NEWSPAPER HISTORY
The Rockland Gazette was established in 1846. In 1854 the Courier was established, and consolidated with the Gazette in 1882. The Free Press was established in 1885, and in 1891 changed its name to the Tribune. These papers consolidated March 17, 1897.

WE own to small faults to persuade others that we have not great ones.—Rochefort.

Herbert L. Bridgman, secretary of the Peary Arctic club, states that up to the present time $300,000 has been expended by the club in fitting out expeditions to search for the north pole.

The bank of England is considered to have one of the most nearly impenetrable vaults of any bank in the world. It is 66 feet below the street level, and above it is 20 feet of concrete holding seven feet of water, and below is the same sort of barrier. Tunneling into it is impossible, and a soldier stands guard over its doors every second of the day and night.

F. Wellington Ruckstuhl, the New York sculptor who was chief of sculpture at the World's Fair at St. Louis, has announced the starting of a movement to erect a great national peace monument on the Hudson at a cost of about $2,000,000. It will not only be larger than the Eiffel Tower, in Paris, but will be the largest monument in the world, about 1200 feet high.

Statistics of gifts for humanity during the year 1909, as compiled by the Chicago Tribune, foots up a total of $199,641,253, about half being in the form of gifts and half bequests. This was distributed as follows: Charity, $67,446,441; education, $46,122,241; religion, $24,443,885; art, $8,616,410; libraries, $3,012,293. At the head of the list of individual givers stands John D. Rockefeller, credited with $12,130,000, most of which went to educational agencies. Next in line ranks Andrew Carnegie, with a total of $4,652,500. Mrs. Russell Sage gave $1,851,751.

KNOX COUNTY POLITICS

As Viewed By a Lewiston Newspaper Man

—Senator Staples On the Fence, As Usual, But Believes Resubmission a Dead Issue—Obadiah, Job H. and Some Others

A Lewiston newspaper man recently visited this city, and the following article published in the Portland Express is the result of talks which he had with active politicians on both sides of the fence.

Knox county Republicans are feeling very hopeful this year and expect to redeem the county which has for a long while been in the hands of the Democrats. There is little or no doubt that this city will elect a Republican mayor and city government at the spring election, and this will be a stepping stone to the electing of a Republican county ticket in September.

Senator L. M. Staples, the old Democratic war horse, said to the Express-Advertiser correspondent: "I do not care very much about returning to the Senate. I have been there so many terms that I should not ask my party to give me another nomination. If I should be asked to run I would respond but I am in no sense a candidate. There is another matter to which we must give some attention before long, and that is the selection of a candidate for Governor. I understand that Obadiah Gardner desires a nomination, and if so we shall all in this part of the State give him a cordial support. If Mr. Gardner is not a candidate then I shall have my name presented."

"If I am a candidate for Governor," continued Mr. Staples, "I shall insist that the platform be short, and I shall make my fight on the question of taxation. I shall take the stump and argue that the railroads should be taxed according to their value. I have a vast amount of literature on this subject, and know that I can present this in the form of gifts and half bequests. This was distributed as follows: Charity, $67,446,441; education, $46,122,241; religion, $24,443,885; art, $8,616,410; libraries, $3,012,293. Next in line ranks Andrew Carnegie, with a total of $4,652,500. Mrs. Russell Sage gave $1,851,751."

has been made of a matter which was purely a business affair, and no politics in it. Mr. Montgomery tells the Express-Advertiser that he is not losing any sleep over political matters. He says that he has a great deal of business to look after and has just added to his cares by purchasing an interest in the large woolen mill which has been idle but which it is now proposed to run to its full capacity.

Mr. Montgomery, no doubt, would like to be the candidate of his party for Congress, and he thinks that he could make a campaign which would be a winning one, although he recognizes that Congressman Swasey is a formidable opponent, and has the enthusiastic support of the large majority of his party. Mr. Montgomery says he has no inkling of whether Mr. D. J. McGillicuddy wishes again to be a candidate. If that gentleman desires to run again probably Mr. Montgomery would have no wish to contest the nomination.

Here and in other parts of the county there is a strong sentiment favorable to Senator Hale's re-election. It is the general expression that Senator Hale has had such a wide experience in Congress, that he has such an influence that it would be a great mistake to drop him for any new man. If there should be a contest for Senator Hale's seat the Republicans of Knox county would no doubt present a candidate in the person of former Governor William T. Cobb. In all parts of the state there is a feeling among the politicians that if there should happen to be a fight for this position that geographical lines would not be regarded.

Gov. Cobb is friendly to Senator Hale and is among those who think that he should succeed himself. He would in no sense be understood to be a candidate against Senator Hale. Unless there is a wonderful change in sentiment among the state, there will be no opposition here to Senator Hale.

Republicans are of the opinion that Gov. Fernald is stronger with the people than he was when first nominated, and that even if the Democrats were thoroughly united, which they are not, and should nominate their very ablest and most popular man, Gov. Fernald would be re-elected by increased majority.

Not in years has the question of re-submission been so little talked about. It seems to be the general view that it is no longer vital, and that any party who attempts to force it to the front will make a mistake. The old feeling of antagonism to the Sturges enforcement law has in a large measure subsided and it is taken as a matter of course, and many of those who were formerly hostile to the law now think it to be a wise measure.

The reappointment of James Donahue as commissioner of the sea and shore fisheries was popular in this part of the state. He has carried on the affairs of his office in a business-like manner and so there has been very little friction.

Quite a lively interest has been taken in this city and other places in the county over the appointment of a chairman for the inland fish and game commission. Petitions have been circulated favorable to the reappointment of Hon. L. T. Carleton and they have been very largely signed.

Before long the candidates for the county offices will begin to line up and the report is that there is likely to be several contests, all of which will tend to make things lively from a political standpoint.

able. Only if Billy and Brooks trouble.

Hundreds of Rockland persons have seen the new Alpha comet this week and pronounce it a first class show. It sets so soon after the sun that it will not be visible many more days but if this evening is pleasant it ought to be seen soon after sunset between the bright evening stars Venus and the moon on a nearly straight line between the two.

The comet has a bright head or nucleus and a luminous tail extending upward from the body. To the younger generation it is a decided novelty, while the older folks find much interest in comparing it with other comets they have seen.

The consumption of meat has not fallen off in this city to any noticeable extent in spite of the splurge which is being made all over the country. With the exception of pork which fell off about two cents Wednesday, prices have remained practically the same:

Beef loin roast, 25 cents; rump steak, 25 and 28 cents; mutton chop, 18 cents; leg of mutton, 18 cents; pork chop, 18

The funeral services of the late Thomas H. Donohue, who took place at St. Bernard's church Jan. 26, were marked by an especially large attendance of young men, upon whom, as well as the others present, the impressive sermon of Rev. Fr. Flynn had a noticeable and lasting effect. The pallbearers were T. E. McNamara, E. W.
McIntire, James Donohue, M. Frank Donohue, J. H. McGrath and Charles S. Coughlin. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery at Thomaston.
Scores of beautiful floral offerings were sent to the residence on the day of the funeral, and the bereaved relatives were further comforted by letters from the firm of Carter, Carter & Meigs, which expressed deepest regret over the death of their valued employee and placing their services upon demand.
Friends of Mr. Donohue will be interested to learn that he carried a life insurance policy of $600, the beneficiaries of which are the surviving brothers and sisters.

OUTSIDE WORK
RANKIN BLOCK, 602 MAIN STREET
ROCKLAND, MAINE

Our genial and optimistic neighbor, the Opinion, devoted a half column of its valuable space last week to deriding The Courier-Gazette because it gave (or undertook to give) a consecutive and concise account of the industry which the New England Portland Cement Co. purposes to build here.
Evidently the Opinion found that the article had some interest for in the current issue it rebalances our cement story, throwing just enough slurs into it so that folks will be induced to read it.

The men's meetings of the Y. M. C. A. have received undiminished impetus from the great gatherings which were held under the Association's auspices in Farwell opera house the past two Sundays. Dr. Elliott's strong commendation of the Association's work in his sermon of last Sunday afternoon could not fail to arouse new interest in it.
The meeting at 4 p. m. Sunday in the Y. M. C. A. rooms will be a reflection of that spirit and enthusiasm. The leader will be Rev. J. H. Wilkins. The new pastor of the Thomaston Congregational church, whose subject will be "What God Will Do With and for a Man Who is Willing to Let God Have His Way With Him." The Association has purchased the Alexander hymn books, and the men's chorus will be largely represented, with Dr. I. E.
Luce as leader.

In this city where the family of Herbert W. Healey formerly resided, and where he has numerous relatives, a deal of sympathy is expressed over the death of his son Albert, an obituary of whom appears on another page of this issue. The following Belfast item appeared in Wednesday's Banner Commercial: "The quarantine was removed from the home of H. W. Healey on Church street Monday, following the death of his son and the family are again allowed their liberty. While there has been criticism on the part of many that the family should have been so soon released from quarantine, the members are all well and the house has been thoroughly fumigated. Many in the city do not believe the disease that caused the death of young Healey was diphtheria. The physicians, who attended him, Drs. David Flanders and Elmer Small, disagree as to the cause of death, the former claiming that death was due to an attack of typhoid-pneumonia followed by paralysis of the heart while the latter claims that it was a case of malignant diphtheria.
The young man always had a weak heart is not questioned. The case caused a general alarm in the case and every precaution will be taken." Milton Healey, brother of the deceased, attended school on the common a couple of days this term, but has had a slight throat trouble since, which is now cured. The youngest brother, Oscar, had been attending school at the North Primary until last Friday. The North Primary school was closed Monday and Tuesday. The closing of all the city schools followed. This order has no effect on the suburban schools."

DREAMLAND.

Dreamland offers this week for pictures four excellent subjects, the feature being the picture entitled "The Prodigal Son," a fine dramatic subject.
Mr. Preston is singing "Gee, But Ain't America a Grand Old Place." Master Louis Jerge in a refined singing, dancing and talking act is delighting large audiences.

WE wish to express our gratitude to the many friends who sent floral tributes for the funeral of our brother Thomas H. Donohue, and who in so many other ways have tendered their sympathy.

6507 Girl's Costume, 6 to 12 years.
With or without Trimming Portions.
GIRLS' COSTUME 6507.
To Be Made With Trimming Portions Or Plain.

The dress that is made in jersey style and with the puffed skirt is one of the most popular and best liked of the season. This one can be made in three ways, with the trimming portions and sash illustrated, with the trimming portions without the sash, or plain as shown in the small view. It is equally correct in all styles but the plain dress is adapted to school and general wear while the one with trimming becomes suited to afternoon and more dressy occasions. One of the pretty plaid materials of the season trimmed with plain banding and sash of ribbon makes the frock illustrated, but serge and cashmere, henrietta cloth and prunella cloth, chiffon brocade and all materials of the sort are in vogue for the purpose. The model can be used for combinations, too, and the jersey portion made from absolutely new jersey cloth, or from plaid and plain, plain and striped materials are much used in this way.

The dress consists of the blouse or jersey portion and the skirt. The blouse is made with front and side fronts, backs and side-backs. The front can be extended to form the trimming portions at the lower edge or cut off on indicated lines and joined to the side-fronts as liked. The trimming portions for the shoulders are quite separate and arranged over the dress. The sleeves are simple plain ones, finished with cuffs. The skirt is straight and laid in backward-turning plaits.

The quantity of material required for the medium size (10 years) is 5-8 yards 24 or 27, 3-4 yards 32 or 3-1-2 yards 44 inches wide. Your other materials are much used in this way.

The pattern 6507 is cut in sizes for girls of 6, 8, 10 and 12 years of age and will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents. (If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage which insures more prompt delivery.)

Why He Hadn't Tried It.
A party was encamped on the Bear river in eastern Utah, when a prospector came along one morning on a mule. He had his jaw tied up and at first seemed inclined to pass on without a word. On second thought, however, he halted and gruffly queried:
"How far to Salt Lake?"
"Three hundred miles,"
"Humph!"
"Travelled far?"
"About 300 miles."
"Got your jaw hurt?"
"No; it's just an infernal toothache, and I'm a-riding five hundred miles to get it pulled."

We invited him down, and one of the crowd got a piece of stuff round the tooth and jerked it out as quick as you please. After the overjoyed man had ceased dealing about I queried:
"Why didn't you try the string before starting out on such a long ride?"
"Best kind of reason, sir. I hadn't nary a string."

The Chief's Error.
Goron was chief of the Paris police when the following incident took place.
Lombroso had written a book in 1888 on criminality among women, so runs the story, and when it was finished wrote to Goron to send him "forthwith" some portraits of Parisian woman criminals. Anxious to please the writer, the package was made up and started on its tour to Italy. When the book came out, Lombroso sent a copy, unintentionally bound, to Goron, who saw his gift acknowledged on the first page. "It was a scholarly book," said the chief, "and would have had a large sale but for an error on my part. The pictures came out of the wrong drawer of my desk. They were not criminals at all, but women who had applied for hush-money licenses, and a new edition had to be printed to make good a police mistake."

The new St. Louis bridge will be the first important bridge to be built entirely of nickel steel. Two plans were bid upon, one calling for 32,000,000 pounds of ordinary steel and the other for 27,000,000 pounds of nickel steel. The successful bidder gave the same figure for either form of construction or 100 a ton of 2,000 pounds.

Saved At Death's Door.
The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers, of Transit Bridge, N. Y., when his life was wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadful condition," he writes, "my skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing 40 pounds, growing weaker daily. Virulent liver trouble pulling me down to death in spite of doctors. Then that matchless medicine—Electric Bitters—cured me. I regained the 40 pounds lost and now am strong and healthy. For all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're supreme. 50c at Wm. H. Kirt-

OUR FASHION TALKS
BY MAY MANTON.

APPLETON

Helen A., wife of Judson A. Sherman, passed peacefully away at noon Monday, Jan. 17, after an illness of several weeks. Though in failing health for the past year, still she was always cheerful and looked at life from the bright side. She was everybody's friend, and was loved and respected by young and old. Her passing leaves a void not only in the home, but in the community, one of those sad vacancies which can never be filled. Throughout the changing seasons of each passing year there will still remain the sweet memory of the long life fraught with good deeds and loving kindness to others. Words fail to express what our hearts would utter in times like this, but looking away through the shadows we see her beckoning hand calling us onward and upward. Her age was 71 years, 3 months, 25 days. Since writing the above, the husband, Judson A.
Sherman, has succumbed to that so often fatal disease, pneumonia. He passed away Friday morning, Jan. 21, after only a few days illness, at the age of 73 years, 4 months and 20 days. An upright and honest man, and respected for his honorable characteristics by all with whom he dealt. A long time resident of this place, he will be much missed. His demise, so closely following that of his wife, is a bereavement hard to be borne by their three daughters: Mrs. Charles Pease of Fremont, Neb.; Mrs. Lindley M. Gushue of this place and Mrs. Arthur P. Bliss of Winthrop, Mass. They are also survived by five granddaughters and one grandson.
Mrs. Sherman also leaves two sisters, Miss Linda A. Sherman, who was with her during her last illness, and Mrs. Joan Thorndike of Rockport. The double funeral was held Sunday at 2 p. m., from the Union church, which was filled to its utmost capacity, and was in charge of the L. O. O. F. and D. of R. lodges, of which the deceased were both honored members. Rev. I. H.
Lidstone of Union spoke words of comfort to the sorrowing ones. The flowers from the orders and from relatives were very beautiful. The remains were laid at rest in one grave in Pine Grove cemetery.

REMARKABLE RECORD

Flesh-Forming Food That Succeeds Nearly Every Time

A man or woman might as well starve outright as to take food into the stomach and not have it assimilated yet in Rockland as well as in every other town and city, there are many people who are thin, pale and seem underfed, simply because the food they eat is not assimilated, and fails to make good blood and firm flesh.

Samose, the wonderful flesh-forming food, taken before or after meals, mingles with the food, so that it is assimilated by the system and makes rich blood and pleasing plumpness. No one can use it for a week or ten days without a noticeable gain in weight.

Anyone who is thin, weak, scrawny and emaciated can put 50c on deposit with C. H. Pendleton and take home a box of Samose. If the treatment does not give a noticeable increase in good, fresh and restore strength and health he will return the money without any questions. Sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50c.

house.
When fond recollections present it to view, The Orchard of Aiden's, the path with the shade trees,
And the dear romping school mates, who were not a few.

How well I remember the tumble-down platform.
And the door where the principal oft rang the bell.
From which led the gravel path down to the roadway.
Up over the hill we all know so well.

Al, little we dreamed in the school days now past.
What the future had hidden in store,
And we scattered, his true, o'er this broad land of ours.
And a few have crossed that dark shore.

Just a little ahead, to the land that's beyond, From the worry and trial and care, We miss them from earth but we know all the while,
In the mansion so bright and so fair.

And as now we scan the pages Of those years of long ago, We remember all those faces,
And the benches in a row.

And "don't you remember sweet Alice," from Whom always stood first in the class, Conquering with her well-remembered quick, What to us was a strenuous task.

And there was another, Miss Davis, by name In deportment she always won out;
Is now in Nebraska with the kids, And remembers us all, I've no doubt.

Then there's C. Bennett Fogler and Fannie, you know.
When drifted away to the west, Where they're prosperous and happy, I've not the least doubt.
With two girls from their western home nest.

We must surely remember Mr. Witham, F. M., For the principles that he then taught Have been useful in all of our struggles since then.
As the battles of life we have fought.

And oft do I think of the kindness and patience He exercised over us then.
When we were so thoughtless and careless as well.
He was he was moulding the men.

Who must stand for our country's honor And be valiant to win the good fight, With "Upward and Onward" their motto
And "Ever stand up for the Right!"

And so we all are scattered,
From the home where we were born,
From the home where we were born,
From the home where we were born.

And though we no more cross the threshold
To that portal of old, Memories come as but the brighter For the silver lining of the gold.

And as still we scan the pages Dimmed with age, by years a score, We again would find the children,
And "Ever stand up for the Right!"

'Tis pleasure to dream of the past days, When all was so happy and free, As we wended our way to the schoolhouse,
"Out of the harbor and onto the sea."

An Exchange of Courtesies.

A couple of men got into a warm argument and finally came to blows.
After the fracas a spectator remarked:
"A soft answer turneth away wrath, and vice versa. We should all keep polite tongues in our heads. Only last night I heard a very fat man say with a loud laugh to a bowlegged friend:
"Jim, old man, you look as if you'd been riding a barrel!"
"And you," snarled Jim sourly, "look as if you'd swallowed one."

CORA YOUNGBLOOD CORSON CO.

The vaudeville feature all next week at Dreamland will be the Cora Youngblood Corson Sextette, one of the greatest acts ever seen in Rockland, and secured at great expense. No extra admission charged. Performances will begin 15 minutes earlier. The following clipping is taken from the Hartford Evening Post.

"Three girls, whose united land holdings are over 600 acres, are included in the Cora Youngblood Corson sextet, which headlines the bill at the scenic this week. They are Miss Corson, Miss Eula Youngblood and Miss Grella Acton. The three girls all have Indian blood in their veins, all are natives of Oklahoma, and their land lies in four adjoining quarter sections of 160 acres each in the fertile lands of the 'new strip' in Oklahoma, and is known as the C. Y. C. ranch, and there, in the short summer holidays they manage to get, the entire sextet have for the past two years 'camped out.'"

While the three girls above mentioned are all natives of Oklahoma, the other three are natives of Indiana. All of the six are enthusiastic horsewomen.

Miss Corson and Miss Youngblood are sisters, Miss Corson having simply added her mother's maiden name to her own. "So that it would be long enough to cover a 16-sheet poster," her manager explains. Miss Acton is their partner on the ranch. All three of them are natural musical geniuses. Miss Corson plays over a dozen different instruments, while her sister is a splendid cornetist. Miss Acton devotes two hours a day to practice, but she complains that she "just can't make Eula practice a note." In the opinion of most of those who have heard the little cornetist this week, however, practice could scarcely improve on her work.

Miss Acton is also a clever musician and there is not a member of the entire sextet that can not "double" on two or more instruments.

MRS. MARTHA A. VOGLER.

Mrs. Martha A. Vogler, widow of the late Mortimer N. Vogler of South Hope, died Monday evening at the residence of Mrs. Roscoe Staples in Rockland, where she had been making her winter home the past three years. The brief announcement of her demise which appeared in Tuesday's Courier-Gazette was received with deepest sorrow by all who had been brought within the sphere of this lovely woman's personality, an acquaintance which was exceptionally large because of the fact that she had been a school teacher 20 years and had been so long identified with organizations which lead to broader paths. She had been a sufferer from diabetes and the progress of that disease was hastened to its fatal termination by an attack of grippe which had confined her to the house for about two weeks. Her demise, however, was both sudden and unexpected.

Mrs. Vogler was born in South Hope about 66 years ago, the daughter of John and Mary D. (Payson) Fogler. She graduated from Westbrook Seminary and had taught school in her native town, Thomaston, Rockport, Rockland, Union and Skowhegan. Her first marriage was in 1861 to John D. Leach of Camden, who was killed in the battle of the Wilderness. He was orderly sergeant in Co. L, 20th Maine regiment. Her second husband was Mortimer N. Vogler of Winston-Salem, N. C., who died in 1904. Since that time she had resided at the Fogler homestead in South Hope.

Mrs. Vogler was an associate member of the Universalist church in South Hope and a member of the Universalist Mission Circle in this city. She was also a member of Lady Knox Chapter, D. A. R. of Rockland, Cooper Relief Corps of Union and the Rockland W. C. T. U. She had been secretary of the Fogler family association since its organization and was largely instrumental in bringing about its many successful reunions. In all these organizations her administrative ability were exceptional. A warm-hearted and sympathetic nature greatly endeared her to all, and she was ever responsive to the calls of distressed or needy. She was a Christian woman who exercised Christianity in the every-day walks of life. She is survived by two brothers, John W. Fogler of Skowhegan and Lyman S. Fogler of South Hope.

Commencing Jan. 28, the steamer V. H. H. will make landings at Isle au Haut, Fridays.

He had not been in especially robust health for some time past, but was gradually regaining strength and was expecting soon to rejoin his vessel. The cause of death was heart disease. Dr. Weidman was summoned immediately after Capt. Lane was stricken, but death had been instantaneous. Deceased was about 65 years of age and a native of Marshall's Island. The family removed to Sedgewick while he was a child, in order that he might have educational opportunities. Rockport had been his home the past 23 years. He had commanded the S. E. & H. L. Shepherd Co.'s schooner Herman F. Kimball the past 12 years, and prior to that had sailed master of the John J. Perry, Mattie J. Allis, Mazurka and Ella Bells. M., and Harbor Light Chapter, O. E. S. He is survived by his wife, young son Harry, and daughter by his first marriage, Mrs. Edwin E. Amabury of Greenwood, Mass.; also three brothers, Capt. Hardy Lane and John Lane of Sedgewick and Capt. George W. Lane of Rockport. Funeral services under Masonic honors will be held at the residence Sunday afternoon.

A BRAVE, SIMPLE MAN

Death of Clifford Buxton Inspired Interesting Editorial Comment.

The death of Clifford Buxton, formerly of Warren, created a profound impression in Toledo, Ohio, where it took place the present month. The Toledo Blade published the following editorial:

When one thinks of Clifford Buxton and his work here among us, one wonders why it is that the taste for monuments runs toward soldiers, law-makers and poets, and ignores the Clifford Buxtons. Doubtless, it is because we do things in a conventional way, condemn the living and praise the dead, according to prevailing fashion. Perhaps—and we like to think this best—it is because of an unconscious realization of the difficulty of picturing romance in stone, of carving the symbol of the man's life so that all might read it.

Clifford Buxton might have resented the idea of associating his career with anything romantic, but it was surely this, above everything, it was building railroads and building them well, opening up lines over which came the teeming thousands who poured in to our middle western country after the Civil war, turning over property with which men many hundreds of miles away played games, maneuvered around and cheated one another. But Buxton was not concerned with empire making and the checker board of finance. His task was to lay tracks which would stand the heaviest traffic. When his bridges were opened for business there were no speeches, but the bridges are standing. Yards and docks, the quality of steel, the strength of axle and the carrying capacity of cars were interesting subjects to him and he saw the subjects all developed from guesswork into exact sciences. He labored at the high tide of an epoch that was like a blossoming flower. (No romance more wonderful has ever been written.) And still, we suspect, he wouldn't have liked the word. He died a brave, simple man—not even knowing the true greatness of the work with which his hand had been busy.

L. P. Swett of the Eastern Automobile Co. drove a number 17 Buick car, with ten passengers, up State street hill, Bangor, on high speed recently to decide a wager. The car performed the stunt with ease and demonstrated the company's claim that the machine is among the best hill-climbers in Maine, regardless of cost. Those aboard were: L. P. Swett, Eben Leavitt, John Rice, E. J. Emery, Frank Spellman, Charles Wood, Roger Staples, Harold Colby, John McCann and P. H. McNamara. Mr. Swett also went up Prospect hill, Bangor, at high speed.

ALBERT H. HEALEY.

The death of Albert H., eldest son of Herbert W. and Marion (Hall) Healey, formerly of Rockland, which took place on Sunday from diphtheria, caused most universal sorrow throughout the city. The young man was 18 years, 10 months and six days of age and death came as a sudden and most unexpected blow to all. He was born in Boston, where the family lived some years, moving to Rockland and then to Belknap where they engaged in the ice cream business; and as the driver of his father's ice cream team he gained wide popularity and many acquaintances. He was taken ill on Jan. 14 with a bad cold and was threatened with typhoid pneumonia, which developed into diphtheria, and the end was most unexpected as he was considered as gaining for some days prior to his death. For the past year he had been employed as a clerk in the store of Carle & Jones, leaving the High school for that purpose and with the idea of a business college course in mind. He was a substitute letter carrier on Rural Free Delivery, Number 6. He was the youngest member of the Tarrington Tribe of Red Men and for the past year had been one of the officers and also a member of Osceola Council of Pocatong. He was associated with the Epworth League and the younger societies of the Methodist church. A young man of sterling qualities, always wearing a smile and with a pleasant word for everyone he met, his circle of friends grew rapidly and few young men of his age had more. On every hand were words of sorrow when the death was reported and Belfast has lost a valued citizen whose qualities were best told in the every day life that he lived. Besides his parents he leaves two brothers, Milton and Oscar Healey of this city, and an aged grandmother, in Rockland, who has passed four-score of years. The remains were placed in the tomb for interment in the spring.
