Fall and Winter Fashions

1906 1907

THE variety of clearly differentiated garments that will be fashionable during the incoming fall and winter season is so great that every man, whose taste is not positively bad, will easily be able to find among them several of every type, from ulster to dress coat, that will please him; and those of our readers who are fond of new things and new expressions of familiar effects will be delighted by the many, unexceptional in every way, on which Dame Fashion has stamped her seal of approval, and which will undoubtedly be very popular. The trade and the general public are to be congratulated on the fact that the craze for absurdly wide shoulders and for the lady-like bottom flare of the sack is either dead or dying everywhere in the country, and that sanity promises to be a leading feature in men's clothes for a considerable time to come.

The liberties which are granted to ex-Senator Burton by the Missouri jailer reminds the Bangor correspondent of a little county jail up in the interior of New York of which it was said that the two prisoners which it had were allowed to ramble about the town during the day, and if they didn't return by 9 o'clock in the evening they were locked out for the night.

On Tuesday next there will be elections in 42 States and three Territories. Oregon, Maine and Vermont have already elected state officers and members of the Sixtieth Congress. In twenty-three of the states a Governor and other state officers (in twenty of them also, a Legislature); in ten, minor state officers or Justices of the Supreme Court; in two, Congressmen and a Legislature; and in seven Congressmen only, are to be elected. Oklahoma is to vote on a State Constitution, and Arizona and New Mexico on joint statehood.

The controversy as to who was the youngest soldier of the civil war probably has been settled in favor of Perry Ryan of Seattle, Wash. He was born October 22, 1852 in Kane county, Ill., but enlisted from Mount Vernon, Iowa. After serving nearly a year, he was honorably discharged on a surgeon's certificate of disability. The pension office has investigated Ryan's papers and found that his representations are correct. He will receive a tidy sum as back pension.

Frank P. Graves Is Believed To Be the Biggest Man In Knox County.

Frank P. Graves, a native of Hancock county, who now resides in West Rockport, weighed only 168 pounds when he was 20 years old. Today he is 51 and tips the beam at 340. He stands 6 feet, 4 inches, in his stockings, and comes the nearest to being a Hercules of anybody that Knox county has to offer. He is a stone mason and worked at that trade until his shoulder was broken by an accident. Since that time his work has consisted mainly of choring about the house. Boston parties are now negotiating with him, and it is not improbable that he will accept an offer to be on exhibition in that city. Mr. Graves was sawing wood at his home in West Rockport when the Courier-Gazette reporter interviewed him a few days ago. He consented to talk about himself, although he says the notoriety attached to his great size is annoying to him. He was born in Lamoine, Aug. 4, 1855, son of Moses T. Graves, a school teacher and farmer. At 19 Frank Graves moved to Bar Harbor and learned the trade of stone mason. He worked there 12 years and then moved to Camden, where three years ago he slipped on the ice and fell against the stone steps of a business block, breaking one of his shoulders. This incapacitated him from working at his trade, which had meantime become hazardous for him on account of his great weight and clumsiness on a stage. "It took six 10-penny nails to hold me," laughingly remarked Mr. Graves. Mr. Graves weighed only six pounds when he was born. If he inherited his present avoirdupois it must have been from his father, who was a six-footer built on the 200-pound principle. When pantaloons are made for Mr. Graves the tailor starts the pattern with a 60-inch waist measurement. The calf of Mr. Graves' leg measures 21 inches and the distance around the thigh is 33 inches. With these figures as the basis of his present stature it is not wondered at because he smashes all ordinary beds and furniture. He wears an 18 collar and 10 1/2 shoe. When Mr. Graves passes along the street everybody turns to look at him. He is a very quiet, unassuming man, but his inquisitiveness, he knows full well, the wonder he is exciting and is wise to the comment he is causing—for the remarks very often reach his keen ears. Mr. Graves has just an ordinary appetite, and is thoroughly at loss to understand why his weight in the last 20 years has more than doubled. He has been married 15 years. Mr. Graves belongs to one benefit order, Washington Camp, No. 9, Sons of America. There is being exhibited in Liverpool a prodigious egg, that of a tall, flightless bird—the aepyornis maximus, which formerly inhabited the island of Madagascar. The eggs of this immense creature are nearly a yard in circumference and a foot in length, and their cubical contents, roughly speaking, are equal to six ostrich eggs or 150 hens' eggs, 60,000 humming-birds' eggs or two gallons of water. The market price ranges from $175 to $300, only 20 known specimens being in existence.

This Week

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A review from the columns of the Rockland Gazette, of some of the events which interested Rockland and vicinity for the three weeks ending Nov. 3, 1881.

C. C. Chandler of Winthrop again became a citizen of Rockland. He had leased a store in Farnsworth block, near the Gazette office.

R. H. Burnham resigned at the post office to become a partner with Robbins & Otis, who conducted a book and periodical store in connection with their new paper business. Charles Fales succeeded him in the post office.

The roller skating rink in Farwell hall was being well patronized. McCreary's orchestra furnished music. M. W. Mowry and L. Q. Tyler were managers. The October sales at the city agency were $271.

The officers elected by Limerock Valley Lodge of Good Templars were: J. L. Ulmer, Mary E. Tenner, Annie R. Ulmer, M. S. Williams, Silas Farrington, E. H. Bartlett, T. J. Brown, William H. Brown, Eliza McLain, Carrie Ulmer, Henry Hammond, Eliza Brown and Cora Brown.

Charles A. Libby of the late firm of J. C. Libby & Sons was about to remove to Cohasset, Mass.

H. H. Hyde opened a fancy variety store at 9 Limerock street.

A building on Atlantic street owned by Elijah Titus, and occupied by him as a store and dwelling was destroyed.

Edmund Shaw, son of Capt. Zenas Shaw of this city was fatally shot on board the schooner Uncle Sam. The tragedy took place at Portland, and was due to the accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of his half brother, Nathan Hills of the Lindsey fell from Tillson wharf, striking a yawl boat, and subsequently died of his injuries.

Wm. Mowry, C. G. Leonard and J. H. Fry assisted Mr. Hills back onto the wharf.

Steamer Penobscot was launched from Wm. McKie's yard in East Rockport. The total cost of the boat, ready for sea, was about $150,000.

Haver's hot soda fountain was hailed a "luxurious novelty."

Wm. McKie, of Portland, was practicing with a rifle pistol A. J. Tolman accidentally discharged the weapon so that the bullet passed through the calf of one of his legs.

Wyman W. Ulmer, inspector at the custom house, with his wife visited the Gettysburg battlefield. Mr. Ulmer was able to go to the very spot where he received a disabling wound in that memorable battle.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Medcott of Green street, Thomaston, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary. It is an interesting coincidence that in today's issue of The Courier-Gazette appears an account of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Metcalf, which has just been celebrated at their present home in Winter Hill, Mass.

Maj. J. H. H. Hewett of Thomaston returned from Virginia, where he visited his brothers.

Governor Cobb and Council Inspect Deaf School and School for Boys.

Governor Cobb arrived in Portland Friday morning and proceeded to the Lafayette hotel where the members of his council were awaiting him. He made the trip unexpectedly as his itinerary for the next two days included a trip to the State School for Boys Friday afternoon and a visit to the Maine School for the Deaf Saturday morning. Important business matters necessitated a change in his program and he decided to accomplish the two days' visit in one. As a result he made an early trip to Portland Friday morning and visited the deaf school before noon. The afternoon was spent in a tour of inspection to the State School for Boys.

The governor's council accompanied him on both visits. The inspection of the Deaf School included a tour of three buildings. Governor Cobb was gratified over all he saw and was highly pleased in the way things are conducted at this institution. The inspection occupied two hours and at the end, Governor Cobb and the council and ladies returned to the Lafayette hotel.

Early in the afternoon a special car took the party to the end of the Stroudwater line from where they were driven to the State school. As Governor Cobb and his staff approached the school they were met by a battalion of the boys' military organization and were escorted to the main building. Lunch was served and a pleasant hour was passed. Col. Fred Atwood of Wintport, president of the board of trustees, received the distinguished visitors and there were several other members of the board present.

Americans will be rather surprised to read a statement, made by a correspondent of The Book Monthly, that "Scotland remains the best book-buying country in the world."

In proportion to its population."

France in the Napoleonic period is perennially interesting to the lovers of memoirs and letters, and they will accordingly be glad to anticipate a collection of letters written in 1802 by an Englishman then living in France. The Englishman, a lively and picturesque writer was Henry Redhead Yorke, and the editor of his correspondence is Lady Sykes.

A new edition of the diaries describing Napoleon's voyages on the English warships Unadorned and Northumberland will be brought out soon. One of these diaries was kept by Admiral Usher and the other by Admiral Cockburn's secretary, Dr. Holland Rose has written an introduction and critical notes for the volume. Another forthcoming Napoleonic book is a translation of M. Paul Gruyer's "Napoleon at Elba."

There is no more interesting article in the November number of Putnam's Monthly and the Critic than "The Reading Habit in the United States," by Gustave Michael. The author has made a careful study of the subject, and has worked it out with diagrams which show which states and sections of this country do the most reading. The diagrams, which are not the least interesting part of Mr. Michael's paper, indicate the birth-rate of men of brains in different parts of the United States.

To read the November number of Suburban Life is to cover the whole wide range of suburban life activities. A hasty outline will give a slight idea of the diversified attractions. The article contrasts city and country life in a way which will surely set people to thinking. "A Good Old Fashioned Thanksgiving" is a very anybody's reading. "Frying the Supplies for the Suburban Home" is an extremely practical article by the well known author, Helen M. Winslow. "A Glimpse Into Interesting Halls" is especially the pleasure of "A California Hungulow Which Cost But $1,500" is illustrated by plans and photographs.

Does anybody read Ossian nowadays? Those who may do so will perhaps care to know that Macpherson was much beloved by his old neighbors who the Hadenoch district—neighbors who always spoke of him as "Seumas Ban" (Fair haired James). It is said of him that he was always constant to his country, his kindfolk, his chief and his clan, and never lost an opportunity of advancing the interests of the friends of his youth. A Gaelic elegy on him, composed by one of those friends, ends thus quaintly: "The blessing of the poor and of tenantry had this lamb that was wrung. And in Paradise there is a Physician, and He hath given health to James."

Houghton, Mifflin & Co. report the following new printings: 2nd edition of "The Children's Book," edited by Horace E. Scudder; 15th edition of "Robinson Crusoe," by Daniel Defoe; 15th edition of "The Inner Life," by Prof. John F. Genung; 11th edition of "The Gentle Reader," by Dr. Samuel M. Crothers; 8th edition of "Science and Immortality," by Dr. William Osler; 4th edition of "American Literary Masters," by Leon H. Vincent, and "In the Days of Giants," by Miss Abbie Farwell Brown; and 2d edition of the new holiday edition of "The Diving History of John Gilpin," and of "Cicero in Maine," by Mrs. Martha Baker Funt.

It is said that in Great Britain the demand for the novels of George Eliot is still almost as great as at the time of their first publication. Apropos of this fact, the London Tribune says: "The truth is that below and above the public who read nothing but the 'latest' literature there is a great body of readers who care nothing for the passing success of the season, and go conscientiously to the recognized masters. These people are not to be found so much among the so-called 'cultured' classes as among the people who are self-educated in the true sense of the word. It is the mill hand of Lancashire and the Polytechnic student who now read George Eliot, besides those who may be expected to appreciate her sterling value."

Judge Shute, Edward Stratemeyer, Everett T. Tomlinson, and Horatio Alger, Jr., occupy prominent positions in the November American Boy with their stirring serials. Scarcely secondary to these are short stories whose very titles should stir up the interest of the boys: "A Visit from the Cheyennes," "The Lard Eaters," "The Society of the F. F. E.," "A Fight With a Panther," "An Historic Walking Match," "Tim's Pig," "For the Glory of St. Mary's," a fine football tale. There is enough of adventure and humor to please boys, and those who are serious minded will find some things to keep them busy for hours. The serials are devoted to school, travel, biography, electricity, mechanics, amateur journalism, and other boy hobbies. It will be hard to find a boy who cannot find something of interest in this number of The American Boy. For variety of contents and profuseness of illustration it surpasses any of the predecessors. There are some seventy-five illustrations, in addition to the premium list in colors that accompanies the number. The color cover is appropriate to the "Thanksgiving" season. $1.00 a year. The Sprague Publishing Co., Detroit, Mich.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

The Old Mill.

Here from the brow of the hill I look
Through a lattice of b-uptes and leaves
On the old gray mill with its gambrel roof
And the moss on its rotting eaves.
I hear the clatter that jars its walls
As the wheeling water's round.
And I see the black floats rise and fall
As the wheel goes slowly round.

I rode there often when I was young,
With my girl on the horse before,
And she, with Nelly, the miller's girl,
As I waited my turn at the door.
And while she tossed her ringlets brown
And flirted and chatted so free,
The wheel might stop or the wheel might go,
It was all the same to me.

Twelve twenty years since last I stood
On the spot where I stand today,
And Nelly is dead and the miller is dead,
And the mill and I are gray.
But both, till we fall in ruin and wreck,
To our fortune of toil are bound,
And the man goes, and the girl runs away,
And the wheel moves slowly round.

—Thomas Dunn English.

The Courier-Gazette.

TWICE A WEEK

We have neglected to say the word that has been trembling on our pen in praise of the new Boston Herald. By new we have reference to certain improvements that have gradually in recent weeks worked into the paper's various departments, notably those of the editorial page. The Herald has long been recognized as a model in its news features, but we know of scores, who regularly bought it because of its general excellence, who could not get through its editorial page without being in a general condition of anger and unrest. This was not that ability of high order did not inform the columns of that page, but because of a general spirit of fault-finding and pessimism that seemed to be its distinguishing feature—and President Roosevelt was a creature to be spoken of only with a sneer. Under a changed management the Herald editorial page is now a more comfortable fireside friend, one you are happy to have call at your home. It is still independent and critical, but somebody in the office has opened a jar of hop-fulness and good-cheer, chopped the editorials into shorter lengths, made the entire staff take off blue gloves and let in the sun, and the result is the best editorial page in New England. Long may she wave.

The intense interest created throughout the country by the discussion now rife over Mrs. Eddy, head of the Christian Science church, affords some indication of the growth of that movement and how large a place it fills in the thought of the present generation. Whether regarded with disfavor, or with indifference, or with the devotion of its adherents, Christian Science is an established fact, to be seriously reckoned with and not waved to the rear with the gesture of Podsnap. Elsewhere we print an extract from the Associated Press report of the interview given to a dozen representatives of leading newspapers, before whom Mrs. Eddy briefly appeared. The dramatic occasion arose out of recently printed charges in the New York World to the effect that the great head of Christian Science was either dead or dying, and was being impersonated by another woman in the usual carriage drives about the streets of Concord. The daily papers have printed very full accounts of the interview. Generally these accounts agree in characterizing Mrs. Eddy as very infirm, with the weakened bodily and mental powers natural to her advanced age of 85.

The regulations for the enforcement of the new pure food and drug act, as promulgated by the department of agriculture, require that ingredients of the package shall be stated precisely; that no deleterious or coloring matter shall be used even in the manufacture of candy, and that adulterations shall be prohibited, but not to bar standard drugs, provided they are branded so as to show their actual strength or purity. The label must bear the name of the product, the place of manufacture and must show whether the article is a mixture or a blend. Mineral substances of all kinds are forbidden in confectionery, and no substance may be used with any food product which reduces its quality or strength. The term "blend" applies to mixtures of like substances. So look at the label on your favorite medicine and "take no other."

It will be a relief to have next week's elections over with. The hysterical conditions that have developed in the campaigns of New York and Massachusetts are of too feverish a character long to be enjoyable and everybody will be glad when the agony is over. You will find two kinds of opinions hazarded as to results. In New York the Hughes forces are confident of a sweeping victory, while on the other side Hearst himself predicts his own election by 150,000. Massachusetts Republicans believe they have Moran whipped in an overwhelming manner, but Moran's friends predict a landslide and his election by 40,000. And there you are. If a prediction from this point of distance were deemed to be necessary we would advance the following, namely that both Hearst and Moran will be buried out of sight.

Congratulations to the Rockland Savings Bank in its handsome rejuvenated quarters, rooms commensurate with the dignity and soundness of this old financial institution. It is interesting to note that of the original fourteen trustees elected at the bank's organization 25 years ago, only one is now living. The names of the others were those of prominent business men of that day, who laid wisely the foundation upon which their successors in office have continued to build—but they could scarcely have expected, with the population of Rockland so little enlarged since that day, to see the bank they founded with such narrow deposits in its early years become an institution of so large resources.

What would happen to all of us if we just left off and contented ourselves with drinking water, same as the other animals do? A national trade magazine estimates that the United States spent last year $220,000,000 for non-alcoholic drinks and $1,324,000,000 for alcoholic drinks. The figures are proportioned to the various classes are: For cocoa, $5,000,000; for tea, $22,000,000; for coffee, $182,000,000; for wine, $45,000,000; for whiskey, $457,000,000, and for beer, $771,000,000.

It oughtn't to be possible for such accidents as that of Atlantic City, where three electric cars went off a draw-bridge and more than half a hundred unfortunates were drowned like rats in a trap. We are too reckless in our rail-roading in this country. Why should a train of cars be running over a draw-bridge at 45 miles an hour?

A Progressive Savings Bank

Rockland's Institution In Handsomely Remodeled Quarters—A Bit of Its History.

The Rockland Savings Bank has practically completed the remodeling of its banking rooms. The changes made are such that few would realize this institution is still occupying the quarters where it has been domiciled for nearly 35 years.

Additional steel linings and modern floors have been installed in the main vault by the York Safe & Lock Co. of York, Penn., and steel cases and shelves substituted for those formerly used. Two new fire-proof vaults (one in the basement and one on the street floor) have been provided for storage purposes. The bank is now provided with vault space of extent and character to meet all requirements for the present and future.

The remodeling and refitting of the banking rooms proper have been completed from designs furnished by John Calvin Stevens, architect, Portland. The rooms, as the street floor is now arranged, consist of that to which the public is admitted, very commodious quarters for the treasurer and his assistant, with a small private office, trustees' room, and lavatory and toilet in the rear.

The woodwork of the interior, as well as that of the vestibule, is of mahogany, with excellent finish, and with appropriate door, window and other fittings. Where additional light is desirable the doors leading to the different rooms, and a portion of the partitions of the private office, have been provided with leaded glass of an attractive pattern. The same material has been used in the transoms over the vestibule.

The floors of the vestibule, public room and private office are of rubber tiling, with Italian marble for bases. That of the trustees' room is of quartered oak, while that occupied by the treasurer and his clerical force, and the remainder of the rooms, is of maple.

All the rooms are steam heated, the plant for that purpose having been installed by the Rockland Hardware Co.

THE SHILOH MATTER.

Gov. Cobb Asked to Ascertain the Facts and Abate Evil.

The text of a petition which is being readily signed by the clergymen and prominent professional and business men of this city, including three former governors of Maine, asking Governor William T. Cobb to investigate conditions at the Holy Ghost and U.S. colony at Shiloh was made public Wednesday night. It is as follows:

"To His Excellency, Governor William T. Cobb, Augusta, Me.: In view of the persistent and seemingly well authenticated reports of gross evils existing in the Sanford community at Shiloh resulting in suffering and injury to members of the community, especially little children, we, the undersigned citizens of Maine respectfully petition your excellency, if at all possible, to take such measures as your wisdom may dictate to ascertain the exact facts and abate the evils."

The petition will be circulated in Androscoggin county and other sections of western and central Maine within a few days. It was drafted as a result of the conference, Monday, of three Portland clergymen with Mrs. Alice Phelps of Kansas City, Mo., who has been unable to persuade or force her daughter to leave the colony.

MRS. EDDY INTERVIEWED

Christian Science Leader Appears Before Her Inquirers in Person.

Christian Scientists, and the public at large, have read with absorbing interest this week the sensational statements in regard to Mother Eddy's health, some of the articles claiming that she was dying from cancer, and meantime was being impersonated by another woman who rode about the streets of Mrs. Eddy's home city, Concord, N. H., in the latter's carriage.

Concord immediately became the headquarters of prominent newspaper representatives, half a score of whom were given a personal interview, Tuesday, with the distinguished leader of the Christian Scientists. Among the interviewers was a representative of the Associated Press who interviewed Mrs. Eddy 10 years ago, and who found himself in the presence of the same woman Tuesday. Although Mrs. Eddy, who was born in 1821, shows her advanced age, in some respects, her voice today was clear and strong and she gave no evidence of decrepitude or of any weakness not to be expected of a woman in her 85th year.

When the newspaper representatives assembled at Mrs. Eddy's home, the leader of the Christian Science faith, walked to the doorway and stood, unaided, before her interviewers. She did not approach further than the threshold of the door and when it was seen that she would not enter the room for a prolonged interview, a woman reporter, who had previously interviewed Mrs. Eddy, was delegated to talk to her.

The brief interview consisted of the following questions and answers: "Are you in perfect physical health, Mrs. Eddy?" was the first question asked, after Mrs. Eddy had made her appearance.

"I am," was the brief reply, given with distinct enunciation.

"Have you any other physician than God?"

"No, indeed," answered Mrs. Eddy with emphasis, and then she added slowly and solemnly:

"The everlasting arms are around and above me, which is enough."

"Do you take a daily drive?" was the next question.

"I do," she said.

It was at this point in the interview and as the spokeswoman was about to continue her interrogation, that Mrs. Eddy unexpectedly indicated that the interview was at an end, for she turned without saying another word and walked to the port cochere at the front of the house where her carriage was awaiting to convey her on her usual drive about the city. She was assisted into the carriage by her daughter.

Among those present at the interview was E. S. Herring, first reader of the Concord Christian Science church, who lectured in Rockland not long ago.

For Labor Commissioner

Thomas J. Lyons of Vinalhaven, Whose Bill Created the Bureau in 1887, Is a Candidate.

Hon. Thomas J. Lyons of Vinalhaven, late senator on the Republican ticket, has made formal announcement of his candidacy for the office of Commissioner of Industrial and Labor Statistics, a position which has been held by the present incumbent since the office was created, 20 years ago. Mr. Lyons' claims are set forth in the following modest announcement, which is being sent to labor organizations throughout the state:

Dear Sir and Brother: In 1887, being a member of the Legislature, I presented the bill which established the Bureau of Industrial and Labor Statistics, which up to the present time is the only department of Labor in the State of Maine. The law provides that the Commissioner shall be some one identified with the industrial and labor interests of the State. Upon that ground I aspire to the position. The term of the present incumbent, who has been Commissioner since the office was established twenty years ago, expires February 1, 1907, and I am an applicant for the office. I have been identified with my organization, the Granite Cutters International Association, since its organization in 1887, and am at present a good standing member of the same. I have represented the organization four consecutive years at the convention of the American Federation of Labor, and feel that I can truthfully and rightfully stand as a representative of Organized Labor. I have a strong and influential backing from the business interests and labor organizations of my home section of the state and believe that with your assistance I can receive the appointment.

Yours fraternally,
Thomas J. Lyons.

In a letter asking personal support of party leaders throughout the state, Mr. Lyons says:

"Dear Sir:—The term for which the present Commissioner of Industrial and Labor Statistics is appointed expires February, 1907. I am a candidate for the office. I make the application with a full sense of the requirements and responsibilities of the office, as I am the author of the bill which established the Bureau in 1887, the present incumbent having held the office since that time. As to my standing in the community I refer you to the members of the Town, County and State committees of this section. I will thank you sincerely for an endorsement of my petition."

Here in Knox county, where Mr. Lyons is so well known, much satisfaction will be expressed that so capable a man is seeking the office. Mr. Lyons' splendid appearance on the stump in the recent campaign made a deep impression upon his hearers, and those who did not have the privilege of a personal acquaintance, felt that this man was abundantly qualified to fill any office to which he might be elected or appointed.

Thomas J. Lyons is a native of the British Maritime Provinces but has lived in Vinalhaven since early youth. His native town was Fredericton, N. B., where he was born July 11, 1831. During his infancy the family moved to Halifax, where the boy resided until he was 14. From Halifax he came to Vinalhaven in 1848, and learned the granite cutting trade at Vinalhaven, where he went to live with his uncle.

Mr. Lyons was one of the organizers of the Vinalhaven Branch of the Granite Cutters National Union, an organization which he helped form, and which was originally composed of the branches at Vinalhaven, Rockland, Spruce Head, Clark Island and Hurricane. He has been president of the Vinalhaven union, served on its important committees and during the greater portion of its existence has been corresponding secretary. Four successive years he represented the organization as a delegate to the national conventions of the American Federation of Labor. In that capacity he went to the cities of New Orleans, Boston, San Francisco and Pittsburgh, always having a prominent part in convention affairs. Each time he was urged to become a candidate for international secretary, but it was not until two years ago that he yielded to this request, and while not elected was given a very handsome vote.

In addition to representing the granite cutters at the convention of the A. F. L. in 1901, Mr. Lyons was one of a committee of three selected to audit the accounts of the general office (A. F. L.) at Washington, D. C., and upon two different occasions was elected a member of a committee to revise the constitution of his own organization, the Granite Cutters National Union. Mr. Lyons has never worked at any other occupation than his trade.

Mr. Lyons was elected representative to Legislature on the Republican ticket in 1886, and served on a number of important committees, chief among them being the Labor committee. It was at this session that he presented and fathered the important bill creating the Bureau of Industrial and Labor Statistics, a measure which had been agitated by labor organizations and which gave to the laboring men of this state their first official recognition. S. W. Matthews was appointed commissioner and Mr. Lyons acted as agent of the Bureau several years. In this capacity he traveled all over the state, familiarizing himself with all departments of the work. He has in mind some practical and important innovations, which will tend to greatly improve the value of the department.

It is an incident in Mr. Lyons' career, worthy of note, that when he was a candidate for State Legislature in 1886,

Captain Oliver J. Conant.

Rockland lost one of its best known Grand Army men Wednesday in the death of Capt. Oliver J. Conant, which took place at 11 a. m. at his home on Union street. A year or so ago Mr. Conant fell on his way to work, breaking one of his hips, and his decline in health since that time had been marked, although he was thought to be gaining health and strength a comparatively short time before his demise.

Capt. Conant was born here Dec. 14, 1825, and was a caulker by trade. Before the Civil War broke out he was in the grocery business, first in the store now occupied by Ephraim Perry's dye house and subsequently in the southern store of Rankin block. June 15, 1861, he was mustered into the 4th Maine Regiment as captain of Co. C. Later in the war he was captain of Co. B, Maine Coast Guards, being finally discharged from the service June 24, 1865. He was one of the early commanders of Edwin Liberty Post, G. A. R., and for many years was its quartermaster. He took a deep interest in Grand Army matters, and before his period of invalidism became an unceasing worker in the post's interests, and for many years was its quartermaster. Upon his return from the war Capt. Conant became a clerk in the post office which then occupied a building on the site of Farnsworth block, nearly opposite the foot of Linnebeck street. In 1870 he was appointed postmaster to succeed Miles Andrews, and served two terms. With the appointment of Geo. W. Kimball as postmaster, the city council, being a member of the lower house in 1856 and 1857 and a member of the board of aldermen in 1882 and 1893, Capt. Conant was faithful and efficient at whatever duty he was called upon to perform and was much respected in the community. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Etta O. Clark of Allston, Mass., and Miss Annie Conant, who reside at home in the general services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock under the charge of Edwin Liberty Post.

The McPHAIL

ENDORSED BY TWO GOVERNORS

[From "The Music Trades", June 12, '06.]
An interesting coincidence connected with the recent sale of a McPhail piano by the Maine Music Co., of Rockland, Me., to Governor W. T. Cobb, of Maine, and his giving of a strong endorsement of the fine quality of the instrument is that it is the second time that a McPhail piano has been sold to the Governor of Maine. In looking over some old files Mr. Owen recently found the following letter written by Joshua L. Chamberlain, at that time Governor of Maine:

Brunswick, Me., Nov. 15, 1875.
Messrs. A. M. McPhail & Co.,
Gentlemen: After more than two years' trial, the pianoforte from your house fully justifies the high expectation of the fine quality of the instrument that it is the second time that a McPhail piano has been sold to the Governor of Maine. In looking over some old files Mr. Owen recently found the following letter written by Joshua L. Chamberlain, at that time Governor of Maine.

"Yours most respectfully,
(Signed) Joshua L. Chamberlain."

Now everybody is hoping that the financial affairs of the bankrupt road will soon be straightened out and the road be put in operation early next season.

Since the fall schedule of trains went into effect the afternoon train has been uniformly 45 minutes late and the evening train about 30 minutes. The reasons for the lateness appears to be many—the western end of the line beyond Portland seems to drag, there is delay in getting out of Portland and the ferry time is lost. The change in time from former schedules, making afternoon train due here 20 minutes earlier may be partially responsible for the delay. If the time can't be made it wouldn't be surprising to see a change in the schedule.

The funeral of the late Enoch Davies was held Wednesday afternoon from the family residence on South Main street under the direction of Aurora Lodge, F. A. M. The officiating clergymen were Rev. W. O. Holman, a lifelong friend and neighbor, and Rev. W. J. Day, pastor of the First Baptist church. The pall bearers were Judge L. R. Campbell, Capt. J. A. Campbell, John A. Karl and G. A. Spear, all relatives of the deceased. There was a large attendance of friends and business men, many of whom had been identified with city affairs during Mr. Davies' long reign as clerk of the Common Council. There were many floral tributes.

At the meeting of the school board Wednesday evening Dr. J. C. Hill reported the results of his inspection of schools relative to contagious disease.

He had ordered home a number of pupils for observation and gave it as his opinion that an outbreak was probable at any time. As a precautionary measure the inspection will be continued until all danger is considered past. The matter of transportation was taken up. A list of pupils was furnished and approved by the Superintendent and Mr. Starratt of the committee on transportation. The proposition of S. H. Davis was submitted for carrying the pupils from November 1, 1906, to May 1, 1907, at $2.50 per day. Five pupils were also recommended to transportation by the committee. The recommendation of the transportation committee including the hiring of Mr. Benner to carry the pupils was adopted. The matter of further transportation of pupils by electric cars was left to the superintendent.

The police ball Wednesday night, at The Arcade, was very much of a success despite the rival attractions of a big prize fight and a big storm. The fiddlers were tuned for the grand march there were about 100 couples on the floor and a good many more looking on from the balcony. Patrolman Johnny Lane and lady led the march. There were 15 numbers on the dance order including a liberal number of waltzes as well as such old-time favorites as Boston Fancy, Virginia Reel, Portland Fancy and Land of the Larks. The dancers waited home at a late hour, all tired, but happy. City Marshall L. A. Spear was floor marshal and Chief Engineer George A. Flint was floor director. The aids were the following patrolmen and specials: A. T. Prescott, M. H. Burns, J. J. Curtis Jr., William Fowler, G. L. Whitton, C. L. Clough, John T. Berry, William H. Kitch, John Lane, Frank J. Alden, Miles Haskell, R. W. Richards. The souvenir dance orders will be preserved on account of the fine picture of Marshall Spear which they contain. The photo was made by Merrill.

In clothing, as in other trades, the prime requisite of success is character. Before a store can command a large trade for any length of time, it must secure the confidence of the public by a straightforward and honest representation of the goods they have to sell. We try to give our patrons the sort of service to inspire their confidence and the rapid rate that we are increasing our business speaks for our success in that direction. Our great source of supply ought to attract every man who appreciates good clothing at fair prices.

SYNOPSIS.
CHAPTER I—At daybreak an assistant keeper of the lighthouse, pacing the gallery, discovers in the distance a ship in distress. Stephen Brand agrees to swim to it. Upon reaching the ship he comes in contact with a sick, feeble and kills it and goes aboard. He finds the body of a dead man and a strange bundle beneath the sail. Jones, the lighthouse keeper, brings a basket of food and a bottle of brandy. Brand safely up.

CHAPTER II—The bundle contains a live baby, of which Jones assumes the care. On a part of the child's clothing are the initials E. T. The little one is placed in care of the nurse who has charge of Stephen Brand's child, Enid Trevillon. They call the child Enid Trevillon.

CHAPTER III—Eighteen years later, Constance Brand, daughter of Stephen Brand, and her adopted sister, Enid Trevillon, go to the lighthouse with an old fisherman, Ben Pollard, in a sailboat named Daisy. They are caught in a storm, during which they hear the signal for help coming from the rock. They reach the lighthouse in safety and find that two of the men, Jackson and Bates, have been killed. Brand sends the men back with Ben.

CHAPTER IV—Jackson and Bates are lowered into the boat, and Pollard starts for Penance. The Daisy is met by Lieutenant Stanhope, who is devotedly in love with Enid. He has strayed out for the lighthouse in answer to the signal for help. On meeting the Daisy he turns back to assist with the injured men.

CHAPTER V—From a lighthouse window Enid spies a boat approaching the rock. It is the Lavington, owned by a man named Lawton. Brand divides that it is sailed by Stanhope. He signals for them not to land, and Stanhope returns to Penance. The girls spend the night at the rock.

CHAPTER VI—During the night a furious storm renders sleep impossible. At dawn from the lighthouse gallery Brand makes out a ship in great distress.

CHAPTER VII—Charles A. Pyne, a young man on board, throws a rope from the foremast to Brand, and by means of a pulley seventy-eight people are saved before the ship sinks.

CHAPTER VIII—Mrs. Vansittart, Pyne's aunt, is strangely moved at sight of Constance.

CHAPTER IX—Mrs. Vansittart inquires about Stephen Brand and his daughter and seeks to meet Brand, but fails.

CHAPTER X—Stanhope in the Falcon approaches the lighthouse at daybreak in an effort to rescue Enid and Constance, but is unable to land on account of high seas. Brand signals news of the disaster. Constance and Pyne become well acquainted.

CHAPTER XI—The Falcon puts back to Penance, but returns the next day, bringing Mr. Traill, whom Mrs. Vansittart is journeying from America to marry. He sends messages to Mrs. Vansittart and to Pyne, his nephew.

CHAPTER XII—Stanhope has signaled from the boat his proposal to Enid. The food is giving out, and starvation threatens, when two boats arrive—the Falcon and another—both with a raft it is impossible to reach the rock.

When the rock was left in peace after the fall of the tide Pyne promised to keep the light in order if Brand would endeavor to sleep until daybreak. Rest was essential to him. He would assuredly break his record, the strain if the tension were too long maintained, and a time was coming when he would need all his strength, mental and physical.

"Here have I been snoozing in odd corners ever since I came aboard," urged the American, "and I have nothing to do but stare quietly. It's ridiculous. My funeral is dated; yours isn't. You can't be on deck all the time, you know. Now, just curl up and count sheep jumping over a wall, or any odd game of the sort, until your eyes close of their own accord."

Brand yielded. He lay on the hard boards, with a chair cushion for a pillow. All the rugs rescued by Constance were now needed in the hospital. In less than a minute he was sound asleep.

"That was a close call," mused Pyne. "In another hour he would have cracked up. He's a wonder anyhow."

The lighthouse keeper slept until long after daybreak. Pyne refused to allow any one to disturb him.

Soon after 7 o'clock the watch reported that two vessels were approaching from the bay. One was the Falcon, and the sailors soon made out that the other was the Trinity tender from Plymouth.

When they were both nearing the buoy Brand was aroused. He had cleared his brain and restored his self confidence. Instantly he took up the thread of events, and his first words showed how pleased he was that some one of authority in the lighthouse service should be in active communication with him.

Through his glasses he distinguished Stanhope on board the Trinity steamer, standing by the side of the inspecting officer of the south coast lights. Other officials were there, but near Stanhope was a tall elderly man, unknown and certainly a stranger in Penance.

The Falcon was now chartered by press men, so the civilian on the official boat was evidently a person of consequence. Indeed, Brand imagined, long before Pyne was able to verify the impression, that the newcomer was Mr. Cyrus J. Traill, whom he had failed to notice in the poor light of the previous evening.

He knew quite well that the experienced chief of the lighthouse service would appreciate fully the disabilities under which he labored, with eighty-one months to feed from a stock already far below the three months' maximum.

The first telegraphed question betrayed the prevalent anxiety.

"Hope all is well?"

"What was he to say? Was it not best to speak boldly and let men know the truth, not alone as to their present desperate plight, but revealing the measures he had devised for the protection of the light? He could not make up his mind to lead out into a full explanation that instant.

So he signalled:

"Every one alive, but many cases of grave collapse."

Stanhope was again the signaler—evidently he had arranged matters with the admiral at Portsmouth—so Brand expected the prompt reply:

"How are Constance and Enid?"

"Quite well and cheerful."

The tall man near Stanhope bent closer.

"Are Mrs. Vansittart and Pyne all right?"

Brand assumed that the lady was in no worse condition than others. Constance, telling him the state of the sick during a hasty visit, had not mentioned her name.

So he sent the needed assurance and went on forlornly:

"Suppose no effort can be made to signal for help coming from the rock?"

To his great surprise the answer came:

"We are constructing a raft. When the tide falls this afternoon we will try what can be done."

Ah, how glad was he that he had not obeyed his earlier impulse and hurried the anxious rescuers by a prophecy of lingering death for many, with the prelude, perchance, of murderous excesses committed by men on the verge of madness. If that story had been told he would not sleep, but it was a grateful thing that the hour of the telling might at least be deferred.

A long message followed, a string of loving words from relatives ashore to those known to be imprisoned on the rock. During the merely perfunctory reading off of the signals his active mind was canvassing the probabilities of success or failure for the venture of the afternoon. It was high water about 3 o'clock, and, in his judgment, with the wind in its present quarter, about northwest by west, the cross seas which would sweep the reef and engulf the lighthouse at half tide would render it wildly impossible for any raft ever built by man's hands to live in the immediate vicinity of the rock.

However, the issue lay with others now. He knew that they would do all that brave men would dare. He was tempted to make known the inspiring news to all hands, but refrained, because he feared ultimate failure. Beneath his feet was a human volcano. Stirred too deeply, it might become active and dangerous.

So the apathetic multitude in his charge, huddled awaiting a sound which it failed to gratify, must rest content with the long statement written out by the pursuer and read by him at the door of each room.

Pyne took to Mrs. Vansittart the news of his uncle's presence on the steamer.

"If you would like to see him," he said, "I have no doubt Mr. Brand will let you stand on the gallery for a little while."

She declined, excusing herself on the ground of weakness.

"In thickish wind," she said, "it will be very cold out there, and any further exposure would make me very ill."

"That's true enough," he agreed, though he wondered why she raised no question concerning the message she wished him to convey to Mr. Traill.

Had she forgotten the urgency of her words overnight? He had carried her instructions quite faithfully to Brand and the latter smiled at the fantasy.

"Time enough to think of such things when we are assured of the lady's departure," he said, and they left it at that.

Thinking to interest her, Pyne told her of the crowd on the Falcon.

"Mostly reporters, Brand thinks," he said. "What a story they will build up in the New York papers! It will be more fun than a box of monkeys to get hold of this week's news and read all the dappoodle they are printing."

But Mrs. Vansittart was not to be roused from her melancholy. She dreaded the least physical suffering. Privation was a new thing in her life.

Today she was inert, timid, a woman who covered away from the door and was obviously anxious that he should leave her to the quiet misery of the packed bedroom.

As the day passed, a wearisome iteration of all that had gone before, a new feature in the relations of the crowded community made itself disagreeably apparent. Men drew apart from each other singly or in small groups. An inconceivable gloom settled on the women. By some means the knowledge spread that they might all starve to death in the heart of this cold dungeon. They began to loathe it, to upbraid its steadfastness with spoken curses or unrestrained tears. The sanctuary of one day was becoming the tomb of the next. No longer was there competition to look at land or sea from the open windows. Everywhere was settling down a pall of blank, horrible silence and suspicion.

Even Constance yielded to the common terror once when the men of the watch escorted the bearer of a tray load of provisions to the occupants of the coal cellar.

IF THE STOMACH IS WEAK

the whole system is upset and everything you eat distresses you. The bowels also become constipated and the liver and kidneys inactive. If this condition is not corrected, it will lead to a host of other troubles.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

It has cured thousands during the past 53 years of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Poor Appetite, Constipation, Chills, Colds, and Female Ills.

THE LIGHT IN THEIR EYES? What is it? Does hunger do that way?

"It must be so, yet it is almost unbelievable. They are far removed from real starvation."

"One would think so. But it is so hard to realize things beforehand. And they have nothing to do. They are brooding all the time. We are slaves to our imagination. Many a sick person is allowed to eat far less than these men have been given, and the deprivation is not felt at all."

"What will become of us, Constance, if we are detained here for many days?"

"Dear one, do not ask me. We must not think of such things."

"But that is thinking of them. I watched his face when I took him a scrap of food just now, and—"

"Hush, dear. Let us go down the stairs. There is a cluster of hope."

The men of the watch were hustling to unbar the iron door. A solidly built, circular raft had been lowered from the Trinity tender.

An assistant keeper, wearing a cork jacket, with a rope about his waist, was clinging to a stumpy mast in the center. Two stout guide ropes were manipulated from the deck of the vessel, and the flat, unwieldy mass of timber was slowly drifting nearer to the lighthouse with the tide.

The door of the column opened toward the sea, and the raft, with its jelling sheets of spray, was almost in the opposite quarter, and the stout granite shaft itself afforded some degree of protection for the entrance.

The scheme signalled from the steamer was a good one. None but the stoutest and most expert could have pulled the raft itself, but there was a chance that the raft might be made to drift near enough to the door to permit a grapple to be thrown across the rope held by the gallant volunteer on the raft.

It was his duty to attach the two ropes and thus render it possible for a stronger line to be drawn from the vessel to the pillar. There was no other way. The lighthouse did not possess a rope of sufficient length to be drawn back by the raft without the intervention of some human agency.

This was precisely the point, half despairing, half daring, that the raft, half to play with, Catlike, it permitted the queer, flat-bottomed craft to approach almost within hail. Then it shot forth a claw of furious spray, the heavy raft was picked up as if it were a floating feather, turned clean over and swung many fathoms out to sea, while both of success or failure for the venture of the afternoon. It was high water about 3 o'clock, and, in his judgment, with the wind in its present quarter, about northwest by west, the cross seas which would sweep the reef and engulf the lighthouse at half tide would render it wildly impossible for any raft ever built by man's hands to live in the immediate vicinity of the rock.

"Mostly reporters, Brand thinks," he said. "What a story they will build up in the New York papers! It will be more fun than a box of monkeys to get hold of this week's news and read all the dappoodle they are printing."

But Mrs. Vansittart was not to be roused from her melancholy. She dreaded the least physical suffering. Privation was a new thing in her life.

Today she was inert, timid, a woman who covered away from the door and was obviously anxious that he should leave her to the quiet misery of the packed bedroom.

As the day passed, a wearisome iteration of all that had gone before, a new feature in the relations of the crowded community made itself disagreeably apparent. Men drew apart from each other singly or in small groups. An inconceivable gloom settled on the women. By some means the knowledge spread that they might all starve to death in the heart of this cold dungeon. They began to loathe it, to upbraid its steadfastness with spoken curses or unrestrained tears. The sanctuary of one day was becoming the tomb of the next. No longer was there competition to look at land or sea from the open windows. Everywhere was settling down a pall of blank, horrible silence and suspicion.

Even Constance yielded to the common terror once when the men of the watch escorted the bearer of a tray load of provisions to the occupants of the coal cellar.

IF THE STOMACH IS WEAK

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

It has cured thousands during the past 53 years of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Poor Appetite, Constipation, Chills, Colds, and Female Ills.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specially prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine is dark, or is strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

TITUS & HILLS, ROCKLAND.

Brand's eyes glistened.

"The fools," he said, "and just as the weather is mending too."

"You don't mean that?"

"Listen."

He glanced up at the glass dome. Heavy drops were pattering on it. They looked like spray, but Pyne shouted gleefully:

"It rains?"

"Yes. I was just going to summon the watch to help in filling every vessel. By spreading canvas sheets we can gather a large supply if it rains hard. Moreover, it will beat the sea down. Man alive, this may mean salvation. The seas are weak and sum up every sober man to help."

With a whoop, Pyne vanished. He met Constance on the stairs, coming to see her father before she stretched her weary limbs on the hard floor of the kitchen.

She never knew exactly what took place. It might have been politeness, and Pyne's face was extraordinarily close to hers as he cried:

"It's raining. No more canvas whips. Get a hustle on with every empty vessel!"

It was not to have been in such a whirl, however.

When the shower came it did not last very long, and there were many difficulties in the way of garnering the thrice blessed water. In the first place, the lighthouse was expressly designed to shoot off all such external supplies; in the second, the total quantity obtained did not amount to more than half a gallon.

A SPECIFIC FOR ANEMIA

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Make New Blood.

Used for a Generation They Are Recognized as a Safe and Efficient Family Remedy.

When the body becomes run down, either as a result of overwork, worry or a severe illness, an examination of the blood would show it to be weak and watery. This condition is called anemia, which is the medical term for "bloodless." The common symptoms are paleness of the lips, gums and cheeks, shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart after the slightest exertion, dull eyes and loss of appetite. Anemia itself is a dangerous disease and it may gradually pass into consumption. It must be cured by treating the blood. The vital fluid must be made strong and healthy thereby enabling it to carry the necessary nourishment to every tissue of the body.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the greatest builder of red, new blood and they have been curing anemia and other blood diseases for nearly a generation, during which time they have come to be recognized as an invaluable household remedy.

Mr. Louis L. Clark, a painter, of 19 Lincoln Place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Last May I was obliged to undergo an operation for appendicitis and while the operation itself was successful, I did not recover my strength and health. I was confined to my bed for over a month and was under the doctor's care. When I was able to get up my legs were so weak and unsteady that I could not walk with a step and with difficulty. My stomach was very weak and my appetite poor and I was not getting proper nourishment. My heart was very irregular."

"I was getting no better, and could not think of going back to work. I was discouraged, when a neighbor told me that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had cured her and advised me to try them. I began taking them about the middle of June and soon felt so much better that I kept on until now I am entirely cured."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a never-failing blood builder. They have cured diseases due to impure or watery blood that have baffled the best medical skill. They are able to do this, because they contain the elements with which the new and pure blood, Rheumatism, chlorosis, after-effects of the grip and fevers, are some of the blood diseases cured by these pills and, as the health of the nervous system and the purity of the blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are useful in such nerve diseases as neuralgia, nervous debility, sleeplessness, dizziness and even locomotor ataxia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists and will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

A TRIPLE ANNIVERSARY.

The Friends of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Miller, West Rockport, Observe Events.

On Monday evening, Oct. 29 there was a pleasant gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Miller, of West Rockport. The occasion was in the nature of a triple observance, Saturday being the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Sunday being the anniversary of the birth of Mr. Miller, and Monday was the fifteenth anniversary of Mr. Miller's residence in West Rockport. The whole affair was a surprise party on Mrs. Miller. While Mr. and Mrs. Miller were in Rockland Monday afternoon the lady members of the New Century Literary Club took possession of her house, carrying with them the making of a fine substantial dinner, which they had in readiness, when the couple arrived home at dark. Mr. and Mrs. Miller were both cold and hungry and the surprise was doubly pleasant. The husband's soon came in and after a hearty supper an informal program was given, a sort of "Round Table" where each member of the club gave some fact in history or personal recollection happening within the last 50 years. Mr. Miller, as president of the club, led off with his recollection of the village as it was when he came here fifty years ago. Nearly all gave something of interest, after which music, stories, and a social time was indulged in until a late hour. Mr. Miller came to West Rockport at the age of 20 years and went to work for Christopher Young, as clerk in his store. At the death of Mr. Young, another clerk, Mr. Miller and he took over the business, and a few years later Mr. Miller bought Mr. Young's interest, and he has been on alone for a number of years so successfully that it increased from a few thousands at first to a trade of $40,000 yearly.

Mr. Miller's health becoming impaired he retired from trade. Soon after, his active spirit calling for something to engage his attention, he went into the service of Chas. Scribner's Publishing House of New York, and he is very active for one of his years, being now 71 years of age.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, Oct. 27.—Coming fast on the heels of the cabinet changes as announced from the White House, is the surprising rumor that Secretary Root may drop his portfolio at an early date. The Secretary of State is said to be distinctly displeased with the administration's action in regard to Cuba, and that ever since the Cuban troubles began he and the President have not been in accord. Mr. Root is reported to have been openly angry when on reaching Panama from his South American trip he learned that the United States had intervened in the affairs of the island. His good humor received another jar when an armed force was sent to restore order. Mr. Root's reason for such strenuous objection is said to be that the activity of the United States has negated the good effects of his visit to the South American republics. He preached of peace and bent all his efforts to dissipate the suspicion that this country is pledged to any "big stick" policy with regard to its weaker neighbors. To this charge, his country at the very time he was spreading this doctrine was preparing for the invasion of another and smaller nation, so deeply does the Secretary feel the incongruity of his position, that it would not surprise those in the inside if he were to withdraw at an early date.

President Roosevelt as the avowed foe of race suicide has a rival. It came out this week that the stocks shipped from Germany and landed a few days ago in New York by the liner Amerika are not for the occupant of the White House, but for the mayor of Alton, Ill. It appears that the mayor owes his election to office to the fact that he erected apartment houses especially for families with small children, who were excluded rigorously from other flat dwellings. Some Teuton, evidently a householder with a big brood of his own, shipped the pair of storks to the mayor, but imaginative reporters declared the destination of the birds to be the White House. The crate in which the long-legged captives are sojourning temporarily bore no card save the address and a tag which some joker had nailed securely to the top. This card read:

LADIES! BEWARE!
These ferocious birds are said to be highly dangerous!!!
President Roosevelt will have to look to his laurels. The fame of his rival seems to be spreading as far afield as his own.

The national capital is evincing surprise at the wonderful growth of sentiment throughout the country in favor of a more liberal policy with regard to the development of the nation's rivers and harbors. The Ohio River Improvement Association and the International Waterways Commission have just adjourned their conventions in Portsmouth, O., and Chicago, respectively, while a large number of state, interstate and national meetings to consider the same questions are set for early dates. The Tennessee River Improvement Association is to convene in Sheffield, Ala. November 8; the Deep Waterway Convention meets in St. Louis November 15 and 16, and the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress, which will devote the greater part of its session to a discussion of waterway improvements, gather in Kansas City November 18. Secretaries Root and Shaw are to speak at this meeting, and the movement is expected to receive the endorsement of the administration. There are several other meetings throughout the country to be held before the convention in this city of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, which is set for December. It is the hope of the advocates of more extensive rivers and harbors work to induce Congress to appropriate $50,000,000 annually for the development of the nation's natural resources. At present the sum devoted to the work is pitifully small, and effective work cannot be done. Congressman Joseph E. Randall, in calling attention to this matter, discloses the fact that in the last general appropriations all the army, navy, interior department and pensions took 40 per cent of the $122,000,000, while public improvements received less than 3 per cent. The upbuilding of the nation, it is contended, would more than pay for the work done by the development of domestic and foreign commerce, to say nothing of the immense savings saved to the people through reduced freight rates made possible by water transportation.

According to Secretary Metcalf of the Department of Commerce and Labor, immigration for the year probably will reach the enormous total of 1,400,000 persons. The Secretary made the statement this week after a conference with President Roosevelt, the subject of which he declined to reveal. It probably had to do with Mr. Metcalf's investigation of methods at Ellis Island Immigration Station, through which some 75 per cent of incoming hordes of aliens.

There is a crying need for more officers and men in the United States Marine Corps. Brig. Gen. G. F. Elliott, commandant of the Corps, calls attention in his annual report to the necessity for an increase in the force, saying that unless prompt action is taken by Congress to provide for a strengthening of this important branch he soon will be unable to carry out the directions of the Secretary of the Navy. The Corps, while small, has reached a high grade of efficiency, and the men are scattered over the face of the world, detachments being stationed permanently in the Philippines, at the American legation in Peking, and on the Isthmus of Panama. Although always the first in the field in times of trouble abroad, the men of the marine corps have been cut out from many of the little attentions accorded to the soldiers of the regular army. General Elliott recommends that the system of granting campaign medals for foreign service, a practice in vogue in the army, be extended to the corps. He is of the opinion that this will make the service more attractive and render easier the task of strengthening the force.

Some figures recently compiled serve to throw an interesting light on the relative advantages of municipal and privately owned electric lighting systems. The comparison was made between the leading British cities of Manchester, Leeds, Birmingham, Glasgow and Edinburgh, which operate their electric lighting plants, and New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston. It was found that in the British cities under municipal control only one in every two residents is a customer of the electric lighting plant, while in the American cities one and a third lights to each inhabitant, or about three times as many as in Great Britain. The figures seem to bear out the contention of those opposing municipalization, that the use of any commodity is extended more rapidly under private than under public ownership.

It's sad news for the man whose wife already is beginning to hint that she really must have a new sea-sick case this year, for the catch on the Pribyl Islands for the year ending July 31, is decidedly small. According to the Department of Commerce and Labor the total catch on St. Paul Island was 12, 536, and on St. George 1,940. The strict enforcement of the regulations governing the taking of seals is accounted for the decreased catch and as a result Madame's winter coat will cost a pretty penny.

When President and Mrs. Roosevelt left the big battleship Louisiana for their run to Panama and Porto Rico, they will find a magnificent suite of rooms fitted out for them. The battleship has been ordered by the Navy Department to the New York yard, where the rooms will be painted and decorated artistically for their distinguished occupants. President Roosevelt is a customer of the navy, the slightest possible expense in making over the ship for him, but while his wishes will be complied with in the main, the Navy Department will see to it that the Louisiana's quarters are made habitable, at least.

Secretary Wilson is not worrying over the rumored formation of a $500,000 beef trust, in which, according to the report, the packing plants of Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Nelson Morris & Co., National Packing Company and Cudahy Packing Company are to be included. The Secretary smiled grimly when he was asked what the national government would do in case such a gigantic corporation was formed. "Well, we have our Department of Justice," he said. "Then we have grand juries and our own attorneys general to talk to the trust. There are plenty of juries. And, the Secretary added softly, almost musically, "we also have penitentiaries."

POLITICAL SHORT NOTES.

Senator Clark of Montana retires to private life when his term expires next March.

A Hearst crowd tore down banners bearing pictures of Hughes, the Republican candidate, and incidentally made it very uncomfortable for the police in Madison Square Garden last Thursday.

A lawyers' controversy as to whether the duties of his office under the constitution will devolve upon Vice-President Fairbanks is growing out of an announcement that President Roosevelt is going outside the United States, when he visits Panama next month. The same controversy arose during the long illness of President Garfield. In the present instance the lawyers argue over the ability of the President to discharge his official duties when more than 1000 miles away, where the maintenance of communication is uncertain.

Massachusetts is one of the states where candidates are obliged to file a statement of their campaign expenses. Eugene N. Foss spent $3800 in an attempt to secure the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, according to the statements filed by him at the office of the secretary of state. For a re-nomination by the Republicans, Lieutenant Governor Eben S. Draper spent $6000. John B. Moran's expenses amounted to $1250, while Governor Gullitt's nomination this year, entailed no expense to the candidate. Congressman Butler Ames's expenses were heavy, totalling $6055.68.

Postmaster General George B. Cortelyou will retire from the chairmanship of the Republican National committee before he becomes secretary of the Treasury in succession to Secretary Shaw. It has been generally understood that Secretary Shaw would retire from the treasury department on the 4th of next March, but an intimation given that he might sever his connection with the department between the first of January and the fourth of March. Harry S. New, the vice chairman of the Republican National committee, it is assumed will assume the duties of the chairman when Mr. Cortelyou retires.

RAILROAD JACK.
Manager E. V. Phelan will present to the theatre-goers of this city on Friday evening, Nov. 16, at Farwell opera house, the greatest of all tramp shows "Railroad Jack." This is said to be one of the best attractions of the kind ever seen here and has a laugh from start to finish.

COLONIAL STOCK CO.
The Colonial Stock Co. will be the attraction at the Farwell opera house all next week and will present an entirely new line of plays and specialties at popular prices. The company this season is considered to be one of the best popular priced attractions on the road and includes such well known players as Toled and several others new to popular priced theatre-goers. FENBERG STOCK CO.
The Fenberg Stock Co. which will begin a four nights' engagement at the Farwell opera house on Nov. 19, is without doubt the best popular priced attraction that visits our city and this season Manager Fenberg has left out nothing to make this the best ever.

Charles Klein in his new play, "The Daughters of Men," which will be seen at the Astor Theatre in New York, on Nov. 19th, has introduced a variety of types that heretofore have not been used for stage purposes in a similar contrast. Opposed to the federated interests are a labor leader, a German socialist, and an anarchistic editor. Between them stands the figure of a reformer, an apostle of the brotherhood of man, who is loved by a daughter of the people, and a daughter of the plutocrat.

Klaw and Erlanger's big biblical play, "The Prince of India," taken from the story by the late General Lew Wallace, is packing the Broadway Theatre nightly in New York. It is the biggest spectacle Manhattan Island dwellers have ever seen.

Edmund Breese and Arthur Byron who are playing the role of Ready Money Ryder in companies A and B, of "The Lion and the Mouse" threaten to break the cigar record held by William Gillette. Three cigars are consumed by them at each performance. Up to the present time Mr. Breese has smoked 1,269 and Mr. Byron 923.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Cecilia Loftus will head the bill at Keith's next week. Miss Loftus is to play the character part of "Liz" in a new dramatic playlet entitled "His Child." She will be supported by a competent company that includes Murray Carson, Miss Florence Nash and Miss Nellie Butler. "The Crickets" of the popular miniature ballet of Gelsa Land that Joseph Hart is the sponsor for. It is one of the prettiest acts vaudeville has yet seen. Norma Seymour and W. N. Cripps play the piano and the dancing act of the day and a tumbling act that has no superior will be given by the four Fords, two girls and two boys of the same family; and Hassan Ben Ali's troupe of Tootoonin Arabs, marvelous acrobats. The Quigley Brothers in one of their droll Irish comedy skits; Welch, Mealey and Montrose's clever blending of acrobatic feats and monkey shins; Sam Elton, known in England as "The Man Who Made the Shah of Persia Laugh," a great eccentric comedian; Harry Brown, the popular colored comedian who writes his own songs; the Columbia Comedy Four, mixtures of melody and merriment; Lella Taylor, a winsome balladist, who always sings the newest songs; Earle and Barnard, in a bright comedy; Will Mead and his educated dog "Sparkle"; the Prampin Trio, instrumentalists; the Strauss Noble in songs and dances, and timely pictures by the Kinetograph will complete the program.

Conductor A. W. Hodgkins of the Knox & Lincoln division of the Maine Central returned home Friday evening after ten days' hunting at the Night-hawk Club, Moosehead Lake. He accompanied a party including M. F. Healey, another Maine Central conductor, of Portland; T. A. and Robert Linn of Hartland; Charles and Alonzo Cross, Edward Page and Harry Tenney of Boston; John Houston and M. Husey of Guilford; and George W. Norton of the Portland Express. Conductor Hodgkins looks like the outfitting agreed with him, and when he talks upon the subject you are not left for a moment in doubt that the Night Hawks had a grand good time. While Sugar Island, Moosehead Lake, was headquarters, the Night Hawks made sundry side trips to Northeast Carry, Northwest Carry, Roach River and Squaw Mountain. Last Sunday they were joined on one of these excursions by the members of the Porcupine Club, one of whom was Mayor Spear of Bath. ## THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME

Are Never Without Pe-ru-na in the Home for Catarrhal Diseases.

Mr. S. D. Foss, Minneapolis, Minn., writes: "I wish to congratulate you on your medicine, Pe-ru-na. I have been a sufferer with catarrh of the stomach for over two years, but since I have commenced to take your remedy I have been steadily improving until now I can safely say I feel no more of my old trouble, and as a matter of course, I will always have a good word for Pe-ru-na."

"I recommend it to all my friends," Mrs. Magdalena Winkler, Route 4, Westminster, Md., writes: "I thank you very much for your advice. I can safely say that Pe-ru-na and Manlin have saved my life."

"When I wrote to you the first time, asking your advice, my condition was so poor that I did not expect to live through the winter, but now I am perfectly healthy. I cannot praise your medicine enough and I recommend it to others."

T. T. Markland, a well-known business man of Cincinnati, O., writes from $100 Woodburn Ave., as follows: "I find that in my case Pe-ru-na is a flesh builder. I am now at work every day, and have gained ten pounds. I took your Pe-ru-na according to directions, and the result was more than I expected. 'I can now breathe with ease, and also my cough is stopped. I had it for six months before I took down with the grip.' 'I took no other medicine but Pe-ru-na and it accomplished all. You told me in your first letter that Pe-ru-na would cure me and it has. 'I am seventy-three years old and can attend to my work and business as usual.' Mrs. Theone Mikkelsen, Brigham City, Utah, writes: 'I wish to thank you for all the good Pe-ru-na has done me. I am entirely free from the cough which used to bother me so much every winter. 'My kidneys are also in good condition, and I feel stronger and better all over. For all these I give the credit to your excellent medicine, Pe-ru-na. I am pleased to recommend it to everybody.'"

HERALD RANGES AND PARLOR STOVES

Do you know a HERALD RANGE or STOVE will save its cost in four years? We know this to be a fact. The Herald Range is constructed so scientifically that their wonderful feats of baking is done on a very small amount of fuel.

HERE IS AN OAK STOVE THAT IS GUARANTEED.

There are many improvements in this year's Herald Oak and we are confident we have the best "Oak" stove on the market.

- 1st—This stove is a great heater and a continuous fire can be kept from Fall to Spring.
- 2nd—It is absolutely dustless, a dust draft at the back of the stove taking all dust up the chimney.
- 3rd—It has a clinker door, a ball bearing grate and perfectly tight drafts.
- 4th—IT IS A GAS-BURNER.

THIS IS THE LATEST AND MOST IMPROVED HERALD. Perfectly plain, no raised ornament, easy to keep clean.

The nickel rails can be removed instantly—there are no buttons or springs to burn one's fingers. This is an additional help to the housewife in keeping the stove bright and clean.

The fire-box is of large capacity, the linings heavy, and all parts made to stand hard wear.

We have called attention to but two of the many styles of Stoves and Ranges we have. Let us show you this great line of Stoves.
