The glorious Fourth dawned bright, fair and noisy. In fact if we remember distinctly it was a little noisy before the Fourth actually dawned. Throughout the entire night bells were rung, trumpets blown and the usual good time enjoyed by the boys. (?) The day was spent in several ways by the different people. A picnic dinner on one of the prettiest spots in the county, namely, Stanley hill, was enjoyed by a score or more. The picnic was given by the citizens in the west part of the town in a beautiful little grove near W. E. Cumming's residence, and here the tables were laid with as toothsome and abundant a repast as was spread in the state and partaken of by about sixty hungry people. Why, the tables fairly groaned beneath their weight as course after course was served, and after dinner a musical and literary program was well carried out and an interesting oration delivered by Captain Nathan L. Meands.

A large crowd spent the day in Phillips and cheered for our boys during the two ball games in which Strong and Stratton teams were nearly wiped off the map. Fireworks during the evening closed the eventful day and more than one youngster echoed the words, "And he murmured, as sleep closed his one open eye, If 'ter morrow was only the Fourth of July".

Because fabulous sums are spent in advertising, some merchants think that it costs a fortune to keep any business before the public. They do not stop to think that advertising space can be bought like cloth or lard or soap—in any desired quantity, as one's business may demand. The man who is selling cigars from a small stand on the corner doesn't need as much space as a department store. But the proper space is just as essential to the best results in his business as is the big store's big ad. It doesn't cost much to buy a small space in the MAINE WOODSMAN—a space that is suitable for an unpretentious business. And, after all, it's not the size of the space, but what you put in it that counts. Start off with a little space and use it well and you'll need a big one by and by.

Mrs. A. Iola Whitney returned Saturday from a visit to old friends and neighbors in Freeman.

Mrs. Hattie Tuttle and daughter, Addie, were in town Monday to attend the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. Mary B. Whitney.

Carl Whitney has closed his home and gone to Phillips.

Mr. Wilson and family of New York came last week to their summer home, Valley View.

Those who begun haying last week report poor hay weather.

Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Fales announcing the marriage of their daughter, Cora Almira to Mr. Daniel M. Locke, June 28, Farmington. At home after September.

The many friends of Mrs. Mary B. Whitney were saddened by the news of her death Thursday morning at 7 o'clock, of heart failure, she having submitted to a critical surgical operation and not being strong enough to rally.

Mrs. Whitney was a woman of rare qualities and was beloved by all who knew her. As a member of any order to which she belonged she was ever and always esteemed and honored. Her life was an inspiration, and her memory will be revered by her sorrowing family. One son, Carrol, three sisters and three brothers are left to mourn their loss; and many dear friends who are sympathizers in their great bereavement. May these words comfort and cheer them while they wait: She now rests from her labors and her works do follow her."

INDIRECTLY Admiral Togo has advanced the cause of education in Oquossoc. When it became known quite recently that only one scholar in the village was aware of Togo's victory and other remarkable events of modern history, the city fathers determined to build them a schoolhouse. Therefore, at a town meeting $800 was raised by the town of Rangeley and a modern wooden building 24x32 will be built. The Rumford Falls & Rangeley Lakes railroad has presented the lot to the village on which the edifice will stand. A full term of school will be taught there with an attendance of at least 20 pupils.

What nonsense! We are sick of reading such stuff in intelligent papers.

Courtesy In the Back Pews.

WHETHER the matter is viewed from the pulpit where the preacher is endeavoring to conduct a religious service, or from the neighborhood of the back pews where others are attempting to join in public worship with a serene mind, it is evident that we need in all our churches the revival of courtesy in the back pews. This is most particularly demanded at the Sunday evening service. We desire to write very kindly and explicitly on the matter, not only directly to the young people, but also to parents and guardians.

Thoughtlessness rather than deliberate rudeness undoubtedly lies behind the discourtesy in the back pews. The young people who come to church service on Sunday evening do not seriously intend to persecute either the preacher or their neighbors. Their bodies are restless, their minds are alert, their imagination is lively and their sense of humor is keen. They are in small companies and therefore respond to the psychological state of the mob rather than the individual. All this must be fairly said in the way of apology. When this has been done, however there abides a fact witnessed by the disturbed and outraged feelings of the preacher and the neighbors in the other seats. The inattention, the whispering and the open confusion in the back pews on many a Sunday night are a flagrant violation of all Christian courtesy. The unhappy victims of it are robbed of their peace and profit and seem utterly without the means of redress.

Public reproof is a severe measure. It might be employed if the creators of the disturbance were the members of the common rowdy gangs of the street. As a rule they are not. They belong quite commonly to the "East families." They are better bred at home than their public conduct in the back pews would lead one to believe. Their parents do not know what their children are doing. Hence preacher and occupants of neighboring pews are quite powerless to check the abuse from which they suffer. The young people are wanted at the services of public worship. Even with the accompaniment of discourtesy the officers of the church would rather have them come to church than stay away. Meanwhile, however, must they continue to suffer in uncomplaining silence?

We believe that the solution of the problem is to be reached at home. The right emphasis in the family will aid in solving the difficulty. Boys and girls who are taught the true regard for the rights of others and the real politeness which mark the person well bred, will not yield to the mob spirit of discourtesy in the back pews. In the training of every home there ought to be placed made for the subject of behavior in public places. Parents have a definite duty to perform in the culture of habits of courteous attention and polite deportment in public on the part of their children. It is an integral part in family discipline.

Have you, parents, ever made this a definite factor in the training of your children? Do you know what your adolescent child does as a member of the back pew groups in public meetings? There are sufferers in the pulpits and in the neighboring pews. They have rights as well as the young people. Even a prosy preacher or a sleepy saint who nods has the right to courteous treatment. Home training can set this matter right, so that a boy who would be a gentleman in his father's parlor will not fail to be a gentleman also in the back pew at Sunday evening service. —Zion's Herald.

WARSHIPS ON STORMY SEA

Great Vessels Are Often Carried Away and Lost When Hurricanes Rage.

Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet, in its delay in sailing for its point of attack, bears some resemblance to the Spanish Armada. The comparison is strengthened, says the New York World of recent date, by the report from Amoy that a typhoon had damaged the Russian ships and scattered the smaller of them, for two-thirds of the "Invincible" Armada of 130 ships were lost in storms.

The Spanish and Russian navies are not the only ones that have suffered from the natural perils of the sea. On the night of November 26, 1703, seven British warships, carrying upward of 1,000 men and 470 guns, were lost on the coast of England. In October, 1780, 15 British warships, mounting 482 guns, were lost in a hurricane in the West Indies.

In March, 1889, three American and three German warships were driven ashore at Apia, Samoa, and lost with about 150 men.

Aside from these instances of the loss of several vessels in a particular storm there are innumerable instances of the destruction of single warships.

COLOR PHOTOGRAPHY TEST

Novel Experiment to Be Made During Eclipse of the Sun Next August.

One of the novelties to be attempted at the eclipse of the sun on August 30 next is to apply color photography to the observation so that a record can be made of the appearance of the chromosphere and corona. The plan, says the Search-Light, is to employ the three-color process, where screens of different colors are used with three different plates, each screen cutting off light of various colors, so that when positives from the three plates are made and used with light of a color corresponding to the screen the resulting picture has the colors of the original.

For the eclipse photographs a camera with three lenses and three screens will probably be employed, as it is necessary that the exposures shall be made simultaneously. As the plates are sensitive to the different colors in different degrees there will be a properly adjusted diaphragm or stop for each lens, so that the same time of exposure will suffice for all. The color phenomena of a total eclipse of the sun are considered most beautiful, and great interest attaches to this method of reproducing them.

IS ALWAYS "JUST AS GOOD"

Another Piece of Impertinence That the Shopper Is In For from Druggists.

They were matching experiences in order to kill time, and one of them remarked that he had struck a new wrinkle in the drug stores that puzzled him, says the Providence Journal.

"It's well understood," he explained, "that wherever you go these days, when you're on a shopping expedition, something that's 'just as good' as the thing you ask for and want will be forced on you, whether you're after a yeast cake or a smoked ham. That's to be expected. And half the time you'll have to take something that's just as good, or go without, because they don't keep your brand. Moreover, you'll be informed that nobody keeps your brand, and that there's precious little demand for it among people of intelligence, so that before you're through you'll be more than half ashamed of yourself for expressing a preference. All that's commonplace; but lately, as I said, I've noticed a new one. I'll order a bottle or package of a mixture I've always used, and when the apothecary is wrapping it up with that deft touch apothecaries have, he'll look at me compassionately and say in a soft, purring tone of voice: "We've a preparation of our own we consider far superior to this, and we sell it 19 cents cheaper." His bottle or package, he adds, is much larger than the one you're buying.

"That kind of conversation makes me a little tired and provoked, and don't quite see what it means. What difference does it make to the druggist which portion of his stock I carry off? I have to pay his prices and he can charge me whatever he sees fit, whether I take one thing or another."

Huge Task.

It was a huge task to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease as that of C. F. Collier of Cherokee, Ia., but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone I could not sit on a chair without a cushion; and suffered from dreadful back ache, headache and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys I've crsticm ch. Guaranteed y W. A. D. As it was a fine day the tables were set out in the back yard under a canopy of robes and blankets and dinner eaten out of doors with Mr. and Mrs. Witham and five children at the same old table and in the accustomed places of childhood days, another and larger table being set near by for the rest.

Stronger Than Steel.

A new metal alloy, "radium argenteferum," has been discovered by two Tuscan engineers. It is composed of copper, iron and small quantities of silver, radium and phosphorus. It is claimed to be of greater strength than steel, to be a better conductor than copper, to be nonoxidizable and cheap to manufacture, its cost being about one-tenth that of bronze when made in large quantities. Its discovery is particularly interesting inasmuch as it was largely an accident. After spending nearly $20,000 in experiments, one of the inventors happened to throw a two shilling piece into the crucible. The coin supplied the ingredients needed to the proper fusion of the particles and the alloy resulted.

HIS EXCUSE ALL RIGHT.

And the Officer Allowed Mr. Dockey to Repose on the Grass in the Park.

At midnight recently a policeman found a man lying on the grass under a tree in a park, and he aroused him, relates the Chicago Inter Ocean.

"Come, mister, no one can sleep here."

"But I have a good excuse," replied the man.

"What is it?"

"See that house over there? Well, please do me a favor to go and ring the bell and ask if William Dockey is at home."

The officer went to the house, ascended the steps and rang the bell. A head was thrust out of an open window and a female voice demanded:

"Now, who is there?"

"Madam," replied the officer, "is William Dockey at home?"

"No, sir, and I don't expect him until daylight!" snapped the woman, and at the same moment a bowlful of water descended on the officer's head and half drowned him.

"Well," said the man in the grass, as the dripping officer came up, "you see how it is, don't you? I'm Dockey. That's Mrs. Dockey."

"I think I see," remarked the officer. "You can remain where you are."

Four Facts For Sick Women To Consider

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has an Unequalled Record of Cures—Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Is Confidential, Free, and always Helpful

FIRST.—That almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, displacements of the uterus, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing-down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

SECOND.—The medicine that holds the record for the largest number of absolute cures of female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can.

For thirty years it has been helping women to be strong, curing backache, nervousness, kidney troubles, allurine and ovarian inflammation, weakness and displacements, regulating menstruation perfectly and overcoming its pains. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the change of life.

THIRD.—The great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

FOURTH.—Every ailing woman in the United States is asked to accept the following invitation. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women.—Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. From symptoms given, your trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of the vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Surely, any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

UNCLE SAM'S BIG BUSINESS

Likely to Do Things on a Large Scale When He Operates at All—Navy Yard an Example.

Uncle Sam may not set up as a business man, but when he does go into business he is likely to do it in a large way, as he does, for instance, at the New York navy yard, where are located the largest naval storehouses in the United States.

In the general storehouses there is carried a stock of material, merchandise and supplies of the most varied character, including lumber, cordage and provisions, clothing, shoes and libraries, including many articles of ship supplies and everything required for the sailors' personal wants, amounting in value to upward of $10,000,000.

The business done in these storehouses during the fiscal year ended in 1904 amounted to more than $30,000,000.

Supplies are received here from many sources, and from here they are shipped to all parts of the world. The shipments in the course of the fiscal year 1904 aggregated 21,000 gross tons and comprised more than 450,000 packages.

The official who administers this business, of a volume that would be counted big among the biggest businesses done by private concerns, is known as the general storekeeper, this post being occupied by a pay director of the United States navy.

VENICE FREE FROM FASHION

Women of Watery City Care Little for Decrees of Parisian Modiste.

The women of Venice are absolutely free from the rule which Dame Fashion exercises over their sisters elsewhere. They care nothing for modes. With them the length of the skirt remains always the same, neither short nor long, and they always wear plainly made dark dresses, black stockings and the heelless slippers of the east. Hats are unknown. The universal outdoor wrap for all ages and all sizes is the black shawl with a deep silken fringe. It is folded with a short point above and a long one below, and sometimes it envelops the figure from head to foot. It is never fastened at the throat, and when it slips off it is gathered up with one outstretched arm, which makes the spectator think of a big bird stretching its wing. In their attire the women of Venice are independent, only wearing local clothing; but, with feminine inconsistency, they are thoroughly up-to-date in the matter of hair dressing, the style of their coiffures changing from time to time, according to the vogue of the moment in London and Paris.

ADVERTISING

In these days live merchants are looking for profit. They are placing their advertisements where, in their best judgement, they will do them the most good. Time was, we are told, when the store keeper used to give the newspaper man an advertisement, "just to help out the paper."

That would be considered a senseless performance now.

We want advertisements from people who want to get their money's worth out of their advertising.

We want advertisements from people who intend to give their advertisements some care and attention.

We want advertisements from business people who realize that they have something to say to the more than ten thousand readers of MAINE WOODSMAN, if they would make their business all that it should be.

To such people, the MAINE WOODSMAN advertising columns present indeed a rare bargain.

The MAINE WOODSMAN has the readers—more than ten thousand of them—without which all advertising would be a failure—money thrown away.

But IT PAYS to advertise in MAINE WOODSMAN. If in doubt try it.

Classified advertisements only one cent a word.

Hard on Mother.

He wrote a poem on the pies
That mother used to make;
He sent it to a magazine,
Alas! it didn't take.

It told about those good, old pies,
So tempting and so sweet,
Until one hankered for a piece
Of mother's pie to eat.

It dwelt upon the crispy crust,
The luscious pumpkin brown;
And so he couldn't understand
Why they should throw him down.

At last he sought the editor,
Who thus the truth did break;
"Your poetry is most too much
Like mother used to make!"

Chicago Society Woman Who Was So Sick She Could Not Sleep or Eat, Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

When a woman's kidneys go wrong, her back gives out and every little task becomes a burden. She is tired, nervous, sleepless, run down—suffers daily from backache, headaches, dizzy spells, and bearing-down pains.

Don't worry over imagined "female troubles." Cure the kidneys and you will be well. Read how to find the cure.

Marion Knight, of 33 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill., member of the Chicago Federation of Musicians and a well-known club woman, says: "This winter when I started to use Doan's Kidney Pills I ached in every bone and had intense pains in the kidneys and pelvic organs. The urine was thick and cloudy, and I could barely eat enough to live. I felt a change for the better within a week. The second week I began eating heartily. I began to improve generally, and before seven weeks had passed I was well. I had spent hundreds of dollars for medicine that did not help me, but $6 worth of Doan's Kidney Pills restored me to perfect health."
