

RAIN DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Washouts Reported all Along the Line--Many Roads Impassable.

Much damage is reported to the highways and railroads from the severe storms the first of the week. Five bridges are reported down on the Weld road with long stretches of the highway washed completely away. A number of automobiles en route for Weld were obliged to turn back.

The state road just completed between Strong and Farmington suffered much damage. In places huge rocks were washed to the middle of the road and it is badly gutted in many places. It is estimated that $5,000 will be needed to repair it, but it is probably that the cost will be much in excess of that sum.

Passenger and freight trains between Phillips and Farmington were off schedule Tuesday on account of washouts in the vicinity of Fairbanks. The morning freight train to Farmington was obliged to turn back for gravel and material to repair the road. Passengers in the morning were transferred by means of handcarts and automobiles, however, losing connections with the Maine Central. The washout is about 40 feet long and 10 feet deep. It was nearly repaired by Wednesday noon so that the noon train crossed it and was only a few minutes late.

A MAINE PINE TELLS A STORY

(Special Correspondence.)

Skowhegan, 1915.

"Oh, mamma, look! What a funny little table!"

"That, pet, is a stump."

"What is a stump mamma?"

"A stump, my child, is part of a tree."

"How funny, mamma."

"Yes, pet, it may seem funny, but that old log and the stump was once a beautiful pine tree, and when a little girl like you, I used to play under the branches."

"Oh! tell me all about it mamma. Oh I know! 'exclaimed the little fairy, as she danced in glee. 'Let me sit upon the stump and I'll ask the old pine to tell me."

And thus the story was told.

"As a tiny seed I spent my time in sleep, down deep in the ground, on the bank of the Kennebec River. Suddenly I heard a roaring sound, and opening my eyes, I for the first time saw the sun."

Then I heard a voice saying to me, "Cling to Mother Earth." This I did by my tiny roots, for I was afraid I might be washed away and lost, for it was now spring time, and the beautiful Kennebec was in an angry mood, and again I heard the same voice whispering to me the secret of how the God Nature would help me to grow large and strong, and that my branches would become evergreen like others near me.

And there I grew on the banks of the beautiful Kennebec River, lulled to sleep at night by the surging of the water. Mornings I would lie and watch the sunbeams as they sparkled like diamonds.

Soon my branches reached up beyond the bank, and I became a shield for Mother Earth from the cold winds and white frost, as well as a resting place for the dark braves of the Kennebec tribe.

Many and many a night they have slept beneath my green branches, and it was they that gave me my name, "The Monarch Pine."

It was beautiful here in those days, for then the great silent woods was the red man's home. How I loved to watch them as they wended their way through the unbroken forest; oftentimes, with the coming of the new moon, they would smoke the pipe of peace with other tribes. Even the little birds built their nests in my branches. No fear had they, for we were as one great family; living the sweet natural life Mother Earth had taught us.

As the years passed, I found Nature to love, and soon I had little ones growing by my side.

One day they began to tremble; frightened indeed were they as they told me in whispers of an Indian maiden that had been seen there, kneeling on the carpet my needles had made, and heard her lament of sorrow, as she bowed down and told Mother Earth her grief.

One day as I drew my little ones closer, they told me of a roaring sound they had heard and the whiz of bullets.

Then it was that the dusky maiden sought us and told of a great army camping near, resting on the long march for liberty.

Many times the little Indian girl passed by arm in arm with her soldier lover; other times, seated on the ground, he told her of the beautiful world she had never seen, and of a home he had waiting for his bride.

One day she came to us in deep sorrow, and with tears in her dark eyes, she told us she must leave one of the pale faced soldiers with us, for had not his spirit fled to the great Father, and whose body must return to Mother Earth?

Deen they went down to our very roots, a flag for his shroud, they laid him in the ground, his musket by his side.

Then as we helped to cover that form, they told us of the hardships and suffering in their struggle for liberty.

And sorry we felt as we saw them march away, leaving their comrade for us to guard.

Indignant were we as later we listened to the little Indian maiden, when she told us how her soldier lover had laughed her to scorn, and sad we felt as we saw her in tears. For had not her heart gone out to him, only to have her love hurled back as he laughed at the thought of her becoming his bride? And now she was returning to her Indian lover ever ready to forgive, chief of the beautiful Kennebec tribe.

Years and years now passed, and we still kept watch over that silent form beneath.

So heavy did that weight seem as it rested on our roots, it seemed at times our strength was leaving, and our branches began to wither and droop. Still we guarded our secret well.

One day we heard voices, also, the sound of something cutting; then we saw another army of men as they came and stood beneath the branches of the monarch pine, thumped my side with a cruel instrument; then we heard them say, "No good; decaying." Then we knew we were growing old, and as we sighed our beautiful needles began to drop for want of strength. Then we thought of that silent form, and prayed to Mother Earth for strength to do our duty.

Then others came and told us of another war, a tree war, and that all the large and beautiful trees would be slain, and that only the old and decaying ones would be left. Again we heard them saying the Monarch Pine was decaying.

Then I knew what I had long feared, that the heavy load was slowly but surely taking the life blood from my roots.

Still I must stand and see my loved ones slain by my side.

Well, now, could I understand what those tears meant to those brave soldiers as they laid that beautiful form away.

Many were the tears I shed, as I saw those I loved cut down; yes, torn from their very roots, and left bleeding on the ground.

O! the cruel war, the tree war, had begun. Later other soldiers came bearing long weapons, which they thrust into the dying trees, as they rolled them over and over toward the banks of the river, then pushed them into the already enraged water, and down they went, over the rapids, we knew not where.

How we cried to Mother Earth for help, but she only shook with grief as she told us how our companions were bruised and torn as they were driven down the cruel river.

For our river, our beautiful Kennebec, had become a part of the great world, a traitor to Mother Earth, even as Benedict Arnold, that noble soldier, as we had thought, had become a traitor to the cause of right.

Yes, the once placid Kennebec had become a tool of war; even helped to mangle our offspring by sawing them in pieces, and poor Mother Earth even hinted that some of the pieces would be burned. Still we had strength enough left to stand as a monument for the one beneath, until one day other men came, and leaning against us, they beat their steel pointed boots into our side until they tore out from our roots the leaden balls that had lain beside the musket; then we knew that our secret was doomed.

Others came, "searching for souvenirs," they said; and then they found the old musket.

How we trembled, for there we stood, bereft of our branches, our needles blowing, we knew not where.

Time passed, and the frightened deer, with her little ones by her side, bounded past, followed by the whiz of bullets. Then we heard of the third war, the Deer war, where men came, sometimes hundreds of miles, to shoot our deer. And for what? Pleasure!

Now, shivering with the cold, how I long to lie down and rest, to return to Mother Earth, as the form I had sheltered had. Soon we heard other sound, and an iron horse came roaring through the woods, sending forth smoke and fire from its nostrils. One day it stopped near me, and kind hearted men, beautiful women, even little children, alighted, singing as they came, bearing garlands of flowers, searching for him buried beneath the monarch pine.

How sacredly they spoke my name, yet how sad it made me feel, and how little, as I saw them unload a huge boulder inscribed "In memory of the honored dead."

And now I realize my work is finished, my story is told, and as I came crashing down, I heard the scream of the iron monster as it went tearing on its way, bearing with it the little children who sang the dirge "In honor of the soldier" whom I guarded, and with my last heart beat I heard the swirl of the water of the Kennebec as it welcomes me back to Mother Earth.

M. A. A. POSTS REPRESENTATIVES

Between 9 a. m. and 9 p. m. on July 24, 1,523 automobiles containing in the neighborhood of 8,000 people, and on July 31, 1,258 machines with about 6,000 people, were stopped by representatives of the Maine Automobile Association at Dunstan, Scarborough, eight miles west of Portland, and given information regarding the best way to get into Portland and to avoid the road work in progress, and also the best routes of travel throughout the state. As a result, hundreds of tourists who would have become discouraged by the outlook on reaching Dunstan, were reassured by the M. A. A., representatives and persuaded to continue their trip into Maine.

The Association has engaged Deputy U. S. Marshal Eugene L. Harmon to have charge of the crew which numbers three people in all, and whose duties are to reassure people about road conditions in Maine, give them all possible information and offer, in the name of the M. A. A., any assistance that may be required by tourists coming into Maine as well as residents of the state.

A majority of the cars given information are from out of the state, and in every case the occupants expressed their great appreciation of the work of the Association in posting a sentinel at this important point. Many of them confessed freely that, but for this attention, they would have turned about, in view of the fact that the road looked almost impassible.

The Maine Automobile Association will continue this service on Sundays and possibly Saturdays, for the remainder of the summer, and by so doing save a vast amount of tourist business to the state.

MIGRATORY BIRD LAW ENFORCED.

Sportsmen Warned that Federal Regulations for Protection for Wild Fowl Must Be Observed.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—With the approach of the open season for shooting wild fowl, the United States Department of Agriculture is warning sportsmen that the Federal regulations as amended October 1, 1914, will be strictly enforced. Some misunderstanding has arisen from the fact that the various State laws do not always conform to the Federal regulations. This is regarded as unfortunate but in such cases the Department must insist upon the observance of the Federal regulations.

The Department will consider any recommendations submitted in good faith for amendment of the regulations, but will hold no public hearings thereon, nor will it amend the regulations prior to October 15, 1915. It is the purpose of the Department to conform the regulations to the (Continued on page seven.)

Nothing Can Keep Fresh After It's Cut Up

Real tobacco flavor depends upon the leaf being preserved in its natural state, possible only by pressing the leaves into plug form and keeping it in by covering it with a natural leaf wrapper. The natural flavor and strength of tobacco escape when cut or granulated.

Take a Plug of Sickle that is even thoroughly dried out so that when you whittle it off it crumbles into dust, but it will burn and smoke smooth and cool as it has all of its original tobacco flavor preserved, unevaporated in Plug Form.

Whittling a pipeful is little trouble, amply repaid in both quality and quantity. Try this experiment and judge for yourself.

NO SUNDAY AT OXBOW

(Special Correspondence.)

Oxbow, Me., August 2.—Recent arrivals at Libby's last week were: Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Blair, Glen Ridge, N. Y.; Hobart A. Lawton of Boston. They have gone up stream with Elie Currier, Ephraim Chase and Earl Johnson for guides for a three weeks' trip to Munsungun and Pleasant lake. Tuesday's arrivals at Libby's were Wm. S. McLean, Wm. S. McLean, Jr., Wm. S. McLean, 3rd., and Jesse D. Jones, all of Wilkes Barre, Pa. They went up river Wednesday morning with Chas. and Chris Clifford for guides, and will use their own camp at Chandler lake for a time. Also Saturday last, a well-known party from New Britain, Conn., Jack Vance of the New Britain Herald, G. C. Weld of the First National Bank, New Britain and M. H. Johnson, New Britain, of the Stanley Rule and Level Co. Other guests were: C. W. Terhune, G. F. Plympton, F. B. Plympton, all of Hackensack, N. J.; E. C. Thayer and his two sons of Brooklyn, N. Y., will join them a little later. These last two parties have Elie Currier, Ephraim Chase, Earl Johnson, Ross Weaven, Rufe Clark and Clarence Reed for guides. They are well-known sportsmen at the Bow and up river.

Mr. Charles Fuller and wife, all the way from Phoenix, Arizona, in their heavy roadster, Arizona register No. 2848, arrived at Billy Soule's home camp at the Bow last Wednesday and left next day for the north and Canada.

Work on the new Grange building is progressing satisfactorily. That it will look well, and be able to withstand the floods and winds is assured for it is founded on a rock—the rocky ledge just underneath the sod. The lodge is in a flourishing condition and doubtless will make full and proper use of their new home.

Sunday base ball seems to flourish hereabouts without protest on the part of anyone. The field is on the ridge, east of the postoffice a mile or more, too far and too hot a walk for your scribe to collect the facts. Doubtless no one is disturbed by it, though there must be much fun going for the many fans who gather there. This reminds us of a well-worn conundrum: "Why are base ball players the coolest sports in world?" "Because they are surrounded by so many fans." See? And this one: "What does a base ball do when it stops rolling?" Answer: "It looks 'round.'" "Nuf sed." Play ball! Three strikes and out!

Billy Soule's camps at Lake Millmagassett are soon to be filled with a lively company from Chestnut Hill, Mass., and yet there is room. Water has been piped from a boiling spring high up on the ridge back of the camp for kitchen and bath; the drinking water is brought from one of the coldest springs ever known we think, which bubbles up from under a high rock quite near camp.

There are as good trout in the lake as ever were caught and plenty of them, too. Billy just brought down a lot of fine trout and one salmon; to say that we had a good dinner today (Sunday) leaves the reader to imagine by himself, just how good it was. Anyhow, Billy fried them. "Nuf Sed" again.

Yours cordially,
J. C. Hartshorne.

SEC. McADOO AT POLAND SPRING

(Special Correspondence.)

Poland Spring, August 3.—The rush of August visitors from all parts of the country to Poland has filled to overflowing the three hotels, and in spite of the depression in other places, the resort business at Ricker Hill shows no abatement. Tennis, golf, swimming, fishing and a score of other diversions, occupy the day, and the evenings are largely given to dancing.

Notable visitors of this week were Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs.

W. G. McAdoo of Washington, who tarried over Tuesday night at the Poland Spring House, on their way from Cornish, N. H., to North Haven, Me., where they have a summer home. Mr. McAdoo enjoys driving his own car. While here he was in conference with President Wilson by telephone.

The 84th birthday of Mrs. C. A. Richards of Boston was the occasion of a very pretty surprise party in the card room of the Poland Spring House on Tuesday evening of this week which was participated in by Miss Marion Abrahams and Mrs. Thos. P. Stran of Baltimore, Mrs. Mary B. Hoffman of New York, Mrs. J. A. Anderson of Boston, Mrs. S. B. Stinson of Philadelphia, Miss Annie L. Richards of Boston, and Mrs. E. P. Ricker. The surprise was arranged for by Mrs. Stran, and was complete. At the conclusion of the game in which Mrs. Richards celebrated her own birthday by taking the prize, a monster birthday cake was brought in, containing a solid silver souvenir for everyone present. The whole affair was a very pleasant one and Mrs. Richards received many congratulations.

Mr. William E. Hayward of Uxbridge, Mass., who is spending several weeks at Poland Spring, has recently purchased from the Poland Spring Art Gallery, four paintings, part of them of Maine subjects. They are the "Old Homestead, Rumford, Maine," by J. A. S. Monks, two water colors by Henry W. Rice entitled "Old Fashioned Garden," and "Old New England Homestead," and "Across the Lake," an oil by J. Elliot Enneking. These four will make a total of 13 pictures which Mr. Hayward has purchased from this gallery to add to his own valuable collection.

Professional A. H. Fenn lowered the record of the new Poland Spring golf course this week to 75, on Tuesday, and Mr. Harris Fenn of Boston established a new amateur record, also of 75.

Mrs. C. L. Holbrook of Boston gave two small card parties at the Poland Spring House this week to groups of her friends. Mrs. Rogers Birnie of New York and Miss L. L. Calder of Lancaster, Pa., won prizes at the first of these. Other ladies present were Mesdames Lawrence Hurlburt of New York, Henry Coffin of Brooklyn, A. D. Little of Brookline, Frank Crouch of Baltimore and H. H. Roberts of Poland Spring. At the second affair on Tuesday night of this week, Mrs. S. V. Blood of Brooklyn and Mrs. I. W. Chick of Boston received the trophies, while those present included Mrs. Irving Schmelzel of New York, Mrs. W. F. Gilbert of New Haven, Mrs. Alden P. Swan of Brooklyn, Mrs. Leon Abbett and Mrs. F. K. Griswold of Brooklyn.

CAMP RECIPES BY CAMP COOKS

Corn Chowder Easy to Make After You Know How.

Take one can of corn, three large potatoes, three onions, if you can get them; salt and pepper to taste; slice potatoes, and onions, and cook in deep iron kettle until potatoes are done, but not mushy; add the can of corn; then, if you can't get fresh milk, mix enough condensed milk with water to give you one quart of milk,—the Eagle Brand, I believe, is unsweetened—add this to the kettle and let come to a boil. The chowder may be thickened with two or three rolled crackers, or one tablespoonful of flour and butter, made into a paste; if there is salt pork in camp, cut two slices into small pieces and fry out, adding to the chowder when the potatoes are cooked. This is better than butter, giving the chowder a good flavor. This recipe is enough for three people; double it, if necessary. Place on top a dozen split common crackers, and serve piping hot.

I buy a package of Reliable flour which costs about twenty-two cents a package, and which is a prepared flour containing everything necessary for the biscuit except the moistening. Turn the flour out of the original package and put it in a tight can or jar. Take two cups of the flour and wet it until a soft dough is formed, with water or condensed milk thinned with water, and a spoonful of butter if you have it on hand. Shape into biscuits, if you have the facilities, or bake in a spider cake form. I have baked biscuit dough quite acceptably in an iron kettle with a steamer shelf fitting inside of it. Place dough on the shelf and an iron cover on kettle. The only thing a camper is liable to forget when baking biscuits is to take the biscuits when done out of the baker or they will become soggy from their own confined moisture.

Cut up raw potatoes and onions into small cubes, adding other vegetables if on hand and bits of meat if wanted. Cook very slowly in covered frying pan with salt and pepper to season until tender and brown.

A sugar-cured ham weighing about nine and one-half pounds may be cooked over a camp fire to a degree of perfection that would tickle the palate of an epicure, and beans a la Boston style baked in an earthen pot in the ashes in front of the camp fire, or in a hole in the ground lined with rocks, make a splendid addition to the camp menu. I took a small hacksaw and sawed off the string end of the ham about six or eight inches deep, placed the butt end of the ham in a large kettle, with the smaller piece beside it. Cover tightly with iron cover and cook over sufficient fire to keep the water in the kettle at a simmering temperature for eight or nine hours. After the ham has simmered for about six hours, take it from the kettle, cut off all the skin and dark fat and put it back in the kettle with fresh water and two tablespoonsful of sugar. Boil the remaining two hours, lift out and let cool. The flavor is so delicious and the meat so tender, you will think you never tasted anything quite so good. One pint of small pea beans, two or three slices of the ham fat, one spoonful of molasses, and one-half teaspoonful of mustard; cover with water and cook as long as you cook the ham, in the ashes right in front of the fire. Re-fill with water when it cooks away. With bread and butter, a can of corn, and steaming coffee, you will go far to find a finer camp meal than this.

ALL AROUND THE STATE

If ever a dog had reason to be "mad" without having been attacked by the rabies, that dog was the one owned by Harry Robinson of Lobster Cove, reports the Boothbay Register. Sometime during the night recently the dog found and attacked a porcupine or hedgehog, as some prefer to call him. When the dog again showed up the next morning it was hard to tell whether he had eaten the porcupine or not. Certain it was that the dog's head and face were indicative of such a thing, for there were quills protruding from every part of it. Dr. E. M. Bradley, the veterinary, was called, and he, with assistants, had nearly a half day's job relieving the poor animal of some of his pain and many of his "feathers." "Bobbie" Boyd was chief anesthetist, and put the dog under ether. Dutchy Auld was his first assistant. About 150 quills were taken out of the dog's mouth, nose and tongue. The dog wouldn't remain under the ether long, but administering it many times, the operation was finally performed.

Wild ducks are beginning to make their appearance in Merrymeeting bay in large numbers. Frequenters of that locality have been surprised during the past week to see so many birds in the bay thus early in the season and are inclined to the belief that the prospects for early fall shooting in September are excellent.—Biddeford Journal.

A Hartford fisherman returned home recently after a stay of one week at the Spring Lake (Me.) camps, but he didn't have as many rods when he went home as when he came. Having decided one day to troll for lake trout he put a nice smelt on an archer spinner, put the big net in his boat, and he was ready to "strike out," but just then it began to rain, so he threw the bait in the water and supposed he had fastened his rod to the springboard on the float and ran to the guides' camp. Some boys stopping in Camp "Columbia" heard the "singing" of the reel and rushed out just in time to see the end of the rod going over the springboard into the lake. In a short time several boats fitted out with grapples were going up and down the lake, but the rod was not found. It was decided at the guides' camp that a large salmon was the thief.—Springfield Republican.

Harry E. Sanford of Foxcroft tells some fish story as the result of a visit to Greeley's Landing, Sebago lake, Monday morning. Mr. Sanford took in a party from out of the state which is to occupy a cottage on the lake shore for several weeks. While on the wharf at Greeley's Mr. Sanford noticed a big pickerel laying lazily in the water off the wharf. The pickerel seemed oblivious to the danger of his surroundings. Securing a three pronged hook and a piece of string from a neighboring boat house Mr. Sanford hooked the pickerel. On reaching Sanford's stable on Sumner street the pickerel was weighed and found to tip the scales at two and a half pounds.—Kennebec Journal.

One of the most attractive spots on Peaks Island is Brackett Point, where the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brackett is situated. The house is in the midst of a lovely lawn and flower garden, this garden being a source of great pride to the owners and no wonder, for here may be found all kinds of beautiful flowers, hollyhocks, California poppies, etc., and every kind which goes to make up a real old-fashioned garden. The front veranda of the house is just now a-glow with a veritable screen of climbing roses, pink and red. Many a summer visitor at the island has said of the garden: "The loveliest sight I have ever seen." People walk from all parts of the island to Brackett Point on purpose to see the garden and interesting house which is appropriately called Greenwood cottage.—Sunday Telegram.

a find for any football team, according to a yarn the Woodland Press tells of him as a fisherman. It seems the man was fishing for salmon and waded into the water. A salmon took the hook and the fisherman in order to land it stepped back and attempted to swing it on to the bank, but hit a branch of a tree which extended over the water and Mr. Salmon fell off and started for his native element. As quick as a flash the fisherman jumped and kicked with his right foot, landing fairly on the thickest part of the fish, which was driven high and dry up on the shore.

Straw for Panama Hats.

Toquilla straw, from which Panama hats are made, is obtained from five or six species of the palm. The most important of these is known as Carludovica palmata, and grows in the warm, moist regions of the Pacific coast in Colombia and Ecuador, and also in the forests of Peru along the headwaters of the Amazon. This palm attains a height of six to ten feet. The leaves are fan shaped. Toquilla straw is exported to the United States and other countries, where the hats are made by machinery.

Coal Tar Valuable.

Vanilla flavoring for cooking, which formerly was prepared from a bean, can now be obtained from the vanillin of the gas works, and even this vanillin can be made into a heliotrope perfume by adding oil of almonds, while the latter can be produced by treating benzine with an acid. Huge quantities of this oil are used in the making of scented soaps. As a matter of fact, there is scarcely a department of life into which the products of coal tar do not enter.

NATE ELLIS AT HOME AGAIN

Proprietor of Lake View House Recovering from Operation.

Central Maine General Hospital,
Lewiston, Me., July 21, 1915.

Dear Old Maine Woods:
I would like a little space in your valued paper to tell my friends and neighbors (as I lie on my back here) just what happened to me.

I came here July 14, to be operated on for some foreign growth in the stomach. The Doctors could not seem to tell just what the trouble was so they put me under the X-Ray, but that also failed to show the trouble.

There was nothing to do but to open me up and find out. The opening up is all good and easy, but believe me it is a little corner off of the "bad place" for two or three days after. Well, after I had passed through tortures and was feeling quite comfortable so to speak, what does the Doctor do but tell me that they found quite a large growth in my stomach, but did not think it advisable to remove it as it would return again, so it looks as though I would return home no better than when I came, only that I know what ails me.

Well, you will say did you stop smiling? Well I guess not. I says, old man, we are placed here to take things about as they come to us, to be changed and remodeled somewhat by us, but not wholly controlled by us.

The Doctor came to-day and took out the stitches and said I was in O. K. condition. Expect to return home the last of the week or the first of next.

Yours truly,
Nate H. Ellis.

We are very glad to note that Mr. Ellis arrived home from Lewiston Thursday of last week and is getting along well and able to be up around and on the streets.

The "Stocking Bank."

The banking of small change in stockings is strictly original with women. Men's socks extend only a trifle above the ankle and usually have holes in the heels, which make them rather unsafe depositories, while a lady's stocking has its entrance at the knee cap, hence it would be a difficult matter to draw upon her bank unless the draft were duly certified by the lady herself.—"Zim" in Cartoons Magazine.

One Thing Pretty Sure.

"What is your opinion of this new cure? Do you think walking through the grass will make a person healthy?" asked the boarding-house lady at the dinner table. "Well, it seems to have made this beef pretty tough," replied the boarder, trying hard to cut his steak.

Up to Date.

"Oh, yes," said Mrs. Noovowe, fanning herself vigorously, "Jim and me tries always to be strictly up to date. In place of a cook we have a chef to run our kitchen for us; and we've had a taximeter put on to our car to show us how much we save by runnin' our own, and on top o' that, Jim has employed one o' the best artichokes in the country to draw plans for remodelin' our old stable into a first-class garage."

STRANGERS IN BANGOR POOL

The success of the experiment being made by the United States government in planting millions of Pacific humpback salmon fingerlings off the coast of Maine appears to be assured judging by the discovery this week of Thomas E. Sullivan, fish warden at the Bangor Salmon pool, who says that thousands of the adult humpback salmon have been up the river to spawn. Mr. Sullivan captured and examined two of the humpback salmon and have positively identified them. They weigh from three to six pounds each, and the fact that they have reached maturity and are spawning at almost exactly the same time that they do in their native haunts on the Pacific coast makes it seem very likely, in Mr. Sullivan's mind that the fish have come to Maine and the Penobscot river to stay.

Bangor fishermen and others near the pool noticed this week that there have been numerous fish jumping which at first they thought were sea bass. Mr. Sullivan was puzzled as to their identity at first, knowing that it is too late for alewives. To find out just what they were, he drained the fishway and discovered two of a variety of fish that are strangers to Maine waters, and which he instantly proclaimed to be the humpback salmon.

Of Great Importance

The finding of these humpback salmon in the Penobscot river is of the utmost importance. The United States for the past three years has been bringing about 40,000,000 humpback salmon fry to Maine each year, and hatching them in the government hatcheries, later distributing them in harbors along the coast. Thousands of dollars have been expended in this way and without knowing that the venture would prove a success, for humpback salmon have never been planted in Atlantic waters before. They are a hardy fish, flourishing in waters of Alaska and the Columbia river which in many ways resembles that of the coast of Maine, and there was every indication that they would flourish here. They are an excellent food fish, rich and delicious. In the west, the canning of humpback salmon is an important industry.

A New Game Fish

Not only is the fact that humpback salmon seem to be in the State of Maine to stay of importance commercially, but it is also of great interest to the sportsmen, as the humpback salmon are fine game fish, rising to the fly when they come.

up river at spawning time. Ordinarily they come up the rivers during the last two weeks of July and it is thus seen that they are on time in this river. Mr. Sullivan expressed the opinion Saturday that the run for this year is nearly over.

The fish that he got in the fishway weighed from three to six lbs. each and were green in color, nearly the shade of a pickerel, with small scales like a trout, and a slippery skin. The head is like that of the Penobscot salmon except that the mouth is larger in proportion. Ordinarily the hump is not in sight, but appears just behind the head at spawning time.

Immediately upon finding the humpback salmon, Mr. Sullivan communicated with Supt. James De Rocher of the United States government hatchery at East Orland, and he came to Bangor on Friday to see the fish. During his stay here, Mr. Sullivan was unable to get one of the salmon for him, owing to the fact that few of them go into the fishway, as the humpback salmon do not try to get above quick water. Mr. Sullivan promised to send him one just as soon as another is captured. The hatchery authorities are highly interested in the discovery and hope that it means that the venture will prove to bring all the good results that were planned.

It is possible that the salmon at the pool may be the identical fingerlings that were by accident planted in the river on a cold stormy day in February, 1914. The fish had been shipped from Green Lake hatchery when a wreck occurred which blocked the road, and there was in addition, a heavy snowstorm and extreme cold. It was impossible to reach the coast and the fish were in danger of being frozen. The men in charge thereupon planted them through holes in the ice just below the ferryway on the Brewer side. Mr. Sullivan thinks that the fish found are the identical ones placed in the river at that time.—Bangor News.

ALFALFA SILAGE FOR STEERS

Animals at California Experiment Station Made Satisfactory Gains and Brought Profit.

California experiment station made silage out of their first cutting of alfalfa last summer. The field was foul with weeds, there being much foxtail which was nearly ripe, with beards already hard. It was decided that the cutting was practically valueless for hay, and therefore the crop was put into the silo.

The steers were fed on rolled barley, alfalfa hay, and the alfalfa silage. In two months they made a satisfactory gain, and were sold at a profit of about $5 per head.

The silage as fed out was about half foxtail, but it was always eaten up clean. The experiment shows that silage may be made from weedy alfalfa which would make but inferior hay, that such silage will be eaten without waste, and that it can be used as a supplementary food for fattening on alfalfa hay and barley.

It is suggested that where the first cutting of alfalfa containing foxtail is to be used for silage, the work should be done before the foxtail beards become hard.

CHEAP SHELTER FOR STEERS

Posts Set Eight Feet High on One Side and Six on Other With Roof Will Answer Purpose.

A cheap shelter for stock is made by setting posts 8 feet apart, 8 feet high on one side and 6 feet on the other side, making the shed 12 feet wide and 40 feet long, writes D. Siskel of Merrick county, Nebraska, in Missouri Valley Farmer. Roof runs one way, and north side and ends are boxed, with a gate at each end and rack running the full length of shed on south side. Straw may be used for the roof to still further cheapen construction. A shed of this size will shelter 25 or 30 two-year-old steers.

CARING FOR MARE AND FOAL

Whole Oats, Corn and Bran Are Practical Concentrates to Feed—Stall Should Be Well Cleaned.

(By E. H. HUGHES, Missouri Experiment Station.)

Mares in foal should receive regular exercise up to the time of foaling. It is advisable that they be worked lightly or that they have the run of a lot where exercise can be taken. In working mares in foal, experience proves that heavy pulling, jerking backing and deep mud should be avoided.

Bright mixed hay, timothy, choice alfalfa and good clover are excellent roughages for mares in foal. Sound whole oats, corn and bran are very practical concentrates to feed them when heavy in foal. Two parts whole oats, two parts corn and one part bran by weight (quantity to feed depends on size of mare), with what hay they will eat, is an excellent ration. It is advisable to feed but one-half the grain ration when it becomes apparent that a mare will foal within forty-eight hours. Shortly after the mare has foaled, a drink of lukewarm water should be given her. The same ration fed prior to foaling is usually satisfactory after foaling.

When it is possible, the mare should foal in a dry, well-lighted and bedded box stall or in a clean grass lot. If she foals in a box stall, it should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected with a five per cent solution of carbolic acid before she enters it. A light covering of air-slaked lime on the floor underneath the bedding is very practical safeguard against "navel" trouble.

After she has foaled it is advisable to clean the stall immediately, disinfect again and bed thoroughly. As a preventive of navel and joint disease in the foal, saturate its navel as soon as possible with a five per cent solution of lysol or other disinfectant. To prevent blistering the colt's belly smear the parts at the base of the navel board with vaseline or unsalted lard before applying the disinfectant.

The Genuine Fop.

We have had attempts at foppiness in America, but no real fops. A genuine fop, whether in art, in literature, or in customs, must have brains; ours have been merely effigies, foppiness taking the dull commercial form of a great variety of raiment.

WELL KNOWN SPORTSMAN WRITES

Gleaned from the Files of Phillips Phonograph 25 Years Ago.

A FEW DAYS' OUTING IN THE DEAD RIVER REGION.

Boston, July 25, 1890.

To the Editor of the Phonograph.

I would like to sit right down and write you an account of my recent experience in Maine if I could only have the time. I went on the 29th of June and came out on the 13th of July. I visited nearly all the lakes and camps belonging to the Megantic Club, having Mr. Fred Giles of Stratton as guide for the first week, and Mr. Rob Phillips on the second. During the time I was on the Preserve I saw by actual count 52 deer and one caribou. The caribou came right out opposite the camps at the Narrows of Long Pond, drank and then plunged into the water and swam to the opposite shore; one of the most beautiful sights I ever saw. He was a full grown bull with very large antlers, but the antlers were of course not full grown at that time of year.

I enjoyed the best fishing I ever had in my life at Grant Pond, one evening while I was there landing about 45 trout, out of which I killed seven for the frying pan. I do not think any of these trout were under a pound or three-quarters, and the largest about one pound and a half. I fished five days pretty steadily and caught during that time 434 trout, returning nearly all to the water again, only killing a few of the largest for the table.

I was surprised at the evidences of game in the Dead River Region. I can hardly account for it unless it is due to emigration from the southern and eastern parts of the state where game has been bounded considerably. Possibly the C. P. railroad is driving a few from the north. I also saw several moose tracks, one within 300 yards of our club house on Spider Lake. I found very few sportsmen in the woods, probably due to the fact that the season has been cold and backward.

I expect to be in Phillips at the next meeting of the P. & R. R. R. directors, and I will do myself the pleasure of calling upon you at that time. Remember me kindly to Beal and Rich and believe me,

Very sincerely yours,
Heber Bishop.

BLINDNESS ON THE DECREASE

Census Bureau Gives Encouraging Reports of Its Diminution in the United States.

Blindness has noticeably decreased among the younger population of the country in the last half century, according to a bulletin issued by the census bureau. The bulletin also says that this affliction is less common in America than in any other country, and is more prevalent among men than among women.

In the United States blindness is most prevalent in New Mexico and Nevada, in which states the ratio of blind to total population in 1910 were 169.3 to 100,000 and 118.5 to 100,000, respectively. The high ratios for these states are due to the fact that Indians, among whom trachoma (granulated eyelids) is of frequent occurrence in those sections of the country, constitute relatively large elements in their population. In Arizona, Kentucky, Tennessee and Vermont the ratios are also high—95.9, 94, 89.5 and 84.6, respectively. The relatively large Indian population of Arizona is responsible for the high ratio in that state; trachoma is prevalent in certain parts of Kentucky and Tennessee, and in Vermont there are relatively more people of advanced age than in other parts of the country, to which fact is doubtless due to the high ratio for that state, since susceptibility to blindness increases with advancing age.

Among children under five years, only five in every 100,000 were blind; but among persons eighty-five years of age and over, 2,575 in 100,000 were blind.

To the Honorable County Commissioners in and for the County of Franklin and State of Maine.

We the undersigned, residents of the said County of Franklin, and residents of Rangeley Plantation and Sandy River Plantation in said County, respectfully represents that public necessity and convenience no longer require the maintenance of a public highway as now existing and laid out as follows: Beginning at the center of the road leading to Rangeley village at a point northerly of the residence now or formerly of Zephyr Raymond one hundred thirty feet northerly of a fir tree spotted, situated on the east side of the road, and ending at the center of the road at a point fifty-six feet northerly from the southeast corner of the residence now or formerly of H. M. Bemis and fifty-eight feet southerly from the northeast corner of said residence, all of which said highway being and lying in said Rangeley Plantation and said Sandy River Plantation; and that it will be for the public interest and benefit that said highway be discontinued.

Wherefore your petitioners, as undersigned, respectfully pray that the highway as above described be discontinued and abolished.

LADIES WIN BALL GAME

The "Mink" Wins Weekly Boat Race—Activity in All Branches of Sport.

(Special Correspondence.)

Kineo, Moosehead Lake, August 7—The biggest August crowd for years fills this delightful spot, and keen interest in all the pastimes as well as great activity have featured the week. Parties, baseball games, shooting, golf, motor boating and tennis have made the time pass quickly for the summer guests.

To the amusement of a large crowd of spectators gathered on the specious veranda of the Mt. Kineo Hotel, nine young men grotesquely attired in feminine garments were easily vanquished by a young ladies baseball team. The game was featured by the phenomenal playing of Miss Dorothy Kinley. Mr. Harold A. Freeman of Philadelphia umpired and lent fortitude to winning team as the score, 13 to 8, shows. Mr. Algernon Clapp of Philadelphia, acting as mascot, was dressed in good feminine taste. The women's team was composed of Miss Clarice Paterson, Miss Katherine Clark and Miss Katherine Gibson of New York, Mrs. Thomas Wistar, Miss Jessie Page, Miss Betty Smith and Miss Kinley of Philadelphia, Miss Bancroft of Wilmington, Del., Mrs. A. J. Feuchtwanger of Riverside, Conn. The young men were Robert Fielder, Irving Williams, Paul Feuchtwanger, Beach Barrett, of New York, Henry Knight, E. S. Kinley, Lewis Smith, Clarence Freeman of Philadelphia, and Walter Demelman of Boston. The whole affair could be rightly called a "Society Farce" and gave much enjoyment to those who watched the ingenious players.

Before the largest gallery of spectators this season Mr. E. G. Kaufman of New York, with Mrs. Jay F. Schamberg of Philadelphia, acting as his partner defeated Irving Williams of New York and Miss Dorothy Kinley of Germantown, Pa., by their persistent playing, winning the prize cups offered by R. K. Gibson of Garden City for mixed doubles in tennis. The sets as played were 6-4, 7-5, and 6-4.

A pretty scene was witnessed when the children's putting match was held on the lawn in front of the hotel. Prizes were given by Miss Eleanor, daughter of Col. C. A. Judkins. Gilbert Quakenbush of Greenwich, Conn., and Miss Helen Knight of Philadelphia, Pa., won the cups. Miss Virginia Quakenbush and Master Gilbert, children of Mrs. George Quakenbush, have offered prizes for to-day's match.

The usual weekly motor boat race took place as scheduled, being won by the "Mink" belonging to Holcomb York, New Haven, the "Kinnabeh" belonging to C. M. Clark of New York, being a close second. Following the ten mile race which was watched by an interested crowd, dancing and refreshments were enjoyed in the yacht clubhouse. Presiding at the tables were Mrs. H. C. Warren of New Haven, and Mrs. Thomas Upham Coe of Bangor. For to-day's event Henry Sheaffer of Pottsville, Pa., has presented the club with a handsome silver trophy.

Interest in rifle shooting is keen, the largest crowd of the summer taking part in Monday's contest. Chas. M. Clark of New York pushed to the lead among forty in the season's record shoot, while Mrs. H. J. Genung, Madison, N. J., won the sweepstakes event of the day. Kineo's baseball team cleaned up in a series against a team from the University of Maine 2-1 and 5-2, the first contest being the finest game ever seen at Kineo. E. G. Kaufmann of New York won the cup in the weekly golf handicap, Henry Feuchtwanger of New York being his nearest competitor.

Social activities have centered in the Moosehead Lake Yacht Club. A dancing party was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. John Reilly, Jr., of New York, another by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Curtis, Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Williams, Mrs. J. E. R. Carpenter, Mrs. N. J. Genung, Mrs. Wm. Wakeman, G. E. Cooley, Beach Barrett, Dr. M. E. Jutta, of New York, Miss M. F. Gale, Boston, and Mrs. C. A. Conklin, Atlanta, Ga. Afternoon card parties have attracted many ladies to the Clubhouse, prize winners being Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. M. C. Taylor, Mrs. J. A. Brodie of New York, Mrs. Conklin, and Miss Susan Cook, Springfield, Ill.

Keen interest in the dancing competition at the Mt. Kineo Wednesday evening, crowded the large ball room to capacity. Following an exhibition by Miss Madeline Francis Gale of Boston and Grafton Wiggins of Poland Spring, a competition one step called out many couples and some fine dancing. Assisting Miss Gale and Mr. Wiggins in awarding prizes were Mrs. M. D. Paterson, Miss Clarice Paterson, Mr. Downer of New York, and Mrs. C. A. Judkins. The winning couple were Miss Keyo Tetsuka of Plainfield, N. J., and Irving Williams of New York; second prize was awarded to Mrs. C. M. Williams of New York and W. W. Demelman of Boston.

While fishing at Lakewood recently a big bass which was pricked by the hook of a fisherman in a boat a few feet from Mr. Hayden's boat, in trying to escape, jumped directly into Mr. Hayden's boat with the same result as expressed by the old adage "from the frying pan into the fire."

A New Questions and Answers Department of Interest to Shooters

S. G. S., Laceyville, Pa.

I have an old 12 gauge shotgun with the name Janssen Sons & Co. engraved on it. It is a hard shooting gun, having 30½ inch barrels which are too long to suit me. Would it spoil the shooting quality of the gun to cut the barrels down to 26 inches?

Ans. It depends on the bore of your barrels. If they are full choke, cutting them down to 26 inches will certainly spoil their close shooting qualities. If they are cylinder bore, it will make no difference at all.

F. G., New York.

I have a Belgian .32 single shot rifle. Will you kindly tell me if there is any cartridge I could use more powerful than the ordinary cartridge?

No.

H. D. G., Corpus Christi, Texas.

I have a 12 gauge hammerless shot gun, and I want a set of new barrels for same. Could you make a set 16 gauge to fit my stock? Could you make over the old ones or choke them? Would I have to send the entire gun or only the stock? How long will it take to make and fit them?

Ans. I hate to discourage you, but I would certainly suggest that you do not spend time and money trying to have a new pair of barrels fitted to the gun you mention. They are no longer made, and if a new pair of barrels were fitted by any other factory than the factory in which the barrels were originally made, it would necessitate considerable hand fitting at very great expense, and you would do much better to put the money into a new gun.

G. C. Z., Glenbrook, Conn.

1. Will you kindly publish the Maxim Silencer Law of the State of Connecticut in regard to using same on a rifle for target and hunting use.

Ans. I do not seem to be able to locate any State Law regarding the use of the Maxim Silencer. Mr. William K. Mollan, President State Board of Fisheries and Game, Room 64, Capitol, Hartford, Conn., will be able to give you definite information on this point.

2. If there is such a law, is it merely a State or National Law?

Ans. If there is any law on the subject, it is a local one. There is no national law affecting the use of Maxim Silencers.

A. G. R., Sunny Side, South Africa.

1. Is a single shot rifle less noisy than a repeater in unloading or reloading?

Ans. I do not exactly understand what difference noise can make in loading or unloading. Using a repeating rifle—if the sportsman is at all familiar with his weapon, he will operate the action to reload so quickly that what noise is made will be practically unnoticed owing to the relatively much heavier jar and noise of the actual explosion, and game is therefore less liable to be frightened than in the single shot where the noise, although much less than with the repeater, is made at a sufficient interval after the firing of the shot, to be distinctly heard. The noise of unloading can hardly make any difference one way or the other, as the sportsman would certainly not be unloading the rifle, i. e., taking the cartridges out of the magazine or out of the chamber when there are any prospects of a shot at game.

2. For extreme accuracy, is the solid frame of the single shot rifle more accurate than the take down model of the same rifle?

Ans. It is reliable makes of rifles there is no difference.

3. Do you consider the round nosed bullets of the .30 W. C. F. type, more accurate than the blunt nosed bullet of the .25-35 or .32 W. Special? I notice in all rifles where extreme accuracy is called for they use the round or pointed bullet.

Ans. Round nosed bullets are usually more accurate than the blunt nose.

4. The .32 Short Colt smokeless is not accurate up to 50 yds. when used by me in an old fashioned supplemental chamber through the .32 Special? I notice in all rifles where extreme accuracy is called for they use the round or pointed bullet.

Ans. To my way of thinking, a supplemental chamber should be made so that the bullet enters the rifling as soon as it leaves the shell. At best the supplemental chambers do not give any great accuracy as the twist of rifling in the rifle barrel is usually not right for a pistol cartridge.

5. Do you consider good accuracy would be obtained by using the Marble-Broyton-Auxiliary Cartridge chamber? and if the .32 Colt Auto ammunition used in the above chamber through a single shot .32 calibre rifle, would it be accurate? If so, up to what range?

Ans. Reasonably good accuracy would be obtained up to about 50 yds. The accuracy would of course be the same whether shot from a single shot rifle or a repeater.

P. C. W., Pittsburgh, Pa.

I am thinking very seriously of buying a 12 gauge pump action shotgun. As you know, these guns are regularly equipped with 30 inch full choke barrels. Is this because the 30 inch barrel, full choke, is a better barrel for all around hunting than a 26 inch or 28 inch modified choke? Which do you consider best for hunting rabbits, pheasants and wild turkey in the Pennsylvania mountains?

Ans. The most popular barrel from point of sales of the various makers is the regular full choke barrel in either 28 or 30 inch, the length of barrel having nothing to do with the shooting qualities. It would seem to me for the kind of hunting you expect to do that a 30 inch full choke barrel would be about right as it is always possible to use scatter load shells if you are hunting in particularly dense cover where shots are at short range.

R. D. W., Des Moines, Ia.

Kindly give me your opinion. I have been trying to decide between the Police Positive, Police Positive Special, .380 Hammerless Automatic, and .38 Pocket Model Automatic. I am a veterinarian and desire an arm that could be used to destroy a horse or other animal, with sufficient accuracy to be used for target practice, and still compact and light enough to be used as a pocket arm.

Ans. You are up against rather a hard proposition in trying to pick a firearm which will be suitable both for pocket use and for target shooting. Of the models you mention I would be rather in a quandary as to which one to decide on. The Police Positive Special when loaded with a .38 Colts Special cartridge has lots of punch for its size. The .38 Pocket Model Automatic also is a very powerful weapon. If you intend to do a great deal of target practice, the price of ammunition would of course figure in, and Automatic pistol cartridges cost considerably more than revolver ammunition. The Police Positive Special when loaded with a cartridge above mentioned has a pretty husky kick, and I do not think you would find that you would wish to use it for any very great number of shots for target work. I rather think that I should be inclined to pick the .380 Automatic myself, but as stated above, if the cost of ammunition is to be taken into consideration, the Police Positive Special would be my choice, as the shorter cartridges such as the .38 short Colt, and .38 long Colt may be used for target practice. Whatever model you decide to buy, by all means pick one of .38 calibre.

A. D., Detroit, Mich.

I am contemplating buying a 30-30 rifle. What sights would you advise for front and rear for deer and bear hunting? Would you consider this rifle as good as any on the market for this purpose—in fact for all big game?

Ans. This rifle will give entire satisfaction for deer and bear. Of course if you expect to tackle grizzly bear or moose the .35 calibre would be better. I would recommend a Lyman rear sight and a gold bead or ivory bead front sight. The other rifle you mention is no longer made.

T. P., Jr., Charlestown, Ark.

1. Does all of the powder in a .22 long shell burn when the shell is fired?

Ans. This depends upon the length of the barrel. In a rifle barrel of 16 or 18 inches or over all the powder is burned.

2. Does a bullet being lodged in a gun and drilled out injure the gun?

Ans. Not if done properly by experienced workmen.

3. Does a 'Gallery Special' target rifle bored for .22 shorts only shoot truer than a rifle bored for shorts, longs and long rifles? The guns are of the same make.

Ans. .22 short cartridges give more accuracy in the Gallery Special than they do in the Target grade, for instance, if it is chambered and rifled for the .22 long rifle cartridges. If you intend to use .22 shorts, get a rifle chambered for them by all means. This is not only a matter of accuracy, but if numbers of .22 shorts are used in a rifle chambered for .22 long rifle cartridges, regardless of the make or rifle, gas-cutting and difficulty in feeding and extracting will eventually occur.

He spoke about the John Hay Memorial Library at Brown, and the Widener Memorial Library at Harvard and of their being fitting and lasting memorials for the ones in whose honor they were given. During his talk he suggested the possibility of obtaining a memorial library for Weld in the same way that other libraries had been donated to colleges and towns. He was very enthusiastic about his subject and hoped that his dream that some son of Weld or some summer visitor might give a memorial to Weld in the form of a library might come true. Mrs. Sarah S. MADRID

August 10.

Rev. M. S. Hutchins's sermon Sunday, August 1st., from Isaiah, "Put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes, cease to do evil, learn to do well, and come let us reason together," was listened to with a great deal of interest. He especially emphasized the meaning and reasonableness of religion, and the necessity of living on a broader plane, saying that Christians should not narrow their views, but build a wider base for their religion; for the true basis of religion includes all of life.

Willard E. Littlefield, who returned from Florida some three weeks since brought with him the skin of an alligator that he shot on his farm in Paisley. The animal when alive measured about nine feet in length.

Elmon Berry went to Dallas last week, where he will be employed as scaler and time-keeper for Orris Vose.

Schools in Madrid will begin Monday, August 30.

Mrs. Melessa Morrell returned from Kingfield last Tuesday, where she has been the last month visiting her son and grandsons, one of whom, Harlan Morrell accompanied her home.

Miss Leathers, the pastor of Reed's Mills church will preach at Madrid village next Sunday, August 15, at 3 p. m.

Sandy River Grange meets again next Saturday and it is hoped that every member will be present.

LESS WASTE WITH ROUGHAGE

When Given to Sheep on Ground It is Trampled Upon—Racks Have Proved Entirely Satisfactory.

(By E. L. SHAW.)

It is hardly necessary to say that there is less waste when roughage is fed to sheep in racks rather than upon the ground. When fed in the latter way much of it is trampled upon and soiled and then the sheep refuse to eat it.

There are several types of feed racks that are quite satisfactory. A combination rack for feeding both roughage and grain is convenient, especially where the amount of space is limited. Some racks are boarded up solidly, with openings through which the sheep eat; others are slatted horizontally, this type being largely used in the west.

Racks with vertical slats are also used; these slats should not be too wide apart with suckling ewes or the lambs will get in upon the feed and soil it. Having the upper part of the rack boarded solid is desirable, as it prevents chaff from falling into the fleece.

MANGER FOR GREEDY HORSES

Box Arranged Through Partition With Narrow Opening at Bottom Compels Animal to Eat Slowly.

A box to induce a greedy horse to eat slowly is arranged through the partition with just a narrow opening at the bottom. You put the grain in the box on the outside of the partition and the horse gets it slowly. It saves grain and the horse takes more time to grind it.

Concrete Gasometer Work.

Re-enforced concrete is now coming into successful use in the construction of gasometer basins. A recent example of the Hennebique concrete system is noted in a circular basin of this kind which was recently built at St. Sebastian, Spain, and it is the first example to be found in that country. Diameter is about 80 feet, and height of basin 26 feet. Around the basin are enlargements in the shape of nine buttresses in order to add to the strength of the construction, and each buttress serves as the base for one of the structural iron beams which go to make up the gasometer framework and support the gas-holder.

Short Career of Big Gun.

In a lecture on modern artillery at the Royal institution recently, Lieutenant Colonel Haddock of Elswick contrasted the life of big guns with that of a butterfly.

In the case of the latter, he supposed that 24 hours would be an old age. The big gun, on the other hand, looked everlasting, but it only lived when it was being fired, and if an incessant stream of projectiles could be poured out from it, its active life in that sense would be only twelve seconds.

Standard and Troy Pound.

The standard pound has 7,000 grains and is used for everything but gold, silver, platinum and jewels, excepting diamonds and pearls. The troy pound has 5,760 grains and is used for those exceptions stated above, and at the mint in exchange of the precious metals. The grain in troy and avoirdupois weights is the same, and is in use in England, France, the United States, and most other countries.

Cotter of Lynn, who presented the beautiful altar in memory of the family acted as altar boy. Rev. Fr. A. J. Barry of Rumford, who is a fine musician presided at the organ and was ably assisted by two gifted singers, Miss McCormack, cousin of John McCormack, the famous singer, and Miss May Rogers of Boston. The altar was beautifully decorated and among the many valued gifts which adorn the chapel was noticed a dainty bit of needlework which edged the altar cloth. This exquisite lace of the grape and cross pattern was made by the nuns of Belgium and was given by a friend. MOOSE SEEN AT THE BOW

"A slothful man wasteth not that which he took in hunting; but the substance of a diligent man is precious."—Prov. 12-17.

Oxbow, July 26.—Now, woodchuck may not be a game animal, but in the absence of anything better it fills the bill, and a hungry stomach as well. We know, for Billy has just shot a woodchuck, dressed (or undressed) it, as you like, put it in the pot and boiled it, adding several esculent vegetables, producing a repast not to be despised. He also brought in six large brook trout, taken on the way out from his Otter brook camp, where he and Bill Atkins had been staying, getting it ready for Joe Peirce's hunting party next fall, now so near. "Tempus fugit," how "Old Time" does fly! The earth revolves on its axis, from west to east, at the rate of 1,000 miles an hour. It behooves everyone, therefore, who intends to take a day or two off, to put their house in order, forthwith; pack their grip and start. "The night cometh when no man can work;" the end of the vacation season will be upon them; all special trains and special rates will have been canceled; and the door of opportunity closed.

A piece of fine road work has just been finished, on the way to the Flats, near our home camp. A stretch of about 300 feet has been put in apple order, a bad, muddy hollow filled, the road-bed widened, and a substantial culvert of galvanized sheet iron and cement, big enough to carry a flood of water put in place. The state paid $200 and the plantation $100 of the cost. Just opposite this spot, the local Grange have broken ground for a fine large building. It will be of wood, three stories, I'm told, and will contain a general store on the first floor, a public hall on the second and all needed rooms for Grange work on the top floor. Several men with their teams, have been busy for a week hauling lumber from Mel Murphy's mill. The carpenter work will be contributed by local members, who not only are good farmers, good guides and good chauffeurs(?) but good builders, besides. It is hoped that the hall will be ready for occupancy before snow flies. The Grange has long needed a suitable meeting place, such as contemplated, in which the public can meet socially, and their family needs supplied by a Grange general store. In short, it will be a fine civic center.

Hay making is now in full swing, though about two weeks late in starting. Farmers say that haying and harvest will overlap each other this year. Potatoes never looked more promising for a bumper crop in this end of the country.

Alex Boulye of Ashland met with a very painful accident a few days ago by a fall from his motorcycle. One of his ankles was badly sprained, and one or two bones were broken, needing a doctor's care.

His family reside at the Bow. He is a brother of Belle Boulye, one of our reigning belles.

Mrs. Walter D. Hinds, Annie Wagg, Buster Hinds, and Master Joe Fogg, Frank Lynch chauffeur came to the Bow by motor car from Portland, arriving Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. They expect to make quite a long stay in their comfortable

Your Brain Must Have Pure Blood.

No more important physiological discovery, has ever been made than that the brain requires a due supply of pure blood. It is estimated that this organ receives as much as one-tenth of all the blood that is sent from the heart—a great deal more than any other organ of the body. If the vitality of the blood is impaired, the blood then affords the brain an imperfect stimulus and there is mental and physical languor, sluggishness or inactivity.

Pure blood is blood that is free from humors, it is healthy blood, and the term pure blood as it is generally used means blood that is not only right in quality but also in quantity. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure, rich, red blood. This is one of the great truths about this great medicine.

SEVERE RHEUMATIC PAINS DISAPPEAR

Rheumatism depends on an acid in the blood, which affects the muscles and joints, producing inflammation, stiffness and pain. This acid gets into the blood through some defect in the digestive process.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the old-time blood tonic, is very successful in the treatment of rheumatism. It acts directly, with purifying effect, on the blood, and improves the digestion. Don't suffer. Get Hood's today.

camp near Billy's at the Bow.

Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Baldwin and their two sons will be here soon for a three week's trip up river to Billy's log cabins at Lake Millmagassett. Mrs. Billy expects to go up with them. This will be their second trip to the lake. They were greatly pleased with their first visit. Well, "one good turn deserves another," and with ordinarily good weather they will not be disappointed on this second sojourn.

Stream fishing has been very good hereabouts, especially up the Umcolus. Large strings have been brought out, also from Hayden and Otter brooks. Your scribe has been at his accustomed post by the deep hole, never tiring, though suckers and chubs have been his only reward for the last two weeks.

Opening the stomach of a trout, the other day, which was of abnormal size and shape, we found, snugly stowed away, one-eyed fish hook. Frank Currier says the hook is "his," as he lost one the day before at the very spot where we hooked this fish. However, we kept the hook and shall use it on a stronger line than he did.

Our local game warden, Mel Murphy, has just returned from a remarkably good trip to Moosehead. He took part in the sportsmen's convention and was awarded one or two prizes for good shooting. On the way back home he had company as far as Spider Lake. From there he came in alone. He reports having seen forty-two (42) deer en route, and that in his opinion the whole region around the West Branch of the Penobscot is first class for wild game.

Several moose have been seen in, and not far from the Bow lately. They came up quite near the houses and appear to be not at all wild. Foxes bother the life out of our hens, and one day a large hawk pounced down upon a full-grown hen, not over thirty feet from the camp while we were at dinner. We promptly delivered the hen, but the hawk got away. That hen lays for us—we'll lay for the hawk. Our feathered friends the quail, have not been heard for three weeks. Possibly they are busy with their annual family duties.

Miss May Bearce of Ashland has taken the place of Miss Della Cushing as postoffice assistant at the Bow. The health of Mrs. Willie Currier, postmistress, though much improved, is not firm enough for continuous attention to her official duties at present.

Miss Bessie Waitt of Squa Pan and Miss Marcia Boothby of Newfield, have come to the Bow as helpers at Will Libby's home camp and later up river.

Inquiries for terms and accommodations are coming in by mail, and doubtless the Bow and surrounding country will soon assume its usual summer vacation aspect. Many sportsmen are due to arrive this week.

Umcolus stream is now down to good fishing level. Your scribe went out there to try a bran new Hornung spinner which came by mail all the way from Los Angeles, Calif. It seemed to him all too small to catch anything but minnies, but it did the trick at the very first cast. It landed six chubs and one large sucker in short order. The makers say that it will hold and has caught 10-pound trout in the far west. For pickerel their brass spinner can't be beaten.

The secretary of the Maine Home Missionary Society visited the Bow last Sunday on his annual visitation to the churches of northern Maine.

Yours cordially,
J. C. Hartshorne.

May Their Shadows Grow Less.

Gifts were bouquets, many post cards, fruit, candy, ice cream and three decorated birthday cakes. This is the second frame Mr. Twombly has made this summer and represents many hours of labor all done with a jack-knife.

TIME IS THE TEST

The Testimony of Phillips People Stands the Test.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Phillips people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? Below is testimony such as the sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Elbridge Dill, farmer, Phillips, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Preble's Drug Store, have kept my kidneys in good working order and have relieved me of the dull ache across the small of my back and trouble with the kidney secretions."

Over three years later, Mr. Dill said: "I haven't known what kidney trouble is since I was so greatly benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills."

GRANGERS HOLD MEETING

The members of North Franklin Grange held an all day's meeting Saturday, August 7, with a large attendance. Visitors were present from other Granges. It was no hay day so the brothers were out in good numbers. The meeting was called to order by the Worlly Master. The third and fourth degrees worked on Albert Kempton, Claud Mitchell, Minnie Mitchell, Agnes Savage. On account of sickness in the family Winifred Ross was unable to be present to take her degrees.

After the degrees, all marched to the dining room above and partook of a bountiful dinner.

Afternoon session called to order about 2 o'clock. Sister Effie Graffam presided, as our master could not be present. Literary program: Music by Grange; roll call of officers, responded to by quotations from the ritual; reading, Sarah Graffam; "the fly as a disease carrier, it's four stages taken up"; singing, America, by all; Farce:—"Wanted a Wife"; reading, Eva Booker, who responded to an encore; singing by Grange. If any member has, or knows of anyone who has one of the Grange singing books they would confer a great favor by seeing that they are in the hall at our next meeting, as there are only four to be found. The penny march was taken up. The meeting was then closed, after which games were enjoyed by both old and young. This ended a day long to be remembered.

Diplomas for Everything.

An eastern lover of music wants a law passed which will require teachers of music to take examinations to prove their fitness to teach. Then, of course, there will be the same requirement for dancing teachers and bridge teachers and boxing teachers. The man without a diploma will feel very lonesome.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Church Resembled Mosque.

All Souls' church in Fourth avenue, New York, was once referred to as the "Church of the Holy Zebra" because of the daring Moresque effects of its architecture. Jacob Wrey Mould, who died in 1866, was the designer and builder.
