A new typewriter is soon to be put on the market, so it is said, which will write a complete word at one stroke. Twenty-two of the short words most used in correspondence have been chosen, and indicated on the word keys of the cut of the keyboard. The carriage shifts automatically by touching the proper key, and the platen revolves either forward or backward in the same manner.

Toy mascots are the latest favorites as luck-bringers at the bridge table in England. A player who has a pink velvet cat at her elbow feels assured of playing a winning game. A rag "dolly" is another charm which is claimed to bring its owner phenomenal good fortune and a curious figure known as "Sunny Jane" also ranks as a mascot. The manager of a London store says: "The curious thing is that the more hideous the toy the greater its value as a luck-bringer. 'Bob', a white dog with a long neck, and 'Jum', an elephant with a brilliant scarlet coat, are most popular."

Fifteen friends of Col. Robert L. Thompson, financier, retired naval officer and lawyer, of New York, are to be his guests on one of the most remarkable yacht cruises on record. The yacht upon which they will voyage around the world is the 800-ton steamer Minocla. The journey will occupy nine months and the estimated expense is half a million dollars. Among those invited by Col. Thompson to be his guests are Lord Brassey and Admiral Lord Charles Beresford. Admiral Beresford has accepted the invitation conditionally, it is said, the condition being that he succeed in being temporarily relieved of command of the British Mediterranean squadron. The program is to go to Gibraltar, the rendezvous of the British Mediterranean squadron, thence to Japan via the Suez canal and thence to New Caledonia.

J. HARVEY BETHEL.

James Harvey Bethel, a native of Barbadoes, who was reared since the age of 10 or 11 in the family of Capt. Fred Crockett at Ash Point, died suddenly in a hospital on Staten Island, Friday. The remains were interred in the Ash Point cemetery Monday forenoon, the simple prayer service being attended by many of the townspeople and all the children of the Ash Point school, which suspended for that purpose. Deceased was 27 years of age and a very estimable young man. He was educated by his benefactor, and had the ambition to be chief engineer of a steamboat. When stricken with his fatal illness he was already an engineer, bidding fair to attain the desired height. He was taken sick on one of the steamboat trips and the captain landed him at Staten Island. He grew rapidly worse and died in a hospital. A letter from the captain of the steamboat received at Ash Point speaks of the young man in very high terms.

TONY D'S GOOD SEASON.

E. A. Wentworth has brought his pacer Tony D home to Rockport after a most successful racing season. He may well feel proud of Tony's record this season. Starting the season with a mark of 2:20 1/4 he has been up against the fastest horses in the state in the hardest races run off this summer. He has been in eight races, getting five first monies, two second, and one third. At Monroe he paced the three fastest heats in Maine for two years and holds the track race record on that track. He has lowered his mark to 2:14 1/4. During the season he has been driven by R. L. Bean and George Grant acted as caretaker.—Camden Herald.

LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

It is good news to down East patrons that the Maine Central steamer Pemaquid will remain on the route throughout the winter.

The annual convention of the Maine Teachers' Association will be held in Bangor, Oct. 24-26. Knox county schools will be well represented.

A large crew of the New England Telephone Co.'s linemen is working between Rockland and Belfast, putting the plant in good shape to withstand the winter's storms.

The frame for E. L. Brown's new cottage at Crescent Beach is being put up. John E. Leach has bought a lot at Crescent Beach and is having a run of the building fever.

J. A. Lester of the Park street garage is demonstrating with a Thomas-Forty, the merits of which are much appreciated by those who have been privileged to ride with him.

A Rockland man is so fond of corn that he eats it all winter long cooked among baked beans. He declares that the combination is delicious. Possibly some of our other readers have tried it.

The tug Fred E. Richards of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co. has been receiving general repairs to her boilers at the Bath Iron Works. The tug Orion took her route during her stay in Bath.

Robert Saltston of Boston is having a costly summer residence built at North Haven. Some idea of its elaborateness may be gathered from the fact that it will be equipped with five first-class bathrooms.

Frank Gregory, substitute letter-carrier, is assisting at the post office this month while the weighing of mails is in progress. John H. Flanagan, clerk, has been confined to the house by illness the past week.

Reuel Whitney is having a two weeks' vacation from F. H. Whitney's fruit and confectionery store. He will spend one week on the Marsh in pursuit of game, and the other week in Boston, accompanied by his wife.

John Sullivan is operator for the Western Union Telegraph Co. in Boston. "Shadow" Clark who has been home on a vacation returns to the key next week. Now if Charlie Johnson goes back we shall expect to hear that the strike is off.

The board of managers of the Old Ladies' Home Association will have their usual autumn rummage sale at an early date in November. All clothing that can be given the ladies will be most gratefully received. The proceeds of the sale will be used to purchase coal for which the home is in urgent need. A worthy object.

The Maine State Annual Christian conference will hold its advent session with the Advent church Auburn, beginning Thursday, and continuing Friday, Saturday and over the following Sunday. Business sessions will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 9 a. m. to 12 m. A Sunday school convention will be held Wednesday.

M. H. Nash has received an interesting souvenir post card from brother John T. C. Nash, of California. It represents the latter as seated in an automobile in which he has just made the trip down the Sierra Nevada Mountains from Nevada City to Sacramento in 4 1/2 hours. "Slaver my timbers, but that was going some," remarks Capt. Nash in the margin of the post card.

A FLORAL HORSESHOE.

Will Be Used In Christening the New Schooner Dean E. Brown.

New Haven papers, forwarded to us by a subscriber of The Courier-Gazette, devote considerable attention to the forthcoming launching of the schooner Dean E. Brown at Cobb, Butler & Co.'s yard. The Evening Register of Sept. 10 said:

"Captain Magnus Manson, president of the Benedict & Manson marine company, expect the new four masted schooner, Dean E. Brown, will be ready to be launched at the shipyard of Cobb, Butler & Co. at Rockland, Me., on Oct. 10. Several of those in this city who are interested in the building of the new vessel will go to Rockland to witness the launching. Among these will be Capt. Magnus Manson, John T. Manson, E. Harris Weaver, and probably J. Willis Downs. Dean E. Brown, for whom the new vessel has been named, is a grand-nephew of Capt. Manson. His home is in Syracuse, N. Y., where he is engaged as a furniture manufacturer. Mr. Brown will attend the launching. As the owners of the vessel have decided that no wine shall be used at the christening ceremonies, Mr. Brown will take along with him to Rockland a large floral horseshoe. This will be hung upon a spike on the port bow and it will go with the four masted when she slides off the ways. As the horseshoe is the emblem of good luck, the owners think that the floral shoe will bring better luck to the vessel than if wine were used."

The Register published, also, portraits of Dean E. Brown and Capt. Magnus Manson.

Another New Haven paper publishes substantially the same information, with this concluding paragraph:

"Captain Manson said that while he has never boasted of being a teetotaler he does not believe in christening vessels with wine. When the largest five masted in the state, the Magnus Manson, named after him, was launched several years ago, flowers were used at the christening and the big ship has had just as good luck as if strong drink had been employed."

Since the above article was placed in type the date of the launching has been changed. Oct. 23 is the probable date.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

This Life, which seems so fair,
Is like a bubble blown up in the air
By sporting children's breath,
Who chase it everywhere
Who chase it everywhere
And strive who can most motion it bequeath,
And though it sometimes seems of its own might
Like an eye of gold to be fixed there,
And firm to hover in that empty height,
That only because it is so light,
—But in that pomp it deth not long appear;
For when 'tis most admired, in a thought,
Because it erst was nought, it turns to naught,

MR. CHAPMAN RESIGNS.

Will Be No More Maine Festivals Unless Aid Comes From Somewhere.

Feeling that he can no longer shoulder the personal load of the Maine Music festival, Director William R. Chapman of Bethel, the founder and mainspring of the festival movement, Wednesday tendered his resignation as director of both the Portland and the Bangor festivals.

The resignation has been received with profound regret for everyone is agreed that without the wonderful energy of Prof. Chapman the festivals must cease. No action will be taken in the matter till next Monday when Prof. Chapman will return to this city and meet the festival directors at the Y. M. C. A. parlors. By that time the friends of the festival hope to have aroused sufficient enthusiasm to make the director reconsider his resignation. They will canvass the situation thoroughly in the mean time.

Some of the more timid ones have suggested a pruning of the festival by endeavoring to get along with stars of very much lesser magnitude but to this Prof. Chapman refuses to listen. To a reporter he said:

"I won't conduct another festival unless we are to go on and upward. Each year I have striven to make an advance over the year preceding and in this way we have made the festival a success. But after 11 years I feel that it is no more than fair that I should be relieved of the personal responsibility for the success of the whole thing. I want the festival to continue. I want it to rise to still higher levels and this it must do if I am to remain its conductor."

"I have not reconsidered my resignation and shall not do so unless it is made apparent to me next Monday evening that there is going to be sufficient enthusiasm to insure financial success for the future."

The Golden Cross conferred the degree upon John E. Boynton Wednesday night. Seven applications for membership were received.

The season for pumpkin canning is on at Thorndike & Hix's factory. The firm is ready to give employment for more girls than are now on the payroll.

Two young ladies of the Congregational church were "earning a dollar" Thursday by operating a public carriage. Many prominent citizens who walk for exercise rode that day for the cause.

A mandolin club was organized at the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening, which bids fair to be an important social feature of the Association during the coming season. The president and manager of the club is Harry Sleeper.

Thomas Hayden was elected director and Nathan Farwell was chosen secretary and treasurer. Those who were present at the meeting were Walter Bird, Morris Healey, Thomas Hayden, Alfred Berry, Harry Sleeper, Arthur Stubbs and Donald Philbrick. The club will meet for practice every week and special meetings will be held when required.

The annual supper and ball of the Knox Hose Co. of Thomaston takes place in Watts hall Tuesday evening, Oct. 22, with music by Bunker's Quintet. There will be a grand illuminated street parade of the town fire department and visiting companies, to start from the high school siding at 7:30, proceeding up Main street to the prison and return to the hall. Twenty sou-veners will be given away ranging in value from $5.00 down to 50 cents. Supper will be served in the banquet hall at intermission. Chief John P. Beeve and Carl Copeland will be floor directors, assisted by members of the company. A prize of $5 will be given for the best cakewalk.

The Isaac Blake place in West Rockport has been sold through Leroy F. Clough's real estate agency to John B. Wooster of Columbia Falls, who now occupies it.

Miss Mildred Colley of Gray enrolled at the Rockland Commercial College this week to pursue the course in shorthand and typewriting. Clarence Atkinson of this city has entered the actual business department. A new Tri-Chrome Smith Premier typewriter has been added to the Shorthand department. Miss Annette M. The syndicate dances at Penobscot View Grange hall were resumed Tuesday evening, the members first being put in fine humor by a picnic supper. There was a misunderstanding as to the butter and cheese supply, but no body minded it in the least because there were eight pounds of cheese and only one pound of butter. The quantity and quality of everything else precluded criticism.

There is no article of food more nutritious or healthful than Argo Red Salmon. As a brain and muscle builder, it is far ahead of beef or other meats.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Among the guests at a society ball in New York are Miss Rita Van Arsdale, who has studied nursing and who tells the story; her lover, Anson Durand; Mrs. Fairbrother, who wears a magnificent diamond, and a distinguished Englishman, Durand, who is a dealer in gems, is interested in the diamond. Rita sees the vision of a man reflected in a supper room window. Mrs. Fairbrother is found stabbed to death in an alcove. The diamond is missing.

CHAPTER II—The diamond is found in a pair of Mrs. Fairbrother's gloves placed in Rita's handbag by Durand. CHAPTER III—Durand declares that Mrs. Fairbrother asked him to hold her gloves without his knowledge that the diamond was in them. After the murder, fearing suspicion, he placed the gloves in Rita's bag. A splash of blood is discovered on Durand's shirt front.

CHAPTER IV—The blood dropped on him, declares Durand, from a still-etto placed in a lantern near the entrance to the alcove. He mentions stepping on broken china near the doorway of the alcove.

CHAPTER V—Grey, the Englishman, shows great interest in the diamond, now in the possession of the inspector. It is handed to him for inspection. A shrill cry is heard, and he drops it. A waiter hands it back. Grey explains the cry as the usual historical warning heard before the death of one of his family. He is worried about his daughter, who is ill at a hotel. Grey declares that the stone in the inspector's possession is only paste. Before her death Mrs. Fairbrother received a warning note, handed in at the alcove window. She had been placed with her husband, who is in the southwest.

CHAPTER VI—Rita tries to account for the murder and the disappearance of the diamond. Fairbrother is ill with pneumonia in New Mexico. CHAPTER VII—A newspaper correspondent hears Fairbrother declare that the gem worn by his wife was genuine. CHAPTER VIII—Fairbrother is too ill to be examined in relation to the murder. Durand is arrested on the murder charge.

CHAPTER IX—Rita tells Inspector Dalzell that she suspects Grey of the murder. Just before the murder she saw him lifting two cups from a tray left near the alcove. The still-etto bears the heraldic device of the Grey family. CHAPTER X—Grey is known to be a collector of diamonds, and his daughter is known to have sent a message to the ballroom on the night of the murder.

CHAPTER XI—By arrangement with the inspector Rita undertakes to nurse Miss Grey and keep a watch on the latter's father. It is learned that Grey made inquiries about the diamond. CHAPTER XII—Grey tells Rita to keep mention of the murder from his daughter. Rita is attracted by the gentle English girl. The inspector first directs Rita to place the still-etto on Grey's desk and no trace the effect on him and then rescinds his directions.

CHAPTER XIII—The inspector is trying to find Wellgood, a waiter at the ball, who was recommended by Sears, Mr. Fairbrother's steward. Sears was infatuated with Mrs. Fairbrother. It is learned that Sears left Fairbrother in the west and could have reached New York before the murder was committed.

CHAPTER XIV—The inspector is searching for Sears and Wellgood, the latter being the waiter who picked up the diamond for Grey. Detective Sweetwater tells of surprising Sears in the Fairbrother mansion. The steward escapes from the detective.

CHAPTER XV—Inspector Dalzell doubts Grey's connection with the murder, but sets a detective to watch him. CHAPTER XVI—Grey leaves the city.

CHAPTER XVII. A FEW days later three men were closeted in the district attorney's office. Two of them were officials—the district attorney himself and our old friend the inspector. The third was the detective, Sweetwater, chosen by them to keep watch on Mr. Grey.

Sweetwater had just come to town. This was evident from the gripack he had set down in a corner on entering; also from a certain tousled appearance which bespoke hasty rising and but few facilities for proper attention to his person. These details counted little, however, in the astonishment created by his manner. For a hardy chap he looked strangely nervous and indisposed—so much so that after the first short greeting the inspector asked him what was up and if he had had another Fairbrother house experience.

He replied with a decided no, that it was not his adventure which had upset him, but the news he had to bring. Here he glanced at every door and window, and then, leaning forward over the table at which the two officials sat, he brought his head as near to them as possible and whispered five words.

They produced a most unhappy sensation. Both the men, hunched as they were by duties which soon sap the sensibilities, started and turned as pale as the speaker himself. Then the district attorney, with one glance at the inspector, rose and locked the door. It was a prelude to this tale which I give, not as it came from his mouth.

"I want you to get me a room at a very quiet hotel."

but as it was afterward related to me. The language, I fear, is mostly my own.

The detective had just been with Mr. Grey to the coast of Maine. Why there will presently appear. His task had been to follow this gentleman, and follow him he did.

Mr. Grey was a very stately man, difficult of approach, and was absorbed besides by some overwhelming care. But this fellow was one in a thousand and somehow during the trip he managed to do him some little service, which drew the attention of the great man to himself. This done, he so improved his opportunity that the two were soon on the best of terms, and he learned that the Englishman was with-out a valet, and being unaccustomed to move about without one, felt the awkwardness of his position very much. This gave Sweetwater his cue, and when he found that the services of such a man were wanted only during the present trip and for the handling of affairs quite apart from personal attendance upon the gentleman himself, he showed such an honest desire to fill the place, and made out to give such a good account of himself, that he found himself engaged for the work before reaching C.

This was a great stroke of luck, he thought, but he little knew how big a stroke or into what a series of adventures he was going to lead him.

Once on the platform of the small station at which Mr. Grey had bidden him to stop, he noticed two things—the utter helplessness of the man in all practical matters and his extreme anxiety to see all that was going on about him without being himself seen. There was method in this curiosity, too much method, women did not interest him in the least. They could pass and re-pass without arousing his attention, but the moment a man stepped his way, he shrank from him only to betray the greatest curiosity concerning him the moment he felt it safe to turn and observe him. All of which convinced Sweetwater that the Englishman's errand was in connection with a man whom he equally dreaded and desired to meet.

Of this he was made absolutely certain a little later. As they were leaving the depot with the rest of the arrivals Mr. Grey said:

"I want you to get me a room at a very quiet hotel. This done, you are to hunt up the man whose name you will find written in this paper, and when you have found him make up your mind how it will be possible for me to get a good look at him without his getting any sort of a look at me. Do this and you will earn a week's salary in one day."

Sweetwater, with his head in air and his heart on fire—for matters were looking very promising indeed—took the paper and put it in his pocket; then he began to hunt for a hotel. Not till he had found what he wished and installed the Englishman in his room did he venture to open the precious memorandum and read the name he had been speculating over for an hour. It was not the one he had anticipated, but it came near to it. It was that of James Wellgood.

Satisfied now that he had a ticklish matter to handle, he prepared for it, with his usual enthusiasm and circumspection. Sauntering out into the street, he strolled first toward the postoffice. The train on which he had just come had been a mail train, and he calculated that he would find half the town there. His calculation was a correct one. The store was crowded with people. Taking his place in the line drawn up before the postoffice window, he awaited his turn, and when it came shouted

"And where is his manufactory? Might be worth visiting perhaps?"

The other made a gesture, said something about northwest and rushed to help a customer. Sweetwater took the opportunity to slide away. More explicit directions could easily be got elsewhere, and he felt anxious to return to Mr. Grey and discover if possible whether it would prove as much a matter of surprise to him as to Sweetwater himself that the man who answered to the name of Wellgood was the owner of a manufactory and a barrel of fireworks, out of which he proposed to make a compound that would rob the doctors of their business and make himself and this little village rich.

Sweetwater made only one stop on his way to Mr. Grey's hotel rooms, and that was at the stables. Here he learned whatever else there was to know, and armed with definite information, he appeared before Mr. Grey, who, to his astonishment, was dining in his own room.

He had dismissed the waiter and was rather brooding than eating. He looked up eagerly, however, when Sweetwater entered and asked what news.

The detective, with some semblance of respect, answered that he had seen Wellgood, but that he had been unable to do so before bringing him within his employer's observation.

"He is a patent medicine man," he then explained, "and manufactures his own concoctions in a house he has rented here on a lonely road some half mile out of town."

"Wellgood does—the man named Wellgood?" Mr. Grey exclaimed, with all the astonishment the other secretly expected.

"Yes, Wellgood—James Wellgood. There is no other in town."

"How long has this man been here?" the statesman inquired after a moment of apparently great discomfiture.

"Just twenty-four hours this time. He was here once before, when he rented the house and made all his plans."

"Ah!" Mr. Grey rose precipitately. His manner had changed. "I must see him. What you tell me makes it all the more necessary for me to see him. How can you bring it about?"

"Without his seeing you?" Sweetwater asked.

"Yes, yes; certainly without his seeing me. Couldn't you rap him up at his own door and hold him in talk a minute while I looked on from the carriage or whatever vehicle we can get to carry us there? The least glimpse of his face would satisfy me—that is, tonight."

"I'll try," said Sweetwater, not very sanguine at first to the probable result of this effort.

Returning to the stables, he ordered the team. With the last ray of the sun they set out, the reins in Sweetwater's hands. They headed for the coast road.

PLEASANT POINT.

Mr. Wallace and daughter, Mrs. Seth Robbins, of Thomaston were in this place Sunday.

Mrs. Weaver is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stone and is a young lady of excellent character and one of our smartest young ladies. Mr. Weaver was formerly of this place and is well worthy of the bride he has won. They both have a host of friends who extend hearty congratulations.

BETTER THAN MEDICINE.

Breathe Hyomel's Tonic Healing and Be Cured of Catarrh.

Nature has a remedy for catarrh, a treatment that is far better than dosing the stomach with medicine.

It is the Hyomel's Tonic, a powerful remedy of Hyomel which mediates the air you breathe, reaching the most remote air cells in the nose, throat and lungs, killing all catarrhal germs, and restoring health to the mucous membrane.

In using Hyomel you are treating your catarrhal troubles with the only natural remedy, for it gives a curative air bath to the air passages that has as powerful healing and antiseptic effect as that found in the mountains where the pine forests give off their fragrant and healing balsams.

Breathe the invigorating and healing Hyomel, and see how quickly you will get relief from your catarrhal troubles. C. H. Pendleton, druggist and optician, and Wm. H. Kittredge, druggist, have seen so many cures, even of the worst cases of catarrh, with offensive breath, raising of mucus, frequent sneezing, droppings in the throat and chronic coughing, that they feel warranted in selling Hyomel under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not do all that is claimed for it. They take all the risk.

UNION

Mrs. Rachel G. Chadburne, late of Union, Maine, passed away Monday morning, Sept. 30, after a lingering and painful illness. The interment was at Vassalboro. Mrs. Chadburne was born January 2, 1832. She was the widow of the late James C. Chadburne of Vassalboro, having been married to him May 25, 1879. Mrs. Chadburne is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Eleanora Perce and Mrs. Julia Ware of Union. Our departed friend was a most sincere and devoted Christian woman. Early in life she identified herself with the communion of the Methodist Episcopal church, and all through her half-century of Christian life adorned her profession and exemplified in her daily walks the graces and spirit of her Divine Master. Throughout her painful illness she was remarkably cheerful and fully resigned to her condition. Her memory will long be cherished and the sweet incense of such a devoted life can never be lost.

Fales Circle again scored a success at the sale of Wednesday afternoon and evening. G. A. R. hall was never more attractive in its robe of flags and bunting of national colors, the several tables were decorated and tastefully arranged and nearly everything disposed of. In the hall adjoining the dining tables were spread and a chicken supper served to many patrons. Disappointment was felt in the entertainment owing to the inability of parties to be present. In the ticket drawing, the puff was awarded to Fred Swift, who held the lucky number. The circle netted nearly $60 and much credit reflects upon each committee who worked faithfully. Thanks is due the public for its patronage and to individuals for favors received. The regular suppers on the second Wednesday of each month will be continued through the winter.

At the Congregational church next Sunday Miss Edith Sampson will begin her work as soloist and leader of the choir. Her many friends especially among the young people will welcome her with her sister as organist in one of the home churches. The subject of the morning sermon next Sunday will be "The Reinforcement of the Will." The attendance at the Sunday evening service shows that after nearly three years of service at the Vesper hour, there are more people than it was supposed who find 7 o'clock the more convenient hour for attendance.

Clara M. Jordan left Tuesday for Auburn, Mass., where she is guest of Alice Ranlett.

Mrs. Percy Hupper of Port Clyde is guest of her mother, Mrs. Edward Seavey.

Mrs. E. D. Daniels will have her fall and winter millinery opening Saturday, Oct. 12.

The millinery opening at Mrs. Winchenbach's takes place Saturday. The ladies of the town are invited to inspect the beautiful creations for fall and winter.

Roland H. Hatch died last Friday. Deceased was born in Richmond, Me., Dec. 15, 1855, and was at one time salesman for Jordan, Marsh & Co., Boston, later being employed in that capacity by W. E. Last Monday gave us a young Hurricane. Trees were broken off and uprooted and the fruit trees suffered considerably.

Capt. Sylvanus Robinson, one of our esteemed and genial neighbors died very suddenly last Sunday afternoon. His death was caused by neuralgia of the head which he suffered for many years. At the age of 16 years he enlisted in the navy and after his discharge followed the sea. He was in command of several vessels, retiring from sea life some years ago. He took up farming and followed that occupation until his death. He was twice married, his first wife was Miss Julia Robinson, daughter of the late Capt. Erastus and Sally Robinson, by whom three children were born—Albert F. Winslow of Warren, Mass., Chester and Winslow of this place. His second wife who survives him was Miss Lillias Robinson, daughter of the late Capt. Elizabeth Robinson of Cushing of which four children were born—Mrs. Ardel, wife of Rev. Mr. Hazleton of Joseph and Helen of this place. Capt. Robinson was well liked and had a wide circle of friends and acquaintances and he will be very much missed in the community. He was also a member of St. George Grange and Buxton Lodge of Masons. The funeral took place at his residence last Tuesday afternoon but owing to the storm there was a very small attendance. The Grange ceremonies were omitted on account of the lateness of the hour and unfavorable weather. Rev. Mr. Emery conducted the services.

CARD OF THANKS.

We feel very grateful to our friends for the many ways in which they helped us to bear our recent bereavement in the death of husband and father, Sylvanus Robinson. We extend thanks to all who sent flowers.

Mrs. Lillias Robinson and Family.

TEN YEARS OF STOMACH TROUBLE

A Civil War Veteran Tells How Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured Him After Other Treatment Failed

Many people are suffering daily from stomach trouble because they cling to old-fashioned methods, eat pre-digested foods and in other ways aggravate the disorder they seek to cure.

But prejudice must give way before proof such as the following evidence:

Mr. Robert Cline, proprietor of the Cottage Boarding House, 94 Water street, Clayton, N. Y., is a member of the G. D. Bailey Post, No. 200, G. A. R. of Louisville, N. Y., and was color sergeant of the Second New York Heavy Artillery from 1861 until the close of the Civil war. The history of the regiment in "Drum Taps in Dixie" says that during the battle of Round Fort, April 7, 1865, Mr. Cline "after saving the flag, found that a comrade had been left wounded near the enemy's entrenchments and he heroically faced about and amidst the whistling bullets went up near the rebel works found his friend and brought him into the lines across his shoulder." Mr. Cline relates that he suffered for about ten years from stomach trouble in the form of water-brash. During this time I was confined to bed for six months and did not leave the house for over a year. My trouble started with pains in the stomach, which led to the water-brash. The pain was always present, but much worse at night, when it was necessary to take something to relieve it. I could not retain food of any kind, not even a spoonful of milk and lime water. It would come up as soon as I ate or drank. I vomited. I soon became too weak to do anything and was reduced in flesh until I was nothing more than a skeleton. I couldn't lie in bed without having a pad between my knees, the skin on my soles was so raw and sore that I had to have my knees come together. There was always considerable gas on my stomach and I had such dreadful pains across the top and front of my head, that I often thought it would split.

I employed doctors for six or seven years and they did not seem to understand my case, for their treatment did me no good. At last they gave me up and said there was no help or cure for me. I then tried several kinds of medicine with no better results. I suffered so much that some of my friends could not stay in the room with me.

"When Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended to me about this time, I bought some boxes of them not expecting much, but to my surprise my stomach soon felt better than in years and I continued taking the pills until entirely cured. After about five weeks I was able to eat an ordinary meal without experiencing any trouble. I have never had the terrible pains since and am now enjoying the best health of my life."

The great value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills lies in the fact that they actually make new blood and this carries health and strength to every portion of the body. The stomach is toned up, the nerves are strengthened, every organ is stimulated to do its work.

If you are ill and the treatment you are taking does not cure you, write for proof of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do in similar cases.

Your druggist sells them or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

EAST WARREN

B. L. Ryder and family are soon to move to Warren depot, where he has employment for the winter.

Ernest Tolman is harvesting the burning of the second kiln of lime at the old Mt. Pleasant kiln. The lime is proving very satisfactory; therefore it is hoped the industry will be improved and continued.

The W. F. and storm of Tuesday last did much damage to the apples, as nearly all were blown or shaken from the trees.

Reuben Tolman has employment at Packard's steam mill.

Ernest Tolman is harvesting a good crop of potatoes; he had six acres and finds no rotten ones.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Orland J. Barrows was the scene of a pretty event Tuesday evening, when their son, Ernest, was married to Miss Mary Ann Barrows, celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary. Quite a number of friends and neighbors responded to the invitations. The evening was passed very pleasantly with music and singing. The presents were pretty and useful. Refreshments were served. All departed at a late hour declaring it an evening well spent.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to neighbors and friends, for their many acts of kindness rendered during our recent sorrow, and also for the many kind offerings.

A REMARKABLE FACT.

Never before in the history of the repertoire companies has there been a case where a company has met with such great success in any one play that they have had to produce it the length of time that the Gage Stock Co. have of Daniel L. Hart's beautiful play "The Parish Priest." There are a number of reasons to be advanced for this fact but the principal ones are that it is purely a heart interest story of every day life that appeals to the lovers of wholesome plays, and also to the fact that the Gage Co. have always exercised the greatest of care in the selection of the company to enact the play while at the same time never neglecting to stage it in a meritorious manner. They have this year a complete new scenic equipment for the play while they have also secured Mr. Walter Beal to play the principal part of "Father Whalen," who met with excellent favor in this role two years ago with the Gage Co. Miss Rita Davis will again be seen in the charming role of "Nellie," the priest's ward, and the remainder of the company to good advantage. "The Parish Priest" will be the offering on next Tuesday night. The company are also presenting new and high-class vaudeville this season between the acts and special attention is called to their great moving pictures which will be changed every day. Ladies tickets will be issued for Tuesday night, limited to 200, and must be secured before 5 o'clock.

Out of Sight

"Out of sight, out of mind," is an old saying which applies with special force to a sore, burn or wound that's been treated with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's out of sight, out of mind and out of existence. Piles too and chilblains disappear under its healing influence. Guaranteed by Wm. H. Kittredge, Druggist, Rockland; G. I. Robinson Drug Co., Thomaston. 25c.

GLENCOVE STUDY CLUB

Wednesday evening, Oct. 9, the home of Mrs. E. P. Stevens, Warrenton Street, was the scene of a "gay" and social gathering of the Study Club of Glencove. The club members with their husbands and families, to the number of 29, were present. A picnic supper was the occasion of the gathering and all did justice to the bountiful repast set before them. Mrs. Fred Fletcher of Berkeley, Calif., was the honored guest of the evening. After the supper a short business meeting was held at which it was voted that Mrs. Hattie E. Gregory should become an honorary member of the club. Mrs. Lillith A. Hall was elected as secretary of the club. Mrs. Mattie M. Packard having resigned that office. The rest of the evening was spent in games and social conversation, and each one reported a very pleasant time. The next meeting will be held Wednesday, Oct. 30, with Mrs. A. T. Carroll.

ECHOES OF THE BIG STORM.

What Tuesday's Sou'wester Did Along Coast—Rockland Bound Train Sideswiped by Fallen Tree.

The sou'wester which was in progress when The Courier-Gazette went to press Tuesday forenoon proves to have been the worst October storm that has swept down on the New England coast for many years. This city was singularly free from the damage that visited most places, but quite a number of trees were ruined and the fall apple crop was brought to the ground prematurely. A large elm on Mrs. H. N. Keene's premises, Claremont street, was blown down. At the Meadows a large willow—an old settler, more than 100 years old—was blown down near the Ingraham homestead, and its absence makes a surprising change in the appearance of that locality.

At Thomaston many elm trees were blown down, one of them crashing onto the roof of the Redman house, Main street. A scow laden with wood, in the river, was overturned and the cargo floated to foreign shores.

At Owl's Head the storm was one of the worst in recent years. The fishing boat Gertrude, owned by M. T. Jameson & Co., a scallop boat owned by Isaac Post, a gasoline boat owned by Levi Leadbetter and numerous smaller boats were driven ashore, but the damage was fortunately not large in any case. The chimney of Capt. T. H. Madocks' house was blown down, crashing through the roof. At Crescent Beach and all along shore there were some splendid surf views in the forenoon, but when the wind changed to the northwest and the tide began to ebb, Nature's free show came to an abrupt end. At Ashmere the surf was especially fine, and was viewed from Dr. Tibbets' cottage by Dr. Tibbets, F. W. Fuller, Nathan F. Cobb and Miss Marion Cobb, who journeyed thither for the purpose of seeing it—and felt richly rewarded. Our readers who like to see old ocean in a rage are urged to visit Crescent Beach or vicinity during a southeast storm. They will surely thank this paper for the tip.

There was a high course of tides in connection with the storm and The Courier-Gazette reporter saw help which had been washed across the roadway at Crescent Beach to the very base of some of the cottages.

As a result of the storm the passengers on the train arriving here at 10:45 a. m. had a very unusual experience. In the vicinity of Wiscasset the locomotive suddenly encountered a fallen tree. The tree smashed two windows of the smoker, the top lights of about a dozen windows in the next coach, and all the windows on the tree side of the last coach. To say that the passengers were startled is using the mildest adjective on tap. The glass flew in all directions, and the floor was covered with it, but as far as we have been able to learn not a single passenger was injured. It was rarely good luck that kept the locomotive from being derailed.

From all along the coast have since come reports of the damage left in the storm's wake. Schooner D. H. Sawyer bound from Bath for Vineyard Haven sprung aleak off Pollock Rip and was in sinking condition when the members of the crew were taken off by the Chatham life-saving crew. Schooner Charlotte T. Sibley of Belfast, lumber-laden for New York, was blown ashore 12 miles west of Monomoy life-saving station. Her crew was rescued by a volunteer crew in a power boat.

At Portland the six-masted schooner George W. Wells was driven ashore, but three tugs floated her before any damage resulted.

IN SPORTING CIRCLES

Saturday's football game on the Broadway ground will be played by Rockland High and Rockland Alumni, beginning at 2.30 p. m. The High school team is anxious to go through the season with a clean slate, as the baseball team did, but the Rockland Alumni team is looking for revenge on account of what happened in the baseball game.

The grammar school football team is very much elated at its victory over the high school Freshmen in the game of Monday afternoon. The score was 11 to 0. The touchdowns were made by Campbell and Peterson. Some of the grammar school players were no taller than a dollar bag of flour, but they knew the game from A to Z.

Harvard defeated Bates 33 to 4 Wednesday. This is the first Maine college team to score on Harvard this season.

Elmer E. Crockett left Wednesday night for Melrose, Mass., and will be employed as conductor on the trolley line between Melrose and Malden.

STOP DRINKING!

Orrine Destroys Desire for Drink
"How to Swear Off."

It was formerly customary for the habitual drinker to take the pledge regularly, sometimes once a year, and sometimes in every fit of remorse that followed his debauches, and then—Break it.

But now it is gradually dawning on the world that pledges do not stop drunkenness. When a man takes a pledge voluntarily he expects to keep it. Every man expects to keep his word, and every broken pledge costs the drunkard many a headache. But he cannot help it. He fights as long as he can, then succumbs to the craving. The nervous system of the habitual drinker is diseased and he must have treatment that will cure this condition. This Orrine will do and is sold under a positive guarantee to cure the drink habit or the money will be refunded. No other treatment for the liquor habit is sold with such a liberal guarantee.

Orrine is prepared in two forms; No. 1 a powder, perfectly tasteless and colorless, which can be given secretly in any food or drink. Orrine No. 2, in pill form, is for those who wish to be cured of the habit, and it should be taken by everyone who swears off.

No matter which form of Orrine is used the guarantee is the same. The price of Orrine is $1 per box, mailed in plain sealed wrapper, upon receipt of price. Write for free booklet on "How to Cure Drunkenness" (mailed in plain, sealed envelope,) by The Orrine Co., Washington, D. C. Orrine is sold by C. W. Hills.

ADDIE MORRILL LOST
The barkentine Addie Morrill, built and formerly owned in Rockport, ran into a heavy gale, Oct. 5, and was so opened by the buffeting of the seas that it was necessary to abandon her. Capt. E. H. Allen, wife and crew of eight were taken off by the steamer Admiral Dewey.

CHICAGOES WIN TWO
In their contest for the two's championship the Chicago Nationals and Detroit Americans have now played three games. The first was the 3 to 3, 12 innings; the second was won by Chicago, 3 to 1; and the third was won by Chicago, 3 to 1. Today and Saturday the games will be played in Detroit, when the fans expect different results. The series is best four in seven.
