PRINCE ALBERT

TALK about smokes, Prince Albert is geared to a joyhandout standard that just lavishes smokehappiness on every man game enough to make a bee line for a tidy red tin and a jimmy pipe—old or new!

Get it straight that what you've hankered for in pipe or cigarette makin's smokes you'll find aplenty in P. A. That's because P. A. has the quality!

You can't any more make Prince Albert bite your tongue or parch your throat than you can make a horse drink when he's off the water! Bite and parch are cut out by our exclusive patented process!

You just lay back like a regular fellow and puff to beat the cards and wonder why in samhill you didn't nail a section in the P. A. smokepasture longer than you care to remember back!

Buy Prince Albert everywhere tobacco is sold. Toppo red bags, truly red tins, handsome pound and half pound tin humidors—and that clever, practical, round crystal glass humidors with sponge moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such perfect condition.

Shorten Hours in the Kitchen.

Waste no minutes in the kitchen; get ready to watch some process, get ready for something that is to be finished at some later time.

Keep all articles, as far as possible, near the place where they are to be used. Have a spatula at hand ready for use. To lift dough shaped for cookies or doughnuts from the board, run the spatula rather than the end of the spatula beneath the dough. Either the end or the side may be used to remove cooked food from the pan.

Dough, batter, whipped cream or egg-white may be scraped from a bowl with a spatula in half the time required with a spoon or other utensil.

Jellies are removed with ease from aluminum molds.

Creams, hot or cold, are removed with ease from any mold, if the mold has been lined in whole or part with cake, also solid slices of cooked fruit or even parchment paper.

Hot baked puddings and custards will not stick to the baking dishes if the dish be first rubbed over with fat and then dredged with sugar.

Cakes, loaves or loaves, are quickly removed from loose-bottom aluminum cake-pans and the washing of the pans is a very simple matter.

Use a "nappe cover" when rolling out soft dough any sort. When through work, scrape the cloth with a knife, if necessary, then shake out of doors. Wash the stockinet on the rolling pin often.

To press any cooked or uncooked food material through a sieve or strainer, use a "gravy strainer," shaped like a dipper without a short handle, get the strainer stand firm in a receptacle of exactly the right size and depth, then press the food through it with a wooden pestle or potato masher.

When preparing a dish of mashed potatoes use a vegetable ricer, to mash the potatoes, and a slitted wooden spoon to beat them.

When making yeast rolls or buns to be rolled into a thin sheet for shaping, before rolling the dough to the bowl after kneading, wash the bowl, then rub over the bowl with a thin layer of light, turn the dough, without cutting down or disturbing it in the least, upside down, on a lightly floured board, treated with a thin layer of oil, and roll with a few strokes of the rolling pin.

A small vegetable brush, without handle, and costing five cents, shortens the time of cleaning many cooking dishes. Also, used with a little Dutch Cleanser, coffee and tea stains may be quickly removed from the cups in which these beverages are served.

Housekeepers are anxiously looking for a "made in America" cooking ware that will clean as easily and be as durable as the wares both made in Europe, formerly made in Europe.

The Pyrex glass cooking dishes now made in this country approach the porcelain in giving satisfaction, but there is need of the porcelain, also.

A Scotch bowl of cast-iron with ball for lifting, used for no other purpose than frying, tends to simplify this mode of cooking. If the fat be strained after use and returned to the bowl after it has been carefully wiped out, no delay is occasioned when frying in again in order.

A kitchen cloth with a pocket for turning up, allows slightly shortens the time of removing the eyes and the parings from potatoes.

A grapefruit knife, made with two cutting edges, shortens the time of preparing grapefruit for the table. Cleaning the knife at once after use saves work later on.

The use of a double boiler in scalding milk, or in any cooking in which milk is the foundation, insures more perfect cooking and a more easily cleaned dish.

Birthday Suggestions.

More and more every year am I convinced of the great delight and enjoyment of elderly people of trifling birthday remembrances.

I hereby desire to file an objection to the view taken by many in ignoring birthday.

If there is any one day in all the year, among the many holidays celebrated which everyone should have a right to celebrate in his or her own peculiar way, it is one's birthday.

If a child in the enthusiasm of childhood is made happy by simple and trifling gifts, an old person is made even happier, and yet many people's birthday days, especially when they grow old, go unnoticed and unremembered.

It is never the money value of a present that counts, but the thoughtfulness back of the gift.

A postal card shower sent by every member of her family (children and grandchildren) made one dear woman very happy one birthday.

Another time one very thoughtful business friend of one of her sons sent her seventy-two beautiful roses for her seventy-second birthday, which delighted her beyond expression.

A blossoming plant, a bunch of fragrant blossoms, a bouquet of flowers, a new book, a basket of fruit, or some little inexpensive trifle, is all that is needed to make a perfect day for some dear soul who perhaps has no other reason to think they are past their usefulness.

A birthday cake (nothing is more appetizing than a sizzling angel's food) is always a delight, especially if it has candles on it to mark the years.

My plea is for the old people.

Keep them from being lonely and box of trifles (pretty birthday cards, little booklets, etc.) which can be used at the last minute for the dear old friends.—C. A. J.

Escalloped Cheese and Rice.

Melt two tablespoonsful of butter in a saucepan; add two level tablespoonsful of flour, blend, then add one cupful of milk and stir over the fire until the whole is thick and creamy. Add one half level teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, and three-fourths of a cupful of grated cheese, and continue stirring until the cheese is melted. In a shallow earthen or enameled baking dish, arrange two cupsful of cold boiled rice and the above sauce in layers, having the top layer of the sauce. Sprinkle a few stale breadcrumbs over the top, add a few bits of butter and bake in a moderate oven until the top is a golden brown—about twenty minutes. This dish is nourishing, palatable, inexpensive and very easy to make.

An attractive change may be made by substituting one cupful of chopped nuts (preferably walnuts, pecans or butternuts) for one cupful of the rice.

Baked Stuffed Dates with Coconut.

The dates to be stuffed with pieces of walnuts flavored with vanilla and placed in an airtight dish or any good baking dish and baked with butter, if the dates are dry, add water; very little butter is needed. They will become soft and jelly-like and very delicious. Remove carefully, and when cool enough, roll in fresh-shredded coconut, which will adhere, but not so sticky as when fresh. These are an exquisite delicacy for tea, luncheon and for a holiday or birthday gift, since they need not be eaten when fresh and are not sticky. Bake by gentle heat about fifteen minutes.—J. D. C.

Turnip Salad.

There is probably no greater delicacy in the world than a salad of turnips. It is an old-fashioned dish, used by our grandmothers, but seems to have been forgotten in this day.

Our method is to spread a bushel or so turnips, preferably white turnips, on the cellar floor, near the light, but far enough from a window to be shadowy. The turnips will sprout into delicate tops. These tops can be cut off from time to time and used just as chickory, endive or lettuce.—N. M.

NEW ENGLAND NEWS IN TABLOID FORM

Items of Interest From All Sections of Yankee Land

At the age of seventy-six, Charles J. Tarbell, messenger in the Massachusetts House of Representatives for twenty-one years, died at his home in Springfield. Mr. Tarbell had served in the Civil War.

Lemuel J. Oiler, 68, a grain dealer, of Providence, was killed when an overhead bin in his storehouse collapsed letting between 500 and 600 bushels of oats fall on him. Volunteer rescuers reached him too late.

Arrayed in a Wild West costume, Frank A. Tipperfield, a cow-puncher from Reno, Nev., appeared in court in Providence charged with passing a worthless check for underwear and socks. Judge Gorham fined him $15. He formerly belonged in that city, he said.

A resolution protesting against the British embargo and urging the United States government to adopt retaliatory measures, if necessary, to wipe out this "manifest discrimination against the American labor and products" has been filed with the Mass. House clerk by James J. Brennan of (Charlestown).

Miss Alice Stone Blackwell said upon her return from New York, where she assisted in the reception to Catherine Breshkovsky, the aged Russian revolutionist that Madam Breshkovsky expected to arrive in Boston February 17. She plans to remain about a week, and probably will make several addresses.

Dr. A. G. Walker of Houlton Me., who was arrested at Edmonston, N. B., charged with causing the death by means of an illegal operation of Mrs. Etta Sharp McElroy of Bridge-water, was found dead in his cell at Houlton. The officials decided he had taken his own life by means of a small bottle of poison found near his body.

Maj. Thomas F. Foley, in command of the 101st Infantry, has written his brother, Ladderman William J. Foley of the Worcester fire department, that the regiment will sail for home Feb. 10. The letter is from Millers, France, under date of Jan. 14. Maj. Foley said the regiment was making preparations to start for the coast Jan. 18.

Springfield, Mass., holds the record for the clearest winter day in the history of the State, according to a survey of conditions made recently by the Consumers' League of Massachusetts. Complete examination of every bakeshop and public eating place was made with the cooperation of the Board of Health. Not a single one was found to be in a bad state.

A state investigation has been ordered to determine if gasoline is being mixed with kerosene. It is offered for sale, following the death of Benjamin F. Whidden, a Franklin business man, from burns received when kerosene with which he was lighting a fire was ignited. An analysis by a state chemist showed that the kerosene was impregnated with gasoline.

The Rhode Island senate killed the resolution ratifying the prohibition amendment to the federal constitution on a roll call vote 15 to 12. It was the third successive federal amendment which the state has refused to ratify, the other two having been in 1810 and the 17th, providing for the election of United States senators by popular vote.

Farmers from all parts of the country attended the sessions of the Caledonia County Farm Bureau and the Caledonia Farm Exchange, held at the Caledonia Hotel, Houlton, over $2,000 worth of fertilizer, feed and seeds have been purchased by the farmers since the organization of the farm exchange last August. This has been a great help, as they do not have to pay the high retail prices.

William Howard Taft was unanimously elected an honorary member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society at its annual meeting at Boston. Mr. Taft became the seventh honorary member of the society. Woodrow Wilson and Lord Brierley were respectively the sixth and fifth to accept this distinction. The total attendance for the year number 968 volumes, and 196 genealogies were acquired.

The woman who was shot and killed by Thomas F. Brennan, her husband, was not his wife. The Holyoke police announced after a talk with Lieutenant M. F. Brennan of Auburn, R. L. Brennan's son. They say she was Mrs. Edith Heath, formerly of Auburn. Brennan, the police learned, had a wife and two sons living in Auburn. Brennan's son, who was the wife's brother, was killed by the Holyoke police. Brennan's son was living with Mrs. Heath.

Harvard is to have a four-year course in field artillery, starting next October. The instruction will be under governmental supervision and Colonel Robert C. Goetz will be in charge. The colonel, who is a West Point graduate, has just completed preliminary arrangements with the War Department. The artillery course will fuse with the regular instruction. Summer camps will be established for most of the practical work.

Mrs. Miriam T. Goldberg, daughter of Mrs. and Mr. Simon Goldberg of 25 Sheridan street, Lawrence, is believed to be the youngest woman member of the Massachusetts Bar. Miss Goldberg was born in Lawrence, Sept. 17, 1897, and graduated from Lawrence High School in 1915. She received her degree from Boston University some time after her graduation in 1915, because she was not 21 years old.

Brynn Louise Blanchard of Hartford, Ct., 15 years of age, has been awarded the title of state canning club champion. She has put up nearly 700 cans of different products, making about 500 quarts, beside 35 glasses of jelly. The market value of these is $400.85. The work was done at a total cost of $158.33, leaving a net profit of $242.52. Miss Blanchard has been serving the past year as president of Uncle Sam's Cannery and Cookery club.

The Worcester Chamber of Commerce, the Kiwanis club, the Rotary Club and the Women's Club will be asked by the Worcester Interdenominational Ministers' Association to stand sponsor for a board of censors for all theatrical performances, particularly burlesques. The Rev. Dr. George L. Southworth, president of the association, declares that the board will censor all theatrical performances and keep the city clean, as the board of censors for the moving pictures has done. The plan was to be started, he stated, because of the burlesque performances of late.

The appearance of a husband who had believed to be dead, three days after her marriage to another man has sent husband No. 2, Nathan Marcus of Portland to the superior court to petition for an annulment of his marriage to Anna Virginia Carabelle Nelson, to whom he was married just a little over a month ago. When the bride and bridegroom were walking in Monument square they came face to face with John Nelson, the former husband. Five years ago Nelson went away to take a job at bridge construction. His wife heard from him occasionally and finally received a report that he was dead.

The death of Prof. Pickering of Harvard who died last week, came shortly after the completion of a task of much importance, carried on as a labor of love—the cataloguing of every known star for the Dr. Henry Draper Memorial Catalogue, named after an eminent New York amateur astronomer, who always one of his close friends. This is the largest undertaking of its kind ever attempted. About 220,000 stars are classified with special reference to their physical qualities as determined by their spectra. The entire sky is covered, and the catalogue will occupy nine large volumes, two of which have been printed, while a third is in the press.

The Rev. Paul L. Vogt executive secretary of the Methodist central committee on reconstruction at home has sent a communication to the joint centenary committee at the Boston office, outlining plans of the department to apply centenary funds to the rural problems of New England. He declares that some of the best rural work is being done in New England, and the departments for rural work has funds available for co-operation in establishing special training departments for rural leaders in connection with Boston University and will inaugurate this work shortly. It is also co-operating with the state about an inter-denominational adjustment that will permit still more adequate community service.

Massachusetts representatives of capital and labor urged the legislative committee on federal relations to report favorably on the substance of several resolutions favoring a national eight-hour day. E. W. Burdette, representing the Champlain International Mills of Lawrence, said Massachusetts suffers because of the differentiation among states as to hours of labor. "With the eight and nine-hour day prevailing here," he said, "manufacturers are handicapped in competing with other states in which longer hours prevail." Charles J. Hodson, representing the American Federation of Labor said that his organization is in favor of uniformity of hours, provided that any law which Congress shall pass stipulates that the hours men work shall not be in excess of eight.

While most industries in Berkshire County, Mass., have had a big jump since the armistice was signed, the Richmond Iron Works which operates the oldest iron mine in New England and the only one now in operation in Massachusetts, is an exception. Its orders—indirectly war orders—have not been cancelled, and they have been coming, so that the plant, kept going about fifty hands, is fairly busy. It manufactures charcoal pig-iron that goes largely into steel rolls for making brass and other products. The Richmond property comprises about 500 acres and there is said to be enough high-grade ore to last to the end of the century at the present rate of production. The iron ore is very high grade and that is the reason that after ninety-two years of continuous operation there is still a market for its 5000 tons of finished product annually. The iron for Ericsson's Monitor guns was mined in Richmond. The ore was taken by ox teams to Hudson, N. Y., where it was cast into weapons, and carried down the river to Brooklyn. In 1860 the product went chiefly to South Boston for naval guns.

Paquin Turning Out Army Clothes.

Mme. Paquin, the world-famous modiste, is now making clothing for our army.

Whenever anyone congratulated the late M. Paquin upon his success, and praised those wonderful creations in feminine apparel which the world is his wife looked to see, he merely replied, "The credit belongs to Madame, not to myself."

M. Paquin started life as a bank clerk. Madame was a saleswoman in a big Paris dressmaking house when they married. She induced him to leave the bank and open a small costume's shop known as the Maison Lespaux. The shop has four corridors to exist, but from it sprung the huge business house of Paquin, which the founder eventually sold to a company with a capital of $2,500,000.

Willing to Salute.

An Irish priest was proudly boasting to his visitor, an English clergyman, of the great respect of his parishioners for their pastor. Strolling along a country road at the time, they met a little boy who was endeavoring to keep in check a large goat. The clergyman passed, but the boy did not raise his hat. "Is that one of your parishioners?" demanded the English clergyman.

"I am sorry to say he is," replied the other. And calling to the boy, he demanded: "Is that the way you are taught to respect your clergy? Why did you not salute?"

The youngster, with both hands on the rope replied: "If your reverence holds this wan I'll salute you."

"You talk so hopefully you must be an optimist."

"I'm not. I'm a pessimist just trying to cheer myself up."

DON'T POOL YOURSELF.

A man suffering from backache, rheumatic pains, stiff joints or sore muscles may laugh and say these symptoms are "don't amount to anything." It is folly to ignore Nature's warnings. Foley's Kidney Pills give quick relief in kidney or bladder troubles and "It is better to be safe than sorry." Sold Everywhere.

"Papa, where is Atom?"

"Atom? I don't know, my boy. You mean Atomus probably."

"No, I mean Atomus—the place where everything is blown to."

YOU KNOW, BUT SOMETIMES FORGET.

Everybody knows an imitation is never as good as the genuine article. Foley's Honey and Tar stands at the top of the list of family remedies for colds, croup, whooping cough, bronchitis and grippe coughs. W. L. Anglin, Antioch, La., writes: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar 15 years. It is the best." Sold Everywhere.

"Johnny," said the Sunday School teacher at the annual picnic, "do you know what to eat and what to drink and what to avoid?"

"Sure I know," said Johnny. "Eat all you can, drink all you can and avoid burning."

HOW TO KEEP WELL.

"Keep the bowels open" is one rule of health recommended by all schools of medicine. Foley's Cathartic Tablets cleanse the bowels, sweeten the stomach and benefit the liver. For indigestion, biliousness, bad breath, bloating, gas, constipation, no remedy is more highly recommended. Fine for stout persons. Sold Everywhere.

A WOMAN'S RECOMMENDATION.

Mrs. D. T. Tryon, R. F. D. 1, Franklin Ave., Oregon, O., writes: "I realized so great a benefit from the use of one box that I feel safe in recommending Foley's Kidney Pills to any kidney sufferers." They relieve backache, sore muscles, stiff joints, rheumatic pains and bladder ailments. Sold Everywhere.

"Dearest," he murmured, as soon as they were seated in the high-priced restaurant, "you can have anything you want on the bill of fare. Shall I read it off to you?"

"No," she replied hungrily, "just read it off to the waiter."

SAYS IT IS THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Are you looking for a safe, reliable remedy for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough? A. H. McDaniell, Box 51, Littleton, W. Va., writes: "I am glad to tell you that Foley's Honey and Tar is the best medicine in this world. I had a severe cough. Someone recommended it and before I used half a bottle I was better." Sold Everywhere.

Daisy Baker's Mother Says

It is not only easy to do your own baking with WILLIAM TELL FLOUR, but it will give your bread a richer and a better flavor. The wheat from which this flour is made is grown in the Miami Valley in Ohio, and the rich limestone soil gives it a delicious flavor and wonderful baking qualities, superior to any other flour I have ever used.

At the same time, it goes so much further than you really save flour by using it.

Ask your grocer for WILLIAM TELL FLOUR and prove for yourself that it does go further and bakes better.
