VOL. XXXII. NO. 40—PRICE 4 CENTS.

PHILLIPS, MAINE, THURSDAY, MAY 5, 1910.

LOCAL EDITION—12 PAGES.

Remington .22 RIFLE

Solid Breech Hammerless like all Remingtons. Adapted to all small game shooting because it shoots equally well without adjustment .22 short, long and long rifle cartridges.

Takes apart easily by turning thumbscrew on side. You can look through the barrel and clean it from the breech, thus insuring lifetime wear. The barrel of an ordinary .22 rifle which cannot be cleaned from the breech soon rusts out. It is the only Solid Breech Hammerless .22 Repeater made which has the convenient tube magazine. The difference between the modern Remington and other .22 rifles is amazing.

A STRING OF PERCH.

Otisfield, Me., Apr. 28, 1910.

We are a "school-marm" and an "ex-school-marm," as adept with the fishing rod as with the rod of correction. So all the neighbors had white-perch for dinner that day, caught from Bay of Naples (in Maine not Italy), which before the advent of the summer hotel was Brandy pond, whose waters flow into devious Songo river and thence to old Sebago.

You are familiar with white perch fishing and can imagine how the four of us started off in the afternoon, so as to be on the pond at sunset, when these fish like best to be caught.

We left old Dobbin at the Bay of Naples Inn stable and selected a boat from the neat row of canoes and boats all lined up ready to be launched.

Depositing ourselves, our wraps, supper and fishing rigging within, we threaded our way out through the deepest part of the shallow, reedy channel. Here the steamboats pass on their way from lake to lake.

As soon as we had passed where the last stake marks off our path and got fairly into the open bay, we cast over three lines for trolling, one from the stern and one from either side of the boat.

I sat in the stern, the "school-marm" and her escort on one seat and the man with the oars on another, and as he rowed, we let our reels run off yard after yard of line, which trailed out straight behind.

Ah, here were all the elements which go to make pleasure for a human being. Here was the nearness and almost challenge to danger, which so fascinates all nature's children, in the locking shell of a few boards, which was all that separated us from fifty feet of dark water. Here was anticipation, which has been said to be more pleasurable

Repeating Shotgun

This new 6-shot model is the simplest, surest, and fastest 12-gauge repeater made. It has the solid top, side ejection and double extractors—special Marlin features of comfort and convenience. The closed-in breech keeps the action clean and the shells dry—keeps out rain, snow, dirt, leaves twigs and sand.

The new take-down construction allows you to take gun apart in ten seconds for cleaning or packing, yet the joint is always as firm and rigid as in a solid frame, non-take-down gun. The fat forearm fits your hand and helps quick operation.

The full choked guns are guaranteed close-shooting, hard-hitting guns, and are unequalled for ducks, geese, foxes and all long-range work.

SEVERAL LARGE FISH.

TROUT AND SALMON TAKEN IN RANGELEY LAKES.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Get Two Six-Pound Salmon and Jim Stewart Lands a Six-Pound Trout Near Bald Mountain Camps—Visitors Begin to Arrive.

Rangeley, Me., May 4, 1910.

Despite the fact that continued rain and lowery weather has kept many anglers away, who intended to fish in the Rangeley lakes this week, many good catches have been made, and the hotels are all open and are entertaining a few guests as a rule. The largest fish of the week have been taken from Mooselookmeguntic lake in the vicinity of Bald Mountain camps, Mrs. Woodbury, who is at these camps for the summer, taking a six-pound salmon and a 4-pound trout, unaided, and Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury together, another 6-pound salmon. Jim Stewart, a widely known Rangeley guide, has to his credit the best trout thus far taken, a beauty weighing six pounds.

Bald Mountain camps were opened to the public Wednesday, and the first parties, from Boston and vicinity, are booked to arrive Saturday and will occupy camps by themselves. There have been many good catches by residents and those employed in that vicinity this week, and the early fishing was never better. Mr. Amos Ellis, the proprietor, who is known by about every sportsman in the habit of visiting the Rangeley region, has been sick with the grip for four weeks, but has now recovered and is ready to greet his many friends of many years' standing, and show them where the big fish are lurking this spring. The camps have been put in fine shape this spring.

The Rangeley Lake house opened its doors on Monday of this week, and parties are booked to arrive about every day this month, although the management does not expect a rushing business until June 1.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Phillips of Wenham, Mass., are making their first visit at Rangeley, and have had some fine fishing, although they have been unable to land any record fish. Among the first arrivals are Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Caldwell of Philadelphia, who are at Grant's camps, Kennerago, for a few days.

Mr. E. Ledelle, the famous fisherman from Brooklyn, N. Y., who has spent the entire season for several years at "Marble's," has arrived and unless something unusual happens, the fish record in the office will grow rapidly. He expects Mrs. Ledelle to join him early in June.

Our representative found the hotel in a "polished" condition from top to bottom, and a stranger would certainly think that it was a brand new, massive hotel, opened this year for the first time.

All the heads of the various departments who have been in charge for many seasons will again be associated with the management this year, which fact we know will be very pleasing to all old patrons and friends.

Mr. Marble has a large crew of men repairing the private roads and walks on the hotel grounds and along the shore front, and is also making quite extensive improvements on the golf links.

All those especially interested in tennis will be pleased to learn that there has been another fine dirt court added this year.

J. T. Hartshorn of Wakefield, Mass., and a friend are at Billy Soule's Pleasant Island camps, the first arrivals of the season, where they have found excellent fishing, although their largest trout thus far

CAMPS NOW OPEN.

EARLIEST SEASON EVER IN DEAD RIVER REGION.

Still Too Early for Very Good Fishing But Streams Are Going Down—News of Lumbering Operations—Many Beaver Killed During the Season.

Eustis, Me., May 4, 1910.

Most of the camps in the Dead River region are now open, earlier than ever before. But there hasn't been much business yet, partly due, no doubt, to still more bad weather, but mainly to the fact that the water is too high for comfortable or successful stream fishing. But it is going down and unless there is another deluge, will soon be just right, and in a week or so, there will be plenty of fish stories and true ones, too.

One thing which is very encouraging to owners of outing resorts is the fact that letters of inquiry are coming earlier and oftener than ever before, and bookings ahead are assuming proportions never before attained in the early season, no matter how late by the calendar the early season has been. Guides and owners see good times ahead and are correspondingly elated.

Jones Bros. of Stratton own one of the most attractive plants for public camps in the Dead River region, on the shore of Mt. Bigelow pond. There are accommodations for from 15 to 20 guests, but Mr. A. M. Jones, who looks after the camps, has been so busy with his lumber business that he has never been able to give the camps the attention they deserve. But he plans to do it in the future, and to make the camps one of the most popular resorts in this section, which he ought easily to do.

John Sylvester of Eustis and Joe St. Ober of Madrid, with other trappers, probably caught at least a hundred beaver on Jim Pond town in Franklin county during the open time, November 15 to January 1.

Wm. R. Hanscom of Stratton, who is a fur buyer and bought a lot of beaver skins last fall, estimates that there are at least a thousand beaver on Jim Pond town now. Mr. Hanscom says there are dozens of beaver dams on that township that were not touched by trappers last fall. Mr. E. P. Viles of Skowhegan, who, with Hon. Forrest Goodwin, owns Jim is a 3½-pounder. Several other parties from Boston and New York are on the way to Pleasant Island, and there will be a good crowd of anglers there next week. Billy Soule, the genial proprietor of these famous camps, has been quite ill the past few days, threatened with pneumonia, but has recovered his usual good health and spirits, and says he is now ready to go fishing with the best of them.

Messrs. M. B. Damon, C. A. Craft, F. L. Nicholls and Frank J. Pierce of Fitchburg, Mass., arrived at the Mountain View house Saturday and are occupying the cottage nearest the hotel.

Mr. C. P. Rogers of Boston and his sister, Mrs. Nellie F. Cowles, also of Boston, arrived Friday at Mountain View, and on Tuesday Mrs. Cowles caught two fine salmon, one weighing 4½ pounds and the other 3½ pounds.

Mr. C. A. Tainter, a railroad employee, caught a 4½-pound salmon at Mountain View the first of the week.

These are the best catches thus far reported at this end of Rangeley lake but many small fish caught have not been reported, and on the whole the fishing here is unusually good for so early in the season.

Excellent fishing is reported from Bemis and The Birches, and all of Capt. F. C. Barker's resorts are proving that there is plenty of good fishing at the opening of the season, no matter how early that is. The hotels and camps have been put in fine shape, as have also Capt. Barker's steamboats, and the guests are beginning to arrive. The steamboats in all the lakes will go onto the regular summer schedule on Monday, and from then on there is expected to be plenty of business all the time throughout the season.

At Upper Dam and Middledam the hotels are open and guests are beginning to arrive for the early fishing, which is reported to be as good as ever known at both resorts. The camps at Loom lake (York's camps) are not yet open, but the season is always later there than at the resorts on the Rangeley lakes. Everything has been put in fine shape here and in a week or so the guests will begin to arrive.

In the big lake at Haines Landing, the fish have begun to bite wonderfully well for such cold and lowery weather, and judging from this, the management of the Mooselookmeguntic house is expecting a banner season. The hotel was opened Monday, and the first guests to arrive were W. C. Walker with a party of four from Boston. They have George H. Hutton and Frank Hight for guides, and have made some good catches. Tuesday they got several salmon, the largest weighing 4½ pounds, and Wednesday besides a number of salmon they caught a 4½-pound trout.

Next week several parties from Boston and New York will arrive at this resort, and from then on a good crowd is expected.

Pond town, says he does not think Mr. Hanscom's estimate is too high.

We hope some time to print some halftone pictures of live beaver. Probably nothing would interest our readers more. But no pictures are hard to get.

Probably no public camps have more beaver near them than Joe White's Blakeslee Lake camps above Eustis. There is a house in sight of the home camps and the guests have often seen these beaver at work in the evening, and it is a common thing for them to come out near the camps with sticks in their mouths and eat their meals in sight. They are very tame. Perhaps some of our readers can furnish a few beaver pictures with data to go with them.

Mr. C. Emerson Brown, chief taxidermist and curator of the Boston Museum of Natural History, has been here for the purpose of collecting beaver cuttings to go with an artificial beaver pond and a group of mounted beaver to be placed in the museum. The cuttings are to be natural and placed in the pond as nearly true to woods life as possible. Mr. Brown proposes to go to the extent of showing the inside of a beaver house, including the bed and a beaver will be shown inside the house at work. He will show one beaver swimming in the pond, carrying a stick. Another will be on the shore in the act of cutting down a tree and still another will be plastering the outside of the house with mud. Mr. Brown is carrying out the work of Mr. Arthur Nash, deceased, and Mr. William Underwood of Boston, and it is to be continued by Mr. Underwood and some of Mr. Nash's friends.

Mr. Nash, who has been a regular visitor to this region for the past 13 years, died of pneumonia last winter. Mr. Grant Fuller showed Mr. Brown five or six beaver houses within two miles of Flagstaff village.

Mr. E. P. Viles, president of the Dead River Log Driving association, is at Hotel Blanchard looking after the drive of 22 million feet of spruce logs that will go down Dead river. After a few days, Mr. Viles will move to S. A. Parsons' farm lower Dead River, then to his camps at Dead River dam. Mr. Viles reports the deer very plentiful on lower Dead river. He cites the instance of a man seeing and counting 13 deer on the river between Parsons' farm and Dead River dam, a distance of twelve miles.

H. H. Lander and E. H. Grose of Stratton are doing a good business with their portable mill in Kingfield, four miles above the village on the Sandy River & Rangeley Lakes railroad. They cut 600 thousand or more of spruce with a little fir and hemlock, and are saving it in a portable mill and shipping to the Boston market.

The Great Northern Paper company started their main Caribouset river drive on Thursday of last week. They are starting with approximately 45,000 cords of four foot small spruce, cut on Jerusalem and Cocker townships, and to be driven to the company's paper mills at Madison. The cutting was principally a Redington, Houston, Hammond and Popple brooks, and the wood was driven down these brooks to the main river. Prouty & Miller put in about a million of spruce and cedar last winter for their Bigelow mill.

A Dead River guide once had the pleasing experience of hunting in the woods of New Brunswick, attended by a New Brunswick guide, and hailing from New York. There is a fine for a non-resident to act as guide or camp helper in New Brunswick. Our friend was the regular guide of a New York man who was visiting New Brunswick, and who preferred to buy a hunter's license for his guide and hunters to do the work, rather than depend upon strange guides. The Dead River man enjoyed this trip immensely. He saw many moose and relates seeing a cow moose start to swim across a lake, followed by a calf. When about half way across, the calf got tired and gave a cry of distress. The mother moose waited until the baby reached the shore and climbed to her shoulders. Then the mother floated until the baby got rested; then the baby pushed off and both animals swam the rest of the way to shore. Our Dead River guide-sportsman showed one of the New Brunswick guides how to catch a spruce partridge with a noose on the end of a pole. The woods there have spruce partridges as plentiful as ruffed grouse are in Maine, and as the ruffed grouse are very scarce there, the hunters can see spruce variety—but they need a yankee to show them how to catch the birds with ease and with wasting powder.

Wilson For Resident.

Charles C. Wilson of Auburn has been chosen president of the William Tell club to succeed the late D. M. Parks.

Married in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Garth Hinkley arrived in Rangeley last week and are visiting Mr. Hinkley's brother, Mr. E. C. Hinkley.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiley were married in Boston, May 15, 1910. Mrs. Hinkley was formerly Miss Annie McCarthy, and will be remembered by a good many friends at Haines Landing, where she would last summer.

NORWAY SPRUCE IN LETTER E.

EXTENSIVE EXPERIMENTS IN REFORESTATION NEAR PHILLIPS.

One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Trees From Across the Water Being Planted by Fifteen Men For International Paper Co.

One hundred and fifty thousand young spruce trees from Norway are being set out in Letter E by fifteen men in the employ of the International Paper Co., under the direction of Mr. Frank P. Thomas of Rumford, manager of the lumbering operations of this company and the American Realty Co., and eventually a vast tract of territory will be thickly grown to this lumber, if the experiment begun in a small way last year succeeds, of which there now seems to be no doubt.

This means a great deal for the lumbering interests of Maine and for Franklin county in particular, this being the first attempt of this kind in New England of reforesting the denuded timber tracts and other unoccupied land.

Last year in response to an inquiry from the general offices of the International Paper company in New York, through Mr. Thomas, for a suitable place to try the experiment of reforestation, Mr. Thomas immediately replied that the company's abandoned farms in Letter E plantation, Franklin county, near Phillips and Madrid, would afford an ideal place for such an experiment. Accordingly, 10,000 three years old Norway spruce trees were shipped to Madrid Station in Phillips on the Sandy River & Rangeley Lakes railroad, and Mr. A. S. Tucker from the company's office in Rumford came here and packed the trees in earth for storage until they could be planted.

Soon after the trees were planted on eight acres of this land and when it is known that there are eight or ten abandoned farms in Letter E plantation, besides hundreds of acres of other land that can be utilized for reforestation, it will be readily seen that the possibilities in this line are quite important from a local standpoint alone and of state wide interest, especially from the fact that Franklin county is not peculiarly situated with reference to this class of land. There are thousands of acres of idle land in every county in the state.

The trees planted last year took to the soil at once and have grown wonderfully well, much better than was expected. In fact they have thrived so well that the company has not hesitated to go into the work of reforestation on a large scale, and 150,000 more young trees arrived this week and are now being planted. Mr. A. S. Tucker, who has charge of the work, was here to look after them, as last year, and in Phillips village Tuesday he spoke very enthusiastically of the beautiful trees now growing in Letter E and the wonderful progress they have made in a year's time, and of the prospect of making very valuable a vast tract of practically useless land.

To what extent this work will be carried on in Maine is not yet even conjectured, but with the success of the present experiment apparently assured, there is likely to be no end of tree planting in the vast territory in the state available for this purpose.

There are not many planted forests in this country old enough to give complete information of what can be expected from them, but in the office of Mr. Thomas there are photographs showing the appearance of Norway spruce 35 years after the seed was planted. Four of these 35 years old trees, raised on the Billings estate at Woodstock, Vt., produced a full cord of wood, which was made into 1828 pounds of dry pulp of excellent quality, in fact the report from the International Paper company's mill, where this wood was ground, says that this cord of wood gave a higher test for strength and a brighter shade of paper than they get from the ordinary spruce.

A very valuable work issued by C. R. Pettis, state forester of New York, states that natural grown forests are not the most valuable, because nature does not utilize the light and moisture to the best advantage; but by properly spacing the trees, as done in an artificial forest, more and better trees can be grown in a shorter period.

It is represented that the planting of Norway spruce, Scotch pine and White pine can be made very profitable.

For general forest planting the trees are set six feet apart each way, and about 1,200 trees may be planted on an acre of land. The Franklin county experiment is of the greatest importance and will be watched with much interest by the lumbering interests of the entire country, and upon its result will depend whether or not the work is tried in other states of similar temperature.

TROUT OF FOUR POUNDS.

Phillips Pond Turns Out a Very Big Fish.

Johnnie Steward of Phillips had the good fortune a few days ago to catch a spotted trout that weighed four pounds. The fish was taken from what is left of Runaway pond, now known as Long Cove, a narrow pond about half a mile long, with some deep places in it and evidently some big trout.

an convention in Augusta, June

Waldo county; E. M. Johnston, Pis-cataquis county; and Geo. G. Weeks, Somerset county.

It had been expected until a short time ago that Senator Hale would act as chairman of the convention, an invitation having been extended him. At the time the senator announced his determination not to contest for a re-election to the senate, he notified Chairman Boyd of the committee that it would be impossible for him to act as presiding officer of the convention. This made it necessary to select a new man and for this purpose the meeting of Tuesday night was held. Only a few

Swasey was nominated as the candidate of the republican party to succeed Charles E. Littlefield, after one of the most exciting canvasses which the district had known in years. Mr.
Austin's work at that convention was excellent and was complimented on every hand. He has been an active worker for the party for years, having served a long time on the state committee and been a delegate to one or two national conventions, as well as attending all the important conferences of the republican leaders in Maine for many years.

It is specially gratifying to the people of Phillips and of Franklin county that Mr. Austin should be given this high honor, and that he will give that dignity and earnest purpose to the work of the convention and be an honor to his constituents and the citizens of his town and county it is needless to say.

Mr. Austin has always been a resident of Franklin county, Phillips, Farmington and Weld all claiming him as a property owner and citizen.
He has long been identified with both the business and political interests of not only his own immediate locality, but of the state at large, and is looked upon as a leader in everything he becomes identified with.

California Chickens.

Beulah Heights,
Alameda Co., Cal., Apr. 30, 1910.
To the Editor of Maine Woods and Maine Sportsman:

We are having very hot weather for the season, 94 degrees. I have a fine garden and have had peas for three weeks. I have four plantings, some four feet, some two feet and some six inches. I have onions big enough to eat. I have had new potatoes and strawberries. I also have corn a foot high. I have 27 fruit trees bearing fruit as large as an inch through. My corn, beans, potatoes and everything has been hoed the second time.

I wish to say that from 30 hens
I have got 1321 eggs and have raised 65 chickens between Jan. 1 and April 20. I have sold $31.45 worth of eggs.
They are still doing fine and two hens are now setting. My stock is White Leghorns, considered the best layers here. I have sold three hens and eggs for setting for $4.25 M. H. Kenniston.

Church Meeting Called.

A warrant has been issued and notices posted in public places, calling a meeting of the Madrid and West Phillips Union religious society to meet at the Union meetinghouse in West Phillips at 2 p. m., May 31, 1910, for the purpose of electing and qualifying all necessary officers and transacting any other business that may properly come before the meeting.

MADRID.

May 4.
Mr. Nathan Bryant of this town died at two o'clock Tuesday morning.
Mr. Bryant was 66 years of age and leaves to survive him a widow and two daughters, Mrs. Roscoe Whitney of Farmington and Miss Esther Bryant of this town. The funeral services will be held Thursday forenoon at 10 o'clock in the schoolhouse at Madrid.

DISTRICT NO. 2, PHILLIPS.

May 2.
School is progressing finely in this district with Miss Myrtle Barnes of Portland as teacher. She boards with Mrs. L. B. Field.

Mrs. C. H. McKinney, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Chas. Cornish, in Lewiston, for some time, is expected home this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Haley and baby, Christine, are visiting relatives and friends in Gardiner this week.

The teacher and pupils of the Prescott school are preparing for a birthday party to be held Friday evening,
May 13, at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Harnden. Bags will be given at the door, and each person will drop into the bag as many pennies as he or she may be years old. This will entitle one to refreshments,
"grab-bag," etc. The public is cordially invited. The money will be used towards buying an organ for their schoolroom.

NEW VINEYARD.

May 3.
Mrs. Alphonso Luce of Strong, who has been boarding her little baby in the family of her father, Mr. C. O.
Record, for several weeks, took him home last Sunday and will care for him herself.

Fencing seems to be in order when it doesn't rain, as then the ground is too wet to work on.
Milford True is working at Ed Parker's.

Mrs. Amanda Brooks, who has been stopping with her sister, Augusta Turner, for several weeks, has returned to her home in Farmington.
Her health is much improved.

Eugene Weymouth of Freeman visited his daughter, Mrs. J. F. Savage, one day last week.

Morse Re-Appointed.

Prof. S. R. Morse of Trenton, N.
J., a regular summer visitor to Maine has just been re-appointed by the governor of New Jersey as a member of the state board of education for five years. This will make 21 years of continuous service in that office for Mr. Morse.

Mr. Morse writes Maine Woods and Maine Sportsman: "I expect to come to Maine the last of April or the first of May and spend my vacation in my beautiful native state."

WELD.

May 2.
Miss Addie Stevens of Kingfield is working at The Maples.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Carr went to Wilton Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Alden of Livermore Falls spent Sunday in town, also Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morton of Lewiston. Mr. Morton is conductor from Lewiston to Oquossoc on the Portland and Rumford Falls railroad.

Mr. Cleveland Masterman and Mr.
Clint Collins made a trip to Wilton
Monday to attend the sale.

Mr. A. O. Phillips, who has been at work at Bemis for the past winter, returned Friday.

Mr. Arthur Hardy, Mrs. Norris
Hackett, Miss Verda Hardy and Alton Hardy of Phillips spent Sunday with relatives in this place.

Mr. Walter Pennell, Bates '13, of Kingfield, who has been taking the census, finished and returned Thursday.

Mrs. Lettie Ellis has opened the summer residence of Mr. W. H.
Woodward of Birmingham, Alabama.
They are expected to arrive this week.

Mr. D. T. Harthorne of Wilton occupied the pulpit of the First Congregational church Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Russell, Mary Stowell, Lila Rand, Thomas Holt and Arthur Stowell of Dixfield were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Dexter over Sunday. Mrs. Russell remained for a short visit.

Miss Minnie Buker, also Mr. Clayton Storer of Wilton academy spent Sunday with their parents.

Bert Masterman of Wilton was in town last week.

The school at the upper village began this week with Miss Julia Ellis as teacher.

Mr. Charles McDonald of Bemis is spending a few days with Colar Conant.

Mr. Liscoe Robertson, who has been in Connecticut for the past winter, returned Monday.

An automobile party, consisting of
H. A. Guptil, E. H. Swett, L. E.
Swett of Berwick; C. A. Swett and C. R. Swett of Canton, is stopping with Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Swett for a short time to try the fishing.

Mr. Cleff Maxwell and Mr. Bernie Plummer left Tuesday for Portland to attend the Grand Lodge there this week. Miss Thelma Maxwell accompanied her father and will receive treatment at the Eye and Ear Infirmity if necessary.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Noble, who have been in Dixfield for the past winter, called on Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell on their way through this place to their farm on the Mile Square in Phillips.

Mrs. Nina Swett has an egg measuring 8¼ by 7 inches. Mrs. Mabel Witham has one 6¾ by 7½.

Mrs. Mavill Witham has rhubarb measuring 15½ inches long by 3½ in circumference, which is a rarity in April.

Portland as a Summer Base of Supplies

Portland is the logical base of supplies for outsiders spending their vacation in Maine. In Portland they can supply all their needs, and would do so if they were informed of the fact.

In the special Automobile and Travel number to be issued by Maine Woods and Maine Sportsman in June, attention will be called to the facilities available in Portland. For those who make the automobile trip, Portland will be the terminal point at which the parties will separate.

If you have anything to offer these visitors to Maine—hotel or garage accommodation, transportation facilities, camp equipment, cottage furnishings, food supplies, personal accessories or clothing omitted when travelling "light," automobile parts, or conveniences of any kind—be sure to offer them in the advertising columns of this special number. It will be read by many while they are planning their vacation. Let them know how much of their shopping they can do in Portland.

The returns from such advertising will be sure and definite. The field is open; take advantage of it. Do not let this opportunity slip by.
Rates and particulars will be furnished by Thursday, May 5, 1910.

Hon. J. W. Brackett of Phillips has announced himself as a candidate for the chairmanship of the Maine Fish and Game Commission, at the expiration of Mr. Carleton's term in June. Mr. Brackett has had a large experience in fish and game matters in his five years on the board, and we predict his appointment—if any change is made.—Madison Bulletin.

James W. Brackett of Phillips is a candidate for chairman of the Maine Fish and Game Commission at the expiration of Mr. Carleton's term in June. Mr. Brackett has had many years of experience in fish and game matters in his five years on the board of the commission. That he is well qualified to fill this position goes without saying, and we believe it wise for the governor to appoint him to this position.—Livermore Falls Advertiser.

Dr. T. S. Palmer, in charge of game preservation, United States Agricultural Department maintains that for the best results the game warden system should be put on a basis where it would run automatically, even if the head suddenly resigned or was incapacitated from service for any reason. He advocated the building up of a body of men, as has been done in Germany and England; men who give their whole time to the work. Game warden should be a profession, not a job, and that the position should be taken out of politics, as the subject was large enough and broad enough to require the best energies and the greatest amount of knowledge that could be put into it. Each state must learn of other states and foreign countries. Even South Africa leads America in some problems of game protection.

If it is true, as reported, that Governor Fernald intends to appoint as chairman of the state fish and game commission, at the end of Mr. Carle-ton's term, Hon. J. W. Brackett of Phillips, the act will be received with satisfaction and hearty approval all over the state. Mr. Brackett has for the past five years served as the second member of the commission, and is thoroughly familiar with the work and fish and game laws.
Moreover, he has broad and enlightened views as to the administration of this department and an intimate acquaintance with existing conditions, gained from many years of experience in fish and game matters. The Maine Woods and Maine Sportsman, the paper he publishes, is everywhere regarded as an authority on these topics, and he could be depended on to conduct the affairs of the department on the intelligent, vigorous and sensible lines laid down in the able articles he writes for it. Mr. Carle-ton's term expires in June, and we assume that he will then be retired from the public service.

And we do not know where a man could be found so admirably qualified in every way for the place as Mr. Brackett. If it were an elective office, he would be nominated by both parties and elected by a substantially unanimous vote.—

Plant Oysters in Maine.

Rockland, Me., Apr. 28, 1910.
To the Editor of Maine Woods and
Maine Sportsman:

I have just returned from a trip south, investigating the methods of planting and raising oysters, and attending the National Shell-fish Commissioners' convention at Mobile, Ala. and after a thorough investigation, I believe that oysters can be raised successfully in Maine, and I am now planning to make several plantings in different sections of the state, hoping to be able to make Maine an oyster as well as a lobster and clam producing state.

James Donahue.

The convention held three sessions a day for three days. At the first evening meeting Mr. Donahue gave a informal address on "Maine's Shell Fish," which the delegates listened to with deepest interest. He was showered with interrogations at the close of his remarks, but was able to answer all of them with satisfying clearness. While most of the states which were represented had their chief interest in the oyster, they were also concerned in the lobster, which now goes to every part of the country, and is everywhere esteemed a great delicacy.

Further than that Mr. Donahue was able to tell them that Maine is doing something in the line of oyster culture, itself. On the Sheepscot river are beds which were planted six or seven years ago. From it were taken last year 600 bushels of marketable oysters. Several new locations will receive attention this summer.

SCENE AT ANDROSCOGGIN LAKE.

One place which Commissioner Donahue has in mind is just above Fort Point on the Penobscot river. One of his purposes in attending the Mobile convention was to learn all he could about expert oyster planting, and he now finds himself well equipped to continue the work.

On one of the three days the association held its meeting aboard a revenue cutter which took them on a 25-mile cruise down Mobile Bay, where there are hundreds of acres of oyster beds.

Commissioner Donahue was much interested in Mobile and thinks it offers a good chance for northern young men to locate. So far as he could discern the state's prohibitory law is being tolerably well enforced.
During his stay there only once did he see liquor sold openly and that was on an eight-story roof. He noticed little or no drunkenness.

The city was decking itself with gay plumage in honor of the reunion of southern veterans soon to be held there. The people were expecting to entertain between 30,000 and 40,000 Confederates.

While in Mobile, Mr. Donahue read in the daily papers Mr. Hale's withdrawal from the senatorial contest, and the announcement of Mr. Cobb's candidacy. Public interest throughout the country is excited by Senator Hale's act.

FISHING AT MOOSEHEAD.

Advices From Lake Say it is Better Than Ever.

Advices from Moosehead lake region report the fishing as exceptionally good, a large number of salmon and trout being taken there every day. Salmon weighing ten pounds and over are not the exception and many trout of five pounds' weight have been caught. The weather is fine and everybody is catching his full quota of fish. Similar reports are coming from the Rangeley lakes; 14 large redspots were taken at Bemis the other day.—Exchange.

At the Green Lake fish hatchery this spring there is an unusually fine lot of fish. Just as vegetation is unusually well advanced for this time of the year, so with the little fish, which came from the egg two or three weeks earlier than usual. Some of the trout fry are already beginning to "swim up," which means that they have outlived their babyhood nursing bottle, and are beginning to look for solid food. These fish are as far advanced as they ordinarily are the second or third week in May. In fact, distribution of the trout fry began this week, the earliest on record at this hatchery, and fully three weeks earlier than usual. There are nearly a million and a half of the little fish at the hatchery, divided about as follows: Trout, 1,100,000; landlocked salmon, 900,000; trout, 400,000.—Camden Herald.

FOREST HOMES.

How Humans and Animals Use Deserted Lumber Camps.

It is unwritten law among the remote lumber camps of the northern Maine woods to leave all doors on the latch, and to have on perpetual deposit some fragments of food, such as a tin of soda biscuit and a canister of tea on a shelf, a cube of salt pork lying among brine in the bottom of the barrel and sugar, pepper salt and other necessities to equip a hungry man for a good meal. In Michigan there is a fine of $5 imposed for slaying a hedgehog, because, not only are all "quillpigs" edible when dressed and cooked, but the animal is a clumsy and stupid creature at all times and can be slain with ease by any person who is armed with a stone or a sizable club.

Maine, however, provides a more available and a better standard of living for wayfarers and furnishes meals free for all comers, with lodging thrown in, and thus conducts hundreds of charity houses every winter, on the theory that it is better to harbor a dozen deadbeats than to have a single deserving person go hungry.

In this manner the lumber operators and camp and timberland owners insure their woods, surplus bedding, sleds and other valuables left at the close of the winter for no cash outlay, although the choppers' camps a few miles back from the towns and railroads are the most dangerous and expensive risks the companies take.

"I have noticed that woodchucks make their permanent homes in such camps of late, hiding under the bunks to escape detection, burrowing and bringing forth their young in the mellow soil that is roofed over, and taking something like a sybaritic delight in the comforts mankind has afforded. Old Jock Darling used to say he was always sure of having a baked woodchuck for dinner every time he saw fit to burn down an ancient log camp in the deep woods, because,
with its home in the soil under the camp, the woodchuck was sure to seek safety at the first smell of fire, after which the burning of the rotten logs performed the cooking, when a few dips with a spade brought forth the dinner, all ready to be skinned and eaten.

"While the pole flooring of the camp is sound enough to hold itself above the ground, the great northern hares are fond of hiding away from foxes, hawks and other predatory creatures, and then rushing out with a great bumping of heads upon the overlying poles, as soon as a man steps inside. This employment of camp bottoms for forms, instead of building them in thickets, is by no means common, however, for the hare does not become wonted to the ways of man so readily as the burrowing rabbit.

"Of the birds that voluntarily come into vacated camps in winter there are comparatively few. The prettily-mottled hairy and downy woodpeckers fly in and out through ventilation holes left by the builders or find entrance and exit through rotten or wind-torn spaces in the roofing. They peck industriously at the decaying bark and timbers for insects, but I have never yet known a woodpecker of either species to make a nest or lay eggs inside a camp inclosure.

"The chickadees, nuthatches, crossbills, tree sparrows and other small birds of the winter season are in and out of the camp at all hours of the day, making the place noisy with flutter of wings and merry chirping.
Many of them hide away among crevices of the camp roof to pass the night. The much larger and entirely unafraid Canada jay, or pork bird, has no fear of coming in if the door be left wide open, when it will gorge itself with grease and meat scraps, but it is wary about flying through the crack of a half-open door or forcing its body into tight holes and camp crevices.

"The very beautiful and thievish blue jay, however, which is perpetually crying 'thief' to all the woods from February until spring, is very shy of investigating the interior of a camp, although it will peck away a junk of salt pork weighing four pounds or more in a week if it is left suspended by a string from the limb of a tree directly over the camp stovepipe, where acrid smoke is escaping day and night.

"Crows, ravens and the big winter owls, although they are all easily tamed and allowed to fly at large as domestic pets, never enter camps, no matter what the inducement in the way of tempting foods may be.

"Among the other interesting but irregular winter visitors to the deserted camps are white-footed and common mice, weasels, shrews, and if the camp be near a running stream or lake, muskrats, minks and otters.
It has been reported by old lumbermen that bears are fond of denning up for winter among the dry hemlock bedding in camp bunks, though I do not credit the tales, because the 'man smell' about any camp is very forbidding to bears and raccoons. No fox was ever known to visit or negotiate any camp at any season of the year. Hungry meadow hawks now and then pop in to look for stray mice and squirrels. Small owls follow similar habits, though the rare barn owl alone has been known to rear its young inside of a camp.

"To find an ancient camp in its full glory of beauty and song, one should visit it in the middle of June, when barn swallows are breeding against the rafters and white-breasted swallows and robins are caring for their young in niches under projecting overhangs, when squirrels and mice are darting among the corners and woodpeckers and several species of boring worms are making day and night noisy in converting sap-dozed logs into sawdust. It is then that the interior of the lop-sided and dilapidated structure looks like one of those old prints, which portrays a 'Happy Family,' just as the artists of the long ago conceived it to be."

Rush Order for Bear Cubs.

Lewiston Sun: While attending a trade school in New York a short time ago, Carl B. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Allen of Auburn, in company with one of his classmates, attended a sporting show at which there were exhibits representing many of the states in the Union.
Maine's exhibit was two cub bears.
Mr. Allen's classmate, whose home is in Philadelphia, casually remarked, as the two young men stood admiring Maine's exhibit: "I suppose you can pick those fellows up most anywhere down in Maine." Mr. Allen replied:
"Oh, yes, they are as plentiful as flies in my state." A few days ago Mr. Allen received a letter from his classmate requesting him to send a couple of cubs at once to Philadelphia. As the genuine cub season is not at its best at the present time, and the order being a "hurry up" one, Mr. Allen has decided to send his classmate a couple of "Teddy bears," which are to be packed in a large box. Mr. Allen states that his classmate is of the impression that Maine is one vast wilderness, with bears and other wild animals running at large through the public streets.

Bring up Foxes on the Bottle.

Recently Curtis P. Brown and Jas.
Galvin, Comstock's Bridge, had great luck while out fox hunting. Starting one fox, which eluded them, they unexpectedly came upon another sitting near a burrow in the ground, and they promptly shot it. It was a female fox whose appearance indicated she had sucklings. Procuring shovels, they opened the burrow and found eight tiny foxes at the bottom. The little ones did not have their eyes open and the hunters gathered up the litter and took them home, where Mrs. Galvin rigged up a nursing bottle and proceeded to bring them up that way. The little foxes "caught on" to the new treatment all right and give promise of being successfully reared.—Exchange.

EXCITING ADVENTURE.

Chasing a Lynx With Iceboats and Then Motorcycles.

The March number of Motorcycle contains an interesting article from the pen of E. M. Estabrook of the S. L. Crosby company of Bangor, who is one of the most enthusiastic motorcyclists in Maine, and a prominent official of the Federation of American Motorcyclists.

The article is the more interesting because it deals with Maine people, and with incidents which happened in the immediate vicinity of Bangor.

Hind's pond is a beautiful sheet of deep, clear spring water, nestling among high, wooded hills that ascend from its shore in precipitous banks for two-thirds of its circumference. Both large and small game abound in the adjoining forest, while its clear, pure water reveals the presence of thousands of gamy trout, salmon and perch. Situated a few leagues from Bangor, it is the Mecca of motorcyclists and bicyclists, and during the summer their camps and bungalows occupy conspicuous positions on the many points and promontories, thereby enhancing the picturesque beauty of the natural surroundings. Many speedy motor boats have their animated "brushes" on this enchanted lake during the summer, while in winter ice boating is enjoyed.

It was on Nov. 21 of last year that my friend, Allie Washburn, who owns a bungalow and ice boat at the above named pond, decided that conditions were right for some rare sport on the pond, and bade me gather the clans. The frozen ruts on the highway were worn down smooth, assuring a dustless and speedy surface, and as the competitive spirit always runs high among our coterie, I advised the splitting up of the party into two sections, sending the single cylinder class away about 20 minutes in advance. This was accordingly done. My companions were George A. Sprague, Maine committee, F. A. M. highway improvement; Allie Washburn, Ralph Bicknell and William Webber, all on twin cylinder machines and bound to make the going fast. Through the cities of Bangor and Brewer we threaded our way and, reaching South Brewer, took the road to the country and the distant hills. I delegated myself to lead the procession if possible, and presently it looked as though I should have a busy few minutes. First one and then another made charge after charge, in their attempts to lead the way, and on the narrow road, with its many windings, where the view was cut off by trees, and where the meeting or passing of a team might mean the wrecking of the whole bunch—so close were we together—we fought it out tooth and nail with a desperation born of excitement and recklessness. My speedometer showed varying speeds from 34 to 50 miles per hour when the indicator hand butted the top pin. Still I was not happy. I could not make the desired gain. Having a 1908 machine I was obliged to sacrifice my lead in order to oil, which necessitated a full stop. I soon sighted the quarry with Sprague in the vanguard, and worked up to him on the inside of a long curve. This evidently excited him somewhat and in his endeavor to hold the lead he rode himself off his feet, so to speak, as he was unable to hold the turn, and, taking the gutter and intervening space like a thoroughbred, he dashed through a board fence and covered some 200 feet of frozen ploughed land before stopping. A bent front fork and a good shaking up was the only penalty he paid, however.

Arriving at Freese's landing, we trundled our machines out upon the ice, noting at the same time that surface conditions were such that straightaway riding was perfectly feasible and safe. We chatted with mine host Freese awhile, when presently our ears were assailed by a series of most unearthly whoops, loud shouting, with a jumble of orders, screeching and laughter mixed, all emanating from a point to the right and about a half mile distant. Was there a tragedy taking place just around the point? The bedlam of exciting shouts and screeches increased as the parties neared the point which veiled them from our view. "D—n it, Estabrook, someone is being killed," said Sprague, his face showing his excitement. "All bosh, Sprague, you've had a fall back-aways and you are nervous." Presently from around the point there darted first one, two and then two more iceboats, all acting in the craziest manner conceivable, but evidently being handled with consummate skill. The shouting and excitement aboard the boats seemed unabated, while with the greatest rapidity they darted hither and thither, turning skilfully and avoiding collisions.

Presently it was seen that there was some large animal, a very agile one, in their midst; but, that no one boat seemed desirous of actually running him down, thereby taking him aboard as a passenger. Instead they were keeping him off the headlands and islands and having some rare sport. After looking through his binoculars, Mr. Freese announced that the animal was a fine specimen of Canadian lynx.

We hastily formed a plan of attack whereby, with a sort of a "U" formation, we proceeded to surround his lynxship and run him straight down the lake for about three miles. Washburn, who, aside from being a very cool man under trying circumstances, was also a very fine pistol shot, was selected to stop up the lower end of the "U" and as soon as we got our game trapped he was to advance and do the killing. Sprague and myself occupied the advanced position on the end of the "U" formation. Our first dash, so far as the formation was concerned, was successful, but on account of the iceboats crossing frequently in front of us, Washburn would not take the chance of shooting and presently our formation tactics were broken up by the cat slipping through the side line. I am sorry to acknowledge that not all (if any) of our men would hold to the strict letter of the formation when the great and wild-eyed cat headed directly toward him. And so we lost our opportunity.

On this particular surface, the ice boats had us beat to a standstill, as we had to make long curves and at low speed. Several met with side-slips and others deemed it wise to keep out and so presently only Sprague, Washburn and myself remained to contest. We decided to maintain the original formation and to "butt in," putting it up to the more easily handled craft to keep out of our way and avoid running us down. Working fearlessly along these lines gave us a fighting chance and enabled us to "pull" together. Presently two of the ice boats came into collision and were put out of commission. This improved our chances, as the remaining craft showed a disposition to assist in the capture. Having spent his strength the lynx seemed determined to stand his ground and show fight, merely moving out of harm's way and refusing to escape when the opportunity offered. Little wonder. The sudden transition from the tranquil solitude of the forest to the boisterous excitement of the chase, the keen cutting whick of the sharp ice boat knives as they grooved the lake surface with graceful pencilings, the hoarse shouting of a score of excited men, and above all the rapid fire exhaust of a dozen motors, set up a series of reverberations that echoed from hill to hill until it seemed that Babel had been let loose.

While Doherty in his swift ice boat whisked by, almost grazing the cat and taking his attention, I charged him from the other side, followed closely by Washburn. Wheeling around and perceiving me too late to escape a collision, he sprang directly at my head. Did I duck? Yes, and so quickly that I laid my eye open through contract with the handle bar. I felt his sharp claws pierce my heavy clothing, and puncture my skin in his endeavor to hang on, and thanked my lucky stars that our heads were pointing in different directions. He would have had no time to lacerate me, however, as at that instant Washburn whizzed past, and shoving the revolver into the cat's open mouth, he literally blew its head off.

Fifteen husky young men now formed a circle and to the music of the tom-tom (tin pail) executed a late version of the "Salome Dance." The real excitement now being over, it was in order for each one to have his say and tell "how he did it." According to my best judgment, this would require several hundred pages of manuscript, and so we will omit it. But Sprague and Bickey deserve special mention in connection with this part of the incident. Their vivid if not lurid descriptions of their many hairbreadth escapes "when he charged me so and so," made many of us wonder if we were ever there, or if we had only experienced a nightmare. Billy Webber called my attention to the fact that these gentlemen's vests were unbuttoned at the top and would not meet by several inches, due to sudden and unaccountable chest expansion.

After an exciting afternoon's ice boat racing, we gathered at the landing and talked it over some more. Recollections had now become clearer and plenty of evidence was adduced to show that both Sprague's and Bickey's greatest feats had mostly been that of holding the other fellow on the inside up to his job. Anyway, they were able to button their vests when we got through with them. The lynx was awarded to the writer and excellently mounted by the S. L. Crosby company of Bangor.

LAKE VIEW FARM.

One of the Beauty Spots of Rangeley Lake Shore.

The following circular was issued from the office of Maine Woods and Maine Sportsman last week.

The fame of the Rangeley lakes, the Mecca of sportsmen and health seekers, is too broad in extent to require any detailed bill of particulars, but in passing, it may be said it is the favorite spot of summer and winter sojourn for thousands of wealthy representatives of society and business, who find here sport, happiness and health. To make this possible, nature has combined a dryness of soil, picturesqueness of scenic ensemble, and elaboration of the hygienic principles which make good health, comfort and luxury. These account, in a large measure, for the

The "Congenial Fisherman."

Some men are always congenial and are mighty good fellows as long as the rest of the crowd agrees with them, or swallows their advice, or does not oppose their wishes in any way. But these same congenial fellows, once they have to submit to the wishes of others, lose their joviality and good nature and are the worst grouches on earth.

I knew a man once who was like that, and as a matter of fact every man who associates with his fellow human beings finds the same character sooner or later. The chap was a "good fellow," a good fisherman and hunter, and was well liked by the crowd with whom he associated. One day several years ago this gentleman, who does not live in Saranac Lake now, by the way, went over to the Bog river for a day's fishing, in company with Seaver Miller, Bert Moody and others. Our friend was in the best of spirits, and as he had been in the district before and said he knew practically all the good fishing grounds thereabouts, we readily listened to his advice on where to try our luck. We tried. We had no luck.

The second day, we again took our same bad luck.

The third day, after consultation in the absence of our friend, we decided to let him have his way a last time, in the hope that his and our luck would turn. Same result.

That night, while our congenial friend was busy on the other side of the camp, we discussed the situation, and cursed it, too.

We made up our minds then and there that we would change the order of things "if it took a leg." So in the morning, when our friend made his usual proposition, Bert Moody said:

"Suppose we go down to Hutchins Rapids today, for a change."

The proposition met with the approval of everyone but Mr. Congenial, who protested that he knew the region, knew where the fish were, and intimated strongly that we should take his advice and follow his instructions.

"Why, I don't see it that way," said Moody. "We've been taking your advice for three days now, with only wet feet as a result. We'll try something else, the rest of the company agreeable."

Our congenial friend was fast losing his poise and temper. He sputtered awhile, said he always liked to be congenial, but that he couldn't see the sense of a bunch of strangers in the woods taking the advice of another stranger.

BATHING AT LAKE VIEW FARM.

It is on the road south of Rangeley village, one mile. Extending in each direction from the house the road is lined with large maple shade trees, offering pleasant walks, as do the wooded paths around the lake. Here may be found the best cottage lots left on the Rangeley lake.

The house sits on a dry, high knoll, twenty rods from the lake, facing Bald mountain; one mile from Rangeley village, where are found postoffice, church, railroad station, steamboat wharf and the famous Rangeley Lake House. It is a two minutes' walk from Pickford's camps, where steamboat connections are made daily. The house is two stories high, overlooking the lake. There is a bathroom on each floor with hot and cold water. On each side of the house are broad verandas, accessible from each floor. The rooms are spacious, high and airy. There are several two and three-room suites. A new steam heating plant has been installed this year.

Telephone connections, automobile, and first-class livery.

In none of Rangeley's largest hotels is a more exacting care exercised over the cuisine than at Lake View Farm. The best is insisted upon. The table is supplied with the purest of spring water, fresh vegetables, berries, meat, milk, cream and butter, produced on the farm, which is a guaranty of purity.

Splendid Showing of Stevens Repeating Shotguns.

Mr. W. D. Blood of Springfield, Mass., tied for high professional average with veteran professional trapshooters of national reputation at the recent Lawrence Massachusetts Gun Club tournament. These veteran professional experts were equipped with L. C. Smith and Winchester shotguns. Mr. Blood shot a No. 525 Stevens "Trapshooter Grade" repeating model and broke one hundred and forty take birds out of one hundred and fifty.

An illustrated folder of this new model will be sent to any applicant by the J. Stevens Arms & Tool Co., Chicopee Falls, Mass.

HOW ANIMALS LEARN.

Need a Stimulus to Do Their Tasks Same as Human Beings.

We choose some problem for the animal to solve. He must raise a latch, pull a string, slide out a bar or tread a maze, before the goal is reached—that is, before food can be obtained. The animal, like the human being in this respect, will work out a problem only so long as it compels his interest. We must keep his interest by providing a stimulus. This stimulus may be food, escape from confinement, punishment for wrong action, etc. So long as we keep the stimulus constant, the animal will work steadily at the task from day to day.

By such experiments we have established the fact that when animals learn to open doors, run mazes, etc., by their own unaided efforts, they achieve the first success in nearly all cases by some happy accident. If a rat is hungry and is confined in a large cage with a small box containing food which it can get access to only by raising the latch, it begins its task by the display of a repertoire of instinctive acts, common to every member of the rat race. It runs around and over the box, gnawing the wires, pushing into every mesh of the wire with its nose, clawing, etc.

This random instinctive exercise of energy results early in the knowledge of the fact that the door of the box is the only movable portion. The rat's activity becomes centered here. Since the latch is attached to the small door the chance has rapidly become better that some movement of the rat, such as butting or clawing, will raise the latch from the socket. In a period of time, which may vary from two minutes to twenty, or even longer, this happy accident will occur, the door will then fall open and the rat can get the food.

Will the animal on the second trial run immediately to the latch and raise it? I have hundreds of records, not only upon the rat, but upon other animals as well, which show that such is not the case. The individual animals will take longer on the second trial than upon the first, but the average of the second trial of a number of animals will be shorter than the average of the first.

On successive trials the time of success gets shorter and shorter, until finally the animal will open the latch as soon as confronted with the box. This is the type of hundreds of similar experiments which have been made upon animals ranging in development from the monkey to the mouse. Most of the numerous acts of the trained animals on the vaudeville stage are acquired in this laborious way (as the trainer well knows, would he confess it). Such a mode of learning is the rule, and any higher method (so-called "reasoning") is an exception so rare that it is doubtful if it exists.

Season of Danger in the Woods.

The season of the year is arriving when all who are interested in timber lands are fearful of forest fires and are anxious that every precaution should be taken toward the prevention of fires and toward the quelling of the same after they start.

In this connection it should be borne in mind that it is not only the owners of timberlands and those who deal in lumber who are interested, for the preservation of our forests is a question of vital importance for all and everybody is affected when the fire fiend devours tracts of timberland. It has taken our people a long time to realize that Maine's future prosperity is bound up closely in its timberlands, so closely in fact that they are inseparable for all agree that in our water powers are our future and that with the trees gone our water courses will dry up and our water powers become void.

WINTER SCENE AT LAKE VIEW FARM.

Sixteen Salmon Taken.

Rockland, Me., April 28, 1910.

To the Editor of Maine Woods and Maine Sportsman:

The ice is out of all the lakes in this county and there have been some good catches. Sixteen salmon were taken from Alford's Lake in one day, and nine from Mirror lake in one day. Four of the latter were caught by Railroad Commissioner Keyzer.

Jas. Donohue.

Thanks to the money paid by timberland owners, the forest commissioner has been enabled to extend his system of patrol service and lookout stations so that the danger of fires spreading over a vast area is decreased but those who visit the forests should see to it that all campfires be absolutely extinguished for a spark may fan to a blaze that will devour property to the value of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

evening, death being due to heart failure, superinduced by indigestion.
Mr. Burleigh was widely known success of the party.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

State Senator Emery Says He Does Not Seek Renomination.

Senator Frank A. Emery of Jay, Franklin county, who was in Portland on business Monday, announced that contrary to the published statement in several newspapers, he was not nor had he been for a long time a candidate for renomination as Republican senator from Franklin county.

"Up in Franklin," said Senator Emery, "it has not been customary to give the second term to the senator. We believe in passing the offices around. My friends persist, however, that I allow my name to be used again but I have told them repeatedly that I was not a candidate and I have not changed my mind since I made that decision some time ago.

"One of our county papers," remarked Senator Emery, laughing,
"last week made the editorial statement that it was authorized by me to announce myself as candidate for United States senator. Of course, that was an error, pure and simple,
for I have no idea even of booming my own successor as state senator and my friends are fully informed of my decision, though they insist that I will be renominated despite my personal wishes.

"The Republicans will nominate as my successor either former representative Fred Smith of New Vineyard, or Frank Blanchard of Wilton, both strong and representative men, either of whom will be elected by a handsome majority.

"This decision of mine not to be a candidate for renomination was made some time ago and is final."

"Senator Emery, in your opinion, what is the Franklin county situation regarding its choice for United States senator?" he was asked.

"Were a ballot to be taken today," replied Senator Emery, "in Franklin county, in my opinion, ex-Judge Powers would win by 2 to 1."

PHILLIPS AND VICINITY.

Mrs. Susie Sweet is visiting in Portland this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Bump of Rockland have a 9-lb. baby girl, born Thursday, April 28. Mrs. Bump formerly lived in Phillips.

A. B. Dolbier, the Farmington fur buyer, was in Phillips Wednesday.

The King's daughters will meet this Friday evening with Mrs. Oscar Deedy.

Mr. Jesse Wright, aged 84 years, died Sunday, May 1, at the home of his son, Elon Wright, on the Weld road, after a short illness. Mr.
Wright died of old age. He leaves two sons, Elon Wright and Benjamin Wright, of Clinton, Me., besides 7 grandchildren. The funeral services were held at his late home Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, Rev. Mr.
Hutchins officiating.

Mrs. C. E. Parker went to Newcastle Wednesday morning, called there by the illness of a relative.

The Ladies' Social union met with Mrs. L. M. Brayman Tuesday afternoon with a good attendance. The ladies voted to have a food and apron sale on May 28. The hostess served sandwiches, olives and chocolate.

John Stewart has bought a house of W. J. Ross located on the road above the park, and will move there soon.

Bert Millett of Hallowell is visiting relatives in Phillips for a few weeks, during a vacation from the Hallowell Granite works, where he is employed.

An enjoyable May ball was given by the Grange last Monday evening, and there was a large attendance.
Good music was furnished by the Boys' orchestra with Miss Pearl Johnson, violin, in addition.

Mrs. L. P. Barney of Skinner is in Phillips for a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Warren Bates, while Mr. Barney is on the river drive. They expect to reside at Greenville Junction on his return.

been in Phillips this week tuning pianos.

The May fair of the Unitarian society at Farmington today and tomorrow, will attract many people from Phillips, Rangeley, Strong and King-field, and a number went down this morning. Tomorrow night a special train will leave Phillips after the arrival of the night train, returning after the presentation of the Japanese opera, "The Mikado," which will be the feature of the fair. It is a rare opportunity to hear a charming opera well sung.

Next Sunday will be observed at the Union church as Mothers' day.
The second Sunday of May is becoming more and more a day when special effort is made to give honor and happiness to our mothers. It is a day for loving remembrance to be shown by letters and gifts and visits.
The white carnation is the chosen floral emblem of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Noble have arrived from Dixfield and are residing at their farm on the Mile Square.

Mrs. S. G. Haley returned home on Monday, after a several weeks' visit with relatives in Portland and Augusta. Her mother, Mrs. Lee, re-

OBITUARY.

Silas F. Farmer.

In the death of Mr. Silas F. Farmer, which occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. B. Dennison, Phillips village has again been called upon to part with one of its oldest and most respected citizens.

Mr. Farmer, who ceased from the active following of his trade about eight years ago, has been in his usual health most of the time until January last, when he was stricken with the sickness from which he died on Wednesday, April 20, at the ripe age of 84 years, 1 month and 18 days.

Silas F. Farmer, born in Temple March 3, 1826, was the son of Moses and Jane (Hall) Farmer of that town.
He was married November 7, 1848, to Miss Abbie Ann Sargent of Temple.

After about a year in Massachusetts, Mr. and Mrs. Farmer returned to Maine, living for about fifteen years in Temple, then in Athens, until 1877, when they moved to Phillips. In both Temple and Athens, Mr. Farmer performed the double labor of carrying on a farm and working at his trade, that of a mason.
In Phillips the latter occupied his time.

They were the parents of six children, two of whom are dead. One, Willie, died in infancy, the other, Augustine, lived to manhood years and is survived by a widowed wife and two daughters.

Mrs. Farmer died June 30, 1891, since which time Mr. Farmer has had his home in the family of his daughter, Mrs. George B. Dennison, who tenderly cared for him throughout his sickness.

In politics Mr. Farmer was ever an earnest republican. In religion he was a Free Baptist, having since boyhood been an active faithful member of the church in Temple, as later of Athens and Phillips churches.

He was in all things which he undertook a tireless worker, loving activity rather than idleness. Even in the last years, when his advancing age compelled him to give up more active labor, he still delighted in caring for the kitchen garden and helping in all ways possible. He loved God's out-of-doors, and in his last sickness, as the warm spring days drew on, he turned his mind with increasing frequency toward the joys of the summertime, as he longed for another fishing trip to Long pond with his comrade of so many a happy expedition, Mr. Obed Russell.

Though a man of very strong and determined will power, he was also able to perceive the changes of the years and rejoice in progress where-ever found. Steadfastly loyal to the truth, he recognized the fact that such loyalty could best be shown by keeping one's mind open toward all truth both old and new.

Mr. Farmer leaves to mourn their loss a brother, Mr. Samuel Farmer of Arkansas City, Kan., two sisters, Mrs. J. S. Prey of Holliston, Mass., and Mrs. Mary A. Farmer of Lewiston, Maine, four children, Mr. Dana Farmer of Athens, Mrs. Rose M. Butler of Cornville, Mrs. Flora A. Dennison and Mrs. Ada Sweetser of Phillips, also grandchildren and a wide circle of friends.

The funeral was from the house Friday, April 22, Rev. M. S. Hutchins officiating.

Flavius J. Goodspeed.

Flavius J. Goodspeed, of Wilton, the head and founder of the Wilton Woolen company, died suddenly at his home on Villageview street, at about 11:30 o'clock, Monday morning.
He had been in poor health about four years, but the immediate cause of his death was the bursting of a blood vessel in the stomach. His age was 63 years.

Mr. Goodspeed was born in Wentworth, N. H., Feb. 24, 1847. Here he attended the common schools until he was 16 years of age, when he entered the quartermaster's department in the United States army and went south. After leaving the army, he worked in some of the woolen mills in Massachusetts.

At the age of 21 he accepted a position of overseer of the finishing department in the Linn woolen mill at Hartland, Me. In 1871, he hired a small woolen mill at Hartland, where he began wool carding, the manufacture of cloth and yarn. Here he remained two years and did a good business.

In 1881 he took charge of the construction of a large woolen mill at Madison. After the completion of this mill, he was made superintendent and agent and was very successful in his management. The mill paid good dividends during this period.

In 1890 he bought the Fernald woolen mill in Wilton, which at that time contained 20 looms. He had a good and growing business from the first and for several years run the mill night and day. When his two sons, Frank and George, entered the business, a stock company was organized, known as the Wilton Woolen company, of which the stock is owned by the Goodspeed family.

The business had increased rapidly.
New mills have been built and the 20 looms of 1890 have been increased to 164. During this time the mills have not been shut down except for a few months last summer.

Besides the mills, the Wilton Woolen company owns much other real estate in Wilton village, and controls most of the water power.

Mr. Goodspeed was an Odd Fellow and a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, in which he took a deep interest and contributed liberally to its support.

RANGELEY, May 3.

Llewellyn Walker of Phillips was in town last week on business.

Mrs. Annie Burns is working in the family of A. L. Robertson.

Carroll Hewey returned from Portland last week. He was accompanied by his friend, Mr. George McCrumb.

Ralph Haines has bought a farm in Strong and moved his family there Tuesday.

Miss Leona Hinkley, assistant in the postoffice, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

Osman Cookson, L. A. Cookson and Miss Olive Wright drove to Phillips Sunday night, returning Tuesday, having been called there by the death of the latter's grandfather, Mr. Jesse Wright.

"Billy" Soule is reported as being sick with pneumonia at his camps at Pleasant Island.

Miss Jessie Pease, a teacher in the Salem, Mass., High school, is spending the week in town, the guest of her sisters, Misses Mabel and Hannah Pease.

James Morrison of Phillips was in town Friday on his way home from Dead River.

Miss Bessie Oakes is taking a vacation and Miss Prudence Richardson is filling her place at the bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Brackett were in Phillips last week in search of a farm. Mr. Brackett is now in his farm in Dallas to his brother, Sylvester Brackett.

Mrs. A. H. Sprague, who has been spending the winter in Massachusetts, returned home last week. Mr. and Mrs. Sprague are housekeeping in the upstairs tent in E. T. Hoar's house.

A minstrel show was given at Furbish hall last Friday evening under the direction of the Boys' band. The hall was literally packed, the sale of tickets amounting to more than eighty dollars. The parts were well taken, the jokes and local hits causing much merriment.

Philip Pillsbury came home from Orono Saturday, having completed his studies there. On Monday he left town for Yarmouth, where he has a position as overseer on a farm.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Boynton of Marlboro, Mass., are spending the week in town.

Lorin Haley met with a painful accident one day last week. While at work fixing a window, the knife he was using slipped and went through his hand. Dr. Ross was called to dress the wound.

Miss Lucille Harris is boarding at Frank Kempton's during the spring term of school.

Mrs. Anna Blodgett was quite ill the first of the week.

J. Sherman Hoar went to Auburn this week to attend the wedding of his friend, Jasper C. Hamblin.

Miss Stella Huntoon, who is unable to attend school on account of poor health, is improving a little and is glad to note.

The roof of the "Bee-hive" was discovered to be on fire one afternoon of last week, and an alarm was sounded. A strong wind was blowing at the time and had it not been for the city water the building could not have been saved.

Mrs. Ada Sprague will entertain the Ladies' Aid this week.

Charles W. Norton of Farmington was in town last week, leaving pianos in the homes of Wm. Moores, Nathan Ellis and Fred Oakes.

A Sunday school was organized at the church in the Wilber district last Sunday, and the following officers elected: Superintendent, E. T. Hoar; assistant superintendent, Almon Wilber; librarian, Mrs. Myra Ross; treasurer, Mrs. Havilla Wilber; secretary, Mrs. Gladys Wilcox; teachers, Mrs. Belzora Wilcox, Mrs. Esther Ross and Mrs. Maude Gile. The meetings will be held each Sunday at half past two o'clock.

Weddings seem to be the order of the day. On Thursday evening, Apr. 28, Mr. David Hoar and Mrs. Mary E. Gibbs were united in marriage at the latter's home. Monday evening, May 2, Arlie Pillsbury and Miss May Childs were married. Mr. Pillsbury has bought the James Searles place near Mountain View and we understand the wedding took place there.

There was a very large attendance at church Sunday. Rev. A. L. White preached, using as his text, words found in II Thes. 2: 15, "Therefore, brethren, stand fast." Miss Vera Dunsmoor sang a solo very sweetly.

Lake Webb Notes.

Weld, Me., April 25, 1910.

The fishing season here has hardly begun. The ice went out April 14, the earliest date known, and out-of-state people had made their plans to visit Weld not earlier than May 1, as usual. The Maples will not open so seasonably as usual. Early anglers are looked for during the first part of May and Scamman Bros. and the cottage owners expect a record-breaking business during the approaching season.

Dr. J. H. Rollins of Portland caught 25 trout and salmon near the West Pond about two hours fishing last Saturday. The catch was mostly trout, including one that weighed three pounds. Ed Stockbridge, guide.

Contrary to the general rule, the landlocked salmon in Lake Webb began to run earlier this year than the trout. On the other hand, the few who have tried the fishing have been surprised by catching an unusually large number of spotted trout, although the salmon fishing started in extra good and an occasional black bass and pickerel has been taken trolling, the trout are very much in evidence. Hon. Henry O. Stanley of Dixfield has been a guest of Mr. Dexter on the shore of Weld pond and has found the fishing good. He reports that he had excellent sport catching both trout and salmon.

John F. Harlow, Esq., and Mr. D. A. Gates of Dixfield and Mr. John A. Decker have been doing some early trolling on the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Field and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brackett opened Camp Echo, the Fields' summer home last Saturday. Although it rained a good deal of the time, the party found the fishing good. This is a memorandum left on the camp register.

Fishing good. Caught 3 trout, 4 salmon, 1 bass. Largest salmon, 3 lbs., caught by D. F. Field. Second largest salmon, 2 lbs., caught by Mrs. D. F. Field. Largest trout, 1½ lbs., caught by Mrs. Brackett. Largest number of trout (4) caught by Mrs. Brackett. Cloudy weather, after a week's rain. The guides were Bert L. Brown and Walter Witham.

Next week Mr. Field and the following part of Boston friends will be in camp: H. W. Thorndike, R. E. Sargent, C. F. Glavin, F. W. Hubbard, A. H. Emery.

The same party was there last year with M. A. Witham, D. E. Stockbridge and B. L. Brown for guides and S. J. Howard cook.

The camp record of the party last year reads as follows:

May 14, 1909—First day's catch, 4 trout (about one pound each). Pool for largest fish won by C. F. Glavin.

May 15, 1909—Second day's catch, 8 trout, (about one pound each) and a three-pound salmon caught by A. H. Emery, who won the day's pool. Heavy wind all day.

May 16, 1909—Rained hard all day. D. F. Field won the day's pool, catching a salmon weighing over two lbs.

There were also four trout caught, each weighing about a pound.

May 17, 1909—Rained hard all the morning and was showery during the afternoon. Day's catch, two salmon, each weighing two pounds; two trout, each weighing two pounds; one trout weighing 1½ pounds; nine trout, most of which weighed one pound each; three black bass. Pool for the day divided by D. F. Field and A. H. Emery.

May 18, 1909—Still raining. Party fished from 8 a. m. to 10.30. Broke camp at 11 a. m. Day's catch, one salmon, 4 pounds; one salmon, 2½ pounds; one salmon, 1½ pounds; six trout, average one pound each. Pool for day won by H. W. Thorndike.

A remarkable thing about Lake Webb, as we have said in previous issues, is the variety of fishing that is afforded. For years, until last year, trout, landlocked salmon, black bass and pickerel were the game fish of these waters and, contrary to the common theory, each variety furnished good sport. Four years ago Hon. Henry O. Stanley introduced white perch, and two years ago they showed fine. Last year they were still more plentiful and averaged a little better size, and this year it is expected that the cottagers will be able to catch a mess of white perch any time in summer, after the beginning of open time, July 1. In fact, they could get white perch almost any day last season.

The Lake Webb Fish and Game association report that the salmon from eggs taken by the association last fall and the trout from eggs furnished by the state are doing finely. The association is doing a great work for this locality. Besides building a nice hatchery and supporting it, they take great interest in the welfare of the cottagers. It is said that it would be as much as a man's life is worth to break into one of those cottages and such an event is unlooked for and unknown here. Notices are posted up at the cottages all around the lake that read as follows:

"A reward of twenty-five dollars will be given to anyone furnishing information which leads to the arrest and conviction of any person or persons breaking into the cottages on the shore of this lake.

"The penalty for breaking and entering a closed cottage is not exceeding five years imprisonment or $500 fine.

VACATION GROUND.

Passadumkeag Stream and Vicinity
One of the Attractive Places—Good Canoeing and Fishing.

The time is drawing near when the sportsman will begin to figure on his trip to the Maine woods, and his fishing tackle is being carefully inspected in preparation for the welcome news that the ice has left the lakes and streams once more, when the fishing season will be open in earnest. Hardly any of Maine's visitors will be able to resist the "call of the wild" this season and every sporting camp in the state will no doubt have its capacity taxed to the utmost earlier than usual.

There are so many places to visit that it is hard to choose, for they all fill the bill so far as the fish are concerned, and the scenery is delightful, no matter where one goes in the state. Most of us like to locate where the canoeing is good, as well as the fishing, and that will naturally take us to some of the lakes and streams, where we can canoe for long distances and have a variety of scenery and a few good fish in the bargain.

Probably no finer place to visit for all the above requirements can be found than Passadumkeag stream, which can easily be reached from Enfield station. As soon as the roads are in good condition, there is a first-class automobile road from Enfield to Saponac, where the canoe can be put in for a trip up stream of more than twenty miles of some of the grandest scenery in the state. All kinds of game can be seen on this trip and good trout fishing in the spring holes, and at the mouth of the brooks any number of which enter Passadumkeag on one's journey up the main stream. There are also on this stream good places for camping, and one could spend a whole month going the twenty miles and making side trips up the brooks and see something new every day. If it is not too early in the season for camping, good accommodations can be had at Saponac, where Henry W. Darling and the genial postmaster, A. L. Shorey, look after a few guests, their place being only ten minutes' walk from the stream.

Then, too, one is in the center of a beautiful country, being in close proximity to Lord Brook, a few miles from Nicasious lake, Ox Head lakes and Saponac lake, and Messrs. Darling and Shorey keep horses to carry their guests to any of these beautiful bodies of water.

The Saponac place being the last before entering the deep woods, makes the most convenient place to take long trips in the wilderness to direction and the fact that an auto can be run right to the house and good horses in the barn makes it as convenient as anyone could wish.

There are many places in the Maine woods to spend a vacation, but for those who want a variety of scenery, fishing and hunting, together with a place easy to reach, the country herein described would be hard to beat.

Fishing at Schoodic.

Schoodic, Me., April 28, 1910.

The ice left Schoodic lake April 15, about one month earlier than usual. Although a few good lake trout have been taken, the continued rainy spell and present cold weather and lack of sunshine keeps the speckled beauties from biting.

Mrs. N. W. McNaughton, wife of N. W. McNaughton, the proprietor of Lakeside camps, landed the first trout, a 3½ pounder, thereby keeping her record of the last two seasons, catching the "first one." Mr. McNaughton landed the second, a 2½ pounder; Mrs. J. B. Crocker the third, a five pounder; Mrs. McNaughton, the fourth, a three pounder.

The other lucky ones, John E. Lynch, East Boston, caught one 4½ lb. trout, three black bass 4 pounds each. R. H. Cable got a three-pound trout. Mrs. N. W. McNaughton captured a two-pounder.

We expect a good season at Schoodic for lake fishing with a few days of good warm sun.

Arrivals a Lakeside Camps: R. H. Cable, Brooklyn, N. Y.; J. E. Lynch, John Webster, East Boston; John Chase, Mr. Gilmore, Ernest Allen, Lakeview, Me.; C. H. Buswill, Milo, Me.

This has been an exceptionally good winter for all kinds of game, and the outlook is very good for a successful hunting season next fall.

Mrs. Fred Brown of "Camp Moosehorns" was called to Berlin, N. H., a few days ago by the serious illness of her mother.

Messrs. Haskell and Brown, the proprietors of Camp Moosehorns, are contemplating a trip to their Cedar Pond camp in the near future to repair the camp or build a new one, as the case warrants. This charming little pond is literally alive with the speckled beauties, and anyone enjoying trout fishing can catch them here to their art's content.

Marble Axe System.

At a recent banquet of the Marble Safety Axe Co., Mr. Marble spoke of the business in its inception; of the first years when Marble goods were unknown to fame, and the balance sheet showed a loss at the end of the year. Most business enterprises fail for lack of system, of an accurate knowledge of costs. The Marble Axe Co. installed a complete cost system; it stopped the leaks; it carried on an advertising campaign that carried its fame to the ends of the earth; it sent its goods as far. So it rode on the crest of prosperity.

WHEN DOGS POINT GAME.

They Do Not Behave Alike—One Extraordinary Case.

The wonderful intelligence of the well broken bird dog is often strikingly shown at field trials, says Country Life in America. The field trial, which is becoming more popular in this country, gives a good chance to study the psychology of the dogs, the instinct to point game affecting them in various ways.

A little brother to the consistent and high class field trial winner, Uncle B, at times did a most unusual thing when he found birds. If the conditions were such as to make the finding very difficult and he was obliged to search far and wide for them constantly getting a good distance from his handler, when he found a covey he did not break his point, retrace his steps and look up at his handler as many dogs do and then by actions lead back to birds.

But he would draw off a suitable distance at his own judgment where he knew he would not flush the birds and would sit down on his haunches and bark, bark, bark—short, sharp, loud barks—until his handler came to him; then he would go right straight back to the birds, assuming a long drawn out pointing position of the cautious style.

On a cold perfect winter day Mr. Tomlinson was handling the noted field trial winner Uncle Sam. He was in normal health and very keen. After hunting about two hours his handler cast him over into a patch of low growth sedge and the party watching him run came up near a fence to get a better view of his work. Just as all eyes were turned upon him they saw him tumble to the ground flat and limp, just as if he had struck and obscure stump or stone.

Mr. Clemson, his owner, and a party of friends went cautiously up to him; there he lay, stretched listlessly on his side, not a muscle moving, his eyes dull and glazed. Consolation was offered Mr. Clemson by the gentlemen witnessing the sad death of so capital a field performer as Uncle Sam and the very remarkable manner in which he had died.

Presently his handler came up and saw him lying there just as others had—with glazed, dull eyes and no perceptible breathing. As Tomlinson said "Poor Sam!" he thought he noticed just the slightest movement of his tail; he spoke again and was

Turning to Mr. Clemson and his friends he said: "Gentlemen, there are birds here. Though I cannot explain the actions of the dog, I am positive of it; he is very close to them."

At that he kicked the tufts of sedge directly in front of the dog's nose, who all this time had never moved nor regained his animated expression. Suddenly Tomlinson flushed three close lying birds. To the surprise of all the dog was instantly on his feet eager to be cast off.

E. T. Hoar of Rangeley is making a handsome fly rod to be given as a prize at the tournament of the Somerset County guides' association at Moxie pond in June.

FINANCED BY J. E. THAYER.

Scientific Expedition to the Far North Sails from Tacoma, Wash., Outfitted for 18 Months.

Tacoma, Wash., April 28, 1910.

Taking with him three men, who later will be reinforced by two eskimos, Capt. Johan Koren left on Apr. 26, in a small schooner on a scientific expedition among the islands of Alaska, Bering sea and the Arctic. Capt. Koren says his party is bound for the Aleutian islands and Norton sound, Nunivak island and possibly St. Lawrence island, Siberia and Wrangell island.

His expedition expects to gather zoological, botanical and natural history specimens in the Arctic and sub-Arctic regions. John E. Thayer of Boston, according to Capt. Koren, is giving the undertaking heavy financial backing. Thayer has the largest private zoological museum in the United States and to him most of the zoological specimens obtained will be forwarded. Others will go to Harvard university.

Members of Capt. Koren's little party, all of Norwegian nationality, are first mate Samuel Glaver, engineer Arthur Nordahl, and naturalist Rangwald Richards. The expedition is outfitted for 18 months.

A Lucky Catch.

Mr. W. H. Hatch of Cornish, a registered guide, tells an interesting little story of fishing on Sebago lake with a friend from Boston, while playing a salmon when the salmon jumped into the air and the hook fell out of its mouth, in falling, the fish fell against the boat or an oar and stunned it so that it rose to the surface, and they were able to net him before he recovered.—Sportsman's Guide.

FISHING AT John Carville's Camps at Spring Lake.

Salmon, square tailed and lake trout. My camps are most charmingly situated on the shores of Spring Lake, well furnished, excellent beds, purest of spring water and the table is first-class, elevation 2,000 feet above sea level, grandest scenery and pure mountain air. Hay fever and malaria unknown. Spring Lake furnishes excellent lake trout and salmon fishing and in the neighboring streams and ponds are abundance of brook trout. Buskboard roads only 2-12 miles. An ideal family summer resort. Telephone communications with village and doctor. References furnished. Terms reasonable. Address for full particulars, JOHN CARVILLE, Flagstaff, Me.

The ideal surroundings that visitors to Inland Maine Outing and Summer Resorts want are found at York's Camps.

These camps are five miles from Rangeley, far enough in the woods to be well removed from the "city" and not too far away. I now have by far the best

USEFUL HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Receipts That Have Been Tried and Found Good.

Salads—Lettuce, Parsley, Spinach, Cucumbers.

The French saying that "parsley is a broom to sweep the stomach," is very fitting at this season, when the system needs rejuvenating, the same as all nature. Use parsley as much as possible and lettuce all the time, for it is a splendid nerve tonic. Horse radish is also in order, as it contains a large percentage of sulphur, while spinach contains iron.

Potato salad should first be dressed with a French dressing, so that if a boiled dressing is desired, it should be added after the salad has stood with French dressing poured over it at least ten minutes. Lettuce contains a large amount of potash, and greatly benefits the consumer, because it is eaten raw, and loses none of its beneficial qualities. Use lemon juice instead of vinegar whenever possible.

Cucumbers also contain peculiar elements that are beneficial to the lagging appetite. Cucumbers rank next to pumpkins in phosphorous value by 2.08 per cent, while pumpkin rates 2.79.

OBITUARY.

Charlotte M. Whitney.

Charlotte M. Whitney died at her home in Stratton April 24, after an illness of four months, aged 34 years. The immediate cause of death was typhoid fever. She was the daughter of the late Reuben and Melissa Whitney and was born in Brunswick, which has been her home until recently. She attended the Brunswick schools and was a graduate of the Brunswick High School and of Farmington Normal School. After her graduation she taught school in Phillips and in Mansfield, Mass., but was obliged to resign her position there owing to ill health, and go to Stratton for cold air treatment, where she has been since. Miss Whitney's health was much improved after going to Stratton and she was principal of the grammar school and teacher in the High school at the time she was taken seriously ill in December. She was enthusiastic over her work as a teacher and very successful. Miss Whitney was a member of the Methodist church in Brunswick and was active in church work. Her sweet disposition and many lovable qualities gained her many friends wherever she has been. She was a member of Eustis Grange, No. 34. She leaves a mother, Mrs. Reuben Whitney, a sister, Miss Susie B. Whitney of Boston, two half sisters and two half brothers, Mrs. Otis White of Lisbon Falls, Mrs. C. E. Bailey of Freeport, F. R. Whitney of Lewiston and H. A. Whitney of California, and a grandmother, Mrs. Charlotte Cox of Brunswick. The interment will be at Lisbon Falls.

Obituary Misleading.

Strong, Me., April 28, 1910.

To the Editor of Maine Woods and Maine Sportsman:

In your issue of April 21, is an obituary sketch of Lamont E. Thomas, which is misleading in relation to the mother.

The former part of the article was highly complimentary to the subject of the sketch, but gave the impression that it was written by the boy's mother. She is not vain enough to indulge in such eulogistic terms of her own son, though evidently it was true. It was contributed by a disinterested person who knew the high esteem in which he was held by all around him.

The sketch also makes their young lives to have been spent in Phillips. Mrs. Abbie Wright Thomas was always a resident of Strong until after her marriage and removal far away, though her Grandfather Worthley always was a citizen of Phillips.

Farm Notes.

In spite of a little flurry of snow on the night of the 29th, followed by a cold, wet day on the 30th, the spring is early. This fact may cause some of us to plant prematurely. From now on, until the 10th, is a good time to do many necessary jobs, for there is time enough to plant and sow after the 10th.

Potatoes? Well, their mention suggests some of the troubles we have. The late blight or rot is well known. The application of Bordeaux mixture is too well known to need more than passing reference, but there is another disease frequently known in town that may be mentioned with its treatment. This is potato scab. In planting, reject every potato having a scab on it or else use the following treatment for scabby seed; Dissolve two and one-half ounces of corrosive sublimate in two gallons of hot water and after ten hours add clean water enough to make 15 gallons. To treat the potatoes with this put them in a sack and immerse in the solution for an hour and a half, then spread and dry. Later they may be cut and planted as usual. If more solution is wanted than given above, follow the same proportions given. Above all things, do not forget that this solution is deadly poison.

Another treatment for scab is with formalin: Mix eight fluid ounces with fifteen gallons of water, and immerse as before. This last solution is far less dangerous than the first, which is yet used in some parts of the county. Two years ago, the writer used the first named solution and thoughtlessly, later poured it down on the grass in the dooryard, and then there was a sight. In less than five minutes later, worms large and small came to the surface, quarts of them. Before we got there and destroyed them, four or five inquisitive early-hatched chickens got one or two worms each and soon joined the great majority. The fifteen gallons of solution given above is sufficient for twenty bushels of seed. Use the formalin solution if 40 per cent formic aldehyde can be obtained; I think it can at either of our drug stores. In addition to this, ask the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., Division of Publications, to send you Farmers' Bulletin, No. 91.

There is quite a difference in many things between prices of agricultural products. For instance, from Rangeley and New Sharon.

The farmers at South Strong are wide awake men. Geo. Libby, Ralph Knowlton, "Linc" Worthley, Mr. Skidlings, Wm. and Harry Hunter, Sam Conant, Arthur Brackley, Dennis Clark and Gray Bros., all have a large per cent of ploughing done. Last one more or better O. M. the father of the Phonograph, is pushing his farm work as vigorously as he used to his pen when we all knew him at Phillips. To him we are indebted for much valuable information.

Salaries

Man's greatest asset is his earning power. It isn't a question of how much you get. You are capable of doing much more than you are doing now, but you have the wrong position with you that prevents your success in training. You need a special position that everybody cannot step into. You cannot accept it, as you are in the wrong position. The International Correspondence Schools have, for 20 years been training men in life, and have been successful in high salaried positions.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Union Church, Phillips.

Melvin Sherburne Hutchins, pastor. Calendar for week ending May 14. Sunday, May 8, Mothers' Sunday: 10.30, morning worship, sermon, "Greater Than a Mother's Love;" 11.45, Sabbath school; 7.30, people worship, address, "My Pilot."

Thursday, May 12: 7.30 p. m., Union prayer meeting.

At the Union Church Sunday morning, Rev. M. S. Hutchins preached upon the topic, "Our Duty to the Bystander." The text was from John 11: 42, "Because of the people which stand by."

Jesus spoke these words out of a deep heart experience of his own. His enemies at Jerusalem were bitter in their hatred toward him, and he had gone with his disciples to the country beyond Jordan. And while there news came to him of the sickness of a dearly beloved friend at Bethany. His disciples would dissuade him from returning to Judea, but at last, seeing that he would go and, moved by their love for him, they said that they too would go, that they might die with him. Arriving at Bethany, before reaching the house of his friend, a sister came out to meet him, full of great sorrow, for her brother had died. "Hast thou been here," she said unto Jesus, "my brother had not died." Jesus told her that he should rise again, but the thought of the resurrection at the last day did not comfort her present grief. Then he said, "I am the resurrection and the life. He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live." The other sister, also, coming to him, said the same words of sorrow at his absence. The loving heart of Jesus suffered in sympathy with them. He knew that he could turn their mourning into rejoicing, but even then he thought of those who stood by, and for their sakes delayed for a moment the words that should restore life to his friend. In that moment he would lead them to the truth that God remembered them and had sent him to them to bring them blessing.

Jesus was always thus considerate of all, thus sympathetic toward all. In all his work for the sick, in all his teaching, he remembered those who stood by. When the childrer were brought to him, he was mindful of them. On the cross he had thought for those crucified with him. And, using the words reverently, he had his reward. It was one to whom he had shown this thoughtful consideration who brought the alabaster box to yield to him its fragrant offering. It was a bystander who begged his body and wrapped in sweet spices laid it in his own tomb. The world is paying back in seeing more and more its duties toward one another, and in continually meeting those duties with increasing faithfulness.

In the parable of the rich man and the beggar, Jesus would teach that the suffering of Dives came to him because in this life he was indifferent to the needs of others.

The one great outcry of Jesus in all his teaching was against worldliness.

the census of this city be complete very family should promptly, fully and accurately fill up the "family schedule" before it is called for by the enumerators.

For instance, this time there are but 26 questions and none of them ought to cause anybody embarrassment. At any rate the questions are not unduly inquisitive and the answering of them can never result in the person being compelled to pay a larger tax. In fact, not a word directly relates to money.

The tendency of each census is toward more accurate information, and an effort has been made this time to boil the information down to its lowest terms.

The mere getting of the census information will cost the government the pretty sum of $5,500,000. Of this amount $4,500,000 will be paid to the enumerators, and the remaining million to supervisors. With few exceptions the enumerators will be paid on the basis of the work done. In the country the remuneration will be from 20 to 30 cents for each farm reported, while the pay for names will range from two to four cents. The districts will average 1,300 names, 1,000 in the country and 1,600 in the cities. In the southern states there will be two enumerators in each district, one white and the other black. All told there will be about 1,500 negro enumerators, but some of them will be employed in the northern states. In the south the negroes will be visited by enumerators of their own race, as will also the whites by their own people. There also will be about 900 women enumerators. In point of numbers New York will lead the list with 6,500 enumerators, while Nevada will close the procession with 86. The results of the labors of this army of people will be published in 12 or 15 large volumes, which will come out from time to time for two or three years after the completion of the work in the field. All the tabulation as well as the general preparation of the matter for the printer will be done in Washington under Mr. Durand's supervision.—Rockland Courier-Gazette.

Old-fashioned Craft in New York.

New York city, according to a writer in the May Harper's Magazine, is the "greatest theatre in America" for the practice of the world's ancient arts—for weaving, copper-moulding, and wood-carving, the delicate modelling of violins, for clay work, and pottery-making, and casting in bronze. A search of all New York for the haunts of these ancient crafts was undertaken by the writer, Philip Merrill Mighels, and the illustrator, G. H. Shorey, with what unusual result the description shows. One very human touch lies in the writer's earnest statement that however hard or uncomfortable the labor, in whatever dark and remote workshops, the workmen were always to be found singing or humming at their toil. "Ancient as all these crafts may be, human nature," asserts Mr. Mighels, "out-ages them all. It is the natural provision that men shall find a genuine joy in labor to make them glad."

Our Lift Top Plate saves time and allows only the proper method of feeding a fire with either shovel or coal-hod. This feature, too, is most admirable for a perfect broiling. One of the lids in the top plate is of sectional rings for small utensils, and remains undisturbed even, for the rings are specially weighted to hold in place.

We are telling you of but one feature of over twenty used in the STERLING RANGE which contribute to the most wonderful kitchen stove in the world. A Warning—to feel tired before exertion is not laziness—it's a sign that the system lacks vitality, and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sufferers should not delay. Get rid of that tired feeling by beginning to take Hood's Sarsaparilla today.

WEST FARMINGTON.

May 2.

Mr. J. Brewer, an old gentleman on the Wilton road, hung himself on Sunday morning about seven o'clock. He went to the barn and was gone longer than usual and his wife went to look for him and found him dead. He was on his knees.

While Bert Hardy was delivering his milk Sunday night, his team was run into by Ardine Blake, whose horse tipped his wagon over and ran away; and Mr. Hardy's horse also ran away. They were stopped by someone on the road. Mr. Hardy's wagon axle was badly sprung.

Miss Trippe, the teacher at the Red schoolhouse, was sick and was obliged to leave her school. Another teacher was soon engaged. We are very sorry for Miss Trippe; she was a fine teacher.

Mrs. Charles Ellsworth has been quite sick, but is some better.

Mrs. N. E. Ranger is on the sick list.

Needful Knowledge.

Phillips People Should Learn to Detect the Approach of Kidney Disease.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's disease or diabetes. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

You can use no better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's Phillips proof:

C. A. Mahoney, hotel proprietor, Main St., Phillips, Me., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills with very satisfactory results, in fact I can say that they proved of more benefit to me than any other remedy I had previously taken. At times I was troubled by backaches and dull headaches. The kidney secretions also became too frequent in passage, although the flow was scanty. When suffering in this way, I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from W. A. D. Cragin's drug store and they gave me great relief. I take pleasure in recommending this remedy to other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

TAYLOR HILL, STRONG.

May 2.

Geo. Richards and Herman Kingsley are working for Mrs. Voter with their teams, putting in her crops and seeding the ground.

Mrs. F. H. McLain visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Howes, the past week. Mrs. W. K. Howes and daughter visited at M. G. Greenleaf's in New Vineyard last Friday.

Mrs. Selden Fuller called on friends in this place Sunday.

Roy Spaulding did the sheep shearing for W. K. Howes last week.

J. H. Ramsdell and family have moved to their home, near Strong village.

WEST FREEMAN.

May 2.

Saturday gave us a good variety of April weather, rain, snow and hail. Mrs. George Willard is the proud possessor of 100 little chicks, which she is caring for without the aid of the hen.

Mrs. Bert Huff's mother, Mrs. Berry, is very low.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lovejoy visited at Maple Grove Farm Sunday.

Dandelion greens are much in evidence now, and are very healthful and are much cheaper than tonics and spring medicines.

We are sorry to learn that the youngest son of John Ellsworth of Salem is critically ill from appendicitis. The attack came on very suddenly and the appendix burst before the operation could be performed. The little fellow is about nine years old. His mother is with him at the home of the attending physician.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Foss of Salem are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foss at Maple Grove corner. "Doc" Jackson was at Maple Grove Farm last Saturday.

Alec Welch recently sold a fine yoke of oxen for, we are told, $185. Who says stock raising in Maine does not pay?

Mrs. O. V. Will of the valley was in Farmington one day recently, shopping and calling on friends.

C. S. Swinington is on the road again with his moving picture show. Friends of Mrs. George Keef of Phillips will be sorry to know that her health is still quite poor, and she does not gain so rapidly as she and her friends desire.

LEXINGTON.

May 2.

Mr. Fred Pease has begun his spring's work on the O. W. Chase farm. Mr. and Mrs. Pease have intentions of living there this summer.

Mrs. Nancy Fish and son, Harold, of Farmington were the guests of Mrs. Fish's sister, Mrs. J. R. Howard. Mrs. Ella Howard is in very poor health.

Lion Fondles a Child.

In Pittsburg a savage lion fondled the hand that a child thrust into his cage. Danger to a child is sometimes great when least regarded. Often it comes through Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough. They slay thousands that Dr. King's New Discovery could have saved. "A few doses cured our baby of a very bad case of Croup," writes Mrs. George B. Davis of Flat Rock, N. C. "We always give it to him when he takes cold. It's a wonderful medicine for babies." Best for Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Weak Lungs, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by W. A. D. Cragin, Phillips; Charles E. Dyer, Strong; L. L. Mitchell, Kingfield; E. H. Whitney, Rangeley.

Where the Finest Flour is Made

"The bread-making qualities of flour are due entirely to the kind of wheat. Nature gives to wheat, and flour, all the strength they possess."

R. JAMES ABERNATHY, in "The American Miller."

WILLIAM TELL FLOUR is made from the finest specially selected OHIO Red Winter Wheat. President John W. Burk, who personally inspects the wheat offered for this famous flour, has an experience of 45 years at the business. Every shipment of grain must come up to the long established William Tell standard in every respect.

Ask any expert. He will tell you that the whitest—most delicious bread—the lightest biscuits, the kind that melt in your mouth—are made from the flour of this wheat. That's the only kind that goes into—

PHILLIPS AND VICINITY.

The After-Dinner Speaker.
He wrote an after-dinner speech,
His pulses were aglow;
He carried it all safe and sound,
Until his chance should come around,
But that was years ago.

Each time he was invited out
His speech it went also;
His hand was on his broad expanse,
Just waiting, hoping for a chance,
But that was years ago.

His dinners out came thick and fast
He should have had a show;
But still that after-dinner speech
Lay dormant, just within his reach,
And that was years ago.

The speech grew stale; and so he wrote
A fresh one, don't you know;
He placed it where the other lay,
But it remained the same old way,
And that was years ago.

He knew his speech would make a hit,
If he could have a show;
Alas! Toastmasters dull and blind Were ever and anon taking,
So many years ago.

And so the years have come and gone,
His steps are weak and slow;
But still he has within his reach
That aged, after-dinner speech,
—Joe Cone in Boston Herald.

Hon. Harold M. Sewall was given a surprise party during his recent visit in Port Arthur, Texas. He was attracted to the water front to see a big sperm whale which had been captured and was on exhibition. Everybody in Port Arthur and for miles around was looking at the whale for 50 cents a look. Mr. Sewall, on reaching the wharf where a view could be obtained, was greeted by the young man who owned the whale with a hearty, "How are you, Mr. Sewall? I am glad to see a man from Maine. I am from Harrington." Owing to the crowd, Mr. Sewall only had the opportunity of shaking hands. Up to that time the owner of the whale had cleared $19,000 by the exhibit and the prospects were that the sum would be greatly increased before the whale was cut up.

Mr. W. H. Jacobs, who has been running the big birch saw for the International Mfg. Co., has been laid off for a few days with the rest of the crew until the company is ready to saw long lumber. The company has stripped up 2,600 cords of birch during the past winter.

Type metal for babbitt at this office, ten cents a pound.

Mr. G. M. Hatch, associate editor of the American Horse Breeder, was in Phillips last Friday.

Mr. W. V. Mosher, who has been employed by the International Mfg. Co., is quite well again, after being confined to the house for a couple of weeks.

The singing at the Union church Sunday morning by the regular choir, Hon. N. P. Noble, Mrs. P. O. Hopkins and Miss Birdena Plaisted, was particularly enjoyable.

Mrs. J. F. Hough was ill a few days last week and was unable to go to Redington until Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Lawton spent Sunday in Gardiner with their son. Miss Edna True has finished her course at Morgan's Business college in Waterville and returned home last week.

Dr. E. B. Currier is making repairs on his residence.

E. B. Clayton Post, G. A. R., of Strong will decorate 153 soldiers' graves this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Jacobs of Avon will have a golden wedding on August 12. Their daughter, Angie, will be home from California at that time.

Mr. Eaton, the upholsterer, has returned to Phillips for a limited time and is with C. F. Chandler.

A horse belonging to Gilbert Foss of Salem was taken by Dr. J. H. Rollins, the humane officer, last Monday night and shot.

The special article next week in the series now running on page 9 of Maine Woods and Maine Sportsman will be an interesting description of the linotype junior, the machine which sets the type in this office formerly done by five or six young ladies. There will be a cut of the machine, and those who are interested after reading the description are invited to call and see the machine in operation. There will be one of these interesting special articles each week during the summer.

For More Than Three Decades
Foley's Honey and Tar has been a household favorite for all ailments of the throat, chest and lungs. For infants and children it is best and safest as it contains no opium and no harmful drugs. ## PHILLIPS AND VICINITY.

"Talk about the growth of Phillips," said Mr. G. A. French, "nothing here has grown like the milk business. Years ago D. D. Graffam started with twelve cows, following the late James S. Brackett in the business. After A. D. Graffam succeeded his father in the business, he increased to 16 good cows and about that time Fred Ross started in, delivering milk at night. Ross had a good business from the start and Graffam's kept on increasing. Pretty soon both men were milking twenty. Then Charles Ross started in and the other two men thought they would surely be ruined. But Chas. Ross got a good business and the other two kept on increasing. Now these three men are milking about 20 cows each and apparently they are all making money. This, however, is not all due to the great growth of Phillips. The chief cause is, doubtless, in the fact that when D. D. Graffam started, a great many people in Phillips kept cows to supply their own needs and those that didn't keep cows bought milk of their neighbors instead of the regular milkman. This has gradually changed, and there are now very few cows kept in the village."

Caboose car, No. 11, that is just now running on Conductor G. M. Cushman's regular freight train between Phillips and Farmington, is the best riding car on the Sandy River & Rangeley Lakes railroad. And that is a strong compliment for No. 11, because that road's passenger cars generally ride well.

Mr. Joseph F. Sweetser has bought the farm of George L. Huff in Avon and intends to move there soon.
