JANUARY CITY MEETING

Devoted Almost Wholly to Routine Business.—Dr. Stevens Appointed Milk Inspector.

The January meeting of the city council Monday night was devoted almost wholly to routine business. The committee on streets and highways rendered a report favorable to accepting the proposed extensions of Shaw avenue and Summer street, which report was accepted.

Alderman Knowlton's order instructing the mayor to settle the Robbins pauper suit against the town of Stonington had a passage.

Dr. H. L. Stevens was appointed milk inspector.

The following roll of accounts had a passage: Inmate hospital and industrial school, $675; police fund, $190; fire department, $34; pauper fund, $229; contingent fund, $456; highway fund, $74; repairs on public buildings, 75 cents; schools, $299; free text books, $88; sewer fund, $41; city lighting, $32; state road, $14; alteration of McLain school building, $34; total, $2363.

Marshal Hix reported 34 arrests, 22 of which were for drunkenness, five for search and seizure, four for disturbing the peace, two for nuisance, and one for larceny. The receipts amounted to $125. Tax collector Brown turned into the city treasury the sum of $15,141, making his total collections to date $115,016. Road Commissioner Simmons' expenditures during the month were $379. The sales at the city liquor agency according to Capt. Alward's monthly report were $885. City Treasurer Adams reported a balance to the January account of $14,620. The mayor's orders amounted to $2126. Overseer Snow reported that 114 orders on the city store were given during December. The receipts from towns and individuals amounted to $1165. There are now in the almshouse 21 persons, with a large amount of sickness.

Talk of the Town

Capt. Myron E. Bennett of Portland has been elected major of the Artillery Corps, formerly the National Guard, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Major John Bird of Camden.

From the zero temperature of last week to the mellow warmth of Sunday was only a sudden jump. It is doubtful if there is another case on record where Jan. 2 furnished weather so mild and sunny that one could sit on a piazza without discomfort.

At the morning service Sunday Rev. Mr. Day announced that the ladies of the First Baptist church during 1909 had paid $500 upon the church's mortgage debt. This good work was begun last April so that the reduction has been at the rate of about $100 a month. The amount remaining is about $200 and the ladies purpose to keep at it until the last vestige disappears.

Mrs. Owen B. Long of the New County Road has received a handsome collection of souvenir post cards from Hawaii. They were sent to her by her brother, Capt. John Fitzgerald, who is harbor master at Hilo, and who has been a resident of Hawaii 19 years. His many friends here in Rockland will be glad to know that he is prospering. He lives in one of the finest residences in Hilo, a picture of which is shown on one of the post cards which he has sent to his sister.

Franklin R. Reddon, Grand High Priest of the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Maine, has notified the local members of the fraternity that a Chapter of instruction will be held in this city Jan. 21, at 3 p. m. Instruction will be given by the Grand Lecturer in the ritual and secret work of the several degrees. It is earnestly desired that every High Priest, King and Scribe in this jurisdiction, who can possibly do so, may attend. All Royal Arch Masons in good standing are cordially invited.

Louis Sockalexis, the famous Penobscot Indian, who played in Warren one season, has resurrected his baseball ambition and is anxious to return to the diamond. Sock has been out of the game of many a season. Last year a report was circulated that he was going to play again and some impostor appeared under his name. The bluff did not last long. Sock the real Sock has got the fever and wants to get back into the big game, where he can make some money. Sockalexis started playing ball in Worcester at Holy Cross College and later he played in the professional diamond. The high life forced Sockalexis out of the running eventually, but he says that he has out all the firewater and other dissipation and is in the best of health.

The variability of temperature on these cold mornings was strikingly illustrated last Friday. It remained, however, for W. J. Swift of East Warren to produce the most chilling information. He tells The Courier-Gazette that his thermometer showed 20 degrees below zero, which is by far the coldest temperature that the whole state of Maine revealed for that morning.

John Nutt of Rockport, who took an active part in the War of 1812, died in that town, aged 88.

A good Templars lodge was instituted in South Warren with the following officers: E. A. Robinson, president; V. T. Mrs. E. M. Jordan, secretary; Clara Bradford, assistant secretary; Alice I. Robinson, financial secretary; Callie Bucklin, treasurer; Adelbert Bucklin, marshal; John Spear, deputy marshal; Clara Libby, inside guard; Susie Bradford, outside guard; A. R. Jordan, chaplain; Mahala Spear, W. R. E. Alice Libby, W. L. S. Margaret Spear. The name of the new lodge was Mishawam.

Two vessels were built in the Waldoboro district, with a total tonnage of 2,502. In the year previous 23 vessels had been constructed with a total tonnage of 11,274.

Thomaston mourned the death of a well known citizen, Capt. George W. Hix.

William E. Hylar of Cushing accidentally received a charge of gunshot in the face, losing an eye.

The Thompson ship Nathan Estabrook Jr. was in collision with the British steamer Guiford. Both were badly damaged.

Sidney Packard had one of his hands severed and a wrist broken in a mill accident.

Marion W. wife of C. Prince, and Elona D. widow of Richard Elliot, died in this town.

George S. Cobb Post, G. A. R. of Camden, elected the following officers: James S. Cleveland, commander; P. Wiley, senior vice; E. D. Harrington, 1st vice; A. Miller, Jr., quartermaster; Gideon Tower, chaplain; S. E. J. es, surgeon; S. R. Tarbox, O. of D.; J. E. Clark, O. of G.

Patrick Cain of Vinalhaven, who had killed the foreman of the quarry in which he worked committed suicide in the insane hospital.

The following births were recorded: Appleton, Dec. 28, Mr. and Mrs. Rose Newell, a son.

Appleton, Dec. 28, Dr. and Mrs. S. Stephens, a daughter.

Hope, Dec. 29, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Woodworth, a daughter.

JANUARY CLEARING SALE

PRIOR TO
Stock Taking, Feb'y 1st, 1910

STOCK in each department of our big store to be reduced Every Cent possible before February 1st. This applies especially to our Garment Department which has, as usual, a big assortment to buy from. You are not limited to a few suits or coats, but to a tremendous stock of the most popular lines of ready-to-wear garments from New York and Boston.

WE include in this sale our entire stock of Women's Furs, which is one of the best and largest in the State. It is early in the season for us to reduce prices on our fur stock to such an extent, as the most of the winter is yet to come. The mild fall weather which kept up to December is accountable for these sacrifice prices. Our small furs, such as muffs, neck pieces, children's furs, are too numerous to admit of description.

IF you know, or think you know, what you want in furs and do not see it advertised, write us and we will enlighten you if possible. We will send any garments or furs on approval to any reliable person in New England, express paid, if the amount of $5.00 is kept.

TWICE-A-WEEK.

CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT

Rockland, January 7, 1910.
Personally appeared Harold G. Cobb, who on oath declares: That he is pressman in the office of the Rockland Publishing Co., and that of the issue of the Courier-Gazette of January 4, 1910, there was printed a total of 4,397 copies.
Before me: J. W. ROCKWELL, Notary Public.

Our genial, not to say happy and friendly, Democratic contemporary the Lewiston Journal, "refuses," it declares, "to accept a certificate of heterodoxy from Rockland," and it continues to scold out of the Republican party Congressman Swasey and all other prominent Maine men who at one time and another have come into the horizon of that erratic sheet's disfavor—and this means practically every gentleman who in one way and another has been active in our state's politics since the death of Nelson Dingley, the member of the Journal management who was endowed with political sagacity and a level head. We think it to be a truth that members of that party "refuse" to be relegated to any smug category of "Roosevelt Republicans" or "Taft Republicans" that the Lewiston paper may assume to cast them in. No more loyal adherents existed than Mr. Roosevelt (famously alluded to by the Journal as "Teddy") when president could count upon among the Republicans of Maine, and these voters are equally loyal now to the administration of President Taft. If it amuses the Journal man to continue its fire upon these men they can continue to endure it with reasonable equanimity, for the measure of a common scold is soon established.

We think it particularly worth the while of readers of The Courier-Gazette to take special notice of the fact that the merchants of Rockland in the clothing and dry goods lines are conducting special sales of more than ordinary proportions. These are legitimate business movements incidental to the mid-winter season, when merchants desire to turn their stocks into cash and clear their shelves for another class of goods that later will come in to supply the demands of spring buying. When merchants of established reputations advertise such special sales buyers may depend upon the quality of goods offered and the genuineness of the reduced prices. Therefore we urge upon readers the wisdom of purchasing now, taking advantage of the opportunities afforded for money saving. A visit to our city at this time will be of real benefit to the prudent man and woman, for a dollar saved is always a dollar earned. Look upon our advertising columns and then arrange a shopping expedition. The bargain season will not continue long.

ROCKPORT

Capt. J. W. Hopkins of Beauchamp Point left this week for Philadelphia, where he will consult with Mrs. C. W. Henry, owner of the yacht Wisconsin, on which Capt. Hopkins has commanded the past seven years. Chas. S. Gardner and family are occupying Mrs. O. P. Shepherd's residence, Commercial street, for the winter. Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Gray of Hartland were guests at dinner Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sylvester, Beauchamp Point. A. C. Moore was at Tenant's Harbor and Port Clyde Thursday. A special meeting of St. Paul's Lodge, F. & A. M., was held Wednesday evening for the purpose of conferring degrees. Mrs. Alice Hathaway and Mrs. Lizzie Howard of Rockland were guests at Mrs. R. C. Thorndike's Wednesday. Mrs. O. P. Shepherd returned Wednesday to Portland, where she will remain during the winter. R. L. Thorndike has been spending the week at Lake Megunticook.

The regular meeting of Harbor Light Chapter, O. E. S., was held Tuesday evening. Degrees were conferred on three candidates. Before the meeting was called to order, a very pleasant surprise was given the officers by the Worthy Patron, who called them together and in appreciation of their regular attendance and their faithful work during the year, presented each with a very handsome Star pin. The installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held Monday evening, Jan. 17. Supper will be served after the installation, which will consist of clam chowder, pies, cakes, coffee and doughnuts. Capt. J. A. Amatory has kindly volunteered to furnish the chowder. Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Cole entertained the following guests at 6 o'clock dinner Wednesday, Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Gray of Hartland, Rev. and Mrs. George O. Richardson.

At the Baptist church Sunday morning at 10:30 there will be a roll-call service. All members are requested to be present and to give a Scripture response. Sermon by the pastor, Text: "The Lord Will See to It"; 12:00 Sunday school; 3:00 Junior C. E.; 7:00 evening meeting, text, "Purge me with hyssop and I shall be clean; wash me and I shall be whiter than snow. Everyone welcome. The Twentieth Century Club will observe their 10th anniversary next Tuesday afternoon. An open meeting will be held at the home of Miss Minnie P. Shepherd, Commercial street. A picnic supper will be served.

THEY ARE SAFE.

Schooners Wyoming and Henry W. Cramp are reported safe.

The McMillan lecture netted Knox hospital about $50 in spite of heavy expenses.

The Stonington tug Betsey Ross is at this port for repairs. There was quite a serious fire on board of her a few days ago.

There were 1299 tickets in the Dreamland Theatre jar. La Forest Brown guessed within four of it, and was nearest. A telegram was received here Thursday announcing the death of Maurice Cohen, who formerly clerked in Huxton's store. He was 17 years of age, and a son of Joseph Cohen. The cause of death was spinal meningitis.

The Rockland Juniors defeated a Warren team 18 to 10 in Warren Thursday evening. Healey made four of Rockland's goals from floor, and Fuller and Ulmer made two each. Warren's goals from floor were made by Robinson, Dolan and Brown.

BIG VAUDEVILLE AT FARWELL HOUSE TODAY.

Never before has there been offered at the Farwell opera house such a big vaudeville bill as the present which includes The Vechnars in the greatest horizontal bar act ever seen here, together with Jordan and Keys colored wooden shoe breakers—a big laugh all the time they are on the boards. This Friday night is one of the most distinctive of the week at this house and is known as "Amateur night," and the second in the series of amateur contests, will take place, and already there are some twelve amateurs entered and Manager Busley invites all amateur entertainers to appear on this occasion and demonstrate their ability, and win one of the four liberal cash prizes offered for the best act. Nothing to offend or disconcert the amateur is permitted at the Farwell. Everyone appearing will have a fair chance for the prizes. The contest last Friday evening was said to be the best conducted event of the kind ever held in this city, and with a great many more new acts this Friday night will break all other records in point of attendance. Just a word to the patrons. Come early if you want good seats. On this Saturday afternoon there will be given to the matinee a beautiful toy balloon. A big vaudeville program is also offered today, and every mother should let the little ones see this, the one great place in the city for the little ones to go and keep warm and save doctor's bills.

DREAMLAND.

The great musical Buskirk & Co. will be seen at Dreamland today and tomorrow. This is one of the greatest musical comedy acts on the stage. The feature picture is Fantine. This is a beautiful historical picture over 1000 feet long. This Friday night is amateur night. Mr. Butler of Thomaston, the great Irish impersonator, will make you laugh. There will be eight others. The puzzle picture is interesting hundreds. Guess on the jar of peas in Hewett Dry Goods Co. window and make a bid for the $5.00 in gold.

CREW WAS FROSTBITTEN.

A crew of frozen sailors was towed into Boston Wednesday on board the two-masted schooner Saml Hart, Port Reading, N. J., for Thomaston, with a cargo of coal. Early Wednesday morning while off the Isle of Shoals the Hart ran into a heavy gale, attended by zero temperature. The fore gaff was broken, the foresail torn and part of the rigging carried away. The decks were swept clean of everything, including the water casks. All of the crew were badly frostbitten and upon their arrival at Boston were sent to a hospital.

WALDOBORO

George W. Singer of Damariscotta was in town Tuesday. Henry Soule is in Boston on a visit to relatives.

Mrs. Bowers who has been at P. E. Stain's several weeks, returned to her home in Warren Tuesday. She will return later in the week to stay with Mrs. C. R. Flanders.

Miss Jessie Keene has returned to Gorham.

Miss Ruth Hooper has been the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Luella Winchenbach, several days.

Miss Jessie Coombs has returned to Gorham.

The infant daughter of Clarence Walz is recovering from a severe attack of croup.

A. C. Moore of Rockland was in town Monday.

Sarah Elizabeth Kennedy, the daughter of the late Deacon Henry, died Tuesday at her home on Main street of a shock. She was about 70 years of age.

There was a union prayer meeting Wednesday evening at the Methodist church.

Miss Margaret Ashworth left for Waterville, Wednesday.

Fred Chute is home for a few days. The Senior class V. H. S. are rehearsing a play "Miss Bushy's Boarders" to be presented in a few weeks.

PLEASANT POINT

Charles Sylvester and wife of Friendship spent last week at James Seavey's, Leslie Young and wife of Block Island are receiving congratulations on the birth of their daughter.

Mrs. Andrew Marshall and daughter Lenetta of Port Clyde visited among friends in this place last week.

Richard Dunn of Thomaston visited Capt. A. D. Chadwick's last week.

Byron Davis and family of Glenmere are stopping at G. A. Davis'.

The officers of Acorn Grange were installed in a very pleasing and efficient manner last Saturday evening by Past Master R. S. Thorndike of Pleasant Valley Grange, Rockland. Brother Thorndike was ably assisted by Brother W. G. Maloney and Sister Louise Miller. There was large attendance, as each member had the privilege of inviting one friend. F. B. Miller of Rockland was present, also W. L. Thompson and wife of Friendship Grange. A supper was served, consisting of fish chowder, baked beans, brown bread, pickles, pies, cake and coffee. All enjoyed a grand good time.

Alvah Chadwick, wife and son Hollis of Port Clyde are visiting among relatives and friends in this place.

PROGRAM OF MEETINGS.

Sunday morning each church will hold its regular service, the arrangement for Jan. 9 being as follows: Dr. Elliott will speak at the Universalist church, Rev. W. J. Day at the Methodist church, Rev. B. P. Judd at the Baptist church. There will be no services at the Congregational church.

Sunday evening all will unite at First Baptist church at 7:30, with Dr. Elliott as speaker and Mr. Nafziger as singer and leader of chorus. Sunday afternoon there will be a woman's meeting in the Baptist church at 3 o'clock led by Dr. Elliott. On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, meetings will be held at 3:30. Everybody is invited to these meetings, which will be in charge of the evangelist and his assistants. These meetings will be held as follows: Tuesday afternoon in the Congregational church, Wednesday afternoon in the Universalist church, and Thursday afternoon in the Methodist church. On Friday afternoon at 3:30 there will be a meeting for boys and girls, led by Mr. Nafziger. This will be one of the most interesting of the week's meetings.

Wednesday will be a "Day of Prayer." It will be observed by neighborhood prayer meetings throughout the city, held during the morning. There will be meetings every evening through the week except Saturday, under the direction of Dr. Elliott.

He dropped from the omnibus at the park entrance, where he found his restive mare. He gave her a lump of sugar and climbed into the saddle. He directed the groom to return for the horse at 10 o'clock, then headed for the bridge path. It was heavy, but the air was so keen and bracing that neither the man nor the horse worried about the going. Only one party attracted him, a riding master and a trio of brokers who were verging on ebullience and were desperate and looked it. Hillard went on. The park was not lovely; the trees were barren, the grass yellow and sodden.

"She is so innocent, so youthful!" He found himself humming the refrain over and over. She had sung it with abandon, tenderness, lightness. For one glimpse of her face! He took the risk and did that followed. Yards ahead a solitary woman cantered easily along. Hillard had not seen her before. He spurred forward, faintly curious. There was nothing familiar to his eye in her charming figure. She rode well. As he drew nearer he saw that she wore a heavy gray veil. And this veil hid everything but the single flash of a pair of eyes the color of which defied him. Then he looked at her mount. Ha! There was only one raney black with a white throat—from the Sandford stables, he was positive. But the Sandfords were at this moment in Cairo, so it signified nothing. There is always some one ready to exercise your horses. He looked again at the rider. The flash of the eyes was not repeated, so his interest vanished, and he urged the mare into a sharp run.

So he went back to his tentative romance. She had passed his window and disappeared into the fog, and there was a reasonable doubt of her ever returning from it. The singer in the fog—thus he would write it down in his book of memories and sensibly turn the page. At length he came back to the entrance and surrendered.

The flash of a pair of eyes.

the mare. He was about to cross the square when he was hailed.

Hillard wheeled and saw Merrilwe.

"Why, Dan, glad to see you. Were you in the park?"

"Riverside. Beasts! Cold too. Come join me in a cup of good coffee."

The two entered the cafe.

"How are you behaving yourself these days?" asked Merrilwe.

"My habits are always exemplary," answered Hillard. "But yours?"

Merrilwe gulped his coffee.

"Kitty Killgrew leaves in two weeks for Europe."

"And who the deuce is Kitty Killgrew?" demanded Hillard.

"What?" reproachfully. "You haven't heard of Kitty Killgrew in 'The Modern Maid'?"

"Pippin! Prettiest soubrette that's hit the town in a dog's age."

"I say, Dan, don't you ever tire of that sort?"

"I can't recall when there wasn't a Kitty Killgrew. What's the attraction?"

Hillard waved aside the big black cigar. "What's the attraction?"

"The truth is, Jack, I'm a jackass half the time. I can't get away from the glamour of the footlights. I'm no Johnny. You know that. No hanging around stage entrances and buying wine and diamonds. I might be reckless enough to buy a bunch of roses when I'm not broke. But I like 'em—the bright ones. They keep a fellow amused. Most of 'em speak good English."

lish and come from better families than you would suppose. Just good fellowship, you know. Maybe a rabbit and a bottle of beer after the performance or a little quarter limit at the apartment, singing and good stories. What you're in mind is the chorus lady. Not for mine!"

Hillard laughed, recalling his conversation with the policeman.

"Go on," he said. "Get it all out of your system now that you're started."

"And then it tickles a fellow's vanity to be seen with the fellows at the restaurants. That's the way it begins, you know. I'll be perfectly frank with you. If it wasn't for what the other fellows say most of the chorus ladies would go hungry. And the girls that you and I know think I'm a devil of a fellow—wicked, but interesting, and a bit of a character."

Hillard's laughter broke forth again, and he leaned back. Merrilwe would always be twenty-six; he would always be youthful.

"And this Kitty Killgrew? I believe I've seen posters of her in the windows now that you speak of it."

"Well, Jack, I've got it bad this trip. I offered to marry her last night and was refused."

"It seems to me that your Kitty is not half bad. What would you have done had she accepted you?"

"Married her within twenty-four hours."

"Come, Dan; be sensible. You are not such an ass as all that."

"Yes, I am," moodily. "I told you that I was a jackass half the time. This is the half."

"But she won't have you?"

"Not for love or money."

"Are you sure about the money?" asked Hillard shrewdly.

"Seven hundred or seven thousand. It wouldn't matter to Kitty if she made up her mind to marry a fellow. What's the matter with me anyhow? I'm not so badly set up. I can whip any man in the club at my weight. I can tell a story well, and I'm not afraid of anything."

"Not even of 'the future'?" added Hillard.

"Do you really think it's my money?" pathetically.

"Well, seven thousand doesn't go far, and that's all you have. If it were twenty, now, I'm sure Kitty wouldn't reconsider. What's she like?" asked Hillard, with more sympathy than curiosity.

Merrilwe drew out his watch and opened the case. It was a pretty face. More than that, it was a refined prettiness. The eyes were merry; the brow was intelligent; the nose and chin were good. Altogether it was the face of a merry, kindly little soul, one such as would be most likely to trap the wandering fancy of a young man like Merrilwe.

"And she won't have you?" Hillard repeated, this time with more curiosity than sympathy.

"Oh, she's no fool, I suppose. And now she's going to Europe! Some manager has the idea in his head that there is money to be made in Italy and Germany during the spring and summer. American comic opera in those countries—can you imagine it? He has an angel, and I suppose money is no object."

"This angel, then, has cut out a fine time for his bank account, and he'll never get back to heaven once he gets tangled up in foreign red tape. Every large city in Italy and Germany has practically its own opera troupe. Poor

"I'm afraid, Enrico, that you have brought me to America on a useless adventure," said the diplomat.

"She is here in New York, and I shall find her. I must have money—must! I owe you the incredible amount of 100,000 lire. There are millions under my hand, and I cannot touch a penny."

"Do not let your debt to me worry you."

"You are so very good, Giuseppe!"

"I long to get my hands around her throat!"

"I'll see that Kitty gets her ticket!" Merrilwe snatched the case of his watch and drew his legs from under the table. "I lost a hundred last night too."

"After that I suppose nothing worse can happen," said Hillard cheerily. "You will play for all my advice."

"It's better to give than receive—that," replied Merrilwe philosophically. "I've a good mind to follow the company. I've always had a hankering to beat it up at Monte Carlo. A last throw, eh? Win or lose and quit. I might win."

"And then again you mightn't. But the next time I go to Italy I want you to go with me. You're good company, and for the pleasure of listening to your jokes I'll gladly foot the bills, and you may gamble your letter of credit to your heart's content. I must be off. Who is riding the Sandfords' black?"

"Haven't noticed. What do you think of Kitty?"

"Charming!"

"Possibly not."

"Lord, if I could only hibernate for three months like a bear! My capital might then readjust itself if left alone that length of time."

"See you at the club tonight," laugh Hillard.

They nodded pleasantly and took their separate ways. Merrilwe stood very high in Hillard's regard. He was a lovable fellow, and there was something kindred in his soul and Hillard's, possibly the spirit of romance. What drew them together perhaps more than anything else was their mutual love of outdoor pleasures. Take two men and put them on good horses, send them forth into the wilds to face all inconveniences, and if they are not fast friends at the end of the journey they never will be.

For all his aversion to cards there was a bit of the gambler in Hillard, as once in his office he decided on the fall of a coin not to withdraw his personal from the paper. He was quite positive that he would never hear that voice again; but, having thrown his dice, he would let them lie.

Now, at 11 o'clock that same morning down to breakfast in one of the fashionable hotels. The one nor the other had even heard of Hillard. They did not even know that such a person existed, and yet serenely unconscious one was casting his life line, as the palmist would say, across Hillard's. The knots and tangles were to come later.

"The coffee in this country is abominable!" growled one.

The waiter smiled covertly behind his hand. These Italians and these Germans! Why, there is only one place in the world where both the aromas and the flavor of coffee are preserved, and it is not decidedly not in Italy or Germany. And if his tip exceeded 10 cents he would be vastly surprised. The Italian never wastes on necessities a penny which can be applied to the gaming tables. And these two were talking about Monte Carlo and Ostend.

The younger of the two was a very handsome man, tall, slender and nervous, the Venetian type, his black eyes, keen and roving, suggesting a hasty temper. The mouth, partly hidden under a graceful military mustache, was thin lipped, the mouth of a man who was always master of his vices. From his right cheek bone to the corner of his mouth ran a scar, very well healed. And the American imagination might readily have pictured villas, maids in durance vile and sword thrusts under the moonlight. But the waiter, who had served his time in a foreign army, knew no follies or rapiers could have made such a scar; more probably the sabre.

His companion was equally picturesque. With white head and iron gray beard, he wore in his buttonhole a tiny bow of ribbon, the badge of foreign service.

"I'm afraid, Enrico, that you have brought me to America on a useless adventure," said the diplomat.

"She is here in New York, and I shall find her. I must have money—must! I owe you the incredible amount of 100,000 lire. There are millions under my hand, and I cannot touch a penny."

"Do not let your debt to me worry you."

"You are so very good, Giuseppe!"

"I long to get my hands around her throat!"

"Have we not grown up together? Sometimes I think I am partly to blame for your extravagance. But a friend is a friend or he is not."

"But he who borrows from his friend loses him. Observe how I am placed. It is maddening. I have had a dozen opportunities to marry riches. This millionaire is eternally round my neck. I have gone through my part of the fortune which was left us independently. She has all of hers, and that is why she is so strong. I am absolutely helpless."

"Poor friend! These American women! They all believe that a man must have no pecuniaries once he is signed the marriage contract. Body of Bacchus! The sacrament does not make a man less human than he was before. But this one is clever. She might be Italian born."

"Her mother was Italian. It is the schooling in this country that has made her so clever. The only thing Italian about her is her hatred. She is my countrywoman there. Without her consent I can touch nothing, and if I divorce her—pouff!—all goes to the state. Sometimes I long to get my two hands round her white throat. One mistake, one slip! I am willing to swear that she loved me in the beginning. And I

One of the boldest highway robberies ever committed in Camden took place on Tuesday evening at about 9 o'clock. While Myron Pendleton was on his way to the Ordway Plaster Co. building, in which he acts as janitor and watchman, he had turned the corner by the grist mill of Frey & Porter and before he had reached J. A. Brewster's shop in the Tannery, so is thought he must have been sandbagged. When he came to his senses his fur coat was cut down the front and the pockets cut way through and contents taken which comprised over $20 in money, fountain pen, jack-knife, glasses and gold watch and chain. He at once made his way to the barn where he saw a light. It is understood that a reward has been offered for any trace of the robber. The day after the robbery Mr. Pendleton only suffered from a bad feeling of the head and there were no bruises on the body or head.

Mrs. Ephraim Wiley and Mrs. Lydia Dunham leave the first of the week for Boston, where they will visit for a few weeks.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY PILLS
FOR BACKACHE, RHEUMATISM AND BLADDER

IF NOT--WHY NOT?

It has been our custom for the past few years to have a January Clearance sale. They have been, as you all know, very successful, and more than satisfactory in every way. This year we propose to outdo ourselves and give our customers and public generally a chance to stock up. We have already made arrangements with one of the largest houses in the country for a line of clothing, better in every way than anything ever shown in Rockland, and for this reason we want to make a clean sweep of everything we have in suits and overcoats, so as to fill our counters in the spring with an entirely new line of clothes such as the people of this city have never before had the pleasure of seeing. In addition to this we shall offer our entire wholesale and retail stock of men's furnishings at such prices as to make this one of the biggest and best sales ever offered to the people of Eastern Maine. What would you say if you were told you could buy of us a nice 50c under garment at 29c? Very likely you would comment. We expect you would. Yet we have them, and plenty of them at the price 29c. An extra heavy double-breasted fleeced shirt at 39c. Our men's fancy and mixed overcoats have been marked at prices that will interest all. You should look them over and be convinced. We have about twenty-five fur coats, all new this season, have been let a few times, practically as good as new. A plain black dog at $12.79, a black dog with wombat collar at $14.29, a black dog with nutria collar at 16.29. We have a few fur-lined coats with blended otter collar retail price $75.00 we offer these at 57.00. A lot of about fifty boys' overcoats, sized 9 to 15, value $5.00 to 8.00 each, your choice for 3.50. Our suits for men and boys have been remarked and in many cases less than one-half price. In Social Circles

The Syndicate dancers dedicated their new hall at Glenview Tuesday evening, and in spite of the intense cold which made it almost impossible to heat any building, enjoyed the occasion very much. A picnic supper was served, one of the features being a nice box of oranges sent as a remembrance from William H. Bird, who was one of the most popular members of the Syndicate before removing to Boston. Reading the columns of The Courier-Gazette with his usual faithful care he spied the notice that the Syndicate were to assemble and he directed that the oranges be sent up so that he could be there in spirit if not in body. New Year's greetings were also received from Seabrook W. Gregory, another former member of the Syndicate, now residing in Stamford, Conn. Both letters were received with applause and many fervent wishes that both Brook and Will were there.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Morris, who have been guests of Mrs. Morris's mother, Mrs. Bredon, T street, for the holidays, have returned to their home in St. John, N. B.

Miss Almee Karl, oldest daughter of John A. Karl, is expected in the city of Norway. Some striking samples of her wood-burning are now owned in various parts of the city.

Mrs. C. H. Estabrook has gone to New York, where she will spend the winter with her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Griffin, after spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ufford, on Water street, returned to Union on Tuesday. The Unversichtlich Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Leo Howard Wednesday evening. The members were presented with a most generous New Year's gift and those not present missed a dandy-candy time.

Dr. T. E. Tibbets has returned from a vacation and business trip to New York and Washington.

Clifford H. Carroll of Brighton, Mass., returned to his home Tuesday after spending the holidays with C. C. Cross, Camden street.

The Progressive Literary Club meets Monday January 17, with Mrs. Mather. The reading of Browning's Paracelsus will be taken up.

SANTA IN SLUMBERLAND

Cantata at Universalist Church Developed Talent Among the Little Folks.

"Santa Claus in Slumberland," the cantata given by the Universalist Sunday school in the vestry of the church last Friday evening, was a most pleasing affair. The boys as wide-awakes, were dressed in red suits with white ties, and the girls with white dresses and red sashes and hair ribbons. The sleepy-heads wore white night gowns and caps and carried lighted candles. The silver dollars were green suits decorated with coins of that denomination. Miss Marion McLoon as the fairy, wore a handsome fairy costume with gold crown and wand. She rendered her part in a most charming manner, as did Miss Doris Black, who, with her candle, and in appropriate manner, sang, "I'm Looking for Santa Claus."

Miss Charlotte Cross as Aunt Dorcas, Master Sherman Daniels and Esther Stevenson as the waifs, Miss Elizabeth Smith, Masters Lloyd Daniels, Lon Burkett, Norman Whittier and Emery Howard all had difficult parts and rendered them in a manner that would have reflected credit upon those of much older years.

Masters Jack Black, Conrad Howard, Stanley Whittier and Harlan Bird were the silver dollars.

Those making up the chorus, who have not already been mentioned, were James Tillinghast, Frank St. Clair, Mervin Bird, Charles Sheffield, Jennie and Marie Burton, Daphne Winslow and Dorothy Cross.

Charles Sylvester was "Santa Claus," and Miss Vivian Billings kindly took the part of Uncle Crusty, the one who was to have taken it being unable at the last to do so.

MR. MORSE IN PRISON

IN SUPREME COURT

The January term of supreme court convened Tuesday forenoon, with Associate Justice King presiding. There was a large attendance of Knox county attorneys, while the profession has been reinforced during the week by two distinguished lawyers from other parts of the state, Hon. Herbert M. Heath of Augusta and Hon. D. J. McGillem of Lewiston, the latter being the late Democratic candidate for Representative to Congress. Two civil cases have already been disposed of, and considerable progress has already been made in the way of making new American citizens, dissolving dissatisfied couples, and other matters which come under a supreme court's jurisdiction. The grand jury is not expected to rise before Saturday morning.

The first case to be tried before a jury was commenced Wednesday afternoon and was that of John E. Libby vs. Frank P. Libby and Julia A. Libby. The parties are all of Rockport. This was an action of trespass in which the plaintiff sues to recover damages to certain household goods removed by the defendants. John E. Libby and Julia A. Libby were owners in common of a certain piece of real estate in the village of Rockport and John E. Libby was occupying the premises. Mrs. Libby recovered judgment against John E. Libby and an execution was issued. The interest of John E. Libby in the real estate was taken on the execution and sold at sheriff's sale March 15, 1909, to Mrs. Julia A. Libby and she then became sole owner of the real estate and entitled to possession. The plaintiff claims that he did not have sufficient notice and a reasonable time in which to vacate the premises and remove his goods and that the defendants came to the house and put out his goods in such a careless manner as to injure them and they were left in the rain beside the road and were allowed to remain in that condition nine days, during which time there was more or less rainy weather and as a result the goods were badly damaged. The defendants claim that Frank P. Libby had notified the plaintiff and his wife that they must vacate the premises and move out their goods; that they neglected or refused to do so until July, 1909, when Frank P. Libby and his young son went to the house and moved all of the goods into the yard in a careful manner and that the goods were not injured. He further claimed that he engaged a teneant in which to store the goods and that whatever damage was done to the goods was through the neglect of the plaintiff himself. Verdict for plaintiff of $104 was rendered. Campbell for plaintiff; Staples for defendants.

William Copeland in replevin vs. Lott B. Copeland. Parties all of Thomaston. The plaintiff sues to recover one horse, one riding wagon and one harness. The plaintiff claims that he bought the horse of J. S. Woodbury of Lewiston in September, 1891. That the purchase money, together with money necessary for the support of the family, was sent by him to his wife while he was away at work and that Mrs. Copeland paid the money over to Mr. Woodbury. Mrs. Copeland, wife of the plaintiff, went to live with her daughter, a Mrs. Smith, and Lottie B. Copeland, the defendant, also lived with him. Mrs. Copeland died and it is claimed by the defendant that she gave the horse in controversy to her and claims title by virtue of such gift and that her mother bought the horse with money saved from the household expenses and from her own earnings and that the plaintiff has no claim. The defendant claims to have purchased the horse and to have traded a wagon for the one in controversy paying the difference out of money given her for her board and expenses. The plaintiff claims that whatever was purchased with the money furnished by him was his property and that the title would be in him the party purchasing them acting as his agent. Verdict for the defendant for horse, carriage and harness. Miller for plaintiff; Payson for defendant.

The following divorces have been decreed: Ruth A. Ordway from David P. Ordway of Camden for cruel and abusive treatment. Walker for libellant; Montgomery for libellee.

The following parties were admitted to citizenship Wednesday forenoon: Archibald Ferguson of Rockland, a native of Greenock, Scotland.

Carl Longren of Rockland, a native of Carlisle, Sweden.

Nunzio Colletti of Herculano, a native of Sandonata, Italy.

Leone Loreto of Herculano, a native of Caserta, Italy.

NOT MR. BRITTS.

A PASTOR IN POLITICS.

Death of Rev. S. L. Hanson Recalls An Exciting Contest in Hancock County.

In our Saturday issue appeared a brief announcement of the death of Rev. S. L. Hanson, a former Knox county pastor, who subsequently figured conspicuously in Hancock county politics as candidate for sheriff.

Sylvanus L. Hanson was born in East Machias, Jan. 3, 1845, the son of Rev. S. L. Hanson, a former Knox county pastor, who subsequently figured conspicuously in Hancock county politics as candidate for sheriff.

He was ordained to the ministry in 1868 and began his life work as pastor of the M. E. church at Deer Isle. He became one of the most successful and prominent members of the East Maine Conference and served in succession in Cutler, Lubec, Vassalboro, Clinton, Newcastle, Boothbay Harbor, Thomaston and Belfast. He went to Birmingham, Ala., for a year and upon his return to Maine was appointed to the pastorate of the church in Bar Harbor, where he served eight years, his last charge.

In all the fields where he labored he is well remembered and the news of his death will be received with profound regret by thousands of his former parishioners. Both in and out of the pulpit he endeavored himself to be a people wherever he was. As a preacher he was eloquent, earnest and convincing and as a pastor he was thoughtful and untiring in the interests of the community where he labored. He had high ideals of good citizenship and was an ardent temperance advocate and believer in prohibition. He was also a friend of the laboring man and interested in the problems of labor questions.

In 1902 Mr. Hanson's sense of duty led him to participate in one of the most memorable chapters in the history of Hancock county politics when he plunged into a canvass for sheriff on a prohibition ticket, making a triangular contest with the nominees of the regular parties. Mr. Hanson made an aggressive and earnest campaign of three weeks, making many speeches and entering into canvass with much zeal. He said in defining his position that he had the right to obtain a definite statement from Sheriff Howard F. Whitcomb, the Republican candidate for re-election, as to whether Mr. Whitcomb intended to adhere to the Republican platform adopted in the Portland convention demanding a faithful and impartial enforcement of the prohibitory law.

The vote for sheriff showed on the face of the returns a plurality of 72 for Whitcomb while Mr. Hanson claimed to be elected by about 200 plurality, alleging that many returns thrown out as defective were intended for him. The result was that the election was thrown out. Mr. Hanson made a hard fight, contesting the election. The counsel examined the returns, the governor and council, claiming that ballots were cast intended for Mr. Hanson that have given him a plurality of 381 votes.

The governor and council declined to grant the petition to issue election papers to Mr. Hanson and Howard F. Whitcomb was declared elected. Mr. Hanson is survived by four sons, all in the ministry. Rev. Warren A. Hanson of Castine, Rev. Albert H. Hanson of Houlton, Rev. Benjamin D. Hanson of Mars Hill and Rev. Frank I. Hanson of Creston, Iowa.

The funeral was held in the Methodist church in Houlton at 2 p. m. Friday and the interment in the cemetery in Belfast.

KNOX LODGE INSTALLS

New Officers Took Their Seats Monday Night—The Past Year's Work

The officers of Knox Lodge, I. O. O. F., were installed Monday evening by Deputy Grand Master Frank B. Miller, who was assisted by John A. Karl as grand marshal, Paul Sawyer as grand warden, John Colson as grand secretary, and Oliver B. Lovejoy as grand treasurer. The officers for the past year are as follows: N. G. Chas. A. Sylvester; V. G. Theodore H. Thomas; L. S. Lendon C. Jackson; F. S. George N. Harden; T. John Simpson; Francis J. Hunter; C. Luke S. Davis; Chaplain Oliver B. Lovejoy; R. S. N. G. John A. Karl; L. S. N. G. Frank G. Harding; R. S. N. G. Ernest B. Packard; L. S. N. G. L. S. Pratt; R. S. V. G. Abram V. Nye; L. S. V. G. August R. Chaplin; G. Alvah F. Staples; O. G. William A. Williams; finance committee, Frank B. Miller, Paul Sawyer and Lendon C. Jackson. Refreshments were served.

From the annual report of Frank B. Miller, the retiring recording secretary, it is learned that Knox Lodge has a membership of 474, which is a record for the lodge. Twenty-one were admitted by initiation and one was reinstated; two withdrew and four died. During the year the first degree was conferred upon 15 candidates, the second upon 15 and the third upon 15, making a total of 50 degrees conferred. The total receipts were $3256 and the lodge expenses were $2557, showing a net gain of $259. Fifty-two brothers were furnished relief in the lodge with two widowed families. The total amount paid for relief was $1934. The lodge has total cash assets to the amount of $17,283, the value of the hall property being $2300.

NOTE: VIOLET TEACHER

Prof. Austin Wight, Who Is Winning Laurels in New York State Is Former Warren Boy.

The current issue of the Violin World has a group picture of the violin pupils in the school at Olean, N. Y., taught by Prof. Austin Wight, formerly of Warren. The year has begun with a large attendance. The Elmira Gazette recently published the following appreciative sketch of Prof. Wight.

Austin Wight of the Wight School of Violin Playing at Olean, N. Y., is again actively engaged in the work of instruction after having spent the summer in study, under Professor Ovide Musin at the Verto School of Violin in New York City.

Mr. Wight is a born violinist and capable of playing on that instrument when only seven years old. He was born at Warren, Me., and is a son of William F. Wight, who was a wholesale dealer and a gentleman who did much to encourage musical organizations in that section.

Mr. Wight commenced the regular study of the violin when nine years of age under Joseph Locke who formerly played a violin in the orchestra in Glasgow, Scotland, and later with a lady graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music for a short time.

When sixteen he went to Boston for a year's study under Adolph Lowe, a capable pianist and violinist, although quite a young man, taking six lessons each week and practicing four hours daily, returning home in the Spring and playing in various concerts and orchestras.

The next winter Mr. Wight returned again to Boston where he remained ten years, six years being spent in study under that famous orchestra conductor, pianist and violinist, Emil Mollenhauer, also teaching a class of violin pupils and playing in various hotels and theatres. After teaching one season in the South, Mr. Wight came to Olean, N. Y., in 1899, being associated in teaching with Jaroslav De Zidelsky of Buffalo four years.

In 1904 Mr. Wight established his School of Violin at 124 North First Street in the most central part of the city, which has since made rapid progress as a very popular and flourishing violin school. The efficiency of this school has drawn pupils within a radius of 100 miles, including all grades from beginners to the most advanced.

Mr. Wight is assisted in his work by his wife as piano accompanist, which is an important feature of their school, as an experienced accompanist is indispensable to the larger advancement and musicianship of the violin student in the advanced grades. Mrs. Wight is a native of Boston, Mass., where she studied piano several years under the late Mrs. M. J. Mollenhauer.

Mr. and Mrs. Wight were regular attendants at the Boston Symphony Orchestra concerts for a number of years.

HOW TO GET FAT

Use Samose, Says Druggist C. H. Pendleton and Put On Good Flesh

The almost universal interest in physical culture is the best evidence that the people are turning to a simple and scientific method of making thin people fat, increasing strength and restoring health.

Athletes, when carried to an extreme, are in danger of losing their vitality. How much better it would be for the average person to regain health, strength and flesh by using Samose. This flesh-forming food is assimilated as soon as it enters the stomach; it helps the organs to assimilate the food and extract the flesh-forming elements; it builds up the muscles and rounds out the limbs into shapely proportions.

Samose has been so successful in making thin people fat, and restoring the weak and run down to strength and health that C. H. Pendleton, the popular druggist, sells it under his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not benefit.

Sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50c.

Many Have Been Shown in Rockland, —Leading French Dramatists Pose for Them—Some Films Cost $2000

So many of the Pathe picture films are shown at the Dreamland and are enjoyed by so many Rockland theatre-goers that a little information concerning the leading producers of the moving picture world will not be unwelcome to the thousands of amusement lovers who derive so much pleasure from the results of their artistic efforts.

The Pathe Freres (Pathe Brothers) occupy ten acres of ground, operate four enormous factories and have a staff of over 3000 employees. The plants are located in Paris, Joinville-le-Point, Montreuil-sous-Bois, Vincennes, where they have dozens of photographic studios, two complete theatres and thousands of dollars' worth of costumes and scenic equipment. At the present time they take over 4,000,000 pictures a day, which means about 14,419 miles of negative film a year.

The leading motion photography men of the world are in their employ; their pictures, dramas, comedies, tragedies, the most realistic pictures, based on the novels of Victorien Sardou, Alexandre Dumas, Victor Hugo, Alphonse Daudet, Honore De Balzac, and many other famous French authors, taking the pictures in many instances on the very spot where the different scenes in the stories are laid.

The regular stock company of actors comprises over 100 people, while they engage for the leading parts artists whose names are known all over Europe and in the greater part of America drawn from the Comedie Francaise, Theatre Rejane, Theatre Athene, Theatre Renaissance, Antoine Theatre, Sarah Bernhardt Theatre, vaudeville, and the gymnasiums. Among them are found Messrs. Le Barby, Albert Lambert, Max Dearly, Monnet-Sully and Miles, Mme. Tessander, Bara, Robine, Gailade, Cecile Sorel, Bartel, Megard, Fenille, Eugene Nal, Catherine Fontenay and Trouhanova.

Pathe Freres have offices in all the leading cities of the world and are represented by picture outfits in every country of the globe. They lead all producers in every variety of film production, and are the only ones who have solved the colored picture problem.

LACKED NINE CENTS

Insurance Company's Tender in Nettle Rofe Case Was That Amount Shy.

Law Court has handed down a decision in the Knox county case of Nettle Rofe vs. the Patrons' Androscoquin Mutual Fire Insurance Co. The decision is "judgment for the plaintiff for $566.66 with interest thereon January 11, 1907, on which judgment is to be credited $584.23 as the date of the filing of the agreed statement."

The receipt was given by Judge Savage and is as follows: "Under the provisions of Revised Statutes, chapter 49, section 4, to the effect that a fire insurance company may, in lieu of a premium, not smaller than one dollar, upon separate slips or riders to be attached to the policy, provisions adding to or modifying those contained in the standard form of policy, more than one such modifying provision may be written or printed on the same slip or rider."

"When a fire insurance company fills the blank space in the standard form of policy, stating the gross amount of indemnity or insurance to be paid, it may at the same time, under the provisions of Revised Statutes, chapter 49, section 4, by a rider attached to the policy, limit the extent of its liability, and the limitation in its case, to two-thirds of the actual destructible value of the property insured is upheld."

"The tender made by the defendant is found to have been too small by nine cents. Therefore the tender is held to be insufficient."

A. S. Littlefield was attorney for the plaintiff and John A. Morrill of Auburn for the defendant company.

WHY RAWLEY DIDN'T SEARCH

Fish Warden Preferred Court's Action to Probable Bloodshed—Capt. Simmons and Mate Murphy Held for Grand Jury

A mistaken idea as to the rights of fish wardens was the primary reason which brought Capt. Herbert L. Simmons and Frank Murphy of Friendship into Judge Campbell's court Friday afternoon. Capt. Simmons is commander of the Boston lobster smack Electric Light, and Mr. Murphy is the mate. They were charged with assault and battery and resisting an officer. The complainant was Fish Warden Albert J. Rawley of Tenants Harbor.

The wardens have had their suspicions aroused that the Electric Light was collecting lobsters in Maine waters and disposing of them within the jurisdiction of Massachusetts, which has a much less stringent law. Warden Rawley boarded the smack at Matineux a few weeks ago and asked Capt. Simmons' permission to inspect his fare of lobsters. He was informed by the captain that nobody but a federal officer would be permitted to do this.

According to the warden's story he was forcibly prevented by the captain and mate from removing the schooner's hatch, and was also denied the use of their dip net. He procured his own net, but refrained from making use of it on account of the aggressive attitude taken by Capt. Simmons, who is alleged to have handed his mate an iron bar and told him to use it. The captain meantime walked toward the cabin with the remark: "I've got something that will fix them." The incident ended there, however, for Warden Rawley took his departure with a view to invoking the strong arm of the courts.

The defense was simple. Capt. Simmons was of the opinion that nobody but a federal officer could examine the schooner's hatch, and that he, the captain, did not want the warden pawing over his lobsters, because it would mean a possible shrinkage of $25.

Judge Campbell held the respondents for the grand jury in the sum of $300 each. Bail was furnished. E. K. Gould appeared for them.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition, creates a habit of nervousness, and everything goes wrong when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, from its discovery to the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Obituary.

LEWIS H. SEAVEY.

It was a sad report, though not unexpected, when it was announced that Lewis Harold Seavey had passed on from his earthly home to the life beyond. With the death of Mr. Seavey, Thomaston loses one of its brightest young men. Unusual interest was manifested in the business welfare of his native town, and with the first flush of manhood he began to develop his plans for the improvement of the town, to consider this matter of so great moment. It was at the close of this banquet, after Mr. Seavey had spoken earnestly of unity and cooperation, that he suffered a severe hemorrhage of the lungs, which was the beginning of a two year's fight for life. It was a courageous effort to overcome that dread disease which has rightly been called the "white plague."

As a boy and young man, Mr. Seavey had been prominent in social affairs, and had freely given of his musical abilities in the churches, especially in the choir of the Methodist church, of which he was a regular attendant when at home.

He united with Orient Lodge, F. A. M., but was unable to attend only one of its meetings after joining, before his final illness fastened upon him. His final illness was secured in the public schools of Thomaston, and later in Worcester Mass., High school, and in the Maine State Normal School, where he was a member of the college Glee Club, and the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He left college in his sophomore year, to accept a position with the Stewart Howard Co., Boston, Mass., as assistant purchasing agent.

Lewis Harold Seavey was born in Thomaston, Maine, May 2, 1884, and died there Dec. 28. He was the son of Levi and Edie J. Seavey, who together with one sister Miss Margaret A. Seavey, mourns his loss. His grandfather, Luther M. Simmons, and a large circle of relatives and friends share in this sorrow.

The funeral service was held at the home of his parents, on Gleason street, Thursday afternoon, Dec. 31. Rev. A. E. Morrill officiated, assisted by Rev. C. A. Plummer. The large number present and the profuse floral offerings were witnesses of esteem and sympathy.

HENRY W. RYDER.

Henry W. Ryder died at his home on Masonic street Sunday evening at 6 o'clock, after an illness which had continued to the house seven weeks. His illness had been gradual since 1902, when he slipped while lifting a heavy object and strained the muscles and ligaments of his lower bronchial tube.

The end came peacefully. Mr. Ryder was a native of Duxbury, Mass., and nearly 36 years of age. He left home at 16, and for some years was employed as meat cutter in Boston and Quincy. He came here from the latter city in 1900 to take a position with Simmons, White & Co., by whom he was employed about four years. An incurable disease had meantime been engendered by the accident above referred to, and since that time the young man had not been physically able to undertake the duties of steady employment. Unassuming, ever ready to grant a favor, and exceptionally capable in the discharge of whatever duty assigned him, he earned a high place in the regard of the business community. He was a Republican and his services in behalf of the party were much appreciated in Ward 4.

Mr. Ryder is survived by his wife, formerly Frances Cummings, to whom he was married March 17, 1900. He is also survived by his mother, six brothers and two sisters. Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2 p. m. Rev. W. J. Day officiating.
