Choose such pleasures as recreate much and cost little.—Fuller.

The general impression that June was an unusually warm month is amply confirmed by the summary of the month published by the weather bureau at Washington. Only three times since the official observations were begun 38 years ago has the average temperature for the month been higher. The average temperature was 70 degrees and this was reached or exceeded in 1883, 1892 and 1899. Moreover, it was an abnormally dry month, the precipitation being only one-third of the average. Only twice in 38 years has the June rainfall been lighter, in 1859 and 1882.

The Boston Sunday Globe has published an editorial symposium on how the Democratic party of New England may be strengthened. One of the contributions was solicited from Obadiah Gardner of this city, whose view is that the way to strengthen the Democratic party in New England is to select leaders of ability and integrity and make an aggressive, constant fight to obtain for New England a revision of the tariff laws and give manufacturers an equal and fair chance with all other parts of the country that they may be freed from the handicap they labor under at present.

Last week handsome new Taxicabs were put into service at Boston. For a long time New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, and Washington have been enjoying the cheap Taxicab rates and now the Hub has fallen in line. Under the new system the French taximeter will be used to estimate the charges, and it will be impossible for the passenger to be overcharged. Furthermore, it will make no difference with the Taxicabs whether they carry one or four passengers the charges for the vehicle being the same. Slowly but surely "cabbies" with his extortionate rates is becoming a thing of the past in the larger cities.

The railroads are not lightly to be considered in any estimate of forestry work going on over the country. The Pennsylvania company's forestry department has just finished its annual spring planting with a total of 625,000 trees set out. This makes some 2,450,000 trees which the company has planted since it adopted the policy of making provision for its own future needs in the way of ties and lumber. But the company is not confining its tree planting to such purposes altogether. It is setting out many ornamental trees and a large amount of shrubbery by way of making station grounds and the line of road more attractive.

Thomas Bailey Aldrich Memorial

Notable Dedication of An Institution Destined to Be Famous Among America's Show-Places

Portsmouth, N. H., was the scene on June 30 of a memorable occasion in the dedication of the Thomas Bailey Aldrich Memorial.

This paper has previously acquainted its readers with the facts concerning the formation of this memorial to one of America's most distinguished writers, beginning with the purchase of the youthful home of the boy Aldrich, the "Nutter House" of the famous "Story of a Bad Boy" which has since been restored and equipped with the identical furniture of its early days. This now becomes a notable show-place, presenting to the visitor not only the house so photographically portrayed in the above story, but a house besides that in its equipment down to the least details is a perfect example of the well-to-do New England home of the period preceding the Civil War.

The dedication exercises in Music Hall brought out a great crowd of people from Portsmouth and vicinity, besides a brilliant company of distinguished persons from near and distant cities, including the chief literary men and women of the present day, most of whom were present for many years of the man whose name they thus gathered to honor.

The noted speakers were Hamilton W. May, editor of the Outlook, Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Richard Watson Gilder the poet and editor of the Century magazine, Thomas Nelson Page the author, Governor Guild of Massachusetts, William Dean Howells the author, Robert Bridges the poet, Congressman Littlefield of Maine and Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain).

The addresses and poems were eloquent tributes to the personal character and the high literary renown of the dead poet. Mark Twain, for more than 40 years a close personal friend, ended a speech rich in characteristic wit and humor by quipping that he was always pleased to see the man who had been so good company and a thin but pleasant talker; that he was always bright, but never brilliant; that in this matter he must not be classed with Thomas Bailey Aldrich, nor must any other man, ancient or modern; that Aldrich was always witty, always brilliant, if there was anybody present capable of striking his flint at the right angle; that Aldrich was as sure and prompt and unfailing as the red-hot iron on the blacksmith's anvil, you had only to hit it competently to make it deliver an explosion of sparks. I added—Aldrich has never had his peer for prompt and pithy and witty and humorous sayings; none he equaled him; certainly none has surpassed him in the felicity of phrasing with which he clothed these children of his fancy. Aldrich is always brilliant. He couldn't help it. He is a fire opal set around with rare diamonds; when he is not speaking you know that his fancy fancies are twinkling and glimmering around in him; when he speaks the diamond flashes.

Congressman Littlefield, who made the acquaintance of Aldrich at the latter's summer home at Tenants Harbor, and was one of the poet's staunchest admirers, said:

"It is a pleasure to be able to join as one of the 'maddening crowd' in these memorial exercises. I cannot hope to bring to this occasion that degree of appreciation which is the result of a technical or analytical knowledge of the work and characteristics of him whom we today honor. The subtle, delicate and delectable aroma of the fields in June, oh, who can distill it! While I had the pleasure of a slight acquaintance with him, I cannot assume it to be intimate enough to enable me to speak from that standpoint. I say an appreciative word as one of the thousands, who were vividly impressed by his work and life as a whole, not needing to assign to particular elements or special factors the reason why we read him. We heard and knew of him, we respected, admired and loved him. I am persuaded that it would have been his most profound and lasting satisfaction if he could even have faintly realized the feeling entertained for him by all classes of people. It is a precious heritage for his wife and children. He was one of our treasures. He belonged to us. He was one of the greatest men of the time in literature, politics, art and the stage. Only a day or two before he had attended the funeral of one of his dearest friends, Grover Cleveland. 'I couldn't remain away from these exercises,' he said, 'for Aldrich was one of the men I loved most.'

It was on the Commodore's yacht that the famous company of actors and writers made that three-weeks' visit to the coast of Maine in 1896, stories of which continue to find their way into literary reminiscences, as may easily be understood when such men as Booth, Barrett, Hutton, Blenheim, Aldrich and others made up the ship's company. One of these stories that has never yet got into print was related by Commodore Benedict to a representative of The Courier-Gazette:

"We ran into the harbor of Boothbay," said the Commodore, "None of us had ever been there before, and Edwin Booth, calling over the rail to a boy in a rowboat, said:

"What place is this, sonny?"

"Boothbay," answered the boy.

"Booth turned to Aldrich and said, 'Hear the boy chaffing me! He thought in his innocence that the native, recognizing him, had given him the answer and that we were in the harbor of Boothbay. But an incident more tragic occurred before we got away. Booth was feeling ill, and I went ashore with him in search of some medicine. We found a little shop where among a quaint general stock of merchandise a few drugs were kept, and while the lanky proprietor in shirt-sleeves was hunting over the shelves for the desired medicine, Edwin said:

"Can you tell me, sir, what was the origin of the name of this town?"

"The shop-keeper replied, 'Well, I believe it was named for an old feller that used to live here years ago—but he wasn't no relation of that d—rascal that shot President Lincoln!'

"It was another of those awful experiences that Edwin Booth had often to undergo in the years following the tragedy of his brother John Wilkes. He gasped slightly as he turned away, and I knew how the blow had staggered him, but he uttered no word."

"It was in Boothbay harbor," said the Commodore, "on the deck of the Onondaga that we formed the now famous Players Club of New York, to which Aldrich gave the name and to which afterwards it was my privilege to present the portrait of Booth painted by Sargent and of which Aldrich wrote one of his most famous poems."

The fine and historic old town of Portsmouth has done a worthy act in establishing this memorial to her most distinguished son. The opportunity to produce so distinctive a thing was rare and it has been seized upon and developed with extraordinary taste. The affection and esteem in which Aldrich was held by his contemporaries was evidenced by the warm personal note of the addresses delivered by these men at the head of American literature of today. The restoration of the house to the condition so well known to the readers of his famous book was like a thought to his own. That the restoration has been so faithfully achieved is due in the largest measure to the loving labor and rare taste of Mrs. Aldrich, and the priceless treasures of the addresses delivered by these men to the memorial by reason of the generosity of Mrs. Aldrich and her son, Major Talbot Aldrich. The memorial is to be open to the public during the summer months, and already is being visited by crowds. This stream of visitors will doubtless continue and increase, for literary shrines in America are not numerous and none will ever surpass in completeness and interest this one that Portsmouth is so fortunate as to have fallen heir to.

Mrs. John A. Logan has begun the work of supervising the installation of the relics of her husband, General Logan, in the memorial hall prepared for them in the State House at Springfield, Ill. The collection consists in part of a large number of photographs taken during the Civil war, photographs of General Logan from boyhood up to the time of his death, and resolutions on the death of his son, Major John A. Logan, Jr., 33d United States Volunteers, who was killed on November 11, 1899, while leading a charge against Aguinaldo's entrenched army in the Philippines.

Beggars are never suppressed in Turkey. The story is told (and they say it is true) about an American woman who by mistake gave a beggar of Constantinople a gold piece. The man had left his post when she returned, but on of his colleagues told her where he "resided." It was a fine house and at the door was a servant who politely informed the woman that "my master" was dressing. He will be down soon." And then the well-gowned beggar, dressed for dinner, appeared and gladly returned the gold piece, exclaiming in the meanwhile that such mistakes were highly embarrassing.—L. E. Palmer in the June Chatterbox and The Commons

Among the distinguished men and women who came together to honor the memory of the dead poet—and the list includes all those most prominent in the field of letters of the present generation—was Commodore E. C. Benedict, the veteran and honored commanding officer of the New York Yacht Club, who came in his famous yacht Onondaga. Commodore Benedict's long life has been particularly rich in personal friendship, his intimate associates for a half century past having been the choicest products of our civilization. He made our burdens lighter, he made our pleasures greater. We felt that he was near us and of us. Contact with him through his exquisite handiwork made us all purer, cleaner, better, nobler. Our world is better because he lived and conscientiously wrought therein. We here dedicate this memorial. This too shall pass away; the impressive, unspoken marble shall moult to dust, the rigid, unyielding bronze corrode, and the flinty, eternal granite crumble to decay; but his name and fame are secure. They shall remain lovingly enshrined in the hearts of all his admiring countrymen."

Following these midday exercises, in which an audience of 200 persons took part, the special guests to the number of 200 proceeded to the Memorial—the "Nutter House"—which was admirably inspected from cellar to attic. In the fire-proof building erected in the

THE ALDRICH MEMORIAL

This is the house where little Aldrich read

The early pages of life's wonderbook

With boy's delight. Beside this ink-stained

He saw the drift-wood fire of fancy shed

Warm colors on the pictures blue and red.

Boy-like he skipped the longer words and took

His happy way, with searching, dreamful look

Into the deepest things most simply said.

Then came his turn to write: and still the flame

Of vivid fancy lit the tales he told;

And he was famous, for his fame

With simple words wrought into rhymes of gold.

Look, here's the face to which this house is

This poem was read by William

Streeter Richardson of Boston, brother-in-law of Aldrich's, in so fine a voice and intonation and with so just an appreciation of the meaning of its writer and the occasion it celebrated, that the performance became one of the striking features of the day, evoking the applause of the listeners and creating the desire that Mr. Richardson might have been heard in the more public part of the exercises.

It was so hot Tuesday that seasoned farm hands succumbed in the pay fields.

The postoffices of Ash Point and Long Cove have lately been made money order offices.

The Rockland-Rockport Lime Co. fired two more kilns this week, making 24 now being burned. This is a very fair showing, under the circumstances.

All those having money connected with the pop concert, please bring to the business meeting which will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. Frank W. Fuller.

Dahlia from the famous flower gardens of Mrs. Clarence Thomas at the Northend have illumined The Courier-Gazette office since Tuesday. The dahlias are not only very early but very beautiful.

It sounds like exaggeration to say that the recent hot nights were cool enough at the beaches so that summer people slept beneath comforters, but there are plenty of reliable people to vouch for it.

Rear Admiral Richardson Clover, who has been coming to Rockland the past year as chairman of the naval trial boards, is to be retired Saturday.

Admiral Clover has a very general personality and made many friends among our people during his visits here.

Frank Robbins of Deer Isle was arraigned before Judge Campbell Wednesday, charged with stealing a yearling calf, with whom he had lodged on the Point the previous night. When the sailor awoke he found that Robbins had departed and that somebody had "been through" his possessions. Robbins was found guilty and sentenced to 90 days in jail.

Friends in this city will be pleased to learn that Fred L. Smith of Worcester, Mass. was one of the successful ones to pass the examination for registered druggist at Boston, June 30.

Mr. Smith is a Rockland boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Smith, Gurdy street, and was with W. F. Norcross for two years, leaving there to go to the Burlington Pharmacy Co., Worcester, Mass., with whom he has been for the past six years.

A woman from New Bedford, Mass., came here a few days ago seeking her young son, who was taken away from home some three or four years ago. Circumstances became such that the woman was better able to take care of the lad and for some weeks she has been seeking to learn where he was located. With the aid of special officer W. L. Kallio, who is second only to The Courier-Gazette lost "ads" for finding things, the boy was located in Warren and the reunion was effected. Mother and boy returned to Massachusetts in a very happy frame of mind.

The excellent display of fireworks at Oakland Park Wednesday night was witnessed by fully 2500 persons. The night was a splendid one for the occasion, but it seems as though the display might be profitably repeated next month when the moon is not quite so conspicuous. As a drawing card it seems to be in excess of a band concert, and the two combined ought to be a great attraction. While the sky was being touched off one of them set fire to dry grass up on the heights, creating a bit of excitement which soon subsided as the blaze was stamped out.

Fish Commissioner James Donohue has made several appointments of late. Among his new wardens are Joseph R. Wallace of Long Island and Leon S. Collins of Yarmouth. He has also appointed as warden seven members of lobster fishermen's unions along coast. The branches to which these members belong buy the bonds which it is necessary for them to have, and will back up their efforts in every possible way. The fishermen seem more anxious than ever before to suppress the short lobster industry, and are co-operating with Commissioner Donohue and his wardens in a very gratifying manner. Meantime the state is becoming thoroughly convinced that Governor Cobb could have made a better selection.

Woodbury Thomas was arraigned before Judge Meserve Wednesday charged with violating the fish and game laws by catching some 40 or more trout from the Hemenway stream in Warren. This brook is a tributary to Crawford Pond and is closed. The alleged violation took place May 3. Thomas denied that he fished the stream on that date, but the state produced evidence which he saw him, and other witnesses who declared they saw the fish. Thomas was found guilty and fined $10 and costs—the whole amounting to $22.84. He appealed. The arrest was made by Leroy Burns of Union, one of the new fish and game wardens. The state was represented at the trial by Warden Neal, who is the terror of all poachers.

Major H. M. Lord, U. S. A., who arrived here the first of the week with his family will spend the month of July in this city. As The Courier-Gazette announced some weeks ago he has been detailed by the government to assist the committee on Ways and Means in preliminary and statistical work looking toward the proposed revision of the tariff. Major Lord has quarters in the custom house at present. During the month of August he will be located in Auburn, N. Y. and during the winter in Washington, D. C. As chief clerk of the Ways and Means committee during the drafting of the famous Dingley bill, Major Lord gained a knowledge of tariff which is probably unequalled by any man in the country. How indispensable his services are in the task now undertaken may readily be judged.

Major Lord receives the customary warm greeting from the great host of friends he made here during his years of newspaper work on The Courier-Gazette.

A resident of the Highlands is willing to bet there isn't a handsomer garden in Knox county than Sam Adams'. An Italian, who is gardener by profession, has charge of it.

This is the last week of strawberries, or promises to be. Fifteen cents per basket was the price quoted yesterday. Other berries are here to take their place. Currants, gooseberries and native blueberries are selling two boxes for a quarter.

While the sales at the city liquor agency last month exceeded $1200, and were almost as much as the sales used to amount to in an entire year, they still fell short of expectations. There is much curiosity to see what the July sales will be, now that there is a new lock on the door, and all the keys are in the possession of the agent.

Obadiah Gardner who has traveled in many counties of the state in the past few weeks tells The Courier-Gazette that there will be not more than half a crop of hay this summer, and that in some places will scarcely pay for the hire of the crew. Mr. Gardner says he will not be surprised if the price of hay rose to $25 a ton next winter.

Golden Rod Chapter, No. 8, O. E. S., has accepted the invitation of Mrs. C. E. Bicknell to give a picnic at her place at Wheeler's Bay next Tuesday. Teams will leave Ferry Bros. stable at 9:30 o'clock in the forenoon. All intending to go on these teams will notify the worthy matron, Mrs. Chase. The committee in charge of the dinner are Mrs. L. R. Campbell, Mrs. Jennie Packard and Mrs. Nellie G. Dow.

The annual taxes assessed against the telephone and express companies have been committed to the state treasurer. The total amount against the hells corporations is $44,500, which shows an increase of $4000 over last year. The largest tax is paid by the New England Telephone Co., which has a check for the state treasurer in the sum of $39,140. The Knox Telephone Co., operating in this county, will pay $755.

The contestants in the Y. M. C. A. tennis tournament now in progress are Ralph L. Wagon, Arthur Richardson, Don Philbrick, Victor Hall, Milton Weymouth, Horace Lamb, Fred Kallio, Arthur Lamb, Maurice Hill, Maurice Bird, Edward S. Levensaler, Charles Philbrick, John Tibbels, Roy L. Knowlton, E. E. Brumberg and Nathan Farwell. Several series have already been played—enough to show that pick-the-winner is not an easy task at this time.

A billiard game played by four men whose aggregate weight was half a ton was the unusual sight witnessed in the Eagle's hall one night this week. The players and their weights were as follows: Eddie Tolman, 330; Hiram Merrett, 320; John Thompson, 300; and Nell Condon, 240. In addition to having four such heavyweights in one game there was lots of big talk as to what they could accomplish. The quartet stands ready to meet any four men in Knox county of similar tonnage.

Here are some timely market prices: Massachusetts string beans, 8 cents per quart; cucumbers, 5 cents; green peas (telephone) 40 cents a peck; green peas (common variety), 30 cents a peck; navy beans, 20 cents a peck; southern tomatoes, 15 cents a pound; bunch beets, carrots and turnips, 8 cents; scallions, 8 cents a bunch; egg plant, 15 cents; turnip squashes, 15 cents each; green beans, 15 cents a peck; cabbage, 5 cents a pound; squashes, 5 cents a pound; eggs, 25 cents a dozen; butter (creamery) 30 cents a pound.

Steamer James T. Morse on her trip to this port Wednesday evening found a gas leak in the engine room, and, before the breakwater and Mark Island. It proved to be the launch Marcia, owned by a Camden summer resident named Lyon. Its occupants included Mr. Lyon, another gentleman and two ladies. They had been on an outing, and the launch was upon their return the engine broke down while they were about half way home. They drifted about two hours, the tide carrying them seaward, before the launch was rescued. The launch was much appreciated by those on board.

"Police Judge Campbell issued 26 search warrants. No liquors were seized." Thus read a paragraph in this paper's report of the city council's July meeting. The reporter's memorandum was made from the reports submitted, but the endorsement as to liquors seized must have been an error, for during June the enforcement department made eight successful seizures, the net results of which included 28 1-2 gallons whiskey, 1 3-4 gal. brandy, 5 gals. ale, 4 gals. beer, one quart each of rum and gin, 83 bottles each and 112 bottles of beer. The deputies are busily on duty, day and night, and if citizens want to know if their work is effective, let inquiries be made of the men engaged in the illegal traffic.

Among the cases argued in Law Court at Portland this week were those of Lucy C. Farnsworth, Admx., vs. Whiting et als, and Security Trust Co., and the same plaintiff against Whiting et als, took up about all of the morning's session. This is quite an important Knox county case and involves the question of who has the right to possession of about $40,000 in bonds, stocks and other securities, now in the custody of the Security Trust Co. of Rockland. Orville D. Baker is attorney for the plaintiff, D. N. Mortland and R. L. Thompson for Whiting et als, and A. S. Littlefield for the Trust Co.

Hon. Thurston S. Burns of Westbrook has been in the city a few days, incidental to his monthly visit at the state prison as a member of the committee from the governor's council. Mr. Burns with his expressive vocabulary yet fails to find words which fully express his pleasure at the fine administration being given by Warden Norton. Not only is there a splendid system and discipline, and a splendid system and discipline, but the inmates should be distributed and will not be a candidate. He looks for Cumberland county to come safely within the Republican ranks at the September election, and says that a fine state of harmony prevails there.

While W. R. Stewart is having his vacation from the express office "Bill" Hyler is in charge of his delivery wagon. Francis Harrington, son of the boss, is doing Mr. Hyler's work in the office. Guy Linekin, formerly express messenger on the James T. Morse, has also joined the office force for the summer.

Valentine Paladino is expected here within a few days, having sailed from Italy June 15. Liberate Paladino will probably remain in Messias a considerable while longer.

The well known trotting mare Brownette, owned by Mr. Pattee of Lewiston, won $250 for her owner in a match race at Waterville last Saturday. That's starting the season pretty well.

The Rockland Y. M. C. A. team and Juniors play baseball in Rockport Saturday, the Juniors with Rockport Juniors in the forenoon and the Seniors with Rockport Seniors in the afternoon.

Miss Grace Lowell, who has been engaged as nurse for Mrs. E. B. MacAllister in South Hope was called home a few days ago by the drowning of her sister in Sebago Lake. The tragedy also involved the drowning of three other persons.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. V. McKenney, who have been at Stockton Springs for the past three years, are at their former home on North Main street for the summer. Mr. McKenney will build the new house of Wm. Burns on Admont avenue, upon which work will begin immediately.

The Sunday school class of St. Bernard's church had its annual picnic Wednesday, at Oakland Park. There were upwards of 75 in the party, which had the matchless care of the popular pastor Rev. Fr. Flynn. At 10 o'clock the little folks disposed of a tempting picnic dinner, spending the remainder of the day in bathing and all kinds of recreation.

The staked direction of N. H. Heck a coast and geodetic survey is in progress in Muske Ridge Channel and vicinity. Arthur Richardson and Eaton Simmons of this city are engaged in the crew, while Albert Burpee from his point of vantage on Tillson wharf keeps a close and accurate watch of the tide's rise and fall. Mr. Heck was similarly engaged in Penobscot Bay last season, and has many friends here.

In connection with the launching of the Jessie A. Bishop at the Cobb-Butler yard next Thursday, July 16, at 12 o'clock, Rockland merchants are to make it a Merchants' Day and will offer special bargains. The Maine Central railroad offer greatly reduced rates from Bath and way stations, while the Vinalhaven & Rockland Steamboat Co. offers one fare for round trip. There should be lots of people in town next Thursday.

William H. Kallio, deputy fish and game warden issues warning to the owners of hunting dogs that they must be properly taken care of during close time. At the present time they are being allowed to pursue deer, rabbits and other game where the laws are composed to protect. Warden Kallio has coaxed and threatened, but this nuisance continues, and he desires the Courier-Gazette to state that he will kill such dogs as are found running free in defiance of the law.

The Camden Band and a coterie of Camden Democrats came here Tuesday night, and after a visit to the Owl Club proceeded to Limerock street, where they serenaded Shook Tolman. The band was entirely unlooked for by the official, who eventually made his appearance on the lawn, thanked the delegation and told it to go down town and open a box of cigars "off him."

The Camden Democrat who was instrumental in arranging the serenade had prepared a speech thanking Sheriff Tolman for his vigorous enforcement of the liquor law, but the boys were so anxious to get down where the cigars were that this portion of the program was omitted. Before leaving for home the band and Mr. Tolman's admirers paid a fraternal visit to Knox Aerie of Eagles, where they spent a very congenial hour.

The Staples Piano & Music Co. have leased the store at 333 Main street, opposite Fuller-Cobb Co., and for the next 30 days will conduct a piano sale on a scale never before attempted in this city. Mr. Staples has just returned from the annual convention of the National Piano Dealers' Association in New York, where he purchased a large number of high grade pianos on exhibition there. The prices have been marked so low that the whole lot should go quickly. Vocal and instrumental concerts are given each afternoon and evening.

Road Commissioner Walker and crew are doing an extensive piece of re-grading on White and Beech streets, cutting down the former and rearranging the latter so as to obviate a trouble that has long existed each winter and spring with water covering the streets. Mr. Walker is doing the work in a highly creditable manner.

Two baseball teams from Rockland, composed of men who are firmly convinced that they are worth a salary in the big leagues, but who have never convinced anybody else of it, will play at Crescent Beach (Smith Park) this Friday afternoon, the game beginning about 4 o'clock. Those who emerge from the game able to do so, will dine at Smith's later.

Four European capitalists, who registered at the Thorndike as T. Richardson, A. H. Putnam, W. W. Hodgson and J. S. Lanspohl were in the city Tuesday accompanied by J. H. McLanchlan of Pittsburgh. The nature of their errand is not to be divulged just at this time, but it can be said that they are to locate a big industrial enterprise in Maine and possibly in this vicinity. Among other things they viewed the model of the compressed air plant in South Thomaston. During their stay here they were shown many courtesies by A. S. Black, E. B. MacAllister and L. N. Littlefield, who took them to Stockton Springs in automobiles.

One of South Thomaston's smart old men—so smart that he may come up and chastise the writer for calling him old—was in the city Wednesday. It was Uncle Asa Coombs, 83 years old, who has lately come home after a year's absence in Rion, N. C., where he is now making his home with his daughter, Mrs. W. J. Thayer. Mr. Thayer is superintendent of the Winsboro Granite Co., which is about to make a big blast in its mountain of granite at Rion, using therein a high powder at one explosion. Mr. Thayer found a good opportunity for a vacation just now, so back he came to South Thomaston, accompanied by Mrs. Thayer and Uncle Asa. They will spend the remainder of the month in the North. It was a good sight to see Uncle Asa jump aboard Cleve Sleeper's automobile with all the sprightliness of a youth taking his first ride.

When Actors Play to Actors.

When Henry Irving engaged me to play Ophelia in 1878 he asked me to go down to Birmingham to see the play, and that night I saw what I shall always consider the perfection of acting. It had been wonderful in 1874; in 1878 it was far more wonderful," wrote Ellen Terry in her letter to the "advantage" of my Ophelia his Hamlet "improved." I don't think so. He was always quite independent of the people with whom he played. The Birmingham night he knew I was there. He played—I say it without vanity—for me. We players are not above that weakness, if it be a weakness. If ever anything inspires us to do our best it is the presence in the audience of some fellow artist who must, in the nature of things, know more completely than any one what we intend, what we do, what we feel. The response from such a member of the audience flies across the footlights to us like a flame. I felt it once when I played Ophelia before Eleanor Duse. I felt that she felt it once when she played Marguerite Gautier for me."

The Topsy-turvydom of Religion.

At the opening of King Edward VII's first parliament he had to repeat after the lord chancellor an oath which condemned in almost brutal words all things papistical. Yet held aloft by a Protestant peer for all Protestants to reverence was a veritable emblem of papal supremacy—a quaint little banner of crimson velvet turned up with ermine. This is the cap of maintenance, and so sacred is it that no hands but royalty may touch it. Thus the premier marquis, whose hereditary right it is to carry it, balanced it somewhat after the fashion of a conjurer upon a white staff. This cap was granted to Henry VIII. by Pope Leo X. In the middle ages it was held as a symbol of the overlord, only being granted to vassals and feudatories whom the lord wished to honor, so that it implies as nothing else could the supremacy of the pope over the kings of England—London Standard.

What Makes the Heart Beat?

Professor Jacques Loeb, the celebrated biologist, in his book, "Dynamics of Living Matter," has shown that a strip cut from the ventricle of the heart put in a solution of chloride of sodium will continue to beat for a number of days, until putrefaction sets in. He says this can be done with an ordinary muscle after it has been extricated from the body. This would tend to prove that the heart is a chemical machine and that it is all due to chemical action. The muscular contraction is probably due to the substitution of sodium for calcium salts in the cells of the muscles.

For Emergencies.

A banking reserve is for use, not merely for show. It is far use in times of emergency. Yet some bankers look upon their reserves very much as the superintendent of a hospital regarded its emergency fund. A patient all bled up in an accident was brought to the hospital one night and was told that there was no room for him. "Why not put him in the emergency bed?" was suggested. "If we put him in the emergency bed," it was replied, "then we would have no emergency bed."—Wall Street Journal.

A Clever Scheme.

Mother (examining school report)—How did you come to have such good marks in arithmetic this week? Tommy—Well, you see, it was this way: We had ten examples a day, and I got the teacher to help me to do five, and Eric Jones got her to help him on the other five. Then we swapped helps. See?—Harper's.

Impartial.

"Mr. Scattergood prides himself on being strictly impartial."
"Yes," answered the unamiable man. "I once went shooting with him. He didn't seem to care whether he hit the rabbit, the dog or one of his friends."

The Dangerous Case.

One of the surgeons of a hospital asked an Irish help which he considered the most dangerous of the many cases then in the hospital. "That, sir," said Patrick as he pointed to a case of surgical instruments.

Where Idols Are Eaten.

At certain seasons in some parts of India it is the duty of every devotee person to eat a special sort of confectionery. Every confectioner in October, for instance, has a pole about six feet high at his door, and to this is nailed a great book about a foot long and thick in proportion. On one side of this is a brick fire, with a huge earthen pan on it. Before the pan a little, and then getting up and dexterously throwing it on the large book, he begins to pull out the tough substance. He draws it out to the length of four or five feet at a time and throws it back and elongates it again, and so he manipulates it till the mass becomes as white as snow. This composition so sacred forms—figures of little idols and gods—and is eagerly bought for consumption.—Strand Magazine.

A Fair Chance.

Dressed in the latest and most approved motor cycling costume, with goggles all complete, the motor cyclist gaily foot-tooted his way by Regent's park toward the zoo. Suddenly he slackened, dismounted and said to a small, grubby urchin:

"I say, my boy, am I right for the zoo?"

The boy gasped at so strange a sight and thought it must be some new animal for the gardens.

"You may be all right if they have a spare cage," he said when he could find his tongue, "but you'd'd had stood a far better chance if you'd'd a tall!"—London Answers.

Lewis Carroll's Humor.

An English magazine gives some amusing pieces of Lewis Carroll's humor from the forgotten pages of Oxford pamphlets. During the election at Oxford in 1865 he gave vent to the following Euclidean definition: "Plain superficiality is the character of a speech in which, as two points being taken, the speaker is found to lie wholly with regard to those two points." A note is also given on the right appreciation of examiners: "A takes in ten books and gets a third class; B takes in the examiners and gets a second. Find the value of the examiners in terms of books, and their value in terms when no examination is held."

Soliloquies.

An old lady unaccustomed to traveling innocently seated herself in a first class carriage, although she only had a third class ticket. The guard, thinking she had made a mistake, popped his head into the carriage and inquired:

"Are you first class, ma'am?"

"No, sir, not altogether," she replied, "but much brighter than I was, thank you."—London Scraps.

Cause For Worry.

"Did you have a good time at your musical?"

"No," answered Mr. Cumrox. "Every time the band played anything I enjoyed I got worried for fear it wasn't classical enough to be the money's worth."—Washington Star.

Willing to Help.

"I suppose old Cashman has more money than he knows what to do with?"

"Yes, but his wife and daughters are ready to supply the needed information."

A Martyr.

"Mamma, have I got to take a bath tonight?"

"I'm afraid you have, my dear."
"But I haven't done any thing all the week to deserve it."—New York Life.

The Force of Habit.

A certain accountant is so devoted to his profession that when he has nothing else to do he casts up his eyes.

Best the World Affords
"It gives me unbounded pleasure to recommend Buckley's Arnica Salve," says J. W. Jenkins, of Chapel Hill, N. C. "I am convinced it's the best salve the world affords. It cured a felon on my thumb, and it never fails to heal every sore, burn or wound to which it is applied. 25c. at Wm. H. Kittredge's drug store, Rockland; G. L. Robinson Drug Co., Thomaston; R. W. Wiley, Vinalhaven."

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney trouble. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidneys poison the blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake in getting the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, at the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

His age was 72 years. Mr. Maloney had been in failing health for several years, but bore his sufferings with fortitude and cheerfulness, keeping about as possible, and assisting in the work of his farm. Everything that kind care and medical skill could accomplish had been done, but with no relief, and by the advice of his physician he submitted to an operation. This was successfully performed, but on the fourth day unfavorable symptoms appeared, and he sank rapidly, passing away on the following morning. Mr. Maloney was born in Cushing, June 7, 1836, being the son of Dea. John and Mary (Seavey) Maloney. He was a resident of the town nearly all his life and one of its most respected citizens. Mr. Maloney married Miss Matilda M. Teel, who survives him with one daughter, Mrs. Lettie, wife of W. W. Perkins of Warren, and one son, Dewey L. Maloney, of this place; two sons Albin K. and Hiram Maloney dying in young manhood. He also leaves three sisters, Mrs. Lucella Chadwick of Port Clyde, Mrs. Frances Davis and Mrs. Eldora Wotton of this town. Funeral services were held at the Union church, Broad Cove, Rev. W. A. Newcombe officiating. A large gathering of relatives and friends testifying to their esteem by their presence and many floral tributes. Mr. Maloney was a kind husband and father, a good citizen, an obliging neighbor, but he was missed by all. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

CAIRD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to all those who so kindly assisted us in our recent bereavement, and most especially to Mr. A. C. Campbell and family.

The pop concert given by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Knox hospital in the Arcade Wednesday evening was eminently successful, thanks to the efforts of the women who worked so hard to make it so. The exact proceeds cannot be stated for the present, but will be announced to the public in due season. The program included a concert by the Rockland Military Band from 8 to 9, and dancing from 9 to 1. It had been intended to conclude the entertainment at midnight but the 75 or more couples then on the floor enjoying the music were so immensely that the hat was passed around and the music was engaged for another hour. Meantime refreshments were on sale under the direction of a committee consisting of Mrs. C. H. Barry, Mrs. Lucy Kennedy and Mrs. C. M. Kallach. For waiters there were the following society buds who distributed the ginger ale, ice cream, etc., with many a gracious smile: Geneva Rose, Helen Fuller, Ruth Blackington, Madeline Brown, Lucia Burpee, Jessie Hall, Marion Perry, Kathleen Spear, Emily Webb and Madeline Burrows. After sampling several different salads, a new recipe was given, and as the club ladies are always glad to share their goodie with their friends the recipe will be given:

Club Salad
"Club Salad is in high favor with all lovers of letters, and those whose 'salad days' are not yet over. In preparing, separate the members judiciously, being careful to cut none (no cabbage heads are ever used, however). Sweeten to taste, but use spice sparingly, lest it may disagree with some. Vinegar should never be added, but a good dressing always adds to the appearance, and is consumed in excellent taste. Serve with the cream of the club."

A dish of dainty confections wrapped in tissue paper and packed about each one present receiving generous helping, which when opened disclosed the following, which will be given for the benefit of the absent members:

A—is for Adams,
A lady of grace
Who reads Scottish history
At most lively pace.

A—is for Abbott,
So gracefully tall,
She lives here this summer
But in Jackson next fall.

B—is for Blackington
With ballads so dear,
Of them you'd not weary
If daily you hear.

B—too, is for Bird—
Not a robin in tree—
But a brisk little Jennie-oird,
Mother of three.

B—also for Burbank
Of library fame,
Aroma of wisdom
Lurks e'en in the name.

Another B—Burpee,
A busy bee, too,
She accomplishes wonders—
I think so—don't you?

C—is for Crie,
Our hostess you see,
A right good one, too,
As all will agree.

C—is for Coughlin,
A lady most knowing,
She "does us all good,"
As her record is showing.

C—is for Chase,
Who sells music in town,
When she joins our party
You'll never see a frown.

D—for Delight,
We feel on this day;
E—for the Estates—
Just stowed away.

F—brings us Frohock,
A woman of learning,
No unruly Mohawk
But a lady discerning.

G—for the Glory
The club is to all,
It's not an old story
And never does pall.

H—for our Hill,
A fair one, as seen,
She's blooming, she's lofty,
But never is green.

PROMINENT IN SEATTLE.

Death of Samuel F. Coombs Who Went West from South Thomaston.

Samuel F. Coombs, pioneer resident of Seattle and one of the best known men of the city is dead. He quietly passed away June 17 at 402 Eleventh Avenue North, surrounded by members of his family. Old age was primarily the cause of death. Judge Coombs, as he was familiarly called, had passed his seventy-seventh birthday, and although active mentally to the last, physically the pioneer was unable to longer fight against the debility that his years had brought on him.

It was in 1859 that Judge Coombs, son of Noel Coombs, who crossed the plains to the Coast in 1842, came to Seattle. A bright, ambitious, active man, the call of the West appealed to him too strongly to resist and he left home at South Thomaston; left a career of much promise in the New England state, where he had served as a member of the legislature with James G. Blaine, to cast his fortunes on the then almost unknown Puget Sound.

In the little settlement of Seattle, Judge Coombs quickly made a place for himself. He started his work here by teaching school, later becoming the first justice of the peace for this county. He held the honor also, being the first notary public appointed in King County.

As a recognition of his services as judicial officer for this district, his friends and neighbors had Judge Coombs appointed postmaster of Seattle. He served one term as auditor of King County and held several minor public offices.

Possessed of a wonderful retentive memory even to the last, Judge Coombs was much in demand as a historian. He proved himself invaluable as a witness in many important legal cases which involved the establishment of the identity of persons long ago forgotten by the majority of people.

Up to a week ago Judge Coombs was a familiar figure upon the streets of the city. One of the last pleasures of his life was attending the recent meeting of the Washington State Pioneer's Association, where he met many old friends and neighbors of the days when Seattle was a tiny place and showed no indications that it would ever develop into a metropolitan city.

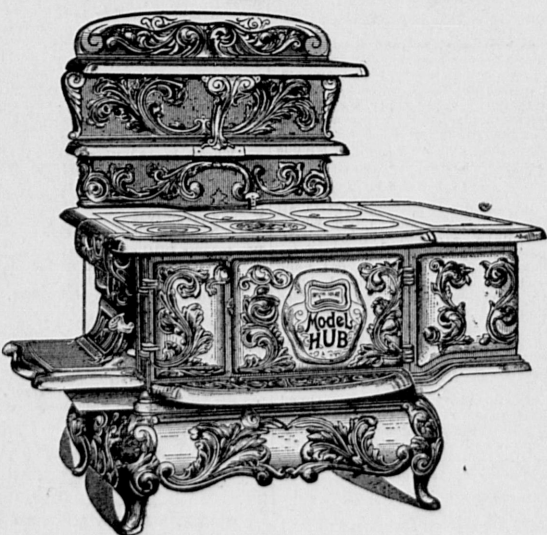

The aged pioneer leaves a widow and three children. They are Mrs. James H. Watson, W. M. Coombs and Ray Coombs.

The above obituary is from the Seattle Daily Times of June 17, which also published the following editorial tribute:

"The death of Judge Coombs, after a life of seventy-seven years, of which were passed in Seattle and almost without illness at all—will surprise and pain thousands of men and women who knew him well in this city. Judge Coombs has been one of the most active citizens Seattle ever had, and one of the most respected. Peace to his ashes!"

TO PARENTS
OF PALE GIRLS

How the Tonic Treatment Helps to Insure Healthful Womanhood.

What anaemia is, how to recognize it and the value of the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be known by the mother of every growing girl.

Anaemia is simply lack of blood. It is one of the most common and dangerous diseases with which growing girls suffer.

It is common because the blood so often becomes impoverished during development, when girls are too frequently allowed to over-study, overwork and suffer from lack of exercise. It is dangerous because of the stealthiness of its approach, often being well developed before its presence is recognized, and because of its tendency to grow steadily worse, if not promptly checked, that it may run into consumption.

The success of the tonic treatment is well illustrated in the case of Mrs. John McCalland, of 29 Thirtieth street, Pittsburg, Pa., who says:

"After suffering a year with anaemia and getting no relief I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and was cured. I was weak, had no color and my blood was thin and watery. I had no appetite and food distressed me for I was a constant sufferer from indigestion. There were dull, aching pains across the small of my back and I had occasional headaches and severe pains in the back of the neck. On going up stairs I would get short of breath and would feel weak in the knees. My feet and legs were sore to the touch and swollen so that I could not put on my shoes."

"The doctors said I had anaemia but did not help me and I decided to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which I had read about in the papers. I noticed an improvement after taking a few boxes and so kept on with them until cured. I am in the best of health now and feel that I owe it to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Send today for a copy of our "Diseases of the Blood." It gives further information about anaemia and is free upon request. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, upon receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

MRS. MARTHA SYLVESTER.

On June 25th at the home of her son, H. P. Sylvester of Rockville, Martha A. Sylvester passed to the higher life. Born at Vinalhaven on Aug. 5, 1818, she was the daughter of Jonathan and Hannah Arny Burgess, being one of a large family. Her childhood and youth were spent at the old home in Vinalhaven, but when 19 years of age she was married to Captain Joseph W. Sylvester of Deer Isle, where the early years of her married life were spent. Later Capt. Sylvester purchased a large tract of land on Dyer's Head, Castine, and in 1849 moved his family to that town. During many years following, while the captain was away at sea, the cares of the family and of a large farm fell upon the wife, who proved her ability by successfully performing the duties of both. Prosperity followed the efforts of thrift and economy, and in time a large new home was built, which was the scene of many a joyous social gathering and where the captain and his family dispensed hospitality and cheer to their many friends and neighbors.

But sadness soon came to this happy home. The death of the two daughters were followed in 1881 by the loss of her son, and two sons in quick succession. Another great misfortune which came into the life of Mrs. Sylvester was the almost total loss of her hearing. Yet through all this sorrow, she still preserved a cheerful christian spirit and by her lovely disposition endeared herself to a large circle of relatives and friends, many of whom still hold her in loving remembrance. Another great sorrow was reserved for her old age in the death by drowning of her youngest son, John, and a grandson, Harlan Sylvester at Vinalhaven, and it was while visiting this son's family that she was stricken with paralysis from which she has been a great sufferer for the past seven years, and which finally caused her death.

During the years of her invalidism, she has been tenderly cared for by her son, and his wife, who has given her every attention that a true daughter could bestow upon a mother.

In early life Mrs. Sylvester became a member of the church at Deer Isle, and afterwards was received into membership in the Congregational church in Castine, and at the time of her death was the second oldest member. She was always interested in the cause of religion, and reared her large family in the same spirit. She was ever a kind and generous neighbor. Ever ready to help in time of need, and quick in sympathy for those in trouble or sorrow. Remarkable for her age, she seldom passed an idle hour. When it was no longer necessary to labor for herself or family, she found means to occupy her hands in making rugs, quilts, and comforts for friends and relatives. Every one of her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren have some such remembrance of her loving thoughtfulness and industry.

She was a well read woman, and had traveled considerably, being gone with her husband on his trips to sea, and also having spent some time in New Jersey and Washington, D. C. She always had a lively interest in the events of the day, and at an advanced age she was a constant reader of the newspapers. She was decidedly dainty and feminine in all her instincts, and even in her old age appreciated a pretty gown, a new hat, or a bit of jewelry. She was fond of flowers, and always had them about her when possible, and her grandchildren, looking back, remember "Grandmother's room" as one of the most attractive spots of the home.

During a long life which knew both great joy and great sorrow, she ever bore herself as a Christian woman, and was filled with a sincere faith and trust in God from whom she sought comfort and solace.

The funeral was held at the home of her son in Rockville, and the interment was in the family lot in Castine, at the close of that beautiful summer day.

She is survived by a brother, Samuel Burgess of Boston, two sons, H. P. and J. H. Sylvester, and by 11 grand children and many nieces and nephews, to whom "aunt Martha" was always dear. Those who saw the look of perfect peace upon her face as she lay at rest, can only feel joy that all her suffering is past, and she is beyond all pain with those dear ones who have gone before.

"The following letter," said a traveling man, "was received by a friend of mine who was drumming up trade in New England for a New York necktie house."

"We have received your letter with expense account. What we want is orders. We have big families to make expenses for us. We find in your expense account 50 cents for billiards. Please don't buy any more billiards; also we see $2.25 for horse and buggy. Where is the horse, and what did you do with the buggy? The rest of your expense account is nothing but bed. Why is it you don't ride more in the nighttime?"

"John says you should stop in Boston, where his cousin George Moore lives. John says you should sell Moore a good bill. Give good prices—he is John's cousin. Sell him mostly for cash; also John says you can leave Boston at 11:45 in the night and get to Concord at 4:35 in the morning. Do this and you won't need any bed. And remember, what we want is orders."

A grocery store in Nelson, Lancashire, was managed by a collier's wife. One night the good woman was compelled to leave the shop for a short time in charge of her husband, giving him full instructions how to act and especially cautioning him that in the event of a customer presenting a jar or pot and asking for treacle, jam or pickles he "must be sure and weigh th' pot."

Full of confidence, the collier installed himself behind the counter. In a short time a lad ran into the shop and piped out:

"I want two pound o' pickles fur mi faythur, and here's th' pot."

The good man carefully weighed the pot and exclaimed:

"Nay, lad, it's got weighs enough bow pickles, but I'll gi' th' one or two anyway."—Liverpool Mercury.

MRS. FRANK STROEBE

I was a nervous wreck. I felt no desire to live.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY, THANKS TO PE-RU-NA.

Mrs. Frank Stroebé, R. F. D. 1, Appleton, Wis., writes:

"I began using Peruna a few months ago when my health and strength were all gone, and I was nothing but a nervous wreck, could not sleep, eat or rest properly, and felt no desire to live."

"Three bottles of Peruna made me look at life in a different light, as I began to regain my lost strength. While my recovery took nearly four months, at the end of that time I was better than I ever had been before. I had a splendid color and never weighed more in my life."

"I certainly think Peruna is without a rival as a tonic and strength builder, and it has my endorsement."

This lady entirely recovered from a nervous breakdown. She did not go away to a sanatorium, and spend hundreds of dollars for a cure. She just staid at home, took Peruna, and in four months weighed more than ever in her life, had a splendid color, life looked bright to her. Peruna did all this for her. What more could be expected of any remedy?

VINALHAVEN

A party of friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Roscoe Spear to help celebrate her 88th birthday, which occurred on the 4th day of July. Games were played and refreshments of cake, candies and fruit were served during the evening. A birthday cake was made by Mrs. Marshall and very prettily decorated with flags. Mrs. Spear received a number of useful presents from her guests. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Ames and son Fernald, Mrs. Harvey Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Newbert, Mr. Marshall and son Burnell, Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Treat, Mrs. George Elwell and Mrs. Edie Geary. As the party broke up they all expressed their best wishes and hoped Mrs. Spear would see many such birthdays.

Mrs. S. R. Lane, Mrs. T. E. Libby and family, Mrs. W. F. Pierce, Mrs. E. C. McIntosh, Mrs. E. M. Hall, Miss Evelyn Manson, Langtry Smith, Crete Hamilton, Gladys Simmons and Harold Vinal and Clarence Smith of Roxbury, Mass., plunked at Hurricane. Thursday with Miss Alice G. Lane and in the afternoon attended the closing day exercises in the schools. The schools taught by Miss Hart and Miss Margaret Buttner united in a program which was highly praised by the visitors. The rendering of several beautiful melodies by the advanced pupils and dainty and tuneful little action songs by the primary grade, with stirring patriotic songs by both schools was a feature of the delightful program. Miss Lane, director of music, certainly deserves great credit for the result of the year's pioneer work in music in the Hurricane schools. In fact her work in this line is constantly being recognized by those who appreciate the effort involved and the knowledge and ability demanded, as of the highest. Her work in chorus training has been enjoyed many times by our people and on occasions when visitors from the cities have been privileged to listen to the choruses from the town schools of which Miss Lane is music superintendent, the comment is very favorable in comparison with the work obtained in the larger schools. It is regretted however that the importance of continuing the work in music in the high school, where a more complete result would be seen and heard, is not regarded a necessity.

A picnic dinner was served under the trees on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Libby the fourth. In the party were Miss Mattie Libby of Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Lane, Mrs. Martha Freeman, Mrs. S. R. Lane, Miss Alice G. Lane, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Lane, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Morong and son and the families of T. E. and C. S. Libby.

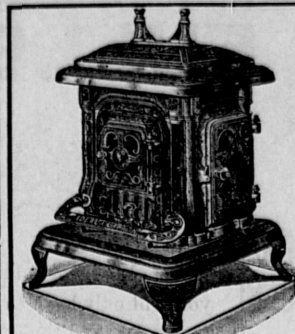

Miss Esther Neelund entertained a party of her friends Friday evening at the home of Mrs. David Young. The affair was in celebration of her birthday anniversary. Cake and ice cream was served.
