NEWSPAPER HISTORY

The Rockland Gazette was established in 1846.

In 1847 the Courier was established, and consolidated with the Gazette in 1887. The Free Press was established in 1887, and in 1891 changed its name to the Tribune. These papers consolidated Congressman Littlefield need not worry much about a re-election next fall if he desires one, as all who value the second district's influence and prestige in Washington earnestly hope he does.

The centennial of the discovery of John Alexander Dowie, head of the "Christian Catholic church in Zion," was deposed Monday as a religious leader, suspended from membership in the church he founded, shorn of his temporal possessions as far as they are located in Zion City, the home of his church, and warned to accept the situation quietly lest worse things befall him. One of the charges made against Dowie was that he undertook to teach polygamy.

The largest and most complete electric installation ever fitted on board is in store for the new Cunarder, the Mauritania, now building at Wall-send. The vessel will be lit, says the Glasgow Herald, by about five thousand lamps of sixteen candle power, which more than double the number fitted on the Cedric. Two electric passenger elevators are to be erected for conveying the passengers between the decks, two elevators for luggage and six smaller elevators for the mail, etc. There will be a telephone exchange on board, which will connect the chief passenger sections of the ship with the officers, and there are also to be special telephones from the bridge. But perhaps the most up-to-date novelty is the provision of electric curling-iron heaters for the women passengers.

FRIEND JULIAN

Writes Another of His Characteristically

Interesting Letters.

Stony Creek, Conn., April 2.

The granite business is taking an upward tendency here. The Stony Creek

Red Granite Co. have just started about thirty cutters with a prospect of a much larger force as soon as the quarries are put in good condition. Aleck

Malley, a former Vinalhavenite, is foreman and E. S. Grant is chief superintendent. As the works have been shut down for several years this new departure is gladly welcomed by the stonemasonry fraternity.

The Norcross Bros. Co. are running a small concern, but there is a rumor of expected contracts in the near future.

Down this way we are glad to see the advertisement in The Courier-Gazette for 25 cutters at Clark's Island. Ed.

Kessell, another Vinalhavenite, is shed foreman there. Ned has the makings of a good boss in him and we all wish him success.

Since writing your last letter the writer has been working near the city of Middletown on what is known as the "Ben-venue" works. The company employ about 100 cutters and with their excellent facilities can handle large contracts. The stone is brought here from Stonington, Me., and the quality of the stock is first-class for heavy building work. I understand the firm has purchased a quarry lot near Stonington, on Crotch Island. Mr. Wallace, a former resident of Stony Creek, is superintendent of the new quarry plant there. The boarding house at the Benvenue Co's works is fitted up in regular hotel style, single beds, two in a room. The house is heated by steam and is furnished throughout in the pleasantest style I ever saw in a stone-workers boarding house. There is a library and reading room, a billiard room, a smoking room and every convenience is at hand for the use of the boarders. It is situated on the bank of the Connecticut river and in the summer season must be a pretty spot.

In your issue of March 27 Mr. Gardner is quoted as being in favor of drug stores selling liquor in Maine and prefers that system to town agencies.

He also says one can hardly cross a street without meeting a drunken bumper. The gentleman's views shows he is off his base on the temperance question. I have lived in Maine for more than 15 years and his reference to licence states as compared to Maine is entirely without foundation. I have boarded Clark's Island, on Hurricane

Island, in houses with from 20 to 70 men of many different nationalities. I

Rockland Artist Continues His Narrative Of Travels Across the Water.

[Third Letter.]

Hotel Jeronymo, Furnas, Azores—

Since I wrote to you by the Romanic I have had some rather rich experiences.

Having learned that a young Azorean by the name of Signor Alcantara had an automobile, in which he made frequent trips into the country, and who stopped at the same hotel with myself, I instantly made arrangements by which I was to accompany him to this place, well known to many on account of its picturesqueness, and some famous hot springs, which draw large numbers of persons to Furnas in the summer time.

It was a beautiful day when we started, and the road, skirting the shore, and going through several busy villages furnished many interesting sights. The streets are all narrow and we met many donkeys and mules, most of them laden also with oxen and cattle, and the furnishings and twines sold them gave Signor Alcantara all the business he wanted to have in hand, and the many very narrow escapes from collisions furnished with plenty of excitement.

As the automobile has passed through these streets frequently for three years past the peasants are always on the lookout and when the "hoof-chout" is heard the great deal of shouting, signaling, scrambling and crowding to give him room. Vehicles pass to the left instead of to the right as with us, and the drivers are very anxious to get out of the way.

We went through the little fishing village where the Trans-atlantic Cable is stationed, not far from Ponta Del-gada and afterwards came to quite a large settlement called St. Roque.

There we continued our journey along a fairly level highway, through several small villages, the last of which was very picturesque, as it straggled down from the hill to the sea, and at last came in sight of Villa Franca, which is an important town where certain fruit steamers stop for business at stated times. We took breath here and allowed the machinery to cool then resumed the journey, which now led us into the interior and up high hills and through elevated pastures, where the automobile was a good one of the Bayard manufacture and the climbing gear worked quite well, though on account of the steep inclines our progress was slow at times.

Owing to a delay in the hour of starting, by the time we reached the first considerable hills evening coming, and the sun had fallen and the same time to render our way still more dubious, rain began to descend from gathering clouds. Soon we were in a fordable stream and our road led us through dark ravines and sombre passes until by the time we were able to descend light had come upon us. We tried to light the lamps but the rainwater was so heavy that many of which go out an instant after the flash is obtained, would not amount to anything in such a wind and rain. Fortunately Signor Alcantara was familiar with the way, and to watch him climb over the narrow, gullied and slippery roads with all its devices and dangers was an experience which I shall never forget. He is young and brave and has the confidence of youth, but it seemed to me the most perilous ride I ever had. Instead of the beautiful prospect expected to have on approaching Furnas, we were driving through blinding rain and thick darkness that might almost have been the result of a bad dream.

At last, however, we came to a stand on end at the possibility of having our brains dashed out on some neighboring rock or tree or drowning in the lake whose shores we had not seen. At last, however, we came to a

Mr. Thomas tells The Courier-Gazette that the dining room service will be made as nearly perfect as possible. He plans to utilize the pavilion for a skating rink as well as a dance hall, and there will be numerous other attractions new to the place. Mr. Thomas is a native of Hope and over the market for a merry-go-round.

Solicitor Payson has given the city council his opinion that the city is not liable for the damages recently sustained by Rebecca Clough through an alleged defect of the Broadway sidewalk.

In the case of Mrs. Harriet Havenner, who stumbled over a loose brick in front of Whitney's store, he declares that the notice served upon the city was defective. The petition of Ephraim Perry and others asking the city to grant a location for a Street Railway waiting station at the junction of Cedar and North Main streets and Broadway, was referred to the committee on streets.

To the same committee went petition for a concrete sidewalk on Fulton street, a concrete sidewalk on the westerly side of Lincoln street, a blank sidewalk on Crescent street, and new sidewalks on Gay and Glen streets. New sewers are asked for on Mechanic street, and on Warren street, up North Main. Councilman Bowley would start the work of reform by having new sewers prevented from crying their wares on Sunday. His order to that effect was passed by both boards. It is hoped Mr. Bowley will be one of the first to complain because he "did not hear the boy," if he fails to get his paper next Sunday. Sixteen of the 21 councilmen were present at Monday night's city meeting. If there are to be five absentees on the occasion of the first regular meeting, how many will there be when the horse question is settled? Answers may be sent to City Marshal Spear, whose duty it will presently be to run up a quorum.

Fred Brown, watchman at the Maine Central round house, has been added to the list of constables. The appointment was made at the request of the railroad.

This team stands very high in the excellence of its work. A large attendance of Pythian brethren is expected and desired. Any one desiring further particulars should write W. C. Achorn, K. of R. & S., Damariscotta, Me.

William J. McDougall, who has taught the high school in South Thomaston the past year, graduates in June from Bowdoin college, where he will have completed the course in three years. It is a tribute to Mr. McDougall's ability as a teacher that he has already been engaged as sub-master of the high school at Good Will Farm in Fairfield. Mr. McDougall is home from Bowdoin on a short vacation, and is receiving congratulations upon his good fortune.

The April term of supreme court, so-called lasted just one-half day. Judge Whitehouse of Augusta presided, and the docket was called. Seventy-one new entries were made, and the trial list is quite a lengthy one. Rev. J. H. Quint officiated as chaplain. Adjournment was made to April 24, one week later than had been planned. The object of adjourning lies in the fact that Judge Peabody of Portland, to whom the term was assigned, is indefinitely detained by the Cooper murder trial in Kennebec county. The delay is unfortunate for several reasons, but chief among them is the fact that farming men have their minds on the gardens rather than on petty legal squabbles.

MRS. LUCY METCALF.

Lacking but eight days of having attained her 75th birthday, Mrs. Lucy E. Metcalf died Wednesday night at her home on Camden street. Deceased had been an invalid for several years, and had failed so rapidly during the winter that her friends and relatives were warned of the approaching dissolution.

Mrs. Metcalf was a native of Hope and her parents were Boyce Crane and Betsey Alford. She was a devoted member of the Universalist church, and exercised a power of great good in the community where she resided. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Charles Jones of Bangor and Miss Mary Metcalf of this city. The funeral will take place Saturday at 2 p. m. at the family residence. Rev. Mr. Chapin will officiate.

The Knox County Automobile Club met Tuesday night at the store of its president, Orel E. Davies, 17 members being present. E. S. Stearns entertained the club with an account of his own experiences covering period of two years and a distance of nearly 8000 miles. The delights, trials and mishaps of automobile riding over rough roads with a machine that would have its occasional refractory spells, were told by Mr. Stearns in a manner that has much appreciated by his listeners.

It was voted to make Camden the destination of the first run, which will be made on the evening of May 1st. The maiden delegation will do the honors at Potter's studio, and the annual meeting will be held there the same night. Various matters dear to the heart of the automobile owner were discussed at Tuesday night's meeting and President Davies set forth a lunch of coffee, doughnuts and sandwiches.

At the Young Men's Christian Association Sunday Rev. A. C. Hussey of Warren will be the speaker. The association quartet will sing. The meeting commences at 4 o'clock as usual.

The Penobscot View Grange fair at G. A. R. hall April 17 promises to be the event of the season. There will be plenty of entertainment both afternoon and evening for both old and young.

While in Boston a few days ago Mr. Frank Donohue bought a speedy bay mare, which is now being worked out by Eddie Kirby with a view to being put on the track this season. Kirby is now handling nine horses, most of them flyers.

Fuller C. Blackington has been appointed driver of one of the city teams and also becomes driver of the steamer. He handled the ribbon for the first time in the latter capacity at the chimney fire on North Main street Tuesday night.

The fire department was called to Amesbury Heights on North Main street, Tuesday evening, by the discovery that a chimney of Alfred Murray's stove was on fire. The blaze was extinguished in short order, and without any extensive damage.

The Rebekahs had a meeting of much interest Tuesday night, when the degrees were conferred upon Ethel Vose, Olive Watts and Ellen Massey. Visitors were present from the Rebekah lodges of Thomaston and Waldoboro. The meeting was preceded by a circle supper.

On his trip to Rockland Tuesday afternoon Capt. W. G. Butman of the steamer Butman sighted immense shoals of herring near Matinicus. Walter Tolman in his power boat dipped thousands of them. They were the first shoals of any consequence that Capt. Butman has seen this season.

Arthur Richardson was notified Thursday that he had passed Senator Frye's competitive examination for the Annapolis Naval Academy, recently held. He has yet to undergo the physical test and enter into examination, but his friends are confident that he will do both successfully.

He is already a member of a number of the junior class of the Rockland high school, and prominent in school athletics. He is a son of Charles E. Richardson, Park street.

Col. L. H. Kendall and Maj. John L. Dooley of the First Maine Regiment made an official call upon Co. K Tuesday night. The latter is assistant inspector general of rifle practice and his talk on that subject was listened to with a great deal of interest. In this connection the trial of the new indoor range had special interest. Co. H is already to muster in a number of new recruits, and the recently promoted officers are planning to make good the promises they made before their election. A big boom is ahead for Tillson Light infantry.

Wednesday afternoon was the time set for the postponed sheriff's sale of Rockland, South Thomaston & Orel's Head Street Railway, but there was no attempt to have it, owing to a technicality, which, in the mind of one of the interested attorneys, would make such sale illegal. Proceedings have been re-commenced and the sale is now advertised to take place May 8. Meanwhile a formal transfer of the property of the road has been made to the receivers A. S. Littlefield and S. T. Kimball, who have filed bonds in the sum of $5000 each. The process of settling the road's affairs will, doubtless, have very tedious to those who want to see the cars running, but it is generally believed that this is what will develop the road in the end.

The armored cruiser Washington will have her trial over the Rockland course next Tuesday, and the members of the trial boards will probably arrive the previous day. The Washington is a 10,000 ton ship to the cruiser Tennessee launched at Cramp's shipyard last December. While not designed to be as fast as some armored cruisers, she will have greater battery and defensive power than any vessel classed as a cruiser. The armor plate protection ranges from nine inches for the turret to five inches for belts. The main battery will consist of four 10-inch guns and 16 6-inch guns. The secondary battery will have 22 3-inch rapid fire guns, 12 5-inch rapid fire guns, two 1-pounder semi-automatic and two 1-pounder rapid fire guns, two 3-inch field pieces, three small caliber rapid fire machine guns. The indicated horsepower of the engines is 22,000 and they are designed to drive the vessel at a speed of not less than 22 knots per hour.

RHEUMATISM CURED

WAS HEREDITARY THROUGH THREE GENERATIONS.

Disease Yielded Readily to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills After Other Treatment Failed.

Nothing better demonstrates that rheumatism is a disease of the blood than the fact that it is hereditary in certain families. It may not develop until conditions of cold and dampness favor it because nature is always fighting to keep the body in health. When disease does get the upper hand and rheumatism is seated in the blood, a remedy that will revitalize and renew the blood is the simplest and best means of relief.

Such a remedy is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills supply the necessary elements to the vitiated blood and enable nature to cast out the impurities and effect a cure.

Mrs. A. Baker, of No. 119 Fifth street, one of the many handsome residential streets of Syracuse, N. Y., will furnish living evidence of the truth of these statements. "There has been rheumatism in my family ever since I can remember," she says. "My grandmother was afflicted with it, and my mother also had the disease in a mild form."

"Some years ago I was taken with rheumatism in one knee and by the time I had taken them I don't know how long that attack lasted but it was some time. About a year ago I had a hard cold and the rheumatism caught me in my left knee. There were sharp pains, confined to the neighborhood of the knee and they seemed to go right into the bone. ## OUR NEW YORK LETTER

New Light on Oil Trust—How Missouri David Overcame Standard Oil Goliath in New York—Rockefeller Away for Years but Wall Street Never Missed Him—Yachtsmen Await Lipton's Fourth Trial for an American Trophy.

New York, April 4.—Attorney General Hadley of Missouri became something of a popular hero in the metropolis, before he left, and if he got back to his home state with his digestion unimpaired, it was not the fault of New Yorkers who were eager to give dinners in his honor. Courage, modesty and tenacity of purpose are the qualities that marked Mr. Hadley's work here, and his success in making the Standard Oil Company "show him" has gained general applause. When Mr. Hadley first came out of the West to tackle the Oil Goliath in its den, New York, and its characteristic attitude of looking at every public character from West of Pittsburgh as a joke, prepared for a good laugh. Taking their cue from this, the officers of the company tried their best to throw ridicule on the investigation from the start. Invoking an all but forgotten rule of procedure, they compelled Mr. Hadley to disperse with a stenographer and take the record of the proceedings in longhand. Most of the chief witnesses defied mysteriously, and H. H. Rogers, who was the subpoena server, caught, when the hearings as a sort of opera bouffe with himself as chief comedian. Moreover, Mr. Hadley was opposed at every step by a band of the most skillful corporation lawyers in New York. "Let them have their fun," said the young man from Missouri, and kept plugging away. And at last the big corporation surrendered and admitted the ownership of three big companies in Missouri. Mr. Hadley now goes back to his state with an excellent foundation for beginning suits for violation of the anti-trust law.

An interesting side light on the secrecy with which the business of the Standard Oil Company is conducted, is shown by the testimony of John D. Archbold, vice-president of the company, that John D. Rockefeller has not personally taken any interest in the conduct of the company's business for ten years. For years, declared Mr. Archbold, the nominal head of the Oil Trust has scarcely visited his office in the big Standard Oil building at 25 Wall street. Yet by the news sharks who haunt the Wall street districts, the "richest man in the world" was not missed. As a matter of fact, so elusive were his movements that even when he attended business every day, scarcely any chance observer ever saw the big oil magnate. In the morning he slipped out of his carriage and was swallowed up in the most impenetrable building in the world, until he stole out again in the evening. It has always been impossible for a stranger to penetrate even to the upper floor where Mr. Morgan and William Rockefeller make their headquarters. A sharp contrast to their mysterious seclusion can be observed at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., two blocks away, where Mr. Morgan ordinarily sits at his desk beside a huge plate glass window on the first floor, smoking black cigars and digging through mountains of papers. The view of the hurrying Wall street crowds guards his private sanctum from the curious ones who stroll in from the outer world.

New York, which from the first has gone on record for conservatism on a matter so important to the general welfare as tinkering with the railroad rate problem, has watched with great interest recent changes in the attitude of many early advocates of stringent rate regulation. Among those advocates of legislation who have recently gone on record against the Hepburn bill are Prof. William Z. Ripley of Harvard, who in an article in the Quarterly Journal of Economics, characterizes radical regulation as injudicious; and President C. S. Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, who says: "No rate rule or regulation should be established by any tribunal without suspension of same pending an appeal to the courts; and if the judges are likely to be overburdened, and there is delay, they should be helped out by increasing their number." This plain speaking from a man who has been a constant adviser of President Roosevelt on the rate question, should attract attention. No less plainspoken was District Attorney Jerome when, in a recent speech, touching on certain tendencies to haste in the lower house of Congress, he said: "Take the Hepburn bill. Seven men voted against it and not a man able to understand it. But the yellows said we must have something doing, and so your popular branch said we must do something, whether we understand it or not."

Local yachtsmen have been delighted with the reports that Sir Thomas Lipton will come to this country during the summer to try to "lift" the King's cup, the yachting trophy which King Edward gave to the New York Yacht Club last fall. The race will be held off Newport in August. Sir Thomas will compete with Shamrock III, which has remained in this country ever since the baronet's last failure to carry off the America's cup, and as the Reliance will probably not participate in the contest, Sir Thomas will have a better chance of winning a yachting trophy in American waters than he ever had before. By the graceful manner with which he has suffered three bitter defeats for the "blue ribbon of the sea," the genial Irishman has won the heart of New Yorkers, and there is no American yachtsman whose popularity equals his. This esteem is particularly strong in New York's harbor world. Every fisherman about Sandy Hook, every tug captain and bargeman of the harbor, knows the Earl, Sir Thomas's steam yacht, and if it comes sailing up the bay next summer a thousand whistles will shriek out a royal greeting of good luck.

The storm clouds that are gathering in the anthracite coal regions are worrying local householders not a little, for they know that, whether the operators of the mines are to blame for a strike, the consumer has to pay the expenses of it. Already the retail coal dealers are being besieged by their customers with inquiries as to whether it is advisable to lay in next winter's supply now or wait in hope that the difficulties will be adjusted without a strike. The announcement by the operators that they have a reserve of coal stored in reserve within a radius of less than 100 miles of the city has not carried with it much reassurance. As Goiham consumes 1,200,000 tons a month, this great reserve would not serve even this winter. And then, Father Knickerbocker knows from bitter experience that no matter how much coal is laid in, it is available, the price begins to soar as soon as a strike is declared. Possibly some day the long-suffering consumer will form a combine or union to protect himself against rapacious trusts and exorbitant prices.

labor unions. Then the strike will become a thing of the past.

For a month past refugees of pure Russian stock have been drifting quietly into New York from the blood-stained Baltic provinces and Little Russia. Nicholas Tchaykovsky, associate of Prince Kori, the Russian revolution, who has spent ten years in Russian jails and ten in exile in England, is one of these refugees. He and his followers belong to the intellectual group of Russians, often men of noble birth, who worked among the peasants, teaching them and trying to improve their condition, and received as reward imprisonment, exile, death or the terrors of Siberia. Though little is heard of this band of Russians, they are all working like beavers here, forging the thunderbolts which, they believe, will hurl the Czar from his throne. Tchaykovsky, a man of 70 years, with alertness of half that age, says that the hardships brought about by the Japanese war are falling with steadily increasing rigor on the peasants, who are now on the verge of famine, and the real struggle between the peasants and the government has just begun.

A day or so ago, when the police announced to Big Paddy Ryan, one of the cleverest pickpockets and strong-arm men in the business, that he must go into exile from the metropolis, Paddy said, "Boston for mine." Paddy, Sergeant Leeson escorted him to the Fall River Line to see him safely off. But when Paddy reached Fall River, he decided that he had been exiled long enough and immediately started back. Not many minutes after his return, a diamond scarf pin attracted Paddy's attention and his fingers reached after it. The owner felt for his pin and then seized Paddy's coat—but Paddy was not in it. The gentleman took the coat to police headquarters and, while glancing over the photographs, came across Paddy's and identified him. "Impossible, he's in Boston," exclaimed the Inspector in charge. But to make sure he sent two detectives up to Longacre square and they soon gathered in the reluctant exile. He fitted the coat. In the middle of the East River stands a large gray building of unpretentious architecture, the windows of which are protected by stout iron bars. Paddy will make this his residence for a while.

Often The Kidneys Are

Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood. It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

This Week

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A review from the columns of the Rockland Gazette, of some of the events which interested Rockland and vicinity for the three weeks ending April 7, 1881.

The time burners at the several kilns struck for an increase of wages from $1.25 to $1.50 per day. The manufacturers granted the increase and work was resumed.

O. S. Trussell opened a repair shop on Linwood street, in the rear of the Greenback club room.

D. N. Mortland moved into the D. N. Mitchell house on Masonic street.

The boiler at the gas works exploded completely wrecking the building. The walls, which were of brick and stone, were sent completely asunder and the bricks sent flying a considerable distance. The boiler was forced up through the roof and sent some 80 feet from the original position. The smokestack landed near the barn of George Case. At the time of the explosion there were five persons in the boiler room. Timothy Cronin (the engineer) and four boys, one of the latter being engaged at work, and the other three were pitching pennies. The occupants were immediately prostrated by the falling timbers and volume of steam from the boiler. Three of the boys were rescued from the ruins without having sustained severe injuries. Mr. Cronin suffered a fracture of the elbow and was injured in the face and eyes. John Hartnett, one of the boys, suffered a compound fracture of both bones of the right leg, a fracture of the upper jaw, and several flesh wounds. A defect in the steam gauge had been noted. The city was without gas two days.

Capt. Richard Snow went to Annapolis, N. S., to take command of the brig Caroline Gray. This was Mr. Snow's first cruise as captain. The brig was chartered for a Cuban port to load lumber.

Martin A. Blackington was appointed city treasurer at a salary of $450 a year. A movement was on foot to secure mail from Boston to this city by the Sanford line of steamers.

Steam cutter Levi Woodbury was ordered to this station to take the place of the McCulloch, which had been ordered to Baltimore.

The First Baptist Sunday school elected the following officers: Superintendent, F. M. Shaw; vice superintendent, W. O. Fuller, Jr.; secretary and treasurer, Adrian Everett; librarian, Addie Andrews.

WHAT THE NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY STANDS FOR

—The scientific, reconstructed baking industry, whereby the goodness and nutrition of Biscuit and Crackers have been marvelously enhanced.

—The new method of protection by which all dust, dirt and moisture are completely excluded from the package and the freshness and goodness of its contents are carefully preserved.

This is the trade mark which appears in red and white on each end of the package as an absolute pledge both of the quality of the baking and the purity of the packing.

For example try Graham Crackers—so different from the ordinary graham crackers—different in baking—different in flavor—different in packing. More palatable—more satisfying—more nutritious. Made of the purest Graham flour and baked in a manner understood only by the National Biscuit Company.

The Earth and Man Compared.

If it were possible for a man to construct a globe 800 feet in height—much less than twice the height of the Washington monument—and to place upon any portion of its surface an atom one four thousand three hundred and eighty-fourth of an inch in diameter and one one hundred and twentieth of an inch in height, it would certainly denote the proportions man bears to the gigantic globe upon which he stands.

A Kissling Duel.

At some amateur theatricals in Victoria two people in the stalls, whenever the heroine was kissed, kissed each other loudly and with ostentation. It turned out that the man in the audience was the husband of the heroine, who disapproved of her theatrical tastes and, with the help of an amiable friend, took this way of reproving them.—Sydney (Australia) Bulletin.
