

DEER SOLD TO LOCAL MARKET

Sunday Hunting Strictly Prohibited in Piscataquis Co.

Chief Game Warden Howard Wood reports the apprehension of one Neal Young of Shirley whom he found hunting on Sunday, October 3rd. He had just dressed off a deer. Mr. Wood promptly seized the deer and later sold it to the local market in Greenville. Mr. Young will be taken before the Municipal Court at Greenville the third Wednesday in October.

The last Legislature enacted a law making it illegal to hunt any wild animal or bird, so that now a hunter who is found in the woods with a gun on Sunday will not have the excuse that he "is hunting some unprotected bird or wild animal."

A great many people in this section, particularly those whose duties keep them busy all through the week, consider it a hardship not to be allowed to take their guns and "go a hunting" on Sunday.

GAME NOTES AROUND BANGOR

Distributing Salmon---Not Many Hunters Try to Evade the Game Laws Now-a-Days.

"No" remarked Chief Game Warden Frank Perkins, Tuesday, as he jabbed his knife into a package of meat wrapped in gunnysack, at Union station, "Hunters don't try to violate the game shipping laws now as much as they used to. I've seen the time when we would run across illegal shipments of deer and moose-meat pretty often here in Bangor, but since the inspection has been carried on so rigidly for years, they have sort of gotten out of the habit. Of course it's all right to ship this bear meat any time as there's no law on that." Only a glance was required for the warden to identify the meat as that of a bruin.

"Hunters used to think they could get by the game laws by cutting their deer up and shipping them out of the state in sections, but that idea has passed with the rest of the wrinkles for evading the game statutes. We keep on the watch all the time however and intend to do so. The law empowers us to open any shipment by express or otherwise on the trains in this state.

Distributing Landlocked Salmon

Supt. Charles E. Darling of the state of Maine hatchery located at Enfield was in the city Tuesday afternoon with a shipment of 5,500 landlocked salmon destined for Walker's Pond and Molasses Pond. One lot of 2,500 was consigned to Galen Havey at North Sullivan for Molasses pond and the other of 3,000 to Floyd D. Black, Walker's Pond, Brooksville.

Plenty of Game

Simon Bunker, proprietor of sporting camps at Tunk Pond, Washington county, was in the city Tuesday with Mrs. Bunker, and reports that game is plenty in that section of the state. He has seen numerous deer and reports having seen a moose only Monday. Indications are that the season will be one of the best in years, he says.

Supt. James D. DeRocher of the United States Fish hatchery at East Orland was in the city Monday noon with a shipment of 800 No. 4 and 5 brook trout fingerlings, between four and five inches in length, to be "planted" in the Narraguagus river. They were consigned to Rufus H. Young at Franklin. Mr. Young, it may be stated, incidentally, is a veteran Maine guide, 80 years old, who has guided on 57 days this summer. He says he is going to keep on guiding until he is 90 years old.

Supt. ReRocher is much interested in the experiment of planting humpback salmon in the Penobscot river, which, he says, bids fair to be successful, and is being closely watched by the hatchery officials in this and other states. He has evidence to the effect that the humpback salmon get above the dam here in Bangor, evidently for the purpose of spawning, and he knows that there are excellent spawning grounds for them above tide-water between Bangor and Orono.

The 3,000 spawn that he took from humpback salmon at Bangor pool on Labor day are progressing favorably at the East Orland hatchery, apparently the same as those brought from Puget Sound each year. The ultimate success of the enterprise depends to a large extent upon whether the fish succeeded in reproducing themselves in Maine waters, and there is no evidence to the contrary as yet.

W. L. Varian of Pelham, N. Y., succeeded in killing a fairly good sized black bear, weighing 130 lbs.,

SECRETARY OF STATE AFTER THEM

New Law Will Have Pronounced Effect on Automobile Drivers.

Over 60 automobile drivers' licenses have been revoked by Secretary of State John E. Bunker under the new law which went into effect this year and which provides that the Secretary of State may revoke operators' licenses for drunkenness and fast driving.

This is one of the laws advocated by the Maine Automobile Association and which was put through the Legislature by its efforts. It is believed that it will have a pronounced effect in curbing reckless driving of every kind.

at Lambert Lake, while in that section of the state. The bear was at the Union station Monday noon. It weighed 130 pounds and looked as if he might have been a rather dangerous customer in a scrap.

Warden John E. Bowden, who is to be on duty at the Bangor station, has not arrived at the station as yet, owing to the fact that he is distributing fish. He will be here soon.

F. L. Hodgkins and Walter B. Cram of Bangor have returned from a hunting trip through Aroostook county, where they report that game is rather plentiful. They got all the deer and partridges allowed by law and also saw a moose and three bears.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Holman, who have been on an automobile hunting trip through Aroostook county, do not report such good luck, not having seen any game while away.

Dr. Jarvis B. Woods and Dr. H. T. Clough of Bangor returned Saturday from a short trip to the Moosehead lake region, bringing down two large deer each and all the birds that the law allows. The largest deer was a big buck weighing 205 pounds.—Bangor Commercial.

Game receipts are steadily increasing and Tuesday was one of the best days known for so early in the season. Sixteen deer were received in Bangor and two bears passed through the station on their way to Boston. In the northern part of the state, north of Moosehead lake there was a slight snow fall early in the season but it had disappeared before the open season commenced. However, notwithstanding the foliage and the condition of the traveling there has been many reports of fairly good hunting conditions and plenty of deer. A little snow and some cold frosty nights would go far toward helping out the present hunting season.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Danforth and Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Hallett have returned from a most successful hunting trip at Lost Lake in the Moosehead lake region. Mr. Danforth was high gun with two handsome deer, and Mrs. Danforth as well as Mr. and Mrs. Hallett each secured one deer. The party got their full quota of small game of which they report the woods to be full. Mr. Danforth said that the blasting in that region which is being done in connection with extensive construction work has frightened away most of the deer, but there seemed to be plenty of deer in other parts of the lake section. They reached their camp over the handsome new road which has recently been built north of Moosehead and which is claimed to be one of the finest stretches of highway in the state. The waters of Lost Lake flow into the Allegash but within 20 rods of their camp were the headwaters of the west branch. They report that about three inches of snow which was on the ground when they arrived there had entirely disappeared before the open season started.

GAME PLENTIFUL ABOUT MOOSEHEAD

Kineo House Closed After Most Prosperous Season.

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Greenville, October 6.—The Kineo House closed up Monday, September 29th, after one of the most prosperous seasons in its history. Some of the public camps around the lake also closed the first of October, but a number will remain open during the hunting season.

Deer hunting should be particularly good this season around Moosehead as these animals are more plentiful than they have been in several years. Bears also are considered as being on the increase and should be a strong attraction for the hunter, many preferring to shoot a bear rather than a moose.

Howard Wood.

was a business visitor in Bangor Wednesday, having returned from a trip to northern Maine.

John Ford, well known in Maine football circles as captain of one of the best football teams that Bangor High ever turned out, that of 1908, was in the city Wednesday from the Moosehead district, where he has been acting as fire warden during the past summer. Mr. Ford brought two deer down with him, and his brother, Earl Ford also brought a fine deer.

Mr. Ford reports that game is more abundant than ever in the Maine woods. On several days during the past season, he has seen as many as 50 deer in a single day, as his fire lookout station is located in the midst of a deer section. He has also seen plenty of moose, and avers that bears are multiplying faster than the hunters can kill them off.

The carcass of a wicked looking old bruin was seen at the Union station Wednesday afternoon, on its way to Boston. It was shot by Arthur O'Neil at Topsfield.—Bangor News.

HEADQUARTERS AT CROCKER POND

Augusta Party Brings Home the First Deer.

The first deer of the season to be brought into the city by an Augusta hunter was landed here Saturday afternoon. The party included W. J. Skehan, J. E. Page and W. T. Critchley and the deer fell before the unerring aim of "Billy" Skehan. It was a buck and weighed 135 pounds, says the Kennebec Journal.

The party left here last Wednesday and made headquarters at Crocker pond, six miles above Jackman. Thursday was the last day of fishing for this season and all hands enjoyed that during Thursday, securing all they needed for camp use and all the law would allow them to bring home. Those brought out ran from 1½ to 2½ pounds and were beauties. Most of them were served Sunday at dinner at Hotel North. Others graced the tables of friends.

The buck was shot at a spring, where he had come to drink. He was a handsome seven-prong chap and presented a splendid sight as he stood broadside on, but it was deer the party was after and he fell.

The party report the presence of many hunters in the woods and a fair amount of deer shot on the first day, but they say the wet summer has caused such a growth of green stuff that even the tote roads are full of good feed and in consequence, in that section, the deer are farther back than usual and will stay there until the frost comes and kills this feed, so that the deer must come out after their food.

The foliage is said to be very beautiful at this time of year and the traveling is first class. They report a splendid trip.

GOVERNOR SPRAGUE'S BUFFALO HUNT.

"The death of ex-Governor Sprague of Rhode Island at the age of 84," said an old-time railroad man to a press representative, "reminds me that I saw him one time when he was within a fraction of a second of never being more than half that age, to say nothing of his facing an excellent chance of being pretty well scattered around the Kansas prairie. That happened forty-two years ago and it was on the occasion of a most extraordinary buffalo hunt.

"The Kansas Pacific Railroad was opened as far as Wallace, Kan., in 1872. The late Lucius T. Stanley, who subsequently became prominent in railroad circles in the West, was the first station agent at Wallace, and I was with him more for company, I guess, than for anything else, for there wasn't much to do but hunt buffaloes and keep watch on thieving Indians, who were yet plentiful around there. Buffaloes were still roaming then in vast herds over the prairie thereabout. One day Col. Moale, who was commandment at Fort Wallace, sent us word that ex-Governor Sprague of Rhode Island, with a friend, was to be his guest at the post on a certain day, and was eager to enjoy a buffalo hunt; that he had arranged for one, and invited us to join in it.

"The Governor and his friend—a gentleman whose name was Morgan—came as announced, and I don't suppose there was ever a hunting party on the continent that presented so formidable an array as did the one that was formed that time to go out after buffalo. Governor Sprague, escorted by Col. Moale, led the hunt. His friend Morgan, accompanied by an officer of the post, rode next, accompanied by a number of invited guests, Station Agent Stanley and myself among the number. Behind us rode a dozen or more officers and attaches of the post, the rear being brought up by a guard of fifteen soldiers, in charge of the commissariat, and who were to act as rounders-up of buffaloes for the benefit of the hunters and to bear the trophies of the chase back home.

"Word had come to Wallace that a large herd of buffalo were feeding on the plain fifteen miles to the northwest. The hunt headed that way and after a two hours' ride we came in sight of the herd, having passed many straggling bunches of buffalo on the way without disturbing them. That herd was indeed a vast one. As far as the eye could reach over the plain the feeding buffalo spread away in a black, undulating mass. As was the habit of the buffalo, the herd was broken up in small bunches, each bunch in charge of three or four young bulls, while the inevitable outposts of dethroned old bulls kept enforced watch and guard, cropping the grass in impotent loneliness. It chanced that the character of the wild pasturage was what was known as 'spotty,' that is, the growth was uneven, so that the bunches of buffalo were more detached than was usual with a feeding herd, a fact favorable for the greater success of the hunt.

"The hunting ground was far from being such as would have been selected if there had been choice in the matter. It was naturally rolling, and was diversified by deep gullies, the dry beds of streams and ponds that had once irrigated the plain. It was clear to the eye of an experienced buffalo hunter that a race with a buffalo over that treacherous course would be accompanied by its own perils, to say nothing of those that would attend the furious charge of a wounded and enraged bull. But the hunt was there, and no one felt disposed to back out. Gov. Sprague was particularly eager to engage the game.

"The wind being greatly in our favor, we drew up to within 200 yards of the big herd undiscovered. We halted at that distance, gazed for a few minutes on the vast collection of shaggy monsters, a sight the like of which no one on earth will ever see again, and then formed a plan of attack. On the left of the main herd, and somewhat isolated from it, were two large bunches of buffalo. Col. Moale selected them for attack by a party consisting of Gov. Sprague and himself and the Governor's friend Morgan, and in personal charge of Lieut. Irwin, aided by two other officers of the post. The rest of us were to wait until that party had made their assault, and then join in the chase as circumstances and the situation might dictate.

"Gov. Sprague and Col. Moale put spurs to their horses, sped like wind across the intervening space and were fairly among the buffaloes before the animals were aware of danger. We watched the result from our positions. Gov. Sprague had never been in a buffalo hunt before, but he had been well coached on the way in by Col. Moale. He urged his mount unhesitatingly into one of the bunches, selecting an enormous bull for his first trial of nerve and skill in such an engagement. He sent a pistol ball behind the bull's forehead. Instantly the big brute, enraged, turned on his enemy and charged furiously. Gov. Sprague dextrously avoided the rush, and by a quick detour drew up close to the ponderous bull and dropped him in his tracks at the second shot. Leaving him to be disposed of by the cavalymen, he dashed on after more excitement.

"The buffalo were now flying over the plain like the swell of a gigantic wave. The ground quivered beneath their mighty tread as with the tremor of an earthquake. There was no time to lose. Gov. Sprague spurred his horse on to its full speed and was soon side by side with another immense bull. Just as he raised his arm to fire his horse sank up to its knees in a prairie dog's hole, tumbled forward and threw its rider over its head. The Governor fell almost in front of the flying bull. The bull stopped in his flight and charged with lowered head and flashing eyes upon his prostrate foe. Unaided, there could have been no possible escape for Gov. Sprague from the maddened animal's thrust of horn. None of our particular party was near enough to hope to render the necessary aid, but we dashed at breakneck speed toward the spot.

"Fortunately, Col. Moale had kept close in the rear of his distinguished guest, and only in the possibility of his clearing the space between him and the imperiled man in time lay any hope of the latter's rescue from being torn to pieces by the goring and trampling of the furious bull. The Colonel sank spur into his horse. If the animal had once stumbled or faltered, Gov. Sprague would surely have been impaled and torn asunder before our very eyes. The Colonel's horse was true, but when he dashed with his rider upon the angry bull and turned his assault to retreat the buffalo's horns were touching the helpless hunter's breast.

"Before Col. Moale could dismount the rescued guest was on his feet, and although pale from his close call, ready to mount again for the chase, his horse having been recaptured by the cavalymen. He scarcely waited to thank the Colonel for his timely interference with the bull before he was a horse and in full pursuit of the flying herd again.

"While he stood gazing after him and admiring his pluck, ping! ping! came the whizz of bullets so close to the ears of some of us that we could almost feel their wind. We looked in the direction these messengers came from, and there another novel sight met our eyes. Gov. Sprague's friend Morgan had been unhorsed by a bull he had attacked, and the bull was chasing him around on the prairie, while Morgan was trying to put an end to the unpleasant pursuit by turning at short intervals and blazing away at the bull's head. He might as well have been firing against a rock, even if every one of his shots had hit its mark. It was plain, however, that none of his shot went where it was sent, but were sailing right toward our group. We were consequently in more danger than the bull or his unhorsed enemy, and if both of them had not passed out of sight into one of the deep gullies there is no telling what the result might have been to us. A couple of the cavalymen dashed to Morgan's rescue, but before they arrived at the gully Morgan came clambering out, black with prairie dust and streaming with sweat, but with an exultant cry, 'I got the pesky beast!' Both Morgan and the bull had stumbled and tumbled together into the gully. Morgan got to his feet first and by a lucky shot had put a bullet into a vital spot in the buffalo, and 'got him.'

"The hunt lasted an hour before the last of the herd had got beyond reach. When the party assembled at the rendezvous it was found that the score of the hunt was twenty big bulls, of which Gov. Sprague had bagged five."—Sportsmen's Review.

LOOK OUT FOR FAKE FUR MEN

High Cost of Ammunition Will Not Deter Sportsmen.

Fur salesmen have been traveling throughout the state taking advantage of the ignorance of the people of the real value of furs. A Lewiston fur dealer says: We have had many inquiries as to the value of furs bought, coming from outside towns. In some instances these salesmen offered to allow the prospective customers to send the merchandise to us for valuation, relying on the fact that this offer (on account of distance out of the question) would win the customers, and in some instances it proved successful.

These fur salesmen offer wonderful "bargains," it is said, leading their customers to believe they are buying choice pieces of fur, at low prices when it really they are paying twice the value of cheap imitations.

It is said that several of these fur salesmen have been working in

New England since the opening of the fur season and have shown coats, muffs and scarfs, at prices which they claimed were less than half the regular retail prices for the same articles. They have specialized in imitation lynx and Far Eastern mink furs and have sold at prices far below the wholesale prices for the genuine articles in this line. The Far Eastern mink, so-called, is said to be a Japanese mink, one of the cheapest kinds of mink, while in some instances the imitation lynx is a practically worthless dyed fur. Prices on these articles have been quoted at about double their real value, but way below the value of genuine.

LITTLE ANIMAL WORTH FORTUNE

Dover, Me., Sept. 20.—From poverty to wealth in the past few years by the growing of black foxes is, in brief, the story of Maurice F. Stevens of this town who to-day is the proprietor of one of the largest fox ranches in New England. Mr. Stevens came to Dover 11 years ago as a shoe cobbler and practically all of his earthly possessions consisted of a cobbling outfit, a little household furniture. He was also the head of a healthy and hungry family.

After working a short time at his business he secured possession of a farm on the outskirts of the town and went to farming on a small scale. He was an expert trapper of foxes and became interested in the fox breeding proposition. His start was made with common red foxes which he managed to capture alive. He finally came into possession of a pair of blacks and to these he devoted his entire time aside from his farm duties.

The blacks brought forth a litter of young and through extreme care upon the part of Mr. Stevens they lived and grew. A second litter likewise prospered and early in the summer Mr. Stevens sold five proven silver black breeders to a New York fox breeding concern for $40,000 cash. He also refused an offer of $22,000 made by Prince Edward Island parties for a pair of proven breeders which he now owns.

The foxes are kept in a high enclosure and no one except Mr. Stevens ever visits the pens. Upon each visit he wears the same clothes and some of the creatures have become so tame they pay scant attention to the regular visits of their owner.—Kennebec Journal.

Tobacco That Comes To You Cut Up, Comes Dried Up

Real tobacco flavor depends upon the leaf being preserved in its natural state, possible only by pressing the leaves into plug form and keeping it in by covering it with a natural leaf wrapper. The natural flavor and strength of tobacco escape when cut or granulated.

Take a Plug of Sickle that is even thoroughly dried out so that when you whittle it off it crumbles into dust, but it will burn and smoke smooth and cool as it has all of its original tobacco flavor preserved, unevaporated in Plug Form.

Whittling a pipeful is little trouble, amply repaid in both quality and quantity. Try this experiment and judge for yourself.

GAME SEASON IS NOW WELL BEGUN

Warm Weather and Thick Foliage Cannot Stop Maine Hunters.

Deer hunting in Maine this season which opened very inauspiciously under bad climatic conditions was more successful than even the most optimistic could have wished, says the Bangor Commercial. The receipts which are always very small for the opening days are much larger than in previous years. To date there are records of seven deer and two bear killed as against three deer and two bear last year for the same period of time. All the deer so far reported were shot on the opening day and with many more which have not yet been reported the prospect is good for a very successful year.

So far the deer brought into Bangor have been quite small and this may be due to many causes. It is too early and the number received is too small to make comment on the size of any real value. Anything along that line would be but a guess and one man's guess is as good as another. Some of the hunters who have returned found, as outlined in

GAME NOTES.

Amory B. Chaplin, paymaster for the Great Northern Paper Co., was planning to attend the Great Northern field day and supper at the Clark bungalow, so when he was up to Seboomook, Monday he made up his mind he would try for a nice chunk of venison to take down to his associates for that Saturday night get-together feed. Very soon after the law went on Friday morning he got his deer and came down with it on the boat leaving Northwest Carry at 11 a. m.

The deer arrived all right, and graced the table at the Clark bungalow Saturday night, when scores of hungry Great Northern men did the honors, while acknowledging Paymaster Chaplin as a crack shot.

Dr. and Mrs. James F. Cox and their guest, Miss Gertrude M. Whittier of Buffalo, N. Y., have returned from Davidson, where they were the guests of Ora Gilpatrick on a hunting trip. Mrs. Cox and Miss Whittier succeeded in shooting five part-ridges each and Dr. Cox brought home a fine young buck.

Dr. Cox reports that deer are quite plentiful around Davidson, although the hunting conditions are not of the best because of the great amount of foliage. Although he saw no moose, he did notice several tracks, indicating that they have not left the state entirely as yet.

E. S. McAuley of Stillwater, who is 72 years old, shot a good sized deer, Saturday.

GET TROUT AND GROUSE.

Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Merrill of Los Angeles, Calif., who have been spending the season at their summer home in Camden, arrived by auto from a very successful outing trip to Moosehead lake, Saturday forenoon. Mr. Merrill was able to enjoy a day or two of trout fishing before the season shifted to the big game period, during which he caught his legal limit of the spotted beauties for which Maine's great inland sea is famous the country over. The next day he went out from the W. E. Hodgkins camps at Moose River, which he made his headquarters and in an hour's time he knocked over all the grouse he wished to bring home with him. Later in the day he added a deer to his bag and started for the city, abundantly content with his privileges as a sportsman.

Dr. Jarvis B. Woods and Dr. H. T. Clough of Bangor returned Saturday from a short trip in the region north of Moosehead lake, bringing down two large deer each and all the birds that the law allows. The largest deer was a big buck weighing 205 pounds. They report game as plentiful and the conditions as fairly good for this season of the year. Birds are very plentiful and many should be bagged by the hunters this season.

From all reports deer are plentiful. Last winter was mild and most favorable for natural increase. People who travel through the deer regions say that deer are as plentiful and can be found almost anywhere.

Along with fall hunting comes the increase of ammunition which has advanced by leaps and bounds until it is higher than it has ever been before. This, however, will not discourage the hunters but will no doubt make them more cautious about shooting what isn't necessary. All metallic ammunition has advanced ten per cent, or, for 30-30's the price has gone from 70 to 75 cents for 20 cartridges. The price for other metallics has increased accordingly.

Guides and lumbermen report that there are plenty of game in the woods and a good season is anticipated. Moose are protected by a close season extending over the next four years.

The number of bear shipped out of the woods on the first two days of the hunting season is surprisingly large and indicates that bear have increased considerably within the past few years.

Yesterday at many of the stations along the main line of the Maine Central Railroad returning hunters could be seen with their allotment of five "biddies" in their hands.

Warden F. M. Perkins, on duty at Bangor Union Station, said yesterday that in his opinion there would be a large number of deer and birds brought out of the woods this fall.

Yesterday, while the writer paddled down the Passadumkeag stream in Penobscot County, game was to be seen on almost every hand. Evidence of the presence of deer was visible all about as the meadow grass and thick pads in the "logans" were, to use the expression patronized by Maine guides "all wallowed up," where deer and moose had been out upon the meadows and at the water edge to procure food and drink.

On October 1, the crack of rifles could plainly be heard at various points in the woods and the hurried firing was proof conclusive that someone had sighted a deer and, taking advantage of the fact that the game law was "off" were attempting to "hang up" some venison.

The hunters are going into the woods in numbers now but in the next two or three weeks more will be seen "heading in" with packs, snowshoes, mackinaws and rifles preparatory to "laying down" on the beaten trails in the forest primeval for a few succeeding weeks.

CATCHES HIMSELF INSTEAD OF FISH.

A most peculiar accident occurred at Attean. Waldo Varney of Bowdoin, aged 23, who has been working for Ruel E. Holden, proprietor of Attean Camps, went up the upper part of the lake to meet a party and having some time to wait, took up a new fish-hook and line, intending to fish a while. At the very first throw of the line the hook rebounded and caught in the white of his left eye. His cries brought help from campers nearby, one of whom happened to be a physician from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who altho handicapped by a dearth of surgical instruments succeeded in extricating the fish hook, and Mr. Varney was sent down to the M. G. Hospital in Lewiston, where it was said that unless complications set in his eye sight will be saved.

OCTOBER WILL BE BUSY ONE HERE

Death of Little June Sad Blow to the Ellises.

(Special Correspondence.)

The Tavern, Rangeley, October 1—The hunting season opens to-day, and the shotgun and rifle take the place of the fish rod. This month promises to be a busy one for this hotel. Every room was taken last night and yesterday there were automobile parties here from Maryland, Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts and Maine.

The Rangeley Lake House closed this morning and the following people are among those who came here, some for a short stay while others plan to spend the autumn days: Col. John Caswell, Mrs. T. H. Bauchle, Mrs. Spear and daughter of New York; Joseph Wadsworth of Brooklyn, N. York; Gordon McNeil of Boston; Alton Wood of Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Tapping and son.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mason are also to close their camp on the lake shore and come here for a month's stay. Mr. Mason's sister, Mrs. C. C. Switzer and son, Charles S. Switzer of Brooklyn, N. Y., came two weeks ago to remain during this month.

P. R. Labouisse and son of Washington, D. C., who have been at Long Pond, passed the night Thursday here, en route for their home and express themselves as greatly pleased with their first visit to this part of the country.

The following party from Baltimore, Md., who are motoring through New England: H. Clay Weldman, Jr., Wells Taylor, L. S. Taylor, left here this morning for Bretton Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. S. Foss, Clifton Foss, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Brewster and Mrs. H. M. Wentworth of Portland were here for the week-end.

As the hotel has often been in darkness, N. H. Ellis & Sons decided to install a lighting plant for their own use, which was put in this week and is proving very satisfactory.

Mrs. H. E. Adt and daughter of New Haven, Conn., who have been in camp in the Dead River region enjoyed a ten days' stay at The Tavern returning home Monday.

Miss Alma N. Harris of Chelmsford, Mass., who for two months, has been boarding at Lake View Farm and the last week here, went home this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Dearborn and Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Howe of Belmont, N. H., were one of this week's automobile parties who registered here.

M. F. H. Foster of Houston, Texas, who was here for the week-end, has with Harold Fuller for guide, gone on a camping trip of several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bloodgood of New York, who returned from Big Island, Megantic Club, were here for over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Johnson of Walnut Hill, Sarah J. Merrill of Portland, and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Chase and daughter of Cumberland Foreside, while on an automobile trip to this part of Maine remained here part of the week.

The Tavern is now the busiest place in this section, and it is where no matter how deep the snow, or how low the thermometer registers, one is sure to find it warm and comfortable, as the hotel is heated with steam. If the city folks want to come down in Maine for a sleigh ride and other winter sports they will make no mistake in coming to Rangeley.

Rev. Chas. Beecher Stowe of New York, who came in the early summer has in a wonderful manner regained his health and expects next week to join his family in New York and wit them go to Bermuda for the winter. Mr. Stowe is a gentleman who has traveled a great deal, and the son of the author of Uncle Tom's Cabin, which no doubt has been read more than any other novel ever published. Mr. Stowe has added to his host of friends during his first visit to the Rangeleys, who wish for himself and family a pleasant and happy winter, and hope to welcome him back another season.

Sincere and heartfelt sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Ellis and family in the sudden death of sweet little June, the youngest child of the family of ten children, which occurred at Lake View Farm Friday morning, September 24th. Not often is a child more loved, for she was like the sunshine wherever she went, and like the perfume of the beautiful flowers she loved so well, her memory will linger in the hearts of those who knew and loved her. Miss Kathleen J. Dyer of Passaic, N. J., came from her home to attend the funeral of her friend June, and Miss Katherine Nice of Ogontz, Penn., who has been at Kennebago for the summer also came.

On Wednesday Mr. N. H. Ellis of Lake View Farm, accompanied by his wife and son Reed, went to the Central Maine hospital in Lewiston for treatment and all trust he will gain rapidly and before many weeks return to his home and family.

FISHES OF THE HOLY LAND

The principal fishes of the Sea of Galilee to-day are the same as they were 2,000 years ago—bream and chub. These were taken in olden times by both net and hook and line.

The fishermen whom Christ chose as His disciples—Peter, Andrew James and John—were professional net fishermen, but, hook and line fishing was a favorite pastime of the well-to-do Egyptians as well as the poor people who could not afford a net.

Weirs not unlike the modern article were used in the Holy Land in Bible time, excepting Gennesaret, where the law of the land forbade them.

The bream and the chub were eaten alike by rich and poor people. Wayfarers roasted them over chip fires in the groves and on the lake shores, housewives boiled and broiled them, and the wealthy man served them at his banquets. "Moses, the friend of God," writes Izaak Walton, in his immortal "Compleat Angler," quoting from Lev., xi., 9: Duet., xiv., 9, "appointed fish to be the chief diet for the best commonwealth that ever yet was. The nightiest feasts have been of fish."

Our Saviour "fed the people on fish when they were hungry." The species is not alluded to in the Biblical paragraph, but no doubt the fish feasts of the Lord were mostly of chub and bream. Jesus loved fishermen and was in their society most of His time. No other class of men were so well favored by Him. He inspired St. Peter, St. John, St. Andrew and St. James, poor fishermen, who drew their nets for the people, and these four fishermen, declares Father Izaak, "He never reproved for their employment or calling, as He did scribes and money changers."

The Lord's favorite places of labor and repose—the places He most frequented—were near the fishes and fishermen. "He began to teach by the seashore. His pulpit was a fishing boat or the shore of a lake. He was in the stern of the boat, asleep. He was always near the water to cheer and comfort those who followed it." And Walton tells us that "when God intended to reveal high notions to his prophets he carried them to the seashore, that He might settle their mind in a quiet repose."

Bream and chub are not monster fishes—they do not average the great weights of the tarpon and the tuna; they are of the small and medium-size species; so, if the apostles were pleased with "ye gods and little fishes" we mortals of to-day should be satisfied with our catch, be it ever so small.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1915.

HIGH COST OF AMMUNITION
WILL NOT DETER SPORTS-MEN.

Bangor hunters are now oiling their rifles and seeing that they are in good condition for a strenuous season in pursuit of game. A few parties have left for the northern part of the state.

Deer hunting conditions are not of the very best at present, owing to the large amount of foliage and leaves on the trees at this time, caused by the unusually large amount of rain during the past summer, and the lateness of the fall. In many parts of the state, the leaves have hardly commenced to turn yellow yet and it will be a month before the trees are bare enough to enable hunters to see any distance through the woods.

A Bangor sportsman expressed the hope Tuesday that those who plan to go hunting this fall, either for birds or deer, will go to some place at least 25 miles away from Bangor.
"Every fall, the amateurs from this and surrounding towns crowd the second growth everywhere within a ten or 15 miles radius of Bangor so that it is a sure thing that there are two guns for every partridge and four or five for every deer that may be in this section of the state. That there have been no hunting accidents in the vicinity of Bangor in recent seasons is surprising, as anyone will testify on going into the woods any day this fall and hear the guns popping right and left."

Despite the rise in the price of ammunition, caused of course by the war, it is said that there will be just as much hunting as in past years. As a matter of fact, the amount of ammunition that would be used on a hunting trip would have such little effect on the cost of a trip that it would not be considered.

Shells for shotguns have taken a jump from 60 cents for 25 to 70 cents, while the price of high base shells with chilled shot has advanced from 75 cents to 85 cents. All metallic ammunition has advanced ten per cent. For 30-30's the price has gone from 70 cents for 20 cartridges to 76 cents.

When it comes to actual dollars and cents, a hunting trip should cost the man from outside Maine much less money this year than it has for some time. The license fee for non-resident hunters has been dropped from $25 to $15 the price originally fixed, so that there will be a saving right here. With a smaller fee, it is felt that more hunters will be attracted into the state from outside, during the coming season, and this will help the sporting camp proprietors and, in fact, all who have to do with the traveling public.—Bangor

ALL HONORS TO COMPANY F.

Winners of Both Company Team and Tyro Team Matches.

CAPT. CHARLES H. NORTON, COMPANY F.

At the State shoot held at Auburn recently Company F team carried off all honors and made the best showing on record in the State.

Their company team won first place; their tyro team first place and the individuals won cups and medals galore. Lieut. Dan F.
Christie made several wonderful records, his chief work being at 300 yards rapid fire, when he made 68 bull's-eyes in succession. Besides this Mr. Christie won practically everything in sight at pistol shooting.

At no State or National shoot have the teams of any company made the records shown by the boys of Dover-Foxcroft.

The tyro team is made up of men who have never participated in any shoot. Some of these men had been members of Company F a few months only.

THE INDIVIDUAL WORK.

CHRISTIE'S WORLD'S RECORD.
Dan F. Christie, second lieutenant of Co. F, 2nd Infantry, Dover, who is one of the best shots in the guard, established a world's record at 300 yards rapid fire, Friday, when he hung up a string of 68 bull's-eyes in a row. The rules of the match provide for ten shots, prone from standing, on target D, two minutes being allowed for the string.

LIEUTENANT DAN F. CHRISTIE.

Made New World's Record 68 Bullseyes in Succession at 300 Yards.

300 Rapid Fire.
Bailey,	5 5 5 5 5 5 5 4 4 3—46
Weymouth,	4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4—40

Earlier in the week, Christie, with Doane of Bangor and Bartlett of Livermore Falls, had tied at 19
bulls each and on the shoot off, Doane won. As the competition was still on, Christie kept at it and Friday, just before the range closed, he was rewarded.

After tying the previous score
several times he started plugging them in. For six strings he kept every shot on the figure that represents a man prone on the ground.
In his next string, two shots were "fours," giving him a record of 68 bulls. The former record, made at Wakefield this year, was 48 bulls.

The range officers in the pit, who were watching the firing, said that the greater part of the shots could be covered with one hand and all of them were well within the limit of the bullseye. Christie actually got 63 bulls before he shot a "four." Another four followed and the remaining five were on the black, but according to the system of scoring rapid fire he was credited with 68 bulls, establishing the new record.

Lieutenant Christie also won second place in the 200 yards rapid fire, re-entry, scoring 19 5s. Tourtlotte wa fourth.

Lieutenant Bailey won the Evening Express watch, 200 yards slow fire; score 45.

Lieut. Christie won first place in the 600 yard shoot, all comers; score 47; also first in the 1000 yards;
Sergt. Weymouth, third.

Three men, Bailey, Weymouth and Tyler, made the Infantry team in the Artillery-Infantry team match.

Four men, Tourtlotte, Butler, Mills and Pembroke, made the Infantry tyro team in the Artillery-Infantry tyro match, Tourtlotte being captain and Mills team coach. This was a remarkable standing for men who have been in the company only three months.

In the Marston individual pistol contest, open to enlisted men, Mills was third.

The cups and medals are all exhibited in the store of Dow & Boyle. Captain Charles H. Norton and other members of Company F have reason to be very proud of the records made by the teams at Auburn. The winning of both teams in one company in one season, as stated before, has never been accomplished by any other company.

The winning by such men as Lieuts. Christie and Bailey and the others is the result of practice combined with a record for clean living. There is no better citizen or business man in Piscataquis county than the coach of the company teams and the world's record winner, Lieut. Christie.

The photos from which the cuts are made are all by Lieut. Bailey which show his standing in his art as well as in rifle work.

NOTES FROM ALL AROUND

George Burns of Argyle shot the second deer reported in eastern Maine, getting a buck weighing 92 pounds in Argyle Friday forenoon. The season is starting early, and it seems that deer are pretty numerous around Bangor, when two are shot the first day within 15 miles of the city.

The first deer of the season to pass through Augusta by automobile was seen Saturday. It was a doe of medium weight and was carried through Water street strapped to the running board of the automobile. Not a few birds were brought into the city Friday and Saturday by local sportsmen who lost no time in going after partridge upon the arrival of the open season.

The Maine State rifle team left Portland for Jacksonville, Fla., Tuesday noon. There they will practice for a few days and then take part in the National shoot. The trip will be made by special car.

A frightened partridge spoiled a kettle of pickles and generally 'ruined' up things in the kitchen of William H. Hall's home in Belfast, Friday. The bird crashed through a double sash, landing on the range in a shower of glass. Three women who were in the kitchen were much startled and a glass in the hand of one of them was broken, adding to the feathers and window glass in the pickle kettle.

Mrs. Willis E. Bacheller of New York writes Portland friends of the opening of her new studio at 2.20 Madison avenue. Mrs. Bacheller, since the death of her husband, several years ago, has carried on the New York studios alone. She now has, besides her vocal classes, auxiliary studies in the French, German and Italian languages, interpretive dancing, dramatic action, sight reading, etc. Mr. and Mrs. Bacheller formerly conducted the summer camps at Wilton, Me.

Several of Gardiner's nimrods have taken advantage of the open season on birds and as a result several good bags are reported. A. C. Robinson, Perley Lawrence and Frank Harrington brought back 11 partridges and two woodcocks. E. C. Bosworth and Bert Tasker seven partridge and four woodcock. Earl Perry and Thomas Connors, four partridge. J. W. Rafter and F. H. Woodbury, three partridge.

Messrs. R. C. Russell of Arlington Heights, Mass., and Arthur Sylvester of Boston have been the guests of the former's aunt, Mrs. C. Libby and cousin, George Grover. Accompanied by George Adams and George Grover these gentlemen took an auto trip to Bingham for some hunting and stopped at Chase Pond Camps. They returned to Phillips to bring Messrs. Adams and Grover home and were accompanied by Guy Chadbourne and Miss Stewart. They have now returned to Bingham for a few days more of hunting when after a short stay in Phillips and Saco they will return to Massachusetts. They made the trip from home by auto.

E. P. Davis, Harry M. Pierce and Fred R. Allen motored to Farmington last week to attend the fair. Mr. Davis will remain in town for the winter but Mr. Pierce returned to King & Bartlett camps.

The outing and clam bake of the Springvale Fish and Game Club which was held at Wells Beach recently was one of the most successful and largely attended events in the history of the Club. There were ninety-one persons who partook of the clam bake, which was furnished by C. W. Davis, proprietor of the new casino. Clams, lobsters, eggs, sweet corn, potatoes, sausage, frankfurters and tripe were cooked in regular clam-bake style and made up a most tempting repast, to which all did full justice.

NYOIL FOR GUNS AND FISH-RODS

William F. Nye is the greatest authority on refined oils in the world. He was the first bottler; has the largest business and NYOIL is the best oil he has ever made.

NYOIL HAS NO EQUAL.

Beware of scented mixtures called oil. Use NYOIL on everything where a light oil is needed. It prevents rust and gives perfect lubrication.

Sportsmen, use it liberally on your firearms and your rod. You will find it by far the best. Hardware and sporting goods dealers sell it in large bottles (cheaper to buy) at 25 c. and in trial sizes at 10 c. Made by

CHANGING INTO WINTER QUARTERS

Gardner and Fitchburg Parties Keeping the Hearthstone Warm.

(Special Correspondence.)

Mountain View House, Rangeley Lake, October 1.—The summer is ended, and the fishermen have reeled in, and the fish will have no more free lunches of angle worms or the fly cast for them until next May when over the wire the message will flash, "the ice has left Rangeley Lakes."

Now for the deer hunting! The echo of the shotgun and rifle will now be heard through the woods and until December 15th the deer will have to be on the run for their lives. It is said the Sunday law, that forbids hunting on that day, but which like many a Maine law has been broken more often than kept, is to be enforced. This is what should be done and thus prevent many accidents.

Tuesday, Messrs. Arthur P. Knapp of Lowell, Mass., Henry R. Peirson of Pittsfield, Mass., and Owen Cooga of New York City, with their guides, Jack McKinnon and Herbert Moore came out from Kennebec. They said that morning the ground and piazza of their camp was white with snow. The gentlemen who went hunting for birds got all the law allows of partidge, and reported good fishing.

Since the change of time on the railroad coming and going to Kennebec, the tourist spends the night at this hotel.

Just now this is a busy place getting things changed into winter quarters, where the traveler will be warm and comfortable when the snow flies and the thermometer take a drop to 20 or 30 degrees below zero.

The first of the week Mr. and Mrs. J. Lloyd Coater of Ardmore, Penn., left here for a hunting trip to Kennebec.

The Gardner and Fitchburg, Mass., gentlemen, Messrs. M. B. Damon, F. S. Nichols, F. J. Pierce, E. S. Dow, C. P. Pearson, F. S. Butler, F. S. Pope and C. A. Brown are still keeping the hearthstone in two of the camps warm. The hunters furnished partridge for a daily feast, but the fishermen did not often venture out. Those who came by automobile plan to leave for home the first of the week and the other members of the party will linger a few days longer.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bowley yesterday took an automobile trip to Farmington.

If the October days are warm and pleasant there will be many guests entertained at Mountain View.

STEEL HEAD TROUT SEBEC LAKE.

Albert H. Densmore, superintendent of the government fish hatchery at St. Johnsbury, Vt., has arrived at Sebec lake with three thousand or more steel head trout from Washington. The fish are smart and active fingerlings and only five or six were lost in transportation. They are when grown a fine pan fish and exceedingly gamey, affording great sport for the fisherman. The lot was planted one-half in Sebec lake and the other half in the Butter-milks, where they will eventually work down into Sebec lake. Several years ago an attempt was made to stock this lake with togue and while ample supply could be had from the government at Washington, the fish and game commissioners of Maine would not consent, and no togue have ever been planted there. This is one of the four original homes of land-locked salmon in the state, Se-bago, Green lake and Grand lake be-ing the other three. The steel head trout are not so large as the togue, but about the size of the average land-locked salmon and ought to get along well with that fish. If they do well, more will be put into the lake and in a few years will be full grown. Many thousands of native trout have been put into the lake and its tributaries in years gone by, but no satisfactory results were achieved and it is very seldom that a trout is taken from the lake. Mr. Densmore, is a Dover, Me. boy, and has always taken an interest in the fish culture in Maine.

MAINE WOODS RECALLS OLD DAYS

Lexington, Mass., Sept. 22, 1915.
To the Editor of Maine Woods:
Enclosed is check for $1 for a year's subscription to the Maine Woods commencing with this week's number. It is over 30 years ago that I first read it when at Lake Point Cottage and later when we had our camp "Spruce Lodge" at Haines Landing we always subscribed, but as we had not been here for some time until the last three years had rather neglected it, but on reading it this fall and seeing so many familiar names and places that recall the old days I feel that I shall enjoy reading it again during the winter in anticipation of our return next season.

Yours truly,
G. L. Gilmore.

GAME WARDENS APPOINTED

Bangor Station Will Be a Busy One
—Crowell Gets First Deer.

Bangor, Me., Oct. 1.—Chief Game Wardens Frank M. Perkins of Bradley and John E. Bowden have been appointed to enforce the game laws of the State at the Union station in Bangor, the most important game shipping point in the State, and Mr. Perkins began his duties on Friday. Mr. Bowden Saturday or Monday.

Mr. Perkins is a veteran in the employ of the State fish and game commission and has been on duty at the Bangor station off and on for 20 years. He and Mr. Bowden are both capable and gentlemanly officials, well adapted to represent the State of Maine to out of state sportsmen. Mr. Bowden has been connected with the department for several years and was recently a candidate for the office of commissioner.

These wardens may have occasion to go over the Maine Central line east of Bangor or on the Calais or Bar Harbor lines, or west to Augusta, searching trains for game. Game wardens are the only officials in the State, with the exception of the United States marshals, who can arrest a man any time or anywhere, if they are convinced that their man is guilty of violating the game laws. Any warden can go anywhere in this part of the State after game law-breakers.

Bertrand Smith, game warden at Augusta, has been detailed to look after shipments passing through Oak-land, but it may be necessary later on to appoint a substitute by reason of Mr. Smith not being about to remain on duty through the entire season.

E. M. Crowell of Orrington shot the first deer that has been reported killed in Maine since the opening of the hunting season in Bangor Thursday night. The animal was killed early in the forenoon.

BOOKS FOR HUNTERS, TRAPPERS, FISHERMEN AND SPORTSMEN

The following books are endorsed by leading publishers, hunters, trappers and sportsmen in North America. The information they contain is reliable, having been gathered from actual experiences and successful experiments of men who are leaders in the different branches covered by these works.

These books should be in the hands of every man who goes into the woods, either for pleasure or profit.

FOX TRAPPING

A BOOK of instructions tells how to trap, snare, poison and shoot. A valuable book for trappers. If all the methods as given in this had been studied out by one man and he had begun trapping when Columbus discovered America, more than four hundred years ago he would not be half completed. This book is edited by A. R. Harding and contains about 50 illustrations, and about 200 pages, is divided into 22 chapters, as follows:
General Information; Baits and Scents; Foxes and Odor; Chaff Method Scents; Traps and Hints; All Round Land Set; Snow Set; Trapping Red Fox; Red and Grey; Wire and Twine Snare; Snare, Shooting, Poison; My First Fox; Tennessee Trapper's Methods; Many Good Methods; Fred and the Old Trapper; Experienced Trapper Tricks; Reynard Outwitted; Fox Shooting; A Shrewd Fox; Still Hunting the Fox; Fox Ranches; Steel Traps.

Price, postpaid, cloth bound, 60 cents.

SCIENCE OF TRAPPING

DESCRIBES the fur-bearing animals, their nature, habits and distribution, with practical methods for their capture. Contains 245 pages, size 5 x 7 inches, with 40 illustrations. The chapter on "Tracks and Signs" is worth dollars to young and inexperienced hunters and trappers, as the author shows drawings of the footprints of the various animals. The author is personally acquainted with some of the most expert trappers in North America, and has also followed the Indians over their trap lines, and in this way learned many things which to the white man are not generally known. The book contains twenty-four chapters as follows: The Trapper's Art; The Skunk; The Mink; The Weasel; The Marten; The Fisher; The Otter; The Beaver; The Muskrat; The Fox; The Wolf; The Bear; The Raccoon; The Badger; The Opossum; The Lynx; Bay Lynx or Wild Cat; The Cougar; The Wolverine; The Pocket Gopher; The Rabbit; Tracks and Signs; Handling Furs; Steel Traps.

Price, postpaid, cloth bound, 60 cents.

DEADFALLS AND SNARES

A BOOK of instructions for trappers about these and other home-made traps by A. R. Harding. This book contains 232 pages, size 5 x 7 inches, and 84 drawings and illustrations, printed on good heavy paper. The most complete book on how to make "home-made" traps ever published. Building deadfalls and constructing snares, as explained in this book is of value to trappers where material, saplings, poles, boards, rocks, etc., are to be had for constructing. The book contains 28 chapters as follows:
Building Deadfalls; Bear and Coon Deadfalls; Otter Deadfall; Martin Deadfall; Stone Deadfall; The Bear Pen; Portable Traps; Some Triggers; Trip Triggers; How to Set; When to Build; Where to Build; The Proper Bait; Traps Knocked Off; String Pole Snare; Trail Set Snare; Bait Set Snare; The Box Trap; The Coop Trap; The Pit Trap; Number of Traps; When to Trap; Season's Catch; General information; Skinning and Stretching; Handling and Grading; From Animal to Market; Steel Traps.

Price, postpaid, cloth bound, 60 cents.

HUNTING DOGS

DESCRIBES in a practical manner, the training, handling, treatment, breeds, etc., best adapted for night hunting, as well as gun dogs for daylight sport. This book is not intended for the field trial dog men, but is for the real dog men who delight in chases that are genuine. Contains 253 pages, size 5 x 7 inches, with 45 illustrations, 26 chapters as follows:

Part 1—Hunting Dogs, Night Hunting, The Night Hunting Dog—His Ancestry, Training the Hunting Dog, Training the Coon Dog, Training for Skunk, Opossum and Mink, Wolf and Coyote Hunting, Training for Squirrels and Rabbits, Training the Deer Hound, Training—Specific Things to Teach, Training—Random Suggestions from Many Sources. Part 2—Breeding and Care of Dogs—Selecting the Dog, Care and Breeding, Breeding (Continued), Peculiarities of Dogs and Practical Hints, Allments of the Dog. Part 3—Dog Lore—Still Trailers vs. Tonguers, Music, The Dog on the Trap Line, Sledge Dogs of the North. Part 4—The Hunting Dog Family—American Fox Hound, The Beagle, Dachshund and Basset Hound, Pointers and Setters, Spaniels, Terriers—Airedales, Scotch Collies, House and Watch Dogs, A Farmer Hunter—His Views, Descriptive Table of Technical Terms.

Price, postpaid, cloth bound 60 cents.

FUR FARMING

A BOOK of information about fur-bearing animals, enclosures, their habits, care, etc., and is the recognized authority on fur raising—now in fourth edition—written from information secured from reliable sources, including U.S. Government reports. Demand for furs is increasing yearly while the supply is becoming less. Fur farming is a profitable industry. Book contains 266 pages, 39 illustrations from photographs; 15 chapters as follows:
Supply and Demand, What Animals to Raise; Enclosures, Laws Affecting Fur Family, Box Trap Trapping, Fox Raising, Fox Raising in Canada, Skunk Raising, Mink Raising, Opossum Raising, Muskrat Raising, Raccoon Raising, The Beaver and the Otter, Killing, Skinning and Stretching, Deer Farming.

Price, postpaid, cloth bound, 60 cents.

Land Cruising and Prospecting

IS A valuable book for home-steaders, hunters, prospectors, guides etc. The writer, Mr. A. F. Wallace, an experienced land surveyor, land cruiser and prospector, in his introduction says: "To the men who follow the compass, the trap and the trail, this work is inscribed. It is not intended for the 'Professor' who can tell you all about things after they are done (by someone else)." Contains about 200 pages, 5 x 7 inches, good quality paper, with nearly 40 illustrations and contains 20 chapters as follows:

Maps; The Compass; Examining and Locating; Early Surveys; Corner Marks; Miscellaneous Information; Points for Home-steaders; Prospecting for Gold; Sampling Ore; How to Locate a Claim; Poor Man's Ore Mill; Prospecting for Fur; Prospecting for Pearls; Prospecting for Bees; Rations and Camp Cookery; Camp Kits; Guns, Axes and Packtraps; Building Cabins; Tanning; Etc.; Getting Lost; The Red River Trapper.

Price, postpaid, cloth bound, 60 cents.

MINK TRAPPING

A BOOK of instruction, giving many methods of trapping. A valuable book for trappers as it tells in a plain way what you want to know, that is if you want to catch mink. This book is edited by A. R. Harding, contains about 50 illustrations and nearly 200 pages, and is divided into 20 chapters as follows:
General Information; Mink and Their Habits; Size and Care of Skins; Good and Lasting Baits; Bait and Scent; Places to Set; Indian Methods; Mink Trapping on the Prairies; Southern Methods; Northern Methods; Unusual Ways; Illinois Trapper's Method; Experienced Trappers' Methods; Many Good Methods; Salt Set; Log and Other Sets; Points for the Young Trapper; Proper Size Traps; Deadfalls; Steel Traps.

Price, postpaid, cloth bound, 60 cents.

CANADIAN WILDS

TELLS about the Hudson Bay Company; Northern Indians and their Modes of Hunting, Trapping, etc. Provisions for the Wilderness; Things to Avoid, etc., etc. The author (Martin Hunter) was with the Hudson Bay Company for about 40 years—from 1863 to 1903 and the information is given from almost a half century's experience. This book contains 277 pages, thirty-seven chapters as follows:

The Hudson's Bay Company; The "Free Trader" Outfitting Indians, Trackers of the North, Provisions for the Wilderness, Forts and Posts, About Indians, Wholesome Foods, Officer's Allowances, Indian Dances, Indian Mode of Hunting Beaver, Indian Mode of Hunting Lynx and Marten, Indian Mode of Hunting Foxes, Indian Mode of Hunting Otter and Musquash, Remarkable Success, Things to Avoid, Anticosti and its Furs, Chiseling and Shooting Beaver, The Indian Devil, A Tame Seal, The Care of Blistered Feet, Deer Sickness, A Case of Nerve, Amphibious Combats, Art of Pulling Hearts, Dark Furs, Indians are Poor Shots, A Bear in the Water, Voracious Pike, The Brass Eyed Duck, Good Wages Trapping, A Pard Necessary, A Heroic Adventure, Wild Oxen, Long Lake Indians, Den Bears, The Mishap of Ralston.

A New Questions and Answers Department of Interest to Shooters

T. L. G., Vancouver Island.

I would be greatly obliged if you would let me know through the columns of your paper, to which I am a subscriber, what 10, 12, 16, etc., bore or gauge means when speaking of shotguns.

Ans. Gauging of shotgun barrels is a custom originating way back in the muzzle-loading days. A 12 gauge shotgun, for instance, is one having a bore which will just fit a round ball of lead weighing one-twelfth of a pound. A 16 gauge shotgun is one having a bore which will just fit a round lead ball weighing one-sixteenth of a pound. Of course these dimensions are not absolutely adhered to, but are near enough for practical purposes. This is the reason why the larger the gauge number the smaller the actual diameter of the bore of the barrel.

Terre Haute Reader.

Kindly print the penetration, energy, trajectory of the Savage .303, also the velocity of the same.

Ans. The velocity, 1,952 ft. sec.; energy, 1,658 ft. lbs.; penetration, soft point bullet, eleven 7/8 in. pine board; trajectory at 200 yards, height at 100 yds., 5.98 inches.

Omaha Reader.

1. Which is the most powerful, the 250,3000, 32.40 Hi-Power or .303 Savage?

Ans. The figures for these cartridges are: 250,3000, muzzle velocity, 3,000 ft. sec.; muzzle energy, 1,720 ft. lbs. 32.40 Hi-Power, muzzle velocity, 2,065 ft. sec.; muzzle energy 1,558 ft. lbs. .303 Savage, 1,952 ft. sec., muzzle velocity; 1,658 lbs. muzzle energy.

2. Which is the best all 'round big game rifle?

Ans. A choice between high power rifles depends entirely upon the hunter's personal preferences and prejudices.

3. What is the effective killing distance of the above three cartridges? Would the 250,3000 be powerful enough for grizzly bear and moose?

Ans. It would kill effectively at 300 to 400 yds. I would hardly recommend this cartridge for grizzly bear or moose.

4. About what size game would the .25 Rem. be effective on, and at what greatest distance?

Ans. 300 to 400 yds. on game up to and including deer.

5. What is the best size drop shot to use for all around shooting in a 16 gauge shell, 2 1/2 drams powder, 1 oz. shot—No. 4, 5, 6, 7 or 8 drop shot?

Ans. This question cannot be answered until I know what game you expect to shoot. The size of shot is determined by the game the hunter is after.

IN THE ARMY

They say: "A man is as strong as his stomach"

Seldom do you find a weak man with a strong stomach, or a strong man with a weak stomach. You haven't any "stomach" for fighting, or working, when it goes back on you. Keep your stomach well and strong with "L. F." Atwood's Medicine, and you will keep free of indigestion, dyspepsia, sick headache, biliousness, and other ills that come from a weak stomach.

Brewer, Maine.

Dear Sirs:—I have taken the "L. F." Atwood's Medicine for years and consider it one of the best remedies in the world. A few years ago I had a bad stomach and liver trouble. Am now entirely cured by use of "L. F.'s."

the choice of the two rifles named; one is the 45.70.405 Lee, sometimes called the Metford-Lee, used in the navy during the Spanish-American War and purchased by Francis Bannerman, N. Y., who rebuilt the shape of stock to sporting model; the other is the Hanael-Mauser 8 mm sold by Sears Roebuck.

Ans. I would prefer the Mauser as it at least shoots a more up-to-date cartridge.

2. Is the recoil very heavy in the 45.70?

Ans. The 45.70 has considerable punch. A great deal more than the 8 mm.

T. M. B., New Kensington, Pa.

I have a 12 gauge double barrel, 36-inch, left barrel full choke. Will thank you to advise me if I had better have about 6 inches of the barrels cut off. Would the gun give just as good service in the same distance of shooting for rabbits, pheasants and quail? What is a gun with 36-inch barrel used most for? I used this gun last season and my results were good with rabbits but it was a little awkward on pheasants and quail.

Ans. Cutting 6 inches off the barrel will make both barrels cylinder bore and you will get cylinder bore results. The gun will not kill at as long ranges as it does now. There is no advantage in 36-inch barrels. Long barrels were made because hunters did not realize that the length of barrel does not increase the efficiency of the weapon.

W. G. B., Gableton, Pa.

1. If a gun barrel has already been cut off 2 inches without hurting the pattern, will it hurt to cut it off two more inches? Where can I send a gun to have it rechoked, and what is the price of same?

Ans. If cutting off two inches of the barrel did not do it any harm, it is evidently a cylinder bore and cutting off a few more inches won't change the pattern. There is no way of having a gun rechoked.

L. V., Quincy, Ill.

1. What gauge of shotgun is best suited for hunting in Illinois—a 12, 16 or 20 gauge? Which has the longest killing range?

Ans. 12 gauge is the most popular and has the longest killing range.

2. Is a hammerless or automatic shotgun just as safe to use as a hammer gun?

Ans. Yes.

3. Is there any more danger of accidental discharge?

Ans. There is less danger with a hammerless gun.

4. What size of shot would you advise using for the following game, using a full choke 12 gauge gun: Rabbits, squirrels, doves, quail, ducks and snipes?

Ans. No. 6 to 7 shot for rabbits and squirrels.

No. 7 to 9 shot for quail or doves.

No. 4 to 6 shot for duck.

No. 9 to 10 shot for snipe.

5. Is a .22 calibre rifle big enough to kill the largest game in Illinois?

Ans. There is no big game in Illinois. A .22 calibre rifle will kill practically everything you will run into, but of course it does not follow that this is necessarily the best model for the different kinds of game.

6. What is the range of a .32 Automatic pocket model Colt pistol?

Ans. The accurate range is about 50 yds.

7. Would it be capable of killing the largest game in this country in case of emergency?

Ans. It certainly would not—at least I would not want to face a grizzly bear with a .32 calibre pistol.

8. What is the law in Illinois on carrying revolvers such as the above mentioned?

Ans. Write to Capt. E. Bittel, care Chicago Shooting Association, Room 906, 179 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill., who is familiar with the laws on this subject and who will be glad to give you the information you desire.

FINE ROAD OPENED TO TRAFFIC

Maine's 25 mile Federal Aid Highway running from Portland to Brunswick and declared to be one of the finest roads in the country, was officially completed and opened to traffic Saturday. Hon. Philip J. Deering, chairman of the Maine State Highway Commission, was the first man to drive over the completed thoroughfare. The road is built entirely of bituminous macadam of the finest type of construction and is a section of one of the most important arteries of travel in Maine. It is a part of the coast highway to Bath, Rockland and all of the shore cities and resorts, and is also one of the units of the Portland, Brunswick, Augusta, Waterville and Bangor state highway. It passes through the towns of Falmouth, Cumberland, Yarmouth, Freeport and Brunswick and skirts the shore of Casco Bay for 12 miles, one of the most beautiful rides in New England.

The cost of the highway was divided between the Federal Government and the State, the expense to the latter being only the equivalent of an improved gravel road, the Federal government paying for the added cost of the bituminous macadam. The highway is one of about a dozen different types of construction which the Federal government is building in various parts of the United States as an experiment. It will be maintained by the Maine State Highway Commission but owing to its permanence of construction, this item is expected to be a comparatively small one.

From reports received from outside of Maine it is confidently expected that the highway will prove a tremendous attraction to summer tourists and indirectly will bring many additional motorists into the State. With the completion of the Portland and Saco highway early next summer, Maine will have a magnificent boulevard penetrating for nearly 100 miles into the very heart of the State.

NOTES FROM PENNSYLVANIA

Union City, Pa., Oct. 1.
Kind Friends of the Maine Woods Family:

It has been a long time since I wrote to you. This has been a very busy summer for me. My better half and myself have been working in the central telephone office, and if there ever was a busy place here is certainly the limit. No rest to speak of night or day. I am what they call a Jack at all trades, but doctoring sick telephones, and telephone wires, and switch boards, is going the limit. Another of my side lines is the manufacturing of all kinds of handles, such as axe, hammer and hoe handles, and all kinds of handles that are used, but we find time to go fishing once in a while.

A few very fine bass have been caught here this summer; also a number of pickerel, and no end of suckers. We don't have salmon and other big game fish here like you do in Maine. We have plenty of brook trout in the eastern part of the state, also sunfish, perch, and all kinds of bass, so far as the name goes, but the quantity is sadly lacking.

Last Tuesday a man in Union City caught a black bass in the old mill pond that weighed 4 1/2 pounds. Not much of a fish you will say, but it is some fish for these unstocked and over-fished waters. At the same time another man caught a pickerel which tipped the beam at 45 pounds. This is a big fish story but it is true.

It is some warm up this way. Yesterday, September 14th, the mercury was up to 90. This warm weather was due in August, but it just arrived.

Most of the farmers are still making hay. Isn't that going some? Oat harvesting is still in full swing. This information may be some out of place in Maine Woods, but I would like to have you know how things are progressing up this way.

The early hunter and trapper is beginning to get busy. We need a law, but what's the use, October 15th is our opening day here for game.

Yesterday a big flock of wild geese passed over headed towards Lake Erie. If this sign holds good we may expect colder weather soon.

We have a new ferret law and a new hunting law. Our bounty took a drop from $2 to $1 on weasels.

STATES REGULATE TRAFFIC IN GAME.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Three important changes have radically affected traffic in game in the Mississippi Valley during the present year, according to Farmers' Bulletin 692. In February the Supreme Court of Arkansas held that a local law permitting shipment of game from the Chickasawba district of Mississippi County, Ark., was unconstitutional, and that the general law prohibiting shipment of game was in effect in this county as well as in other parts of the State. A little later the Legislature of Tennessee prohibited the sale of all protected game taken within the State, thereby cutting off the market for ducks on Reelfoot Lake. Finally, in June, a new game law was passed in Illinois prohibiting sale of all game, native or imported, except rabbits. For 20 years or more Illinois has permitted the sale at certain seasons of game imported from other States. Illinois now not only prohibits the sale but also the export of all protected game except rabbits. Missouri has strengthened its export law by a provision prohibiting export of quail for any purpose.

BAG LIMITS

A bag-limit law was passed for the first time in Arkansas applicable to deer, bear, turkey, quail, and ducks. Limits were established in Connecticut on squirrels and waterfowl; in New Hampshire on quail, ruffed grouse, and woodcock; and in Pennsylvania on bear. Indiana, which opened the season on prairie chickens for the first time in several years, provided a limit of five birds per day.

Reductions in limits were made on deer in Alaska from 6 to 3, in Montana from 3 to 2, and in Michigan and Nevada from 2 to 1. In the case of birds the more important reductions in daily bag limits were made in Illinois on doves from 15 to 10; in Iowa on quail from 25 to 15, and on prairie chickens from 25 to 8; in Minnesota on all birds except ducks, from 15 to 10; in Oklahoma on quail, plover, snipe and ducks, from 25 to 10. Only a few increases were provided: In Illinois on shore birds, in Missouri on birds (except turkeys) from 10 to 15, and in Nevada on quail from 15 to 20.

LICENSES.

Resident licenses were provided for the first time in three Southern States—Arkansas, South Carolina, and Tennessee. Arkansas established a $1 license for deer and a $1 license for dogs used in hunting quail; South Carolina a li-

LARGE SHIPMENTS OF SMALL SALMON

Supt. C. E. Darling of Enfield Hatchery Is Taking Them There for Distribution.

Charles E. Darling, superintendent of the Enfield Hatchery, was in Bangor Tuesday with a large shipment of salmon going to the hatchery. Mr. Darling left in the afternoon with his shipment for Enfield where he will make smaller shipments of the fish to the different parts of the state. Caribou pond and Egg pond, both in the vicinity of Lincoln will receive 2,000 salmon. Farrow lake at Topsfield and Fitz pond at Clifton will receive the same amount. Five thousand will be shipped to Gardner's lake at East Machias, and two shipments of 1,250 each will go to Harwood lake, Alexander, two applications having been made for these. Jackson Brook, Lake Brockton in Washington county, will receive 2,000 and Jordan pond, Mt. Desert, will receive 3,000. Lambert Lake at Lambert Lake Plantation will receive 5,000. Long pond at Lincoln 2,000, Molasses pond at Eastbrook and Three Lakes at Winn will each get 2,500. Parks pond at Clifton and Walker's pond at Lake Winnegawauk, between Sedgwick and Brooks-ville will receive 300 salmon.

The commissioners of Inland Fisheries and Game are planning on planting 20,000 salmon in Cold Stream pond waters.—Bangor News.

cense of $1 for hunting in the county and $3 in the State, but 27 counties were exempt from the operation of the act; and Tennessee a $1 license for the county and $2 for the State. New Mexico and Vermont joined the list of States which now issue combined hunting and fishing licenses. Delaware, following the example of West Virginia in 1913, repealed the resident license provision adopted 2 years ago, while West Virginia restored the license by issuing free licenses to persons hunting in the county of residence and requiring a fee of $3 to hunt elsewhere in the State. Fees for non-resident licenses were reduced in Illinois from $15 to $10, in Maine from $25 to $15, and for the special elk resident license in Wyoming from $15 to $10. New Hampshire and South Carolina, on the other hand, increased the non-resident fee in each case from $10 to $15, and Manitoba the resident big game license from $2 to $4. Exemptions were provided in a few cases—notably in Illinois, which allows veterans of the Civil War to hunt without a license, and in Oregon, which issues free licenses to veterans. In the latter State women are now allowed to hunt and fish without license, but in New Mexico similar privileges are not extended. North Dakota allowed actual settlers to obtain a resident license, even though they have not acquired residence. In Michigan and Minnesota all residents are now required to obtain licenses to hunt in the county of residence. In North Dakota and Vermont conviction of violating the game laws not only results in forfeiture of license, but renders the holder ineligible to obtain another for a year, except in Vermont, without the consent of the game commissioner.

Friday, class receptions will be held at the home of the respective teachers and Saturday evening a banquet and entertainment will be held by the members of the Men's and Ladies' Leagues, followed by an appropriate program. Let everyone do his or her part to make these gatherings a success.

Miss Stella Tibbetts and Warren Ross were married at Farmington Wednesday. Best wishes are extended to the newly married couple. It is understood they will occupy the Ross homestead near Kennebago road. At present they are visiting relatives in Farmington and Wilton.

One of our smart old ladies, Mrs. Julia Heath recently celebrated her 85th birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. T. Richardson. Little Arlene Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Taylor happened to have a birthday at the same time, September 21st and in honor of the occasion made a fine birthday cake frosted with white and decorated with chocolate for the joint celebration with her great aunt bearing the following: Aunt Julia—1915. 1830—1905. Mrs. Heath received many gifts and a shower of 75 cards, but nothing pleased her more than her fine cake. Mrs. Heath often walks to the village from her home on the Kennebago road and is very active for one of her years.

Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Colby start Thursday by auto for an extensive trip which will occupy nearly two weeks. The itinerary includes: Gorham, Bretton Woods, Hanover, N. H., where they will attend the Medical Reunion at Dartmouth, the Doctor being a member of the class 1895. From there to West Point, New York City and returning by way of Boston and Portland. Miss Sarah Soule will have charge of the house during their absence.

A SAIL AND FISHING TRIP ON LAKE MEGUNTICOOK.

On the afternoon of Sept. 11th, there was a party of six people who left the Mountain View House for a sail and a fishing trip on the beautiful Lake Megunticook. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Bole of Hackensack, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Dodge, Palmyra, N. Y., and F. O. Martin. Taking the Mountain View buckboard at a little after 2 p. m. arriving at Capt. E. B. Richard's cottage at Lake City at 2.45 where Capt. Richards had his commodious motor boat in readiness for our trip. We first took our sail the length of the short pond along near to the Turnpike drive and under the grand cliffs of Central and Maiden cliffs that rise directly up from this part of Megunticook Lake to about eight hundred feet, where the beautiful autumnal foliage is beginning to show its grand colors, and which will be in all its full beauty in about two weeks. Before leaving Short pond we landed to examine Balance Rock. From Short pond we turned into Long pond around Fernald's Neck up by the cliff on which is seen the tree, which to all appearances is growing out of the solid rock, then by the boys' camps and many beautiful islands, on which are cottages more or less pretentious, to our first anchorage. We stopped at about 4.30 and cast lines for our first fish which soon began to take our bait. The first fish was hooked by Mr. Bole and he was brought near to the surface so that he was seen, and Mr. Richards had his dip net nearly under him when he broke away. Mr. Richards thought he would weigh about 2½ pounds, the next fish for Mr. Bole must have been a big one, for after being hooked and allowed to play a while he bent the rod to the water's edge, and with a very strong pull he broke the line.

After a few fish were taken we moved across the lake and cast anchor for our second trial where we took a few more but as it began to grow dark, we thought it best to start for the hotel. Our party took the following fish: Mrs. Bole, one bass, two hornpout, one perch; Mrs. Smith, three perch; Mr. Dodge, six perch; Mrs. Dodge, two perch, three hornpout; F. O. Martin, one perch, three hornpout, one bass. This being my first fresh water fishing, and none of the party considered themselves experts, and with some their first trial, it perhaps was not so bad.

Those who have not seen Lake Megunticook in all of its beauty cannot realize its extent until they view it from the top of Mt. Battie or sail over its 25,000 acres of water, among its beautiful islands and points, and the best time to do so is in September, when one can get all of its fine colorings in the different shades of green intermingled with gold, red and brown that gives such an extent of grand colorings as few places afford.—F. O. Martin in Camden Herald.

H. B. Reed, Auburndale, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bartlett, Ridley Park, Pa., find this a convenient stopping place while en route from Kennebago to their respective homes.

S. M. Foss, Whitins, Mass., is spending a few vacation days at Rangeley.

H. P. Smith has closed his camp and returned to Boston. Mrs. Smith and Miss Rachel went some few days ago. We hope to welcome them during the winter holidays as their new cottage is well equipped for comfort during the winter months.

Col. John Caswell of New York is at Kennebago hunting, but expects to return the latter part of the week.

Alton F. Wood of Buffalo, N. Y., and Jos. Wadsworth, New York City left Tuesday morning for their respective homes.

J. G. McNeil of Brookline, Mass., is spending the week here.

A. E. Stearns and son, Walter and J. B. Stephenson of Rumford came by auto for a short sojourn.

Miss Katherine's Niece of Ogontz, Pa., who has been at Kennebago for the summer will enjoy a three weeks' stay and improve the time hunting up old friends and acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Van Dusen were guests recently from Middle Dam.

I. V. S. Hillier, wife and Miss Hillier of Cranford, N. J., were guests en route for York Camps.

Charles Switzer, with Henn Huntoon guide, saw a beautiful specimen of black fox on the Stratton road recently. Mr. Switzer has not secured a deer yet but has a fine string of birds to his credit.

D. E. Hinkley has concluded his duties at the Hoening cottage for the season. Dr. Carl Hoening, with Ira Huntoon as guide is busy, now that the hunting season is on. They make many trips with Loring N. Haley as chauffeur after game. The Doctor has secured several fine birds.
