Broiled Shark Luscious.

Shirk not the eating of the shark, for it may become a civic duty to consume this denizen of the deep in order to even scores with him for the way he has of devouring the pure food fish that otherwise would come into the nets of the fisher folk.

Sharks may not look like Broadway, but the savans who are here attending the sessions of the American Fisheries society declare the creatures are quite edible and that it is only prejudice which keeps them from being considered a delicacy.

One scientist says he prefers shark to lobster, and one does not have to wander far in the White Light district to see the sharks of the species Rufus Wallingford eating the hard shelled crustaceans. It has been shrewdly suspected that some of the swordfish steak that comes to the New England boarding houses is really the selected meat of sharks. Anyway, there are plenty of sharks in that locality.

Professor Theodore Gill, addressing his fellow scientists at their session in the lecture room of the American Museum of Natural History, said that he had eaten broiled shark and had liked it. He could not tell just how it tasted, but advised those who wished to test the flavor to try on their own account.

That fish can change their spots unlike the leopard of Holy Writ, was demonstrated by Professor F. B. Summer, director of the laboratory of the United States Bureau of Fisheries at Woods Hole. The humble flounder, it was shown, was able when he wished to make himself harmonize unobtrusively with his surroundings by transposing a few spots. This peculiarity was pictured by the means of lantern slides.

Professor William Alanson Bryan, of the College of Hawaii, captured the spectators by the first piscatorial moving picture exhibition ever exhibited here, so far as the scientists knew. He had placed a large number of the fish of various sizes and shapes in a great glass tank and had set a camera at work in front of them. The effect was realistic, as the fish were shown swimming, eating and hiding.—New York Herald.

GUY L. CHADBOURNE.

The above is a good likeness of Guy L. Chadbourne of Bingham, the winner of the canoe in our recent contest.

It now looks as if the discovery that fish can be shipped alive for about any distance, if packed in hermetically-sealed jars of water charged with oxygen, would be of great advantage to the various great aquariums scattered over the world, if not of commercial importance. Sixty-four fish were recently sent from the New York aquarium in this manner to the aquarium at Gellberg, and 63 of them arrived alive and cheerful. The German curator says that he is now going to send New York a specimen of every species he has. Exchanges are also being planned at New York with Naples and Hawaii.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

There is some talk of reviving the old Bath Gun club, which developed many expert shots about ten years ago. The old range in Woolwich could be made available with a very little outlay and the younger generation are doing the talking and being backed up by some of the old members. The Bath Gun club was started by the late Charles Greenleaf and for years was a flourishing organization with a large membership, and competitive shoots were frequently held at the clubhouse.—Bath Times.

The morning train out of Bangor on the B. & A. recently ran over and killed a moose two miles north of Island Falls station.

Smokeless Powder Shells

The Patent Corrugated Head on Winchester "Leader" and "Repeater" shells absorbs the shock of the powder explosion instead of localizing it, as the old English way of metallizing does. That's why Winchester shells, with their modern patented construction, are so superior to ones made according to the English method of times long past. If you want the best shooting shells

BEAVER MAKE TROUBLE.

TIM POND INLETS ARE DAMMED AGAINST TROUT.

Dams Have to Be Removed to Give the Fish a Chance to Reach Natural Spawning Bed—Both Fish and Game Abundant.

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Tim, Me., Nov. 5, 1910.

Regardless of what may be true elsewhere, there is no indication that the waters of this region are being depleted of fish or the forests of deer. Both game and fish have been as abundant this year as in any recent season. Game has perhaps been no more abundant than in other years, though last winter was an exceptionally easy winter on all kinds of game, but lumbering operations have opened up a wide territory that has hitherto been practically inaccessible, and opportunities are now better than ever before for hunting in this territory as the hunters are beginning to find out. There is now a good wood road nearly all the way from Tim Pond to Kennebec lake, and many side roads in all directions make traveling through the woods comparatively easy, and the danger of becoming lost has been reduced to a minimum. The forests in many places have been cleared sufficiently so that deer and other game can be seen considerable distances, which is a great aid to the hunter. In fact, all conditions for hunting are better this year in this section of the Dead River region than ever before.

This being the case, it has been practically decided to keep Tim Pond Camps open for guests during the hunting season, which has never yet been done, though a few hunters are usually cared for here in the season. Mr. Pearson and a party of friends of Boston, who have been here the past week, have returned home with some good deer heads. They did not, however, get a chance at the two moose which are known to be roaming somewhere in this vicinity.

The beaver are very numerous about Tim Pond, in fact, there are more beaver in the Dead River region and about the headwaters of the Kennebec than in all the rest of the state of Maine put together, and at Tim Pond they are making a lot of trouble. The beaver if let alone would exterminate the trout quicker than all the fishermen in America. They are not partial to a fish diet, but they do prevent the fish from reaching their natural spawning beds, obliging them to spawn in the pond itself, where there is very small chance of the spawn developing and becoming full-fledged trout.

The beaver build their dams in every inlet to the pond, and as they cannot be legally killed, the Messrs. Viles, the proprietors of the camps, have no remedy except to destroy the dams, which has been done many times. But the beaver are persevering creatures, and work all the harder when they find their dams gone.

In one brook four dams have been destroyed this year, and still the beaver are building. In other brooks, and there are a good many of them, beaver works have also been several times destroyed. This has given the fish a chance to spawn in the natural way, and the work of destroying the dams will be continued as long as the beaver continue to build there or until the law allows their extermination.

There is now a law which requires the fish and game commission to have the beaver trapped and exterminated on lands where they are causing damage to the land, or to other property, in cases where owners make complaint and can show that damage is actually being done. There is a general law forbidding the trapping of beaver at any time, excepting as above, but a special law, provided by the last session of the legislature, that they may be trapped for two years from July 3, 1909, between Nov. 15 and Jan. 1, in all unorganized townships in Somerset county, and in Jim Pond town in Franklin county, provided, however, that no beaver shall be trapped within one mile of a sporting camp or within one mile of Moosehead lake. This would seem to provide for the extermination of the beaver in the vicinity of Tim pond, if they are actually causing damage, as is claimed, and the owners of the land see fit to enter a complaint.

Mr. Julian K. Viles says that if the fish in Tim pond are allowed to spawn in the natural way, without interference by beaver, the pond can never be depleted by fishing, and that the fish will continue to increase more rapidly than they can be caught.

At Tim Pond trout are served at every meal while the camps are open, and the great refrigerator is full most of the time. When the supply begins to get rather low a sign is placed on the refrigerator, "Fish Wanted Today." Then the guests bring in some of their best fish, but on the other days when the sign is not posted, no sportsman lands any of his fish taken on the fly unless it happens to be the day he wants his catch to take home with him. And any reasonable sportsman can catch all the fish he wants to take home any day in the open season. This is guaranteed at Tim Pond.

A record of the number of fish served on the table is kept each day, week and month, and it will be interesting to those who are acquainted with Tim Pond trout, and starting to those who do not, to know that the largest number ever served in a month was 3,974, served in the month of August. Most of these were served two fish to each order, so it is plain that approximately two thousand orders of trout were served that month.

Mr. Viles says this record is likely to stand for some time, but that it has been approached in other months a number of times. It is not likely that any other camps in Maine or anywhere else have ever served anywhere near this number of fish in a month.

Harold Viles is still on the track of the two moose that have been lurking around Tim Pond all summer, and proposes to have one before the season is over. The snow which fell late in October looked good for moose hunting as it was falling, but it froze hard and a stiff crust was formed the first night after the storm, and a deer or moose could not help hearing the footsteps of a hunter half a mile away. Another snow without the following drizzle is what is needed to make ideal hunting, and this is what the hunters are hoping and praying for.

Blue Ribbon Deer.

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Eustis, Me., Nov. 2, 1910.

The blue ribbon bunch of deer was taken from the Dead River region today by the John M. Burgess party, consisting of John M. Burgess, D. C. Petty, Gustave Bayer and A. A. Fleming of Greenport, N. Y.

Mr. Burgess and friends made a few days' stay at Joseph White's Blakeslee Lake camps, where, with Wm. Arnold, Chas. Smart, Carroll Leavitt and Ocho White as guides, they succeeded in getting four fine deer, three bucks and one doe.

While in camp they stopped at Rock Pond, which is situated 6 miles from Blakeslee Camps, where the venison steak, potatoes and flapjacks were fine, especially when their cooks, Leavitt and Arnold, threw them out the smoke hole and caught them outside.

Then they stopped a few days at Hotel Sargent, Eustis, where four more fine deer fell under the deadly aim of the hunters, one buck and three does, making the number four bucks and four does. There were two eight-pointers, one five, and one spikehorn among the bucks. Also 11 partridges were taken home by the party. A good time was enjoyed by all and plans made for another trip next year. Arnold, Smart and Leavitt were the guides at Eustis.

If you want a good outing and lots of game, go to the Dead River country, and with a good guide you are O. K. Yours for a good outing.

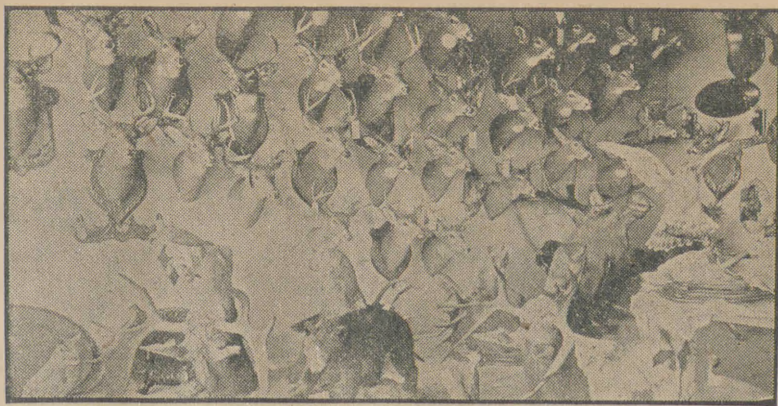

Good Sports.

Phillips Hunters Successful.

October 29 Harry Lowell shot a doe deer with his .35 caliber Remington at 14 rods; time of day, 5.20 p. m. Nov. 4 he shot a fine fox that weighed 11 pounds. He shot the fox through the neck as it was on the trot, at 6 rods, using the same gun. Only one shot was necessary to reach.

Lewis H. Ryder has a tame moose on his farm at Brownville, Me. The moose strolled onto the farm in the early summer and has become so attached to the place that it refuses to leave, despite all Mr. Hider's efforts to shoot it away.

Sec. 2. It shall also be unlawful for any person to have in possession any fish taken in violation of the above regulations.

Maine Summer Visitors Spend Seven Million.

The 134,000 summer visitors to Maine spend about $7,000,000 a year. About $25,000,000 is spent annually by hunting and fishing sportsmen in New England, approximately half of which is accounted for by the outlay by New Englanders visiting each other's state.

Lincoln B. Flood of Alexander was arraigned in the Calais municipal court Wednesday morning last week, before Recorder Becket, charged by Game Warden M. Kneeland, with jacklighting deer. Mr. Flood pleaded not guilty, but was fined $40 and costs. He appeared and furnished bonds for his appearance at the January term of court.

NOTABLE WEDDING IN FARMINGTON CONG'L CHURCH.

Miss Mabel E. Hunter, Daughter of the Late J. M. S. Hunter, the Bride of Charles W. Yeaton, a Prominent Dexter Business Man.

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Farmington, Nov. 9, 1910.

One of the most elaborate weddings in Franklin county was the one at the Old South church Wednesday evening, when Miss Mabel Eldora, the only daughter of the late John M. S. Hunter and Mrs. Eldora Nichols Hunter of Pleasant street, and Mr. Charles Winthrop Yeaton of Dexter, treasurer and bookkeeper of the Fay & Scott Iron Foundry, were married.

Mrs. Yeaton is a graduate of the Farmington High school, 1899, and the Farmington State Normal school, 1901, and a very successful teacher in the Grammar grades here and in Dexter.

The bride's costume was a very elaborate one of white lace over white satin, entraine, with tulle veil and orange blossoms, her only ornament being a sunburst of diamonds and pearls, a present of the bride's mother. She carried bride's roses, tied with white chiffon.

Mrs. Hunter wore white lace embroidered with black over white satin, entraine, and diamonds.

The bride was attended by Miss Bertha M. Rice of Boston as maid of honor, whose costume was pink silk, and she carried pink roses tied with pink chiffon.

The bridesmaids were Miss Ellen G. Witham of Stark, Miss Mildred S. Gay, Miss Jean Cragin and Miss Florence P. Robinson of this village. They wore white with pink sashes and carried pink carnations tied with pink chiffon. The flower girls were Miss Alice Nathalie Nichols, a cousin of the bride, and Norma V. Yeaton of Dexter, daughter of the groom. They wore white dotted muslin with pink sashes and hair ribbons and carried baskets of pink flowers.

The best man was Harry W. Hunter of Wilton, a cousin of the bride, the only male member of the Thomas Hunter family now living. The ushers were Messrs. Joseph Springall and William Robinson of Dexter, Frank E. Drake and James W. Small of Farmington.

The decorations at the church and home were green and white, a background of evergreen trees before the altar, and white chrysanthemums and ferns. Mrs. Harley Greenwood, Mrs. George A. Thomas, Mrs. S. O. Tarbox, Jr., Mrs. E. Herbert Dingley, with the bridesmaids had charge of the decorations.

The gentlemen wore dress suits with white vests.

The bridal party entered from the vestibule and marched up the center aisle to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the ushers first, followed by the bridesmaids, maid of honor, flower girls and the bride, leaning on the arm of her uncle, Dr. John W. Nichols, who gave her away. They were met at the altar by the groom, best man and Rev. Richard H. Clapp, pastor of the church, who performed the full Episcopal service in a very impressive manner, the double ring service being used. The procession was reformed, the bride and groom leading, and they passed down the center aisle to the sound of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Mabel Austin, who rendered soft music all through the ceremony.

There was a lunch to the wedding party and out-of-town guests at the home immediately later. The wedding cake, made by Mrs. Hunter, was made by the same rule by which her mother, Mrs. Walter Nichols, made Mrs. Hunter's wedding cake. Mrs. Marshall M. Tarr of Portland and Mrs. Frank E. Drake poured. The lunch consisted of chicken salad, salad rolls, olives, pickles, salted almonds, confections, ice cream, cake, coffee and tea, served by Miss Agnes Campbell of Mechanic Falls, Miss Imogene Bumps of Dexter and Miss Lucille French of Phillips. Miss Hazel Young of Concord, N. H., served punch. Mrs. Florence Pottle catered.

The bride's gifts to the maid of honor and her bridesmaids were crescents of gold, mounted with pearls. The groom's gifts to the best man and ushers were gold stick pins with pearls. The groom also gave the flowers for the wedding party.

The wedding presents consisting of an outfit by the bride's mother, silver, cut glass, china, brass, linen, Colonial glass, burnt wood and money from relatives and friends were many and valuable.

Some of the out of town guests were: Miss Hazel Barnard, Lewiston; Mrs. L. E. Witham, Madison; Walter Witham, Orono; Mrs. James Hunter, Wilton; Miss Bertha M. Rice, Boston; Miss Ellen G. Witham, Stark; Mr. Harry W. Hunter, Wilton; Mr. Joseph Springall, Dexter; Mrs. Marshall M. Tarr, Portland; Mr. William Robinson, Miss Norma V. Yeaton, Dexter; Miss Agnes Campbell, Mechanic Falls; Miss Imogene Bumps, Dexter; Miss Lucille French, Phillips; Miss Hazel Young, Concord, N. H.; Mr. Yeaton, daughter, Norma, and Miss Imogene Bumps came Monday noon.

The bride's going away gown was blue broadcloth with beaver hat to match, trimmed with marabout, velvet and king's blue willow plume. No one knows where they are going for their wedding trip.

The bride gave a supper to her maid of honor and bridesmaids Saturday evening, November 5.

Miss Mildred S. Gay gave a cup and saucer shower to the bride Saturday evening, October 29. Miss Jean Cragin gave her a kitchen shower at her home last Monday evening.

CONGRESS DEMOCRATIC.

DEMOCRATS WIN IN MANY STATE ELECTIONS.

Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Iowa and Ohio Defeat Republican Candidates for Governor—Other States Very Close.

The democratic party won many victories in the general elections throughout the country Tuesday. In the lower branch of Congress the democrats will have a majority of about 24, and in the senate the republican majority is reduced to 6.

In New York John A. Dix, democratic candidate for governor, was elected over Henry L. Stimson, republican, by a plurality of about 55,000.

In New Jersey, Woodrow Wilson, democratic candidate for governor, is elected over Vivian M. Lewis, republican, by about 15,000 plurality.

In Massachusetts, Eugene N. Foss, democrat, defeated Governor Eben S. Draper, republican candidate for re-election, by about 30,000 plurality, reversing Governor Draper's former plurality of 8,000.

In Connecticut, Judge Simeon E. Baldwin, democratic candidate, is elected governor, over Charles A. Goodwin, republican, by about 4,000 plurality.

In Ohio, Gov. Judson Harmon, democratic candidate for re-election, appears to have carried the state by about 15,000.

In New Hampshire, Robert P. Bass republican candidate for governor, is leading Chas. E. Carr, democratic candidate, by about 6,000 plurality.

In Pennsylvania, the election of John K. Tener, republican candidate for governor, is claimed by a large plurality.

In Rhode Island, Gov. Pothier, republican candidate for re-election, is very slightly in the lead over Lewis A. Waterman, democratic candidate.

In Tennessee, the Fusion candidate, Ben W. Hooper, is apparently elected by 15,000 plurality.

Democratic governors have been elected in Alabama and South Carolina.

In Iowa, the democrats claim the election of Claude R. Porter for governor.

In Wisconsin the election of the republican candidate for governor, Francis E. McGovern, is claimed by a reduced plurality, and the return of Senator La Follette to the United States senate is assured.

In Michigan Chase S. Osborne, the republican candidate for governor appears to have a safe lead over L. T. Hemans, democrat.

Payne and Cannon, republican congressmen, are reelected.

TEMPLE.

Nov. 8.

Mrs. Eunice White of Quincy, Mass., visited her niece, Mrs. Bert Seales, last week.

The schools began November 7th taught by the same teachers. The new school at the center is taught by Miss Lucy Mosher.

Mr. Charles Harrington of Bath has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. A. L. Sampson.

Miss Muriel Kennison spent Saturday and Sunday with her sister, Miss Marian, who is attending the Normal school.

The Ladies' Circle held an all-day meeting with a picnic dinner with Mrs. E. I. Kennison last week. Thirty-four were present. The occasion was made very pleasant by the presence of Mrs. W. B. Keniston and daughter, Belle, our former pastor's wife and daughter.

Messrs. Joseph and Henry French of Chesterville visited their brother, Chas., Sunday, coming in their auto and bringing Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Cox of Brunswick. They will remain for a week, Mr. Cox to enjoy a little time hunting. Mrs. Cox is a sister of Mr. French.

November 1 was children's night at the grange. Several of the children spoke pieces, after which they were given a treat of candy and peanuts. They then played games for an hour, which were enjoyed by old and young.

It is expected that there will be a stereopticon lecture at the Congregational church Nov. 15 on "Missions," 74 colored slides in operation.

AVON.

Nov. 9.

School in the Mt. Blue district reopened October 31, after a week's vacation with Miss Winnifred Hunter as teacher.

A very pleasant party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Sampson on the evening of November 1, it being their wedding anniversary. Music and dancing were enjoyed by all and a generous treat of peanuts and chocolates was served.

Mr. J. Stanley is boarding at Mr. Edgar Sampson's and trapping. He has got one mink, one coon and 7 foxes so far, with prospects of a good hunting season.

Mr. Edgar Sampson is working for Mr. Arthur Storer, sawing poplar on the Barker lot.

There is to be a box social at the Mt. Blue schoolhouse Wednesday evening, Nov. 16 the proceeds to go for the benefit of the schoolhouse. All are cordially invited.

"I am pleased to recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as the best thing I know of and safest remedy for coughs, colds and bronchial trouble," writes Mrs. L. B. Arnold of Denver, Colo. "We have used it repeatedly and it has never failed to give relief." For sale by W. A. D. Cragin.

Peters Factory Loads

A WORD TO THE WISE

The Hunting Season is again with us, and the sportsman seeking the most reliable and effective ammunition should choose PETERS FACTORY LOADS—the kind that have surpassed all amateur trap-shooting records.

Do not be deceived nor accept a substitute. PETERS SHELLS will kill further and oftener than any others. You do not have to take our word for it—just try them. If you are already a user of PETERS, you do not need this advice—the chances are 1000 to 1 you will continue to use them.

Don't fail to specify PETERS SHELLS, branded with the red "P" on end of cases—the trade mark that has stood for ammunition quality for 10 years. They will operate and shoot perfectly in any standard make of gun.

"HARMONY LODGE" GUESTS.

GOV.-ELECT PLAISTED AND PARTY WITH DR. BISHOP OVER SUNDAY.

Mrs. Plaisted, An Enthusiast in Pursuit of Outdoor Health-Giving Exercise, Goes on the Fox Trail at the Dawn of Day.

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Farmington, Me., Nov. 2, 1910.

Dr. Heber Bishop recently entertained Gov.-Elect and Mrs. Frederick W. Plaisted of Augusta and County Commissioner and Mrs. Levi P. Williams of Hallowell at his summer home, "Harmony Lodge," on Clearwater Pond. Dr. Bishop and his guests attended church at Allen's Mills in the forenoon on Sunday, and as the news had spread that the Gov.-Elect would probably attend church there, there was a large audience, people driving in from the town of Industry, where the church is located and from Farmington.

The church was decorated with evergreens in honor of the distinguished guests, and Miss Kennistown, a soloist of considerable note, was engaged for the occasion.

At the close of the services all of the people who were there had an opportunity to meet the governor-elect and Mrs. Plaisted, and as industry was a Plaisted town, as shown by the result of the recent election, and as the governor-elect has many firm friends in Farmington, it can be easily understood that this was a very pleasant gathering for all concerned.

In the afternoon on Sunday a large number of people called upon Gov.-Elect Plaisted at "Harmony Lodge," and there had an opportunity to converse with him at short range and in an intimate way, with reference to the policy to be pursued in his administration of the state's affairs. Uncle Llewellyn Norton, who knows everybody, and whom everybody knows, was master of ceremonies and presented the visitors to the governor. Mr. Plaisted was in his room for a few moments' rest when the people began to arrive and he was not called until the living room of the cottage and the broad piazza were well filled. Then Dr. Bishop informed him that he had callers. In a few moments the governor-elect stepped out to the platform at the head of the stairs to descend to the living room, and as soon as he was seen by the visitors he was given a hearty welcome. Mr. Plaisted made a little informal speech, setting forth clearly that he fully realized the great responsibility that was upon him, and he made it clear that, with the co-operation of the people who supported him at the polls, his administration can and will carry out every pre-election pledge to the letter.

After Mr. Plaisted's talk, as referred to above, Dr. Bishop called Mrs. Plaisted and introduced her to each of those present. Mrs. Plaisted plainly showed her pleasure at meeting the visitors, and they were all captivated by her charming manner.

On Monday morning the party engaged in a fox hunt, following Dr. Bishop's hounds and also a pack that Dr. Bishop had borrowed from Farmington for the occasion. Mrs. Plaisted, who is extremely fond of outdoor life, proved herself an enthusiast in this part of the outing. She did not hesitate to start out on the trail behind the hounds just at day-break, and, in fact, she was as enthusiastic as any of the party in pursuit of this exhilarating sport. It was the ambition that Mrs. Plaisted should get a shot at a fox, as she is a good shot.

In fact, a fox was started within a comparatively short distance from camp, and the prospect seemed excellent that Reynard would be driven within shooting distance of Mrs. Plaisted's rifle. This was only prevented by the expert marksmanship of a neighboring farmer, who, seeing the fox pursued by the dogs and having no knowledge of the fact that the game was pursued by the lady, who was at that time a guest of Dr. Bishop and who will be the first lady of the state after January 1st, he shot the fox himself and thus ended this hunting trip.

It may be said in closing that Mrs. Plaisted showed no disappointment whatever in the fact that she did not have an opportunity to shoot the fox, but she declared with emphasis that there was more sport for her in seeing the dogs work and in getting the benefit of the severe exercise and early morning air than in anything else, as she has no ambition to kill even a fox.

Phillips Man Fires at Moose.

Elmer W. Voter of Phillips, a conductor in the employ of the Sandy River & Rangeley Lakes railroad, who has been enjoying a few days' camping and hunting in No. 6 this week, saw a large bull moose Wednesday morning. He fired four shots and thinks at least one of them took effect, but the moose got away.

Charles Steele of Philadelphia has been at John B. Carville's Spring Lake camps and with Mr. Carville has been hunting in the forests thereabouts.

THE SARGENT.

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Eustis, Me., Oct. 28, 1910.

The general opinion at Hotel Sargent is that deer have not been as plentiful in the Dead River region, taken as a whole, in years as they are this season. There have been full camps at most all the resorts all summer, but they have thinned out until there are only the hunters, and of these there are about the same number as last year; but a good deal more game is being brought out. This morning four deer were taken to Bigelow on the stage, and Wednesday morning seven were taken out. Five of these are the property of and were shot near The Chimney Emile E. Hoertel, William Hayes and Paul Tisson of New York, who also had about 25 partridges. Two of the deer were shot by J. Stanley Turner of Weeks Mills, who was just returning home after a very enjoyable and successful hunting trip.

Three of the four deer taken out this morning belong to Herbert T. Davis, Arthur J. Yeaton and E. E. Dodge of Worcester, Mass., who shot one each at T pond.

T. S. Ranney, walking boss of the Great Northern Paper company, and Archer V. Scott, clerk, who have charge of the work in the woods north of Eustis, have gone in this week, stopping at The Sargent on the way.

Blaine T. Churchill of Boston stopped at The Sargent the first of the week, on the way to Round Mountain Lake, where he will remain for some time.

E. P. Viles of Skowhegan, an owner of extensive tracts of wild land hereabouts, has gone in to Jim Pond, where extensive lumbering operations have been begun under the management of Mr. A. B. Sargent, proprietor of The Sargent. There are now about 25 men at work at Jim Pond.

F. E. Parsons, agent for the Stanley steam cars, accompanied by Mr. N. F. Stanley of Waterville, has been here this week demonstrating the Stanley stage car. Mr. Ranger, proprietor of the stage line between Eustis and Bigelow, expects to put one of these cars, either a nine-passenger or a 12-passenger coach, on his stage line at the opening of the season next spring. This will be a great convenience for tourists, fishermen and hunters, and will materially shorten the running time between Eustis and Bigelow, which will no doubt be appreciated.

T. C. Bateman of Madison, walking boss for Humes and Newhall of Fairfield, extensive lumber operators on Alder stream, was at The Sargent the first of the week on the way to the camps, where about three million feet of lumber has already been yarded.

P. A. Smith of Fairfield is also at Alder stream, on a hunting trip.

J. W. Long, of Naugatuck, Conn., and G. F. Hodges and Frank E. Fenno of Waterbury, Conn., have just gone in to Jim Pond after deer.

James Fluelling and Eli Gregory of Fairfield and Lincoln Hayes of Lewiston came out from Blakeslee Lake Camps a few days ago, bringing with them five fine deer.

C. A. Rollins and H. A. Cummings of Bingham have just gone in to Blakeslee Lake after big game.

Alvah A. Berry, superintendent for the Megantic club, and J. S. Carr, who watches the camps on the Megantic Club preserve, have been at The Sargent this week.

George D. Pierce of Bangor, paymaster for the Great Northern Paper company, and Dr. W. L. Melbourne, also of Bangor, a veterinary surgeon who looks after the welfare of the horses owned and worked by the company, have this week gone in to the scene of the lumbering operations of the company at Chain of Ponds, stopping at The Sargent on the way.

A big crotch-horn moose was seen at Jim Pond just before the moose season opened, but so far as is known at Eustis village, has not been seen since.

Deer have been feeding in the big field across the Dead river in front and in plain sight of The Sargent. They were not all together, but were scattered all over the field and eleven were all plainly visible at the same time.

Harvey F. Bell, Frank H. Rice and Milton A. Keumtz, all of Seigfricks, Pa., have gone in to Round Mountain Lake this week on a hunting trip, stopping at The Sargent on the way.

The first snow of the season on the low lands came yesterday, although there have been heavy snow storms on the mountains for several days, accompanied by rain and occasional snow flurries, that did not amount to anything. Last night just before sunset it cleared off, and at night the stars and moon shone brightly. This morning the sun rose as beautifully as on any warm summer day, and everybody was looking for a spell of good weather, but soon after 9 o'clock it began to snow and continued for several hours. This has not added to the personal comfort of travelers, but was just what the hunters have been looking for, and as there is now sufficient snow for tracking, hunting conditions are ideal for the first time this season. This is earlier than the first snowfall often comes.

Following are the recent arrivals at The Sargent:

Monday, Oct. 2—F. H. Colby, C. A. Rollins, H. Cummings, R. B. Howes, Bingham; J. Maurice Poulin, King and Bartlett; Herbert E. Davis, A. J. Watson, E. E. Dodge, Worcester, Mass.; C. G. Henderson, Tim Pond Camps; J. S. Carr, Big Island; Dick Moore, Bangor; C. C. Provost, New York; H. E. Harrington, Canaan; T. S. Ranney, Millinocket; A. A. Berry, Big Island; Dr. W. L. Melbone, Bangor.

Tuesday, Oct. 25—Emilie E. Hoertel, William Hayes, New York; Paul Tissen, Brooklyn; Elias Vaughan, Stratton; S. R. Berry, Skowhegan; Harvey F. Bell, Milton A. Kuntz, Frank H. Rice, Sagfords, Pa.

Wednesday, Oct. 26—Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Goodwin, Phillips; Franklin Clark, Farmington; T. C. Bateman, Madison.

Thursday, Oct. 27—M. L. Douglass, Madrid; Robert Phillips, Stratton; F. H. Colby, C. A. Rollins, H. Cummings, Bingham; H. E. Davis, E. E. Dodge, A. Watson, Worcester, Mass.; T. S. Ranney, Millinocket; Edgar Hinds, Bigelow; Alec Mc. Williams, Bangor; W. H. Hildreth, Isaac W. Murphy, Greenville.

Friday, Oct. 28—W. H. Hildreth, Greenville.

Saturday, Oct. 29—J. C. Bachelder, Stratton; C. S. Henderson and wife, Dr. M. R. Peck, New York; Frank Mathieson, Chicago; Elias Vaughan, Stratton; F. B. Greene, Boothbay Harbor.

My Mountain Home.

(Oxford County Advertiser.)

Home, sweet home, among the mountains;

How my heart thrills at the thought, As I see amidst their beauty Scenes which ne'er can be forgot.

As I tread their winding pathways; Long I linger there and list To the low sweet voice of nature That so lovingly insists.

And I see in all His glory One who made this world so fair, Yet He dwells in realms above us, Where there's neither toll nor care.

Oh what unseen power surrounds us, Who can doubt it? who will dare? If they stop and just consider As they wander here and there.

See the flowers so sweet and fragrant, And the trees so grand and tall, Ever blooming in the springtime, Ever fading in the fall.

So our lives are like the flowers; Soon we'll pine and fade away, So let's strive to be found ready, Lest we fear the judgment day.

'Twill be sweet to be with Jesus When these conflicts we have won, When with arms outstretched to meet us, He shall say, "My child, well done."

The Aroostook Republican says: We often hear of deer entering a man's field near his house and a couple of winters ago two large moose gave the orchard of John F. Harmon a thorough inspection. On Tuesday of this week a large black bear began counting the trees in the orchard of Robert Spear in Perham.

Mr. Spear espied Mr. Bruin, secured his rifle and with a well directed aim stretched the animal out at full length.

GOOD HUNTING NEAR BY.

HOTEL BLANCHARD BUSY IN HUNTING SEASON.

Bird Shooting a Favorite Pastime in the Vicinity of Stratton—Many Deer Brought In and Venison is Constantly on the Bill of Fare.

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Stratton, Me., Oct. 29, 1910.

Hotel Blanchard has been a busy house since the hunting season opened, and the genial proprietor, E. H. Grose, is busy much of the time, carrying parties from one point to another within a range of 25 or 30 miles by automobile. Not a day goes by but hunting parties come and go, and nearly if not quite every party going out has one or more deer, and one party starting for home the first of the week had eight deer and another the middle of the week had seven. These were shot near various resorts north of Stratton and Eustis. But it isn't necessary to go that far for hunting, as the woods all around the village are thronged with birds, and deer are often seen, and occasionally shot almost within the village limits. In the valleys at the base of old Mt. Bigelow, and on its sides, which stretch away for 12 miles, the game is reported as very abundant, and though it is not the easiest place in the world to hunt, a hunt there is pretty likely to be successful.

Mr. A. D. Turner of New Vineyard has been at this hotel all the week, and has shot a good bag of birds in the vicinity of the village.

Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Robinson of New York were here early in the week on their way to some of the resorts beyond.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Packard of New York, who lived in Readfield many years ago but had not been in Maine for 41 years and were glad to come back to their native state, have been enjoying an outing in the Dead River region. They were accompanied by their son, F. L. Packard, and wife and Mrs. Carrie B. Elliot, and when they went out they had two good-sized deer and a fine lot of partridges.

A. A. Berry and Edison Sylvester of the Megantic preserve and E. P. Viles of Skowhegan were here the first of the week. Game is reported very plentiful all through the Megantic region.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Kingsley and Alan D. Kingsley, who have been in the woods all summer, came out from Chase Pond a short time ago and returned home, taking with them three deer, one having a very fine head, and all being of good size.

One of the unusual events here this fall was the arrival of a party of six, all on horseback, all coming the entire distance in that way. In the party were R. O. Sands of Wilkes-barre, Pa., C. H. Hastings and W. B. Moore of Lynn, Mass., C. L. Young of Lewiston, F. E. Howard of Clinton, Mass., and L. H. Howard of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bameford of Wilmington, Del., stopped at this hotel on their way into the woods two weeks ago, and they are still there. H. E. Purcell of New York, who is still in the woods, also stopped here on the way in.

D. P. Brown of Berlin, N. H., who has a large interest in the Berlin Mills company, has just gone into the woods after big game.

Others who have recently come out of the woods with game include Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Pell, Miss Elizabeth Sargent and Zeigler Sargent of New York; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bratton, J. E. Bratton, Jack Bratton and Miss Doris Bratton of New York; Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Ellis of Marlboro, Mass.; C. F. Jones and H. B. Jones of New York; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hills and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Spear of Rockland; Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Waterman, Hartford, Conn.; L. H. Torrey, Frank L. Woodbury, H. J. Fraser, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Jordan, Worcester, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Straw, H. Ellis Straw and Thomas Nesmith of Manchester, N. H.

The latter party took eight fine deer, either in whole or in part, and considered theirs a very successful hunting trip. They were in the Dead River region a month and hope to make a longer stop next season.

The reports from the many resorts in the woods beyond Stratton are all to the same effect, that the deer are very plentiful, but that conditions have not thus far been very favorable for hunters, and that what is needed to make hunting conditions perfect is a coating of snow.

Dr. H. C. Clark of New Portland has been at Hotel Blanchard this week, as have Mr. and Mrs. Julian K. Viles of Tim Pond Camps.

Game Is Abundant.

Many Fine Heads Secured Near Ledge House.

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Ledge House,

Dead River, Me., Oct. 26, 1910.

Game is abundant near the Ledge House and throughout the entire Dead River region, and some very fine heads have been secured by hunters who have been here since the season opened. Mr. and Mrs. F. O.

Goodspeed and two children, of Wilton, who were here at the opening of the season, got a fine deer the first time they were out.

C. C. Brooks of South Portland came here the first of July and remained until October. He fished frequently until the end of the fishing season, and after the hunting season shot one deer and some birds.

William Howard of Anson got a good deer near here soon after the season opened.

W. J. Wilder and Harold Muhof of New York have just returned from a very successful trip, having secured three good deer.

Several Boston and New York parties who wish to hunt by tracking are all ready to come as soon as the first snow arrives.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Miner, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Luce, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Smith, Mrs. Coit and Frank Rogers, of New London, Conn., who spent the last week of September at Carry Pond, where they enjoyed excellent fishing, hunted a week in this vicinity, getting a good lot of birds and one or more deer.

The fishing throughout the summer was better than for several years past in this vicinity, and all the parties that came here were able to get a plenty of trout.

A. S. Bump, Dr. C. F. Rowell and L. A. Bump of Wilton are still at their camp on the Dead river, where they have been for nearly two weeks. Dr. J. F. Rowell of Portland, who went in with the others, has returned home, taking a nice deer with him. Several deer have also been shot by the other members of the party.

Hannibal H. Babb and John G. Babb of Dixfield, Dr. Guy G. Farnell of Concord Junction, Mass., Dr. S. W. Crittenden of Boston and Dr. Ami Amidon of Boston are in camp on the Dead river, to remain until they get what game they want. They went in last Saturday.

A party of ten bound for Black Brook Camps passed through here today. They intend to stay until they are satisfied with the amount of game shot, and they are all praying for snow.

E. V. Ward of Portland shot a good-sized deer near the Ledge House the first time he was out in the woods.

W. M. Prilley of Pittsfield, Me., got a large deer with a fine head near this hotel a few days ago.

H. B. Jones of Lynn, Mass., and C. F. Jones of Newton, Mass., have just returned home from this vicinity with some very good heads, that they will have mounted.

There are plenty of deer signs everywhere hereabouts, and foxes, birds and other small game is abundant.

JIM POND.

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Jim Pond Camps,

Eustis, Me., Oct. 29, 1910.

Taylor & Lane's Jim Pond camps, about three miles from Eustis, which were opened to the public this season, have become very popular, had a good patronage through the summer, and furnished all the good fishing that could possibly be desired. There was good fishing early and late and all through the summer, and those who were guests at these camps had the pleasure of watching deer both in the water and on land.

When the bird hunting season came there was good sport for those who came this way, and the deer hunting season has opened well, considering the adverse conditions that up to a day or two ago prevailed throughout the Dead River region.

A big crotch-horn bull moose was seen on the shore of the pond only a day or two before it became legal to shoot him, and frequent signs of moose have been seen since, but never a sight has been had of the old fellow himself. Now that snow has come, the hunters are all hoping to get sight of him.

Herbert T. Davis, Arthur J. Yeaton and E. E. Dodge of Worcester, Mass., got three fine deer near here a few days ago.

G. F. Hodges and Frank E. Fenno of Waterbury, Conn., and J. W. Long of Naugatuck, in the same state, are at Jim Pond camps and have already shot several deer. They expect to get their two apiece before they return to their homes.

P. A. Smith of Fairfield has also been here the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Spear and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hills of Rockland Me., left Jim Pond camps on Thursday afternoon with a good-sized spike-horn deer and five partridges. E. H. Grose met them at Eustis and took them to Stratton in his automobile. They staid at Hotel Blanchard over night and went to Bigelow and took the train for home. They were in camp nearly two weeks and had a fine time.

Stevens at the Trap.

At the Allentown, Pennsylvania, Gun Club shoot, October 20th, 1910, Mr. H. L. Brown of the Western Cartridge Co., tied for high professional score by breaking 146 out of 150 clay birds. Mr. Brown shot a Stevens repeating shotgun and added the latest victory to the long string of Stevens trap gun successes. Stevens repeating shotguns have made a remarkable record for themselves and, because of their simple, modern and thoroughly efficient construction, are the leading pump guns on the market.

Interesting Stevens circulars pertaining to this shotgun will be sent to any applicant upon demand.

Mr. J. Clement Murphy of Augusta, who has been appointed private secretary by Governor-elect Plaisted, is one of the best known newspaper men in Maine. His business has always been that of newspaper correspondent. "Clem" knows everybody, and everybody knows "Clem." He is popular and successful and he is at present the Augusta correspondent of the Associated Press, Waterville Sentinel, Lewiston Journal, Bangor Commercial, Portland Express, Boston American, New York World and Lewiston Sun.

John M. Carrere of Carrere & Hastings, architect of Portland city hall, which is being constructed of North Jay granite, furnished by the Maine and New Hampshire Granite corporation, inspected the work, which is now progressing finely, and was highly gratified at the progress being made. Speaking of the general appearance of things, Mr. Carrere said that he was very much pleased. He is delighted with the beauty of the building, the granite and its carvings and the fine workmanship that has been put into the building which he declares to be as fine a job as he ever saw. He also spoke in high praise of the granite that is being put into the building. This is a worthy and pleasing tribute to the quality of North Jay granite and the great excellence of the work of the Maine and New Hampshire Granite corporation. Mr. Carrere is one of the most successful architects in the United States.

Pay up for the Paper.

Maine Woods is occasionally obliged to send reminders to delinquent subscribers, showing the amount of their indebtedness and politely asking them to remit the amount due. Each item is a comparatively small matter, but the aggregate is large, and the money due us is necessary to the proper and profitable conducting of our business. Most people intend to pay these small bills promptly, and many do so immediately.

you do not have to work close to the stove, which is usually far from the window. You can work where you wish, and be warm. You can work on dull winter days in the full light near the window, without being chilled to the bone.

The Perfection Oil Heater quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap, put in like a cork in a bottle, is attached by a chain. This heater has a cool handle and a damper top.

The Perfection Oil Heater has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged and can be unscrewed in an instant for reworking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

Mrs. Charles Steward was in Farmington Saturday.

Mrs. Vina Whitney of Naugatuck, Conn., is visiting Mrs. Fred Masterman and Miss Celia Whitney for a week.

The regular meeting of Phelan lodge, No. 30, D. of H., will be held next Saturday evening, Nov. 12, at the home of Mrs. Addie True. The opening hour of meeting is now 7.30 and it is hoped there will be a good attendance of the members.

Edson B. Whitney of Florence, Mass., is spending a week with his father, G. S. Whitney.

Mr. and Mrs. Lionel T. Allen and two children of Strong visited Mrs. Allen's father, G. S. Whitney, over Sunday.

Linwood Foster of Strong was in Phillips Saturday night and attended the dance at the Grange hall.

A. A. Jacobs was called to Kingfield last week by the illness of Mrs. Jacobs' father, Mr. Abram Butts. Mrs. Jacobs is helping care for her father.

Miss Sarah Toothaker, assistant in the post office, is taking a two weeks' vacation, visiting relatives in Bath, Readfield and other places. Her mother Mrs. Faustina Toothaker, accompanied her.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Miner have leased their boarding house to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beal for five months. Mr. and Mrs. Miner will leave Saturday to visit their son, Daniel Miner, at Northwood, N. H. They will also visit in Lynn, Boston and New York before their return. Mr. Miner is hoping the change will greatly improve his health.

Fresh cream bread at W. Henry True's every night.

W. E. Stuart was in Rangeley last week Saturday.

The first of the series of the Union Sunday School lecture course was held at Lambert hall Tuesday evening, November 8. The hall was well filled, nearly every seat being taken. The Boys' orchestra rendered four selections, which were well done and reflected much credit upon its members. After the music Mr. Phidelah Rice of Boston, gave a strong and interesting interpretation of Kipper's three-act comedy drama, "Peaceful Valley." Mr. Rice did his part to perfection, impersonating nine different characters with such clearness that the audience was never for a moment at a loss to know which character was speaking. He held the closest attention of the entire audience from the very first, the interest never flagging for a moment. Mr. Rice surely made a great hit, and should he ever give a return engagement here he will be sure of a large and appreciative audience. He went to Houlton for Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Brayman very pleasantly entertained a party of friends last Saturday evening. On arrival of the guests the ladies were presented with an apron, which they were requested to put on, and each gentleman a patch corresponding to the apron. The gentlemen then hemmed the aprons and many fancy stitches were the result of their efforts. Various games were enjoyed. A lunch of scalloped oysters, warm rolls, fancy cookies, marshmallows and coffee was served. The invitee guests were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Butler, Miss Lucille French, Hattie Weston, Dallas Voter, Estelle Barker, Arvilla Hersey and Messrs. B. S. Elliott, J. B. Morrison, Carl Hennings, Horesack and Jordan. Miss Estelle Barker was ill Wednesday.

Two cases of diphtheria have appeared in town. George Beam and Mrs. Annie Carlton. It is not expected that there will be other cases and both patients are getting along finely. Dr. P. O. Hopkins attends them.

The Ladies' Social Union will meet with Mrs. Addie Parker Tuesday afternoon, November 15, at 2.30 p. m. Linn Dennison, who has been sick for a few weeks past with pneumonia, is able to be out of doors again.

Mrs. T. C. Dillingham Dead.

Mrs. L. G. Voter has received the news of the death of Mrs. T. C. Dillingham of Auburn on November 9, of pneumonia. Mrs. Dillingham was formerly Miss Louise Hall, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Hall, formerly of Avon. Mrs. Dillingham leaves three children, two daughters and one son, the oldest about 13 and the youngest about three years old. Mrs. Dillingham was a woman of noble character and of a particularly sunny disposition, and she leaves many friends to mourn her loss besides her relatives. Funeral services will be held at the home Saturday at 10 o'clock.

NEW VINEYARD.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Williams and daughter, Esther, visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoyt of New Portland Sunday.

Mrs. Gertrude Hayes, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Luce has returned home to Chicago.

Mr. Jones of New York has a crew of men cutting Christmas trees in this town.

Miss Lillian Look, who has been at work in Wilton, has returned to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Thaxter Cook of Anson visited her father Sunday.

Ernest Barker has come up river hunting.

The drama and dance that the High school gave last Friday night was a perfect success in every way.

Years of Suffering

Catarrh and Blood Disease—Doctors Failed to Cure.

Miss Mabel F. Dawkins, 1214 Lafayette St., Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "For three years I was troubled with catarrh and blood disease. I tried several doctors and a dozen different remedies, but none of them did me any good. A friend told me of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took two bottles of this medicine and was as well and strong as ever. I feel like a different person and recommend Hood's to any one suffering from catarrh."

Funeral of Samuel B. Wing.

The funeral services of the late Samuel B. Wing were held at the Union church last Sunday at two o'clock p. m., conducted by Rev. L. Arthur White of Rangeley and assisted by Rev. M. S. Hutchins. Music was furnished by a choir from Kingfield consisting of Geo. H. Winter, Roscoe C. Tufts, Mrs. Clara Alwood, Mrs. Herbert Walker and Miss Agnes L. Stanley, organist. A special train from Kingfield brought a large number of friends to attend the services. Much sadness was expressed by Phillips friends on learning of the death of Mr. Wing. Mr. Wing went to Wilton several weeks ago, where he planned to spend the winter, and his death occurred there, November 6th. Mr. Wing remarked when calling upon us that he was feeling remarkably well this fall and that he hoped to greet us in the early spring.

Mr. Wing always had a pleasant word and smile for everyone and kept his cheery disposition through many years of much suffering. We shall hope to give an extended obituary of the deceased in our next issue.

Mr. Otto Paul, Milwaukee, Wis., says Foley's Honey and Tar is still more than the best. He writes us, "All those that bought it think it is the best for coughs and colds they ever had and I think it is still more than the best. Our baby had a bad cold and it cured him in one day. Please accept thanks." W. A. D. Cragin.

RANGELEY.

Nov. 8.

Mrs. Rose Avery of Farmington spent a few days in town recently, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Dennis Nile, and other relatives.

The Pythian Sisters enjoyed a tasting party after their regular meeting last Thursday night.

Lero Toothaker went to Lewiston last week in search of work.

Dedie Skolfield was called to Weld the first of the week by the illness of her mother.

Mrs. Oscar Ross went to Brockton Tuesday for medical treatment, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bush will keep house for her during her absence.

Geo. M. Esty was in Phillips one day last week.

Mrs. Leaman Wilcox is at Brown's Island for a short time, doing table work.

Miss Laverne Murphy entertained seven of her little playmates Saturday afternoon in honor of her seventh birthday, which occurred the following day. Games were played and the afternoon was much enjoyed. A beautiful birthday cake decorated with candy was the chief attraction among the little ones. Candy and pop-corn were also served. The guests included Leta Nile, Methyl Huntoon, Everdeen Robbins, Leora Tomlinson, Kathleen Stewart, Kathleen Hunkley and Lola Wilbur.

A fine supper was served by the Rebekahs Friday evening.

The Rev. M. S. Hutchins of Phillips occupied the pulpit Sunday, coming by auto and returning at the close of the service. Our pastor, Mr. White, went to Phillips Saturday and remained until Monday, having been called there to attend the funeral of his friend, Samuel Wing.

Twenty-five ladies met at the vestry last week and tacked several puffs, which the Ladies' Aid society had been hired to do. The meeting this week will be with Mrs. Ada Sprague.

There was a party at the home of George Haines on Monday evening October 31, about thirty being present.

Miss Onie Gile has been ill with tonsillitis.

Mr. Almon Wilbur was in Gardiner recently. His son, Roland, who is in poor health, accompanied him home.

There was no end of fun at the Grange meeting Saturday night. Eighteen ladies told how they would farm if they were men, and we feel sure that if the brothers follow one-half the suggestions offered, everyone will note the change. At the next meeting the men will talk on "How I would keep house if I were a woman." Every member should be present, especially the ladies.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neal, accompanied by Mr. Neal's nurse, Mr. Geo. Avery, of Lewiston, left town Saturday for Mount Clemens, Michigan, where it is to be hoped Mr. Neal will regain his health. Their son, Maxwell, is left in the care of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Whitney.

A committee has been chosen to decide on the kind of hymnals to be purchased for the church and to get them as soon as possible.

Miss Amy Wilbur is working for Mrs. Harry Huntoon.

Mrs. James Spinney and children have gone into the woods for the winter.

OQUOSSOC.

Oct. 8.

O. B. Goldsmith and wife, went to Oakland last week to visit their daughter, Mrs. F. A. Dolloff.

Mr. Chute of the Casco Building and Loan association of Portland was here on business recently.

Harland Curtis and wife left here Monday, October 31, for Lake Moxie, where they will make their home, as Mr. Curtis has been appointed superintendent of the fish hatchery there.

Carl Weld of Dixfield is the guest of his brother, Walter J. Weld.

One of the hunters at W. J. Heald's camps shot a twelve-point buck Saturday.

Deer are reported as unusually numerous about here this fall, but they have had rather the best of the hunters so far, as the underbrush and bushes are so thick it is impossible to travel without noise.

KINGFIELD.

Nov. 8.

Mrs. Frank R. Hodgman of Kingfield is in Skowhegan for a week.

Miss Marguerite Ricker of Wilton is a guest in the family of O. M. Vose.

I. W. Pottle of Portland has been in town.

Charles Dolbier of Freeman Ridge is ill of acute Bright's disease.

Mrs. Arthur Elwell of Skowhegan has been a guest of her brother, C. E. Cross, and family.

J. W. Jordan of Farmington has been in town. Mrs. Jordan and Master Fred were with him.

Deer and birds are being brought in daily by local sports. Judson Alward shot a large owl a few days ago.

Mrs. Lucretia French is resting comfortably, following the accident when her hip was fractured, three weeks ago.

H. S. Wing and Mrs. Chas. Barden were called to Wilton Saturday by the death of their father, S. B. Wing.

Mrs. W. N. Libby is clerking in the store of H. P. Wood.

Saturday Henry W. Mayo of Freeman was here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Simmons were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Hutchins at Lexington.

After having resided for several months on the S. M. D. Norton farm, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hutchins have returned to their home farm just above the village.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Hunt of Worcester, Mass., are guests of their son, F. S. Hunt, Jr., on Stanley avenue.

A dance was held in French's hall Saturday evening.

A special train to Phillips Sunday conveyed a crowd to attend the funeral of Samuel B. Wing.

W. N. Libby and Orran Hunkley were in Madrid this week.

The Moose Call.

(By Hart L. Woodcock.)

It was the harvest moon, big and glowing, and the pines, trunk and branch, drew beautiful and fantastic traceries across it as it stole silently up into sight from amid the tangle of spruce and hemlock along the shore and sent a glorious pathway across the dark waters of the lake.

Have you ever experienced it—the grand solitude of night in the woods? The stillness is appalling, inspiring. The coolness settles down about you deliciously. The air is damp and heavy, rich with the fragrance of the woods. All sound is in perfect harmony with the surroundings, softly heard and distant, as if in fear of harshly disturbing the sacred silence of the night. Have you ever experienced a condition like this? Have you ever been upon a lake deep in the Maine woods in the hours of silence and darkness? An inland lake. By this I mean a place, maybe, nestled lovingly amid the hills, deep in the wilderness.

Not in the country where you get flashes of light from farm house windows, hear the tinkle of bells on the cattle as they slowly plod homeward through the gloaming, hear the barking of dogs and the calls of men, but a lake way, way back amid the protecting reflections of overhanging mountains, where you drift, drift, over the black, silky waters, and the only sounds heard are those of nature in her wild and natural state. Where the forest, dark and solemn, fawnsome almost, in its silence, comes sweeping down to the water's edge with the grand bulk of the mountains towering above.

Now your canoe glides through a growth of reeds, and they give a soft, swishing sound as they rub along the sides of the canvas boat.

Hark—intently you listen—way off in the gloom and darkness of the forest you hear a sharp gushing—it is repeated. You have started a big buck and he is sounding his alarm. By nature he is curious, so possibly is now tremblingly watching you glide by. The fall of a paddle or a movement may send him in alarm crashing through the underbrush up the mountain's side.

Now the lily pads are caressing the side of the boat with a soft and gentle touch.

Again you listen—ho-hoo-wa-ho-o-o-ho-ho-o-wa-ho-o-o-o! It is a big gra-owl. You hear him but faintly over back in the high land, but he is coming nearer now, and soon his dismal call sounds out over the water from just above. You answer and he calls in return, repeating many times till it becomes monotonous and you paddle on.

The stars shine peacefully above and their reflections rock and waver over the limped surface to your very hands as you drag them idly through the cool water. And the air, oh! such air, can its equal be found elsewhere on earth? So cool, bracing and fragrant, scented as it is with spruce and balsam.

It is a grand experience, certainly, of which it seems one can never tire. At least so thought the inmates of a large canoe which was slowly making its way through the night over a beautiful little lake lying deep in the wood close under Moxie. Saturated with the beauty of it all, they paddled on—God's own country. God's own it surely was, and they fully realized it.

"Listen," said Wescott, rising and shading his eyes with his hand to secure a clearer view of the distant shore. "There goes another," he cried, as a mighty splashing sounded ahead under the bank and a deer went snorting and plunging out of the water into the woods.

"Geel!" he exclaimed, "But they have put them in thick in this side of the pond. What do you say, Bill, to coming over here in the morning? This chance certainly looks good to me."

"Sure thing," replied his companion, "But I give you this tip, we must be in here by daybreak; they will be feeding along here then."

"What do you say, girlie, want to come too?" Wescott added, addressing a young woman sitting in the center of the canoe.

"Now hear that man talk," laughed the girl. "The idea! Of course, I do, but I think I see you giving me the chance."

"Why?"

"Too many skirts in the way—too slow," you will say when the time comes. It will be in camp a-getting breakfast for me, I guess."

A week before the party had packed into this region and appropriated some abandoned lumbering camps near the lake and, being most comfortably located therein, were having the time of their young lives, doing their cooking and depending largely upon their skill as hunters and fishermen for the wherewithal to eat. They were all good sportsmen. Even Mrs. Wescott was a crack shot with the rifle, an accomplishment of which she was duly proud.

Owing to the extremely dry weather, it was hard hunting, and until now they had met with poor success. In fact, the securing of but one small doe had so far rewarded their efforts. The ground was thickly covered with fallen leaves and twigs, which rustled and snapped under foot, making it almost impossible to steal onto a deer. There was game enough about. Absolutely fresh signs were to be seen at almost every step, and to secure it they needed only damp weather to soften things up a bit, and so stop the exasperating noise.

"It is like hunting with a drum corps attachment," grumbled Bill, "And any deer in its senses would never think of allowing a hunter within shooting distance."

Nevertheless, the men kept on going all the time, coming in each night tired, a little cross and a good deal hungry, always telling discouraging tales of jumping deer, giving them but a fleeting glimpse of the white flag as they disappeared. And to make a bad matter worse, the doe was almost gone, and they needed more meat badly.

"Oh, for some rain," they grumbled.

"Oh, for some rain," laughed the woman, "If that would keep you better natured." But the perfect evening in question gave scant promise of anything but continued pleasant weather for the morrow.

Continuing slowly on up the lake, they soon left the highland well behind, and ahead extended miles on miles of low country, immense swamps lying about the inlet, dark and almost impenetrable with tangles of wind-falls, where furious gales had sent the trees down like card houses, one upon another, interspersed with quaking bog holes and snarls of cedars and alders. A cold white mist was hanging low over all, and the woman shivered as she drew her wraps closer about her.

A young fox barked back in the hardwood, and a flock of waterfowls fussed and quacked out in the pond. As they neared the land a startled mink swam rapidly in to the shore, leaving long diverging pencilings of reflected light stretching out behind him.

As they listened, a new and unusual sound forced itself upon their startled senses. First a long sustained guttural tone, ending with a pronounced grunt. It was almost musical, mellowed and softened as it was by distance. Instantly the men stopped all motion with paddles suspended in air, intently listening. Again came the wild, mysterious cry, sounding from out the darkness far ahead in the swamp.

"A moose, by all that's holy," whispered the guide, as he reached for a long megaphone-shaped cone of birch bark, which was in the bottom of the canoe. Placing this to his lips as he stood up in the bow of the boat, he waved it slowly about with a circular motion and sent an answering call in reply. It was wonderful to hear him. He had caught the plaintive, seductive notes to perfection. There was no attempt to hurry, just the deliberate, slow cadence of the natural sound.

Again came the answering challenge, nearer now it seemed, and showing slight traces of excitement and desire. And again the answer. Then they ran the canoe ahead till it grounded lightly on the beach.

Now the signals sounded at regular intervals, sometimes being but a series of mellow grunts. At times the sound approached rapidly, then apparently was at a standstill, as though a false note in the response had aroused suspicion in the mind of the timid animal. In fierce excitement the men grasped their rifles, all their senses strained to the breaking point.

Till now the lordly animal had advanced silently with great caution, and they were wild with fear that he might detect the imposition they were practicing and make off into the swamp. Once convinced he was being deceived, all hope of securing him would end, for on becoming thoroughly alarmed he would put miles behind him before morning.

Since the last response there had been so long an interval of silence that they almost despaired of another answer. With each heart-beat thumping in their ears, they waited until at last, in desperation, the man same noise several times and that its cry was almost blood curdling. Its tracks are as large as a Newfoundland dog's track.

Bert Brown and Joe Cummings sent away for a thirty-five-dollar coon dog recently.

Horace Crockett has caught three coons this fall, and a short time ago he shot five hedgehogs, all within a half hour's time.

About a week ago Edgar Barrett and Bert Thomas with their notorious coon dogs set out for a hunt one evening. They were in the vicinity of Charles Bonney's when they gave the dogs their liberty, and in a very few minutes they were mixed up with a flock of coons and succeeded in killing three of them. They were all old ones, something very uncommon, and the hunters returned home well pleased with their adventure. The following night they set forth again, and near the locality of the former night's hunting they landed three skunks, two hedgehogs and one coon. It is said that these two dogs together will hunt and stay with anything from a nursing moose to a full grown elephant.

Bentley's Trapping Methods of October 1 was read with very much pleasure by me, and no doubt by very many others. Come again, Mr. Bentley.

The Christmas Problem Solved.

With the approach of the holiday season the eyes of the sport loving public are again turned toward the desirability of presenting Stevens firearms for Christmas gifts. Stevens rifles, pistols and shotguns have for several generations been very favorably regarded because of their excellent firearms virtues—especially at put the moose horn again to his lips and, throwing all his skill into the effort, sent the plaintive, amorous call out into the stillness. The answer was startling and dramatic. Evidently the big animal had been advancing all the while, for immediately, amid the crashing of underbrush, the lordly monarch, magnificent in his ugliness, plunged into view on the bank above, his huge form and branching antlers clearly outlined against the sky. Then, throwing his muzzle high in air, he sent his last challenge booming out over the water.

As it looked below and saw the canoe, the cautious beast realized instantly the treacherous nature of the siren song which had allured him on to destruction, and also his danger. For, like a flash, it whirled to retreat, but too late. Both rifles spoke together and the noble beast went down with a crash; but instantly it was up again and, mad with pain and furious with anger, it turned and came charging over the bank on its enemies. Again the rifles rang out, and at the reports the big animal wilted and plunged headlong down the incline, its inertia sending it, a quivering bulk, sprawling on the beach.

The woman certainly had nerve. Throughout the tragedy she had sat convulsively clutching the rails of the canoe without sound or motion; but now, realizing all was over, the feminine nature asserted itself, and with a scream of horror she slid fainting to the bottom of the canoe.

East Sumner Notes.

East Sumner, Me., Nov. 5, 1910.

To the Editor of Maine Woods:

What is it? There is an animal roaming in our wilderness through valleys and over mountains. Allie Durrel, while returning from Shagg Pond, where he had been fishing all day, says the animal trailed him for a distance of over two miles, just keeping out of the rays of his lantern, and every ten or fifteen minutes it would screech; and it was enough each time to give anyone a chill. Leland Andrews and his wife heard it one night this summer. They say it sounds like a very sharp, heavy voice of a woman. And only a couple of weeks ago Willie Andrews and his wife were after their cows early one evening, and they say they heard which is supposed to be the the popular prices at which all Stevens firearms may be obtained.

It is interesting to note that the Stevens company manufactures the most extensive and varied line of firearms on the market and these guns in their many styles and models appeal to man, woman and child.

The latest Stevens production, the No. 14 Little Scout rifle, is the most moderate priced real rifle made and exactly suited to the needs of the beginner. Other Stevens models that are excellently adapted for Christmas gifts are the Favorite and Visible Loading rifles, Ideal Sporting and Target models and repeating and double barrel shotguns.

All up-to-date dealers in sporting goods can supply any Stevens firearm at an attractive price, and there is no more lasting and more appropriate Christmas gift for a live, wide-awake man or boy.

A complete firearm catalog and also a very interesting booklet entitled "How to Shoot Well" will be sent to any applicant who writes to the J. Stevens Arms & Tool Company, Chicopee Falls, Mass.

TRY IT ON DOGS.

Experiment in Maine to See if Fish Can Give Cancers.

Washington, Oct. 27, 1910.

Shipped to the Maine hatcheries today by the bureau of fisheries were seven dogs trained to marine diet, which will be used in experiments to determine whether cancer is communicable through use of fish as food.

For a long time it has been a mooted question whether human beings could acquire cancer from fish and the dogs will serve in the place of people in these experiments, which are incidental to a general investigation as to the food value of various fishes and fish products.

Recently 3,000 landlocked salmon were put into Highland lake, Bridgton. They came from the U. S. hatchery at Green lake in Dedham, on the Mount Desert branch of the Maine Central railroad, and were in excellent condition, only four dead ones being found. Now that close time has been declared on the tributaries, it is thought that it will be but a few years before the fishing in the lake will be unsurpassed in this section of the state.
