Save Much Sickness

Brunswick, Me., Aug. 21, 1906.

"I think there is no medicine equal to 'L. F. Atwood's Bitters.' I keep them in the house all the time, and they save me a great many headaches. I would not be without them."

Yours truly,
Mrs. Lizzie S. Dyer.

Everyone who values good health should at the first sign of sickness take a dose of "L. F. Atwood's Bitters." They quickly adjust the trouble and set on right. They restore vigor to the red and overworked organs and build up general health. At the store, 31c.

Homemakers' Column.

Correspondence on topics of interest to the ladies of the household, such as recipes, hints, etc., will be gladly received.

The German "Coffeees."

The German girls in Milwaukee have introduced a new and charmingly informal way of entertaining. They are invited by "coffee," or simply over the "coffee," at four o'clock on a certain day.

The guests understand that they are to arrive a few minutes before four o'clock, as that hour they are to be seated at the table and refreshments served, but in another town it is not safe to expect your guests to know this and arrive promptly unless particularly requested. One girl who had visited in Milwaukee made the mistake of not explaining to her prospective guests the nature of her entertainment, and as consequence ten of the twelve girls arrived about four o'clock and the hostess waited at least half an hour for the "coffeees."

In a town where it is a novelty the hostess would be wise to insist on her guests' punctuality, as then she can make explanations.

The number invited to a "coffee" varies from eight to twenty, and is four, depending on the number that can be seated at the table. Occasionally the guests are seated at numerous small tables, and the refreshments are served in a roomy and comfortable parlour.

The refreshments served are usually one of two menus. The first is the serving of hot porridge and jelly, to be eaten with a fork; coffee cake or a simple cake, and large cups of rich coffee, for which both cream and hot milk are passed; the coffee cups remain on the table and are refilled two or three times. These are called "coffeees" and are a very simple and economical way of entertaining.

The second menu consists of a simple salad, a hot or cold meat, a vegetable, hot rolls or English muffins, cut in halves, toasted and buttered; and coffee, always ice cream and cake follow, as in the first menu, and the desired nuts and candies.

The charm of the "coffee" lies in the sociability which always attends it. The guests are never thrown out of the house, and the hostess is never troubled with the amount of preparation or expense entailed by a luncheon or dinner.

Useful Odds and Ends.

Nut shells of all kinds are useful in helping to revitalize the hair, and the shells of the Brazil nuts are particularly serviceable in this way. The shells of plums, grapes, and other fruits may be used for the same purpose, and should be dried and used instead of being thrown away.

Orange peel is another article which may be used in many ways. It may be kept in a small ornamental bag or box near the chimney corner, as they are quite inodorous when dried, and will be found useful in many ways. It may be used in the same way as will be found useful in many ways.

The Tale of the Contented Man.

In an article on his visit to one of the famous writers of Damascus, in Harper's for January, Norman Duncan relates an amusing story as told him by the great man himself.
