FLY ROD'S NOTE BOOK.

When at Upper Dam one day recently I saw Asa Ellingwood coming across the dam with a roll of telephone wire in one hand and a large gray hawk in the other. When he reached the piazza I noticed the guides and sportsmen were all very much interested in what he was telling them, and one of the boys said, "Don't you want to see a man killer, Fly Rod, come over here," and this is the story Asa had to tell. He had been down on the telephone line on the way to Bemis working, when suddenly he saw this big hawk make a circle in the air and come direct for his head. Of course he tried to hit the hawk with the hatchet he had in his hand, but could not, and the bird flew up in a nearby tree, looking as wild and mad as a bird could, and the second time made a circle and came for him. Asa found something must be done and he began to look for a club to kill the bird, who again came for his head, but met his death with the stick Asa had ready for him. "I have been in the woods a great deal, but never before did any kind of a wild creature tackle me," said the guide, as he gave me the bird to take up to Walter D. Hinds to mount. The claws of the hawk, to say nothing of the sharp bill would hurt one in a very short time if used by a mad bird. Asa discovered a nest high up in a tree and thinks the bird was fearful he intended to rob it, and that was why she attacked him.

Dr. H. H. Hazzen of Washington, D. C., who has been entertaining Dr. Henry P. Parker and other friends from the same city at his camp on Cupsuptic lake had great luck fishing. Dr. Hazzen caught a 4-lb salmon and a 4-lb trout, Dr. Parker a 5-lb salmon. One night they thought the guides were changing the boats on the wharf, but did not think anything of it, and in the morning they found a big bear had been calling on them, walking all about the camp and going down to the lake for a drink.

RIFLE CONTEST STARTS IN THIS ISSUE.

You will notice in this issue of Maine Woods that we have another contest on. This time it is a rifle to be given away to the contestant receiving the largest number of votes. We have started it in the season when the guides can solicit from their customers, either old subscribers to the Maine Woods or ask for their new subscription. We are also going to close the contest in season for the winner to select his rifle and have it ready for use when the hunting time arrives. Now, guides, get busy!

Miss H. Metcalf and Miss Cornelia Metcalf of Providence, R. I. are passing several days here.

Mrs. Chas. F. Wood of Buffalo, N. Y., who is here with her daughter, Miss Wood and sons, Alton F., and Kenneth, was this week joined by Luther, the third brother, and this delightful party is always adding to the happiness of everyone.

E. S. Crocker, Jr., of Fitchburg, Mass., is the guest of his uncle, Mr. Edward Crocker, who with Mrs. Crocker, is here for the season.

Mrs. J. R. Seltzer and Mrs. I. H. Ellis of Philadelphia have joined Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Adams for the season.

Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Buffum of Somerville, Mass. are among this week's comers.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. G. Koss, and Miss Isabel G. Koss of New York will pass the season here.

To realize the amount of travel that has already come this way, one has only to study this hotel register, for within the past week guests have been entertained here from Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Illinois, Ohio, Texas, Wisconsin and Washington, D. C., and without doubt hundreds more tourists will visit the Rangeleys this season than ever before.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Marble, with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kendall, their daughter, took an auto trip to Dixfield, where they dined, then spent the night at Belgrade House, having a most enjoyable trip.

Mr. F. W. Pearson and son, H. W. Pearson of Lowell, Mass., after a short stay here, are now in camp at Kennebago.

July 12, 1911.

This hotel presents an animated scene during the past week, and with many new arrivals pleasant occasions are looked forward to by those already here.

It is most pleasantly remembered that last year for the benefit of the Public Library and the Baptist church in the village, Mr. Stewart Baird of New Theatre Co., and Miss Marie Chatillon, a most charming New York lady, gave a very fine entertainment in the casino. This year, as last, they have been prevailed upon to organize another entertainment to be given at the Rangeley Lake House casino on the evenings of Thursday, July 27 and Friday, July 28. Thursday evening will be the first performance given for the guests at Rangeley Lakes, and will be repeated for the townspeople Friday. There will be twenty young people participating in the performance for which they will be coached by Mr. Baird. Mrs. James L. Ogden, Mrs. Chas. Pope and Mrs. Frank McGay will have charge of the tickets for Thursday night. Mrs. McCard, Mrs. Kempton at the Library, Riddle's Drug Store and Row's will have tickets for Friday. Mrs. J. C. Baird and Mrs. E. Osterholt of New York will take charge of the costumes. Mrs. E. S. Crocker of Fitchburg and Mrs. T. H. Bauchle of

New York, of the decorators.

Outlook cottage is this year taken for the season by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Castle, Miss Annette T. Castle and Miss Mandevan of Philadelphia, who last year were traveling in Europe.

Captain John Barmister, U. S. A., will again this summer be one of "the big Rangeley Lake House family."

Mr. C. E. Knowles of Pittsburg, Penn. as usual, spent most of his time on the links.

Mrs. H. M. Burrows recently gave an afternoon tea at Rangemere cottage.

Mrs. E. S. Crocker of Fitchburg, Mass. adds much to the pleasure of the ladies by taking them for an automobile ride.

FULFILLED HIS PROMISE.

(Special to Maine Woods).

Carrabasset, Maine, July 1, 1911.

"Mood" Mitchell, the station agent at Carrabasset, is a fisherman now and then, and while not addicted to telling tales he does make promises—that the promisee forgets before they are fulfilled. He goes on the principle that "even though the time is long delayed, each moral debt must sometime be paid."

This is illustrated by the circumstance that happened recently. That is, the debt paying was of recent occurrence. The obligation is ancient history. Last summer he was at Strong, and volunteered to catch and send some trout to Mr. F. L. Dyer, the station agent at that place. Mr. Dyer was so well pleased that he went over to Daggett and Will's store and got a dozen good cigars and gave to Mitchell, as an acknowledgement of the anticipated favor.

Mr. Dyer watched each down train every day for a month or more and then occasionally gave a look on odd days; but no fish came, and and for awhile he mourned the cigars, and then forgot the incident. But Mr. Mitchell did not forget the cigars nor the trout, and last week, something like twelve months after the promise he sent Mr. Dyer a fine mess of trout, without a hint of an apology for the delay.

OLD GUESTS RETURN AND OLD SCENES ARE RENEWED.

(Special to Maine Woods).

Mountain View, Me., July 10, 1911.

It now looks like old times to see the long hotel verandas covered with guests seated in groups, some playing bridge, others doing fancy work, reading, and the gentlemen amid the clouds of cigar smoke, whose clouds all other clouds dispel. It has been like a reunion, the hand shaking of old friends, as they greet each other again. It is interesting to hear them exchange greetings, for it seems as if there has been no part of the globe, but some one of them have visited since last season.

Miss Dorothy M. Burns of Everett, Mass. is for a month the guest of friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Benj. S. Hinkley of Boston, were here for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Lourie, two daughters and son, also his brother, M. S. Lourie of Boston, who are touring Maine in their big Pope-Hartford car are here for a two weeks' sojourn.

Rev. Fr. Francis J. Mullin of Lowell, Mass. is for another vacation most happily located here. His usual luck fishing he brought with him. Robert Hayford is his guide, and not only has he caught a 5½-lb salmon, one 3¼-lbs, but a number of two pounders. Fr. Mullin, who has been here a number of seasons was greeted by friends, and on Sunday morning he celebrated mass at the church at Oquossoc, which was prettily decorated with flowers, and many were in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Northley, of Salem, Mass., who are at the bungalow on Rangeley Lake were guests here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Waite, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Reynolds, and W. F. Rowe of Lewiston coming in their new Winton Six, touring car spent part of the week here, and at the same time with their new car of the same make Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Knight, E. W. Penley of Auburn, Mrs. Florence Coffin of Malden, Mass., and F. L. Sylvester of Auburn spent part of the week at this hotel.

Dr. J. Hamilton Small of Philadelphia, who with his family were here five years ago accompanied by Mrs. Small and their daughter, Miss Mary F. Small have returned for another summer.

Mr. C. W. Brant of Boston is here for July.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Knox, two daughters, Miss Betty and Miss Marion, of Hartford, Conn., who came in their Pope-Hartford touring car have taken rooms here for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Arsanuault of Canton, were here for part of the week.

To remain until October, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hawkins, their son, Roy O. Hawkins, and daughter, Mrs. E. B. H. Campbell of Providence, R. I. arrived Tuesday. This is their first visit to the Rangeleys and they are greatly pleased with Mountain View.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Leech of Philadelphia are also among the new comers for July.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Hattes, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Cooper of New York are a pleasant party, who have taken rooms until August.

BALL, TENNIS, GOLF.

(Special to Maine Woods).

July 5, 1911.

At a recent meeting of the Lake House ball team, "Chick Pratt" was elected captain and Carl Hennings manager. All teams in Franklin county wishing games should address challenges to the manager, and the team is ready for them.

On Saturday, the strong Phillips team was defeated by the stronger Lake House team, 8 to 5. The fielding of both teams was extremely ragged and thus both pitchers were greatly handicapped. Even at that, Dnighy for the victors, and Trecartin for Phillips pitched grand ball, the former fanning 13 while the latter forced 10 Lake House leaguers to bite the dust. The all round playing of Bishop and the base running of Pratt were the features, although Hammond was right there with the wallop.

Tennis is on the boom at the Lake House and a tournament will shortly take place. Last week in an exciting match, Miss Helen Smith of Philadelphia and Mr. Stewart Baird of Boston defeated Miss Marguerite Schaefer of New York, and Mr. Kenneth Wood of Buffalo, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

Miss Smith is a girl whose classy work on the court is a feature. Miss Schaefer is a well known athletic girl and famous for her achievements last year.

Mr. Baird was, and is champion of North Wornell and is out to conquer.

Two of our Rangeley guides are off for a month's trip up the Allegash river. Bert Herrick and Lorin Haley this week meet a party at Moosehead and start on the trip. They both are as well acquainted with that part of Maine as here at home.

Last week John Philbrook and Bert Herrick took two New Yorkers up to Mount Saddleback for a camping trip, and as they were crossing the pond they met a big cow moose, who was out for a swim across the lake. We are glad to hear every now and then of a moose being seen in the Rangeley region.

Prof. G. L. Bowden of Boston, the well known golf instructor who last season did such good work, was welcomed by not only the golf players but many friends he made during his last year's sojourn.

The golf season for Oquossoc Golf Club promises to be the best in its history as there are more enthusiasts.

The management has arranged a series of tournaments for both ladies and gentlemen.

During the week there will be special putting tournaments for the ladies.

Weekly cups will be played for.

The links now present a lively scene each pleasant morning. Among those who handle the clubs are Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Adams of Philadelphia, Mr. C. E. and Thomas M. Synnott of Woodbury, N. J., Mrs. C. H. Wood, Baltimore, Miss Anna G. Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. E. Osterholt, Charles G. Ross, Miss Isabel G. Ross, New York, Mr. Wm. H. Castle, and Miss Castle of Philadelphia.

The coming days are expected to be crowded with out-door sports.

A tennis tournament is on at the Lake House and all is excitement at writing. L. Wood or Marble look a winner, although Goodspeed is no slouch with the racquet.

On Thursday the Mooselookmeguntic tennis team will line up against the strong Lake House team.

Manager Hennings of the Lake House base ball team has still a few open dates and all teams in Franklin County wishing games should write immediately.

WHITE PERCH ABUNDANT IN ANASAGUNTICOOK LAKE.

(Special to Maine Woods).

Canton, Maine, July 10, 1911.

Anasagunticook fishing has been very good the past week. The lake seems to abound with white perch since July first. The cottagers are assured of a good meal of pan fish at any time.

Mrs. C. M. Leighton has the largest salmon for the season, caught July 8, weight 6¼-lbs, also one square tailed trout, 2¼-lb. B. W. Jackson, guide. Mrs. A. L. Hobbs one trout, 3¼-lbs, one small salmon and several white perch.

TERRIFIC HEAT IN PHILLIPS.

The terrible heat of last week has been continued this week. Monday was the worst of all and it was almost unbearable, even through the night.

The mercury at the station of the Sandy River and Rangeley Lakes railroad registered 104 in the shade. F. N. Beal stated that it went as high as it could get and then burst.

There has only been one shower with very little rain, for the ten days or more of continuous heat, and the wind accompanying that did much damage in various ways. Several who had fine strawberry beds were unable to harvest any of the strawberries as they had been completely covered with dirt. Many who had hay already to go in, lost large quantities by it being blown away.

The Lewiston Journal said: "Never was there a worse night in the history of Lewiston and Auburn than Monday." Death after death has been reported from the various cities on account of heat prostrations.

Miss Gladys Hewey is working for Mrs. E. L. Hewey, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Toothaker and Master Maurice, are at Bion Wing's for a few weeks. Fred is helping Mr. Wing get his hay.

It may be of interest to some of the out of town friends who so liberally contributed toward the new iron fence for the Field Cemetery, to know that L. B. Field has given the fence a nice coat of varnish, this spring, which makes it look much better.

PHILLIPS AND VICINITY.

July 12, 1911.

Miss Christie Aldrich went to Redington Monday morning where she will be employed as waitress at Hough's Camps.

TAKING THREE AT A TIME AT BLAKESLEE.

Eustis, Maine, July 11, 1911.

"It has been hot," some of the "oldest inhabitants" say, "the hottest they ever experienced in Maine. Few fishermen have had the courage to get out and try to catch fish. Some of our strenuous ones have kept consistently at it, and we have had all the trout that could be used, and guests report a big surplus returned to the waters."

We have sportsmen here, who are genuine sports. There is no possibility of any of them "losing their heads," when the fish come 3 at a time, for each fly in a leader, as they did at Rock Pond last week for Ralph Gorham, Ralph Buzzer and Frank Jones of East Hampton. This happens so often at Blakeslee, we have but to say to a new guest, "Get your bearings before you begin to kill your fish. You cannot possibly bring home all you catch, so select those you desire to keep; there will be another fellow along soon, who will want the fish you throw back," and that is all that is necessary. "Good fellows" they are and would find this out without admonishing if left to their individual experience, but it saves time, and gets one started right: with all the switches set, if Joe just moves the lantern with the signal before the train starts.

Mr. Henry M. Ricker, H. W. Rice and W. A. Edwards, Boston men, who have been coming here for years, and count the time spent at Blakeslee, as the happiest of the year, are satisfied and successful fishermen. The party was recently augmented by Messrs. Henry G. Fiske, Irving N. Chase and C. A. Poole and will continue their stay here for another two weeks. All of these men are annuals and declare there is no place like Blakeslee for everything a genuine sportsman wants to find in the woods. They are spending a few days at Rock Pond, and when they return, we shall have something worth telling of their success.

Mr. Reese spent a couple of days at Rock Pond last week. The weather was hot, but high winds prevented him from getting any of our phenomenal fishing, but he caught all he wanted for the table and was satisfied.

Mrs. John Tissen of "The Chimes" has been up here for a few days fishing, as guest of Mrs. White. Mrs. Tissen is a fly casting enthusiast and a successful one. Wishing to give her the pleasure of a little camping out, and some of the fine fishing to be had at Baker Pond, Mrs. White and Mrs. Eastman took her over for a day and night last week. There was great sport for these ladies, excellent fishing. Mrs. Tissen's largest fish weighed 3 lbs. They caught 24 good trout and had a royal outing. Mrs. Tissen is well-known and loved by everybody in this country for her hospitality and kindness at The Chimes. It is hardly possible to pass Mr. Tissen without an urgent and genuine invitation to "come in and eat," and so these genial people are looked upon as one of our possessions.

Speaking of the weather, there is no reasonable excuse for any one to kick when fish won't bite, such weather as this we are having just now, real fishermen know, the conditions necessary to catch fish and when a "spell of weather" like we have just passed through comes along, he will just shut his teeth, summon up his stoicism and remind himself that fisherman's luck is just—well—fisherman's luck, and half the pleasure of "goin' fishin'," anyway is the uncertainty: one quarter anticipation, and the last quarter and remaining part in realization, which is almost wholly made up of the satisfaction of relating and reliving the uncertain conditions and many things that conspired to delay victory in the battle, which eventually came.

I was enjoying a chat with Mr. Reese the first evening of his arrival here, and I gleaned some knowledge and received a thorough saturation of wisdom from the cogitations of this veteran of years of experience with rod and reel in many countries as well as in Maine, which balances the utterances which flew so fluently and interestingly from his mouth with the power of convincing assurance. I was impressed by his assertion, "I would not go down to the Dam, if I knew I could catch a barrel of fish!" The whole glamour and anticipation would be gone; and certainty robs this true sportsman of zest to seek. It could be likened to the flower of beauty, lacking fragrance. "The wine without flavor or bouquet." I know this wise man was right. There are lessons we learn in the woods if we go to them often and stay long enough, and are willing to take and learn the lessons each hour's individual experience is sure to have spread out for accepting. It is all in the day's fight! It comes and it goes! You gain or you lose! It is sure that no thing is in vain, or unnecessary in the whole order of things, and the bad weather and worst luck are but the good in disguise, in its negative condition—so—I accept it as a lesson.

THE BOY SCOUTS.

Much interest is being shown in the forming of a local troop of Boy Scouts of America.

This fine organization is open to all boys between the ages of twelve and eighteen, who pass the required examinations in scout law, history of the American flag, and the tying of standard knots.

Before one can be promoted, he must pass increasingly hard tests in thrift, athletic ability, keenness of vision, quickness of perception, skill in camp and woodcraft, first aid to the injured, signalling and allied subjects.

Though this organization has to do especially with scoutcraft, its founders have so planned it, that any especial line of instruction and endeavor has a fitting place in it. Thus botany, natural history, astronomy, patriotism, United States history and government, military drill, manual training, medical and hygienic instruction, religion and ethics are all within the range of its possible activities; especially is kindness—the doing a good turn to somebody everyday without hope of reward—emphasized as one of the first duties of a good scout.

The head of the society in this country is the well known naturalist and author, Ernest Thompson Seton. Under his able guidance thousands of American boys are enrolling themselves as scouts.

In Phillips there are already fifteen members, and more are to join soon.

Our special correspondent has prepared the following account of the "hike" to Mt. Blue.

A company of Phillips Boy Scouts, accompanied by two or three guests and a baggage train, left the village about five o'clock Saturday morning, July 8, and reached the foot of Mt. Blue early in the forenoon.

They were in the best of spirits and prepared for anything in the shape of mountain climbing. The half-way spring was reached a little after nine, and after a short rest, rations were served.

After a merry time at the spring, the climb was resumed, and the summit was reached at 10 : 40 o'clock. The scouts then made a careful study of the topography of the surrounding country, noting many details very important from a scientific point of view. About 1 P. M., the company began the descent.

Rations were again served at the half-way spring. After a good rest the march was resumed, and the baggage reached in safety. The troop arrived in Phillips in good courage. With well-arranged ranks, they marched to the common where they were dismissed.

The scouts one and all appreciate the hospitality of the people of the Mt. Blue neighborhood.

The discipline during the march was somewhat relaxed, but in spite of this there was no disorderly conduct on the part of the men.

"HOT WAVE" AT RANGELEY.

Party at Mingo Sees a Moose By Moonlight.

(Special to Maine Woods).

Rangeley, Maine, July 10, 1911.

The "hot wave" seems to have found a way to reach even the Rangeley lake, yet there is always a cool corner to be found on the veranda, and the guests are wishing their city friends were with them.

One of the favorite pastimes here is to stand on the wharf with a fly rod, and practice sending the line out over the lake, and often a trout will rise, and is hooked.

Now are the days when no one seems to care to fish.

The shade of the woods has more attractions these warm days than the lake.

Mrs. S. Linsley of Hartford, Conn. is among the new comers who will spend the time in camp here.

Mrs. E. E. Patridge is entertaining her sister and daughter, Mrs. C. H. Austin and Miss Elsie E. Austin of Yonkers, N. Y., who have come to Mingo for the first time.

One evening this week when the moon was out, Bernard Hinkley, the guide, was paddling a party out in Hunter's Cove. Outlined in the moonlight, they were surprised to see a huge creature, that began to "blow" and the guide knew at once it was a moose. The old fellow started off through the woods making kindling wood as he went. Surely there is one moose wandering through the woods near Rangeley.

This week two parties from New York are expected to take two of the new bungalows to remain until October.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Marsh of Newtonville, Mass. returned home Monday after their first month at Mingo, and were so much pleased with the place they plan to return in September, bringing friends with them.

FLY ROD'S NOTE BOOK.

One morning recently the guests on the hotel veranda at Mingo Springs noticed something swimming on the lake, near South Bog. Some thought it was a deer, but no one was sure what it could be. One of the guides took a canoe and paddled over to find a mother duck with a family of eleven little ones coming this way. The little ducks were most of them on the back of the old luck who would swim a little way, then shake them into the water and quickly swim a short distance ahead, then wait for them to come up and again take them on her back. In this way the old lady moves her family across the lake much to the interest of the lookers on.

One of the pale faced city chaps, who in May was sent up here to try for a new lease of life has got it and a thick coat of tan at the same time.

One day recently, so the story goes, he chanced to go into the Indian store. Peter Nicoliar looked at the tan colored chap, who truly has taken on a handsome brown, and addressing him in Indian language asked if he did not want a job, but our city chap, when he smiled, showed a white set of teeth any Indian might envy, and refused the job of selling blankets as he can drive an automobile better than he can paddle a canoe.

LOG ROLLING OF INTEREST.

Many Record Fish Still Being Successfully Landed.

(Special to Maine Woods).

Upper Dam, Me., July 8, 1911.

Just now the guests have hung their fly rods on the racks outside the camps and for a few days there will be no boats on the pool.

The Berlin Mills Company have a crew of nearly 100 men busy here running thirteen million of their last winter's lumber cut through the dam. Everyone is interested in the work of the log drivers, and it is most fascinating watching the hundreds of big logs as they rush through like so many matches, and it surely is an art, the way the men on the logs with their piked poles handle them, and the way they walk about the logs in the water. It looked so easy, that some of the city gentleman thought they would try it, and one who had on a dandy new suit was among the number. "It was as good as a circus to see the Doctor attempt to walk that rolling log, and away he went into the water. Everyone on the piazza laughed as they fished him out and how could they help it?" But the remark was not intended for the Maine Woods reporter to hear. When the gates were opened for the logs to go down into the other lake the fly fishing had never been better. Everyone could see the big fish, but not every one could get a strike, or if they got a strike not every one could hook the fish.

Eight trout and salmon have been recorded since our last report. Two were taken by Mr. Eugene F. Van Dusen of New York, a 3-lb., 7-oz salmon and a 3-lb trout. Mr. Tom W. Miner, another well known New Yorker, caught a 6-lb salmon and a handsome trout, 5-lbs., 1-oz. Mr. James C. Dougherty of Syracuse brought in a 3-lb., 14-oz salmon. Hon. Arthur Calkins of New London, Conn., two salmon, 3-lbs, 1-oz, 3-lbs, 3-oz.

We always take great pride in recording a record fish taken by a lady from this famous pool. This week a most charming Boston lady, who has in years past distinguished herself as an expert with the fly rod that she handles with much skill, brought to net a 3-lb., 9-oz salmon. Orren Dyke is the "same old guide," for Mr. and Mrs. Doane. I noticed from the record that a No. 14 hook was the smallest used, and No. 16 hook the largest, and a Silver Doctor and a Jock Scott fly the ones the fish most cared to lunch from.

Mr. John C. Young of New York, who was here for the early fishing accompanied by his uncle, Mr. A. Freeman of New York, has returned for an extended stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Bearce of Lewiston opened Camp Kirk last week and Mrs. Bearce will spend July days here.

Mr. Frederick Allen of Lynn, Mass. and C. L. Sturges of Brockton, Mass., with Ernest Grant, guide, have been for a week fishing and tramping in the woods.

Mr. Robert H. Scott and his sister, Miss Scott of Paterson, N. J., who are here for their first season, are greatly delighted with the place and plan to remain some time.

Rev. Fr. John D. Colbert of Wakefield, Mass. is this year accompanied by one of the well known professors of the Catholic University, of Washington, D. C., Rev. Fr. John T. Creagh. Fr. Colbert has for many years passed vacation days here. He is a fine fly fisherman, who has plenty of fish for the table, but does not care much for the big trout and salmon, although his name now and then is found on the record.

Everyone is glad to shake hands again with Dr. F. A. Crossman of Boston, who this year is accompanied by his friend, Mr. Gustavus Glover of the same city.

Mr. George G. Tennant and son, George G. Jr., of Jersey City, N. J. are among the new comers.

Hon. H. Bisbee of Jacksonville, Fla. has returned and with Elmer Woodbury, his old guide, will spend the coming weeks fishing and camping and tramping in the woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom W. Miner and children, with Geo. Thomas, guide, are to spend the coming week in camp at Richardson Pond where the guide will do the cooking and Mr. Miner will catch all the fish they can eat.

Afternoon bridge parties are now in order.

Mr. L. Arthur Reese of Philadelphia is over at Tim Pond for a ten days' trip.

On July 4, the Miner camp was very beautifully and elaborately decorated with flags of all nations and banners, and the hotel dining room, looked most inviting with flags and red, white and blue.

Four deer were seen at one time this week in the field near the garden, when almost daily some one sees one or more feeding.

MINK RAISING IN CAPTIVITY.

Successfully raising mink in captivity, a feat that so far has baffled the foremost experts in the employ of the federal government and scores of others attracted to the industry by the enormous profits or for scientific reasons, has been accomplished by William C. Gates, formerly a carpenter, who abandoned that calling in January, 1910, to devote his entire attention to a fur farm in the forest wilds on the north fork of the Coeur d'Alene river in northern Idaho, about 100 miles east of Spokane.

Gates' fur farm consists of a small tract of timbered land on a hill, where he has cages of sheet iron and wire netting. The iron is used to prevent burrowing. Eventually, when he raises enough capital, Gates hopes to take a claim on the river and increase the capacity of his ranch. With this increased space he estimates he can raise from 4,000 to 5,000 animals a year.

"So-called authorities will tell you that mink cannot be raised under the protection of captivity," Gates said, as he exhibited 19 healthy full-grown mink and four litters of domesticated mink kittens; "but because some college-bred man failed to raise them in a university park is no reason for saying the thing is impossible. After passing 18 months in the forests it is no more difficult for me to raise mink than it is for a Spokane county orchardist to grow first-class commercial apples or a farmer to raise prize pigs."

Mink fur is expensive, the material for milady's full coat costing a small fortune. There has been a steady increase yearly in the price of pelts, until today they are worth, made up, from $25 to $50 each, while at the fur house the skins bring from $5 to $10 each, according to size, color and primeness. Dark fur is in demand.

Gates is not the first to be attracted by these profits. Scores have tried the same experiment, but always unsuccessfully. Brought into captivity the mink, naturally one of the wildest of animals, invariably commit suicide. They jump at the walls of their cage until they fall dead. This was Gates' early experience. The first 38 mink he attempted to keep lived only a few days. Profiting by the study of a year spent in the forests among animals he discovered a means of overcoming inherent animal wildness. Now his domesticated mink run around their cages like squirrels and care for their young as tenderly as a cat raises her kittens.

During the spring of 1910 and the following summer he camped along the stream baiting mink to a central feeding ground and studying their habits. By feeding fresh fish regularly he was able after weeks of quiet watching to get close to the wild little creatures and to closely observe their natural instincts.

In the early fall he set the first traps, but failed to keep the mink he caught. Thereupon he resumed his study until November, when he caught 20 mink in the traps. He carried them to his farm and until one escaped recently he had the entire number as a reward for his patience.

"Knowledge as to mink raising is not a commercial commodity," Gates resumed, after saying that he now is planning for the time when the output of his farm will be from 4,000 to 5,000 mink a year. "If you want to know the secrets of mink raising," he added, "you must live with the mink. Right here I might say too that I would rather have the advice of an old trapper than the fine-spun theories of a university professor."

"I have faith in the business, because our natural fur-bearers are fast becoming extinct. A few years ago a mink hide brought less than $1. They were plentiful then. Now the only way to procure these pelts in numbers is to raise the mink as a farmer grows live stock."

"The books will tell you this can't be done, but I know better and I have the proof."

"The problem of profits now is simply a question of the cost of production and the price paid for the skins. I estimate that it costs one cent a day to raise a mink on a meat diet. These wild-born mink will have no other, but I believe I can train the young ones to drink milk. A late spring or early summer kitten has a good hide the next March. That means a cost of from $2.50 to $3, and the hide will bring from $3 to $10."

"By raising mink in numbers one can cull out the light stock and breed the dark, getting the best colors. Under home feeding you can beat the wild animal for size and when you have the mink right under your hand you can take the hide when it is absolutely prime. The pelt from a 10-months' old mink, reasonably dark and prime, is worth $8 or $9 at the fur house."

"A fur farmer, operating on a large scale, could eliminate much of the long string of profits between the trapper and the wearer. When I am raising hides for market and can select sizes and shades to match I can then tan and make make them up and get the retail profit. People are willing to pay more for fur they know is mink than they will for a doubtful article, which frequently proves to be an imitation. "Even with my present expensive method I can make a profit. On a larger scale I could cut the present cost down fully 50 per cent. A milk and meat diet would be cheaper and better than all meat. I can teach the kittens to drink milk and they will grow sleek and fat. I intend to stay in the business. As I get capital I shall enlarge the plant and make a fortune."

MIDDLE DAM NEWS.

Some Angling and a Good Deal of Keeping Cool.

(Special to Maine Woods).

Lakewood Camps, Middle Dam, Me., July 9, 1911.

"Of all the spots in the Rangeley Lakes I think this is the coolest on a hot day. We are surrounded by the forest and a cool breeze always comes across the water," said Judge Livingston, the new Yorker, as he greeted friends, who were complainin of the warm weather on their arrival. The fishermen are all on the piazza exchanging fish stories. One just remarked, "Yes, I know there are many fish and big ones too in the lake. Let them stay there. I am comfortable."

Col. H. Bisbee of Jacksonville, Fla., and Elmer Woodbury, his guide, were here recently en route for a camping trip at B Pond.

Mr. H. W. Jones of Bridgton, with F. W. Walker, C. W. Jackson and Elmer Savage of Bridgton came with their automobile to South Arm, and spent several days here.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. S. Goodridge of Lynn, Mass. are for their fourth season at home in the bungalow. Will Sargent is the guide who rows them over the lake. One day Mrs. Goodridge caught a 3½-lb salmon and two 2-lb salmon, and was high line, as Mr. Goodridge caught only 2 trout less than a pound each.

Judge Robert A. Livingston caught a 5-lb salmon the other evening. When up on Mattluck brook, the other day, the Judge watched a deer playing about, but his camera was in the boat.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel N. Thayer of Boston have put the flag out at Camp Wenowh. Marshall Linnell, their guide for the past seventeen years is with them. "Next time I will have a good fish story to tell you," said Mr. Thayer.

Mr. Wm. S. Townsend of Boston is here for his first trip. Fred York is his guide.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Meyers of New York are now at Forest Lodge for the summer. Frank Stewart is their guide and Mrs. Stewart has charge of the camp.

Mr. J. H. Wheelright has returned to Baltimore. The family will come back to Camp Maryland for August.

WHO SAYS A BUCK WON'T KICK?

Wm. Arnold, one of the men whose ability and intelligence gives character to the clan of Dead River guides, tells the following story: "I was with P. R. Robinson, of the New York Sporting Goods Company at his private camp, Driki, Fred Shouffler, sales manager for the Great Northern Paper Company was Mr. Robinson's guest."

"One night, or rather morning, for it was past four o'clock, I was awakened by a strange sound in the rear of the camp. It sounded like some hard substance that had become loosened and was, at intervals, being blown against the camp. After listening long enough to satisfy myself that it was a most unusual noise and also unnecessary, I went out to investigate."

"I saw a surprising sight. There was a big buck with his head in a bean hole,—he evidently had been attracted by the salt."

"Near by were three deer, and they were anxious to get at the salt, and would approach near the buck. He would then let his heels fly out good and hard. The deer would run, and as they ran they crossed the water pipe, and their hoofs would hit it, as they leaped over it, and that made the click, click, sound that awakened me."

"I called Mr. Robinson and his guest to see the sight. Mr. Shouffler took a snap shot of the group."

SAW FIFTY TROUT IN ONE POOL.

(Special to Maine Woods).

Tim Pond, Maine, July 1, 1911.

Mr. Taylor has finished up the trail he began last year, so that the guests are splendidly served now in this feature of camp life. He also has finished the boats that were begun last year.

The parties that have been here this year so far have been surprised at the "good fishing" afforded. Hon. Forrest Goodwin and Dr. Sawyer of Skowhegan have recently been here and report to their friends that they saw more trout than ever before in their lives. Mr. Taylor, acting as guide took Mr. Goodwin to the Northeast inlet where he showed him pools where fifty trout could be counted. Mr. Goodwin expressed himself as satisfied that no claims for the Dead River region were exaggerated.

Among other recent guests who have had great success with rod and fly are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Hurd of Dover, N. H., and J. E. S. Pray and wife of Exeter, N. H. Mr. Taylor reports more people for the spring fishing by far than last year.

WEASEL SITS CALMY ON A BEAR TRAP.

William Taylor's Story.

Wm. Taylor, employed by B. E. Blanchard tells a bear story. It is as follows:

"I set one of Mr. Blanchard's traps in the woods near his house on the Rangeley road, and the first time I visited the trap I was nearly upset by seeing a weasel setting as safely on the spring of the trap, as though he was at home in his best easy chair. He darted off. The bait was all gone. I rebaited the trap, and when I went the next day I found three bear toes in it, and the bait gone. I followed the tracks, and all at once I came face to face with the animal. I had only a small bore rifle, but put a bullet into him about as quick as a flash of

BELGRADE LAKES.

Trout Fishing First Class and Large Catches Made.

(Special to Maine Woods).
Belgrade Lakes, Me., July 10, 1911.

Belgrade Lakes has gotten to be a very busy place, and would be happy but for the terrible heat.

Many people are here and both hotels full to overflowing. There are guests from all over the country, from Chicago to Texas.

Trout fishing has been good.

Wm. B. Dick, an expert fisherman from Albany, N. Y., stopping at the Central House, caught almost daily two and three fish weighing 4, 4½, and 5-lbs. When the bait fishing came on the first day he caught 96, the next morning 56 before lunch; in the afternoon, 36; other days same ratio.

Mr. Harry Lockett from New York City, also a lucky fisherman brought in one day the past week a 9½-lb salmon. A huge fellow, had he been fat, and would have weighed 12-lbs for he had a head and mouth large enough for a young whale. He also brought in a fine lot of pickerel.

Yes, the fishing has been great, all one could desire, and yet some have great luck and others do not. Is the difference in the man?

Rev. E. A. White of Bloomfield, N. J. has arrived with his family for the month, and held services in the village church, July 9. A large audience greeted him, as usual.

New books have been added to the library and it is well patronized by the guests.

Camp Abena is growing to be a famous summer camp for girls. It has increased in numbers almost double from last year, showing good management that has won the confidence of the public. It is a beautiful spot indeed.

A game of foot ball was played Saturday, P. M. on The Belgrade grounds with the Messalonskee club.

BLAKESLEE LAKE CAMPS.

The "Annuals" Leaving Camp With Much Regret.

Eustis, Maine, July 5, 1911.
(Special to Maine Woods).

Messrs. Germina, Broadbent and Bauer left Blakeslee for home last Tuesday, making a reluctant "get away" after their usual length of stay here, which is always a short two weeks. These gentlemen are always welcomed and their stay is looked forward to by Mr. and Mrs. White as of members in one's family. There are never any ruffles, or long faces to deter digestion at their table, and the self helpful efforts of "Lizzie" are appreciated by more than the contented "feeders." May there never be any reason why these genial gentlemen should quit "the family" that annually returns to "Blakeslee," for the glorious sport and recreation they never fail to find. It is another of the strong arguments Blakeslee puts forth to the world, proving her worth, when men like these come back again and again for their sport, after having had experiences in many waters and other preserves, both in Maine, and all the other game and fish lands this side of the waters. We have many return people. Always those who come once, come again and so we have what we call our "annuals," one big family.

CAMP BEMIS.

Three Old Landmarks Go Down In Gale.

(Special to Maine Woods).

Camp Bemis, July 7, 1911.

The heavy gale in this section on Thursday blew down three of the handsome tall spruce tree in front of the camp. They were like old friends, having been here for many years, and like old friends they will be missed.

Mrs. Helen A. Buckland of Woonsocket, R. I., who for 25 years has been an annual comer, is this time accompanied by her daughter and husband, Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Davis, and their seven year old daughter, Miss Helen May Davis, who is very proud that she has a fish story all her own to tell, for she caught a nice trout that was a beauty. The party remain two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Bunton of Hyde Park, Mass. have been enjoying a week's rest here recently.

There are always parties coming here for dinner en route for home, while many tarry for the night.

One would be surprised if they were at the log station at train time to see the amount of business that is done, and the huge pile of trunks tells that the tourists are coming for the Birches, Barker. Upper Dam, Middle Dam, and the many private camps in this part of the lake region.

Mr. Geo. Lang, who has charge of the store, post-office and camps is a young man much liked by the traveling public, as he finds so many different ways to add to the pleasure and comfort of all.

THE BIRCHES.

Many Now in Camp for Entire Season.

(Special to Maine Woods).

The Birches, July 6, 1911.

Most welcome was the storm this noon time, even if it was a severe one, blowing down trees and sending boats that were on the shore inland. All feel that the hot wave has passed by and hope it will not return, for the memory of the old guest goeth not back to the time it was ever as warm; "hot" is the way it was expressed at the Birches.

Eighty-seven is the number of guests here today, and more on the way. Without doubt this will be a record breaker, as to numbers enjoying the hospitality of these camps.

Mr. Lawrence Gardner joined his people on Tuesday for the summer.

Mr. J. R. Glover of Camden landed a 5¼-lb salmon this week, Harry Nelson, guide, and this with his 3¼-lb trout and a 3½-lb salmon he is very proud of.

Mrs. C. H. Durfee of Fall River, with Frank Harris guide, was greatly pleased with her first fish, a 3¼-lb salmon.

Mr. Malcolm Campbell, of Morristown, N. J. and friend, Mr. C. E. Carr, of Bayonne, N. J. are two young gentlemen who were so much pleased with life on the island last summer that they have returned to stay until October.

The third bridal couple is here for honeymoon days, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Whipple of Worcester, Mass., who are in Camp Cozy.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Blanchard and son, Thatcher, of Portland, were here for the week-end.

Miss H. H. Brewster and sister, Miss Elizabeth Brewster, of Summit, N. J., who spent last season here are welcomed again this year.

Mr. Samuel Anderson and daughter, Miss E. L. Anderson, of Chester, Penn. have taken Camp Stay-a-while for their usual stay at the Birches.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Wolle and daughter, Miss Martha W. Wolle of Orange, N. J., who are here for July are greatly pleased with this their first trip to the Birches.

Everyone welcomes the return of Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Wallace of South Orange, N. J., and their happy family of children, Miss Barbara, Janet, and Anna, and two sons, Kenneth and William. They have the same camps, Wawa and Dodropin, and all who pull the latch string and enjoy a cup of afternoon tea, take with them when they say good by, pleasant memories and are glad to return. This season, Mr. Wallace, who has one of the best naphtha boats on the lake, gave a fine little one to his son, Kenneth, who runs it himself.

Coming for their first season and to remain until autumn, Mrs. Edward M. Jefferys of Philadelphia and the sons, Robert F. Beauchamp, and Edward M. Jr., arrived this week and later will be joined by Mr. Jefferys.

Mr. Harvey Farrington of Yonkers, N. Y., who with his wife was here in May, has returned for the summer, where with their three sons, Eliot G., E. Chandler, and Stephen G. Farrington and their governess, they will be at home in two of the camps for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Barkman, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Walker, and Miss Helen A. and Master Wilbur W. of Hartford, Conn. are among the new comers for a month's sojourn.

Mrs. W. H. Nash of East Orange, N. J., will be joined by her husband for August.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Phillips of Glen Ridge, N. J. are in Camp Clover this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Louise D. Ray of New York have for a week been the guests of Mrs. Ray's sister, Dr. Ethel Brown.

Mrs. Eva M. Munsill and son, Marcus M. Munsill are New Yorkers, who have joined the colony from their own city.

There is a delightful company of young folks here, and the casino is the gathering place for them. The bathing is great and appreciated the past few days. Picnics are now in order, the guides cooking dinner on the shore.

Dr. Ethel Brown took a party up the Cupsuptic for a day's trip the first of the week.

Mr. Whitney and family of Cambridge, Mass. are at Tainter's camp for a few days.

Mrs. Fred M. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Spencer, Lawrence Spencer and Miss Katherine Spencer, all of Tarrytown, N. Y. are in Swett's small camp for the season.

Swett's new camp will be occupied for the next month by Mrs. Platt, Miss Alice Platt, and Mr. Frank Platt of Brooklyn.

PHILLIPS AND VICINITY.

Rev. G. D. Holmes, district superintendent will be at the Methodist Episcopal church Saturday evening, and hold quarterly conference at that time, and will preach Sunday morning at 10:45. In the evening Rev. C. E. Owen of the Civic League will deliver a temperance address.

Last Tuesday, Mildred, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McMullen, got a common pin lodged crosswise in her throat. Drs. Currier and Hilton were called and it was successfully removed, we are glad to report.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Bubier accompanied Mr. H. H. Field to Waterville in his auto last Tuesday where he went to meet Mrs. Field's sister, Mrs. Ralph Sawyer of Houlton, and they arrived in Phillips early in the evening. Mr. Field and party had quite an exciting experience a short distance from Phillips, when they started out. They passed a large touring car near the Thompson bridge on the east side of the river, and on turning out the car tipped over, but fortunately lodged against a tree which saved the automobile and occupants from rolling down the embankment. Mr. Field and party remained to help, and it took them nearly two hours to get the auto righted. Very fortunately the occupants and machine escaped without a scratch. A few miles further Mr. Field had to stop to put on a new tire, so that the latter part of the trip had to be made in pretty good time but he reached Waterville five minutes before the train on which Mrs. Sawyer was to arrive, was due.

The gale which accompanied the slight fall of rain which we had last Thursday did quite a bit of damage in various places. Several strawberry beds were entirely ruined as it was impossible to use the berries on account of their being buried in dirt. Herbert Goldsmith, who had his hay bunched, said two tons were blown away, and we have heard of several similar cases.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Libby are visiting Mr. Libby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Libby.

Mrs. G. A. French and Miss Lucille left Tuesday morning for Westville, N. H., where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Brayman for a few weeks. They were the guests Monday of Mrs. Eva Toothaker.

Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Harnden will go to Old Orchard Saturday. Mrs.

Harnden expects to remain several weeks and will stay at the Greenwood cottage, but Mr. Harnden will return the first of the week.

Miss Cornelia T. Crosby came out from Rangeley for the afternoon, Wednesday.

The following Phillips girls are taking advantage of the summer school at the Normal, Farmington, for two weeks: Misses Algie Pratt, Dallas Voter, Laura Libby, Ina Badger, Susie Smith and Mrs. Belle Adams.

William King, machinist for the International Manufacturing Company, returned Tuesday from a two weeks' visit in Boston.

Miss Lula Davis, who has been visiting Miss Ethelyn Beedy, returned to her home in South Paris last Monday. Miss Beedy accompanied her and will visit her aunt, Mrs. T. N. Kewley for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kenaiston and daughter, Francis, of Los Angeles, Cal. are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kenniston.

Friends in Phillips extend sympathy to Mr. Raymond Oakes of Auburn in the death of his wife, which occurred Tuesday morning. Mr. Oakes is the son of Hon. and Mrs. H. W. Oakes, and a grandson of Mrs. Raymond Toothaker, formerly of Phillips. Death was due to acute Bright's disease. She leaves a four days' old baby son. Mr. and Mrs. Oakes have only been married a little over a year.

The smoke of a forest fire in Number Six, which was first visible early Wednesday morning, was thick over all the hills and mountains visible from Phillips village that afternoon, and could be plainly smelled in the air. Though so far away this pall of smoke over the village caused considerable uneasiness among some of the residents of this village, because of the long continued drouth and the tinder-like dryness of everything, but the fire was too far away to be in any way dangerous to Phillips.

Mildred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMullen, got a pin in her throat while at play Tuesday noon, and it lodged there. As soon as the child showed signs of distress and what she had done was learned Dr. Hilton and Dr. Currier were notified, and they removed the pin from the child's throat without injury to her, though her mother got a severe fright.

Misses Winnifred and Agnes Sargent are attending the summer school at the Normal school at Farmington.

Miss Hilda and Master Leon Goodwin are at Farmington for two weeks, visiting their grandparents and other relatives.

The mill of the International Manufacturing Co., which has been closed for several days, has started again.

Mr. Fred Masterman's family had green peas from their garden on July 4th. They are now having string beans and cucumbers.

Mrs. Ella West of Providence, R. I., accompanied her mother, Mrs. Mary Kempton, to Phillips week before last, Mrs. Kempton remaining for the summer and Mrs. West returning home last week.

Mrs. A. C. Whittier of Newark, Del., will visit her sister, Mrs. H. L. Goodwin of Phillips, next week.

There will be a union temperance service at the M. E. Church, on Tuesday evening, July 18. The speaker will be Miss Ellen M. Stone, the missionary who was captured by brigands in Asia Minor a few years ago. She will give a brief account of her experiences on that notable occasion.

Mrs. Lucinda Adams, who has been ill with Bright's disease for sometime, is reported very low this morning and is expected to live but a very short time. Mrs. Adams has been in poor health for several years.

Miss Edith Hinkley went to Kingfield Saturday, where she will be employed by Mrs. O. B. Hutchins.

Miss Elma Byron is visiting friends in Portland.

Miss Celia Whitney spent Sunday at Redington.

An incident of the fire at Bean's Corner is that one man in endeavoring to save something carefully picked up a piece of ice which had been dumped out of the refrigerator and carefully carried it across the road to a place of safety.

The Cause of Colds and a Safe Cure.

A common cause of many colds is the sudden checking of the unconscious perspiration by exposure to a change of temperature. Colds, whether taking the form of Coryza with sneezing, running nose, and perhaps sore throat, or with chilly and feverish symptoms, should never be neglected in the earliest stages, serious illness often results from such neglect.

It is well to get early to bed, to get the body well warmed, and most important to have the bowels move freely. There is no safer or better remedy to use at the beginning of a cold than "L. F." Atwood's medicine. Two to four teaspoonfuls will quickly relieve congested conditions, drive out impurities from the system and ward off further trouble. Always keep a bottle in the house. Any dealer will supply you for thirty-five cents. If you have never used them, write today for a free sample to the L. F. Medicine Co., Portland, Maine.

OWES HER HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.

EAST MADRID.

The glorious Fourth of July was celebrated by nearly 150 people, and it will be a day long remembered. The horrors were out by half past ten, and were certainly fine in every respect. An exciting ball game was played in the afternoon, between the East Madrid nine and the Reed's Mill nine. The Reed's Mill boys won by a great score. SUPT. S. S. DREW TELLS ABOUT GROWTH OF FISH IN WESTERN WATERS.

(Special to Maine Woods).
Spokane, Wash., July 1, 1911.

Thelan lake in Stevens county, Wash., 105 miles north of Spokane, this season is producing 11-inch trout, weighing more than eight ounces each, from minnows placed in its waters by the Washington State hatchery in May 1910. Besides the unusual size, the most interesting thing is the fact that no fish were caught in the lake prior to this year. This statement is verified by pioneer residents and Indians who have lived in the vicinity of the lake more than 50 years.

S. S. Drew, superintendent of the state hatchery on the Little Spokane river, a few miles north of Spokane, said that several hundred trout minnows were placed in the lake a year ago as an experiment, adding that on June 24 he caught three fish weighing more than a half pound each and that each fish was fully 11 inches in length.

"The usual growth during the first year is about six inches," he continued, "and I attribute the size of the Thelan trout to the abundance of food in the lake. It is the most remarkable instance of growth that has yet come under my observation in the many years I have been identified with fish culture, and I am convinced that this unusual development is possible under the most favorable environment."

Mr. Drew also caught a number of trout, measuring from eight to 10 inches, in Shannon creek, Ferry county, Wash., "and," he said, "they were identified as being placed in the water there from our hatchery, two years ago when minnows."

Success is rewarding the efforts of the Little Spokane hatchery to stock streams above impassable falls. Numerous streams in the northern part of Washington having water barriers are being stocked and the trout are thriving and multiplying.

WESTERN STATES DOING GOOD FISH WORK THIS YEAR.

(Special to Maine Woods).
Spokane, Wash., July 1, 1911.

Dr. George Kemmerer of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, and Professor J. F. Bovard of the department of biology, University of Oregon, have come to Spokane to make a thorough inspection of the lakes in Spokane district, with a view to determining the species of fish best adapted to the waters in eastern Washington and northern Idaho.

This is the first time in the history of the Pacific slope and western country that scientific methods have been applied to the distribution of fish for the purpose of ascertaining the food in the water and the species which thrive best in the various lakes. The credit for this is due to the efforts of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce and the Spokane Fish Protective association.

"We shall be in and near Spokane until September 1," said Dr. Kemmerer, "and we expect to make careful examinations of the waters in the lakes from top to bottom, to be in position to recommend the planting of fish best adapted to the food products which vary greatly."

"Wisconsin is the only other state in the Union which makes such examinations, as well as one of the few which seine the carp from the lakes. Newman lake, near Spokane, will be the first seined."

"The commercial and protective organizations of Spokane are to be complimented upon their efforts to rid the lakes of this section of the carp, which is such a menace to game fishing, in eating the valuable spawn."

A sportsman, who was looking over his tackle on the piazza this morning remarked, "Fly fishermen would do well to turn their attention toward Mooselookmeguntic Lake as the fish at the present time readily rise to the fly, with the chances of taking a very large salmon or trout as several have been missed by inexperienced casters."

Four Year Old Boy Lands a Big Salmon.

(Special to Maine Woods). Mountain View, July 1, 1911.

It has seemed very quiet here since the gala time the Masons had, when the music of Chandler's Band and the gay two hundred kept everything humming for two days.

"Mountain View! This is rightly named and I never dreamed the place could be one half so beautiful. Surely our summer will be delightful in such a charming spot," was the exclamation of a lady who has come for the first time.

There has been extra good fishing for those who have been out on the lake this week.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Crowell came from Canada this week to spend a little time with old friends, and Billy thought he knew where the fish used to live, so they took a row boat and started out. Mrs. Crowell was to "drag a line" while Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bisbee, who are over in their camp on the other shore, went out fishing and took Master Kenneth, their four-year-old son, who wanted a worm put on his hook, and some how a big fish thought it a tempting lunch and attempted to pull the little chap overboard, but he held on and with assistance brought an 8½-lb salmon to net. "I tell you, papa, that is no sucker," said the boy.

Mr. Chester Barker, an engineer on the train from Rumford went out Friday just to try his luck which proved to be good as he caught an 8½-lb salmon.

GEORGE A. FRENCH.

The community was shocked on the morning of June 22, 1911, at the announcement that George A. French was dead. His multitude of friends in Phillips and vicinity could hardly realize the truth of such a startling assertion. Even now, it almost seems that his presence, so familiar to all, must again be seen upon our streets. But he is gone. The thoughtful, kindly, sympathetic husband and father,—the careful, conscientious, highly respected fellow citizen, has gone. But why? In vain we search, in vain we wait, for the answer. Why a man who exerted such a healthful influence, who was ever such a firm friend and wise counsellor, who was just reaching the height of a most useful career, cherished by family, beloved and respected by all,—why such a man should be taken, and at such a moment, will be forever the mystery of mysteries in the great plan of the Almighty.

George A. French, the elder son of Hiram and Eliza Wheeler French, was born in Phillips, April 17, 1856. He was educated in the public schools of the town in which he was born and in which he lived and died. For a number of years in his earlier life he and his younger brother were associated in mercantile business. Later in life he has been engaged largely in the business of a dealer in live stock.

In 1882 he married Jennie S. Phinney of Phillips, who survives him. One child was born to them, Lucille French, now a young lady of rare talent and attainment.

Several years ago he, with his wife and daughter, became a member of the Congregational church in Phillips and was ever after an active, sincere and helpful member.

In 1899 Mr. French was elected one of the trustees, and in 1901 chosen President, of Phillips Savings Bank, an office which he held with great credit to himself and the Bank, up to the date of his death. His watchful care and sound judgment were justly appreciated by his associates upon the board of trustees, and contributed not a little to the steady growth and increasing prosperity of the Bank during his tenure of office.

In his boyhood days in school his schoolmates and associates always found "George" conscientious, truthful, honest, manly. Integrity was ever his watchword through life. No man can say that in any business transaction, however small or large, George A. French was ever a man to equivocate, falsify or misrepresent. In all matters between man and man he exercised care and candor and decided with extreme fairness.

He was quiet and unassuming but performed every duty committed to his care, no matter how insignificant, in an honest, efficient and courteous manner.

He took a deep interest in the affairs of his town, but was always averse to holding office. Repeatedly was he urged to take the position of one of the municipal officers, but only once or twice could he be induced to accept the office. But his advice was frequently sought, freely given and profitably followed, by his fellow citizens in matters concerning the welfare of the town. Trained in the school of an active business experience, he was practical and sound in all matters touching the interests of his community.

He was especially devoted to his family and always himself seemed happiest when contributing to their happiness. But strong as were the ties that bound heart to heart, the cords were broken and today his grief stricken family long

"..... for the touch of a vanished hand, And the sound of a voice that is still."

Years may come and go and not another will be found to fill his place in the hearts of the people of the community who knew him as an honest man and loyal friend. It can well be said of him as was said by (Continued on page twelve).

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Union Church, Phillips.

Melvin Sherburne Hutchins, pastor. Calendar for week ending July 22. Sunday, July 16, 10-45 morning worship, Sermon, "Christ's Love For His Church." 11-45 Sunday School. 7-30 Evening Worship. Thursday, July 20, 7-30 P. M. mid-week prayer meeting.

At the Union church last Sunday, Rev. Mr. Hutchins spoke from 2 Sam. 16 : 14. "They came there weary, and were refreshed." The subject of the sermon was "A Religion for a hot day."

The religion of our New England fathers was especially appropriate to the cold of the winter time. The time has gone by when we think of all religion differing from our own as devoid of all good. The time is coming when in all religions we shall see and acknowledge the measure of truth and good that is in them. But whatever of truth and helpfulness may be found in any other, the Christian religion has great superiority over all others.

It is superior to all others in its thought of God. The great Hindu religions teach that there is one God. But their God in an impersonal power, without thought of individual humanity. The Christian's God is a father, with a father's love and care for each.

The Hindu teaches immortality, but not of personal life. His highest hope is that at last, after many trans migrations of soul, he may be swallowed up in that great impersonal power, and become a part of his God. The christian religion gives the assurance of personal life which shall be immortal, eternal.

The Hindu magnifies sacrifice, but it is for one's own good, if haply by it he may please his God, and be brought more quickly to the consummation of his hope, which is to lose his individuality in the great power. The christian religion, through the life and death of Christ, teaches sacrifice for the sake of others' good.

Therefore we say that the christian religion full of life, full of the warmth of love and sympathy is the religion adapted to the season when the New England forests are clutched by the hand of cold and death.

Today, however, we are looking for messages that shall help in time of continued heat. One's mental state and attitude of mind determine largely one's ability to meet discomfort cheerily and strongly. A long walk when the heart is hopeful and happy, though on a day of sultry heat, can be taken with less fatigue, than even fifteen minutes' walk in anxious fearful haste. This religion, which ought to make everyone glad, is the religion whose happiness and peace should make even the heat more easily endured.

Longfellow says: "A millstone and the human heart are driven ever round;

If they have nothing else to grind they must themselves be ground."

Let vacation time then be a time when opportunities shall not be passed by. To have gladness in our hearts, to have peace with God, we must have something to do, something to take us outside ourselves.

I have wondered why advertisers do not sometimes make use of Biblical allusions and quotations. I suppose it is because of some fineness of sentiment which would make it seem not quite fitting.

These words which I have read for my text would seem appropriate in describing a place desirable for summer rest, "They came there weary and were refreshed." There is a text which applies to every place and every time, "Prepare to meet thy God." If we go to the hills or lakes of Maine, go with the thought of meeting God. In the morning let the thought be that today we shall meet God. Whatever the day may bring of work, of business, of study, meet God in them all. In disappointment, affliction or bereavement let us thrust our hand into the hand of the Father and there meet God. Then some time it may be said of us in any place where we thus have come near to God, "They came there weary, and were refreshed."

CLASS PARTS.

Following is the class part given by Miss Algie Pratt at the graduating exercises of the Phillips High school: SALUTATORY.

Ladies and gentlemen, the class of 1911 extend to you a most cordia welcome.

Another year of our school life is finished and we are here assembled for the last time as a class. The privileges and pleasures that we have had the good fortune to enjoy during our high school career we must reluctantly cast aside.

We have had too little experience of the duties and responsibilities of active life fully to understand and appreciate the value of the intellectual and moral training, but we know now that we are the wiser and better for it. Without it we would find it very difficult to achieve a moral or a business success.

To some of us, the education that we have obtained in the high school will be our only capital in beginning life and whatever of wealth and honor we may hereafter win in the world, we shall be largely indebted to our school for the means of success. We feel that our equipment is good and our armor strong.

We realize that both nature and destiny are honest. To the victor they grant the spoils. The time has come when it is necessary for us, as a class, to part; but we challenge those circumstances to arise which can weaken these ties of friendship so dearly formed by us during our high school life. In future years, in both prosperity and disaster, they can be but a source of greatest pleasure and comfort.

During the exercises this evening I bid you listen to the different members of our class as they project before us the various pictures of our high school life, as they prophesy into the far distant future, as they pay tribute to teachers, classmates and friends.

To such scenes the class of 1911 bids its friends welcome.

AMBITION AND SUCCESS.

Ambition and Success are very closely

HONEST MEDICINE VERSUS FAKE.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the Pure Food and Drug law in its relation to Prepared Medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the disease they are intended to counteract. For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains to-day its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. Sold by W. A. D. Cragin, Phillips, Maine.

related, for without some ambition it is impossible to achieve success in the greatest sense of the word.

Success may be likened to a goal toward which we are all striving: some reach it before others, yet all may attain it, if they but have the ambition and determination to press forward. It is true that in this rush of the present century many find themselves retarded at times by handicaps and misfortunes, but if ambition is there to urge them on, in the end success is inevitable.

Some laboring under more favorable conditions, as far as age is concerned, reach this coveted goal in advance of others, but why should we despair on this account? One thing we know, and that is, just as long as we can keep this goal in sight, stimulated by ambition, we shall approach it by degrees until finally the victory is won and we find ourselves in that long desired position. As we look back over this road that we have just travelled, and see others meeting and overcoming the many difficulties which we had to face let us cheer them on the way and aid them wherein we can, that their progress may be less difficult.

God has created us with ideals, yet we should not place them so high that we can not climb to them. We should work with an ambition that will not be turned aside by the bitterest disappointments.

How often we envy one who has suddenly risen to fame and fortune. To us his achievement of success seems a simple matter, while if we but knew of the days and nights spent in hard work, we would not envy him, for perseverance has only received its just reward.

Success begins with the little things, so we should make the most of our smallest opportunities. We should be faithful to them and we will be surprised how soon we find ourselves able to overcome the greater ones.

It is a fact that those men who have accomplished much in the educational, scientific and social world have not been ignorant men, but men whose minds have been so disciplined by education as to prepare them for their tasks. Everyone is created for a purpose and as soon as they realize this, they should resolve at once to become an important factor in the world's progress. In our period, no young man or woman can hope to succeed in any vocation unless thoroughly trained for it. The day has passed for untrained ability to get on unless under exceptional conditions. The world always adjusts itself for the perfect, and adjusts the men and women in it to the period in which they exist.

In the Middle Ages, no man could hope to accomplish anything in the way of success until he had trained his muscles to bear a heavy armor, iron sheaves upon his legs, a shield upon his arm and a spear in his hand. Unless he could accomplish all that, and wield his weapon with great skill, vigor and strength, he dared not hope to succeed. The working people of those days had to know how to make iron coats, helmets, shields and spears. When civilization changed, these people were thrown out of employment. The most beautiful and exquisite work of that time would be absolutely worthless in any markets of today. So as the revolving cycles of centuries come along the world changes. The shifting scenes of civilization compel man to learn new trades and become skillful in new occupations. It is evident in these days that it is necessary to have ambition combined with determination to succeed.

The first thing a young boy or a young girl should strive for is an education. To-day there is no excuse for anyone entering upon life's duties without a reasonably good education to help him in his work. A century ago it was different. Abraham Lincoln became educated how? By borrowing what books he could and studying far into the hours of the night by the dim light from pine knots, which he had gathered after the day's work was completed.

What would we think, born and living under the favorable conditions that surround us, if it became necessary for us to go through the same struggles to obtain an education as did he?

How many are there that make the most of their opportunities! One reason why there are so very few truly great men is that discouragement frightens many. They lack the ambition to struggle on and win in the end.

Sir Isaac Newton worked many years before he discovered the law of gravitation. One day while walking in his garden he saw an apple fall from a tree. This made him wonder why it fell. He set about to solve the problem and when he had, he had unconsciously won success. He will ever be famous as the founder of the Newtonian laws of falling bodies.

Too many Americans are contented with an ordinary degree of attainment, thinking their ideals are so beyond their reach as to be unattainable. This is a grievous mistake. Ambition should be made of sterner stuff. Only by years of patient toil and hardship of self-sacrifice and deprivation did Grant, Garfield, Lord Beaconsfield and scores of others reach the exalted positions which history will ever associate with their names. Let us place our ideals so that we can strive for that which is best in life.

MAXIN - ALLEN.

A very pretty home wedding occurred at Fertile Farm, Readfield, the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Allen last Thursday evening at 8.30, when the bride, Miss Abbie Allen was united in marriage with Mr. Nelson Maxin of Wayne. Rev. William Wood performed the ceremony, using the ring service. Miss Bernice Greely acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Carlton Verrill as best man. The bride was very pretty in white silk muslin and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The bridesmaid wore pink silk muslin and carried carnations. The room was very prettily decorated with flowers and evergreen, the bridal party standing under a bell in an arch of evergreen. The lawn was lighted with Japanese lanterns. Only the immediate relations were present. Mr. and Mrs. Maxin of Wayne, parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hinds and children of Winthrop, Adelbert, Maurice, Hazel and Leroy Maxin of Wayne, brothers and sisters of groom. Mrs. Conie Allen and son Charles Allen of Strong, and Mr. Fred Frost of Wayne. There were many nice presents. Among them were a gold band dinner set silver knives and forks, table spoons, dessert spoons, cream ladle, nut set, silver thimble, plates, cups and saucers tumblers, fruit, oatmeal and bone dishes and other dishes, too numerous to mention. There was a nice bible and other books; also some nice linen. Ice cream and cake were served and a very pleasant evening spent. Mr. and Mrs. Maxin will spend the summer at their cottage "Big Pine" camp, where they will be pleased to welcome their many friends. The bride was formerly of Strong, her parents moving from there to Readfield about seven years ago.

It's Your Kidneys

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Phillips Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Phillips people testify to permanent cures.

Elbridge Dill, Phillips, Me., says: "I am very willing to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. While I did not have any serious trouble from my kidneys, I at times felt in need of a kidney remedy. When suffering from a dull ache across my back and a weakness of the kidneys, I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box from Cragin's Drug Store. I used them according to directions and the trouble from my kidneys soon disappeared. My back is now strong and I feel better in every way."

GEORGE A. FRENCH.

Ingersoll over his brother's bier: "Were every one to whom he did some loving service to bring a blossom to his grave he would today be sleeping beneath a wilderness of flowers."

Loved and respected by all who knew him, with vigor unabated, his earthly pilgrimage has suddenly ended. We look about us and see but the dull cloud of sorrow and hear but the moaning wind sounding a requiem for our departed friend. But beyond the dark cloud faith reveals the bright star, and above the sad requiem of earth we catch the glorious symphony of heaven. "His life was gentle; the elements So mixed in him, that Nature might stand up And say to all the world, 'This was a man.'"

A SUSTAINING DIET.

These are the enervating days, when, as somebody has said, men drop by sunstroke as if the Day of Fire had dawned. They are fraught with danger to people whose systems are poorly sustained; and this leads us to say, in the interest of less robust of our readers, that the full effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla is such as to suggest the propriety of calling this medicine something besides a blood purifier and tonic,—say, a sustaining diet. It makes it much easier to bear the heat, assures refreshing sleep, and will without any doubt avert much sickness at this time of year.
