidence, Lynn, Mass.

The brook trout does not flourish in water warmer than 68 degrees, and prefers a temperature of about 50 degrees. It is an inhabitant of the cold, clear mountain streams and will leave a region which becomes polluted by mill refuse and other hurtful substances. In hot weather trout seek the deep parts of the lakes and the vicinity of cool springs. In streams they are to be found in deep pools or in channels. Its natural home is in the mountain brook, where it exhibits traits that fit it to breast the downpour of the most boisterous rapids, poisoning motionless in the foaming current, awaiting surface-washed food, leaping into the air a foot or more after a fluttering ephemera of the stream. A trout taken from cold waters is believed by most experienced anglers to make the best fish.

It is an accepted fact among trout fishermen that the presence of snow in the woods is disastrous to successful trout fishing. The brook trout likes cold water, but when the brook is surcharged with water from melting snow the trout stays lower down the stream, in the ponds and deep pools, waiting for the brook to purify itself from snow water. The trout begin to run up the stream looking for a habitat in some pool where it can lie with nose up stream ready to pounce on any delicacy borne down by the current.

The trout manifests a disdain for the open and shallow parts of the river, preferring the rapid and limpid stream, where it usually seeks the shelter of some stone or hole in the bank, whence it may watch for prey. Like the pike, it exhibits a fondness for some especial hiding place, and, in a similar manner, is sure to establish itself in a favorable haunt which has become vacant through the capture of its predecessor.

As a rule the large trout, during the heat of the day, stay in the deeper waters, secreting themselves in holes, under logs, beneath the banks and in the shadow of large stones. They are, however, constantly on the watch, ready for a rush for food or a dash for danger. As evening approaches they rise. In very hot weather they venture upon the shallows—or during a sudden rise of the waters. At the approach of dusk the trout frequent the shallows and catch such small fry as they can. The winter habit of the trout is a bit obscure. The brook trout, however, does not hibernate and generally after spawning in October seeks a winter home in the deeper pools of the nearest pond, feeding sometimes on small fish, but more commonly on the larvæ of the bottom. The fish prefers the spring holes to the icy water.

When hooked, the brook trout does not leap, like the true salmon or the black bass. When the angler sees it leap from the water it is usually because of the rush, which is like a leap, to get the bait.

Brook trout have perverted tastes. They eat one another, they eat other fish; they eat their own eggs when the chance presents itself and they deliberately set upon and kill maimed or injured trout. Big trout will jump at almost anything that is in motion on the water, a swallow drinking, artificial bait, spoons, spinners, artificial grasshoppers, crickets, frogs, "dobsons," a garter snake swimming, and even a mouse.

Brook trout will take a small spoon and a pectoral fin of one of their own brethren. That is in a measure the reason such a variety of baits are offered. The brook trout is probably the most fastidious of its kind in feeding. They have never been known to take a decayed natural bait. They have been frequently taken on an artificial fly when a half-swallowed minnow projected from their mouths, yet offer a natural bait in a putrid state and they quickly turn tail upon it after the first sniff. No fish ejects from its mouth so quickly an artificial lure when the gritty impact of the hook is felt. When gorged with food they have been known to rise to the surface and give a fly a flop with its tail, with the aim of drowning the insect.

Bait fishing is a successful method during the opening of the season. The common earth worm is the easiest secured bait. Prepared roe is also employed, that obtained from the trout itself being the most alluring. White worms or grubs, found in decaying wood, also answer admirably. Flies and minnows are also used for bait. A fat young field mouse is said to provide an irresistible bait for the trout, and will prove successful when everything else has failed.

Coming from Portland on the train today I was glad to shake hands with old friends en route for this delightful region, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel N. Thayer of Boston.

Mr. James N. Wells was on his way to "Wellsmere" on Mooselookmeguntic lake.

Mr. W. H. Northey and friend Mr. W. W. Coolidge, Salem, Mass., were en route for Hillside camp on Rangeley lake.

At Bemis we stopped long enough to shake hands with Capt. F. C. Barker, who is one of the busiest men in this part of the world. Mr. Adams of Boston was receiving congratulations on landing a 7 1-2 pound trout today at Bemis.

The steamer made its first trip yesterday from Upper Dam and Lewis Chadwick said: "There are nearly forty over to the Dam," but the train did not stop long enough for more notes and soon reached Oquossoc, where with others I was greeted by Landlord Bowley, and George Church with a fine new span of gray horses, was all ready to take the passengers over to Mountain View House.

Mr. M. B. Damon of Fitchburg, Mass., and friend Mr. J. H. Prince of Brookline Mass., and their old reliable guides Al Sprague and Frank Porter have had a good time talking fish, and yesterday Mr. Damon had great sport with a 4 pound and 3 pound salmon, while Mr. Prince caught one of 3 3-4 pounds.

Two Bostonians, Messrs. Charles C. Rogers and F. A. Kidder also came Friday. Their guides are Nate Albee and Ira Huntoon and have today caught a 3 pound salmon.

Mr. V. F. Prentice of Worcester, Mass. came today; also E. S. Butler of New York, who will stay until October. Mr. C. L. Phippen of Newton, Mass. is here.

Whose Say-so is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives. Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to this rule. Their claims to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

Amongst these writers we find such medical lights as Prof. Finley Ellinger, M. D., of Bennet Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr. Grover Coe, of New York; Dr. Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, of Pa. and scores of others equally eminent.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the worst cases of female weakness, prolapus, anteversion and retroversion and corrects irregularities, cures painful periods, dries up disagreeable and weakening drains, sometimes known as pelvic catarrh and a multitude of other diseases peculiar to women. Bear in mind, it is not a patent nor even a secret medicine, but the "Favorite Prescription" of a regularly educated physician, of large experience in the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, who frankly and confidently takes his patients into his full confidence by telling them just what his "Prescription" is composed of. Of no other medicine put up for woman's special maladies and sold through druggists, can it be said that the maker is not afraid to deal thus frankly, openly and honorably, by letting every patient using the same know exactly what she is taking.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

How to preserve health and beauty is told in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is free. For a paper-covered copy send Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only; in cloth binding 31 stamps. Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation.

Fishermen Who Visited Barker's Places Before and After the Ice Left Mooselookmeguntic Lake.

(Special correspondence to MAINE WOODS.)

BEMIS, May 15, 1906.

May 8, when the ice was solid the first sportsmen arrived, Messrs. D. E. Adams of Boston; Col J. D. Chaffee and son Charles H. Chaffee of Bridgeport, Conn., old-timers who have been here for years.

Wednesday Mr. Thomas P. Cummins and friend S. R. Cobb of Boston came and the day following Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Dizer of Hingham, Mass., to The Barker.

Friday, May 11, Mr. C. R. Young and party of New York for Upper Dam came, also several from Philadelphia; J. R. Trask of Dixfield; T. H. Blake, Lewiston; W. S. Cleaves of Brattleboro, Vt. and a number of travelling men. Saturday 39 arrived, waiting for the ice to go out.

Sunday the ice broke up and Capt. Barker started out with steamer Wm. P. Frye for Upper Dam.

It was not all smooth sailing for the big cakes of ice were floating about and they had to break their way some distance before reaching the Upper Dam with 27 passengers, baggage and freight and the season had began.

At Bemis is Dr. W. S. Norcross of Lewiston.

Dr. Wm. Noyes of Boston, is in the Brown Camp.

Mr. R. E. Follett who had charge of the Sportsman Exhibition last winter was here over Sunday and caught a 5 pound trout.

Geo. W. Paynter of New York is here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stevens and friends, Miss Mable Harvey and Bart F. Ferguson of Ridgely are here.

Dr. F. A. Crossman of Boston arrived Monday.

Mr. D. E. Adams of Boston, while fishing from the wharf struck a big trout that for nearly an hour fought to net by the skillful handling of the rod, and has since been the envy of all anglers and the most talked about of any fish. It was a very handsome 7 pound, 1 ounce-trout.

The steamboats began today to make regular trips.

The camps at the Birches will be opened this week and the season promises to be a better one than ever before.

FREEMAN, SALEM, KINGFIELD.

Last week MAINE WOODS had a short article on the trout brooks of Salem, under the heading, "Freeman, Salem, Kingfield." This week the brooks of Kingfield and Freeman are described.

One of the best known trout brooks in Kingfield is called Alder Brook. It is closed part of its length, but the balance of the way the trout fishing is all that could be asked for.

The outlet of Dutton pond is called Reed brook and is closed as far as Reeds Falls. Reed brook fishing is nearly always good, the trout being of good size and very gamey.

One of the small brooks in Kingfield where good fishing may be enjoyed is called Ledge Brook. The fishing here is not to be classed with some of the other brooks mentioned, yet is very good at times.

Rapid Stream is mostly in Kingfield, although Salem was given the credit last week of fathering the brook. It is a fine trout stream.

Indian Pond Stream is another justly famous trout stream.

Kingfield's most famous trout stream, however, is the Carrabassett river. There are two branches, the north and the south, but the south branch is called the better of the two. Alder brook runs into the south branch of the Carrabassett. On this stream, or river, as it is frequently called, large trout are caught in numbers sufficient to satisfy the most exacting fisherman.

Smaller brooks include the Stanely Brook, dear to the heart of the small boys of the town, for here it is near the village that the youths of the place take their first lessons in the noble art of angling. Another small brook is the Curtis Brook.

It would be unfair to pass over the piscatorial beauties of Kingfield without calling attention to the triumvirate of excellent ponds in town. They are Tufts, Grindstone and Dutton.

In Tufts, trout and salmon are both caught, but in the other two ponds trout are only found. Tufts pond at this date is alive with smelts and it is the hope of all good fishermen that people will come and catch a string of these fish. They are good eating, as may not be generally known, and if the present large numbers are allowed to swim the waters of the pond the trout and salmon fishing will be injured.

At the meeting of the fish and game commissioners at Phillips Hotel Thursday the commissioners granted the petition of the citizens of Kingfield, headed by W. B. Small, to limit the catch of trout or salmon from any or all ponds by anyone person in one day. The catch of trout or salmon was restricted to 10 fish. The legal length of trout caught in these ponds is now eight inches instead of five, as in general and length of salmon has been increased to 12 inches, instead of nine inches.

This action was secured to prevent the fishing in these ponds, which are yearly becoming more and more popular, from deteriorating. Mr. W. P. Watson of Kingfield had this measure much at heart and was present with Mr. Small at the above mentioned hearing.

The trout brooks in Freeman are somewhat limited in number the largest and best being called the Gilkey Brook, and sometimes called Valley Stream. It takes its rise in Salem and runs through Freeman and a portion of Strong.

Fishing on this brook is nearly always good.

Ponds in this section include Gammon Pond, where the pickerel fishing is of the best, and Taylor Hill Pond.

Experience

backed by the general law of average proves that the first appearance of an advertisement does not bring business nor even create much curiosity. It costs little to advertise in MAINE WOODS. A trial (one time) insertion for business advertising is a waste of money. If you go in, stay in and it will pay you. "Keeping everlastingly at it" is the only way to success.

In continuity is strength. In disconnection is failure. Few people buy anything the first time they hear about it. There is not a solitary case where intermittent advertising has brought returns compared with that from continuous advertising—that everlasting pounding away at the public day in and day out.

ALWAYS TAKE MOTHER'S ADVICE.

Mother's Medicine Chest.

When we look back to childhood and think of what mother advised, we feel pretty certain that she advised what was right from her own experience. She inherited later in her instinct of motherhood a knowledge of childish ailments and a certain class of remedies that she knew well and their effects. Experience after all is the best teacher. Most mothers know as well as doctors, and often better, what ails a young girl on the threshold of young womanhood and what she needs. For nearly forty years many mothers have recommended to ailing girls a prescription made from well-known native medicinal plants. Lady's Slipper root, Golden Seal root, Black Cohosh root, Unicorn root, Blue Cohosh root and chemically pure glycerine make one of the best prescriptions for the periodical troubles and afflictions which visit womankind at one time or another. Prof. F. Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, says of Lady's Slipper root: "It exercises special influence upon nervous conditions, depending upon disorders of the feminine organs—relieves pain, restlessness and nervousness." Prof. Jno. M. Scudder, M. D., says of the same root, "It is valuable in all cases of nervous excitability or irritability." Of Golden Seal root, Edwin M. Hale, M. D., Professor of Materia Medica at Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago, says: "In its general effects on the system there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as a tonic useful in all debilitated states." Prof. F. Ellingwood, M. D., author of "A Treatise on Materia Medica and Therapeutics," says of Golden Seal root: "It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb." Of Black Cohosh root, Prof. Jno. M. King, M. D., author of "Women and Her Diseases," says: "Upon the reproductive organs it exerts a specific influence, promoting regularity. In dysmenorrhoea (painful periods), it is surpassed by no other drug, being of the greatest utility in irritative and congestive conditions, for dragging pains resembling the pains of rheumatism and for side ache." Of Unicorn root the AMERICAN DISPENSARY says: "It is one of our most valuable agents, acting as a uterine tonic, and gradually removing abnormal conditions, while at the same time it imparts tone and vigor to the reproductive organs, hence it is much used in leucorrhoea, amenorrhoea (suppressed periods), dysmenorrhoea (painful periods), etc."

Dr. John Fyfe, Editor of the "Eclectic Medical Review," says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica), one of the chief ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription: "A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator and always favors a condition which makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system, cannot fail to be of great usefulness and of the utmost importance to the general practitioner of medicine. In Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent."

He continues: "Helonias (Unicorn root)—through its tonic and alterative influence—acts equally well in amenorrhoea (suppressed menstruation) and in menorrhagia (flooding or profuse menstruation). It is especially called for in cases of amenorrhoea which are accompanied by general debility and an atonic (weak) condition of the digestive organs, as it increases the appetite and promotes digestion and assimilation. When there is atony (weakness) of the generative organs and a tendency to miscarriage its tonic influence upon the sexual system will aid much in bringing about a normal condition of the structures involved. In sterility and impotence its curative power is unmistakable, and within a reasonable time it will restore to healthful activity all cases not dependent upon organic wrongs, and in leucorrhoea and defective menstruation it is a frequently needed remedy."

The following are among the leading indications for Helonias: "Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhoea; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhoea (suppressed menstruation), arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and an anemic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading and pre-dominating ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, associated with other equally efficient medicinal extracts of native roots.

From the above extracts it will be understood why Doctor Pierce is so successful in curing diseases peculiar to women with a carefully prepared glyceric extract of the above mentioned roots in just the right proportions—this compound being called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. As a solvent and preservative, glycerine is superior to alcohol and is entirely unobjectionable. The "Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments that does not contain alcohol and that too in large quantities. It is also the only non-secret medicine for women sold by druggists. Its ingredients are printed in full on the bottle wrapper and in plain English.

Dr. Pierce feels that he can afford to take the afflicted into his full confidence and lay all the ingredients of his medicines freely before them because these ingredients are such as are endorsed and most strongly praised by scores of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice as cures for the diseases for which these medicines are recommended.

Your druggists also the "FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION" and also that famous alterative, blood purifier and stomach tonic, the "GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY." Write to Dr. Pierce about your case. He is an experienced physician and will treat your case as confidential and without charge for correspondence. Address him at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., of which he is chief consulting physician.

It is as easy to be well as ill—and much more comfortable. Constipation is the cause of many forms of illness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two a mild cathartic. All dealers in medicines sell them.

A good medical book, written in plain English, and free from technical terms is a valuable work for frequent consultation. Such a work is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It's a book of 1000 pages, profusely illustrated. It is given away now, although formerly sold in cloth binding for $1.50. Send 21 cents, in one-cent stamps, to pay for cost of mailing only for paper-covered copy, addressing Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., or 31 cents for an elegantly cloth-bound copy.

An Animal Story For Little FolksTHE
Black Crow's Mistake

The crows had been eating more of Farmer Brown's corn than usual and the farmer got out his gun and took his position in his garden patch. His wife scattered a handful of corn about on the ground. The crows flew all around and high up in the air and peeped down at the little grains of corn on the ground and wished that they could get them without being shot by the farmer.

But after awhile the black crow thought that he would play a good joke on the farmer and get all the corn that he wanted without getting hurt.

"I'll go down there," he said to himself, "and tell the farmer that I am one of the best crows that ever lived, and that I am sorry that my brothers, sisters, cousins, aunts and uncles have been eating all of his corn, and that I want to help him to keep them away. I'll tell him to give me his gun and go into his house, and when the other crows come I will shoot them for him. Then when he goes away I shall hop about and eat all the corn I want and when he comes back to see how I have made out I'll just fly away and laugh at him."

FLEW STRAIGHT IN THE DIRECTION OF THE FARMER.

The black crow flapped his wings and flew straight in the direction of the farmer.

Now, it happened that Farmer Brown did not know one crow from another, and he had no idea that the black crow was going to try to play a trick on him. But the farmer was a pretty smart old gentleman, and it would have been a hard matter for anybody to fool him. When he saw the crow coming he did not wait to ask any questions, but aimed his gun right at the bird and blew him all to pieces.

Moral.—Be careful how you try to play pranks on people.—Chicago Tribune.
