When the Potato is Not a Vegetable.

The cup or two of mashed potato, left over from the dinner of today, may be utilized to-morrow's dinner, thereby saving a certain amount of wheat flour in which there is such need of strict economy.

POTATO PIE

Cream together one cup of sugar and one-half cup of butter substitute. Add the yolks of three eggs, one teaspoonful each, of nutmeg and cinnamon, two cups of mashed potato, the juice and grated rind of a lemon, one-fourth a cup of grape juice and the stiff beaten whites of the eggs. Line a pie plate with pastry and pour in the mixture. When baked, sift powdered sugar over the top.

SWEET POTATO PIE

Mix two cups of boiled and mashed sweet potato with one tablespoonful of vegetable fat, and three-fourths a cup of brown sugar. Stir in one egg, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half a teaspoonful each, of ginger and of cinnamon, two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch and one and one-half cups of milk. Pour in an open crust, and bake in a moderate oven about one hour.

POTATO COOKIES

Cream one cup of shortening with two cups of sugar. Add two eggs, two cups of hot mashed potatoes, and one teaspoonful of nutmeg. Lastly, stir in one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in one cup of warm milk. Add enough flour to roll this, sprinkle with sugar and bake quickly.

POTATO DOUGHNUTS

These keep moist longer than the usual doughnut. Cream one cup of sugar with one cup of mashed potato and one tablespoonful of fat. Mix with one beaten egg and one-half cup of milk, then one cup and a half of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt and the same of nutmeg. Add more flour if necessary to roll and cut in the usual manner. Fry in hot fat.

POTATO CHOCOLATE CAKE

Like the above doughnuts, this cake has splendid keeping qualities. Cream two cups of sugar with two-thirds a cup of butter substitute. Mix with one cup of mashed potato and three-fourths cup of melted chocolate. Add, alternately, one-half cup of milk and two and one-half cups of flour, sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, half a teaspoonful each, of nutmeg and cloves and one teaspoonful of salt. If desired, add one cup each, of raisins and chopped nuts. Fold in at the last, four beaten eggs. Bake in a loaf pan about an hour.

POTATO SANDWICHES

Mash together one cup of cold potato, one-half cup of cream cheese, a teaspoonful of onion juice and a teaspoonful of mayonnaise to moisten. Spread between thin slices of rye bread.

POTATO SCONES

1 cup mashed potato
1 cup corn meal cooked in
1 cup boiling water
2 tablespoonfuls shortening
1 teaspoonful salt
1 cup barley flour
4 teaspoonfuls baking powder, or
3 teaspoonfuls baking powder and 1 egg

Sift baking powder and barley flour, beat much, potatoes and shortening together until well mixed; add flour; roll out and cut into cakes.

Serving Bananas.

BANANAS SAUTE

Peel the bananas and scrape to remove coarse threads. Cut each pulp in halves crosswise, then lengthwise, to make four pieces of each banana. Pat both sides of each piece in butter or corn oil, then set to cook in one or two tablespoonfuls of hot fat. When browned delicately on one side, turn and brown the other side. Keep the slices hot in color and do not cook too long. Serve at any meal. They are particularly good with bacon, chops, hash, omelets or croquettes.

BANANAS BAKED FOR A VEGETABLE

Pull down a section of a banana skin, and loosen the pulp from the rest of the skin; remove all coarse threads, then replace the pulp in the skin. Bake in an agate pan in a quick oven until soft; remove from the skins and serve at once.

BANANAS SAUTE, SULTANA SAUCE

3-4 cup Sultana raisins
1 cup or more boiling water
1-2 cup sugar
1 teaspoonful butter
1 teaspoonful vanilla
1-2 cup corn syrup
8 bananas

2 teaspoonfuls or more corn starch

Pull down a section of a banana skin, and loosen the pulp from the rest of the skin; remove all coarse threads, then replace the pulp in the skin. Set the bananas in an agate pan into the oven to cook until the skin is blackened and the pulp is cleaned; remove from the skins and serve at once. The length of time needed will depend on the heat of the oven, probably about twenty minutes in a moderate oven. At least an hour before serving set the cleaned raisins to cook in the boiling water, adding water as needed. Mix and sift together the sugar and cornstarch, and stir these through the raisins and water; stir until boiling, then let simmer ten minutes and add the butter and flavoring. Remove the bananas from the skin to a hot plate (they may be cooled in a half circle). Pour over the sauce and serve at once. These may be used as a sweet entree with meats or as a dessert dish.

BANANAS BELGIAN STYLE

Remove the peel from six or eight small bananas; fruit from the top of the bunch as it hangs in the fruit store are the best. Scrape each banana to remove all coarse threads and lay them, side by side, in a baking dish suitable for the table. Grate over them the rind of an orange and half a lemon; mix together the juice of the half lemon, the orange and half a cup of sugar and pour over the bananas; bake in a quick oven until soft throughout. Serve from the baking dish or from individual dishes. One banana constitutes a service.

BANANA CONES

For each two persons use two slices of stale sponge cake, one large or two small bananas, four level teaspoonfuls of cornstarch, three level tablespoonfuls of sugar, half a cup of boiling water and the grated rind and juice of half a lemon. Shape the slices of cake symmetrically, in round squares or ovals. Set them on serving plates. Peel and scrape the bananas, cut the pulp into cubes, pour on the boiling water, cover and let stand one minute. Skim the pieces of banana to the cakes, piling in cone shape. Sift together the cornstarch and sugar; add a few grains of salt; pour on the lemon juice and the liquid in which the bananas were steeped and stir until boiling; let simmer ten minutes, then use to coat the bananas. Serve hot or cold, but preferably hot.

BANANA SPONGE

14 package gelatin
14 cup cold water
1 cup banana pulp (3-4 bananas)
2-3 cup sugar
Juice 1 lemon
3 egg-whites

Garnish

2 or 3 bananas
1-2 lemon
1 cup double cream
2 tablespoonfuls sugar
1-4 teaspoonful vanilla

Soften the gelatin in the cold water; peel and scrape the bananas and press the pulp through a sieve or ricer; heat the pulp of banana pulp to the boiling point; add the cold water, the sugar and lemon juice; stir over low water until the mixture begins to thicken, then fold in the egg-whites beaten dry. Line a mold with parchment paper; mix the banana and sponge over the lemon juice and the liquid in which the bananas were steeped and stir until boiling; let simmer ten minutes, then use to coat the bananas. Serve hot or cold, but preferably hot.

LEMON JELLY AND BAKED BANANAS

A simple dessert may be made by molding lemon jelly in a little water. Cut

Water Powers in Maine

It is necessary for the advancement of the development of water powers by the State to make sweeping statements which are in a large measure untrue and clearly misleading in order to maintain their position on the Water Power question?

In the first place the development at Rumford Falls was not an entirely new development, which made the cost lower than it would otherwise have been and in the second place the cost of development at Rumford Falls is not a fair illustration from which to make a comparison, for at Rumford Falls there is a water fall of one hundred feet and at Rumford Falls the cost of development is cheaper than in any other power development east of the Mississippi River, excepting at Niagara; moreover, the cost was MORE THAN ONE MILLION DOLLARS, how much more was not stated and the paper quoted was not warranted in assuming that it was a little above that sum. But on the basis stated the development at Rumford Falls presents other phases of the question which enter into the cost of development. For example, the Rumford Falls Power Co., owing to the class of customers it serves is practically required to develop more than the amount of P. M. MARY power available as a safeguard against accidents, thereby reducing the cost per horse power installed, as against the power earning revenue, in proportion to the excess developed.

A statement that cannot successfully be converted is that the average cost per water horse power in Maine is not less than $150.00 exclusive of the cost of transmission and distribution.

As an example, the great Anishcodam cost one million dollars and the amount of power available at that dam if developed for power purposes is stated to be 7600 horse power, so that the cost without FLUENTS, HEAD GATES, or ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT is still $121.00 per horse power.

Again the impression is given that because power may be generated comparatively cheap at one point that the consumer is paying an exorbitant price for lighting his house or for use of power. Why should not the user be met in a fair spirit?

The writer of the article quoted must know that it costs large sums of money to transmit electric current from its source to the place of use; that it requires pole lines, transformers, aerial lines, meters, etc. That the distribution to the customer is one of the largest items of cost and also maintenance; that there is also a loss of power between the point of generation and the meter of the consumer; that the labor cost is largely chargeable to the distribution system.

Why does the writer of the editorial dodge the fact that power that is sold on a contract basis of twenty-four hours in the day and on $12 or $35 a day in the year, is a very different matter from power that is sold to a householder for lighting purposes at a rate of a cent or a motor for a few hours a day, and where the amount used is but a small fraction of what the service corporation is obliged to be ready to furnish at any time?

Before making statements charging persons who are developing electric power and trying to meet the needs of the public with illegally over-charging the public, why not investigate what a power factor means, what the difference is between primary and secondary utility these people who develop water powers have to inform themselves before they can embark on the enterprise.

Is this paper quoted above willing to maintain the people of the State of Maine to undertake a development costing millions of dollars on the amount of information possessed on this subject as shown by the editorial cited?
