HOUSE TO CLOSE TUESDAY, OCT. 1

Party Enjoying the Partridge Shooting—Old Time Guest Will Not Reel in Until Close of Season.

(Special to Maine Woods). Rangeley Lake House, Sept. 24. After breakfast next Tuesday morning, Oct. 1, this hotel will close after the most successful season in its history.

Hundreds of more guests have enjoyed the hospitality of this, one of the best known and popular hotels in New England during this season than ever before and hundreds who wished to come, could not be entertained.

Many New Comers.

Ninety-six new comers have registered here this week and although daily big loads of trunks have told of the number going home, there are many of "the family circle," who remain all this week.

Miss Rachel Marble is this week entertaining two well known Portland friends, Mrs. Francis John Braun, nee Annie Milliken and Miss Helen Berkemager.

As the roads are said to have improved the automobile parties are now enjoying the delightful drives through the forest roads, and report many deer and partridges seen.

The following party of ladies from Gardiner, who were motoring through this part of the state, spent several days here this week: Mrs. E. L. Lincoln, Mrs. F. E. McCausland, Mrs. W. C. Atkins and Mrs. A. W. Strout.

Mrs. Robert Mallory of Port Chester, N. Y., accompanied by her sister, Miss Holmes, spent the week end here on their way to join their party, who are on their annual autumn fishing and hunting trip at Kennebago.

Theodore DeWitt of New York is spending the last week of the season at this hotel on his return from Kennebago.

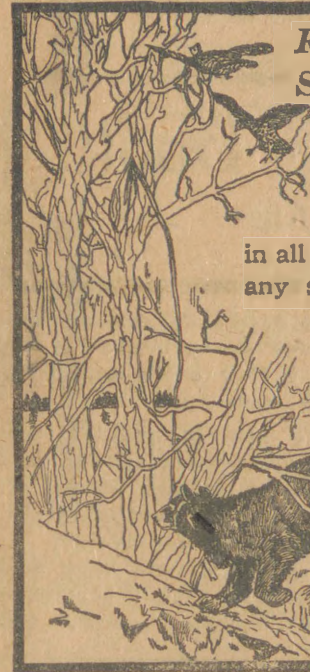

Return After 20 Years' Absence.

After nearly 20 years' absence J. S. Murphy of Boston has greatly enjoyed a short stay here. Accompanied by Mrs. J. Murphy of Brookline, E. W. Durkee and daughters Miss Durkee and Miss Helen Durkee, the party who are touring in their automobile, came as far as the Balsams, and from there took the trip through the chain of lakes, spending several days here and today returned to the Balsams.

F. W. Emery, the Boston angler, is persistently casting the fly and although his kill has brought many a fine fish from his hiding the past week, and a 4½-lb. salmon, other

THE SEASON FOR BIG GAME SHOOTING IN MAINE

Is rapidly approaching and the prospects for a most successful season in that mecca for all deer hunters, the Rangeley and Dead River Region was never better.

big ones may be landed before he reels in next Monday night and all hope as soon as the ice goes out next spring to welcome Mr. Emery and hear his hearty laugh as old friends are greeted.

Will Wait for Season's Close.

Frederick Skinner is another who will not reel in until the season closes and although his wonderful fish record is read by nobody except himself, he took three record salmon last Saturday on the fly, and not long ago a 7¾-pounder he reeled in, carefully weighed and returned to the lake. Next Tuesday morning Mr. Skinner with his boat, the "Troll," will make the last trip over the lake to South Rangeley station for this season, returning home that day. "Good luck, a pleasant winter and a" hope to greet you as soon as the fishing commences next spring," say many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Barber of Rockville, Conn., are having a great time fishing this week. Mr. Barber has a 6½ lb. salmon and one 3¼ lbs., to his credit and Mrs. Barber one 4 lbs.

The happy trio of fishermen: James E. Reynolds, Capt. John H. Palmer and Judge Geo. Sils of East Orange, N. J., are still working full time and the 4½-lb. salmon the Capt. reeled in this week, is a small one beside the big fellow that got away. The Captain can not be comforted for on Monday he hooked a salmon and Ed Hoar, who saw the fish, declared: "I knew there were big salmon in this lake but I never saw such a large one," and the salmon is free after helping the fishing tackle business by taking hook and line to the other part of the lake.

Returned from Europe.

Francis Shaw of Boston, who has been traveling in Europe this summer and did not open his beautiful summer home on the lake shore, has returned and spent several days here this week.

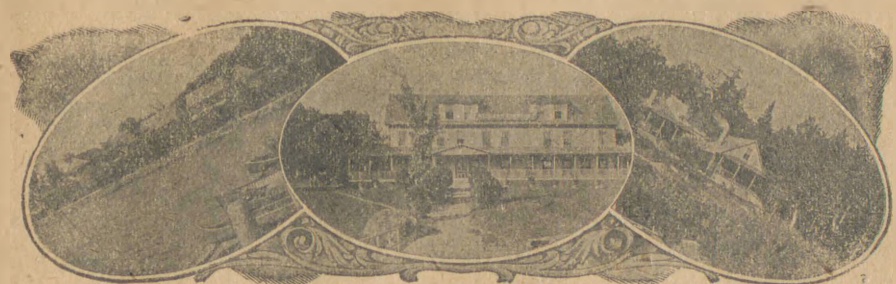

Mr. and Mrs. Dale D. Butler and Dr. H. W. Davis of Middletown, Ct., who were motoring through the mountains, also the following New Yorkers in their touring cars have tarried her a short time this week: Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Frost, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Muser and all report the scenery through this region more beautiful than described.

Mrs. C. H. Wood and daughter, Miss Addie Wood, who have been spending the season here, return to their home in Buffalo, N. Y. next Tuesday and will be accompanied by Miss Rachel Marble, who will be their guest for part of the October days.

R. E. E. Beatley of Portland, a well known Boston & Maine R. R. conductor accompanied by his wife, is enjoying the last week of the season at this hotel.

Marlin Big Game REPEATING RIFLES

The Special Smokeless Steel barrel, rifled deep on the Ballard system, creates perfect combustion, develops highest velocity and hurls the bullet with utmost accuracy and mightiest killing impact.

The mechanism is direct-acting, strong, simple and perfectly adjusted. It never clogs. The protecting wall of solid steel between your head and cartridge keeps rain, sleet, snow and all foreign matter from getting into the action. The side ejection throws shells away from line of sight and allows instant repeat shots always.

Built in perfect proportion throughout, in many high power calibres, it is a quick handling, powerful, accurate gun for all big game.

Every hunter should know all the Marlin characteristics. The Marlin Firearms Co. Send for our free catalog. Enclose stamps for postage. 33 Willow Street New Haven, Conn.

Fly Rod's Note Book

BY FLY ROD

J. Warren Harper, the Hartford, Conn., poet, who regretfully said good bye to Upper Dam this week wrote the following lines the morning he left:

For the Colony,
Aufwiedensehn,
"Until we meet again."
Aufwiedensehn, perchance farewell
I know not which the word must be;
Shall we again each other see?
I do not know, I cannot tell,
But now we're met and now we part Like passing ships upon the main Farewell may echo in my heart
But hope shall cry—Aufwiedensehn.

When I reached Upper Dam Monday, I was greeted by friends with "Oh why did you not come to our party for there never was anything so gay at Upper Dam?"

"Do tell me about it," I said and learned that last Thursday was a gala day.

In the afternoon Mrs. S. H. Palmer of Milford, Penn., gave a bridge party at her camp. After the prize had been given came a surprise, when the Upper Dam "jigger" with Lorenzo handling the reins of the "high stepper" appeared at the door.

Seated in easy chairs thereon were two New York ladies, Mary Carey in full costume accompanied by Mrs. Van Dusen.

Mary's costume was most beautiful and picturesque, dating back to the 1830 period. The old lavender bonnet, bedecked with natural flowers and the dear sweet face under it, with the white curls falling gracefully over the shoulders and the unique costume formed a picture long to be remembered.

Lorenzo helped Mary to alight and one by one deposited her numerous bundles and bandboxes. As she was not expected, great was the surprise as she seated herself with knitting work and salt bottle just in time for the refreshments.

Another surprise was waiting as this was the birthday of Mrs. Geo. Brown of Germantown, Penn., and a huge birthday cake in the shape of a large doughnut decorated with candles, was placed before her and each guest blew out a candle expressing a good wish for the lady.

Then a "Jack Horner Pie" containing a gift from all present and amid shouts of laughter, package after package was opened containing most appropriate offerings.

As the goodbyes were being said it was announced that "the carriage was waiting for Mary Carey," and swish, swish of the lines, casting the fly from a dozen boats, broke the stillness, as the darkness came over the pool.

Now and then some one exclaimed, as a big fish rose close to the boats or exchanged a few words. The big mink swam by, the bats circled over head, when out of the stillness Brown loudly cried, "Van, Van, my God, I am bit in my leg by that (Upper) Dam mink or something. Call Dr. Wister quick." Van began to reel in and found his drop fly was fast set in Brown's leg!

I had a most delightful sail across Umbagog lake recently with Capt. True Durkee and we noticed a flock of ducks in the marsh grass, where wild rice has been planted. A big eagle circled over head. A pair of strange birds flew by which Captain told me were the Comrant, a southern bird not often seen as far north.

Capt. Durkee and his wife run a set of camps at the mouth of Cambridge river near Upton and are soon to entertain a party of hunters. Mrs. Durkee opened the hunting season on Umbagog by shooting seven ducks.

As the little boat Umbagog made its way up the lake not long ago Capt. Durkee noticed something swimming beyond one of the islands. They turned the boat in that direction and were soon close to a big there stood the wheelbarrow with two of the most popular gentlemen as horse and driver and she was with much dignity safely escorted to her camp amid the shouts of the merry party

It was quiet on the pool just at twilight the other evening. Only the sound of the breeze through the trees, the music of the water dashing over the dam, and the swish, bull moose. There was a small camera and one of the passengers took a number of "shots." They watched the huge creature as he landed on the New Hampshire shore and several times after that was seen.

It has since then been reported and no doubt is a fact that a moose was shot and left dead on the shore of Great Diamond pond, and if there is a law in New Hampshire that protects moose at this season it should be enforced and the one who killed the moose should pay the penalty, for if our laws are not kept our fish and our game will soon be extinct.

The Red Spot club on Umbagog lake had the flag flying telling that the New York, Boston and Philadelphia members were spending the September days there.

Saltire Lodge owned by A. L. Salt of Summit, N. J. is closed. Mr. and Mrs. Salt and son after a stay of several weeks returned home a few days ago.

Ben Bennett, the guide who takes care of the Lodge, was putting the place in order for closing.

STEVENS' NOTES.

At the recent Market Rasen Open Meeting, London, England, Stevens rifles won the Lincolnshire Miniature Rifle association championship gold medal, and the Turnour Challenge trophy. They also scored 3d and 5th places in the Open Championship and won the 50 yards Rapid competition.

Three highest scores of 100 were made at 100 yards two of which were scored with Stevens rifles. In addition, these rifles won several minor prizes.

Spencer Lake Camps, Gerard, Me., Sept. 16.

At the head of a beautiful lake are situated the comfortable cabins of the Spencer Lake Camps at Gerard, Me. Mountains and hills enclose it, rugged rocky ones that have been devastated by forest fires, some covered with hard wood, which means glorious colored trees in the early fall and others with spruce and pine, the best of all the forest.

At these camps are gathered enthusiastic sportsmen and sportswomen from all parts of the country.

Every morning you see groups walking through forest trails to get fishing at nearby, sometimes far away ponds, streams or lakes, fishing tackle on their backs and in their hands, in September, a gun for duck shooting or partridges. Canoes and row boats leave the shore and at noon there is seldom more than a handful in the main camp dining pair of pumps gave supper an extra thrill. After it was over the tables were moved to the porch, wax put on the floor, and after many queer footings from the camp horn, the dance was on. Round dances first, a Virginia Reel, Going to Jerusalem, created such delight that it was again played later in the evening. Everyone in the camps were there, nearly everyone tripping lightly to the tuneful strains of the violin and the one-band man.

Mrs. Armstrong and Billy Wilson gave a clever clog and Billy gave one by himself.

An odd shaped pink and white striped flannel donkey caused a diversion; everyone was blind folded and pinned pink flannel tails all over people and walls. Billy Wilson won the first prize and was voted by all the "belle" of the evening. All the guides were light on their feet, and absolutely untiring. The Dan Tucker started the ball and a good rousing Boston Fancy ended it. From beginning to end it was a great success and not until the clock showed twelve did the dancers weary, but still enthusiastic, leave. Lights for a few minutes once more twinkled in all the cabins, and then went quickly out. There was moonlight on the lake and a faint rustle among the trees and people dreaming of gay music, and the Portland Fancy.

We all have William H. Bean, our good proprietor, to thank for our delightful evening and quite perfect dance.

"Did I enjoy my trip? Well, I certainly did enjoy every moment of it. The comradeship of the athletes of our team was a continual pleasure and our relations with the teams of other nations were almost invariably of the most friendly character. We were treated royally everywhere. It was an inspiration to see our boys get away with so much of the program and I'm happy to be able to bring back part of the medals and to have added a few points to the American teams' total."

In the September American Magazine Stewart Edward White writes a most interesting article on lion hunting. It is based on experience he recently had on a year's hunt in Africa, during which he saw over seventy lions. An extract from the article follows:

The city of Biddeford, which but

The city of Biddeford, which but a short time since, like many other places in Maine, passed through the period of anxiety and annoyance consequent upon the summer flight of the brown-tail moths, is, according to the Biddeford Record, up against trouble once again, good and hard. This time the cause of the trouble is not due to moths or anything that flies through the air (on wings) but to that little black and white animal called the skunk. Skunks are known by several names—to naturalists he is known as Mephitis Americana, while the Abenaki Indians called him Seganku, but as a skunk by any other name would smell the same perhaps the common name will be just as well as the others. In almost any place, city or village, skunks are found in greater or less numbers, but while as a rule they are nocturnal in their habits, the Biddeford skunks do not seem to confine their activities to the night time, and therein lies the trouble. The Record says that up on Elm street the skunks wander about at any old time, and with the most charming abandon, so that people hesitate to open their doors for fear of finding a skunk curled up on the piazza or steps and basking in the warm sunlight. Skunk parades in broad daylight are said to be common on Elm street and the streets adjoining, anywhere from three to five of the animals being seen at a time and Ex-Mayor Horgan is said to have witnessed from his veranda, Sunday evening a moonlight parade in which Mrs. Skunk and several skunklets participated. The animals came out by the house and passed into the darkness beyond. It is not known that the city council will take the matter up, but the presence of so many skunks in town and their appearance at all hours, has got the people guessing, especially in the vicinity of Elm street.

Many Birds This Year.

Ora Willis Knight of Portland, who is conceded to be the best living authority on Maine birds, has contended many times that there was no apparent reason, save the greed

More as a technicality than as a fact of importance Mr. Knight contends that the Maine ruffed grouse was not of the same species as the wild partridges found in Massachusetts and further south. He identifies the Maine birds as the Bonasa umbellus, variety Canadensis, which has penciled markings of a lighter color, as if following the rule of most birds which winter at the far north, the Canadensis variety were fading out in coloration, even as the arctic ptarmagin has faded during the passing centuries since the glacial epoch.

Well Known Bird Hunters.

From Hon. Fred R. Page of Bucksport, who has roamed extensively in the woods of Orland, Penobscot and Bluehill, Hon. John F. Sprague of Dover, president of the Maine Sportsmen's Fish and Game Protective association, E. M. Blanding, Guy Peavay and other partridge hunters of Bangor from nearly all sections of eastern Maine, come cheering reports that ruffed grouse are going to be very abundant during the coming hunting season, which opened on Sept. 15.

PICNIC ENJOYED

Water Sports and an Out Door
Lunch Features of the Day.

(Special to Maine Woods).
Mountain View House, Sept. 24.
This is an ideal autumn day and everyone seems to be enjoying himself. Three parties are off for automobile trips, others are driving over the hills, a number are improving the last few days of fishing, a party of young folks are playing tennis while on the piazza others are enjoying a chat, or a book, "but I must spend this lovely afternoon packing for we go back to New York tomorrow," said one of the ladies with a sigh.

Yes, the season has come to a close but over 50 remain here for the most of this week.

were accompanied by Stewart Rowlett left as far as Boston.

Picnic on Bog Island.

On Monday a picnic was given in honor of Miss Curtis on Bog Island.
E. A. Pierce and Stewart Rowlett in the motor boats, Hackensack and Naughty Girl took the party over the lake. There was great fun canoe-ing up the stream, fishing, etc. At noon "the cooks," Messrs. Lilly and Rowlett, cooked the fish, made "real good flapjacks," hot coffee, etc. In the afternoon there was a game of cards, the party including Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. E.
A. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Row-lett, Stewart Rowlett, Mr. Holt, Miss Curtis and Mr. Lilly returned to the hotel in time for supper.

On Monday evening, coming by automobile via the White Mountains, the following "annual comers" joined their friends in the big cottage, Messrs. M. B. Damon, F. I. Nichols, of Fitchburg, Mass., F. J. Pierce and I.

S. Ames of Gardner, Mass. There guides are Al Sprague and Frank Harris. The party never report their catch until the last day, but a 5½-lb. salmon that took the fly I. N.
Damon cast for him was game for sometime, and baked in cream made a fine supper for the party Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Liebman of New York on their return from several weeks at Loon lake made a short stay here this week.

Dr. and Mrs. C. R. C. Borden, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Twombly and Frank A. Russell of Brookline, Mass., who in two automobiles came from Bingham Monday afternoon, spent part of the week here.

The following party, who are in camp on the lake shore, are often guests here: Dr. Lucy Jane O'Connell, Miss S. G. Doyle of Lewiston, and Miss Freda Dolton and Miss the lakes were here for a short stay this week.

Wm. C. Pate and daughter, Miss Pate of Brooklyn, N. Y., who were here last season are spending the last ten days of the season here.

Miss Fannie M. Hubbard of Chestnut Hill, Mass., has been spending the week here.

Lumberman Bird Hunting.

E. F. Gihlerson, the well known lumberman, accompanied by his wife, and Jas. O'Neil of Portland, coming by auto spent several days here this week and are now bird hunting in the Dead River region.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Porter of Lynn, Mass., who have been at Camp Marion on Dodge pond for a month, returned home Sunday and were met here by the following party from Lynn, who will enjoy life at the camp for two or three weeks: Mr.
and Mrs. Charles Irving Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Foster, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Janvier.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Clark of New York, E. H. Bedell of Newark, N. J., Alexander T. Martin of Germantown, Penn., came this week for a stay of two weeks and as the weather is fine and the people continue to arrive, the prospect is there will be a good October business.

Capt. C. W. Howard of Portland, who for many years owned and ran steamboats on these lakes was greeted by many old friends on his arrival here Saturday. Mrs. Howard accompanied her husband and they called on friends in this section.

New Yorkers in Camp.

One of the camps is taken for the last week of the season by Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Jaffee, Nate Leavitt and Miss J. Wise of New York, who came in their touring car and are visiting the Rangeleys for the first time.

A number of parties are to leave here for home next Monday and as the weather is now warm and pleasant they leave with regret.

NEW YORKER HIGH
LINE AT UPPER DAM

E. F. Van Dusen Has Nearly 30
Record Fish to His Credit.

(Special to Maine Woods).
Upper Dam, Sept. 23, 1912.

Today quite a party regretfully said good bye until another season. Dr.
and Mrs. James W. Wister and family of Philadelphia; Mrs. F. R.
Baker and family of New York, left at noon by a special boat to Bemis. The guests all went down to the wharf to send their good wishes.

Mrs. Baker has for days with her guide, Clayton Swett, cast the fly over the pool, but not a record fish did she land.

There are plenty of big trout and salmon in the pool that are daily seen as they swim around and often jump out of water and over the flies as if to remind the fishermen that they are there.

To tempt them to take a fly is quite another thing.

E. F. Van Dusen of New York is still high line, as he has nearly 30 record fish to his credit this season and as he does not reel in until sunset next Monday night there is time to add to his number.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Dusen, who came in June from their home by automobile Mr. Van Dusen driving his own car, plan to return to New York some time the first week in October.

Thomas L. Barber of Framingham, Mass., who has fished the pool more years than anyone here, has this week caught a handsome 5 lb. 7 oz.
salmon and a 3-lb. 8-oz. trout, just to prove he can handle his rod with as much skill as ever.

S. H. Palmer of Milford, Penn. has had to give place to his son, George V. Palmer, who is this week taking the honors in the pool. Sunday the young man caught a 3-lb. 3-oz. salmon and today he has already caught five salmon. Two of them were record fish weighing 3-lbs. 12oz., 4 lbs.
6 oz. and the other three that weighed over two pounds each have a chance to be 10-pounders, if they have learned not to take a fly. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer and family plan to return home the first of the week.

The fly fishing at Beaver pond is reported to be excellent and I too, and Geo. B. Bearce of Lewiston who is at his camp there, has shot judge the partridge hunting is good a number.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. White of Boston arrived Saturday for a two weeks' stay.

W. H. Woodworth of Norwich, Ct. who was here the first of the season, has returned for the last week of fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Fair, who have been here for a number of weeks, start for their home in Havana, Cuba, on Sunday.

Harry Taylor left for Los Angeles.

Chas. F. Proctor of Boston, Mass., arrived Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Koch and family, namely: Joel Koch, Miss Ruth Koch and Master Robert Koch of New York, are making their second visit to the landing and will stay in camp for the rest of the week.

Henry O. Stanley of Dixfield, Me. is with us once more and is still the same enthusiastic fisherman as of yore.

S. G. Doyle and M. M. Clifford of Lewiston, Me., were here for Sunday.

The Misses Z. and F. Dalton of Rangeley, Sept. 25—The $10,000 cottage of H. P. Smith, Commonwealth Ave., Boston, was burned to the ground this morning. The furniture on the first floor was saved.

Mr. Smith, who is a wealthy re-village at the time. Mrs. Smith and one maid were in the house when the fire started about the chimney.

Two of the maids had left on the early boat for Boston.

The cottage is located about three miles from this village on the lake shore.

Upper Sandusky, Ohio. — "Three years ago I was married and went to housekeeping. I was not feeling well and could hardly drag myself along. I had such tired feelings, my back ached, my sides ached, I had bladder trouble awfully bad, and I could not eat or sleep. I had headaches, too, and became almost a nervous wreck. My doctor told me to go to a hospital. I did not like that idea very well, so, when I saw your advertisement in a paper, I wrote to you for advice, and have done as you told me. I have taken Lydia E. SPORTING NOTES.

E. H. Archibald of the Archibald Wheel Co., Lawrence, Mass., is on a moose hunting trip to New Brunswick. Mr. Archibald has limited his stay to two weeks, during which time he expects to slay one of the kings of the forest.

The Transcript office has been doing some signs, to be placed in groves and woodland, prohibiting shooting on the grounds. It seems that gunners have been approaching too near dwellings for the owners to feel safe, and they are taking these precautions in self preservation. The law having gone off gray squirrels, several have been after these animals. The Transcript would call attention to all that it is contrary to law to shoot grays within the limits of the town, and is punishable by a heavy fine. As the state has direct supervision over this, and as a special officer, we understand, will be sent to various places to look up cases where the law is broken, it will be well for local hunters to bear this in mind—Old York Transcript.

MYSTERY OF THE GAMY SALMON

Where Do They Go When They Leave the Rivers for the Sea? Scientists Puzzled.

James Donohue of Rockland, commissioner of sea and shore fisheries, who has been in Bangor attending the annual meeting of the state board of trade, is enthusiastic concerning the future of Bangor's salmon pool, where he believes the fishing is to improve greatly in future years.

"It will offer opportunities for sport which cannot be duplicated anywhere else on the American Atlantic seaboard," he said Friday.

Com'r. Donohue also thinks that the salmon fishing in the Denny's river near Dennyville in Washington county will regain something of its old time excellence.

"But few Maine people appreciate what is being done for us by the United States fish hatchery at Orland," said Com'r. Donohue to a Bangor Commercial reporter Friday. "If a few changes are made in the salmon laws affecting the Penobscot river, there is little doubt in my mind, but what the fish will continue to increase here greatly and the fishing will improve wonderfully. More salmon were taken in Penobscot river weirs during 1911 than has been the case for 20 years. I haven't had the totals for the present season figured up yet, but they will be ready in a week or two, and I am confident that the summer will be found to have been an unusually good one."

Entire Prohibition of Netting.

The principal change which Com'r. Donohue advocates in the existing laws, as affecting the Penobscot river salmon, is an entire prohibition of netting, which is now permitted during certain days in the week. In the opinion of the commissioner, it is a great mistake to permit the netting of the fish under any conditions. They gather in the pool below the dam waiting for a chance to get through the fish way on their way to the spawning grounds above and should be allowed uninterrupted progress, both above and below the dam.

Com'r. Donohue said that 1,100 salmon had been stripped at the Orland hatchery this season, an increase of several hundred over any previous season. The old fish are afterward liberated; the eggs hatched and, after the young fish have matured sufficiently, they are taken up river and released. They remain there a year before they seek the open sea each year, to return again in the spring.

It's Not Proven.

Com'r. Donohue told of an interesting experiment which is being conducted at the Orland fish hatchery with a view to discovering whether or not the sea and landlocked salmon are really the same fish. Three sea salmon have been kept in a small fresh water enclosure and fed for the past three years. They are now extremely emaciated and it appears probable that they will soon die. In the opinion of Com'r. Donohue this has by no means proven, however, that the sea salmon will not live indefinitely in fresh water and that they are distinct from the landlocked variety.

"It seems to me," he said in commenting upon the matter Friday, "that it is hardly to be expected that the sea salmon would thrive under these conditions. They have been fed artificially and their diet has not varied and it is not strange that they should have gotten out of condition."

Mystery of the Salmon.

Just where the salmon go when they leave the rivers and seek the ocean, is something which has never been determined to the satisfaction of the scientists. It is a remarkable fact that no salmon are ever taken by deep sea fishermen. Com'r. Donohue said Friday that he was of the opinion that the salmon sought deep water, probably off the Labrador coast. He believes that they do not like excessively cold water—despite the fact that some spend the winter in the river under the ice—and that, as soon as the river water begins to get cold with the coming of fall, they seek the deep sea where the temperature of the water is not greatly different.

"All of this is of course, conjecture," said he, "and there is no real data on the subject upon which to base an opinion."

Counting weirs used for both salmon and herring, there were over 100 on the Penobscot and its tributaries last June. This is by far the largest number on any river in the state.

PROTECT THE BIRDS.

Vermont Bird Expert Says Barn Swallows Help Milk Supply.

The following effective briefs are from an address by C. D. Howe, state ornithologist of Vermont:—

Each individual bird is working all the time to preserve vegetable life from the depredations of insects. Birds eat the seeds of many injurious weeds that infest the growing crops. They should be protected and cared for in every possible way. The barn swallow has a direct relation to the milk supply, for it feeds upon the flies that are about the

GOT GOOD VIEW OF MOOSE FROM TREE

Leona Wilbur, of Waltham, recently had an experience with a bull moose which does not often befall a man within sight of his house.

Mr. Wilbur had been down to Webb's pond one day recently looking for ducks, and was returning across his pasture. While in some small growth he saw a large bull moose coming his way and at a pace a little faster than Mr. Wilbur relished. Thinking he might be in the way of the moose, and also, to get a better view of the beast, not being in the least frightened, of course, he immediately climbed into the nearest tree.

The moose looked at him with some surprise and probably amusement, as he passed close to the tree, and after going a short distance, turned around and came back towards the tree. Mr. Wilbur naturally climbed a little higher to get a better view, for he could not shoot the animal, as it was close time on moose, and then his gun was down on the ground, surrounded by large moose tracks.

After the moose had surveyed the situation for some time apparently out of much curiosity, perhaps because he had not seen a man up a tree before, he went on his way, and was soon out of sight, leaving Mr. Wilbur to go home to his supper, but without much appetite.

Mr. Wilbur says that close time on moose, number four shot and a big bull moose so near you can almost reach him, is a bad combination, but as soon as open season comes, he is going to hit the trail with a rifle.

Maine Woods, the only newspaper of its kind in the world.

At the beginning a strenuous attempt was made to save the herons and especially the white egrets. Egrets formerly were scattered through the United States in large numbers in all suitable localities from the Hudson River to Oregon and from Florida to California. The efforts made to protect them came so late that notwithstanding all that could be done to save them they continued to decrease until about three years ago William Dutcher, President of the National association of Audubon societies, leaned to the belief that nothing could save them from extermination. The plume hunters had killed three wardens, "shot out" the heronries that the wardens were employed to protect and had managed to shoot up other heronries while the wardens were temporarily absent until probably only a few hundred birds were left in the United States and these were scattered far and wide. When Mr. Dutcher was suddenly stricken down, T. Gilbert Pearson, Secretary of the National association gave up the attempt to protect the egrets against the Indians and desperadoes of Southern Florida and he and the directors of the association turned their energies toward other states in the attempt to save the few birds left.

Thus far the enterprise has been successful beyond expectation. Last year about three thousand egrets were known to be in existence and this year there are at least five thousand in known colonies scattered through the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf states.

Protection in the South Atlantic States was so successful last summer that from twelve to twenty egrets appeared in Eastern Massachusetts and remained here the greater part of two months. No such number has been seen here within the memory of the oldest inhabitant, and it is reported that a few are here again

RULES FOR THOSE WHO ARE CAMPING

Some Things Not To Do When Enjoying the Delights of the Woods and Lakes.

No white or "biled" collars allowed in camp. Any guest discovered wearing one will be dealt with severely.

High heeled shoes are tabooed. Any lady found wearing such articles in camp will be voted "no lady." When in Rome do as the Romans do.

Do not "talk shop." Who the blazes cares to hear that you cleared up ten thousand last year in stocks, or that the dry goods business is bum.

Remember that a cheerful face is worth everything in a camp. It has a happy influence on the other guests. Therefore, smile, darn you, smile!

Honeymooners are hereby warned that a canoe is a dangerous spooning place—if the lake is rough.

Don't shoot around the camp promiscuously like. You might hit your best friend.

Don't forget that fish and game hogs are seldom popular.

If you want to eat, walk. Walk anyway! Old Camper.

UNIFORM LAWS IMPRACTICABLE

New York, Sept. 10.—Returning delegates from the biennial meeting of the National association of game commissioners recently held in Denver, arrived in this city today. They

BIRD SHOOTING IS NOW ON IN FULL SWING IN MAINE, A SKETCH FROM LIFE.

SAVING GULLS AND EGRETS.

Efforts Being Made by the Audubon Society to Save These Sea Birds

Twenty years ago the gulls and terns of the Atlantic sea-board were in imminent danger of extinction by the milliners' agents. Hundreds of thousands of these birds had been slaughtered in the breeding season and some species had almost disappeared.

Abbot H. Thayer started a subscription fund to pay wardens to protect the birds during the breeding season, and then the National association of Audubon Societies took over the work. Under the care of this organization the birds have increased wonderfully in numbers. When the work was begun there were on the New England Coast only about 20 pairs of laughing gulls which bred on Muskeget Island. Now there are more than a thousand there and they are spreading along the coast to the Gulf of Maine. The increase of the herring gulls and the terns under this protection has been phenomenal. Even the least tern or sea swallow, which was nearing extinction in the East is increasing.

This year. The association has succeeded in securing the passage of laws in many states making the sale of the plumage of these birds illegal and if this work is sustained financially the public sale of the plumes will be stopped throughout North America.

The egrets are fast being exterminated in very part of the world where they exist, and if they can be protected here the time may come when the United States alone of all the countries in the world can boast of living examples of these beautiful species.

FIRST SHOT OF SEASON.

Hit Or Miss Club Average 40 Creedmore Count For Eight Men.

(Special to Maine Woods).

Livermore Falls, Sept. 13.

The Hit or Miss Rifle club met at their 200 yard range Tuesday Sept. 10, for a shoot, the first time this season. Eight members were present. S. S. Locklin was high gun. The average was 40 creedmore count for the eight men. They will meet once a week for the rest of the season.

declare the convention to have been a most notable one in that nearly every state of the Union was officially represented, and the most advanced grounds were taken in reference to the preservation of wild life. Plans were laid for extending more absolute protection to the Elk, Antelope, Prairie Chicken, wild fowl and birds of plume, many of which are threatened with extinction.

Much surprise was expressed that the association should adopt resolutions giving it their opinion that game laws uniform in character in all the states would be impracticable.

"On one point, however, we found all the commissioners a unit," said T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary of the National Association of Audubon societies. "Without a dissenting voice they voted to urge all the states to adopt the New York Audubon law, which prohibits the sale of the feathers of wild birds for millinery purposes."

The Game Commissioners, through their permanent committees, will give much attention to this subject during the coming year, and will also urge the further establishment of state and national wild bird and animal preserves.

BIRD SHOOTING GOOD AT BEMIS

Railroad Men Report Many Flocks of Birds---Other Bemis Notes.

(Special to Maine Woods).
Bemis, Me., Sept. 21.
Almost every day some one catches a good fish from the wharf. The little boys after school hours drop the hook and some fine strings of trout and salmon are taken to their homes.

Good Partridge Hunting.

The partridge hunting is better than for several years. The railroad men as they come and go over the track report flocks often seen.

Capt. Fred C. Barker is not getting ready for the coming winter as the Birches and Barker both close Oct. 1. Bemis will be open all winter.

The winter house has a crew of workmen getting ready for the fall and winter travel. There are new bath rooms being put in and other improvements made, and as soon as the season closes the crew will move into winter quarters.

Never Had Better Fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Liddell of New York returned home this week after their season in camp here. They were here for a month and never found the fishing better. Several 3-lb. salmon and a 4-lb. trout came to their net.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Squairs of New York, who have been coming here for years, were here for a week this month.

Everett Campbell is the new railroad station agent and if one thinks that there is nothing to do at Bemis they should see the big loads of trunks and the piles of express that are daily handled, while the telephone and telegraph messages are some times 40 and 50 a day.

Those Who Returned Home.

Now is the time when the people, who have been in camp for the summer, take dinner here on their way home, and the following have registered here the past few days:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gottgetren, New York; John H. White, Lewiston; H. S. McKee, Beverly Farms, Mass.; Capt. and Mrs. E. F. Gale, Exeter, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Russell, Manchester, Mass.; Miss Josephine R. Bates, Cambridge, Mass.; L. B. Wood, Buffalo, N. Y.; S. A. M. Taggart, Portland; E. A. Campbell, Stickney, N. B.; Mr. and Mrs. Ed. W. Jones, Salem, Mass.; Mrs. R. H. Bissell, Elliot S. Benedict, New York; Mrs. W. B. French, Brookline, Mass.; G. G. Gates, W. M. Kidder, R. F. Dillingham, C. S. Dillingham, Dixfield.

REMARKABLE STEVENS PERFORMANCES.

Mr. Guy Ward with a No. 525 Stevens Repeater scored: 100 x 100 at Paducah, Ky., Aug. 28, 1912; 246 x 250 at Paducah, Ky., Sept. 2, 1912; 125 x 125 at Princeton, Ky., Sept. 3, 1912; 24 x 24 (12 pair) at Princeton, Ky., Sept. 3, 1912; total 495 x 499; 272 straight unfinished run.

SPORTING NOTES.

D. W. Wright of Augusta went hunting recently in the vicinity of Malta hill, and bagged four partridges two woodcocks, and two gray squirrels. The birds were shot with the assistance of Ernest Wright's bird dog, which is one of the best in the city.

CHILL IN AIR IS HINT OF AUTUMN

Half Hundred Guests Still at the Birches---Camps Close October 1.

(Special to Maine Woods).

The Birches, Sept. 17.
There is a chill in the air that reminds one that the autumn days have come while over the mountain side the bright colors mingle with the green of the evergreen trees.

There are still 50 guests but many of them are busy packing, for each day now until October, when the camps will close, parties will say good bye until another year.

These warm days with clear sky and sunshine are all the more appreciated after the many rainy and cloudy ones.

For several days the following party, U. C. Crosby and daughter, Mrs. L. E. Wyman of New York, Samuel Anderson and daughter, Miss Anderson of Philadelphia with Henry Barker and Will Lufkin for guides, have been on a camping trip over to West Richardson pond, Mrs. Wyman was "high line" as she caught a 3-lb. trout on the fly. The company saw a number of deer and had a fine time over in the open.

Tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Kennedy and daughters, Miss Olive and Miss Marion, who for the summer have enjoyed life and added much to the social life of the island, leave for New York. This is the twenty-second year Mr. Kennedy has been an annual comer to the Rangeleys and to the Birches since the first camps were built. Many friends unite in wishing them a pleasant winter and hope they will return to Camp Mayflower early next season.

Mrs. I. B. Valle and son, Paul B. Valle of Philadelphia, who have been at home in Lake View camp for several months also leave on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Jenckes, of Providence, R. I. arrived last Thursday and are spending their honeymoon in Camp Clover. This camp has been taken by several bridal couples this season and life in a log cabin is quite the fad for the newly weds this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Mitchell of Boston were here for the week end. Two New York ladies, Miss Mary Sanford and Miss Helen Phelps Stokes are spending the last two weeks in camp here.

Miss Susan W. Nice and sister, Miss Katherine S. Nice, of Ogontz, Penn., who are at Lakewood camps, were here Thursday calling on friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Briggs of Johnston R. I., Allen J. Chase and daughter, Miss Ada L. Chase, of Boston, made a short stay here this week en route for home.

Mrs. J. B. Vreeland of Morristown, N. J., and Miss M. A. Currier of Newark, N. J. spent Sunday here.

Homer Platten of New York keeps Bob Martin, his guide, busy taking trips over the country, and no young man ever had a better time in the woods of Maine than this lad.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Gardiner of Boston are today breaking up camp, as they go home this week, but "we have everything all ready to come back early next summer," said Mr. Gardiner.

Miss Olive and Marion Kennedy entertained the young people last Thursday evening at the casino in honor of Keating Johnson of Rosemont, Penn., who started homeward Friday morning.

This has been for the many guests at the Birches, a most delightful season and the rain has not dampened their pleasure, for all have had a merry time and nearly all of the cabins are already engaged for another season.

BULL MOOSE IS A BORN FIGHTER

Portland Man Says King of the Forest Does Not Show the White Feather.

Dr. Long, the animal book writer, said the other day that the bull moose was a coward and four flusher, and thereby avenged himself on T. R. who named Long "a nature faker." Dr. Hornaday, who has sought animals for zoological purposes in every nook and corner of the globe, says differently in the following article.—Grand Rapids Press.)

William Temple Hornaday, director of the New York Zoo, says:

"The bull moose is the most colossal deer that ever trod the face of the earth. He is the biggest and strongest and bravest of his race, living or extinct. And he is the hardest, too, for he survives where other deer die out.

"A bull moose is curious. That is why the birch bark horn, blown in imitation of the cow's call, sometimes gets him into trouble with the hunters. The bull isn't deceived into believing that it's real moose talk—he wants to find out what it really is."

Now I understand that Dr. Long, in his book, said that a pack of wolves chased a caribou, caught it, and one of the wolves bit through the caribou's shoulder into its heart and killed it. Now that is why Mr. Roosevelt called Mr. Long "a nature faker."

For T. R. said he did not want his children to read such articles (from supposed authority) and believe them true, any more than school studies from such impossibilities.

I think Dr. Hornaday settles the statement of Mr. Long that "the bull moose was a coward and a four-flusher."

My old guide criticized Mr. Roosevelt for calling Mr. Long "a nature faker." I was quite sure the guide had not read Mr. Long's book. So I said, "You helped to exterminate and drive the caribou out of the state of Maine," to which he acknowledged he killed several. I said, "If I told you that a pack of wolves caught a caribou and a wolf bit through the caribou's shoulder into its heart and killed it, what would you call me?" I would think you were a d— l—." "Well," I said, "that is why Mr. Roosevelt called Mr. Long 'a nature faker.'" Then he said, "Mr. Roosevelt did not use a term strong enough."

I know from experience as an old hunter, that the bull moose is no coward for, meeting one in the woods road, with nothing but a small revolver and knife or me, I shouted at the moose thinking to frighten him, and he soon had me up a tree. (Just like the Boston Democrats in New Brunswick recently.)

Another bull moose that I mortally wounded with my first rifle shot charged me immediately and I was much relieved when I dropped him dead, not 25 feet from me, with the second shot. I advise not to monkey with a bull moose.

Very truly,
S. W. Peregrine.

REVOLVER SHOOTING AT SEA GIRT.

Because of no shoot at Camp Perry this year the Sea Girt tournament just closed was of more than usual interest. There was a greater entry at the Revolver Section and high scores were the result.

Dr. J. H. Snook of Columbus, O., was the "shooting star," winning four out of seven revolver matches and the Grand Aggregate, with E. G. Reising (Conn.) and H. I. Ekerold and A. P. Lane (New York) one revolver match each to their credit. Dr. Snook's shooting was phenomenal; in the All Comers Squadded Rapid Fire match he won with 124 out of 150 points, the shooting being done at 50 yards on Standard American target, with a time limit of ten seconds for each string of five shots. This is claimed to be a record for this class of match work. In the "Any Revolver" match, Dr. Snook, as in all the other matches won by him, used a plain sighted, regulation pull Colt Army Special revolver against target arms with light pulls and adjustable sights, and the same type of revolver was also used by Reising and Ekerold.

WEAR HUB RUBBERS
This Winter

FAMOUS GROUP OF SPORTING CAMPS For Sale at a Bargain

FIRST, THE REASON FOR SALE—The owner, who has built up an established business of the highest character, is forced to sell through illness. He must seek a warmer climate, his physician tells him. Therefore he must sell AT ONCE. This property will be sold at a bargain.

THE PLACE—In the heart of the best hunting and fishing territory in the State of Maine. The camps are located at a picturesque elevation of 2,500 feet above sea level, on a preserve of 30,000 acres. There are numerous lakes and streams within easy walking distance from the camps.

THE CAMPS—There are a dozen camps, equipped with 20 double beds. The camps are made of logs and they have stone fireplaces. They are thoroughly comfortable summer or winter. Included in the camp equipment are an ice house, woodshed, dining room camp, hen house, bath room with open plumbing and flush closets, wood sawing outfit with gas engine, power water pumping system, farming tools, etc., etc. There are several outlying camps which go with the place.

ONE OF THE CAMPS

THE FISH AND GAME—Abundant lake and stream fly fishing any day in the season, with a full creel assured. Bird, deer and moose hunting. The deer hunting cannot be excelled in Maine.

NEW RAILROAD—A new road that is being built will connect with the Canadian Pacific, 12 miles from the camps.

If you are interested in this proposition address Maine Woods for full particulars, including price, full description of the camps, hunting, fishing, etc., and the location.

When you advertise in Maine Woods you talk to over 6,500 people who think enough of the paper to pay for it. No other newspaper in the world like MAINE WOODS.

THE FLAGSTAFF HOTEL
has been bought and is being opened by Jim Harlow of Dead River, formerly proprietor of Black Brook and West Carry Pond Camps.
It is centrally located in the heart of the Big Game Region of Dead River. My past fifteen years experience in entertaining and satisfying my past friends and customers is ample guarantee to them all, that they will find what they want here, in game, recreation and accommodations. To all those not knowing the place I cordially invite you to come for your FALL SHOOTING TRIP. Moose, Deer, Black Bear, Fox, Partridge and Ducks.
The Flagstaff Hotel is situated right on the shore of Flagstaff Lake, also on the banks of the famous Dead River, furnishing more than 50 miles of the finest canoeing for Big Game Shooting. There is a good chain of outlying camps, all easily reached without the hardships of a two days' backboard trip, and the most of them can be reached by canoe, right from the Hotel or YOU CAN HUNT BY CANOE RIGHT FROM THE HOTEL, being assured of the best of accommodations and comforts. Thus saving the hardships of a long hard trip, and the expense of from $10. to $25. The best of experienced guides and canoes furnished at any time, also outlying camping trips for any that want them.
Arrive here same day from Boston, ready for the sport next morning, after a good night's rest. Daily mails. Telephone and telegraph connections. You are cordially invited to come here. You are sure of your Game and the best of treatment as in years past. Write for any further information you may want, giving dates, size of party and rooms wanted and the most satisfactory terms will be made you.
