TWICE-A-WEEK

ALL THE HOME NEWS

"They say" and "Perhaps" are the two ushers that precede a lie.—Balzac.

Congressman Burleigh has recommended the appointment of Amos F. Carleton as postmaster of Belfast.

Portland city affairs will be managed by the Democrats the coming municipal year, that party having elected their candidate for mayor and carried five of the nine wards of the city. Oakley C. Curtis, Democrat, was elected mayor by a vote of 4799 to 4096 over Charles A. Strout, who is just completing his first term in that office. The city council will stand 20 to 16 on joint ballot.

Lawrence Hurley of Malden, Mass., has been elected captain of the Bowdoin football team for next season. He has been picked for one of the All-Maine ends two years.

Congressman Duncan E. McKinley of California, who stumped Knox county in the recent campaign, will become assistant postmaster general next spring when his term expires.

Col. Roosevelt's first political utterance since the November elections will be made before the New Haven Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday evening. Needless to say that the country at large is interested.

Proud of New Water System

Vinalhaven Company Has Nearly Six Miles of Street Mains—Already Furnishes 80 Houses and Several Industries—Down Go the Insurance Rates—Cost of System Thus Far About $72,000.

By special act of the Legislature a charter was granted to the Vinalhaven Water Company, passed, and signed by the Governor March 19, 1909. The company was organized in July, with T. E. Libby, president, C. N. Taylor, treasurer, C. S. Libby, secretary, L. W. Sanborn, assistant treasurer, T. E. Libby, C. N. Taylor and A. S. Littlefield, directors. The capital stock of the company is $50,000.

The act to incorporate the Vinalhaven Water Company was for the purpose of conveying to and supplying the town of Vinalhaven with water for domestic and municipal purposes, the extinguishment of fires, and supplying of shipping and manufacturing. The company has the right to detain and use the waters of any ponds or streams in the town of Vinalhaven, and the taking of lands and real estate necessary therefor, in a manner provided for taking lands for steam railroads, etc.; the right to enter into and make contracts with the inhabitants of the town of Vinalhaven, authorizing and giving the municipal officers of said town, the right to enter into contracts for terms of years with said company, for supplying water for municipal and fire purposes. The said corporation may from time to time issue bonds for the construction of its works, at such rate and time as may be expedient.

The town, at its last annual town meeting in March, voted to have its selectmen enter into contract with the Vinalhaven Water Company for a term of 10 years for 18 hydrants at $60 each, or $1,080 a year, to supply water for fire purposes. The company also furnishes water for sprinkling the streets, for municipal purposes, drinking fountain, etc.; and the town rebates the taxes against the company for a term of 10 years. The town also has the right to add hydrants from time to time at the same rate.

Mr. Libby was fortunate in enlisting the aid of C. N. Taylor of Wellesley, Mass., who is interested in more water systems and has probably built more than any other man in New England in the last twenty years. Mr. Taylor's record in Maine, and in fact, all over New England, in the construction of water systems and as a business man is of the highest. Mr. Taylor is one of the leading business men of the city of Wellesley and is president of the Wellesley National Bank. He has built complete water systems in the following towns in Maine: Strong, Livermore Falls, Wilton, Rangeley, Andover, Berwick, Buckfield, Bridgton, Hallowell, Fairfield, Falmouth, Cape Porpoise, Stockton Springs, Danforth, Milo, Guilford, Sanguerville, Orono, Mexico and Vinalhaven. He has built water systems in every state in New England, besides a large amount of repair work in all the different states, and is, himself, owner in 12 water systems in the State of Maine.

Mr. Taylor was given the contract for building the system at Vinalhaven, and ground was first broken for this work May 6. The work of putting the system in was under the supervision of Bert A. Flanders of Bangor, who has had four years experience as superintendent of water works and railroad construction. The main system was completed Oct. 12.

The supply of water is taken from Round Pond, and Folly Pond and may be used if necessary, but it is doubtful if this will be the case as the supply seems to be ample. The water taken out in October did not lower the pond per minute. These are run by two horizontal crude-oil engines, 18 h. p. each, made by Meltz & Weiss. The water is thus pumped through an 8-inch, cast iron pipe line to a large, iron standpipe which was erected by The Portland Company, Portland, Me., on a hill in town. The standpipe is 25 feet in diameter and 85 feet high, and holds 318,000 gallons of water. The top being 170 feet above the Main street, a water pressure of about 70 pounds on Main street is given when the standpipe is full.

There are 5 1-3 miles of street mains—6, 8 and 10-inch cast iron pipe, with some 2-inch wrought iron.

T. E. Libby, president of Vinalhaven Water Company. It is mainly due to his energy and persistence, in face of discouragements and obstacles, that Vinalhaven has its fine new system.

LIGHTS IN THE ANDES

Rockland Contractor Gives The World And The Natives Are Awestruck.

A Rockland boy said: "Let there be light." And there was light. The Rockland boy was Harold Karl. The scene was the town of Cali, in the Republic of Colombia, South America. The date was Oct. 26.

To those who may be somewhat mystified by the above paragraphs a word of explanation is due. Some months ago Mr. Karl and another Rockland boy, Lucian Thomas, went to South America, where they had the contract for building an extensive electric plant. They are pushing that work with customary American energy, and on the 26th of October had the satisfaction of dedicating a new electric light system. From a letter written to relatives at home The Courier-Gazette is privileged to quote the following:

"We have turned on the lights. In the afternoon the archbishops, priests, soldiers, senators and came up to give the blessing. There was a big crowd on hand, all classes and colors being represented. In the evening the big affair took place in the park. I had it all decorated with electric light and went there early to see that everything was all right. After the dignitaries were all there I gave Thomas the word to be ready. A little girl touched a bell and the lights came. Probably not a hundred persons in the crowd had ever seen electric lights before and they stood there thunderstruck. Everything went off fine and I was mightily pleased."

Cali, the scene of operations, is well up in the Andes mountains.

THE CUTTER ANDROSCOGGIN

The revenue cutter Androscoggin, Capt. H. M. Broadbent, has again been assigned to winter patrol duty along the Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts coasts, and will be engaged in that task until April 1.

The Androscoggin's special duty during this period is to look after vessels in distress and afford them succor; also to remove dangerous obstructions to navigation. Her headquarters will be at Portland. From a letter received by Collector Wight of the Waldoboro district we quote the following:

"During the period of winter cruising, calls will be made at the following ports and the shore communicated with in order to receive information of vessels in need of assistance, etc.: Gloucester, Kittery, Portland, Boothbay, Rockland, Castine, Southwest Harbor and Eastport."

"In order to have the presence of the vessel and the special duties which she is to perform during the winter months generally known on this station, I take the liberty of suggesting that it be made known generally in the local newspapers of your city."

"In addition to the duties above referred to, the enforcement of the customs and navigation laws throughout the district will receive special attention and you are requested to furnish this vessel with any information which will enable us to execute any particular duty with certainty and dispatch."

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

Old fashioned poetry, but oh so good.

Kubla Khan

In Xanadu did Kubla Khan
A stately pleasure-dome decree:
Where Alph, the sacred river, ran
Through caverns measureless to man
Down to a sunless sea.
So twice five miles of fertile ground
With walls and towers were girdled round:
And there were gardens bright with sinuous rills
Where blossomed many an incense-bearing tree;
And here were forests ancient as the hills,
Emfolding sunny spots of greenery.

But oh! that deep romantic chasm which slanted
Down the green hill athwart a cedarn cover!
A savage place! as holy and enchanted
As e'er beneath a wining moon was haunted
By woman wailing for her demon-lover!
And from this chasm, with ceaseless turmoil seething,
As if this earth in fast thick pants were breathing,

A mighty fountain momently was forced:
Amid whose swift half-intermitted burst
Huge fragments vaulted like rebounding hail,
Or chaffy grain beneath the thresher's flail:
And mid these dancing rocks at once and ever
It fell upon momentarily the sacred river.
Five miles meandering with a mazy motion
Through wood and dale the sacred river ran,
Then reach'd the caverns measureless to man,
And sank in tumult to a sea far off,
And 'mid this tumult Kubla heard from far
Ancestral voices prophesying war!

The shadow of the dome of pleasure
Floated midway on the waves;
Where was heard the mingled measure
From the fountain and the caves.
It was a miracle of rare device,
A sultan's pleasure-dome with caves of ice!

A damsel with a dulcimer
In a vision once I saw:
It was an Arabian maid,
And on her dulcimer she play'd,
Singing of Mount Abora.
Could I revive within me
Her symphony and song,
To such a deep delight 'twould win me
That with music loud and long,
I would build that dome in air,
That sunny dome! those caves of ice!
And all should cry, 'Hwaa! Hwaa!' as they
His flashing eyes, his floating hair!
Weave a circle round him thrice,
And close your eyes with holy dread
For he on honey dew hath fed,
And drunk the milk of Paradise.

S. T. Coleridge.

DECEMBER CITY MEETING

Mostly Devoted to Reports and Routine Business—The Solitary Order Was Tabled.

The December meeting of the city council could not be termed a "thriller" by any possible stretch of the imagination. Aside from the routine business there was nothing that required concurrent action save one order, which was tabled when it reached the upper board.

Collector Brown's tax receipts in November were $10,334, and his total collections on the year's commitment are $98,139.—The November sales at the city liquor agency fell to $597.—In the poor department 101 orders were issued on the city store. Collections from towns and individuals amounted to $1306.—The city almshouse has 16 inmates.—Mayor McLean's November orders amounted to $9749.—Treasurer Adams' report showed a balance to the December account of $9776.—Commissioner Simmons spent on streets the modest sum of $265.—Marshal Hix reported 48 arrests, 34 of which were for bootlegging. The receipts of the department were $94.

The following roll of accounts had a passage:
 Police fund, $42; fire department, $29; pauper fund, $735; contingent fund, $750; highways, $177; repairs on public buildings, $140; free text books, $36; sewers, $197; permanent improvements, $196; transportation of scholars, $21; city lighting, $72; schools, $199; total, $2,596.

The petition of the Standard Oil Co. to operate a steam boiler at 26 Atlantic street was received, and a hearing was ordered for Dec. 27 at 2 p. m., on the premises.

T. E. McNamara's name was added to the list of measurers of wood and bark. Charles H. McIntosh and Allen F. Sylvester were confirmed as special policemen.

Councilman Morton presented an order requiring the building inspector to see that the law in relation to fire escapes on public buildings is complied with. It was tabled by the aldermen.

THE BENNETT-MOULTON CO.

The coming of the Bennett-Moulton Co. to Rockland Theatre for a week commencing Monday, Dec. 12, will give theatre-goers a chance to see one of the best popular-priced attractions on the road and one that gives a very superior performance. This company has been in existence for a great many years and has the reputation of putting up a very fine performance. The opening play is entitled "A Daughter of the People," and was written by Justin Adams, who has been very successful as a writer, and this is one of his best. His plays of "Quincy Adams Sawyer," and "The Black Train," are the best of that kind ever written, and in this play to be given by the Bennett-Moulton Co., on their opening performance, patrons are assured a play equally as good. Other plays that will be given are "The Elmer," "The Way of the West," "The Coward," "Shadowed Lives," "The Woman in Question," "The Secret Service Man." Many fine vaudeville acts will also be given and patrons of Rockland Theatre may expect some pleasing entertainments.

A Question of Cold Dinners

Is Pretty Much What the One-Session Debate Narrowed Down To—Work, Light and Moving Pictures Some of the Incidentals—Decision Reserved.

Two hundred Rockland families had interests at stake at the hearing given by the school board Wednesday evening on the petition of the high school students, asking for one session. Not many of the parents were present, particularly the fathers, but a score or so of the mothers sat in the audience and gave expression to views which probably reflected the sentiments of those who were absent. The four classes of the high school were represented by their presidents, whose views were endorsed by marked enthusiasm by all the other students present, with a solitary exception.

The school board acting in the capacity of jury was nevertheless keen in the role of inquisitor. This latter characteristic particularly applied to Capt. L. B. Keen, who has some decided views as to how schools should not be run, and intends to express them so long as he is a member of the board. His cross examination was blunt and uncompromising. The other members of the board present were Frank B. Miller, acting as chairman in the absence of Mayor McLean; C. F. Simmons, acting as secretary in Capt. Stuart's absence; Cornelius Doherty and H. E. Gribben.

Weston Gray, president of the Senior class was the first spokesman. The one-session idea found favor with him for two reasons. One was defective light, which makes studying difficult in the latter part of the afternoon under the present arrangement. Mr. Gray also argued that as most storms begin later than 8 a. m., the students would be at their work for the day, and would not lose an afternoon session. The idea of the petitioners is to have the one-session begin at 8 a. m. and close at 1 p. m., with a 10-minute recess. Mr. Gray said that his father was willing that there should be one-session, but his mother objected.

"What about the rest of the afternoon?" asked Capt. Keen.

"Those of us who have work will be in a better position to do it," replied the Seniors' president.

Capt. Keen: Who is the instigator of this movement?

Gray: I do not know.

Capt. Keen: What is this, a case of know nothing?

Charles Kallach, president of the Junior class, argued that those living at a distance, for instance in South Thomaston, which furnishes quite a number of students to Rockland High, would not be obliged to get up so early and mothers would not be obliged to put up lunches. Students living in the suburbs would be saved two long trips. With the afternoon to themselves they could work or have the advantage of the library. It would be also a great advantage to athletics, giving a chance for practice and for a storm on some afternoon if it stormed on Saturdays. Mr. Kallach said his mother was willing there should be one session. On a pinch he could get his own dinner.

Capt. Keen: How often do you go to the moving pictures?

Kallach: Once a week.

Capt. Keen: I don't suppose they hurt your eyes any? Do you know who is the instigator of the one-session idea?

Kallach: No, sir.

Capt. Keen: Another case of know nothing.

David Buffum, president of the Sophomore class said that under the present arrangement a majority of the periods come in the afternoon, when the students are tired out. More could be accomplished in the forenoon. President Buffum confessed that his father, who is a member of the school board, is not over enthusiastic about one-session; his mother objects only because of the late dinner hour.

President Buffum also denied knowledge as to the "instigator."

"Singular that nobody knows who started this thing," said Capt. Keen. "There's not one of you who can't tell if you want to."

Mr. Hahn, president of the Freshman class, saw a saving of coal and gas under one-session. His father favors one-session, but his mother has no preference. Mr. Hahn did not know the instigator.

Capt. Keen declined to express his opinion; his attitude toward one session being much the same as that of the teacher, who told the examining board she would teach that the earth was flat or round, according to their desires. "I am first of all just a public servant," said Mr. Knapp, "and intend to run the school to the best of my ability. If the majority of the parents want one session I am willing. There would be no radical changes in the courses," he added.

Principal Knapp: Do you know the instigator of this movement?

Principal Knapp: Yes, sir. I have no desire to be called a "know nothing" (laughter).

The name was not stated at the hearing, but will be presented at the board's executive session.

Capt. Keen: Where would the boys go afterwards?

Principal Knapp: Where they would enjoy themselves best. Those who have work and the right stuff in them, would do it.

Capt. Keen: You're loyal.

Principal Knapp: I certainly intend to be. (Applause from the students). In replying to Dr. Gribben's question, Mr. Knapp said that the present lighting facilities of the school are hardly sufficient, but can be remedied. Twenty per cent of the students take their books home.

Messrs. Richardson, Moran, Blackington, and Smith spoke briefly for one session, in behalf of the student body.

Miss Annie Coughlin of the faculty spoke wittily in favor of two sessions. At the school building the students find good companionship and are warm and comfortable, which is as good for children as "the call of the wild." The student's environments are different in Rockland than they are in many other places. Miss Coughlin, to substantiate this statement, told of the many clubs and societies to which the parents belonged, and she cited the case of one girl in her division who had 33 engagements in a single week.

Judge Campbell vigorously (he never does things otherwise) championed the cause of the boys and told the school board members it was none of their business who started the petition. The right of petition is a sacred one. If most of the states have one session why shouldn't we try it, at least?

Mrs. W. O. Fuller: My only desire is to have the school's standard as high as others in the state. Would it be to its advantage to have one session? My own opinion is that two are better. Mrs. Fuller was reassured by Chairman Miller, Principal Knapp and Miss Coughlin, as to the excellent standard of Rockland High, both as to attendance and scholastic merit.

Mrs. Edward D. Spear: My reasons are wholly domestic. I am obliged to have dinner at 12.15. I think there is plenty of time after 3.30 p. m. for the students to do what they wish. I am surprised to see how many wish to work.

Mrs. C. F. Simmons: School is the best place for children. I had rather see them there than on the street or in places of amusement.

Mrs. C. A. Rose: I favor two sessions.

Miss Sylvester of the high school faculty found the one session system beneficial in her home school at Castine. She said that it might be quite different in Rockland. "I am exhausted after teaching four periods in a forenoon," said Miss Sylvester. "Many of the students already go to school without breakfast."

Mrs. W. P. Hurley: I fear I am in the minority, but I approve of the one session from the first of December to the first of April. Light for study purposes can be adjusted better in the home. There is nothing criminal in the children having an extra hour or two so long as they do their work.

Mrs. E. B. Silby: I feel somewhat like a "carpet-bagger" here. I can't help sympathizing with the under dogs, and I am glad to hear a few words in behalf of the boys. This is an era of fresh air and we cannot have fresh air in the schoolroom. Teachers and children should have a bit of time for recreation. Evenings are pretty well taken up for the teachers in preparing the next day's lessons, and they should have a little while in the afternoon. By all means have one session in November, which is made up almost wholly of dark, gray days. I can see the justice of one session. The boys are earnest and honest, and should have an advocate.

Miss Helen Cooper: My parents think there are advantages in one session.

Miss Dorothy Bird, with the courage of her convictions, stood boldly out in favor of two sessions. "My mother is greatly opposed to it," said that young lady, who added that she (Dorothy) couldn't get up early and didn't want to eat cold dinners. She thought she was better off at school than at the pictures.

Richard Fuller, who fancied himself the out of the chairman's range of vision was called on. "I don't think I dare say very much now," said Richard, catching sight of his maternal parent in the audience. "Many generations have had cold dinners, though," he boldly declared.

Marshal Hix: I had one session and liked it, but mother kicked.

This seemed to have exhausted the flow of oratory, and the meeting adjourned. The school board will render its decision after considering the full board can be obtained.

The students are not very sanguine as to the outcome, but hope that they will be permitted to try the system at the winter term.

There was a near tragedy on the line of the Street Railway in Rockport Tuesday evening when the 11.40 car came near running over an intoxicated man who was using one of the rails for a pillow.

The motorman, Charles Emery, did not see the prostrate man until the car was within 100 feet of him. He immediately applied the reverse, but the car scraper struck the man's head and knocked him clear of the track. A flesh wound was about the only injury. It was a very narrow squeak.

I am glad that I came west, but there is a little warm spot in my heart for Rockland and its people. We are all enjoying the best of health."

FOR CATARRH

Medicine Free in Every Case Where It Fails to Relieve

Neglect or pessimism, we believe, is the greatest enemy the public has to contend with when applied to the loss or recovery of health. Practically every case of consumption might have been cured if hope had been maintained and proper treatment had been resorted to at the first symptom of the disease. Until the advanced stage is reached consumption is curable. Catarrh is responsible, we believe, for many cases of consumption. It is about catarrh we want to talk to you today, incidentally consumption, since the two are so closely allied.

We have a medicine made from a successful specialist of the most successful catarrh specialists known. We believe it is positively without an equal. We are so satisfied that we are right, that we will supply the medicine free in every instance where it is used according to directions for a reasonable length of time, should it fail to give satisfaction in every particular. We want every one to try this medicine at our risk. There are no conditions attached to our offer. We put the user under no obligation to us whatever.

The medicine we want you to try is Rexall Muc-Tone. It is a catarrh remedy that goes direct to the seat of trouble. It is carried by the blood to every part of the system. It purifies and enriches the blood, tones up the mucous cells, and brings about a condition of health and strength that tends to prevent the germs of consumption from getting a start. Besides this, Rexall Muc-Tone is a wonderful appetizer, digestive aid and flesh builder. Its good effects are often felt from the very first dose. It is one of the largest and most satisfactory selling medicines that we have ever had anything to do with.

We know so much of the great good that it has done that we personally back it up with our reputation and money, which fact should be ample guarantee to satisfy anybody. Rexall Muc-Tone comes in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. We urge you to try it. Remember you can obtain Rexall remedies in Rockland only at our store—The Rexall Store, Fred H. Call's, Main street, Rockland, Maine.

APPLETON
Thursday, Dec. 4, the Ripley sisters gave a dinner party at their new home. The day was spent in social intercourse, the chief feature being, however, the bountiful dinner to which all did justice. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ripley, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Robbins and little daughter, Miss Abbie Counce and Mr. and Mrs. Obed Fuller, all of Searsport; also Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pitman, B. A. Pitman, Alexander Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Titus and Mrs. Louisa Keene of Appleton. On account of sickness and the unfavorable traveling other guests were unable to be present. All present joined in the wish that they might enjoy many more such occasions.

Miss Linda Annis has gone to Swampscott, Mass., where she will spend the winter months.
Miss Delilah Ripley goes to Lowell, Mass., in a few days where she will visit over Christmas with friends.
Will Newbert succeeded in shooting a fine buck deer Monday of last week.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened By Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for much sickness and suffering, therefore, if kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are most likely to follow. Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys must, because they do most and should have attention first. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. A trial will convince you of its great merit. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It shows the highest because its remarkable health restoring properties have been proven in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a small bottle sample telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

GOOD SKINS SACRIFICED

Commissioner Brackett Favors Penalty Against Illegally Trapped Furs.

Hon. James W. Brackett, chairman of the Inland Fish and Game Department, says: "A hundred and twenty men are licensed fur dealers in this State, and probably every one of them has bought more or less skins this year that were caught before the beginning of the open season for trapping, Oct. 15. The business of dealing in furs is very immense and thousands of dollars are paid to trappers and dealers every year. Dealers inform me that a large percentage of their first purchases each season contain illegally caught skins and some lots have to be taken back. I judge, contained 50 per cent of this kind. Such skins are worth very little. For instance, a prime dark fisher skin that ought to bring from $10 to $20 would perhaps bring from one to five dollars if taken before our open season, and if taken during the first part of our present open season the value is less than it would be later.

"Many thousands of dollars are lost by handling these well known worthless skins. I favor a law which would prevent having such skins in possession at any time. The fur buyers are the people who can stop the practice of illegal trapping and I am assured by fur buyers with whom I have talked, that they will not object to the law. The enforcement of such a law, that they do not want to handle such skins as there is no profit in them. Again the general trapping season begins too early. Trapping should begin not earlier than Nov. 1st and last about five months, say until April 1st.

Seven Minute Sermon

On the Golden Text

By Our Own Preacher

(Copyright, 1909, by E. S. Davidson.)

Dec. 11th, 1910.

He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities.

Isa. 53:5.

I. JESUS SUFFERED FOR US. Much has been written of late as to who the suffering servant of Jehovah, whom Isaiah so pathetically portrays, really is. Did Isaiah mean the Jewish nation or an individual? If an individual did he have in mind Jesus of Nazareth? Without answering these questions or, the other, whether the prophet wrote more wisely than he knew, we can with certainty say that either consciously, or unconsciously, he has described the suffering life and death of Jesus so accurately, that it might be taken for history rather than prophecy. We do not have ample proof that it was written seven hundred years before the events which it describes.

Our Saviour was a man of sorrow and acquainted with grief; he was smitten, stricken, and afflicted; he had blows and bruises, stripes and wounds. He was hated and persecuted; all sorts of traps were laid with which to ensnare him. During the last year of his earthly ministry while constantly followed him, watching his actions, listening to his words, asking him catch questions, all inspired by hatred and with the hope to encompass his death. He was wounded by their hatred and bruised by their false accusations. This man in whom was no sin, who lived a self-denying life; whose every thought was for others; whose words were balm for the bruised hearts of men, whose actions fed the hungry, healed the sick and raised the dead, was accused by the priests and other representatives of the religious thought of the day, of being Beelzebub; they also said that through the power of the devil he did his good works. Just imagine the pain of these wounds and the hurt of these bruises upon the sensitive soul of Jesus, and remember that he bore it all for us.

II. For the Suffering Life and Death of Jesus We Become At-One With God. The suffering of Jesus was caused exclusively by bad men, and their badness was all the greater because they professed to be good. The chief enemies of the Christ were the mantle of the prophets, the priestly robes of Aaron, and sat in Moses' seat. It was ever thus—sin in the church has always been more sinful than sin in the thief and the harlot, when these sinners have not also belonged to the church. Jesus bore patiently, with love and pity, the cruel torture inflicted upon him by sin, as he perceived in these cruel men, in the person that he would win his tormentors back to God. The display of such God-like qualities is a concrete example of a man being like God, and a strong suggestion that what God can do for one man He is able and willing to do for any man. In a very real way therefore, "He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities," and by his stripes we are healed." Jesus claimed to be one with God, not only in the way in which this is generally taken to prove his divinity, but in the sense in which he invited all other men to the same union with the Father. No mere man can live free from sin, or duplicate the life of Jesus, but a man dwelling in the heart of God, in whose soul is the dynamo of the power of the Holy Spirit, can do so. But quite apart from the all potent power of Christ's example, in a way which neither theology nor philosophy can explain, all who put their trust in Jesus and keep their eyes upon the suffering son of God are supernaturally helped; they experience the answer to Christ's prayer, "that they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us." There is no mystery in God living without sin, and when our identity is supplemented with the identity of the Eternal, there is no identity in being able to live well pleased to Him.

III. Suffering is Essential to All Who Would Live the Christ Life. Jesus lived, suffered and died, to save us from sin and its inevitable, dreadful consequences. But important as this is, it is but the negative part of our high calling. He calls us to join him in the redemption of the race, to be responsible for the salvation of the world to the extent of our potential influence. We are to be suffering saviours of men—to be Christs—the brothers of the Christ; to give up self and self-seeking; to deny ourselves, to live for others; to bear the cross figuratively and to die on it actually, if need be; to live holy lives, to rebuke sin, to bear the inevitable persecution that comes to every Christ man; to love our enemies and do good to all men; to work hard to earn money to give to the poor and needy, to send missionaries to the heathen, in short to do as Jesus would if he were in our circumstances. It means suffering, but suffering is the only road to permanent exaltation. The pulsations of love which prompt us thus to suffer are quickened in their beats when we keep our eyes on the bliss of the eternal life. Love makes work rest, and pain pleasure; this is the nature of love, but she is helped in her sweet influence by seeing the objects of our suffering saved from their sins and sorrow.

The Christmas Dinner

In spite of the fact that the word "dyspepsia" means literally "bad cook" it is not too far from many to lay the blame on the cook if they begin the Christmas Dinner with little appetite and end it with distress or nausea. It may not be fair for any to do that—let us hope so for the sake of the cook! The disease dyspepsia indicates a "bad stomach," that is a weak stomach, rather than a bad cook, and for a weak stomach there is nothing else equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It gives the stomach vigor and tone, cures dyspepsia, creates appetite, and makes eating the pleasure it should be.

ROCKLAND THEATRE

The vaudeville attractions for the remainder of the week are among the strongest that have yet been staged at this theatre.

An act that is really a novelty is seen in the performance of Miss Irene La Tour and her clever dog "Zaza." The lady is a graceful and expert acrobat, and the act possesses the unusual novelty afforded by the assistance and intelligent co-operation of the dog. "Zaza" climbs all over his mistress as she goes through the turns and twists of her exhibition, and manages to keep his footing and equilibrium with all the skill of a trained equilibrist. He finally takes up a position in a beguiling attitude on the soles of his mistress' feet, as she gracefully poises herself head downwards. The skill of the lady, whose act would win applause without the aid of an assistant, combined with the remarkable sagacity of the dog, keeps the audience well entertained while they occupy the stage.

A good sketch is always a popular vaudeville attraction, and Manager Rosenberg believes he has found another in "The Wildflower," which is presented by a clever cast of three persons.

The Entered Apprentice degree was conferred upon Wallace Little and John O. Stevens at Aurora Lodge meeting Wednesday night. There will be a meeting next Wednesday night for work on the Fellow craft degree and plans will be made for an official visit Dec. 21.

Frederick A. Shepherd, formerly of this city, and student at Colby college, was the winner of first prize in the Lowell prize speaking contest Monday night. Mr. Shepherd has been prominent in speaking contests and debates. Last spring he made the Murray prize debate. His success is very gratifying to Rockland friends.

WAS ON THE ROCKS

Mary Brewer of Rockland bound from Bangor for Salem, with lumber, which was discovered high and dry on the rocks off South Shoal, near Misery Island, Monday, was floated by two tugs at high tide and towed to Salem. The vessel was badly strained and was leaking considerably tonight. Capt. F. Weed of the schooner stated that he hugged too close to the shore while trying to make Salem and ran aground.

HOLDING SPECIAL SERVICES

Rev. R. C. Miller, Native of Pastor Judd's Town Has Marked Characteristics.

Rev. R. C. Miller, who is holding special services at Pratt Memorial church this week and next was born in Lawrence county, Ohio, in the same little community and left two months later than Mr. Judd. With his twin, O. R. Miller, the present head of the New York Civic League, he has been intimately associated with our Rockland minister ever since. They are graduates of the same schools, the Ohio Wesleyan University and Boston University. All three entered the ministry and were successful in building up their charges. All three went for a time into the work of Public Reform, where the Millers still remain. Our evangelist is the head of the work of the International Reform Bureau in Connecticut and Rhode Island.

His first love, active evangelistic work, has never lost its charm for Mr. Miller, and he steps aside from his other work to come to the aid of his old friend in that field. He is simple in his style, deeply spiritual in his message. He echoes the sensational but deals directly with the deep problems of the human soul. Although not a trained singer, he has found that he has a gift of singing the gospel songs so as to impress his listeners with their meaning and power. His work, opens well and he is already winning his way into the hearts of the people. Tuesday night the Baptist, Congregationalist and Universalist churches gave up their prayer meetings and united with the Methodists. The service was well attended and the ministers heartily co-operated in the service illustrating once more the genuine unity existing between the churches of this city.

ALL FOR THE WEIRMEN

A Seiner's View of Present Herring Laws—Rockland Board of Trade Asks Legislature to Encourage the Industry.

The initiative in the matter of securing better action for the herring fisheries was taken Tuesday night by the Rockland Board of Trade, which gave the seiners, weimen and cannery a chance to be heard, and then passed resolutions urging all the boards in the state to stimulate action on the part of Legislature. The attendance at the meeting was not large, but that there is a vital interest in the matter is shown by the fact that weimen and seiners were present from Jonesport, Castine, North Haven, Camden and several other places.

The meeting showed incidentally that these men are well versed in the laws which govern their branch of the fishing industry and believe they can make better ones. There was the inevitable clash between the weimen and the seiners, whose interests are unfortunately conflicting at times, but their differences may be adjusted before the lawmakers meet and a satisfactory compromise may be reached. This, in brief, is the purpose of ex-Representative Oliver Bowley, whose letter in The Courier-Gazette began an agitation that is now almost state wide.

President C. F. Simmons found much regret in being obliged to announce that Mayor Hanson, who was to have been the principal speaker of the evening, was unable to be present. Mayor Hanson represents the weimen and his paper, the Waldo county Herald, has published views that would probably have evoked replies had he been present to take part in a controversy.

In his absence E. M. Lawrence of the North Lubec Manufacturing & Canning Co. was called upon, and for nearly an hour read extracts from government and scientific reports showing the character and scope of the herring fisheries the world over. The brush war method of catching the little fish dates back he said, to 1828, and has never been improved by our fishermen, although it seems to him that a change of means can be used that will destroy the herring supply," said Mr. Lawrence. "The weimen should have ample protection and so should any other fisherman along the coast. It is not more necessary for the seiners to destroy fish than it is for the weimen, unless the seiner is a poacher and smother the fish in his hurry. Even then the percentage is no greater than that which is smothered in the weirs."

"It is my opinion that we have the poorest herring fishermen in the world. Herring do not need any protection. They can take care of themselves. Other countries are using any means for catching them that man can devise. The more herring a man catches in any other country the better fisherman he is. In Maine it seems to be quite the reverse." Mr. Lawrence here read many extracts from government investigations tending to show that the feared destruction of the herring fisheries is an absurdity. The appointment of a commission that shall treat the question of Maine fisheries scientifically and show the fishermen how the industry can best be concerned is Mr. Lawrence's idea of how to deal with the problem.

"Are the herring decreasing?" asked President Simmons.

"Man has no control over the fish of the sea," was the answer.

Mr. Lawrence presented figures to show that the pack of sardines, while smaller in the year just ended than it was in 1909, is still well above the average. The estimated pack in 1910 was 1,482,141 cases. The value of importation from other countries last year was $2,219,000. All of this might have been saved at home if proper attention had been paid to catching and packing the fish, in Mr. Lawrence's opinion.

"Are many fish destroyed in catching?" Mr. Lawrence was asked.

"No fisherman willfully destroys, but accidents will happen to the best fishermen."

"Are the cannery all in favor of seining?" asked President Simmons.

"No," said Mr. Lawrence. "No two cannery agree."

I. D. Dunbar, of Castine, weimen, had no fault to find with the protection which is given for the Bagaduce River. "We had the law passed for fear that the seiners might interfere with the weirs," he said.

Capt. Charles H. Beal of Jonesport is a seiner, with views as to the present law. "It is simply protection for the brush weir fishermen so that they can have full swing and put the seiners out of business," said Capt. Beal. "The weirs smother more fish in a year than the seiners do in a dozen. The weimen have unreasonable protection. A man can control a whole bay that is a mile square. The weir fishermen have valuable properties yet who ever knew anybody to pay taxes on them. I am a seiner and there is a tax on my boat and twine."

It was the general opinion that there should be a repeal of the special law passed some years ago giving the owners of coast property apparent control beyond low-water mark. Some apprehension was expressed lest rusticators would some day own all the valuable coast privileges and close them to the fishermen.

At the conclusion of the discussion the following resolution was adopted: "Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Board that the matter of the herring fisheries is one of vital importance to the State, that the livelihood of a great many people and the prosperity of the canners, with their extensive and costly plants depend largely upon it, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Rockland Board of Trade call upon all the Boards of Trade in the State to take up and discuss the matter with a view to memorialize the State Legislature to pass such laws as will encourage the industry and put it on a basis that will be satisfactory to all concerned."

THE DENNISON DISMANTLED

The four-masted schooner Thomas S. Dennison put into Kingston, Jamaica, Tuesday dismasted by a gale encountered soon after sailing from Porto Rico for Mobile Dec. 1. During the blow that continued for hours, the mizzen and spanker masts were carried away. Heavy seas swept the vessel and one of Capt. Wade's ten men was washed overboard but was rescued. The vessel probably will repair at Kingston.

PROUD OF NEW WATER SYSTEM

state, as to population and valuation, that did not have a water system. It is practically conceded that a water system is one of the greatest public benefits that a town or city can have, and there is no question but that the Vinalhaven system will be such to its manufacturing concerns, as well as for domestic and municipal purposes, and constructed it may be stated that in testing out there has not been a leak on the main line, which is something very unusual as it is very seldom that a water system is constructed that there are not a great many leaks in the joints and pipe that have to be fixed. The inspector sent by the New England Board of Underwriters to inspect the system spoke in the highest terms, as one of the best water systems that he ever inspected in a small town. Especially was he pleased with the pumping station and the duplicate system installed for the pumping of water into the standpipe. The New England Board of Under-

LOSS OF THE BEACHAM

Captain Burgess' Story of the Disaster—Timely Rescue

Capt. Burgess' own story of his escape was told to the Boston Globe as follows: "We cast off at Woodbridge creek, N. J., last Tuesday, and we didn't encounter any terribly bad weather until today (Friday)."

"Very soon after we got under way we found the weather growing stiff and the seas running pretty high, but while the Beacham is an old craft, she is staunch. But at 8 o'clock a nor'easter hit us with terrific force and the seas banged us terribly. The air was filled with snow which was cutting and blinding, but we managed it for a few minutes without apprehension until suddenly the gale became a hurricane and the seas swept over us, threatening to swamp us the next minute. When the water became knee-deep along the deck, we found the schooner sinking and we manned first one, and very soon the second pump. We realized that her seams had opened and that tons of water were rushing into her holds and the situation became desperate. I ordered life distress signals set.

"Little Carlo, the dog, was made fast in the rigging. When we had about made up our minds to take to the boats we saw the Gresham bearing down upon us like a race horse and I tell you it was a welcome sight. Gunner Johansson and his six men handled their boat so cleverly that they got alongside of us and before we realized it they were aboard and wallowing about our deck shoulder-deep in the cold water, and taking our places at the pumps. They soon had a line aboard and before we knew it we were under tow."

They differ in size, shape, quality and price; also in what they do and the way they do it.

The ideal soap is a soap that is of convenient shape and good quality, and, at the same time, sells at a fair price.

The ponds froze over Friday night, Dec. 2, several days earlier than last year.

L. P. Jones and M. B. Marr got a nice deer the last day of grace and Elvin Cramer and Charles Littlehale each got one.

Miss Carrie Clark has gone to work for Mrs. L. M. Staples.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Berry of Montville Center is visiting his mother, Mrs. C. M. Berry, at Nathaniel Overlock's.

Several from here went to South Liberty Sunday to hear Evangelist Johnson. He is a very forceful preacher and a nice singer.

Mrs. Charles W. Clark of South Paris is visiting relatives and friends here for a few weeks.

Any who may wish to get all the a great encouragement for the location of new industries.

The company has already put in more than 30 services for houses, stores and offices, including L. C. Chase & Company's factory, Bodwell Granite Company's polishing mill, and Lane-Libby Fisheries Company's factory, and the work of putting in more services stopped only on account of cold weather. In the spring the company expects to make some extensions and has a long list of applications for water-takers and for putting in new services into houses.

On the line of the company's mains, with the extension to be made, there are 431 families, 71 stores, offices and halls as water-takers. The total cost of the Vinalhaven water system thus far is a little less than $72,000.

As to the character of the water which has thus been placed on tap for commercial, domestic and municipal purposes, H. D. Evans, director of hygiene, makes the following official statement:

State of Maine Laboratory of Hygiene
Augusta, Maine, Nov. 18.

On Sept. 7th a sample of water from the pond, from which your supply is taken, was examined. The analysis showed the water to be free from all chemical and bacterial evidence of sewage pollution. The water was a clear, soft water, and of low mineral content. Like all surface waters this one contained some vegetable material in solution, which gave it a slight color. This vegetable matter will in no way affect the drinking qualities of the water, which, in its present condition, is an excellent one to use for drinking, and for all domestic purposes. As this sample was taken from the surface you will have an even better water in one drawn from the depth at which your intake will be located.

This water is not only well fitted for a drinking water, but it is a good one to use for all domestic purposes, as well as for boiler and manufacturing purposes.
H. D. Evans, Director.
