"False friends are like our shadows; they keep close to us while we walk in the sunshine, but leave us the instant we step into the shade."

"The battleship South Carolina, 17,000 tons displacement, was launched from Cramp's yard at Philadelphia last week. She will cost when completed about $7,000,000, and her total complement of officers and enlisted men will be 900.

A New York fruit dealer says that there is no kind of fruit which people try harder to spoil than cantaloupes. They are almost always a trifle green when sold, and this dealer says that, as a general rule, people at once stick them in an ice chest. Instead of doing that the melons should be placed in the sun for a day and turned around once an hour. Then they should be put on ice over night and eaten the next morning.

One plan that is proposed for the commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln is that of Representative D. F. Lafane, of the 26th District of Pennsylvania. He advocates a great boulevard from the White House in Washington to the battlefield of Gettysburg, to be called the Lincoln Memorial Highway. Mr. Lafane says he will introduce at the next session of Congress a bill appropriating $7,000,000 to build the road. His idea is that the bill should be passed to be signed and made law on February 12 next—Lincoln's Birthday.

A. C. Ballouet of Wheeling, W. Va., recently lost four fingers that were badly mangled in an ice-cream freezer. The surgeons told him they could graft new ones on if he could find the fingers. He put a want ad in the papers for fingers and received offers from 21 men, each of whom offered to sell him a finger for $300. The collection was examined by the surgeons and four were selected that were almost a match for those lost by Ballouet. These will be removed from the hands of the owners and each man will get $300 or $1200 for the lot. The surgeons are confident they can graft them on Ballouet's hand, and that in a few weeks he will come out of the hospital with a hand practically as good as ever.

Preparations are well under way for the next national convention—that of the Independence party, which will be held in Chicago, Monday, July 27. The leaders have been compiling their lists for the convention and with the return from Europe of William R. Hearst all will be ready. The Independence party leaders say they will put a full ticket in the field, and will try also to have a state ticket in every state in the union. In 38 states national committees of the Independence party have been appointed. Although the leaders have not come out strong as yet for in the campaign, there is a strong sentiment they say for Thomas L. Higen of West Springfield, Mass.

Much indignation has been created in the Italian colony of British Columbia because of the use of the word "Dago" by the Attorney General of that province. In commenting on the case "The Seated (front row) Prentice and Robert (children of Samuel B. Aylward), Lovina, daughter of William Aylward and Margaret, daughter of James P. Aylward.

The above picture represents a remarkable Rockland family, the components of which are Capt. and Mrs. Frank E. Aylward, their seven sons and two daughters, one son-in-law, four daughters-in-law and six grand children.
The 22 members of this group are not only all residents of the city, but reside within a few minutes' walk of each other's homes. Six of the Aylwards are voters in Ward 6, and one of them, Charles T. Aylward, represents his ward in the common council. Capt. Frank E. Aylward has also served in that body. The father of this thriving family, though scarcely past the prime of life, belongs to the old school of sea captains, born and bred on the coast, and was originally used in the states bordering on Mexico to designate a man of Spanish parentage, and then by extension to all Spaniards, Portuguese and Italians. The Attorney General is reported during the prosecution of an Italian on the charge of murder not only to have used the word several times as descriptive of Southern Europeans but also to have claimed that, with Oriental coolness, saying plainly that, in his opinion, they were not wanted in the country.

Every time a person licks a United States postage stamp he gets a taste of sweet potato. The gum with which the stamps are backed is made from the succulent vegetable because Uncle Sam's lieutenants consider it has the most harmless preparation of the sort. All the gum used on American postage stamps is mixed by the government at the bureau of engraving and printing where the stamps are made. It is spread on the sheets after the stamps have been printed. While Uncle Sam tries to make the lot as the stamp-maker as innocuous as possible, he does not advise making a meal on his sweet potato gum. The whole process of gum-making and applying is made as clean as possible, but there is yet another item to be considered. A sheet of postage stamps is handled a good many times before it even leaves the bureau where it is made. If you lick any of your stamps pick out those from the middle of the sheet. The corner ones have gone through the fingers of half a dozen or more counters, not to mention the perforators and the separators and the rest.

ON ACCEPTING HAYWOOD.

Western Correspondent Thinks New England Voters Should Be Shy of Him.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette: Apropos of the recent visit of Wm. D. Haywood to Rockland and of the exploitation of his opinions through your columns, I am led to express some wonder that any body of honest New England voters can accept this man as a teacher and leader in politics, sociology or morals, considering the position in which he stands before the country and the world. Tried on a charge of murder, he was acquitted, it is true, but it was doubtless not because the jury believed Orchard's story, but because of lack of corroborative testimony, without which the evidence of an accomplice may not be sufficient to establish a case. And it is to be remembered that Judge Fremont Wood, before whom Haywood was tried, has said on the bench that he is convinced that Orchard told the truth.

The General Demand

of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

TENANT'S HARBOR DAYS.

The Never Failing Interest That Attaches To a Ship's Launching.

XV.

In my boyhood, when two, and sometimes three, schooners were building at one time, the harbor was a busy place. Bean & Long, John Brown, and S. S. Hickmore were the builders, and the water-front presented a very animated appearance. It has been so long since I have thought about those days that names of the schooners do not come back to me readily, but I remember a few. The Daisy Parkhurst, Earl H. Potter, Sadie Willcutt, G. W. Andrews, Levi Hart, E. A. Hayes, were among the number. We youngsters were always around after chips and shavings, for we got a good part of our firewood out of the shipyards. We knew what workmen laid the keel, and who made each mast and sail, and were interested in the construction from the time the keel was laid down on the blocks until the hour that the schooner was ready for launching. When the high course of sides came everything was mired ready, ways laid and greased, and then the day was appointed for the launching.

It was a holiday for us youngsters, school was closed for the day, and the whole town was gathered. When the tide had reached its highest point the order was given to "cut away" and the workmen wrought like beavers to cut the shores that held the schooner.

"And see! she starts! She starts,—she moves,—she seems to feel the thrill of life along her keel. And spurring with her foot the ground, With one exciting, joyous bound, She leaps into the ocean's arms."

How the crowd would cheer! And, let me see didn't they use to have lemonade—in those days for the older folks? Kind of seems to me that they did.

You kids of today have missed something that we kids got "without money and without price." Do you remember the story of how "George" (that was always the boy's name in the story-book) was walking one day near the seashore, when he spied a ship under full sail and he resolved then and there that he would some day "read the quarter-deck as master of his own ship. And he did, so the story said.

One day when I was on Barter's Point I saw a ship over near Matine. I too resolved to tread the quarter-deck some day as master. Did I? I did not, but I came near it. I stood on the quarter-deck of the ship J. B. Walker when she was launched at Thomaston. Freddie Henderson, Went. Seavey, Rolo Jackson and myself went to the launching. The ship was launched from the Cushing side and they had a large anchor, with a huge cable attached, up in the yard to draw her stern around so that she would not strike the wharf on the Thomaston side.

The tide was within a few inches of the top of the wharf, and Uncle Johnnie Martin, from Tenants Harbor stood on the quarter and hoisted to the crowd, "Hey, there! git off that wharf! When this ship goes off the water will come up over the wharf and you will all be drowned!"

The crowd gave Uncle Johnnie the merry ha-ha! Well, when she did go off it was just as he said, and when we went by the corner of the wharf, and about four feet of water came up over it carrying men, women and children, dogs and cordwood up the dock, Uncle Johnnie leaned over the rail and this is what he said:

"Now, you blame fools, I guess you wish that you had paid some attention to what I was telling you!"
My brother was telling me the other day that that noble ship has been converted into a coal barge, and is destined to end her days in being ignominiously towed back and forth between Boston and the coal ports—that noble craft which once so proudly rode the waves, a thing of life and beauty, now an ugly coal hulk! I cannot better express my feelings when I think about it, than by quoting the Poet Holmes, who wrote that famous poem "Old Ironsides," to protest against the destruction of the U. S. Frigate Constitution, (and by the way it was my privilege to sign the memorial to Congress protesting against her destruction a year or so ago.)

"O better that her shattered hull
Should sink beneath the wave;
Her thunders should be muffled deep,
And there should be her grave;
And to the mast her holy flag,
Set every threadbare sail,
And give her to the god of storms,
The lightning and the gale!"

"Boze."

FOR NEW ENGLAND.

Governor Cobb has received notice of a conference to be held in Boston sometime in November for the purpose of considering the greater development of New England and at which it is expected that the governors of the six states, as well as many other prominent men of those states will be present. It is proposed to form a permanent organization to be composed of all senators and representatives of New England in Congress so that, to quote the words of Governor Guild of Massachusetts, "they can stand, be as one man and fight for New England when the interests of this section require it." Much interest in the movement is felt by the people of Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut and it is expected that the conference will be a large one.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

At the Mid Hour of Night.

At the mid hour of night, when stars are weeping,
And the lone vale we loved, when life shone
And I think off, if spirits can steal from the region
Of the dead, I think I see you there,
And tell me our love is remembered, even in the sky!

Then I sing the wild song it once was rapture to Sing, I sing
When our voices, commingling, breathed like
One on the car.
And as I look far off through the vale my sad
Orison rolls,
I think, oh my love! 'tis thy voice, from the Kingdom of Souls
Faintly answering still the Woe so dear.

If noise and votes were the same thing, Mr. Bryan would have served two presidential terms long ago, instead of still being in pursuit of something that recedes from him as the years go by. He was beaten in his first race by an electoral vote of 271 to 176 and by a popular majority of 601,496, the largest ever given, except in the Grant-Greeley campaign. Yet the noisy candidate in 1896 was prodigious. Mr. Bryan tried it again in 1900 and was defeated by an electoral vote of 292 to 155 and by a popular majority of 655,496, which is the record. That was also a campaign of whooping and the most sanguine expectations, if they were sincere. The "peevish one" moved in an atmosphere of seeming tremendous enthusiasm until November punctured the inflated confidence. Eight years have gone by and the convention that was nominated this phenomenally-beaten candidate a third time got up a great roar of noise and spectacular marching over the mention of his name, the demonstration lasting an hour and a half. It was a pumped-up affair and timed by the clique that prarranged it. It was as hollow when searched for substantial things as are the played-out issues that mark Bryan's successive campaigns, and that he has discarded himself. The Bryan noise is a sham, but the sham will run, as usual, until November. It is the best a forlorn hope party can offer.

The Democrats have chosen as their standard-bearer a Rockland citizen who has been much in the public eye during the past 12 years, through his association with the state grange. Although not primarily the choice of the Maine Democrats, and opposed to some extent in his own county, he was nominated Wednesday with a brave show of enthusiasm, and is looked upon now as the one man who can lead the party to success. While The Courier-Gazette cannot subscribe to his platform and policies and will oppose them as long as the campaign is on, it will bestow upon its fellow-citizen the courteous treatment that his conduct may justify, not being willing to belittle or censure one of our residents because he is an opposition candidate for high office. The fact that Governor Cobb did not always receive similar treatment will not cause the slightest alteration in our policy. Mr. Gardner represents some views that are widely at variance with what we believe the best interests of the state and community require, but he is a Rockland man, a capable man, and will not be boosted by any knocking from us.

Commissioner of Education Draper of New York has stirred up a hornet's nest of hostile criticism by his reported remarks at the New York University Summer School touching on the cherished birthright of the American youth to aspire to the highest positions of honor and power. After contrasting the condition of boys and girls in foreign countries who are expected to stay in the class in which they are born with that of American school children, who are taught to regard themselves as the equals of any, Draper continued: "Our educational system, acting upon the national temperaments, often leads children into mischief. It often encourages them to undertake things for which they are not fitted. I think we make a mistake in telling the child that he may be the president of the United States." This sentiment is in line with the recent movement in New York and other states to have trade schools added to the public provision for education.

A committee of the House of Commons has reported in favor of changing the hours of the summer work day. The bill proposes that all clocks in the United Kingdom shall on a certain date each spring be advanced eighty minutes from the solar time registered at the meridian of Greenwich. The effect will be to make everybody begin work earlier in the day and get through earlier, thus having more daylight leisure after the day's work is done. In the fall when the days shorten the clocks will be set back again at solar time. Both changes would be made in the night when most people are asleep. It is argued for the measure that it will cause a saving of 18 cents a week to the workpeople for artificial light. The plan has met with general approval in England, the London Stock Exchange being the only important commercial body opposing it.

Chicago hears that the leading railroad managers have agreed to defer the question of a general wage cut for three months in the hope that by that time other conditions will be improved so that a cut will not be necessary or that labor organizations will recognize the necessity of a reduction. The feeling prevails in some companies that wages ought not to be cut so long as dividends are paid.

The Opinion devotes a considerable portion of its space this week to saying that our attacks on the Democratic administration in this city are hysterical and untruthful. Can it be that no other paper publishes facts save the Opinion? We will leave the answer to our people who have been reading that paper during the past 25 years.

Mr. G. C. G. is a quitter, as the Opinion says, referring to the late road commission about Mr. Otis's resignation of the school board?

POLITICAL POINTS

The Expected Happened in Democratic State Convention.—Byron Boyd Elected Chairman of Republican State Committee. Senator Staples' Trickery.

The Democratic state convention was held in Bangor Wednesday with an attendance of 862 delegates. Obadiah Gardner of Rockland was nominated for governor by acclamation, and made a speech of acceptance which tickled the delegates mightily. The choice of Presidential electors led to some lively scraps, aside from which it would not have been a thoroughbred Democratic convention.

Hon. George M. Hanson of Calais was chairman of the convention. E. J. Carter of Stonington was one of the secretaries. Before transacting any other business the convention voted to send a telegram of congratulations to William J. Bryan, the mention of whose name set the convention in an uproar.

Knox county's organization was reported as follows: State committee—man, Thomas A. Hunt of Camden; committee on resolutions, Fred W. Andrews, Rockport; vice president, Elden Burket, Union.

The election of Mr. Hunt as a member of the state committee was a great surprise to everybody, and is charged to the treachery of Senator Staples who is said to have told the Knox county delegation that Candidate Gardner wanted the Camden man. This story was accepted in good faith, and Mr. Hunt was elected by a unanimous vote.

The platform is a lengthy one, but the only section which seemed to arouse any enthusiasm related to the repeal of the Scurry law and the reestablishment of the prohibitory amendment.

Everett M. Mower of Augusta was nominated for state auditor.

Obadiah Gardner's name was proposed at the convention by Hon. Charles F. Johnson of Waterville, who made a very fine speech. The nomination was seconded by Thomas A. Hunt of Camden, Mr. O'Brien of Portland, and Moore of Saco and Peter Chase of Kennebunk.

Mr. Hunt was a member of the committee which escorted Mr. Gardner to the platform. The delegates cheered themselves hoarse upon the appearance of the Rockland man.

Mr. Gardner made a fine speech, and voted a considerable portion of his acceptance speech to the liquor law. He said he believed in law and enforcement, but thought it necessary before he got an honest enforcement that it be forthwith submitted to the people to pass upon whether it is their choice to retain it or not.

The Democratic state committee organized with Fred Beane of Hallowell as chairman and Tom Hunt of Camden as treasurer.

Judge Alton B. Parker, who was so roundly abused for the Democratic failure four years ago, has jumped aboard the Bryan bandwagon and offered his services to the national committee.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is to stump for Bryan. The Nebraskan's troubles multiply.

A prominent Rockland politician who has lately returned from the northern part of the state, says that Hon. George A. Murchie of Calais was undoubtedly nominated to succeed Congressman Mower. The Calais man will have the 80 votes of Washington county solidly behind him, and such have been his trade relations with Aroostook county that he will have the majority of the delegates from that section.

Piscataquis county will be pretty well committed to Hon. Frank E. Guernsey, while Penobscot county will give perfunctory support to its several candidates. Urchies ought to land on about the third ballot," said The Courier-Gazette informant.

Byron Boyd of Augusta, for years secretary of the Republican state committee, has managed the campaign for the September election in Maine. He was elected chairman of the state committee Wednesday, after a long session of the committee. When the state committee assembled at noon there were several stories in circulation relative to the proposition which had been made for the management of the campaign. One plan which was suggested by some of the friends of Hon. Berri M. Fernald the Republican candidate for Governor, was that a campaign manager be selected apart from the members of the state committee. For this place several names had been presented to Mr. Fernald and approved by him.

The plan to have a campaign manager was looked upon with favor by some of Mr. Fernald's friends but some of the more experienced political managers who were present expressed objection to this departure and finally it was decided that Mr. Boyd should not only be elected chairman but should serve as campaign manager as well and the services of the outside person will not be required. N. H. Eastman, the new member of the state committee from Knox county of Warren, was present, as was also Maynard S. Bird, the retiring Knox county member.

W. J. Bryan will be officially notified of his nomination for President at his home on Aug. 12. John W. Kern will be notified at Indianapolis at a date to be determined upon later.

The Socialistic national committee announces that it will send a special train, painted a bright red on a 60 day tour of the country, beginning Aug. 30, with Eugene V. Debs, the Presidential candidate, aboard. Debs is scheduled to speak from three to five times a day. The committee has already arranged 10 stops, and three times as many cities want to hear him. A band of music, newspaper correspondents and party officials will be on the train and excursions are planned from neighboring points to every place where it stops.

The special convention in the 4th Maine district will be held in Bangor, Aug. 6.

Old Home Week Coming.

August 9-15 Will be Made a Glad Time for Former Residents.—Invitations Are Out.

Although little has been heard concerning Old Home Week thus far this season, it is a fact that Rockland will observe it, and in a way that cannot fail to please home-comers as well as our own people.

Aug. 9 to 15 is the week set apart for this purpose, and so far as lies in its power the committee will have something in the way of entertainment on top each day.

Park place, Oak and Orient streets will be at the disposal of tent shows and street fairs, which will serve to enliven the hours and make one think of the state fair midway.

The program as now roughly outlined will include a reception, ball, parade, motor-boat races, baseball and sports of all kinds each day.

Possibly two, will keep the bracing August atmosphere full of enlivening music each day of the week.

The raising of the necessary funds has been put in the hands of a committee comprising A. J. Huston, chairman, Fred J. Simonton, Jr., W. F. Norcross, A. W. Gregory, John E. Stevens and Walter H. Spear. When this committee show of this magnitude can be successfully conducted. That the money will be honestly and judiciously expended it is unnecessary to add.

The Board of Trade has given its endorsement to the celebration by appropriating the sum of $20.

We publish herewith the invitation which Rockland sends to its former residents wherever located. The invitation, was compiled by Mayor Thompson, and puts the matter in concise and eloquent language.

At a meeting of the Association Thursday evening the following committees were appointed:

On field sports, A. S. Black and A. C. McLoon; on motor-boat race, Mont Simmons, R. L. Thorndike, Ralph Bird; on parade, J. W. Thomas, business men's portion; Mrs. E. S. Farwell and on general portion, on street fair, A. H. Jones; on music and Friday night ball, E. B. MacAllister; finance committee, A. J. Huston, J. O. Stevens, F. J. Simonton, W. H. Spear, A. W. Gregory, E. S. Farwell and H. N. McDonald.

Merchants and citizens will not be asked to decorate this year, which will relieve them of much expense and trouble. This fact should be borne in mind when the committee to solicit funds visits you.

PLEASANT BEACH.

Mrs. S. H. McLoon and grand daughter Miss Marion McLoon, are at the small McLoon cottage.

Mrs. E. T. G. Rawson, Miss Helena Blethen, Miss Dorothy Blethen of Rockland, Miss Martha Knight of Camden are stopping at the Blethen cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. John Howard are occupying their cottage. Austin Spear of Rockland is also stopping there.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Gould with Mr. Woolley of Boston are at their cottage.

Mrs. D. E. Woolley, Miss Anita Woolley, Chandler Woolley and Mrs. Mary Thomas are enjoying their usual summer visit here.

Mrs. Bailey and grand children, and Lizzie Bailey of Portland, are occupying the large McLoon cottage.

At the Wright cottage, formerly the White cottage are Misses Mary and Martha Hall, Misses Marion and Emma Cobb, Miss Meri Doe and chaperone.

A party of young ladies from Thomaston are occupying the Andrews cottage.

The Risings opened their cottage Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. C. Wright are occupying their summer home.

GLENMERE.

Mrs. M. J. Bond, who has been visiting in Portland, has returned home.

Charles Ward, wife and daughter of Lynn, Mass., are guests of Capt. and Mrs. O. A. Andrews.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smith, who have been spending their vacation with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wiley, returned to their home in Watkinson, Tuesday.

Mrs. J. H. Bond, Mrs. Mary Brown and daughter of Brooklyn, N. Y., are at their cottage for a few weeks.

Rev. H. L. Skilling, wife and son spent last week in Camden, guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Martin.

Miss Mary Henderson is home from Massachusetts for the summer.

Mrs. Sadie Merrill and children of East Boston are guests of their uncle, Hiram Russell.

Mrs. L. C. Sheerer and daughter of Tenant's Harbor, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Morton Barber.

Mrs. Lucy May is visiting her daughter at Spruce Head for a few weeks.

Miss Melissa Hupper is at home from Lynn, Mass., for the summer. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Luantha Wilson.

RAZORVILLE.

Henry Moody of Lowell is visiting his sister, Mrs. John B. Howard.

The forest fire that has been raging in the west part of this town, the south part of Somerville and the north part of Jefferson was extinguished Tuesday night by the shower that passed over this place. This is the first rain here for many weeks and the drought was getting serious. Some had had to bring their cattle home that were away at pasture, for want of water in the pastures.

Many are well along with their haying. Some report a larger crop than last year, but on the whole there will be a light crop owing to the drought.

State Sunday School Missionary W. E. Overlock spent Sunday at Belgrade.

OLD HOME WEEK

CITY OF ROCKLAND

LOVE of home has always been a marked characteristic of New England people. It has impressed itself upon all communities wherever her sons and daughters are found.

Probably in no part of New England has that sentiment been more fondly cherished than in the old Pine Tree State and probably there is no other state in all the Union from which the beneficial effect of such a lofty sentiment has been disseminated.

Natural surroundings have done much for the children of Maine to intensify these sentiments. Her rugged hills, fertile valleys, beautiful lakes and craggy shores have impressed themselves upon the minds of all her children.

In common with five hundred other towns, Rockland extends her greeting to all her children wherever they may be scattered over the face of the earth and desires to welcome them, so that her former children, though living elsewhere, may meet and greet her children living here.

You are therefore hereby notified that for the purpose above named the City of Rockland has set aside the week in August from the 9th to the 15th inclusive, during which time we hope to meet many former residents of our city. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the 11th, 12th and 13th of August, will be made especially pleasant and agreeable for all "home comers" and their friends.

Reuben D. Thompson

show of this magnitude can be successfully conducted. That the money will be honestly and judiciously expended it is unnecessary to add.

The Board of Trade has given its endorsement to the celebration by appropriating the sum of $20.

We publish herewith the invitation which Rockland sends to its former residents wherever located. The invitation, was compiled by Mayor Thompson, and puts the matter in concise and eloquent language.

At a meeting of the Association Thursday evening the following committees were appointed:

On field sports, A. S. Black and A. C. McLoon; on motor-boat race, Mont Simmons, R. L. Thorndike, Ralph Bird; on parade, J. W. Thomas, business men's portion; Mrs. E. S. Farwell and on general portion, on street fair, A. H. Jones; on music and Friday night ball, E. B. MacAllister; finance committee, A. J. Huston, J. O. Stevens, F. J. Simonton, W. H. Spear, A. W. Gregory, E. S. Farwell and H. N. McDonald.

Merchants and citizens will not be asked to decorate this year, which will relieve them of much expense and trouble. This fact should be borne in mind when the committee to solicit funds visits you.

PLEASANT BEACH.

Mrs. S. H. McLoon and grand daughter Miss Marion McLoon, are at the small McLoon cottage.

Mrs. E. T. G. Rawson, Miss Helena Blethen, Miss Dorothy Blethen of Rockland, Miss Martha Knight of Camden are stopping at the Blethen cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. John Howard are occupying their cottage. Austin Spear of Rockland is also stopping there.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Gould with Mr. Woolley of Boston are at their cottage.

Mrs. D. E. Woolley, Miss Anita Woolley, Chandler Woolley and Mrs. Mary Thomas are enjoying their usual summer visit here.

Mrs. Bailey and grand children, and Lizzie Bailey of Portland, are occupying the large McLoon cottage.

At the Wright cottage, formerly the White cottage are Misses Mary and Martha Hall, Misses Marion and Emma Cobb, Miss Meri Doe and chaperone.

A party of young ladies from Thomaston are occupying the Andrews cottage.

The Risings opened their cottage Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. C. Wright are occupying their summer home.

GLENMERE.

Mrs. M. J. Bond, who has been visiting in Portland, has returned home.

Charles Ward, wife and daughter of Lynn, Mass., are guests of Capt. and Mrs. O. A. Andrews.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smith, who have been spending their vacation with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wiley, returned to their home in Watkinson, Tuesday.

Mrs. J. H. Bond, Mrs. Mary Brown and daughter of Brooklyn, N. Y., are at their cottage for a few weeks.

Rev. H. L. Skilling, wife and son spent last week in Camden, guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Martin.

Miss Mary Henderson is home from Massachusetts for the summer.

Mrs. Sadie Merrill and children of East Boston are guests of their uncle, Hiram Russell.

Mrs. L. C. Sheerer and daughter of Tenant's Harbor, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Morton Barber.

Mrs. Lucy May is visiting her daughter at Spruce Head for a few weeks.

Miss Melissa Hupper is at home from Lynn, Mass., for the summer. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Luantha Wilson.

RAZORVILLE.

Henry Moody of Lowell is visiting his sister, Mrs. John B. Howard.

The forest fire that has been raging in the west part of this town, the south part of Somerville and the north part of Jefferson was extinguished Tuesday night by the shower that passed over this place. This is the first rain here for many weeks and the drought was getting serious. Some had had to bring their cattle home that were away at pasture, for want of water in the pastures.

Many are well along with their haying. Some report a larger crop than last year, but on the whole there will be a light crop owing to the drought.

JIM'S TIMELY HIT.

Fish Commissioner Saved the Day for His Team at Board of Trade Outing—Governor Witnessed the Game.

The Rockland Board of Trade held its annual outing at Crescent Beach Wednesday afternoon and evening. The attendance was rather small—unexplainedly so—but the members of the party had such a good time that they may be justly envied by the absentees.

At 3 p. m. the men folks organized a ball game, Messrs. Black and Winslow "choosing up." At the end of the 9th inning the score was 14 to 14, hence the necessity of an extra inning. Winslow's team made three scores in the 10th and was apparently on the easy road to victory. Black's braves managed to fill the bases, but were still one score shy of tying the game when the noble form of Fish Commissioner James Donohue appeared at the bat. Jim hadn't played ball but once before since he left high school, but he had already proved during the game that he was a dangerous man at the bat. McLoon was in the box shooting 'em over with great velocity. He had two strikes on the big commissioner, when there came a resounding whack, and the ball was seen winding its frightened flight toward Dick Burpee's bungalow. Amid enthusiasm that has never been equaled on Smith Heights the doughy James began the circuit of bases. By the time he reached second, however, three runs had been scored and Black's men were victors. They rushed onto the diamond and with fierce shouts hoisted Donohue, the hero, onto their shoulders and trotted off the ground with him. He was quite a lumpy burden, even for six athletes, and the latter were not sorry when he was safely landed. Neither was Jim, who was uncertain just how long his body guard's muscles and enthusiasm would keep him above terra firma.

The commissioner's great feat (speaking now in the singular sense) was witnessed by an automobile party of which Governor Cobb was a member. The latter expressed himself as very proud of his appointee.

The full score of this game will probably never reach the public eye. The catching was done by "Ducky" Cohen and Rob Stevenson. All the other players took turns at pitching, and here again Commissioner Donohue was distinguished, for not a man saw first base while he was in the box. The umpiring was done by John W. Thompson, who laid himself open to the charge of favoritism in the fatal inning, when he went away unscathed because the losers were too tired to contend with a man of his well known argumentative proclivities.

While the baseball game was in progress the ladies of the party enjoyed bridge on the veranda of the dancing pavilion. The prize, a handsome plate, was won by Mrs. E. S. Farwell.

The supper was served to about 50 persons who enjoyed one of the finest spreads that Landlord Smith ever set forth. All of the regular delicacies were provided together with broiled live lobsters and watermelon.

The evening was devoted to dancing, with excellent music by the Meservy Quintet. Up to No. 11 Secretary Thomaston entertained a party of distinguished callers who proceeded to give Hoyte points on a popular card game.

It was midnight when the last car went cityward.

The committee of arrangements compressed F. W. Fuller, A. S. Black, A. C. McLoon, H. N. McDougall, A. H. Jones and M. A. Johnson.

Ladies of Edwin Libby Post Relief Corps will picnic at Davies' bungalow, Ashmere, next Wednesday. Buckboards will leave Post headquarters at 9 o'clock.

The H. Harahan building at the corner of Main and Myrtle streets is being connected with the sewer. A considerable blasting job was necessary in the performance of the work.

The date of the band concert and fireworks display at Oakland Park is July 29. The Rockland Military Band will furnish music from 3 p. m. till the hour of closing that night.

The sports who missed the great Cunningham-Hanlon bout Fourth of July night, will have another chance next Wednesday. The particulars will be found in the sporting column on another page.

At the next meeting of the governor and council, July 30, there will be several pardon hearings. One is on the petition of Lester F. Hall of Waldoboro, who is serving two years for breaking and entering.

F. L. Gray, who is employed at the Spruce Head granite works, was in the city Wednesday. He said that the wells were practically dry at the Head, and that lack of water was seriously handicapping operations. There are about 85 men employed in the granite trade there at the present time.

Grand Chancellor Davis of the Grand Domain of Maine, Knights of Pythias, has announced the appointment of his district deputies. C. F. Russell of George's River Lodge, Warren, is named for the 13th district; and Charles W. Robinson of King Arthur Lodge, Stonington, is named for the 12th district.

The Men's League of the First Baptist church has its first annual outing this Friday afternoon and evening at Oakland Park. Moving pictures, baseball and other sports will command the attention this afternoon, and at 6 o'clock a bountiful lunch will be served on the grounds. Each member of the League has the privilege of inviting one or more friends.

Fruit lovers will find their desires easily gratified in any of the local markets at this time, there being an abundance of peaches, pears, plums, oranges, pineapples, watermelons, grape fruit, cantaloupes, etc. Prices rule about the same as in former years, with the exception of watermelons. Fancy stock costs 70 cents each.

William W. Case, who has been attending the Grand Lodge of Elks in Dallas, Texas, this week, has remembered some of his brother Elks with souvenir post cards collected en route. The Grand Lodge elected R. L. Holland of Colorado Springs as Grand Exalted Ruler. He had no opposition. Los Angeles was chosen as the next meeting place.

One of the treasured mementoes which John Donohue brought home from his trip abroad last year was a linen duster, which he purchased in Belfast, Ireland. On a recent automobile trip an accident happened to the car, one of the occupants of which is himself a skilled chauffeur. "Let me borrow your duster," said the young man; "mine's a new one, and I don't want to soil it. Temporarily hypnotized by such an exhibition of nerve John passed over his Belfast treasure and Alf was soon burrowing among the machinery with it. The article of wearing apparel was well christened when it was returned. When John wants to demonstrate that there is in existence greater nerve than he possesses himself, he simply produces that soiled Belfast linen duster and recites the above incident.

Johnny Walker made his 23d annual visit to Crescent Beach last Sunday.

The days have already shortened 24 minutes, and we hardly knew that summer had arrived.

A heavy shower passed over Rockland late Tuesday night serving to lay the dust and refresh the crops, but yet only hinting at what is really necessary.

At the First Baptist church Sunday evening, July 26, the following artists will assist the choir: Mrs. Lillian Copping, Edna Hinckley violinist, Messrs. Kenneth Lord and Harold Greene.

Mrs. Oliver J. Conant died Monday, July 13, at the home of her son, Rev. William F. Conant, Wolfboro, N. H., where she went last fall. The remains were taken to East Harpswell for burial.

The third battalion of the Third Regiment, Uniform Rank K. of P., composed of members of Key Company, Rockland, Thomaston, Camden and Stonington, to the number of about 70 will have an outdoor drill this Friday night in this city.

The season has arrived when the editorial rooms of The Courier-Gazette are frequently brightened by floral contributions from kind friends. We are too modest to hint and too proud to beg, but we cannot refrain from saying that such courtesies are always gratefully received.

The Loyal Temperance League will have a picnic at Oakland next Wednesday. The children are requested to meet at the hall at 10 a. m. on that day. If stormy the picnic will be postponed to the following day. The mothers of the children and members of the W. C. T. U. are invited.

The Verona Park camp meeting will open Aug. 22 and continue until the 30th. The speakers and mediums engaged are John E. Darling and wife, Lottie J. Darling, who are known all over the United States. They have travelled extensively in Europe. Albina Warren of Manchester, N. H., a test and message medium, will also be present through the session.

Dr. J. W. Wilde was called to Ten Harbor this week to attend Dr. F. O. Bartlett's driving horse which was suffering from a broken hip, caused by getting one foot over the halter while hitched to an apple tree. It was found necessary to kill the animal in order to relieve its suffering.

Horace J. Tibbets of Rockport was the former owner.

A picket enclosure for the new fountain at Oakland Park was completed on the 17th inst.

The circular fence was constructed in W. H. Glover's lumber yard, where it excited many surmises as to its probable use, particularly on the part of the graphic-minded readers who spend their idle hours in the Butler brokerage office overhead. No such craft had ever been seen at that point before, and even Capt. Charles had no plausible theory for the first time in his life. A reporter's inquiries solved the mystery.

The Knox County Board of Underwriters had its annual outing Wednesday at Crescent Beach. The old officers were re-elected, as follows: J. R. Baker, president; E. A. Butler, vice president; H. O. Gurdy, secretary; and H. N. McDougall, treasurer. The others present were George E. Allen and G. H. Talbot, Camden; C. C. Cross, E. George's River Lodge, Warren; and Baker, Rockland. The agents enjoyed a fine dinner at Smith's, after which they watched the famous Board of Trade ball game.

The city building and vicinity appears to be an unhealthy locality, for E. Clark Walker, late road commissioner, Monday had his memorable scrap with the City Boss, resulting in his retirement from office. Tuesday forenoon while walking up Spring street past the block occupied by Hewitt's dry goods store somebody carelessly dropped a hatchet off the roof and it shot past Mr. Walker's head with barely an inch to spare. Small wonder that Clark wants to quit that locality for a more congenial one where bosses, knives and axes trouble him not.

Charles T. Spear, the sweet-pea king, endeavored himself to The Courier-Gazette staff Tuesday by presenting each number with a large and fragrant bouquet of the sweet blossoms which he cultivates so famously. Mr. Spear formerly raised his sweet peas at his home on Middle street hill, but his garden is now located on his farm near Branch Brook, where he is also raising vegetables on an extended scale. The drouth has given him a deal of unlooked for work. In order to water the sweet pea plants he hauled 40 barrels of water from the brook one day this week.

APPLETON.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barker of Salem have arrived and will spend the summer at their home here.

J. Asher Pitman and family of Lincolnville were guests of his parents last week.

Mrs. Addie Sullivan-Oakes and Mrs. Waterman of New York are at Mrs. Oakes' summer home on the Ridge.

Mrs. Earle Bradford and little son, and her sister Miss Alice Tobey of Augusta, are guests of their uncle, J. W. Martin.

Bernard A. Pitman returned home this week after a two week visit to relatives and friends in Lincolnville, Rockland and Matinicus.

Miss Adna Pitman of Stoneham, Mass., is in town this summer.

Mrs. Mary Melcher of Barre, Vt., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ibra D. McCarrison.

Chapter Four

THE scene is at Hazleby, Lord Dunstanbury's Essex seat. His lordship is striking the top of his breakfast egg.

"I say, Cousin Meg, old Brownlow's got a deuced pretty kitchen maid."

"There you go! There you go! Just like your father and your grandfather and all of them! If the English people had any spirit they'd have swept the Dunstanburys and all the wicked Whig gang into the sea long ago."

"Before you could turn around they'd have bought it up, inclosed it and won an election by opening it to ships at a small fee on Sundays," said Mr. Pinder.

"Why are Whigs worse than Tories?" inquired Mr. Pikes, with an air of patient inquiry.

"The will of heaven, I suppose," sniffed Lady Margaret Duddington.

"To display divine omnipotence in that line," suggested Mr. Pinder.

"A deuced pretty girl!" said Dunstanbury in reflective tones. He was doing his best to reproduce the impression he had received at Morpington hall, but obviously with no great success.

"On some pretext, frivolous though it be, let us drive over and see this miracle," Pinder suggested. "How could we better employ this last day of our visit? You'll drive us over, Percival?"

"No, thank you, Mr. Pinder," said the young man, resolute in wisdom. "I'll send you over if you like."

"I'll come with you," said Pikes. "But how account for ourselves? Old Brownlow is unknown to us."

"If Percival had been going I'd have had nothing to do with it, but I don't mind taking you two old sills," said Lady Margaret. "I wanted to pay a call on Elizabeth Brownlow anyhow. We were at school together once. But I won't guarantee you a sight of the kitchen maid."

"It's a pretty drive for this part of the country," observed Dunstanbury. "It may well become your favorite road," smiled Mr. Pinder benevolently.

"And since Lady Meg goes with us, it's already ours," added Mr. Pikes gallantly.

So they used to go on for hours at a time, as Dunstanbury had declared, both at Hazleby when they were there and at Lady Meg's house in Berkeley square, where they almost always were. They were pleased to consider themselves politicians—Pikes a Whig, twenty years behind date; Pinder, a Tory. It was all an affectionate, assumed for the purpose, but with the very doubtful result of amusing Lady Meg. To Dunstanbury the two old squires, who were the waifs of the society they were for all that each had a sufficient income to his name and a reputable life behind him—were sheers treasurers, and there seems little ground to differ from his opinion. But they were not alone. They were accompanied by a family friend, and he endured with his usual graciousness.

Their patroness—they would hardly have called it the word—was a more notable person. Lady Meg—the world generally and Sophy almost spoke of her by that style, and we may take the name liberty—was only child of the great Earl of Dunstanbury. The title and estates passed to his grandnephew, but half a million or so of pounds came to her.

The air of the household was stormy that day at Morpington—an incentive to the expedition, not a deterrent, for Lady Meg had known it. Sophy was in sore disgrace—accused, tried and convicted of insubordination and unseemly demeanor toward Mrs. Smilker. The truth seems to be that this good woman (rest her soul). She has a neat bonnet in Morpington (detached) loved, like many another good creature, good as sometimes a trifle too well, and the orders she gave when she had been plentiful did not always consist with her less mellow injunctions. In no vulgar dress, but with a sarcasm which Mrs. Smilker felt without understanding, Sophy would point out the inconsistencies. Angered and humiliated, fearful, too, perhaps that her subordinate would let the secret out, Mrs. Smilker made haste to have the first word of the cook the word of the cook maid weighed as might. After smaller troubles of this origin there had come a sort of crisis today. The long, long of long lectures had been read to Sophy by mistress and repeated, slightly condensed, by master, then she was sent away to think it over. An abject apology to outraged Mrs. Smilker must be forthcoming ere the next morning was the decree. Informed of this ultimatum, Sophy went out and hung about the avenue, hoping for Julia to appear. Soon Julia came and heard the story. She had indignation in readiness and what was more to the purpose, a plan.

"A deuced pretty girl!" Meg—the world generally and Sophy almost spoke of her by that style, and we may take the name liberty—was only child of the great Earl of Dunstanbury. The title and estates passed to his grandnephew, but half a million or so of pounds came to her.

Soon Sophy's eyes grew bright. Into this tossed house came Lady Meg and her spaniels. This unkind name, derived at first from the size and shape of Mr. Pinder's ears—they were large and hung over at the top—had been stretched to include Mr. Pikes also, with small loss of propriety. Both gentlemen were low of stature, plump of figure, hairy on the face; both followed obediently at the heels of commanding Lady Meg. The amenities of the luncheon table opened hearts. Very soon the tale of Sophy's iniquities was revealed. Incidentally and unavoidably if Sophy's heinous fault were to appear in its true measure the tally of the Brownlows' benevolence was reckoned. But Mrs. Brownlow won small comfort from Lady Meg. She got a stiff touch of the truth. "Ran in and out of the drawing room," she said. "Did she? The truth is, Lizzie, you've spoiled her, and now you're angry with her for being spoiled."

"What is she now, Mrs. Brownlow?" asked Pinder, with a sly intention. Was this Percival's deuced pretty girl? "She works in the kitchen, Mr. Pinder."

"The girl!" his eyes signaled to Mr. Pikes. "Let Lady Meg see her," he urged insistently. "She has a wonderful way with girls."

"I don't want to see her, and I know your game, Pinder," said Lady Meg. "I'm afraid she must go," sighed Mrs. Brownlow. Her husband said more robustly, that such an event would be a good riddance—a saying repeated with the rest of the conversation by the butler (one William Byles, still living, to the gratified ears of Mrs. Smilker in the kitchen).

"But I'm not easy about her future. She's an odd child, and looks it."

"Pretty?" This from Mr. Pinder.

"Well, I don't know. Striking looking, you'd rather say perhaps, Mr. Pinder."

"Let her go her own way. We've talked quite enough about her," Lady Meg sounded decisive and not a little bored.

"And then?" "And then," Mrs. Brownlow made bold to go on for a moment, "such a funny mark! Many people wouldn't like it, I'm sure."

Lady Meg turned sharply on her. "Mark?" "What do you mean?" "What mark?"

"A mark on her face, you know. A round red mark."

"Big as a threepenny ear of Mrs. Smilker," said the squire.

"Where?" "On her cheek."

"Where is the girl?" asked Lady Meg. Her whole demeanor had changed, her bored air had vanished. "She seemed fair excited," Mr. Byles reports. Then she turned to the said Byles: "Find out where that girl is, and let me know. Don't tell her anything about it. I'll go to her."

"But let me send for her!" began the squire courteously.

"No; give me my own way. I don't want her frightened."

The squire gave the orders she desired, and the last Mr. Byles heard of her left the room was from Lady Meg: "Marks like that always mean something—eh, Pinder?"

No doubt Mr. Pinder agreed, but his reply is lost.

The girls in the avenue had made their plan. Sophy would not bow her head to Mrs. Smilker nor longer eat the bread of benevolence embittered by servitude. She would go with Julia. She, too, would tread the boards if only she could get her feet on them. And when did any girl seriously doubt her ability to do that? The pair were gay and laughing when suddenly through the gate came Lady Meg and the spaniels, Lady Meg ahead as usual and with a purposeful air.

"Who are they?" cried Sophy.

Hazleby is but twelve miles from Morpington. Julia had been over to see the big house and had sighted Lady Meg in the garden.

"It's Lady Margaret Duddington," she whispered, rather in a fright. There was time for no more. Lady Meg was upon them. Sophy was identified by her dress and, to Lady Meg's deplorable grief, by the mark.

"You're the girl who's been behaving so badly?" she said.

Seeing no profit in arguing the merits, Sophy answered "Yes."

At this point Julia observed one old gentleman nudge the other and whisper something. It is morally certain that Pinder whispered to Pikes, "Percival's girl!"

"You seem to like your own way. What are you going to do—say you're sorry?"

"No, I'm not sorry. I'm going away."

"Come here, girl. Let me look at you."

"Going away? Where to?"

Julia spoke up. "She's coming with me, please, Lady Margaret." Julia, it would seem, was a little frightened.

"Who are you?"

"Julia Robins. My mother lives there." She pointed to Woodbine cottage. "I'm on the stage."

"Lord help you!" remarked Lady Meg disconcertingly.

"Not at all!" protested Julia, her meaning plain, her expression of it faint. "And I'm going to help her to—to get an engagement. We're friends."

"What's she going to do with that on the stage?" Lady Meg's forehead almost touched the mark.

"Oh, that's all right," Lady Margaret. "Just a little cream and powder."

"Nasty stuff!" said Lady Meg. A pause followed. Lady Meg still studying Sophy's face. Then, without turning around, she made a remark obviously addressed to the gentlemen behind her:

"I expect this is Percival's young person."

"Without a doubt," said Pikes.

"And Percival was right about her, too," said Pinder. "Think so? I ain't sure yet," said Lady Meg. "And at any rate I don't care twopenny about that. But—" A long pause marked a renewed scrutiny.

"Your name's Sophy, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Sophy, then forced out the words, "Sophy Grouch."

"Grouch?"

"I said Grouch."

"Humph! Well, Sophy, don't go on the stage. It's a poor affair, the stage, begging Miss Julia's pardon. I'm sure she'll do admirably at it. But a poor affair it is. There's not much to be said for the real thing, but it's a deal better than the stage, Sophy."

"The real thing?" Julia saw Sophy's eyes grow thoughtful.

"The world—places—London—Paris—men and women—Lord help them! Come with me, and I'll show you all that."

"What shall I do if I come with you?"

"Do? Eat and drink and waste time and money, like the rest of us. Eh, Pinder?"

"Of course," said Mr. Pinder, with a placid smile.

"I shan't be a servant again?"

"Everybody in my house is a slave. I'm told, but you won't be more of a slave than the rest."

"Will you have me taught?"

Lady Meg looked at her. For the first time she smiled, rather grimly.

"Yes, I'll have you taught, and I'll show you the queen of England and, if you behave yourself, the emperor of the French—Lord help him!"

"Not unless she behaves herself!" murmured Mr. Pinder.

"Hold your tongue, Pinder! Now, then, what do you say? No, wait a minute. I want you to understand it properly. She became silent for a moment. Julia was thinking her a very rude woman; but, since Pinder did not mind, who need?

Lady Meg resumed. "I won't make an obligation of you—I mean I won't be bound to you, and she also had for Julia Robins held her as though by a cord. But was the stage a poor thing? Was that mysterious real thing better? Though even of that strange woman spoke scornfully. Already there must have been some underground theme, for Sophy knew that Lady Meg was more than interested in her—that she was actually excited about her, and Lady Meg, in her turn, knew that she played a good card when she dangled before Sophy's eyes the queen of England and the emperor of the French, though even then came the faintest "Lord help him!" to damp an over-ardent expectation.

"Let me speak to Julia," said Sophy. Lady Meg nodded. The girls linked arms and walked apart. Pinder came to Lady Meg's elbow.

"And who was that?" said he in a low voice. Pikes was looking around the view with a kind of vacant contentment.

"Yes," she said. His lips moved. "I know what you said. You said, 'You old fool! Pinder.'"

"Never, on my life, my lady!" They seemed more friends now than patroness and client. Few saw them, but Pinder told Dunstanbury, and the old gentleman was no liar.

"Give me one more!" she whispered, plainly excited. "That mark must mean something. It may open a way."

"For her?" he asked, smiling.

"It must for her. It may for me."

"To knowledge—knowledge of the unknown. They may speak through her!"

"Lady Meg! Lady Meg! And if they don't, the hundred pound note! It's very cruel."

"Who knows—who knows, Pinder?"

He shrugged his shoulders and smiled. "Not half as amusing as your ladyship's!"

Sophy, twenty yards off, flung her arms around Julia. Lady Meg's eyes brightened. "She's coming with me," she said. Pinder shrugged his shoulders again and fell back to heel. Sophy walked briskly up.

"I'll come, my lady," she said.

"Good! Tomorrow afternoon—to London. Mrs. Brownlow has the address. Goodbye. She turned abruptly on her heel and marched off, her retinue following.

Julia came to Sophy.

"We can write," she said. "And she's"

I AM A MOTHER

How many American women in lonely homes to-day long for this blessing to come into their lives, and to be able to utter these words, but because of some organic derangement this happiness is denied them.

Every woman interested in this subject should know that preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by the use of

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. Maggie Gilmer, of West Union, S. C., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I was greatly run-down in health from a weakness peculiar to my sex, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. It not only restored me to perfect health, but to my delight I am a mother."

Mrs. Josephine Hall, of Bardonia, N. Y., writes: "I was a very great sufferer from female trouble, and my physician failed to help me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound not only restored me to perfect health, but I am now a proud mother."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN. For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pain, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

right. You must be for the real thing. Sophy?"

"My dear, my dear!" murmured Sophy, half in tears. "Yes, we must write." She drew back and stood erect. "It's all very dark," she said, "but I like it. London—and Paris! On the stage, she had tracked the magnet of Lady Meg's regard, the point of her interest, the pivot of decision for that mind of whims.

She drew out the story. It made the sorrow of parting half forgotten. "You owe this to him, then! How romantic!" was Actress Julia's conclusion.

—In part a true one, no doubt. But Sophy, looking deeper, fingered the red star. She had tracked the magnet of Lady Meg's regard, the point of her interest, the pivot of decision for that mind of whims.

witches. She has got hold of an entirely new prophetic, a certain woman, who calls herself Mme. Mantis and knows all the secrets of the future, both this side the grave and the other. Beside Lady Meg sat a remarkably striking girl, to whom she introduced me, but I didn't catch the name. I gathered that this girl, who had an odd mark on one cheek, almost like a pale pink wafer, was, in old Meg's mind, anyhow, mixed up with the prophetic as medium or subject of inspiration or something of that kind. I don't understand that nonsense and don't want to. But when I looked skeptical and old Pinder chuckled, or it may have been his teeth chattering with the cold, Meg nodded her head at the girl and said: "She'll tell you a different tale some day. If you meet her in five years' time perhaps. I don't know what the old lady meant. I suppose the girl did, but she looked absolutely indifferent and, indeed, bored. One can't help being amused; but, seriously, it's rather sad for a man who was brought up in the reverence of Lord Dunstanbury to see his only daughter, a clever woman, too, naturally, devoting her self to such childish stuff."

Such is the passage. It is fair to add that most of the captain's book is of more general interest. As he implies, he had had a long acquaintance with the Dunstanbury family and took a particular interest in anything that related to it. Nevertheless what he says has its place here. It fits in with and explains Lady Meg's excited and mystical exclamation to Mr. Pinder at Morpington. "They may speak through her!" Apparently "they" had spoken, to what effect we cannot even conjecture unless an explanation be found in a letter of the Kravonia period in which Sophy says to Julia, "You remember that saying of Mantis' when we were in London—the one about how she saw something hanging in the air over my head—something bright?" That is all she says, and "something bright" leaves the matter very vague. A sword, a crown, the nimbus of a saint—imagination might play untrammelled. Still some prophecy was made. Lady Meg built on it, and Sophy, for all her apparent indifference, remembered it and in after days thought it worthy of recall.

That is as far as we can go, and with that passing glimpse Sophy Grouch—of course the mention of the wafer-like mark passes her identity beyond question—passes out of sight for a time. Indeed, as Sophy Grouch, in the position in which we have seen her and in the name under which we have known her, she passes out of sight forever.

All the Gold IN GEORGIA Could not Buy—

Roding, Ga., August 27, 1906.
Messrs. E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ills.

Gentlemen—In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. Some physicians told me it was Dyspepsia, some Consumption of the Lungs, others said consumption of the Bowels. One physician said I would never get well, and for four long years I existed on a little boiled milk, soda biscuits, doctors' prescriptions and Dyspepsia remedies that flooded the market. I could not digest anything I ate, and in the Spring 1904 I picked up one of your Almanacs as a poor emaciated Dyspeptic wreck I grasped at anything, and that Almanac happened to be my life savor. I bought a fifty cent bottle of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE, and the benefit I received from that bottle ALL THE GOLD IN GEORGIA COULD NOT BUY. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to my work as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. I will use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic.

May you live long and prosper.
Yours very truly,

THE ONE-PIECE Gown Makes for Comfort—Novelties in Summer Underwear—Wonderful Effects Attained by Combinations of Transparent Materials—New Ideas for Net Waists.

BY MONS. GENE DE PONTAC.

The one piece gown has certainly one recommendation for summer wear—it is the coolest costume possible. Made of light-weight materials—voile, silk, gingham, light panama or serge—without lining save at the waist-line requiring no coat to complete the effect, covering neck and arms only with the most diaphanous and transparent of material and worn over a silk slip which contains the least amount of material possible, it is an ideal hot-weather costume. Even the new circular and gored skirts have the advantage of less material around the hips than the older pleated mode.

The serviceable foulard is again in vogue, and nothing is better for really hard service. In jumper fashion, with a supply of gumples to freshen its wearing, it can be made the piece de resistance of the summer wardrobe, and in shirt-waist style, trimmed with a little sash or appropriate for travelling or outing wear.

All of the new French underwear has three pieces in one, and in Paris the shops are full of knickerbockers in satin, pongee and India silk, but mostly of silk woven material—all intended to take the place of the now despised japon. The little gingham or linen morning gown has, however, not yet graduated from under-frills, and the coolest thing yet evolved for this kind of petticoat has a taffeta top and a deep detachable flounce of coarse fishnet, which launders beautifully and may thus be frequently changed and kept immaculately fresh. Hengee with embroidered flounces makes a double petticoat and will stand innumerable trips to the tub. Some dainty French petticoats are of batiste in stripes or figures of pale color on white, the flounce embroidered in colored cotton to match.

The mania for Greek draperies has invaded the realm of the outer garment, and wonderfully draped cloaks are being worn by Parisiennes, reproducing the long lines of tunic and toga, caught up and held on the shoulder by a handsome buckle. The soft-colored draped cloak is usually lined with black liberty, and its arrangement requires, of course, the most skillful touch and the most supple of material.

The evening coats of chiffon or of silk voile nearly as sheer as chiffon, are exquisite and show most beautiful color effects. The elaborately braided and embroidered coats have first a thin silk lining, over which is a chiffon lining, and then the diaphanous outer material itself. Some two-tone combinations are delightful, as blue chiffon over green. Lovely coats are of light blue, grey or pink chiffon or voile with deep-toned linings, or of white with a lining of shell pink and faint pink braiding and embroidery. A new material for evening cloaks is a kind of silk etamine with double checks. The coat is first lined with soft satin and then with chiffon, so that the chiffon-softened color shows through the open checks. There is also a fancy for cloaks of one shade of satin lined with another—as pale pink lined with green or pale grey lined with yellow.

Elaborate lace-trimmed net waists have been seen for the last two years, but the newer ones are on simpler lines, and the very newest is of solid tucked maline made over chiffon, the tucks running up and down on the body of the blouse and round about the sleeves, which are long and tight-fitting and end in a point over the hand. The front is finished with a jabot or double frill of the net.

Not by Treating the Symptoms but by Toning Up the Stomach to Do the Work Nature Expects of It.

Dyspepsia should not be neglected for by depriving the body of its proper nourishment it grows steadily worse. Neither stimulating medicines, which ruin the already weak stomach by making it work beyond its strength, should be used, nor pre-digested foods, which do not excite a flow of the digestive fluids and by disuse cause the stomach to become weaker. Nowhere is the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills more clearly useful. Its principle is to enable the stomach to do its own work by building up the blood and giving tone to the system. When these are once more restored to their normal health dyspepsia disappears and the cure is permanent.

The experience of Mr. Orlando Pence, of 833 Park avenue, Ohio, should be read by every one who is suffering with dyspepsia. For ten years Mr. Pence experimented with doctors and many kinds of medicine without being cured. He was finally urged by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking a few boxes was restored to health. He says:

"Thirteen years ago I began to have stomach trouble which came on me gradually. My stomach was sore and felt as though there was a ball of fire in it. My appetite was irregular and sour fluids would come up in my throat for food did not digest. I was troubled with dizziness and would see black specks before my eyes. I suffered from constipation and was a slave to cathartics."

"The doctors' medicine and all other remedies I tried did not give me permanent relief and I gave up hope of getting well. My stomach was almost worn out taking medicines. After ten years of suffering I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills upon the advice of a friend and the use of a few boxes completely cured me. I am now enjoying good health and am glad to tell others of my cure."

If you have decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial or if you are still in doubt as to their value in all cases of stomach trouble send today for a copy of our diet book which is free upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Twenty-two sat down to a delicious dinner, consisting of steamed clams, cold meats, salads, cake, coffee and fruit. After dinner the time was delightfully passed with bridge playing, bathing, rowing, clam digging and other diversions. All voted it one of the most pleasant outings of the season.

The Eastern Star Sewing Circle meets next Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. L. W. Bonner at her home North Main street. All are cordially invited.

Mrs. L. E. Cobb, who has been in Montgomery, Ala., some weeks past, has arrived here for the summer.

Charles Rose and Malcolm Smith are camping at Crescent Beach.

Mrs. Mary Hexter and daughter Mary and Miss Nellie Sullivan of Bangor were guests of the Misses McNamara, Masonic street, the past few days, joining the large Rockland party which attended the Catholic church at Damariscotta Thursday.

Mrs. Ernest Campbell and son Leonard and Frank Campbell were guests of Wilfred Clark at the Clark cottage, Ashmere, Thursday.

Miss Jennie G. Pillsbury, who has been visiting in New London, Conn., for the past four weeks as the guest of Thomas Scott and family, has returned home.

COUNTY LEAGUE FORMED.

Prospects of Good Baseball the Remainder of the Season—Eleven Inning Game The Starter.

Knox county bids fair to see some first-class baseball the remainder of the season. Rockland, Camden and Warren have made arrangements to play a series that will last to Labor Day, if proper support is received, and it is probable that Thomaston will get into the game before the schedule is fully arranged.

Eaton Blackington of the high school team is managing for Rockland, with Earl Marshall as secretary and Fred Black as treasurer. C. Angus McInnis is captain of the Rockland team.

Thursday afternoon on the Broadway grounds Rockland and Warren played an exhibition game which caused the sports to sit up and take notice. Eleven innings were necessary to settle the argument, and the home team finally won. There were quite a number of errors, but they were more than offset by brilliant plays and the closeness of the game. Rodney Skinner pitched for Rockland and the visitors after scoring three times in the second inning were unable to make another tally. Fifteen hits were made off Ladd, but were so well scattered that they produced only four scores. The batting order and summary:

Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11
Rockland 2 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 1-4
Warren 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-3
Rockland—Cates 2b, Bird 2b, Blackington of, Marshall 1b, McInnis c, Barker 1b, Black ss, Skinner p, Flint rf.

Warren—Kerr ss, Brown 2b, B. Ladd c, H. Ladd p, Moody 1b, Locke 2b, Stickney lf, Thomas cf, Haskell rf.

Base hits, Rockland 15, Warren 7. Two-base hits, Marshall, Skinner. Struck out, by Skinner 12, by Ladd 2. Errors, Rockland 4, Warren 5.

Rockland's Busiest Corner

Cobb Butler & Co's Shipyard Furnishes Sight Good for the Eye—Thursday's Launching.

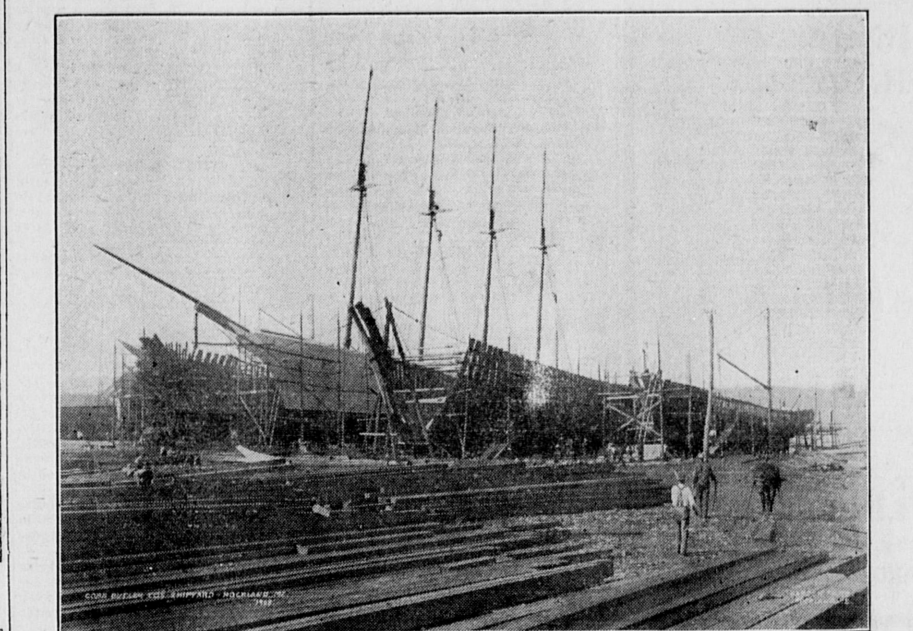

The launching of the four-masted schooner Jessie A. Bishop at Cobb, Butler & Co's yard Thursday directed public attention to the busiest industrial locality in Knox county. Before that handsome craft took her maiden dip the assembled crowd had an opportunity to witness a sight which we believe never to have been equalled in a Rockland shipyard before—the spectacle of four sailing vessels under construction at one time. The novelty of the affair was all the more pronounced in view of the great decline which shipping has experienced in recent years, and the further fact that this is the only shipyard in Knox county which is today in active operation. I. L. Snow & Co. are building a vessel, to be sure, but the construction of that craft is in the na-either by rail or boat to have that privilege. Conspicuous in the crowd were groups of our summer visitors, not a few of whom were the wealthy and exclusive guests of the Samovar hotel. A large steam yacht, and other craft of all sizes and rigs were anchored alongside when the schooner went overboard, and nearby was the schooner Northland, gallily decked in all her colors. About 300 launched on board the Bishop, admission being by ticket.

The Stonington boat brought 70 passengers many of whom were friends of Capt. Haskell from Deer Isle and that town. Capt. Magnus Mannon, president of the Benedict-Manson Marine Co., was present with a party, as was also E. H. Weaver, who controls the fleet. It had been intended to have the vessel christened by the wife of Gen. Henry A. Bishop of Bridgeport, Conn., for whom the vessel was named, but in her absence that duty was performed by Capt. Haskell's daughter, Viola M. Haskell. Wild roses were scattered from the bow as the vessel took the water.

The launching was a perfect one in every respect, and the builders had every reason to feel proud of their achievement.

A glimpse at the other new vessels

This busy scene in Cobb, Butler & Co's shipyard without precedent in history of Rockland shipbuilding—Four vessels on the stocks at one time.

ture of knitting work, to be done during the infrequent periods when the marine railway work is dull.

The four vessels shown in the accompanying picture represent completed property to the value of almost $200,000. The keel of the Bishop was laid four months ago, the other keels being stretched as rapidly as conditions permitted. Side by side the four schooners have grown and thriven until one of the number was ready to go out into the great shipping world a messenger, it is hoped, of prosperity for her commander and all the other owners.

The three remaining schooners will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible, the last being ready to go overboard during the month of October.

Cobb, Butler & Co. are now giving employment to about 150 men and have employed during the height of operations as many as 175 men. A new industry employing that number of men would have been hailed as a great blessing, and we would have plumed ourselves upon being right in the middle of the industrial swim, but this firm has gone about its work so quietly and modestly that the extent of its work and payroll has not been realized by not more than 5 percent of our people. We are giving this picture publicity not merely because it is of sufficient interest, but in order that the people of Rockland and vicinity may better know the concern to which the city is indebted for its second largest enterprise.

At its head is Hon. William T. Cobb, governor of Maine; the active management is in the hands of former Mayor Albert W. Butler, whose success in securing contracts in these days of keen competition is equalled by the excellence of the yard's product.

The schooner Jessie A. Bishop which was launched Thursday noon was built for the Benedict-Manson Marine Co. of New Haven, Conn., and is named for the wife of Gen. Henry A. Bishop of Bridgeport, Conn., one of the principal owners.

It has a gross tonnage of 754 and a net tonnage of 624. The principal dimensions are as follows: Length of keel, 175 feet; breadth of beam, 38 feet; depth of hold, 14 feet. The frame was cut in Virginia by William Bisbee & Co. and is constructed of white oak. The planking and ceiling are of Southern yellow pine. The schooner has a set of extra long-bodied hanging knees and is heavily constructed throughout. The model was specially designed by the company's master-builder, John J. Wardwell, who aimed at more graceful lines than one usually finds in a lumber vessel. That carrying capacity has not been sacrificed may be judged from the fact the Bishop will carry 650,000 feet of lumber.

The schooner is single-decked and has two houses. The forward house, shown in the picture reveals the fact that fine progress has been made during the summer.

The first craft on the left will be the four-masted schooner Lewiston, building for Crowell & Thurlow of Boston, and to be commanded by Capt. T. J. Ginn of Auburn. This vessel is nearly all planked and the deck is being laid. The Lewiston will have a gross tonnage of about 775. The dimensions are 175 feet keel, 39 feet beam and 14 1/2 feet hold. The launching is scheduled for September.

The second vessel in the picture is the Jessie A. Bishop, already described.

The third will be the four-masted schooner for Donnell & McKown of Boston—a duplicate of the schooner Ellen Little. The gross tonnage will be about 1000, and the dimensions will be as follows. Keel, 175 feet; beam, 39 feet; hold, 18 feet. This craft will have two decks. It is now in frame and the keelsons are in. The launching is due in October. Capt. Herbert L. Rawlings of Salem, Mass., will command.

Fourth on the stocks is a small, three-masted centerboard schooner, which has already been named Frank Brainerd, and is being built for the Brainerd-Shaller-Hall Quarry Co. This little craft, which would have been considered a fairly sizable one in the days when shipyards flourished along our water front, will have a gross tonnage of about 240. It will measure 114 feet on the keel, 30 1/2 feet on the beam and 8 feet in the hold. It is now practically all celled and will be launched in September. Capt. Thomas K. Rowland of Greenport, Long Island, will command the craft, which is built for the granite trade.

Dimly shown in the back-ground of the picture is the now famous auxiliary schooner Northland, another product of Cobb, Butler & Co's yard, which has been widely exploited all over the country.

IN SPORTING CIRCLES

A big midsummer attraction in the sporting line will be the sparring exhibition at the Arcade next Wednesday evening. The main bout will be fought by Mike Cunningham of Lewiston and Jimmy Hanlon of Boston, whose scrap here on Fourth of July night is said to have been the hottest thing of the kind Rockland has seen for some years. Only a handful of sports was present on that occasion, but the merit of the contest has become so widely known that there is no doubt about having a big house next Wednesday night. Mike Cunningham up to date has fought and won 30 important fistic battles and has never been the loser. His two fights with Jimmie Doherty were sufficient to stamp him as a "comer," an impression which has been well confirmed by subsequent matches. Jimmy Hanlon has been in the ring ever since he was old enough to know how to get there and has licked such featherweights as Frank Adams, Emergency Kelley, Kid Panta, George Murray, Gus Ross, Johnny Burdette, Blink McCloskey, Jimmy Burke and Matty Baldwin. He has drawn with Tommy Quill and Young Donohue. The semi-final bout will be between Young Neary of Boston and Young Joe Thomas of Providence, and the curtain-raiser will be between Young Nadeau of Lewiston and Kid Sullivan of Bangor. How's that for a good bill from top to bottom?

FELD A CHAMPIONSHIP.

Sudden Death of Joseph Donovan, Once Maine's Best Welterweight.

Joseph M. Donovan died early Tuesday morning in the Mary Lough memorial hospital, Plymouth, N. H. It was at first reported here that his death was due to a sunstroke, but such was not the case. Seeking relief from the intense heat last Sunday Mr. Donovan went in bathing with some of his fellow workmen at Campton, N. H. Subsequently he complained of a pain around his heart. He grew rapidly worse and was taken to the hospital in the neighboring town of Plymouth, where he died next morning. The remains were brought here Wednesday afternoon and taken to the home of Mrs. Toby on High street, a sister of the deceased. Funeral services were held at St. Bernard's church this Friday forenoon, and interment was in the catholic cemetery at Thomaston.

Deceased was 45 years of age. He was born in New Brunswick, being a son of Michael and Ellen (Dailey) Donovan. He had been employed at various occupations, and for many years was one of the most capable pugilists in New England. While holding the welterweight championship of Maine he whipped some of the best men of that day, finally surrendering his title to Dick O'Brien of Lewiston. Mr. Donovan was a catalogue of information on sporting matters and the ring was his hobby. He was a genial, generous friend whom many will miss.

He is survived by two brothers, Jeremiah and Cornelius; and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Woodman, Mrs. Kate Tobey and Mrs. Margaret Laing.

HOPE

Mrs. P. W. Hewett, who has been spending a few weeks at Camp Hatcher with her family, returned home to Bradford, Mass., Saturday night.

The daughters, Ruth and Helen, will remain a while longer with their uncle, E. W. Hewett, and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Robbins.

Aunt Mary Bartlett, who is a smart old lady at 85, is visiting her niece, Mrs. Lizzie Burgess, in West Rockport.

Miss Bernice Robbins entertained her young friends at Camp Hatcher last Saturday evening.

The young people at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pearce gave a delightful lawn party Saturday evening.

Seymour Kimball was in Camden last Friday.

A lively chase was given a fire, which broke out in the pasture of Nathan Barrett one day last week. The fire had been smoldering several weeks underground. The telephone called a large force of men to the scene.

Wild strawberries have been plenty, raspberries and blueberries are also plentiful, but small, owing to the drought, which is doing great damage to crops and pastures. There are many dry spots to be found which have turned brown.

Mr. and Mrs. George Goding and daughter Doris, who spent a week with Mr. Goding's uncle, H. C. Goding, left Friday to pass several days in Waldoboro, en route for their home in Winthrop.

Sunday was hot and the thermometer in places went to 98 in the shade.

Mrs. Alice Hobbs and baby visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Knight, in Searsmont, last Sunday.

Miss Grace Robinson and Harry Mitchell were in Searsmont Sunday.

A large number of friends were entertained at Lyman Frye's the fourth.

Mrs. Lillie Whitmore, who is staying at S. N. Simmons', still remains very sick.

Alden Robbins was the first to finish haying in this vicinity.

Mrs. L. M. Sylvester, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Geneva Robbins, the past four weeks, has returned to her home in Lewiston.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens activity, vigor and cheerfulness. It soon disappears when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

There will be a dance at Farmer's hall, Saturday evening July 18, under the management of the base ball boys. Some of the farmers about here have finished haying.

Miss Margaret Dornan visited Phyllis Hastings at South Hope recently.

Miss Madeline Daggett of Waltham, Mass., is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Daggett.

Mrs. G. W. Payson, who is confined to her home with a sprained ankle was much surprised last Monday when several of her friends walked in to spend the afternoon with her. And as the occasion was her birthday she was kindly remembered with some very pretty gifts. A dainty lunch was served by Mrs. A. W. Payson, and a very enjoyable time was passed.

$25 FOR A LETTER

CAN YOU WRITE ONE?

Eight Prizes to Be Awarded in a Letter Writing Contest Open to Everyone in Maine.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been used in this state for a generation. Hundreds of remarkable cures have been reported during that time and there is scarcely a family in which the remedy has not been tried with beneficial results. This furnishes the material for the letters to be written in this contest. There is no demand upon the imagination, every narrative must deal with facts.

The Prizes

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Schenectady, N. Y., will award a prize of $25.00 for the best letter received on or before July 25, 1908, from the state of Maine, on the subject, "Why I Recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." A prize of $10.00 will be awarded for the second best letter received, a prize of $5.00 for the third best and five prizes of one dollar each for the next best five letters.

The Conditions

The cure or benefit from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills described in the letter may be in the writer's own case or one that has come under his or her personal observation.

More than one cure may be described in the letter, so long as every statement made is literally true.

The letter should be no longer than is necessary to relate the benefit obtained from the remedy in the case described.

Each letter must be signed by the writer with his or her name and full address and the letter must give the correct name and address of the person whose cure is described.

Letters containing addresses that cannot be verified will not be considered in awarding the prizes.

The writer of each letter must state the name and date of the paper in which he or she saw the announcement of this competition.

Fine writing will not win the prize unless you have a good cause to describe. The strength of the recommendation and not the style of the letter will be the basis of award.

The contest will close July 25, 1908. Do not delay, but if you know of a cure write your letter now. Observe the above conditions carefully or your letter may be thrown out.

Address all letters as follows:
Letter Contest Dept.,
Dr. Williams' Medicine Co.,
Schenectady, N. Y.

UNION

George Clouse and wife, who went out to Seattle, Washington, this spring, have returned to Union to stay.

At the Methodist church on Wednesday evening, July 15, at 7.45, Rev. E. S. Ufford delivered his illustrated lecture on Pilgrim's Progress, with many life-size paintings in colors. The journey from the City of Destruction to the Celestial City was vividly portrayed, and the story enhanced with solos by Pastor Lidstone and members of the choir. Mr. Ufford recently gave his panorama in the Pine Street Methodist church in Portland.

WILLIAM A. CUMMINGS.

The following is taken from the San Francisco Call: "Died in this city, June 20, William Augustus Cummings late of Alaska, brother of Mrs. M. D. Wentworth of this city, Josiah Cummings of Massachusetts, Sewell Cummings and Mrs. N. B. Morse of Maine. He was a native of Union, Me." Mr. Cummings was a member of Cooper Post, No. 124, G. A. R. and served in Co. H, 38 New York Infantry. Mr. Cummings for several years had been a frequent visitor to this city and many have listened with interest to his description of his Alaska, Klondike and Cape Nome experiences. He was among the first to invade the then unknown Klondike regions, traveling many weary miles over mountains and ice to reach the prospective gold diggings. Many of his friends have in their possession gold nuggets that are prized not alone for value but for being dug and brought here by the thoughtful and kind hearted "Gus." His many friends will miss his kindly smile and the keen interest he took in their welfare. Sympathy is extended to his sisters, Mrs. Morse of Union and Mrs. Wilson of Auburndale, both of whom are well known in this city.

WEST LINCOLNVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wiley spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Miller.

Charles Payson and wife of Hope were recent guests of Mrs. Payson's sister, Mrs. Charles Marriner.

Miss Bessie Manary of Dorchester, Mass., is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Nancy Smith.

NEW GRAND TRUNK EQUIPMENT.

The Grand Trunk Railway System are now putting into service 13 new coaches of 25 that have been ordered for assignment to trains on international runs, viz., between Chicago and New York via, Niagara Falls, Chicago and Montreal, Montreal and Portland, and Toronto and Buffalo. The cars are known as first-class day coaches, and are of the standard pattern which the Grand Trunk operate on all their through trains. Length of cars all 75 feet, 6 inches, weight of each car 108,620 pounds. They are mounted on six-wheel trucks, are wide vestibule with steel platforms, and are equipped with high speed, quick-action air brakes. The inside of the cars are beautifully finished in polished mahogany, and are constructed with the Empire style of roof. Seats are Grand Trunk Standard with high backs, in green, seating 60 people, is upholstered in green plush, while the smoking room is large and roomy and upholstered in leather. All modern conveniences have been installed for the comfort of passengers. The body of the car is carpeted, and the passenger-ways and smoking room covered with linoleum.

POLITICAL POINTS

On the very day that the nature of the Democratic ticket became known, defections from the Democratic ranks began. Congressman Leake of the 4th New Jersey District wrote to Secretary Taft, announcing that he would vote for the latter and offering his services in the campaign. Dr. James Sullivan, who was a Presidential elector on the Parker ticket from Rhode Island, declared his intention of voting for Taft. A Democrat who formerly served in the U. S. Senate wrote President Roosevelt that he should support the Republican ticket.

Dr. E. L. Jones, the new member of the Democratic national committee, is not in high favor down this way, judging from the following in Friday's Opinion: "The Maine delegation, as might be expected from the way it was chosen, has lent itself, in part, at least, to the plans of the clique that, falling to control the party seeks to hamstring it. Knowing as they did that Mr. Bryan is almost certain to be the candidate of the party for President, the delegation has chosen as Maine's member of the National Committee Dr. E. L. Jones, of Waterville, who, as everybody in Maine knows, has both a personal and political grudge against him."

Hon. Bert M. Fernald is taking a few days of rest before beginning the active work of the campaign. He will visit as many places in each county as the time intervening before election will allow.

SOUTH WARREN

Mr. Hunt and sons have been cutting hay for Clem. Leimond at Oyster River, Miss Jessie Grover is working for Nelson Spear at Stimpson's Point.

Mrs. Oliver and Alphon Jones went to Oakland Wednesday last week to attend the picnic held by Good Will Grange.

Gleason Young of North Cushing is getting in Oliver Jones' hay.

Mrs. Jane Hunt, who has been quite sick the past few days, is reported much better.

Farmers are cutting their hay in this vicinity. Not many report extra light crops considering the very dry season.

Willie Benner of Liberty is working for Awlin Hall during haying.

George Flinders, who has been at work for Irvin Spear has finished and has gone to work for Bert Robinson, also of North Cushing.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Over of Rockland spent Sunday with Mrs. Over's mother, Mrs. C. K. Spear.

Oliver Jones owns an extra nice biddy. She laid a very large egg recently which measured 6-4 inches around the center and 3-4 inches lengthwise. Another family has a very knowing biddy. She comes to a window or door every day to be let in. When in she starts off to her nest, lays her egg and is off again. She won't lay in a nest with other hens; so this must be to show her mistress how much she can earn. This is her knowledge.

ANOTHER INNOVATION

On the Great Turbiners Yale and Harvard.

The publication of a bijou paper on the YALE and HARVARD is the latest innovation on those great ships. This publication, entitled the "Aerogram," is published nightly on the steamers.

The United Wireless Telegraph Co., who operate the wireless service on the YALE and HARVARD, under an arrangement made with one of the New York News Companies, provide the baseball returns, racing results, and important news items which materialize after the steamers leave New York and Boston, this being printed by a duplicating process. Later on it is expected that a regular printing establishment will be utilized in connection with the publication.

The little paper is sold at 5 cents by the news agent on the steamers, and many copies are disposed of nightly, to the great satisfaction of passengers, who faithfully retain them as souvenirs of the trip between New York and Boston.
