Shot For a Deer by His Brother.

CLIFFORD BOWE OF REDDING, SIXTEEN YEARS OLD, THE VICTIM.

A sad affair occurred near Redding, in the northwestern part of Summit, Wednesday forenoon, when Clifford Rowe, a boy sixteen years of age, was shot by his brother, Merton M. Rowe, by mistake for a deer, and died a few hours later.

The brothers are the sons of G. Herbert Rowe of Redding. Clifford was the youngest of the family, and lived with his parents, Merton, who is a number of years older, is married and lives on a farm near his father's.

Wednesday morning on the new snow the brothers were out after deer, and were following a track about a mile and a half northwesterly from their home near the foot of Abbott Pond. They felt confident that they were near the deer, and thought that he was in a clump of brush just ahead of them. Clifford was around the clump to the right, and the understanding that he was to keep to the right, and head off the deer. In case he should start to go in that direction.

It seems that he did not strictly follow the arrangement plan, but went around the clump and came back on the track. Merton was arching through an opening a few feet wide in the clump, saw something moving. He watched it for what seemed to him a long time. It proved to be the boy, who was wearing a grey sweater and was adjusting his cap on his head with both hands, but the motion and the appearance were so much like that of a deer, that Merton fired. The bullet hit Clifford in the side and went through the abdomen.

As soon as the boy realized that he had been shot he shouted, and Merton hastened to him. Covering him as warmly as possible, he ran to the nearest house, that of Chester Andrews, from where a physician was summoned by telephone, and then home.

With assistance the boy was brought out as quickly as possible, but nothing could be done for him, but to make him comfortable. He died at 4 o'clock that afternoon. He made a statement exonerating his brother from blame, as he did not follow the course in which it was arranged that he should go.

Among those who went to the place of the shooting was the boy's father, G. H. Rowe, who ran the whole distance, the way from Redding to the place of the shooting, and the boy's mother, Mrs. M. Rowe, who was with him in good health, and suffered severely in consequence.

NORWAY.

Loggals and Small have completed the foundation for the post office building and work has been discontinued for the winter. Several of the men who have been here about all summer left for their homes in Bar Harbor Wednesday. They have only words of praise to offer for the treatment they have received while in town.

The entertainment given by the Y. M. C. A. at the Congregational church on Tuesday evening was first and very particular and was much enjoyed by those present. Owing to other attractions the attendance was not large, but the course tickets were sold well and a larger attendance is promised for the future.

The program was arranged in four parts with proper costuming for each part, and each of the three was an artist in the line of work which they presented. The next entertainment in the course will be given December 7th, and will consist of a play to the right of the most delightful story, "Daddy Long Legs," by Catherine Kennedy, a reader who comes with the highest recommendation.

The Swatika Club was pleasantly entertained Wednesday evening by Miss Annie Whitehouse at her boarding place with Mrs. Rowe on Cottage Street. The program was given by the members of the Minerva Club and a few friends to Miss Helen Rowe at the home of Mrs. Rowe on Cottage Street. The details were carefully worked out, and although the plans were quite elaborate they were successfully carried out. The bullet hit Clifford in the side and went through the abdomen.

Celebrate in a Blaze of Glory.

DEMOCRATS OF THE TWO TOWNS LET LOOSE THEIR ENTHUSIASM.

Snow can not dampen our cold weather or chill the ardor of our Democratic friends the enemy when they set out to celebrate the re-election of President Wilson. They proved that in these two towns the Democrats are not only the most enthusiastic, but also the most determined.

Band music and red, white, blue, and other fireworks, smoke, and other things were used to celebrate the re-election of President Wilson. They proved that in these two towns the Democrats are not only the most enthusiastic, but also the most determined.

Conditions were not what could be desired for an outdoor celebration. The earth and the air had the appearance of a cold, and the weather was not what could be desired for an outdoor celebration. The earth and the air had the appearance of a cold, and the weather was not what could be desired for an outdoor celebration.

The parade formed at the Grand Trunk station in South Paris at 7 o'clock Friday evening. It was led by four men on horseback, and was followed by the Brigade Band of Lewiston, and then came the marching torchbearers, four abreast. Farther back in the line was a drum corps, and then came the marching line, a very pleasant sight to see.

The rear of the marching line was made up of boys, carrying banners inscribed, "We are Young Democrats," "We are Young Democrats," and so on. Behind the marching line on foot came a procession of automobiles carrying men and women. About a score of cars started, but the weather was so cold that most of them dropped out before the route through the two towns was completed.

Woman's Affairs.

Woman's affairs are rapidly coming into prominence. Her place and part in a progressive civilization is the subject of greatest concern to-day, and especially the interest in Domestic Science is steadily growing and spreading far and wide. We are just beginning to see how many branches the subject has and how significant and far-reaching it is in its scope. Even the importance of good cooking, for instance, cannot be over-estimated. As recently stated by an English writer of note, a good cook should know much about food, as well as cooking, and should also know something of physiology. How few are really conversant with either food values or the digestibility of foods, and yet, too many of us are adding to our troubles by eating food which is not adapted to our individual requirements. It is almost impossible to over-estimate the importance of good cooking. It promotes health and energy and, as an economic factor, its value can hardly be expressed in gold, but it also goes so far to promote the happiness of our homes that it is very difficult to appreciate why such an art has been so long neglected. Another very tangible reason why cooking should be studied is that it pays. Good cooks are in demand, and are likely to be greater demand in the future, and if the emolument is not high at present, the reason is not far to seek, for we must, in fairness, recognize that the ability, either, is not high. The remuneration is certain to rise with the standard of fitness.

Cooking may also be a high art as well as a science, for it appeals to the three senses of sight, taste and smell. The appetite, and even the digestion, is stimulated when art is applied, and as an economic factor, its value can hardly be expressed in gold, but it also goes so far to promote the happiness of our homes that it is very difficult to appreciate why such an art has been so long neglected.

Notes.

PAINT BRUSH FOR GREASING PANS. When greasing cake and bread pans, etc., try using a small flat paint-brush instead of the usual piece of paper. The brush will spread more evenly and with much less trouble.

For pans that have been burned or to which the food has stuck, and if water is scarce, try dipping them into the hot dishcloth before attempting to wash the other dishes, then turn them upside down until ready to wash. They will be as easily washed as if soaked for an hour.

FOR CHILDREN. Slice raw potatoes with the skins on and sprinkle over the top with salt, as soon as the liquid therefrom settles in the bottom of the dish, wash with it the children; one application is all that is necessary.

HINT ON ROAST PORK. When buying a strip of pork to roast get your butcher to saw the long bone on the top of the strip lengthwise instead of crosswise at each chop. When roast is done it can be taken off and each slice cut without any splintered bones. I find it very easy to serve and neat.

PRACTICAL, USEFUL HINTS. Baked potatoes—A quick and nice way to place potatoes over the oven is to place the middle cover and cover with an old pan or an old tin cover. They will bake in one-third the time it would take in the oven.

Fried cabbage—After preparing cabbage or onions just place them in the oven, close the door and notice how much easier the flavor will be, also the time saved in stirring, and best of all no odor.

A quick and sanitary way is after washing the sink, to place a piece of water and it will dry itself. You can save one-half the usual time spent.

To wash a bean pot with little trouble put it in the dishpan upside down with cold water and soap powder and let it come to a boil. Take the pan away from the fire and let it stand a while. The water will suck up in the pot when you take it off the stove and when you wash it the dirt will come off the rim as well as the inside.

When pulling out the canvas threads from a piece of cross-stitch embroidery try using a strawberry huller and you will be glad you read this hint. It will save your time and your finger-nails.

TO MAKE WASH-LOOK LIKE NEW. Put a tablespoonful of wood alcohol to every quart of water when rinsing and iron while still damp.

When washing articles that are badly soiled use a small scrubbing brush and scrub hard. The water will come off the rim as well as the inside.

If fine pieces get too dry when ironing take a piece of this cloth and wring out in cold water, laying it on the ironing-board under the article, press with warm iron, then remove the wet piece and finish ironing.

Feed garments into the wringer with the buttons at the bottom. It is impossible for them to catch, as cloth is always rolling over them, whereas with the buttons on top they tip up away from the bottom roller and catch in the top roller. Try this way once and you will have no further trouble.

Recipes.

HONEY FLUFF. 3 cups granulated sugar 1 cup strained honey 1-2 cup water 1 teaspoon lemon-extract 3 egg whites.

Boil together until the mixture hardens in cold water, then pour it slowly over the well-beaten whites of two eggs. Stir and beat together until stiff enough to drop on buttered paper. One cup of chopped nut-meats may be added.

WALNUT MIX. 2 tablespoons thick cream 6 drops essence of peppermint 50 drops lemon-sugar 1 egg white.

Mix together thoroughly, then cook until the mixture forms a soft ball to cold water. Remove from fire and add the butter. Beat until creamy and stir in the lemon-sugar which have been browned in the oven with a little butter.

Get out of the run. Day will follow day this year as last, but if they follow just the same, life is cheating you.

Don't put a stained tablecloth away with the dirty clothes until the spots have been saturated with ammonia. There will be no damp on wash day.

Practical Health Hint.

Dangers of Bad Teeth. A bad tooth should never be tolerated, and the danger of cancer is only one more good reason for having it attended to.

Cancer of the tongue may occur at any age, but it is most common between forty and sixty. As one-third of all cases investigated have been shown to be definitely associated with jagged or decayed teeth or imperfect plates, it would seem that here is one method of preventing cancer.

It is probable that other conditions occurring in combination with bad teeth increase the likelihood of cancer of the tongue as a result, but the removal of this factor of irritation is so simple a matter that deaths in cases of this kind must be charged to pure negligence. If the removal or treatment of the tooth does not relieve the situation and the ulcer continues, prompt operation is necessary. For this form of cancer is quickly fatal.

Indians and Time. Certain of the reservation Indians still cling to the calendar of their ancestors. The Indian method was to compute time by sleeps and moons.

A sleep is twenty-four hours, and a moon is a month. There is also a midmoon, where the sun is at 12 o'clock meridian. This hour is indicated by pointing out the quarter way up the sky he meant 9 o'clock; when he pointed quarter way down he meant 3 o'clock. Sunrise was the eastern horizon and sunset the western.

When there was a moon the time was indicated in the same way as by the sun. An Indian asked the distance to a certain place or how far he had come he would say so many sleeps, or days' travel. A sleep, as describing distance, was about thirty-five miles when walking deliberately or from fifty to seventy-five miles if going in haste with a message.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The First Atlas. The first modern atlas was the work of Abraham Ortelius, a Dutch geographer, who died 518 years ago. His monumental treatise, entitled "The寰球圖", was first published at Antwerp in 1570 and was revised and reissued five times during the author's lifetime. It was a folio volume containing nearly a hundred maps, representing the different countries and continents as they were then known. Although this atlas was a pioneer work, it was not the first of its kind. A schoolboy today could draw maps from memory with a better approximation to correctness. Even England and Scotland appear in this pioneer volume with amazing distortions of coast line and relative area, and many other maps in the volume bear only a slight resemblance to those of today.—New York World.

An Ant That Spins. The spinning ant is found in India, in Ceylon, in the islands of Malacca and in Australia. This ant weaves its nest between two leaves of a tree, and how to get to the center, it begins to build or to weave by drawing two leaves together. To do this it runs a line of its working material—material similar to the spider's thread—the length of the leaf and around it. While at work it clings to the leaf with its legs and at the same time draws on the leaf nearest to it with its mandibles. Sometimes the two leaves split; then the builder calls to its fellow ants, and they help to form a chain. Each ant clings to the waist of its neighbor by its mandibles. Thus encouraged, the work to build the nest of their comrades.

Right and Left. Mr. Flubdub—that girl thinks no man is good enough for her. Mr. Flubdub—She may be right at that. Mr. Flubdub—Yes, but she may be wrong in her "left" hand.—Punch.

A Head Full of Ache

There are many forms of headache, but the sick headache is about the worst ever. When it once fastens on you, it is a good while, unless you have a remedy, before it will leave you. Sick headache usually comes from the stomach or liver, and you must help these organs before the head can be relieved.

A few drops of Foley's Honey and Tar will put your stomach to rights, regulate the bile, and act on the bowels. As soon as good order is secured, the dizzy feeling and nagging pain will disappear, and you will be as well as ever. No medicine is better for sick headache or biliousness.
