

REMINGTON-UMC

REPEATING SHOTGUNS

What is your preference in a repeating shotgun—hand-operated or autoloading?

If hand-operated, you know the Remington-UMC Pump Gun. Everybody knows it.

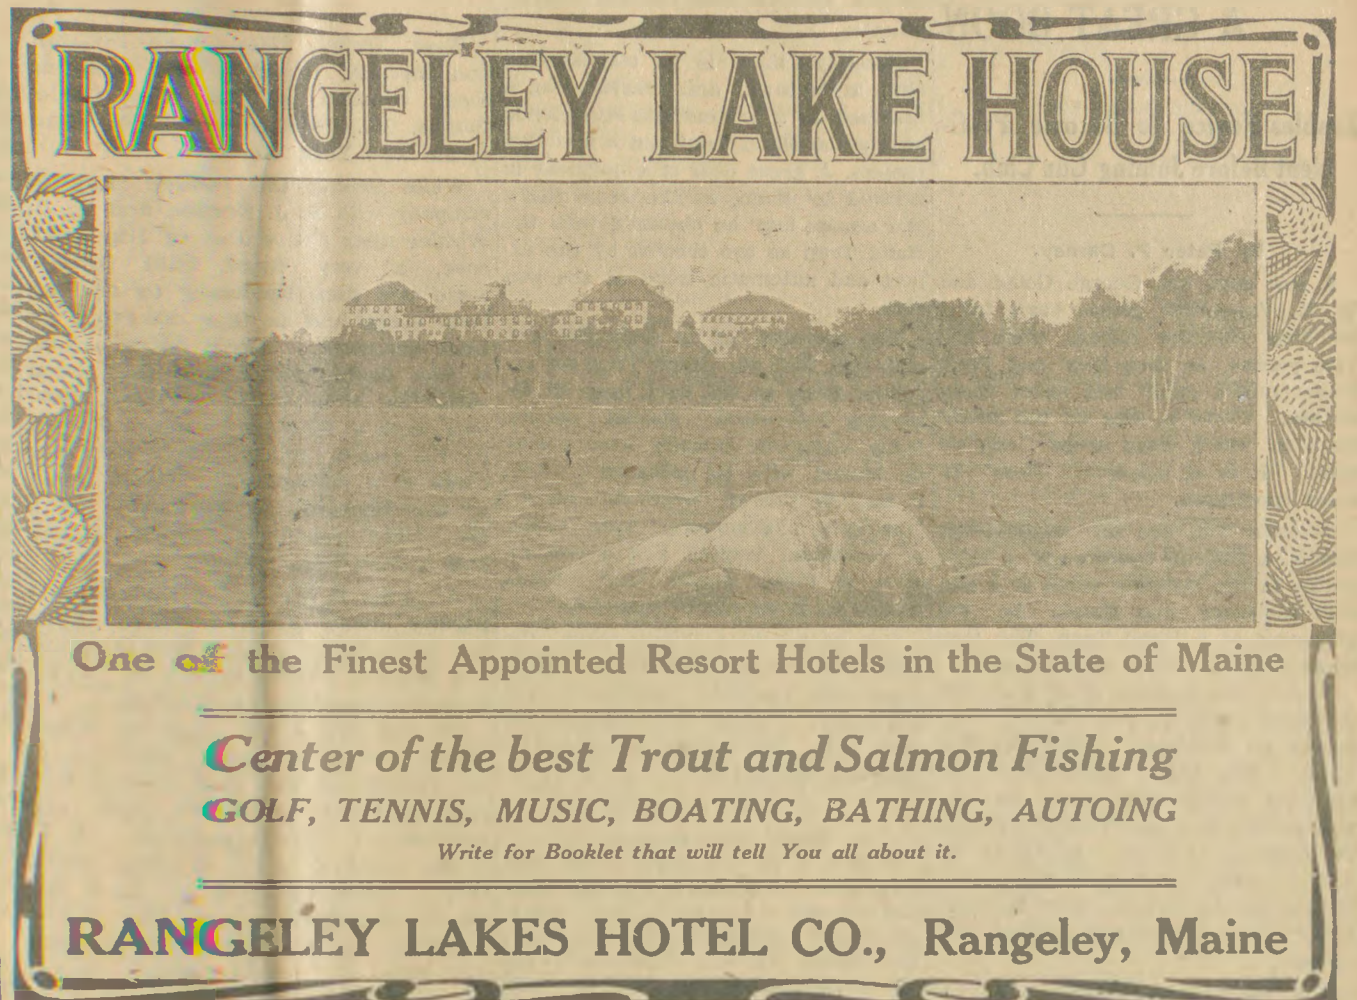

If autoloading, then get your dealer to show you the Remington-UMC Autoloading Shotgun—an arm that is performing in a way to show sportsmen that here at last is an autoloading shotgun that works.

Remington-UMC Repeating and Autoloading Shotguns are sold by dealers everywhere. Find the one who shows the Red Ball Mark of Remington-UMC—the sign of Sportsmen's Headquarters. He's the man.

To keep your gun cleaned and lubricated right, use Rem Oil, the new powder solvent, rust preventative, and gun lubricant.

LARGEST FISH FOR MANY YEARS

Guest on Twenty-second Visit in Eighteen Years Captures
Monster Togue

Spring Lake, Me., July 3.—Fred C. Burnham of Hartford, Conn., caught a lake trout Saturday that weighed 15 pounds 2 ounces. This is the largest fish caught here for many years. This is Mr. Burnham's 22nd visit to these camps in the past 18 years. On Thursday Mr. Burnham caught a 9½-pound laker and Mr. Butterworth a 4¼-pound salmon. Today Mr. Burnham brought in a 5-pound laker, which came out of the water like a salmon 250 feet from the boat. Mr. Burnham and his guide, Alex Blanchard both thought they had a salmon until the fish was ready for the net.

Those recently registered at Spring Lake are: Mr. and Mrs. Lewis P. Smith, Miss Smith, Holiston, Mass.; Wm. T. Clarkson, Dorchester, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Whall, Wm. L. Knapp, Dr. Luther G. Paul, Irving C. Paul, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Butterworth, Miss Virginia Butterworth, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Burnham, Hartford, Conn.; J. T. Appleby, Boston.

Poet Lodge is again taken by a happy family, Mr. and Mrs. Felix H. Levy, their daughter, Miss Edith and three sons, Master Felix, Jr., George B. and Richard T. Levy of New York.

Mrs. E. L. Smith of New York has joined friends for a short stay.

Most comfortably located until September in Camp Comfort are a delightful New York family, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Bierhoff, Miss Irene Younker and Miss Florence Martin. Olander Bisbee is their guide.

Mr. and Mrs. Gans were on Sunday joined by their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert D. Walter, child and nurse.

Other New Yorkers here for a long stay are Mr. and Mrs. J. Van Wezel, Mrs. A. American and daughter, Miss Sada.

Picnics, motor boat sails, canoe trips, mountain climbing and automobile trips are now the order of the day.

Miss Ruth Goodfellow of New York landed a 4¼-pound salmon this week and Miss Janet Seeyman a 3-pounder. These New York girls are good fisherwomen and fond of life out of doors.

MORE ABOUT NATIONAL PRESERVE

Maine Sportsman's Fish and Game
Association Solicit Aid

Mt. View, Me., July 1.

The business meeting of the Maine Sportsman's Fish and Game Association was held as usual on the second night of the meeting. At this meeting no routine business is transacted, that being left for the winter meeting, but many things of interest to the association are discussed. A report of this meeting follows:

At a little after 8 p. m. President Hodgson called the business meeting to order in the reception room of the annex with a few remarks and then gave a short address telling what the Association is accomplishing and what they wish to accomplish, speaking as follows: "On April 13, 1916 the Hon. Frank E. Guernsey of Maine introduced into the National House of Representatives a bill to set apart a certain section of Maine, which he named 'A Mount Katahdin National Park in Maine.'

In introducing this measure he made a very able and convincing speech, calling attention to the number of national parks now owned and controlled by the government to the importance of conserving our forests, thereby insuring our water power and giving shelter and protection to the so-called wild animals that they might breed in safety and forever prevent the extinction of the large game for which our state has become so noted.

Mr. Guernsey can do and is doing much for the fish and game interests, and I have no doubt will continue to do more and more, but it is necessary that he have the help of this association and all who love nature and wild life to bring about this measure that he is so interested in. Public opinion is a mighty weapon and when a sufficient number of the citizens of Maine get together with this object in view; when they ask for it in earnest; when they have made it more or less a topic for conversation and subject matter for letters, then with the help of Mr. Guernsey we will have a national park in Maine.

The officers of this Association are doing what they can along these lines. Your secretary has written the different newspapers, and has a number of articles printed in them that must have reached every town and hamlet in the state, asking for co-operation to push this work along. We ask each and every member to become interested and do all they

TRAPSHOOTING

HAND TRAP IS A GREAT BOON

Enables Novice to Become Proficient Before Joining Gun Club.

By Peter P. Carney.

A few days ago George Gould and W. K. Vanderbilt placed hand traps for trap shooting aboard their private yachts, so that they and their guests might enjoy this sport while at sea. This is one of the many ways in which hand traps can be used. It is an apparatus liked by every sportsman.

Whether you are an enthusiastic hunter, a veteran trapshooter, a mere novice in the shooting game or a gun club secretary, you should be the possessor of a Hand Trap. The trap appeals to all classes of shooters.

During the months when the law prohibits hunting, the Hand Trap proves an excellent substitute for game. The swift, sudden and unexpected angles which may be obtained with it differ very little from the flight of a quail, pheasant or duck. With the trap in the hand of friends the "birds" may be "finished" at unexpected times and places.

The veteran trapshooter will find that the practice he obtains with a Hand Trap is a great help to him in making better scores at his regular gun club shoots. He will take his trap with him on week-end trips, and finds that he can use it at picnics, from a motor-boat, on the deck of a yacht, and in many other places where regular traps cannot be installed.

The beginner who does not wish to display his inexperience at the trap shooting game before the members of the local gun club, utilizes the Hand Trap privately in order to obtain some degree of proficiency before joining the club. The scores which he makes at his initial appearance before the traps are a strong proof of the benefit he has derived from his Hand Trap practice.

Possibly there is no trapshooting club in the town, and trapshooting is confined to a few enthusiastic friends using the Hand Trap and a few clay targets. A great deal of enjoyment is derived by them, as the same flight and angles may be obtained with the Hand Trap as are thrown by the expert and automatic traps at the gun club.

The secretary of an organized gun club will find the Hand Trap an excellent thing to fall back upon in arranging interesting special shoots. Many enjoyable novelty events may be staged with its assistance. With it may be thrown "overhead birds," "incomers," "skimmers," wide angle or regulation targets, and a combination of these angles and flights makes an event full of surprises.

One of the best things about the Hand Trap is the fact that it is a thoroughly practical apparatus and not a toy. Every sportsman should have one. No outing equipment is complete without it.

Music Aids Dentists.

Here's a tip for other tooth doctors, that should fill a long-felt want and a tooth at the same time. Get a piano and have an assistant to tickle the ivories. A New York dentist declares that music takes the patient's mind from his activities and consequently lessens doubt and pain. "I have been filling teeth to piano accompaniment for some time," declared this ivory expert, "and I am sure that it makes a visit to a dentist's less painful—certainly less nerve racking—than before. Much of the work a dentist has to do is absolutely painless, although many patients are so nervous that they actually believe they are suffering. In fact, nine-tenths of them cry before they're hurt. But by giving them music they like while in the chair their minds are diverted, with the result that their experiences are not unpleasant. The idea has a scientific basis, and I have found it highly successful."

EAGLE WINS OVER PORCUPINE

Visitors at West Outlet Seeing Strange Sights.

West Outlet, Me., June 28.—Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Cobb are spending their vacation at the West Outlet Camps. Mr. Cobb is editor in chief of the New York World.

While fishing the other day in company with S. J. Eccles and E. B. Whittier near the shore of Big Duck cove, a very large bald headed eagle was seen suddenly to fly up from shore and in the direction of Duck mountain. After going ashore it was found that there had been something of a battle enacted. Several eagle's feathers were thrown on the beach mixed up with the quills of a porcupine. Upon further investigation the remains of a good sized porcupine were found, only a short time dead.

Mr. John B. Fecto, a famous and popular guide of Moosehead Lake has returned to West Outlet Camps and reports having killed a white porcupine near Duck mountain.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ayer of Kineo station while canoeing recently in the vicinity of Sar Bar island noticed something swimming some distance away. They paddled up to it and found it to be a big black bear. After stunning it with the handle of a landing net they towed it ashore and then secured an axe and killed it. Some time before the bear must have been caught in a trap as one of its front paws was gone, but the wound was entirely healed over.

Value of Reading.

There is perhaps nothing that has a greater tendency to decide favorably or unfavorably respecting a man's intellect than the question whether or not he be impressed with an early love of reading. Books gratify and excite our curiosity in innumerable ways. They force us to reflect. In a well-written book we are presented with the maturest reflections of the happiest flights of a mind of uncommon excellence. It is impossible that we can be much accustomed to such companions without attaining some resemblance to them.—William Godwin.

ROAD BOOK JUST ISSUED

Series of Indexes Most Complete Which Association is Sending Out.

The Maine Automobile Road Book for 1916 has just been issued for its fifth year by the Maine Automobile Association and is now being sent out to the 3,000 members of that organization as well as to the general public. This year's book contains 400 pages, making it a very much larger volume than the 1915 edition. It has about 220 routes, covering all of Maine, the greater part of New Hampshire, most of Massachusetts as well as New Brunswick and Quebec. A new feature of this year is the through routes between New York City, southwestern New England and Maine. These are given in both directions. This year's volume has about one-third more routes than any previous edition and in addition contains the famous Pine Tree Tour now followed annually by hundreds of tourists. A large number of one-way routes of 1915 are this year given in both directions.

A new and decidedly valuable feature this year is a series of 14 city and town street-maps showing the principal entrances and exits. Another new feature is a greatly enlarged general road map showing all of the automobile roads in Maine.

An important contribution is an article on what the Maine State Highway Commission has accomplished and what it intends to do this year, by Paul D. Sargent, chief engineer of the Maine State Highway Commission. Other special features are a digest of the Maine Automobile laws, the Maine fish and game laws for 1916, Maine laws regulating the setting of fires on forest and timberland, the department entitled, "Facts about Maine," greatly enlarged and improved, the through routes of travel put in a form which for simplicity can hardly be equaled, ferry time tables, regulations for motorists entering Canada, and many others.

The series of indexes are the most complete and most simple to be found in any road book, every minute detail of the volume being covered.

The book is fully illustrated with new pictures and is attractively bound in a green waterproof leatherette with specially designed covers. It contains three large touring maps enclosed in a pocket in the back of the book, and every point of interest is fully described in the descriptive matter with which the book abounds.

The book is published by the Touring Bureau of the Maine Automobile Association, 12 Monument Square, Portland, Me.

HIRAM RICKER FOR TRUSTEE

Hiram W. Ricker of Poland Spring has been elected to the board of trustees of Hebron academy. Though this action was taken at the annual meeting of the board on June 20, it could not be made public until Mr. Ricker's acceptance was received by the president of the board, F. O. Stanley of Newton, Mass. Much to the gratification of the academy officials Mr. Ricker has accepted the position and is now a member of the board.

The present appointment is not, however, the beginning of Mr. Ricker's relations with Hebron academy. For many years he has been a staunch friend of the school and an intimate acquaintance of its principal, Dr. W. E. Sargent. Every winter when the Hebron seniors go to Poland Spring for their class ride and dinner, Mr. Ricker himself superintends the entertainment of these school guests.

PRINCE ALBERT

in goodness and in pipe satisfaction is all we or its enthusiastic friends ever claimed for it!

It answers every smoke desire you or any other man ever had! It is so cool and fragrant and appealing to your smokeappetite that you will get chummy with it in a mighty short time!

Will you invest 5c or 10c to prove out our say-so on the national joy smoke?

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., Winston-Salem, N. C.

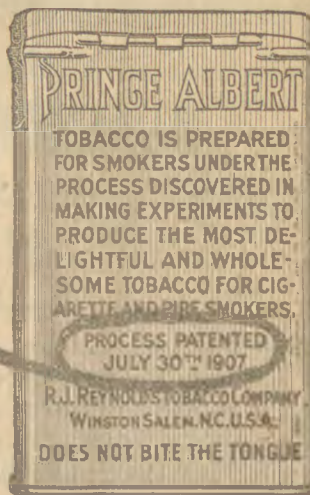

Prince Albert gives smokers such delight, because

- its flavor is so different and so delightfully good;
- it can't bite your tongue;
- it can't parch your throat;
- you can smoke it as long and as hard as you like without any comeback but real tobacco happiness!

On the reverse side of every Prince Albert package you will read:

"PROCESS PATENTED JULY 30TH, 1907"

That means to you a lot of tobacco enjoyment. Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

This is the reverse side of the Prince Albert tin. Read this "Patented Process" message-to-you and realize what it means in making Prince Albert so much to your liking.

GREATER INTEREST MAKES UP FOR SMALL ATTENDANCE

Excellent Shooting at Traps and on Range Characterized Sportsman's Meeting

Mountain View, July 1.—All roads have led to Mountain View since Wednesday, June 28, and the roads were so much improved good time was made and everybody came with a smiling face. Even the weather changed to accommodate everyone for there was never more perfect days in June than Friday and Saturday and all entered into the contests with enthusiasm. The secretary and treasurer of the association, R. C. Whitehouse of Auburn was the first to arrive and he spent Wednesday afternoon and evening in unpacking and arranging in the big parlor one of the best displays of elegant prizes ever offered by the association at any of its gatherings for nearly a quarter of a century.

When the ladies, the members, guides and wardens looked at the guns, fishing tackle, handsome cups, sporting boats, etc., everyone was ready to enter the contests and there has never been as many entries or such good shooting.

The second party on the spot was from the State capital, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Nash, Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Weston, who reached here about 3 o'clock and Mr. Nash at once said "I want to go-a-fishing, where is a guide?" Dick O'Brien was ready and at supper time they came in, Mr. Nash bringing a handsome 5½-pound salmon, "just to prove there are big fish whose home is near the Mountain View."

Thursday morning was pleasant and the automobile parties continued to come and have been coming and going ever since. In the evening there was dancing and card playing, old friends greeting one another and the gentlemen talking of the shooting events they surely were prepared for. Never was there a more perfect day than dawned on Friday morning, everybody was smiling and happy. From Haines Landing, Rangeley and Loon Lake parties came by auto and Hon. J. Putnam Stevens courteously took the ladies back and forth from the shooting grounds not far above the garage in his car. This made a good place for the rifle shooting and the distance was measured and the targets put up, and so interesting were the matches everything else was for the time forgotten. The first match was:

100 YARD SLOW FIRE

Five shots slow fire. Standing position at 100 yards, 4 inch bull's-eye. Any rifle without set triggers, any sights not including glass. 25 cents to enter.

PRIZES—First, Winchester 1910 Model .401 self loading rifle presented by Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven, Conn. Second, high grade Marble hunting knife and sheath, presented by Hall & Knight Hardware Co., Lewiston, Me.

The second match between GUIDES AND WARDENS was a good one under the following rules:

Any magazine rifle, any ammunition, any sights not including glass. Five shots at silhouette of deer moving at right angles to line of fire five shots in twenty seconds. Number of men on each team not limited, except that there must be the same number on each side. No entry fee.

Team making greatest number of hits will hold honor of moving target championship for one year. Won last year by the Guides. To the member of either team making the highest score will be given a Marlin .25-36 caliber Carbine presented by the Marlin Arms Corporation, New Haven, Conn. To the guide making the highest score, and to the warden making the highest score, outside the winner of the rifle, will be given a pair of canoe paddles, one pair presented by the Old Town Canoe Co., Old Town, Me., and the other by B. N. Morris, Inc., canoe builders, Veazie, Me.

It was an exciting match and everyone felt proud of the fine looking Maine guides and wardens who are doing such good work for the protection of our fish and game.

THE CABIN BOAT PRIMER

THIS is a very interesting and instructive book on making cabin boats, canoes, row boats, etc. It tells of the various streams one can trip on with a cabin boat, how to equip for such a trip, what to wear and eat, cost of a two month's trip. It gives descriptions and diagrams, photographs and chapters on construction, when to float, when and where to land and other useful hints. Book is compiled of facts and observations made by the author. It contains 267 pages, over 40 illustrations and diagrams, 32 chapters as follows:

Down the Mississippi River in a Cabin Boat, Trip Down the Yukon, The Cabin Boat, How to Build a Cabin Boat, The Cabin Boat's Equipment, Furnishings and Furniture, Odds and Ends of Equipment, The Skiff or Tender, The Gasoline Launch, What to Wear, Things to Eat, Cabin Boat Expenses, Cabin Boating Waters, Maps and Landing Lists, Floating, Floating at Night and in Fog, Going Up Stream, Weather, Making Fast and Some Rope Hints, Landings, Troubles, Care of the Boat, Ways of Making Money, On Making Notes, Land Hints, Photographing, Game and Hunting, Traps and Trapping, Fish and Fishing, Amusements, Books, Trapper's Canoe, A Cabin Boat Coon Hunt.

THURSDAY, JULY 6, 1916.

The speech of President Hodgson at the meeting of the Maine Sportsman's Fish and Game Association is worth reading, especially that part in which he argues for the Katahdin National Park. The Association asks the help of all the citizens of the state and they should get it. They should get too the aid of the non-resident sportsmen who get their hunting in Maine, for they should be interested in seeing its game preserved.

SEBAGO LAKE FISHING CONTEST

Through the courtesy of the Horton Manufacturing Co., makers of the famous Bristol Steel Fishing Rods the following prize is offered for the largest salmon caught at Sebago Lake Maine, this season.

THE PRIZE ROD

Choice of a Standard No. 4 or No. 11, or other Bristol Rod of equal value, with special mountings,—Agate First Guide and Tip, German-Silver Trumpet Guides, and Solid Cork Grip. Guaranteed for Three Years.

Contestants are requested to note the conditions governing the contest, and to make entries as soon as possible, after catch is made.

Whenever possible, photographs of fish and captor should be sent with privilege of publication in the report of awards, which will appear in the November issue of the "National Sportsman."

CONDITIONS.

1. Each contestant must furnish satisfactory proof that the fish, whose weight is entered, was caught by him, at Sebago Lake by the use of a Standard Bristol Steel Fishing Rod, and that the weight given is correct.

2. We recommend that the facts be stated in an affidavit, signed by a Justice or Notary. A statement by the person who weighed the fish should be included, citing scale used. On request, the secretary will furnish application blank with form for affidavit.

3. The season for the contest begins with the legal season, and closes September 15, 1916.

4. Written application must be made by the contestant to the Contest Secretary,—Mr. E. L. Smiley, Sunapee, N. H.

5. All entries must reach the secretary not later than Sept. 20, 1916.

Address all correspondence to Edmund L. Smiley, contest secretary, Sunapee, N. H.

The Gasolunatic.

"Who is that pale, sad man, chained to the wall, in the violent ward?" inquired the visitor to the local bug emporium. "What brought him to this. He asked me a minute ago if I could tell him how many millimeters of transmission grease it would take to run a wind shield up a 20 per cent grade, if the wheels were locked."

"It's just like this," replied the attendant, "they brought that guy here direct from the automobile show. He went there to find out which was the best car to buy and 47 different salesmen told him that all of the other makes of cars were no good. He sat down in a corner and tried to figure it out and when we found him, he was drawing spark plugs on his cuffs and eating the covers off souvenir catalogues."

THE MODERN BEANSTALK.

As children we marveled with wide open eyes at the tales of "Jack the Giant Killer." It took our breath away to listen to the wondrous way the beanstalk grew.

The National Rifle Association is becoming a modern beanstalk. At the end of 1913 there were about two hundred civilian rifle clubs affiliated with the association. At the end of 1914 the number had increased to three hundred, an increase of fifty per cent. Things perked up a bit during 1915 and by the end of the year the roster of affiliated clubs stood at six hundred and thirty-nine. Then the N. R. A. figuratively took off its coat and rolled up its sleeves and went to it. By May 31st of this year the affiliated civilian rifle clubs number one thousand and eighty-two with new clubs rolling in almost hourly.

The further growth of the beanstalk will be startling to say the least, if it increases at a proportional ratio. At the end of ten years there will be about a million civilian rifle clubs with a membership including a large part of all the male citizens in the country. Sounds like a pipe dream but figure it out for yourself.

The most wonderful part of this growth is that it has taken place with only a relatively small amount of publicity to help it along. If shooting as a sport were given even one-tenth of the support that baseball gets, the results obtained would be simply astounding. The reason for the fact that shooting gets so little notice in most newspapers is that the subject is not a familiar one, and is not particularly spectacular or sensational, and ordinarily does not contain much of news value. It is a personal sport. In other words, it is enjoyed mainly by those who actually do the shooting. The potent pleasure of personal performance is present however, something that the mere onlooker never experiences.

H. B., Pittsburgh, Pa.

1. I have a double barrel shotgun supposed to be bored full and modified choke respectively. How can I tell which is which? The card which came with the gun is marked "Target 40 yds., 30 inch circle, R NOD L 340, 3 drs. Dupont smokeless, 1 1/4 oz. No. 8 Standard chilled shot."

Ans. The left barrel is always choked unless specially ordered. The left barrel of your gun is a full choke barrel.

2. Does this gun target pretty well?

3. In using all brass shot shells how are they crimped?

Ans. Brass shells are not crimped.

4. Will the above gun handle single ball and buckshot?

Ans. Yes, in standard factory loads.

5. Which of the many whistles on the market carries farthest, if any? Is the police whistle as good as any?

Ans. The police whistle is as good as any.

H. B., Sr., Greencastle, Ind.

Which is the most accurate shell, the Smith & Wesson Special or the Colt long? Which is the most powerful or has the greatest penetration loaded with the same ammunition? I myself hold that the long is the more accurate while my friend is positive that he read from your decision that the S. & W. Special was the more accurate.

Ans. The .38 S. & W. Special and the .38 Colt Special are alike and they are more accurate and more powerful than the .38 long.

G. E. A., E. Norton, Mass.

I noticed last week that you mention the .410 caliber cartridge. Some firms advertise a gun that will shoot either the .44XL or the new .410 caliber smokeless shell. In what respect does the .410 caliber cartridge differ from the .44XL? Will the .410 caliber fit any gun chambered for the .44XL? I have a Stevens .44 shotgun and have used the .44XL but understand the new .410 is more powerful.

Ans. The difference between the .44XL shot cartridge and the .410 shell is that the .410 shell is slightly longer and a little tiny bit larger around. It cannot be used in old style guns chambered for the .44XL shot cartridge. They are now making guns which will handle the .410 gauge shell and of course .44XL cartridges can be used in them. In fact, the .44XL cartridge can be used in any gun chambered for the .410 gauge shell.

E. G. K., Sandusky.

Is there any way I can get my rifle fitted with sights such as they put on the old time squirrel rifles? I saw one once and it had a real fine knife edge front sight and a notch rear sight right back near the eye. The notch was just the finest kind of a cut. If I had sights like that I could get better scores. Why is it that all the new rifles have such coarse sights?

Ans. You are on the wrong track. Fine sights are not conducive to accurate work. In the first place they strain the eye. In the second place they blur easily because with eye focused on the object to be hit, neither of the sights can be truly in focus. You will find that the best shots use rather coarse sights.

2. Also why for goodness sake do they put the open rear sights so far forward on the barrel on modern rifles? Plain simple mechanical laws will tell you that the farther the sights are apart the more accurately the barrel can be pointed.

Ans. It is impossible to focus a camera lens on more than one at a time of several objects at different distances. The human eye is a camera in all essential particulars. When it is focused on the target the sights cannot be sharp and the nearer they are to eye the fuzzier they are. Consequently the manufacturer is so to speak between the devil and the deep blue sea. If he puts the rear sight too near the eye it will be very much blurred and if he puts it too far forward the sighting radius will be cut down and inaccuracy will develop from this cause. His problem therefore is to place it at a point which will produce the best average results.

Bible Reading.

An old colored man who failed to find a Bible in the Jefferson hospital rummage sale was asked if something else would do; and he answered that he did not care to "adapt his time" to any other reading. The negro boy who gave the name "Onesimus" in the municipal court promptly traced the name to St. Paul's epistle to Philemon. That the reading of the Scriptures in these bellicose times is not confined to the race of Booker Washington and Major Moton is shown by the fact that the Bible society has sent 3,000,000 Bibles to soldiers, captives and refugees. Often the continuance of the war is ascribed to the lethargy of churchmen. It is not those who put into application the spirit of the Sermon on the Mount who have made the "Song of Hate" their song of songs. The Bible is the antithesis of the militaristic mania and the heathen heart. The Old Testament is filled with battle and murder, to be sure, but it is a pagan mistranslator who infers that he is to go and do likewise in order to be blest.—Philadelphia Ledger.

WATER IN POOL

"JUST RIGHT"

(Special Correspondence.)

Upper Dam, July 3.—The water in the pool is now just right to please the fly fishermen, for but one gate is up at present. That there are plenty of trout and salmon under the white foam is every day proved, for the fish are seen when the mill shuts down and often the skill and patience of the angler is rewarded by "catching a record" which is the ambition of all.

This morning Mr. Palmer came in with a salmon all were sure would reach the 3-pound notch on the old steelyards, and as usual guides and sportsmen, who needed to put on their glasses, and stood on the piazza to watch Chas. Grant, "the official weigher," and he said, "Let me see, that salmon weighs just 2 pounds 15 ounces." Good fish to broil, but could not be recorded.

It was only a short time before Tom Miner came up from the pool with a trout that made a good fight for his life as the reel would hum and away he went into the quick water. Again the topic of conversation was the weight of the trout, and again the old steelyards told the correct weight that no one ever thinks of doubting, "just 2 pounds 14 ounces" announced Mr. Grant.

"It is the best natured crowd, the fly fishermen, who come with hundreds of dollars worth of tackle," is the way one of the guides expressed himself as he lit his pipe and commenced to give a new corner points about Upper Dam.

I know that many will be anxious for this letter from Upper Dam to learn the success, or luck of that skillful fisherman, Wm. Allen from Johnston, Penn. "Truth is stranger than fiction," someone has said, and Mr. Allen after days of faithful casting over the pool had a box of handsome small fish that he sent home, but, alas, his name is not on the record, and he has reeled in and gone to other fishing grounds, and "the ladies keep on knitting" and now we are looking forward to another poem from the pen of Dr. Harper.

The lucky number of seven are the fish recorded this week, all salmon and four taken by Tom Miner on White Tipped Montreal and Silver Doctor flies, and they weighed 5 pounds 6 ounces, 4 pounds, 3 pounds 11 ounces and 3 pounds 4 ounces.

J. C. Dougherty left his "job on the dryk" long enough to put in a little practice with his light fly rod and brought in a 4-pound 12 ounce salmon one morning this week.

S. H. Palmer, the Bethlehem, Penn., expert fly fisherman, has another pair of salmon to his credit weighing 3 pounds 2 ounces and 3 pounds 3 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll S. Hooper of Boston are here for a short stay.

After an absence of six years the following people from Englewood, N. J., are delighted to return, and regret they can not have the comfortable home-like camps to occupy only for the month of July. The party this summer include Mr. and Mrs. James Kirkby, their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. D. Kirkby, Miss Barbara and nurse, Mrs. W. E. Longhaman and little daughters, Miss Marion and Miss Margaret Longhaman.

John S. Griffiths of Wakefield, Mass. and A. L. Evans of Boston, with Hollis Ellingwood guide, on Sunday had great luck trolling on Mooselookmeganic Lake. They caught 47 trout and salmon, the largest 3 pounds, a number of 2 1/2 pounds, they saved only a few and are coming back after the others when they grow to be "records."

The flower beds are looking bright with the red geranium blossoms, and the buttercups and daisies will be mowed as soon as the sun shines.

Mumps Immunity Possible.

That it may be possible to make a serum that shall confer immunity to mumps seems likely as a result of experiments on cats at the Rockefeller Institute by Doctor Wollstein. She inoculated them with the saliva of persons having mumps and found that they contracted the disease. She attenuated the infectious material with the serum of cats that had recovered and found a distinctly slighter reaction. And reinoculation of animals that had recovered produced but little effect.

WORMS, FOE OF THE DOG

There is hardly any limit to the sources from which a dog may become infested with worms. He will acquire them from his food, water, bedding, motions, in pursuit of the flea, and he is not infrequently born with them, or even when that is not the case they are almost sure to be present by the time he has arrived at the mature age of one week. Hence it will at once be apparent what necessity there is for the greatest attention to sanitary detail throughout all operations connected with the kennels, as there is no greater cause of mortality among puppies from the age of one to four months. The worms often penetrate the lining of the stomach, says the New York Sun, which is tantamount to certain death, and it is difficult to treat them while they are still in the nest.

Looking at the primary causes which produce worms, it will be found that there is an intimate connection, or perhaps it would be more correct to say an intimate relationship, between the tapeworm which affects the internal organs of the dog and the irritant flea that plagues him externally. It has been asserted by eminent scientists that the ova from tapeworms expelled from a dog are devoured by fleas and develop into what are known as cryptocysts. The dog bites himself when irritated and swallows the flea that is causing him trouble. Then the cryptocyst is set free in the dog's stomach and proceeds to develop into a tapeworm once more. This explanation has been generally accepted, and it solves a difficulty that many persons have been unable to solve for themselves. They cannot understand why their dog, which has never been allowed to associate with other dogs and has never been fed on anything like offal which would be likely to generate intestinal parasites, should nevertheless suffer from tapeworm.

The explanation rests with the flea, which leaves a dog once it has obtained a cryptocyst, and takes up its abode on another dog, by which it is swallowed with the result described above. One moral to be deduced from these facts is the moral of cleanliness. Never allow a flea to trouble your dog if you can possibly avoid it. This is perhaps rather a large order, but really there is no reason why dogs should be troubled with fleas if only they are kept perfectly clean. It has often been inquired whether food has anything to do with the production of worms, and probably it has. As a matter of fact, worms themselves only thrive under unhealthy conditions and regular and systematic dosings with medicines so as to keep the dog in a thorough state of health will go a long way as a preventive.

Whether it is possible to trace the origin of worms to food it is impossible to tell, but there is a good deal to be said about stale dog biscuits, which have been lying perhaps for months in a shop and which in consequence have been attacked by insects such as small beetles and other creatures which attack flour and all cereal preparations. If possible it is a good plan to buy all food of this kind direct from one of the firms who advertise them and not to buy too many at once. Then there can be no question as to their freshness and freedom from the risk indicated. It is a great mistake not to take a dog in hand at once when he is suspected of having worms and give him a thorough dosing straightway. So long as any trace of these pests remain the dog will be more or less unhealthy and out of sorts. In the case of puppies it is positively dangerous to let the matter go on.

War Nicknames.

War nicknames are a curious study. Probably there never was a war which did not give rise to some comic or offensive designation for the enemy. "Picts" (painted people) and "Lombards" (longbeards) remain as isolated monuments of the Roman soldier's play of fancy. The French in the early centuries called us "talls" for some rather mysterious reason. On more obvious grounds we have been known since the days of Joan of Arc as "godlams," the one epithet to which our gallant allies have remained faithful throughout the centuries. We on our side have chiefly exercised our wit on the supposed passion of all Frenchmen for frogs. The nature of a war, indeed, can generally be traced in war nicknames. There is nothing opprobrious in "Ruski," and something positively caressing in "fuzzy-wuzzy," the English nickname for the brave but misguided Soudanese. "Guppy" suggests good-natured contempt. The Boer "roolnek" and "Brodrick" are familiar, but not insulting.—London Tit-Bits.

Roads To Rangeley Reported In Good Condition

(Special Correspondence.)

Rangeley Lake House, Rangeley, July 4.—The rain did not dampen the good cheer of the guests who were fortunate enough to spend the glorious Fourth in a quiet, happy manner at this well-known hotel, for it does not rain any more down in Maine than in other places.

Miss Rachel Marble, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Marble, who is now with her family, is from a large circle of friends receiving congratulations on her engagement recently announced to Mr. Nathaniel M. Whitmore, one of the well-known and popular young business men of Haverhill, Mass. Miss Marble, the "charming" daughter of the house, is now entertaining her friend, Mrs. Francis J. Braun, who at her home in Portland a short time ago gave a dinner in honor of the engagement. Mr. Whitmore has been spending a few days with his fiancée and the young people received many good wishes for years of health, happiness and prosperity from the many acquaintances who had the pleasure of meeting them.

The pleasant days of last week brought many automobile parties to the Rangeleys and one said "the roads are better than in most parts of Maine, in fact we found such an excellent chance to speed between Farmington and Strong we named it "Heaven's Highway."

One of the New York parties who remained several days were Mr. and Mrs. B. Birkenfeld, Miss E. A. Lewis and Miss J. Meade.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Worthington, whose home is in Paris, but for the present are living in the United States, were here last year and so much pleased with the place they have returned for the season.

Some of the best known New Yorkers who are regularly welcomed for the season are Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Pope.

It is always pleasant to have Outlook Cottage opened and as usual it is occupied by the delightful party from Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Castle, who are accompanied by their granddaughter, Miss Margaret N. Castle. This week they have been joined by their daughter and husband, Dr. B. Franklin Stahl, three children and maids. This is the 16th season Dr. Stahl, one of the best known among his profession in Philadelphia, has been the house physician, and during these years he has by his skill and kindness won a host of friends who always extend a hearty greeting to the family.

A party of new comers who express themselves as greatly pleased with the place they have chosen to pass the summer days are Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ros and their three daughters, Miss Flora, Miss S. E. and Miss Emilee Ros of New York.

Among the visitors who return each year are Mr. and Mrs. M. Trump, who are again happily located in the rooms they have occupied for several years.

Prof. Neahr of Princeton College and family are "at home" for the summer in their cottage just below the hotel.

Prof. Dwight Porter of Boston Technology registered here Saturday and is now at their camp on the lake shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. P. Davis, their son, Geo. P. Jr., and daughter, Miss Ragner Davis and Miss Longbeck of New York are new comers who will tarry until late in the season.

Among the highly esteemed Bostonians who have returned are Mrs. J. D. Morton and daughter, Mrs. J. H. Goodspeed and son, Morton Goodspeed. Morton has not only won fame, but many of the handsome trophies at the golf tournaments and when the course is ready, and the tournaments come off he will be ready to add other cups to his already large collection.

The young people were glad of the return of one of their popular members, J. W. Daly of New York.

General W. F. Riddle, U. S. A., accompanied by Mrs. Riddle are among the Philadelphia people who have chosen this hotel for their summer outing.

mer outing.

Dr. and Mrs. H. Franenthal and daughter, Miss Natalie of New York are here for a short stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond S. Childs, Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Seelyr and party of Millinocket, F. Stallforth and friends of New York were included with week-end guests who came by automobile.

Mrs. J. E. McMichael of New York after passing the June days with friends at this hotel, has returned home.

Edward Ledesney of Brooklyn, N. Y., who was the first person to register when the hotel opened, was this week joined by Mrs. Ledesney and as usual they will remain until the end of the season.

Mrs. S. G. Wheatland of Salem, Mass., who passed the June days here, is now at her beautiful summer home on the shore of Rangeley Lake, where she entertains many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Place, W. E. Chase of Worcester and Miss M. A. Place of Providence, R. I., while on an auto trip through the State, remained several days at this hotel.

Dr. and Mrs. Downing of New York spent Sunday with the Chatillon party.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Buell of Orange, Mass., are enjoying a ten days' stay.

Coming in two touring cars C. H. Nutting and party of Sharon, Mass., F. A. Smith and party of Holyoke, Mass., were here for over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sample, Mr. and Mrs. C. Colburn of Lynn, Mass., left yesterday in their touring car for a trip through the White Mountains.

From Montclair, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Williams, their daughter, Miss Charlott and sons, Alfred D. and Charles W. Jr., are for the first summer enjoying life at this hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dow, Miss Katherine and Neal Dow, Mr. and Mrs. Harrie B. Coe are among the Portland people who have made a short stay this week.

Prominent people have tarried here this week, including Mrs. John F. Hill of Augusta, wife of the late Governor Hill of Maine, Mrs. Robert H. Gardiner of Gardiner and their friend, Miss R. L. Dexter of Boston, who came in one of the finest touring cars that ever passed along the picturesque country road leading to this beautiful part of Maine.

Mrs. T. W. Child and Miss O. Marx of Toledo, Ohio, are for the first time passing several weeks at the lakes.

Motoring from their home in Greenwich, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Shawson, Miss Virginia C. Shawson, Mrs. R. Krap and S. W. Spencer arrived Tuesday evening for an extensive sojourn.

Mrs. John Collins Bliss and son, Edmond Bliss are among the New Yorkers who will pass the month of July at this hotel.

There seems to be fish for those who go-a-fishing, as three young ladies, Miss Ruth Marble, Miss Juliet and Miss Virginia Thompson proved Tuesday afternoon, when they came into the office with ten trout they caught off the wharf in front of the hotel. There were no 3-pounders among the number, but they were all large enough for the frying pan. The hotel will soon be filled to overflowing, and the house count for July 4th was 41 more than a year ago.

It was the pleasure of the guests on Sunday afternoon to again listen to an interesting talk given in the parlor by Rev. Mr. Thompson, and all regret the family this week return to their New York home.

Trees and Ghosts.

Among the Druids the oak was held sacred, and many of their rites were performed in England's oak groves, safe from prying eyes. Their reverence for the mistletoe was an outgrowth of their surroundings, since they observed that only rarely did it appear on this sacred tree. It was cut on New Year's day with much pomp and ceremony. The archdruid, clothed in white, ascended the tree and cut the mystic boughs with a golden knife, dropping them into the outstretched robe of another officiating priest. The branches were then distributed to the waiting crowds, on whom they conferred the gift of fertility. It was supposed to possess, besides, great healing powers; and, further, to impart the power to see ghosts—for which purpose it was probably not greatly in demand.

WRITES FROM WESTERN HOME

Dr. Noble Always Interested In Rangeley and Its People.

Many friends will be interested in the following letter received by Dr. J. W. Thompson who is stopping at the Rangeley Lake House, from Dr. F. A. Noble, who with Mrs. Noble were guests at the Rangeley Lake House for several summers, and who will deeply regret the misfortune that has come to Dr. Noble:

1414 Forest Ave., Evanston, Ill., Wednesday Morning, June 14, 1916.

My Dear Thompson: It was exceedingly kind of you to write me from dear old Rangeley, indeed it was exceedingly wise in you to take your wife and children under your arm and go back to dear old Rangeley, so that you could write me from that fondly remembered spot.

What you say about the library gave very special pleasure to both Mrs. Noble and myself, for nothing with which I have had anything to do in my life time gives me more pleasure in the retrospect than my small share in the bringing of that building to pass. It took seven years for us to do it, but all hands of us working as one person, and pulling together season after season, did the trick.

Speaking of books, reminds me to say, that I have not read a book for more than two years. My eyes are gone past the aid of oculist and magnifying glass, and my gathering of information from printed page,—book or papers—has to be by proxy. You will guess without my telling you that my wife has to be vision and voice to me, and hence is now, in a very special sense, while she has always been in general, the delight of my eyes. She is eyes plus herself to me now.

We were glad to hear your good word about the Marbles, for they were always very kind to us, and we were very fond of them. Do not fail to extend to them our most cordial greetings. Remember us also to Mr. and Mrs. Burrows.

But Rangeley—How I would like to see it! Most likely I never shall see it again. How, too, I would like to meet once more some of the old friends of those old days. All the same the thought of them is refreshing, and the memory of not a few of those who are gone is sacred. The Rangeley Chapter is one of the chapters in my life that I would not like to have deleted or forgotten.

Mrs. Noble joins me in affectionate greetings to Mrs. Thompson and the two cherished and promising daughters. Remember us most tenderly to Miss McLean. Would that we might see you all. Oh yes, I forgot, three cheers and a tigger for Hughes.

With all kind wishes,
Very truly yours,
F. A. Noble.

A NEW BOOK ABOUT MAINE

A new book "The Latch-String," by Walter Emerson, managing editor of the Boston Herald, and published by the Houghton Mifflin Co., ought to be of interest to all who are interested in the State of Maine.

In "The Latch-String" says the Boston Herald, Mr. Emerson proves his case with little difficulty. He first tells in well worded descriptive phrase what the state offers in scenic wonders, in game fish, sport with shotgun and rifle, the enjoyments to be found there with camp and canoe, and the industries in forest, field and factory.

He issues the invitation to "Come," and says frankly that he knows the visitor will wish to come again. Free from superlatives, from bombast and boasting, the writer reveals to the mind's eye the things within the old state that have interested him. Cleverly has he woven his own personality into his descriptions; most interestingly has he told of little journeys such as anyone may take and enjoy, and he seems to create in the reader an intense desire to make similar journeys.

Even the most travelled of tourists can hardly realize that so much of interest may be found in a single state as Mr. Emerson brings so vividly to the mind by his mingled stories and pictures, his "yarns" and tales of personal adventure, his statistics and his statements of what Maine has done with its facilities.

Feed the Sparrows.

A naturalist announces that those tender-hearted persons who have made a custom to supply the wild birds with food in the winter months are really killing them with kindness. "Birds supplied with fat from the food they eat in the summer live through stormy winters without much food, he says, and often when overfed die of diseased liver. Here is suggested a way to get rid of the English sparrows that would meet with their hearty appreciation and co-operation.

NYOIL FOR GUNS AND FISH-RODS

William F. Nye is the greatest authority on refined oils in the world. He was the first bottler; has the largest business and NYOIL is the best oil he has ever made.

NYOIL HAS NO EQUAL.

Beware of scented mixtures called oil. Use NYOIL on everything where a light oil is needed. It prevents rust and gives perfect lubrication.

Sportsmen, use it liberally on your firearms and your rod. You will find it by far the best. Hardware and sporting goods dealers sell it in large bottles (cheaper to buy) at 25 c. and in trial sizes at 10 c. Made by

PULLMAN MAKES INITIAL RUN

Log Cabin Life Has a Great Fascination for Many.

Mooselookmeguntic House, Haines Landing, July 1.—"Here in the heart of the Rangeleys we shall spend our summer in such a cozy homelike log cabin," was what a lady wrote to her city friends this morning from this attractive place. Log cabin life surely has a fascination for those who do not care for the fashionable summer hotel. "Close to Nature and life in the open down in Maine," brings health as well as pleasure.

Prof. J. Kellsey of New York City College, accompanied by Mrs. Kellsey, have returned for their third summer. Mr. Kellsey was greatly pleased to bring in a 5½-pound salmon and one 3½ pounds, and his wife had sport landing a 3-pounder.

Prof. W. D. Sargent, accompanied by his wife of Hebron Academy, were here for over Sunday.

Dr. F. A. Hayden of Portland was greeted by old friends on his arrival Saturday and will spend part of the summer at Haines Landing.

Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Carter motor-ed in from Phillips Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Hance of Yonkers, N. Y., who are on their wedding trip, are pleasantly located in Wellshire Camp in the woods for several weeks.

Samuel C. Hutchinson and brother, W. Howard Hutchinson of Lynn, Mass., returned home this morning after a week in camp. They made the trip by auto and from here went to Poland Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Grant of Brownville, N. Y., are for their season enjoying a month in camp here.

Dr. and Mrs. B. C. Graffam of Portland have come for a two weeks' stay.

Thomas O. Rogers is entertaining as guests his friends, Mr. and Mrs. B. Faith and Miss Collins of Newton, Mass.

The first Saturday morning pullman from Boston whistled in at Oquosoc at 6.44 o'clock this morning and the following party from Detroit, Mich., Mrs. M. E. Farr, Miss Carol and Master Frederick, E. R. and Everett Farr arrived and will for the summer be at home in one of the camps.

FEAST ON THE COLORADO TROUT

Several Auburn families have been feasting this week on Colorado mountain trout, which, notwithstanding they were a week on the way, reached their destination in perfect condition. The largest wholesalers of sea-food, as well as of mountain trout and canned goods in the Rocky Mountain country, are the M. C. Flint Mercantile company of Denver, Colorado, of which R. S. Williams is secretary and treasurer. The fact that mountain trout are so abundant in the Colorado cascades as to make them an article of transcontinental as well as of State commerce shows the great resources of the Colorado sporting country, not only for relaxation but for food-stuffs. Mr. Williams in an eastern born man, and he has not forgotten the east in his active and successful participation in business in the west. The M. C. Flint Mercantile company probably handles more foodstuffs at wholesale than any firm in either middle or remote west.—Lewiston Journal.

GOOD CATCHES AT YORK CAMPS

York Camps, Loon Lake, Rangeley July 2.—Many good catches have been made at Loon Lake the last two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Maxfield and C. M. Maxfield of New Hartford, Conn., among the most successful. H. R. Maxfield has a 3-pound salmon and a 5-pound, and a 4½-pound square tail to his credit while his brother, C. M. Maxfield is close behind with a 5½-pound trout and a 2½-pound salmon.

Mrs. G. B. Lely of Boston secured a fine string of salmon weighing 6 pounds.

Mrs. Paul D. Freiss of Cleveland, Ohio, went out each day of their stay and secured a fine salmon for their table.

H. N. Fairchild of New York, a regular guest for several summers, has been having his usual good luck on Little Greeley.

Others who have recently registered are E. Warren Clark, A. N. Harris, Elizabeth B. Woods, F. K. Hatfield, Boston; Mrs. Wm. Nice, Jr., Katherine Nice, Agontz, Pa.; R. H. Ellis, Rangeley; Mr. and Mrs. R. R. McFarlin, James B. McFarlin, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel P. Hays, Mrs. L. M. and Mary C. Tanner, New York City; C. R. Adams, W. S. Schellenger, Philadelphia; Mrs. H. J. Peck, Warren, R. I.; A. M. Best, Providence; Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Bainbridge, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Chandler, Strong; Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Cunningham, Ruth Cunningham, Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pollard, Nashua, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Orr, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Lowell, Lewiston.

MINGO SPRINGS OPEN FOR SEASON

Guarantee that Guests Will Be Well Cared for With the Smiths in Charge.

(Special Correspondence.)

Mingo Springs, Rangeley Lake June 29.—It will be pleasing to the public and patrons of this attractive hotel and camps to learn the place is open for the season of 1916, and the first guests come tonight, and several parties are booked for the first of July.

As many letters are being received from those who plan to come to the Rangeleys, without doubt all the camps will soon be engaged by Boston, New York and Philadelphia people.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Beale and their sisters, Miss Gertrude and Miss Grace Smith of North Anson have charge of the place which is a guarantee that those who spend their summer at Mingo will in every way be well cared for.

Prof. Munyon has written he will come next week and complete the arrangements for improvements at Mingo.

The flag is flying from Mingo Hill Camps, which announces that Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Patridge, who spent the winter at their southern home, are again welcomed to their beautiful home on the hill.

PRIZE—Bristol steel bait casting rod with agate tip and guides, presented by Horton Mfg. Co., Bristol, Conn. As fine a steel rod as can be made.

Levi S. Dow, H. L. Welch, L. G. Chadbourne, Ernest DeMerritt, Vincent York, Arthur Gile, James Mathieson.

Was won by L. S. Dow of Houlton, who cast 75 feet.

SPECIAL FISHING PRIZES

To the lady catching the largest trout during the meet will be given a steel fish rod presented by the J. H. Stetson Co., Lewiston, Me.

To the gentleman catching the largest trout during the meet will be given a Martin's "DeLuxe" enamel line valued at $5.00 presented by E. J. Martin's Sons, Rockville, Conn. This is one of the very finest fish lines manufactured.

For the largest salmon caught during the meet will be given a Martin's "Highest Quality" enamel line valued at $3.50, presented by E. J. Martin's Sons, Rockville, Conn.

If the gentlemen and ladies had worked as hard or spent half as much time with rod and line as they did shooting and playing bridge no doubt there would have been less fish in the lake.

D. L. Nash of Augusta won the prize before he had been here three hours by landing a 5½-pound salmon not far from the Mountain View.

Bob Chapman caught one of 5 pounds weight and won 2nd prize.

A. J. Skidmore caught the largest trout, but it only weighed 1 pound. Several parties went to Quimby Pond and had good fly fishing.

LADIES WHIST

Whist will be played by the ladies under rules to be made at the meet, and the following prizes have been provided.

Several pieces of pillow tubing presented by the Continental Mills, Lewiston, Me.

A quilt presented by the Bates Manufacturing Co., Lewiston, Me.

A pair of ladies' sport shoes presented by Wise & Cooper Co., Auburn, Me.

Friday—First prize, Mrs. I. E. Pendleton, who made a score of 1346. Second prize, Mrs. F. L. Gardiner, whose score was 1041. Mrs. R. L. Whitehouse 3rd prize, and on Saturday Mrs. F. L. Gardiner with score of 1288 won the first prize. Mrs. G. M. Barney 2nd prize with a score of 1287, and Mrs. D. L. Nash 3rd with a score of 1232.

NOTES

Friday morning four enthusiastic sportsmen quietly left the hotel just after the clock struck 4 and when at 6 o'clock they returned, as bright as the morning, they had one "speckled beauty" and it measured just the required length to pass the war-

To sit and sew all day

"Women's work is never done," they say, and too often this is true. To sit and sew all day is tiring work, and often results in headache, backache and sometimes kills ambition and takes away the appetite. The stomach, liver and bowels need exercise, but they don't get it when you bend all day over a needle. When this sort of work tells on you, you can find great relief by taking "L. F." Atwood's Medicine. It is safe to take and acts favorably on the digestive organs, regulates the liver and bowels, and helps a sick headache. Women or men who lead a sedentary life will find this medicine a fine remedy to keep in the home.

den who sat smoking on the piazza.

It was a great reception the friends gave Hon. J. Putnam Stevens, former president of the association, who is the leading Shriner in the country, and with dignity and a smiling face bears the title of Imperial Pate-fate of North America, A. A. O. N. M. Shrine. Mr. Stevens was accompanied by his wife, who the first time for two years is again able to enjoy an outing. They left Portland Thursday morning at 7 o'clock in their touring car with Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Barney and found the roads with few exceptions of one or two places very good. After stopping three hours they motored direct to Mt. View and reached here at 5.30 o'clock p. m.

Friday afternoon and evening the Ladies' Aid, who are doing great work to help in the building of the handsome log church at Oquossoc through the courtesy of Mrs. L. E. Bowley who has done much to forward the good work, had a sale in the ladies' parlor beyond the music room. They had nearly 100 aprons of all kinds that they had made and pounds of homemade candy, also punch and lemonade that found a ready sale between the dances. $10 was cleared by raffling a very handsome embroidered apron, a gift of Mrs. Bowley and the tickets were quickly sold and Mr. Bowley was the fortunate one to draw the prize. The room and tables were prettily decorated with ferns and flowers and Mrs. Harley Curtis, Mrs. E. Patten, Mrs. Taylor Judkins and Mrs. Rolfe Parker made good saleswomen and over $50 was added to the fund of the Oquossoc Ladies' Aid, who plan for another sale in August.

Among those in attendance were Hon. and Mrs. Roscoe Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Homer N. Chase, R. J. Whitehouse, Miss Ada M. Wentworth, Dr. R. N. Randall, Miss Olive M. McGilvery, Dr. and Mrs. D. E. White, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Bearce, Miss Alice Savage, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Knight, H. A. Goss, R. H. Chapman, Hon. and Mrs. T. F. Callahan, Miss T. M. Callahan, Miss Beatrice F. Callahan, Edw. J. Callahan, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Lowell, Dr. and Mrs. I. E. Pendleton, Lewiston; Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Weston, B. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Whitehouse, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. True, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Gardiner, H. B. Estes, Arthur G. Staples, Auburn; Scott Brackett, Hon. and Mrs. Harry B. Austin, Miss Ruth Austin, Miss Cornelia T. Crosby, Phillips; L. L. GERMAN BOAR COST SOMETHING

Friends Think They Have Good Story on Mayor Viles.

A good story about a German wild boar and Mayo Blaine S. Viles of Augusta is told by the Kennebec Journal. The mayor recently added to his livestock as fine a specimen of German wild boar as could well be found. The boar, who seemed a perfect gentleman, was kept for a fortnight in the barn at the mayor's farm, "Ledge House," and won the reputation of being a tranquil creature who would live in peace with the plain old State of Maine hogs of the mayor's pasture land. So he was moved into his private car and transferred to his future abode. Once let loose, the boar began to cut up in lively style. Rushing full force against the further fence, he failed to make a dent in it. After looking around to pick out the weakest spot in the yarded enclosure he charged again and this time went sailing through the fence into the brush and woods beyond, thus adding a new species to the wild animals of Maine. To his friends who were doubled up with laughter over the performance, Mayor Viles suggested that "It wasn't a joke. That German boar cost over $35."

FLY FISHING O. K. IN THIS REGION

Dull Season Is Over and Guests Beginning to Arrive.

Oxbow, Me., June 17, 1916.

To the Editor of Maine Woods:

Near the centre of far northern Maine lies an extensive stretch of country covered with mountains, ridges, lakes and streams and silent, primeval forests. The ridges, flats and valleys are beautiful under cultivation. "All places that the eye of Heaven visits" "Are to a wise man ports and happy havens." Oxbow, Masardis and Ashland, and Squa Pau and Portage as well, are places of that sort; and the hand of man has not marred their fair visage. Things at the Bow are fairly humming now. Parson Ackerman has lately run his ministerial-sub-soil-plov through the whole plantation by friendly calls and visiting the public schools.

Just as we had begun to think that our sporting friends had forgotten us and that our advertising had failed to hit the bull's-eye, and we were in for a slim season's work, the storm broke and a pair of distinguished guests flew into the home camp for a week's trip up river to Billy's new camps at Lake Millmagasset. They were Messrs. C. E. Osgood of Brookline, Mass., a widely advertised Boston household goods merchant, and L. N. Josselyn of Newton, Mass., president and treasurer, respectively, of the C. E. Osgood Co. (Inc.) of Boston. Close upon their heels came Charles Lord and Herbert Caldwell of Portland, both connected with the Maine Motor Car Co., R. E. Allwart of New York and Detroit, Fred Greenlaw of Masardis, Me., and F. S. Sumner of Waltham, Mass.

Following them the next day came Walter D. Hinds of Portland, with Messrs. C. C. Nobles and E. P. Angot of New York. Mr. Nobles has been a guest here several times heretofore. To make the circle complete and give grace to our festive board, Miss Amelia J. Walton, one of Masardis' popular and successful school teachers, paid us a visit by invitation of our hostess, Mrs. Billy.

Miss Delia R. Cushing of Houlton, who has been visiting her relatives in Ashland on the George and Peter Dunn farms for several weeks, paid us a flying visit of a few days last week escorted by her uncle, Mr. Rich and Dunn of Ashland. Miss Cushing is an accomplished trained nurse and is widely known beyond her home village and native state. She makes her home with her sister, Mrs. P. P. Burleigh, No. 114 Main Street, Houlton, Me.

Messrs. Osgood and Josselyn, with Billy Soule and George Flemming guides, have just returned from the Lake Millmagasset Camps. They reported fine weather, few flies, but plenty of fish. Fly fishing is now O. K. in all this region, so the sports and guides all say. The scribe has 71 brook trout to his credit, all caught in sight of the home camp.

The Lord and the Hinds parties both had first-class fly fishing last week up at the dead waters of Umcokeus stream. They had Frank Currier, Ross Weaver, Stan. Chase, Arthur Smith and Will and Welman Fleming as guides. They saw plenty of deer and one moose on the trip of several days. Mr. Lord, with Billy Fleming guide, afterwards went up the Arcostock 10 or 12 miles, returning last night. They took plenty of trout and saw a large bear.

Of the twin girls born to Mr. and Mrs. Eph. Chase lately, one gave up the chase after a few hours. The other survived her debut to the world and is doing nicely, as per last reports. Mother and daughter are doing as well as can be expected. The Bow is not only beautiful for situation but is a remarkably healthful place, no other deaths having occurred for a long time. Marriages are infrequent and such a thing as divorce is unthinkable. If your scribe only was about 50 years younger quite likely he might be induced to settle on one of the many splendid farms for which this region is celebrated. He's a great-grandfather now and proud of the fact. Arcostock county is famous for mountains and hills, lakes and streams, fish and game, potatoes and children.

Wednesday evening, the 14th inst., the new Grange hall at the Bow was dedicated with suitable ceremonies. The occasion called out a large and interested audience of Umcokeus Lodge members, and many from lodges in other neighboring towns within a radius of 40 miles. A large number of non-members also were present. Their ages varied from 0 to 75 years. Mrs. Fred Fleming led the devotional service as chaplain of the lodge. Brother Thompson, master of the state lodges, was present and in a very admirable presentation of the benefits accruing to the public where lodges are instituted predicted for Umcokeus Lodge a very prosperous career. Mrs. Thompson spoke briefly but to the point and was generously applauded. Rev. N. B. Ackerman of Masardis was the next speaker and was listened to with close attention. His topic was "The Value of an Ideal". Bro. MacLaughlin of Presque Isle spoke in a happy vein which concluded the regular program. At 10 o'clock a light repast of ice cream and cake was served to all of the 200 persons present; and of the fragments left over there must have been at least two baskets full. Umcokeus Lodge does nothing by halves and the building it now occupies shows the fruit of willing and united effort in one and the same direction and is a credit to all concerned. On the following night a dance was held in the hall under the auspices of the Grange with music by Rafford's orchestra from Ashland. A large company, about 40 couples, enjoyed the festivities till an early hour of the next morning. There was a full moon and a full house.

Yours cordially,
J. C. Hartshorne.

"THE ETIQUETTE OF THE WOODS."

Sportsmen everywhere will instantly recognize in this article the fulfillment of a long-felt need, an essential adjunct to the outfit of anyone not familiar with the Big Woods and which should never for a moment be left behind. Advice is cheap and easy to take, and right here we would emphasize our belief that anyone who doubts the following statement is no more of a gentleman than we would be to burst into loud, hoarse laughter at like statements of his. Going into the woods is serious business, either one should go prepared for anything (including the worst), or one should stay by his own fireside.

No gentleman should think of going into the wilds with less than four suitcases full of clothes for all occasions, neither should he demean himself by trying to put this raiment into a pack basket, for it will lock as though you were trying to emulate a class of people below your own social level. Be sure and include a complete toilet outfit, cologne, talcum powder, rouge for fingernails, etc. Decency demands that you appear at your best always. A couple of hot water bottles are essential to the well-ordered camping kit, and a small soapstone is also handy to have along. If you have a mirror that will cover one end of your tent, take it by all means, you can then realize the picturesque effect of your hunting togs as never before.

For a cooking kit, a few simple things like a coffee percolator, a double boiler of size sufficient for cooking young pigs or turkeys, a chaffing dish and 10 gallons of alcohol, a griddle cake or waffle iron, and a complete set of electrical cooking utensils, bread toaster, egg boiler, etc., will do for a small party. Supplies are optional, but a few essentials like Worcestershire sauce, pimentoes, a case of cream cheese, a keg of olives, and if possible a carton of caviar must not be left out of the list. If you premeditate slaying a few deer, by all means take a rifle originally intended for African big game, it will be so much more positive in its fatality. It should not weigh less than fifteen pounds, for the guide will carry it, and a guide is a low-down, piratical sort of marker, who should be taught his place and lowly station early in the game. If possible, get one of the late types of automatics, then you will assuredly kill something (or somebody) owing to the rapidity of discharge obtainable with it, which is only equalled by the speed with which your guide will disappear when you commence shooting. If you should knock down a small, fragile-appearing doe deer with this weapon, take a dead rest and empty the magazine into her before trying to approach more closely. Deer have been known to escape after having been killed deadier than a smoked herring. If going by canoe, one can add a few hundred pounds to the outfit without inconvenience to himself (the guide does the work), and a number of home conveniences, such as the family plate, full-length portraits of ancestors, a hat-rack and your clothes-press can be handled easily. If you should be so unfortunate as to find yourself surrounded by a forest conflagration, climb the tallest tree you can find you will be as safe there as anywhere, and may be smothered before the flames reach you, unless the tree burns at the base and breaks your neck, spine, and earthly connections in falling. Carry a variety of revolvers and pistols, there is a man in Omaha, Nebraska, who can hit a church quite often at ten yards, and some day, with plenty of practice, you may be able to do this also, provided you have never used tobacco, coffee or plain booze all of which spoil a man's nerves (not nerve).—Old Hunter in Kennebec Journal.

A LUMBERMAN'S BEAR STORY

At the session of the Tall Stove Club, Wednesday evening, relates the Bath Times, a lumberman from South Brook near Patten, Maine, said that while lumbering there last winter William Allan of Patten, who by the way has captured the past year 22 bears, ran across a mother bruin and two young cubs in the woods and all hands were greatly surprised, as the meeting was accidental and sudden. Mother Bruin at once told her children to climb a tree which they did. Allan shot the old bear with a pistol and then climbed the tree and captured the cubs, taking them under his arm back to camp. One of the little fellows was later sold for $50. That night a big bear, probably the father Bruin, came to camp in search of the cubs and tore down a pen before he was driven to the woods. One night another big bear came to make a friendly visit to the lumbermen who were sleeping in a tent. He was driven away, but at midnight he returned and walked in, awakening the men who jumped out of their beds in a hurry and the bear was so alarmed that he left by the side instead of the door of the tent, taking the entire canvas outfit with him part of the way. Then the men built a hut, as the bears were too plenty, and too neighborly in South Brook for them. The little cubs first mentioned above were brought up on condensed milk, and when one of them had finished sucking the milk through a hole bored in the can and the can was empty, the bear pup would use it as a baseball and mischievously throw it at the nearest man.

Salmon, square tailed and lake trout. My camps are most charmingly situated on the shores of Spring Lake, well furnished, excellent beds, purest of spring water and the table is first-class, elevation 1,800 feet above sea level, grandest scenery and pure mountain air. Hay fever and malaria unknown. Spring Lake furnishes excellent lake trout and salmon fishing and in the neighboring streams and ponds are abundance of brook trout. Buckboard roads only 2-12 miles. An ideal family summer resort. Telephone communications with village and doctor. References furnished. Terms reasonable. Address for full particulars, JOHN CARVILLE, Flagstaff, Me.

TONICS FOR AUTOMOBILISTS

Attention to the car now will save many a vexatious delay far from home. Some of the things often overlooked in the usual hasty summer overhauling, and in which trouble or danger may lurk, are:

A defective battery. If the car has been in storage, take the battery out and fill up the liquid with distilled water. If the battery does not test up to requirements, seek the battery man.

Look carefully over the steering connections. Especially if the car has been in use several years there may be a weak part that needs replacing.

Take a good squint at the front wheels; see that they line up properly. When they are not true it runs up tire expense.

Examine all the bearings carefully. It is likely that one or more of them need attention.

Take off the demountable rims and see that they are in good shape. Sometimes the tires rust into the clincher, and if unattended to will cause trouble.

See that you have a supply of good inner tubes. Take steps now to avoid for the season the dilemma of the man who, out on the road, finds that his surplus inner tubes are all punctured ones.

HAYING TIME AT THE BIRCHES

(Special Correspondence.)

The Birches, Moosehookmeguntic Lake, July 4.—Again it is haying time at the Birches and the perfume of sweet clover is in air.

"The beauty and the peace of life in our cabin here on the island is for us the ideal way for rest and happiness in summer," is the way a writer of books expressed the pleasure of being here again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wingate motored from their home in Brookline, Mass., as far as The Barker and came here for two weeks of life in Camp Hiawatha.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Howe and her mother, Mrs. R. E. Jennings of Wauseon, Ohio, who are on a tour through New England, were charmed with this, their first visit to the Rangeleys, and after a week's stay in Camp Comfort regretfully started for their western home via the White Mountains on Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelley Cole, well-known Portland people, were here for the week-end.

S. M. Robinson and brother, M. Robinson of Providence, R. I., are among the new comers at The Birches. With Fred Sholler guide, they are having good luck and S. M. Robinson has already recorded a trout of 3 pounds and a 4½-pound salmon.

Harvy Farrington of Yonkers, N. Y., has been joined by his son, E. Chandler and they are at Shelter Island and later will be joined by other members of the family.

M. A. Holden of Portland joined friends for a week's stay.

Another bridal couple are passing their honeymoon in one of these log camps, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Bowman of Millersburg, Penn.

Camp Mischief is taken for the July days by Mrs. S. J. Cook and daughter, Miss Cook of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. David Warner Amram and daughter, Miss Elinor of Philadelphia came yesterday for a two months' sojourn.

Frank P. Sterns of Arlington, Mass., accompanied by Albert W. Chase of Swampscott, Mass., have returned for another season and are in Camp Overlook.

Lee C. Haskell and friend, A. H. Rice of Boston, who are here for July, have chartered the steamboat Wm. P. Frye and will spend most of their time on the lake. H. O. Templeton is their guide.

Robert Colman Childs, Jr., a Boston lawyer, is for the first time enjoying a stay at The Birches.

This week several parties are coming and soon every camp will be taken.

Accessories Help Sales.

How is the car equipped? This question and its answer often is the turning-point in selling a car.

Some time ago reference was made to the quality of these accessories as evolved by careful application of scientific manufacture.

Without seeking to confine oneself to any one company, another of its products is a dominating factor in many sales. It is the tire pump, driven by the motor.

The buyer profits two ways from the purchase of a tire pump. He gets a standardized article and he keeps his tire at the correct pressure without work, adding to tire life. It requires 4,399 cubic inches of air to fill an average tire, and usually the arms give out at 75 per cent of that figure. Then follow 90 per cent of tire troubles. One needn't even get the hands dirty with a motor-driven pump.

These pumps don't get hot, shoot oil into the tire and have no leather fixings to get out of order. They are an added necessity-luxury.—Chicago Herald.

MORE ABOUT NATIONAL PRESERVE.

can to promote this object.

Maine will always be the pleasure state of the Union on account of its scenery, its pure air, its seashore resorts, its lakes, rivers, brooks, mountains and forests. Nature has done a great deal for our state, and it would seem that we have not always taken advantage of what she has done and are taxing her to the utmost.

No state in the Union has better trout fishing, or more lakes, rivers and brooks to the square mile than we, and it is up to us to protect our wild life so as to keep our forests as well filled with deer and other game as they are at present. Under our present system I am satisfied that our fishing will improve, but in regard to the game, which has to take care of itself, I know we all feel we are weak and need to do something to save it from final extinction.

This is why the officers of this association feel that a tract of land like the Katahdin district should be set apart forever as a place where game will be protected and allowed to increase and replenish what the sportsman kills. This Association is with Mr. Guernsey in his efforts, and we are with the Commissioners in their efforts for the conservation of game.

The law that was passed making a close time on moose for four years was a good one, and we hear little or no fault with its working. We should have a resident hunters' license, and I for one shall work to have such a law placed on the statute books, not only as a protection to game life, but a protection to the hunter. The Sunday law is a good one, and will work out all right I am sure.

I have no doubt it seems hard to the man who works all week in a store or mill or shoe shop, that he cannot take his gun when it comes Sunday and go into the woods after game, and yet how does it affect the rest of the community who do not hunt. We are told by the Commissioners that but 3% of the population hunt at all, so that a large part of the people are disturbed for the benefit of a few.

In the rural districts that are thinly populated it might not matter so much, but in our cities, when our street cars are crowded with churchgoers, it does not look well, to say the least, to see men with guns and dogs board the cars. The man who hunts on a Sunday cannot go far, and must hunt in thickly settled districts where there is danger that a stray bullet might do harm and where the sound of the rifle or shotgun might be annoying to nearby inhabitants.

I wish that some way might be devised so that our fish and game laws could be put in such shape that they would be easier understood by the ordinary sportsman. I think a commission might be appointed by our next legislature to take all the laws now passed and put them in better form, working out a plan with our Commissioners. I also think that any brook closed to fishing either by the legislature or by the commissioners should have printed notices posted conspicuously. The law is often broken innocently.

The Maine Sportsman's Fish and Game Association is growing in numbers, interest and efficiency. We are a power in shaping the sentiment of the state for good and just laws relative to hunting and fishing, and we feel keenly for the welfare of the state along these lines. We like the sport, and want to become proficient in shooting and fishing, but we do not want to exterminate. We want to conserve and enjoy the pleasure that the State of Maine so bountifully supplies us with. We want to work hand in hand with the Commissioners, and we want to see our state as the years go by become more and more a sportsman's paradise."

At the conclusion of his speech he thanked the members for the help they had given him and stated much to the regret of those present that this would be his last year as president of the Association, not because he did not have an interest and willing to work for its ends but because he feared that the Association was growing too sectional and named the number of Lewiston and Auburn men present as proof of his words, recommending men from the eastern sections of the state who would be able to give the Association a chance to develop and enlarge, who would bring in new ideas of advantage to the Association.

The next speaker was Hon. John F. Sprague, who spoke of the change in public sentiment during his lifetime. As far back as 1878 he began to think it would be a good idea to protect the fish and game, but the idea was scorned at that time and the Bangor Commercial was the only paper which would publish anything in favor of it. The first Fish and Game Commission was composed of Stillwell and Stanley who also at first had charge of the sea and shore fisheries, but the commission was soon divided and these two men laid the foundation for the great work which has been going on since that time. So great was the feeling against protection at that time that D. T. Sanders of Greenville did not dare take a warden's job for fear his buildings would be burned.

The president next called on Hon. H. B. Austin, chairman of the Fish and Game Commission, who spoke of the necessity for simpler laws and the work of the Committee on Fish and Game in the 1913 legislature of which he was a member, which wiped off the statute books 900 special laws, making them by counties and simplifying them as far as possible. The next legislative committee in spite of urgent pleadings placed back 500 special laws and undid nearly all the work of the 1913 committee. Mr. Austin agreed with President Hodgdon in regard to the wardens and recommended a civil service, with experience and ability as a basis for advancement, recommending three classes, Class C of inexperienced men, who show indications of ability, Class B, men of ability who have worked one or two years and Class A men who have shown themselves fitted in every way to care for the fish and game of the state. It is iniquitous that one-half of the appropriation for fish and game should be spent on a service which is used as a political football by both parties, and in which the ability of the men was not taken into consideration at all. The qualifications for a good warden are different than they used to be, for now the warden must be a gentleman, and a man who is able to meet and instruct the great hosts of summer people in the fish and game laws.

Some of the other speakers who made interesting remarks were G. A. Staples of the Lewiston Journal, Geo. C. Orr of the Cumberland County Angler's Association and J. Putnam Stevens, a former President of the Sportsman's Association.

Thoughts Above Finance.

Robert Louis Stevenson had no money sense whatever. He and Mrs. Stevenson once went to Paris for a pleasure trip. They had a check for $500, and some loose money, and they meant to have a good time, and stay as long as their money held out. After a few days they found their funds running short; they could not imagine what they had done with it all, but as there seemed to be very little left, they decided they had better go home while it lasted. When they got home they found the check for $500 among the papers on the desk. They had not cashed it at all, and they did not even know they had not.—S. S. McClure.

Hippocrates, Father of Medicine.

Greek medicine in its primitive period is mostly mythical, beginning with Melampus, in about 1400 B. C., and ending with Hippocrates, 460 B. C. The most prominent character was Aesculapius, reputed son of Apollo and Coronis, and worshiped as the god of medicine by both Greeks and Romans. The philosophic period began with the doctrines of Hippocrates, believed to be the seventeenth in descent from Aesculapius, and known as the father of medicine. He separated medicine from priestcraft, abolished charms, incantations and all forms of mysticism and pretense, teaching that disease was a process governed by natural laws and yielding to treatments found by studying the symptoms. A copy of the Hippocratic oath sworn to by all the pupils of Hippocrates in about 440 B. C., is exhibited.
