DR. W. E. SALIE EYE SPECIALIST OF PORTLAND

Dr. Salie is visiting Rockland every month, with rooms at THE THORNDIKE. His dates are THE THIRD TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY of the month. His May dates in Rockland are the 15th and 16th. At Bay View House, Camden, May 17th and 18th.

Among the many letters and testimonials of value the doctor has selected the following, which have a local bearing, the parties being well known to many of our readers.

NORTH HAVEN, Jan. 5, '06.

Dear Sir—I am still wearing the glasses you made me three years ago and I am taking solid comfort with them. When you come this way again I want you to examine my eyes again and make me another pair. I also want you to make a pair for my wife. Am satisfied you could make it profitable to come once or twice a year.

Respectfully,

C. S. STAPLES.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Noticing that Dr. Salie, the eye specialist, had opened an office in Rockland, I took pleasure in announcing what he did for my eyes. He came to my home tested my eyes, which were in very bad shape, and fitted them to glasses which were satisfactory in every way. Being in Portland a short time afterward, thought I would consult a specialist there. I went to one of the best. He tested my eyes, also glasses, and found them fitted all right by Dr. Salie.

Yours truly,

MRS. A. C. SPRAGUE.

Ex-Governor Alonzo Gurnee, still actively in the practice of medicine, celebrated his 83d birthday, Sunday. He was born in Lewiston which has always been his home. He graduated from Bowdoin in 1836 and is the oldest living graduate of the college.

The six best selling books in New York last week were: "Lady Bullfinch," Owen Wister; "The Spoilers," Rex E. Beach; "Pam Decides," Bettina von Hutten; "The House of a Thousand Candles," Meredith Nicholson; "Silas Strong," Irving Bacheller; "The Truth About Tolna," Bertha Runkle.

A jurymen went to sleep the other day during the closing speech of one of the counsel in a case in an English court. The judge had him awakened and sternly rebuked him. "My lord," said the jurymen, "I was under the impression that I was sworn to give a verdict according to the evidence, not according to the speeches."

After carrying on negotiations for nearly three months the sub-committee representing the anthracite miners and workers and operators of eastern Pennsylvania Monday agreed to continue the award of the strike commission for another three years and the men will return to work as soon as practicable, probably Monday.

Oranges are likely to be somewhat scarcer and dearer in eastern markets. Los Angeles and other places are sending carloads of the fruit to San Francisco, where it is distributed freely among the homeless. That is a splendid example of the charity which begins at home and extends to its next door neighbor.—New York Tribune.

It is reported from San Francisco that a large proportion, if not a majority of the business men who were thankful during the fire that their valuables were inclosed in fire-proof vaults, have wakened to an unpleasant surprise. Within the past days 576 safes and vaults have been opened in the district east of Powell and north of Market streets, and in not more than 60 per cent. of these instances were the contents found intact. In many cases a pile of ashes represented thousands of dollars' worth of contents.

During the exodus from San Francisco following the earthquake and fire the Southern Pacific railroad, according to its official figures, carried 390,000 free passengers. This total is for the nine days from April 18 to April 27. Of these passengers 67,000 were carried to interior California points, 7,844 to other States and 226,000 to suburban points around San Francisco bay. The ticket value of these free passengers is $456,000. In addition, during the nine days mentioned 185,000 persons paid their way out of San Francisco.

A pathetic instance of a dog's devotion for its master is interesting to the residents of Valparaiso, Ind. Two weeks ago James J. Gray, a city mail carrier, died. A faithful shepherd dog, which had long been his constant companion now goes over the dead man's route a couple of times each day, starting and ending at the post office. At the post office the frantic efforts of the animal to find the object of its affections among the employees has resulted in many efforts being made to divert it from the quest, but to no effect. The canine refuses to be consoled.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER

Three-Fold City of the Future—Opening of All-Night Bank Forebushes 24-Hour Business Day for Metropolis—Foreign Uniforms on New York Streets—Relief Over Coming Rate Bill Vote.

New York, May 9.—The fact that the first "Night and Day Bank" in the world opened in New York last week and was an assured success from the start, is probably of more significance than the average reader of the news imagines. According to some preternaturally farsighted observers, the bank that never closes is the first step toward the time when the machinery of metropolitan commercial life, instead of stopping at sunset, will roll on ceaselessly day and night, with three relays of clerks and artisans and laborers and employers will succeed each other, and the metropolis will become, in every sense of the word, an all-day and all-night city. Such a state of affairs, say the observers, is being forced forward by the fact that New York's population grows more and more congested and, more than any other thing, room is demanded. If we have our population working in three relays, the men can sleep at night, and the growing congestion will be relieved. If such a day ever arrives, the city will have the best of both worlds, the populations, one of which will be wholly nocturnal. The three will have their separate newspapers, different amusements, different interests, different outlooks upon life. While one shift is breakfasting, another will be dining; while one is sleeping, another will be at the height of its daily activity. But the imagination fails at the state of mind of the housewife whose husband and sons would be scattered through the three relays and whose life would be a jumble of conflicting breakfasts and dinners and sleeping hours.

Scarcely a week passes that some new foreign uniform does not brighten New York's streets. Last week the men of the Queen's Own Regiment, which came down from the front during the military tournament at Madison Square Garden, were a familiar sight in their neat dark uniforms and little hats cocked rakishly over their ears. A curious feature of their stay was that all street car conductors and ticket sellers on the subway and elevated roads had been hoodwinked into wearing the uniform that came to them, in order to pass them out to the strangers in change. This week the tall, rangy Englishmen were succeeded by the dumpy little French sailors from Admiral Camille's fleet which has been visiting the port. The French tars wear dark blue uniforms with a profusion of red trimmings. When the first installment on shore leave reached the landing near the fleet anchorage in the Hudson river, they accosted the policeman on duty with the query: "Vee eez so Bowery?" On receiving the proper direction they moved on, and the sailor on duty, where sailors can get "the largest schooner of beer in the world" for a nominal payment of five cents.

Next week oriental splendor will be the treat, for His Highness the Maharajah of Baroda will arrive with an extensive suite. The Maharajah owns the only motor car in the world, and is said to have jewels enough to fill two four barrels. If he is wise, he will not visit the Bowery unaccompanied by Central Office detectives.

The news that the Senate had decided to begin to vote on the Hepburn bill amendments, and that the bill would move steadily toward the passage of some measure, has been followed by a sense of relief among the worried business men of the metropolis. The general belief is that the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission will not be taken away in the vote on the bill. The past week has shown that this would be a serious departure from the form of government laid down by the founders of the nation. But, nevertheless, banking circles, representing small investors and holders of railway securities, realizing that the placing of an arbitrary power in the hands of an executive tribunal might result in serious financial disturbance, will remain uneasy until the question is decided. It is pointed out that the Hepburn bill is the first bill ever proposed which does not provide for court review and even the most active agitators for rate legislation, including members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, are on record as favoring court review, as is shown by statements of the members of the Commission recently published in the Congressional Record.

A little band of encirclers in the city moved last week because Lazarus is no more, Lazarus the last table d'hôte within the city limits. Though within the city, Lazarus's enjoyed the advantages of a rural situation, being perched on one of the Staten Island hills, overlooking the imposing entrance into New York Harbor. One might roam the highways of the old island for a year of Sundays without coming upon the unpretentious brown house where the service of the palate had come so near perfection. But a select company knew and appreciated the place. Bankers, artists, literary men, newspaper men from Park row and managers of big hotels desirous of getting tips on new dainties for their bill of fare, were among the frequenters of the place. Officers of the big transatlantic liners knew it and dropped in when in port to chat with Papa Lazarus and perhaps present him with a box of fine cognac. A young literary man, who has since won international fame, used to occupy a room at the place during periods of composition. Some of the little walking clubs that haunt Staten Island liked to end their tramps with a feast such as only Lazarus could provide. Somewhere else could such exquisite pastries, such palate-tickling special dishes, and above all, such tender lobsters, be found. There was a wonderful conception prepared by Mama Lazarus, of fresh young vegetables, mushrooms, calves brains and veal, "fritto-misto" by name, which turned epicures into poets. But the best of good things perish. Papa Lazarus, suffering from an asthmatic affliction, must move to the rare air of the Adirondack Mountains, and within the month the old house will be razed and a factory erected on its site.

New York's aged Senators are not her only representatives at the national capitol who do not condescend to attend the present session of Congress. Timothy D. Sullivan, Tammany Chief of the East Side and representative of the Eighth Congressional district of the city, has not been present in the House since the opening day of the session, somewhat over five months ago. Mr. Sullivan's sole appearance occurred a few days ago when he flew out to attend a meeting of the Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures and press the bill to establish the metric system for use by the Government. "Big Tim's" assiduity for the metric system is a puzzle to the city at large and his constituents. The Boverly has never given any thought to the metric system and would probably be appalled if it had to fill its beer cans by the litre instead of the pint. After attending the committee meeting at Washington, Mr. Sullivan hurried back to Albany where he has stayed all winter "attending to his interests." He does not care for Washington, and will drop his job of representative at the end of his term and have himself elected State Senator again—a position he craves for many years. "There's always something doing at Albany," he says, explaining his preference for the State capital. In the light of recent yellow dog revelations, Father Knickerbocker does not question this.

The inalienable right to organize has been exercised by the bookbinders of the city who have formed an organization with the formidable title of the United Bookbinders' Protective League. Hereafter the union shirt will be in order, and the man who has the misfortune to own a pair of scab-made shoes may find himself put on the blacklist and unable to get his boots decently blacked. A nine-hour day and a Sunday closing hour at 3 o'clock are reforms contemplated by the unionists. Just to show that the organization is fully organized and up-to-date, charges of graft in the union have already been accounted for to pass waste gasoline into the square alleges that he was ordered by the union to close on a certain day, which he did, and behold, all the officers of the union continued to do business and stole his custom. "I pay 'em do' to join and feisty cents a month," he said, "Somebody gotta da mon' and I gotta da lemon." To get a lemon, in the parlance of the street, is to be buncoed.

There are no volcanoes in New York, but eruptions of a dangerous character have been driving thousands of tenants from the neighborhood just below Central Park on the West Side. The trouble has been with the heavy iron lid covering the sewer manholes, which have blown out at once with a force that shattered all the windows in the neighborhood, damaged houses and injured pedestrians in the streets. One frightened householder, driven out of his parlor when one of the great iron discs crashed through the window, took refuge in the cellar, whereupon the cellar floor suddenly blew up and mangled him against the ceiling. The trouble originated in the big automobile garages in the neighborhood, which were accustomed to pass waste gasoline into the sewers. The gasoline got ignited and caused the blow-ups. This week a Mayor's office and demanded that the sewer bombardments be made to cease. Accordingly the aldermen passed an ordinance banning gasoline into the sewers. Longacre.

A. J. METCALF.

A Native of Hope, Moved to Kansas, Became Wealthy, and Is Now Dead.

The following clipping is from the Oberlin Times, Oberlin, Kansas: A. J. Metcalf was born at Hope, Maine, July 7, 1835, and came to DeCATUR county in August, 1875, and settled on the lower Sappa engaging in farming and stock raising. Mr. Metcalf was married to Miss Hattie A. Fish, October 24, 1880, who, with six children, three boys and three girls, are left to mourn the death of husband and father on April 21, 1906, in Kansas City, Missouri, where he had been taken by his devoted wife three weeks before, hoping to secure a remedy for her fast falling husband.

Deceased had not been in good health for several years, but would not give up his active participation in the farm duties, which with his large herds of cattle and hogs and over 4,000 acres of land, made his retirement seem the more difficult to him.

Often in the last three years Mr. Metcalf had said to the writer when being urged to quit the farm and come to Oberlin, "Yes, we are going to take a rest soon, and think Oberlin will be good place to come because of the schools, and we are contemplating this change and shall make it as soon as it is possible to do so."

In February of this year Mr. Metcalf bought a nice property in this city, as noted in these columns at the time, and the first week in March moved with his family to this beautiful home where he expected to live in ease and comfort for a rest soon, and think Oberlin will be good place to come because of the schools, and we are contemplating this change and shall make it as soon as it is possible to do so.

After moving to town from the ranch the first of March, Mr. Metcalf never was able to go back to the place, and in less than a week took to his bed where he remained two weeks, when he seemed slightly better was taken to Kansas City by Mrs. Metcalf and her brother, Mr. S. A. Fish, where he had the best of care as well as the most skillful medical attention that could be had, but the fatal malady, cancer of the stomach, had almost done its deadly work. No help would be had, so the sufferer and his devoted wife awaited death to bring the only relief possible in his case.

Sunday night the body after having been well prepared for the trip to Oberlin, was brought by Geo. A. Metcalf, brother of deceased, accompanied by the bereaved widow, who were met at the depot by relatives and friends and the body taken to the home where the funeral was held Tuesday morning, April 24, at 10.30, conducted by Rev. D. O. Banta assisted by Rev. Anderson Crain, and the body laid to rest in the cemetery just east of the city.

A. J. Metcalf, or Al, as everyone called him, was one of the country's most successful farmers and stock men, and during the twenty-eight years' residence in this county, accumulated a competency and was one of the wealthiest men in northwest Kansas. He was a good neighbor, indulgent parent and considerate husband, respected by all who knew him, and will be greatly missed by his old neighbors down the creek where he had been so long the counselor and mainstay of the neighborhood.

POWERS ON ELECTION.

Representative Powers of Maine, after a visit to the 4th district, takes a rosy view of Republican prospects says a Washington despatch. He went on personal business but had opportunity for a look at political conditions. "As far as I had occasion to see," said he, "our end of the state is all right. The Republicans there certainly will do their duty at our election next September. The Republicans and Democrats of Maine will line up this year on the run question. The Republicans will favor total prohibition and will re-elect Gov. Cobb. The Democrats will declare in favor of reabsorption, local option and high license. They will nominate Mr. Davis, who ran against Gov. Cobb. The question of the tariff will cut no figure. The people of Maine are in favor of a protective tariff, and while they might talk of a reduction of certain schedules, they would not be willing to have them changed, because that might lead to a general reduction."

DOESN'T ENDORSE 'EM.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union has no connection with medicines sold under the name of White-Ribbon Remedies. The W. C. T. U. does not make, sell nor endorse any medicines. We have investigated every W. C. T. YOUR FAVORITE POEM

The Happiest Time is Now.

Talk not to me of future bliss! Talk not to me of joys gone by! For the happiest hour is this, When love leads time to fly. The future—doubt may overcast, To shadow Hope's young brow; Oblivion's veil may shroud the past— The happiest time is now!

Though flowers in splendor pass, Some odor yet exude, And soon the sparkling ripples die, We raise as on we glide, Our bark the right tide bubbles sing, For ever from the shore, Then let us gayly sail and sing, "The happiest time is now!"

A pathetic instance of a dog's devotion for its master is interesting to the residents of Valparaiso, Ind. Two weeks ago James J. Gray, a city mail carrier, died. A faithful shepherd dog which had long been his constant companion now goes over the dead man's route a couple of times each day, starting and ending at the post office. At the post office the frantic efforts of the animal to find the object of its affections among the employees has resulted in many efforts being made to divert it from the quest, but to no effect. The canine refuses to be consoled.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER

Three-Fold City of the Future—Opening of All-Night Bank Forebushes 24-Hour Business Day for Metropolis—Foreign Uniforms on New York Streets—Relief Over Coming Rate Bill Vote.

New York, May 9.—The fact that the first "Night and Day Bank" in the world opened in New York last week and was an assured success from the start, is probably of more significance than the average reader of the news imagines. According to some pretentiously frightened observers, the bank that never closes is the first step toward the end of the world, and the machinery of metropolitan commercial life, instead of stopping at sunset, will roll on ceaselessly day and night, when three relays of clerks and artists and laborers and employers will succeed each other, and the metropolis will become, in every sense of the word, an all day and all night city. Such a state of affairs, say the observers, is being forced forward by the fact that New York's population grows more and more congested and, more than any other thing, is the cause of the city's financial difficulties. If we have our population working in three relays, three men can work in the space now occupied by one, and the growing congestion will be relieved. If such a day ever arrives, the city will really have three separate populations, one of which will be wholly nocturnal. The three will have different interests, different amusements, different outlooks upon life. While one shift is breakingfasting, another will be dining, while one is sleeping, another will be at the height of its daily activity. But the imagination fails at the state of mind of the housewife whose husband and sons would be scattered through the three relays and whose life would be a jumble of conflicting breakfasts and dinners and sleeping hours.

Scarcely a week passes that some new foreign uniform does not brighten New York's streets. Last week the men of the Queen's Own Regiment, which came down from Canada to attend the military tournament at Madison Square Garden, wore a familiar sight in their neat dark uniforms and little hats cocked rakishly over their ears. A curious feature of their stay was that all street car conductors and ticket sellers had been hoarding all the Canadian dimes that came to them, in order to pass them out to the strangers in exchange. This week the tall, rangy Englishmen were succeeded by the dumpy little French sailors from Admiral Camille's fleet which has been visiting the port. The French tars wear dark blue uniforms with a profusion of red trimmings. When the first installment of the fleet came to the landing near the foot of the anchor in the Hudson river, they accented the policeman on "duty" with the query: "Vee-ee-ze Bowerly?"

Next week oriental uniforms will be the treat for His Highness the Maharajah of Baroda who arrives with an extensive entourage. The Maharajah is said to have jewels enough to fill two floor barrels. If he is wise, he will not visit the Bowery accompanied by Central Office detectives.

The news that the Senate had decided to begin to vote on the Hepburn bill amendments this week would move steadily toward the passage of some measure, has been followed by a sense of relief among the worried business interests of the metropolis. The general belief is that the power of the courts to review the findings of the Interstate Commerce Commission will not be taken away. The debate of the past week has shown that this would be a serious departure from the form of government laid down by the founders of the nation. But, nevertheless, banking circles, representing small investors and holders of railway securities, realizing that the placing of arbitrary power in the hands of an executive tribunal might result in serious financial disturbance, will remain uneasy until the question is decided. It is pointed out that the Hepburn bill is the first bill ever proposed which does not provide for court review and even the active agitation for rate legislation, including members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, are on record as favoring court review, as is shown by statements in the members of the Commission recently published in the Congressional Record.

A little band of epicures in the city market week because Lazarri's is no more, Lazarri's is the best table d'hôte within the city limits. Though within the city, Lazarri's enjoyed the advantage of a rural situation, being perched on one of the Staten Island hills, overlooking the imposing entrance into New York Harbor. One might roam the highways of the old island for a year of Sundays without coming upon the unpretentious brown house where the service of the palate had come so near perfection. But a select company knew and appreciated the place. Bankers, artists, literary men, newspaper men from Park row and managers of big hotels desirous of getting tips on new dainties for their bill of fare, were among the frequenters of the place. Officers of the big transatlantic liners liked to end their tramps with a feast of chat with Papa Lazarri and perhaps present him with a bottle of fine cognac. A young literary man, who has since won international fame, used to occupy a room at the place during periods of composition. Some of the little walking clubs that haunt Staten Island liked to end their tramps with a feast of chat with Papa Lazarri could provide. Nowhere else could such exquisite pastes, such palate-tickling special dishes, and above all, such tender lobsters, be found. There was a wonderful concoction prepared by Mama Lazarri, of fresh young vegetables, mushrooms, calves brains and veal, "fritto-misto" by name, which turned epicures into poets. But the best of food things perish. Papa Lazarri, suffering from an asthmatic affliction, must move to the rarer air of the Adirondack Mountains, and within the month the old house will be razed and a factory erected on its site.

New York's aged Senators are not her only representatives at the national

capitol who do not condescend to attend the present session of Congress. Timothy D. Sullivan, Tammany Czar of the East Side and representative of the Eighth Congressional district of the city, has not been present in the House since the opening day of the session, somewhat over five months ago. Mr. Sullivan's sole appearance occurred a few days ago when he flew out to attend a meeting of the Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures on Colnago, Heights and Measures and press the bill to establish the metric system for use by the Government. "Big Tim's" assiduity for the metric system is a puzzle to the city at large and his constituents. The Bowery has never given any thought to the metric system and would probably be appalled if it had to fill its beer cans by the litre instead of the pint. After attending the committee meeting at Washington, Mr. Sullivan hurried back to New York, where he has stayed all winter. He does not care for Washington, and will drop his job of representative at the end of his term and again—a position he has held for many years. "There's always something doing at Albany," he says, explaining his preference for the State capital. In the light of recent yellow dog revelations, Father Knickerbocker does not question this.

The inalienable right to unpolice the city which have formed an organization with the formidable title of the United Bootblacks' Protective League. Hereafter the union shall be in the order, and the man who has the misfortune to own a pair of scab-made shoes may find himself put on the blacklist and unable to get his boots decently blacked. A nine-hour day and a Sunday closing hour at 3 o'clock are reforms contemplated by the union. And just to show that the organization is fully organized and up-to-date, charges of graft in the union have already been made. An Italian bootblack on Times square alleges that he was ordered by the union to close on a certain day, which he did, and behold, all the officers of the union continued to do business and stole his custom. "I pay 'em dol' to join and feefy cents a month," he said. "Somebody just dun me and I gitta da lemon." To get a lemon, in the parlance of the street, is to be buncoed.

There are no volcanoes in New York, but eruptions of a dangerous character have been driving thousands of tenants away from the neighborhood just below Central Park on the West Side. The trouble has been with the heavy iron pipes covering the sewer manholes, which of late have acquired the habit of soaring skyward amidst a great explosion and upheaval of flames. Sometimes as many as twenty of these manhole covers have blown out at once with a force that shattered all the windows in the neighborhood, damaged houses and frightened householders, driven out of their parlor when one of the great iron discs crashed through the window, took fire in the cellar, whereupon the cellar floor suddenly blew up and mashed him against the ceiling. The trouble originated in the neighborhood, which were accustomed to pass waste gasoline into the sewers. The gasoline got ignited and caused the blow-ups. This week a committee of residents stormed the Mayor's office and demanded that the sewer bombardments be made to cease. Accordingly the aldermen passed an ordinance banishing gasoline from the sewers.

A. J. METCALF.

A Native of Hope, Moved to Kansas, Became Wealthy, and Is Now Dead.

The following clipping is from the Oberlin Times, Oberlin, Kansas: A. J. Metcalf was born at Hope, Maine, July 7, 1855, and came to Decatur county in August, 1878, and settled on the lower Sappa engaging in farming and stock raising. Mr. Metcalf was married to Miss Hattie A. Fish, October 24, 1880, who with six children, three boys and three girls, are left to mourn the death of husband and father on April 21, 1906, in Kansas City, Missouri, where he had been taken by his devoted wife three weeks before, hoping to secure a remedy for her fast failing husband.

Deceased had not been in good health for several years, but would not give up his active participation in the farm duties, which with his large herds of cattle and hogs and over 4,000 acres of land, made his retirement seem the more difficult to him.

Often in the last three years Mr. Metcalf had said to the writer when being urged to quit the farm and come to Oberlin, "Yes, we are going to take a rest year, and think Oberlin will be a good place to come because of the schools, and we are contemplating this change and shall make it as soon as it is possible to do so."

In February of this year Mr. Metcalf bought a nice property in this city, as noted in these columns at the time, and the first week in March moved with his family to this beautiful home where he expected to live in ease and comfort for so much deserved and had so dearly bought with the activity and energy of a busy hardworking life of a quarter of a century. Alas! Alas! like so many others before him, when he got ready to live, death came and the family circle was broken, and where happiness, comfort, peace and joy was looked forward to and expected, grief and utter desolation for those left behind.

After moving to town from the ranch the first of March, Mr. Metcalf never was able to go back to the place, and in less than a week took to his bed where he remained two weeks, and when seemingly slightly better was taken to Kansas City by Mrs. Metcalf and her brother, Mr. S. A. Fish, where he had the best of care as well as the most skillful medical attendance that could be brought to the only relief possible in his case.

Sunday night the body after having been well prepared for the trip to Oberlin, was brought by Geo. A. Metcalf, brother of deceased, accompanied by the bereaved widow, who were met at the depot by relatives and friends and the body taken to the home where the funeral was held Tuesday morning, April 24, at 10:30 conducted by Rev. D. O. Santa assisted by Rev. Anderson Crain, and the body laid to rest in the cemetery just east of the city.

A. J. Metcalf, a well known country's most successful farmer and stock man, and had during the twenty-eight years' residence in this country, accumulated a competency and was one of the wealthiest men in northwest Kansas. He was a good neighbor, indulgent parent and considerate husband, respected by all who knew him, and will be greatly missed by his old neighbors down the creek where he had been so long the counselor and mainstay of the neighborhood.

POWERS ON ELECTION.

Representative Powers of Maine, after a visit to the 4th district, takes a rosy view of the Republican prospects says a Washington dispatch. He went on personal business but had opportunity for a look at political conditions. "As far as I had occasion to see," said he, "our end of the state is all right. The Republicans there certainly will do their duty at our election next September. The Republicans and Democrats of Maine will line up this year on the run question. The Republicans will favor total prohibition and will re-elect Gov. Cobb. The Democrats will declare in favor of resubmission, local option and high license. They will re-nominate Mr. Davis, who ran against Gov. Cobb. The question of the tariff will cut no figure. The people of Maine are in favor of a protective tariff, and while they might talk of a reduction of certain schedules, they would not be willing to have them changed, because that might lead to a general reduction."

DOESN'T ENDORSE 'EM.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union has no connection with medicines sold under the name of White-Ribbon Remedies. The W. C. T. U. does not make, sell nor endorse any medicines. We have investigated every W. C. T. U. testimonial published by patent medicine firms for some years past, which has come to our notice and could find only one to be genuine, and the woman named in that is said to be monthly unsound.—Statement from the department of Medical Temperance of the National W. YOUR FAVORITE POEM

The Happiest Time is Now.

Talk not to me of future bliss!
Talk not to me of joys gone by!
For the happiest hour is this,
When love bids time to fly.
The future—doubt me not—
To shadow hope's young brow;
Ourselves we may surround the past—
The happiest time is now!

Though flowers in spring vases thrown
Some odor yet retain,
Their fragrance o'er the bloom was shown
Breathed sweeter on the gale.
Like faded flowers, each parted bliss
Let memory keep—let love
Can joy that's past be like to this?
The happiest time is now!

Unmarked our course before we live
O'er time's eternal tide,
And soon the sparkling ripple dies
We raise as on we glide.
Our bark the lightest bubble fling
For ever from the shore,
Then let us gayly sail and sing
The happiest time is now! —Samuel Lover.

The house at the corner of Pleasant and Lisle streets, owned by Mrs. Annie Prendergast, and occupied by M. Franklin and family, was badly damaged by fire and water Tuesday night.

The fire caught in the ell soon after a fire had been built in the kitchen stove. Most of the furniture was removed. The building was fully insured in the agency of Cochran, Baker & Cross. The loss will be about $800 it is thought. The fire alarm boxes in the neighborhood were not working and Marshal Spear sounded the alarm from box 42.

At the 8th annual convention of the State Council of Knights of Columbus, held in Augusta, Wednesday, Timothy E. McNamara of Rockland was elected state secretary, and Morris H. Costello of Rockland was elected state treasurer.

The new state deputy is William H. Gulliver of Portland. The reports show every one of the 16 counties of Maine increasing in membership. The total membership is about 4000. New councils have been organized at Portland and Ellsworth. The delegates to the Augusta convention were tendered a banquet by Abenaki Council.

E. O. Teague, formerly of Warren, and now identified with a large factory in Farmington, N. H., is spending his vacation in Knox county. Mr. Teague says that he has had no opportunity to compare license and prohibition in the New Hampshire town for the reason that he did not go there until it went under the license system. He is told by the townspeople, however, that conditions are much better than they were.

The town has a population of 250 and licenses five saloons. So far as Mr. Teague can see the license law is being carefully obeyed, the saloons closing promptly on the prescribed hour and remaining closed on Sundays.

Simonton, Jr., Dana Sherer, Fred Tibbets and W. Cross "took" the third drive in Knox Lodge of Odd Fellows, Monday night.

This is 500 feet more than he has ever planted before and ought to be sufficient to meet the demand. Dr. O. C. Davies of Augusta, who was in attendance upon the Maloney trial the early part of the week is a cousin of Ore E. Davies of this city.

For several years he has been assisting Supt. Sanborn in the Augusta insane hospital and was instrumental in founding the Augusta city hospital. During his stay here Dr. Davies was taken ill by some of the local physicians and his stay made pleasant.

The Maine college baseball teams are at it in dead earnest. Wednesday Colby beat Bowdoin 7 to 6 and Bates beat Bowdoin 2 to 1. Tribo and Dwyer, the Knox county boys, each played an errorless game for Colby, Dwyer having 13 putouts. Frosted pitched for Maine, but all were "in one inning, and both of Bates' runs were scored then. Bowman of Vinalhaven played right field for Bates and made one of the three hits off Frost.

SAMUEL H. BURPEE.

Samuel Harrington Burpee, for 63 years a Rockland business man, and the sole survivor of the first city council, died early Thursday morning at his home on South Main street. He had been failing rapidly for some months, and there has been scarcely a day in the past few weeks when the tidings of his death were not expected. No man could have been missed more greatly from Main street than was Mr. Burpee during his last illness, and he has been constant inquiries as to his condition by a multitude of solicitous friends. The fact that the end has been momentarily expected for some time past does not lessen the deep regret caused by the passing of this well beloved and kindly old gentleman.

Mr. Burpee was a native of Grafton, Mass., where he was born Dec. 7, 1817. His parents were Heman and Satira (Reading) Burpee. The father's trade was that of chair making, and his occupation followed in Boston, Damariscotta, Thomaston and East Thomaston. A branch shop was carried on here, and it was not until 1835 that Heman Burpee came here to locate permanently.

The son, Samuel H. Burpee, began his business career here in 1843, when he was but a boy. The late Nathaniel Burpee formed a partnership for the purpose of carrying on the furniture business, at the same time taking contracts for house and ship painting. Rockland (then East Thomaston) was a village of less than 2000 inhabitants, communicating with the outside world only by stage and boat. The town prospered then extended only as far back as Union street and one of Mr. Burpee's interesting recollections was of the time when he picked cranberries where the syndicate now stands. There were no railroads or steamboat lines when Mr. Burpee embarked in business and goods for the store were shipped here by vessel. The steamer Bangor, for which the present steamer City of Bangor was named, was placed on the route later, but landed at Owl's Head. When Mr. Burpee desired to make a business trip to Boston he went by stage to Portland, the trip occupying two days. This stage route was controlled by the late John T. Berry, and the latter frequently drove the stage in person.

The firm of N. A. & S. H. Burpee began business in a small store on Limecock street. Four years later they built a large wooden block on the site of the one now occupied by the firm. The wooden block narrowly escaped destruction in the big fire of 1853, but succumbed to flames 15 years later when there was another notable conflagration in this city. N. A. Burpee was then chief of the fire department, and stuck to his post all through the fire, the exclusion of his great personal interest. N. A. Burpee died in 1887, and his son Edgar A. Burpee succeeded him as a member of the firm. Soon after the fire of 1868 the firm began the construction of another new block, the large brick structure which constitutes its present home. The firm was incorporated in 1893 under the name of the N. A. & S. H. Burpee Furniture Co. S. H. Burpee being elected president of the corporation.

Mr. Burpee cast his first presidential vote for William H. Hammond in 1868 and was a Republican from the time the party was organized. He was elected a member of the common council from Ward 6 in 1864 and was the last member of that city government to pass away. He was reelected in 1855, and was elected to the board of Aldermen in 1859 and 1860. He served in the Maine legislature in 1875 and was elected Hannibal Hamlin as U. S. Senator. He had been a Mason and Odd Fellow and at one time was grand warden of the Grand lodge of Odd Fellows. Mr. Burpee was a member of the Universalist church.

He was fond of associating with his fellow men and was a charter member of the Star Club, which was succeeded by the Central Club, and later by the present Catawamuck Club. While his health permitted he was a frequent visitor at the club room, where he found keen enjoyment in playing cards and chatting with friends. Until very recently he was one of the first to arrive at the store and remained there throughout business hours. A summary of Mr. Burpee's characteristics would be a statement of all that is admirable in best citizenship. He practiced the teachings of the Golden Rule in head, heart and hand, and in private life. He was a friend of everybody and on the street or in the store never failed to have a kindly greeting for every acquaintance.

Mr. Burpee was married Dec. 12, 1843, to Abbie Marshall, who died in 1890. Seven children were born of that union. Charles E. Burpee, who served in the navy, and resided at the Highland; Samuel A. Burpee, senior member of the firm of Burpee & Lamb; Richard H. Burpee, of the N. A. & S. H. Burpee Furniture Co., John A. Burpee, a Rockland letter carrier; Edwin W., who died in boyhood; Annie, wife of Lemuel Q. Tyler; and Kittle C., widow of the late George E. Burpee.

The funeral services will be held at the family residence Sunday at 2 o'clock. Rev. E. H. Chapin will officiate.

FORMERLY OF UNION.

Death of Mrs. Clara Brown in Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Mrs. Clara Brown, who was a daughter of the late William and Harriette Fish of South Liberty, and who resided for many years in Union, died recently in Council Bluffs, Ia. A newspaper of that city published the following obituary notice:

Mrs. Clara Brown was born in Liberty, Maine, Sept. 19, 1848. She was married to George H. Brown, Feb. 8, 1877. Her funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon at her residence, 638 Myrtle street, by Rev. O. O. Smith, pastor of the First Congregational church, assisted by Rev. James Thomson of Hampton, her former pastor.

The funeral was largely attended and beautiful floral tributes sent by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church, by the Koller-Farnsworth Co. and employees, besides those of a host of friends, literally covered the casket.

Rev. Smith alluded to Mrs. Brown as one of those beautiful christian characters, that the master would have said of her what he said of another, "she hath done what she could." He also spoke of her activity in the church, and especially of her work in the Industrial Mission School; how the children whom she had befriended would miss her.

Rev. James Thomson then made a brief address, referring to Mrs. Brown as one of those everyday christians who made christianity a life and not a mere profession, and whose character was a daily epistle of the Lord Jesus Christ, and of those who command the religion of Christ to the world by their lives. He also alluded to her more than ordinary force of character, and strong christian convictions of moral right.

Mrs. Brown had the unique distinction of being a trustee of the church of which her husband is a deacon. She had also been president of the Ladies' Aid Society, and made a remarkable success during her year of office. She was an active worker also in the Women's Christian Temperance Union in which she took a great interest. She had taken a prominent part in the union begun several years ago by the Women's Christian Temperance Union against the Sunday theatre. Rev. Thomson claimed that if all the christians had been as courageous as Mrs. Brown was, there would be no Sunday theatre today in this city.

In concluding his remarks he said that such a life could not stop at death; that her character must go on and develop in a new sphere in the spiritual world, and that all should build their characters and lay out their lives on an immortal basis.

At the close of the service many of the little girls of the Industrial Mission placed flowers in the casket. Mrs. Brown leaves an adopted son, Dudley G. Brown, who now resides in Wyoming, also four sisters, Mrs. C. R. Morton, Union, Me.; Mrs. Alonzo Sherwood, Monmouth, Neb.; Mrs. J. S. Tooley, Los Angeles, Cal.; and Mrs. W. H. Esaney of this city.

Mrs. Brown's sister, Mrs. Tooley, and husband arrived from Los Angeles, to late for the funeral services, and the body was laid temporarily in the vault of Congressman W. L. Smith and was interred in the final resting place in Fairview cemetery.

SOUTH HOPE.

G. A. Fogler died at his home Saturday, April 28. Although his health had not been as usual during the winter yet he was able to pursue his business and his sickness was short and his death unexpected. The funeral was Monday, April 30 at 1 p. m., Rev. Mr. Cheever of Rockland officiating. He leaves two sisters to mourn the loss of a kind and thoughtful brother, Mrs. Ella Achorn of Rockland and Mrs. Laura Lemond, who has always kept the home for him; one niece, Mrs. Wilbur Cross of Rockland. The funeral was familiarly known as a man of many sterling qualities, temperate, honest, charitable, thrifty and industrious. He had been in the marketing business for many years and bought and sold farm produce as well as raised it. He was always ready and willing to do errands and always had a great many to do in his numerous trips to Rockland, and rarely if ever he forgot anything that he was asked to do. He had many friends and will be greatly missed, not only in his home but in the community. He was in every respect a good man and the family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their bereavement.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened By Over-Work.

used to be considered that only urinary and blood troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work. The kidneys when they are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as the kidneys are healthy they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake in purchasing your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest test for its purity and its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

She helped him a particle. The eczema was something terrible, and the doctors said it was the worst case they ever saw. At times his whole body and face were covered, all but his feet. I had to bandage his limbs and arms; his scalp was just dreadful. I used many kinds of patent medicines before trying the Cuticura Remedies.

"A friend teased me to try Cuticura. At last I consented, when my boy was three years and four months old, having had eczema all that time, and suffering untold misery. I began to use all three of the Cuticura Remedies; the Cuticura Soap helped as well as the Ointment. He was better in two months; in six months he was well; but I gave him the Cuticura Resolvent—using twelve bottles. I think, and always used the Cuticura Soap for bathing, and do now a good deal. He was four years old before he was well, and his skin became perfectly fair when cured. I give you permission to publish this letter for I am always glad to do good when I can. I think I have told you all there is necessary to tell." Mrs. R. L. Risley, Oct. 24, 1905.

THE GEORGIA COMING.

The final details for the official trial of the battleship Georgia have been made. The craft will leave Bath on Sunday, May 13, for Boston to haul out on the drydock in the Charleston Navy Yard to clean and paint. The work will take a large crew several days. The trial trip will occur the twenty-third over the Rockland course. It will take a crew of about 500 men to man the ship on her trip. There will be a crew of about 300 in the engine and boiler room.

As a result, C. H. Pendleton, druggist and optician and W. H. Kittredge had a larger sale for Hyomel last week than ever before in the years that they have carried the reliable treatment for the cure of catarrh.

Unlike the ordinary remedies that have been used in catarrhal troubles, there is no stomach dosing with Hyomel. It is breathed through a neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, and its balsamic, antiseptic healing penetrates to the most remote cells of the nose, throat and lungs, killing all catarrhal germs, healing the irritated mucous membrane, and effecting a complete and permanent cure.

If there is a single catarrhal germ in the system, Hyomel will search it out and absolutely destroy it, completely eradicating the trouble. The remedy has made so many cures among their customers that they offer to pay for it themselves if it does not benefit even the worst case of catarrh.

The complete outfit costs only $1, consisting of an inhaler, medicine dropper, and bottle of Hyomel, while extra bottles of Hyomel can be obtained for 50 cents. There will be no even this small expense if Hyomel does not cure, as they will return your money.

THOMASTON NOTES.

G. I. Robinson Drug Co. has just received a large supply of Hyomel, the guaranteed cure for catarrh. With every outfit they give a signed guarantee to refund the money if Hyomel does not benefit. This is the famous inhalation treatment that cures catarrh without stomach dosing, and is the only guaranteed cure for that disease.

During the present year no fewer than 29 of our 45 states will elect governors as the terms of that number of state executives expire either during 1906 or early in 1907. Of the 29 governors whose terms expire, 18 are Republicans and 11 are Democrats. Oregon will elect a successor to Governor G. E. Chamberlain on June 4. The Arkansas state election will be held on September 1. Vermont's on September 4. Maine's on September 10. Georgia's on October 3 and Kentucky's on November 5. The other states choosing state officers will elect them on November 6, at the same time representatives in congress are chosen in all of the 45 states.

I Give Honor to Whom It Is Due.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y., cured me of Bright's Disease and Gravel. Four of the best physicians had failed to relieve me. I have recommended it to scores of people with like success, and know it will cure all who try it.—Mrs. E. P. Mizner, Burr Hill, O. Price $1.00, all druggists; 6 bottles $5.00.

"A friend teased me to try Cuticura. At last I consented, when my boy was three years and four months old, having had eczema all that time, and suffering untold misery. I began to use all three of the Cuticura Remedies; the Cuticura Soap helped as well as the Ointment. He was better in two months; in six months he was well; but I gave him the Cuticura Resolvent—using twelve bottles. I think, and always used the Cuticura Soap for bathing, and do now a good deal. He was four years old before he was well, and his skin became perfectly fair when cured. I give you permission to publish this letter for I am always glad to do good when I can. I think I have told you all there is necessary to tell." Mrs. R. L. Risley, Oct. 24, 1905.

Complete External and Internal Treatment for every case of Eczema, Scald, Itch, Ringworm, etc. (See full directions on each bottle.) Price 50c. per bottle. Sold by all druggists. Write for free literature to J. C. Kenyon, 100 N. 3rd St., St. Paul, Minn.

THE GEORGIA COMING.

The final details for the official trial of the battleship Georgia have been made. The craft will leave Bath on Sunday, May 13, for Boston to haul out on the drydock in the Charleston Navy Yard to clean and paint. The work will take a large crew several days. The trial trip will occur the twenty-third over the Rockland course. It will take a crew of about 500 men to man the ship on her trip. There will be a crew of about 300 in the engine and boiler room.

As a result, C. H. Pendleton, druggist and optician and W. H. Kittredge had a larger sale for Hyomel last week than ever before in the years that they have carried the reliable treatment for the cure of catarrh.

Unlike the ordinary remedies that have been used in catarrhal troubles, there is no stomach dosing with Hyomel. It is breathed through a neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, and its balsamic, antiseptic healing penetrates to the most remote cells of the nose, throat and lungs, killing all catarrhal germs, healing the irritated mucous membrane, and effecting a complete and permanent cure.

If there is a single catarrhal germ in the system, Hyomel will search it out and absolutely destroy it, completely eradicating the trouble. The remedy has made so many cures among their customers that they offer to pay for it themselves if it does not benefit even the worst case of catarrh.

The complete outfit costs only $1, consisting of an inhaler, medicine dropper, and bottle of Hyomel, while extra bottles of Hyomel can be obtained for 50 cents. There will be no even this small expense if Hyomel does not cure, as they will return your money.

THOMASTON NOTES.

G. I. Robinson Drug Co. has just received a large supply of Hyomel, the guaranteed cure for catarrh. With every outfit they give a signed guarantee to refund the money if Hyomel does not benefit. This is the famous inhalation treatment that cures catarrh without stomach dosing, and is the only guaranteed cure for that disease.

During the present year no fewer than 29 of our 45 states will elect governors as the terms of that number of state executives expire either during 1906 or early in 1907. Of the 29 governors whose terms expire, 18 are Republicans and 11 are Democrats. Oregon will elect a successor to Governor G. E. Chamberlain on June 4. The Arkansas state election will be held on September 1. Vermont's on September 4. Maine's on September 10. Georgia's on October 3 and Kentucky's on November 5. The other states choosing state officers will elect them on November 6, at the same time representatives in congress are chosen in all of the 45 states.

I Give Honor to Whom It Is Due.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y., cured me of Bright's Disease and Gravel. Four of the best physicians had failed to relieve me. I have recommended it to scores of people with like success, and know it will cure all who try it.—Mrs. E. P. Mizner, Burr Hill, O. Price $1.00, all druggists; 6 bottles $5.00.

In Social Circles

Fred R. Spear was in Boston this week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. McLaughlin have returned from Boston where they visited their daughter, Miss Lottie B. McLaughlin, who is a pupil at the New England Conservatory of Music. Last Sunday Miss McLaughlin took part in the cantata "The Holy City," which was rendered with much success in Unity church, North Easton. Miss McLaughlin is soprano in the church quartet. Monday night, in Jordan hall, Boston, Miss McLaughlin also took part as soloist in a concert given by the New England Conservatory chorus, assisted by the advanced students and the Conservatory orchestra. Her singing was most highly praised not only by members of the audience, but by the Conservatory faculty. The Boston Globe of last Sunday published a portrait of Miss McLaughlin.

The syndicate dance at Penobscot View Grange hall Tuesday night was under the management of A. S. Black and E. L. Brown and was so well attended that they had to have to "go into their jeans." There will probably be another syndicate dance in two weeks. Mrs. Eliza Whitney of Big Timber, Mont., who has been spending the winter in Morrill, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Charles E. Hall.

Miss Julia D. Caswell has returned from Ellsworth, where she spent the winter with her sisters. She is stopping at West Rockport with her friend, Mrs. Rose Carter.

Dr. and Mrs. George T. Holt have returned from Houlton, where they passed the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Price are visiting relatives at North Haven. Mr. A. Godwin is on a trip to Boston and Brockton.

Miss Alice G. McIntosh and Miss Anne C. Skinner, who have been from San Francisco, Wednesday night. They had some interesting experiences with the earthquake and conflagration in that city.

A social meeting of the Shakespeare Society will be held in the Congregational vestry on Monday evening, May 14. Supper at 6 o'clock.

The condition of Capt. Henry Pearson, who sustained a shock a few weeks ago, is slightly improved. Harry Pearson of Bridgeport, Conn. and John Pearson of New York have been with their father recently, and Frank Pearson of Waterbury, Conn., is expected today.

An event which is being looked forward to with much interest is the opening of the Harmony Club, which occurs May 26th, at the home of Miss Dorothy Bird, Middle street.

This will be the first time this club has entertained, and the members are planning to make the event a most pleasant one. Thursday afternoon a rehearsal was held with Miss Ruth Bird, Summer street. Mrs. Eklof is helping them in chorus work.

HAGUE ANNIVERSARY.

The 18th of May, the anniversary of the opening of the Hague Conference, is to be observed throughout the country as Peace Day, especially by the pupils of the public schools. The State Superintendents of Schools in Massachusetts and Ohio have made the day an official holiday and it is requested that the public schools of Maine observe the day in some appropriate manner. Programs may be obtained from the State Superintendent of the W. C. T. U. Dept. of Peace and Arbitration, Alice May Douglas, Bath, Maine, or of the National W. C. T. U. Peace Superintendents, Mrs. H. J. Bailey, Winthrop Center, Maine.

Mr. C. A. Pendleton, who has opened a vocal studio in this city, wishes to announce that a voice trial will be given and a competent opinion expressed as to the advisability of training the voice, without expense to the person applying. Breathing gymnastics taught in private or class lessons. The gymnastics are very beneficial to all persons, singers or not, and they tend to enlarge the lung capacity, and strengthen the muscles of the chest, back and abdomen. It is next to impossible for a singer to lose the voice in a correct manner and preserve it for years unless a correct method of breathing is established. It is the foundation of vocal culture and a pupil has a knowledge of the breathing gymnastics and a proper method of controlling the breath, will progress at a rate far beyond the ordinary pupil. Mr. Pendleton will be found in his studio every day except Sundays, from 9 to 12 and from 1.30 to 5. Evenings by appointment. Address C. A. Pendleton, Thorneike & Hix Building, Rockland, Maine.

ROCKPORT

Mrs. Julia Thorneike has returned from Bedford, Mass., where she spent the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Winifred Simmons.

Captain M. F. Matthews is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. W. M. Crockett. Chester Copeland is employed in the store of the Rockport Ice Company.

Palmer O. Grandall of Vinalhaven is stopping at Captain A. H. Linnell's for a few days.

Schooner John J. Perry, Capt. Lane, is loading lime from the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co. for New York.

Schooner Chester R. Lawrence, Capt. Nelson, arrived Wednesday.

Secretary F. C. Cronin, President R. W. Carleton, Vice President A. E. Piper, J. A. Russ and Edgar P. Shibles left Thursday for Portland to attend the Y. M. C. A. State convention as delegates from the Rockport association.

On the afternoon of Friday, May 18, there will be an athletic meet between the Rockport and Rockland track teams. The meet will be held at the Camden trotting park, the result of which has been kindly granted by the management.

Postmaster Robbed.

G. W. Fouts, Postmaster at Riverton, Ia., nearly lost his life and was robbed of all comfort, according to his letter, which says: "For 50 years I had chronic liver complaint, which led to such a severe case of jaundice that even my finger nails turned yellow; when my doctor prescribed Electric Bitters, which cured me and have kept me well for eleven years." Sure cure for Biliousness, Neuralgia, Weakness and all Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bladder derangements. A wonderful Tonic at W. H. Kittredge, Rockland, G. I. Robinson, Thomaston, L. M. Chandler, Camden.

Seretto Buys Owl's Head Road.

Sheriff's Sale Was Only a Formality, Though, It Is Claimed—Important Hearing in Augusta Saturday—History of the Railway.

The postponed sheriff's sale of the property and franchise of the Rockland, South Thomaston & Owl's Head Street Railway took place at Judge Reuel Robinson's office Tuesday afternoon. The only bidder was Michael Seretto of Boston, the contractor who had charge of the construction. The property was sold to him for $17,492.92, which is the amount, including costs, allowed Mr. Seretto by the court in his suit against the corporation for unpaid services. It is claimed that the sale is a mere formality. At Augusta Saturday there will be a hearing on bills in equity brought by Mr. Seretto to have the receivership dissolved. The road has two receivers at the present time, S. P. Kimball and A. S. Littlefield. The following review of the railway's somewhat complex history, will doubtless be of interest:

In the summer of 1901 Dudley Watson Moore of Toledo, Ohio, passed his idea in Maine and a portion of that time was spent at Crescent Beach in South Thomaston. Mr. Moore had been interested in electric roads in the West, especially in Ohio, and was associated with men of means in that work. While at Crescent Beach he became impressed with the needs of a better means of transportation and being a strong believer in, or advocate of, electric roads, his mind naturally turned to the proposition of building an electric road in South Thomaston, connecting the various beaches with Rockland, especially Crescent Beach and Keag Village. Much of his time while in Maine that season was spent in investigating this proposition and he became convinced that such an enterprise would be a paying one.

Just before leaving Maine for his home in Ohio he mentioned the subject to several of his acquaintances and went home with a determination to interest some of his friends in Ohio in an electric road in Maine. Hon. J. A. Barber, Judge of the Common Pleas Court of Toledo had been in similar enterprises with Mr. Moore, and to him Mr. Moore disclosed the result of his investigations while on his vacation in Maine. Judge Barber became deeply interested and it was determined to proceed at once to procure a charter and secure necessary right of way.

Mr. Moore then solicited the assistance of James W. Sewall and George T. Sewall of Old Town, Maine, who interested H. F. Bailey, also of Old Town. Before making any more plans Mr. Bailey in the interest of the Sewalls spent considerable time investigating the proposition and came to South Thomaston for the purpose. Upon his report and recommendation it was decided to go ahead with the proposition. The local parties approached by Mr. Moore, included in the deal were C. E. Meservey and F. M. Smith.

George T. Sewall being an attorney in Old Town had charge of the legal part of the work and Mr. Moore and Judge Barber were to finance the new enterprise.

Early in the spring of 1902 a charter was obtained from the railroad commissioners and under the direction of Dudley Watson Moore president, H. F. Bailey vice president, C. E. Meservey

CLAIRE STOCK COMPANY.

"A Daughter of the South," "The Serf," and "Gold Fields of Nevada," are a few of the plays selected by the management of the above company for their engagement in this city at the opera house for three days next week, beginning Monday night. These plays, as may be seen, are pieces which have been tested and stood the successful experience for the past five years. They are all dramas of the better class, with an interesting plot, a pretty love story told in a way which appeals to the hearts of all, and have been selected wholly for their merits as pleasing bills. The company presenting the same is a competent one, headed by the gifted young actor Arthur E. Claire, and assisted by experienced repertoire people, who have given much satisfaction, in all cities where they have appeared.

The above reward will be paid for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the parties who have recently robbed, or who may in the future rob any vessel at the South Marine Railway docks, or any vessel belonging to this concern, as well as on any of our premises.

EXTRACTS FROM LATE CALIFORNIA LETTERS

Mrs. L. F. Starrett has received a letter from Miss K. Josephine Bromley, who at the time of the San Francisco earthquake was employed in an Episcopal orphanage in that city. We publish the principal part of it, thinking that it will be of interest to Miss Bromley's friends and the public.

"Just imagine being waked up by the house rocking like a ship in an angry sea and the plastering falling upon you from the ceiling and the walls. By the time we got the children out of the dormitories into the street the entire front of the upper part of the building was blown out, and in one room two windows were blown in and struck the beds. There were the children's beds, and the beds, but they were out before the windows fell. No one was killed or injured, and there were about 150 inmates. Fortunately the fire had not been started in the kitchen. The cook was just going in when the chimney fell through. If we had had a fire at the time of the earthquake I think there would have been many deaths."

"We had a lot close to the house, and tents were put up for the children. As soon as I could, I went to Cousin Carrie's on Clay street. I started to go to the Red Cross, but it was a long walk—no cars running. I slept at Carrie's on Wednesday night until Sunday night. Sunday I went to Cousin Carrie's and there, Monday, I went to the orphanage and the children were starting to leave the city. I had been to the camp every day and they were always so glad to see me."

pay. Nothing seemed to matter, however. We were stunned. That we were living was the greatest mystery of all. Soldiers are quartered everywhere. There are nearly 100,000 refugees here from San Francisco and it takes whole regiments to keep them in order. We have had 17 light shocks since the dreadful one, but every minute I think I feel one and run for the street. The lady up stairs lost all her dishes. We got only one rose left."

Myrick H. Nash has heard from his brother, Capt. John C. Nash, who resides in Berkeley, Calif. His house was cracked by the earthquake shock and all the chimneys were knocked off. Capt. Nash was in Oregon when the disaster occurred, but dropped all business and hastened home. His letter is a vivid description of the frightful scenes which he witnessed in and around San Francisco. He reached his home with much difficulty, it being necessary to wait for temporary railroad tracks to be built in some places. When he arrived there he found all hands sleeping out of doors. Capt. Nash sent home a number of California papers.

Rockland friends of Miss Florence Mason, who was formerly stenographer for A. C. McLoon & Co., are anxious for tidings concerning her. She was employed as stenographer in Santa Rosa.

Miss Mason is a former student of the Rockland Commercial College. In a letter written to Messrs. Howard & Brown a few weeks prior to the earthquake, she said: "Last fall when the Santa Rosa business college sent out circulars I was proud to see at the bottom of the cover the name 'E.
