Shoe Prices

I want to take a little time and some space in this paper, that I may discuss with the readers of this article or advertisement, the shoe situation as it now stands. We will admit that prices are high, much higher than they ought to be, but we do not admit that they are out of proportion to the other necessities of life. I have recently paid $6.00 for a barrel of apples and I am perfectly satisfied with the price and surely believe that they could not be sold for less at a profit. I pay 65 cents per pound for butter, 12 cents a bottle for milk and so on down the list, and the producers are not getting any more than they ought to have for their work. We have at the present time a store full of footwear of all kinds which we bought and are selling below the market price to-day. Our retail price on more than half our stock is less than we can buy at wholesale. Has always been the purpose and policy of this store to give our customers full value for their money, and this policy has surely been the means of bringing to us a good business which has increased year after year. Our customers have been loyal to us and we surely appreciate it. Now as the holidays are approaching we will suggest that you buy useful gifts and we are sure that footwear of all kinds is always useful and acceptable. We are also positive that we can suit you in style, quality and price.

We are fitting up and expect to have in operation in a few weeks, a modern boot and shoe repair department. We shall have all new and up-to-date machinery and intend to have as good a repair shop as can be found anywhere.

George Davee will be in charge and that fact is a guarantee that the work will be done right. We shall use the best of stock and our prices will be as low as good work can be done. We shall make a great effort to get the work out promptly. You will be informed when this Department is ready for business. Save your repairing for us.

Mary Had a Little Lamb.
Mary had a little lamb,
About three pounds or so,
And this lamb was so tame,
How far that lamb would go.
She trotted first and served it hot
With sauce of Worcester,
Then trotted the house and made from them
Some cups of bouillabaisse.
Frustrated the lamb and Mary took
A wondrous tasty stew,
And when she warmed it up next day,
She called it a ragout.
"This lamb, what makes us love it so?"
Her eager children cry.
"Oh, Mother is some cook, you know,"
Their father did reply.
MARY BARBON WASHINGTON.

Keeping the Home Lights.
"Whatever you do, keep the lamp chimney clean. Everybody's eyes turn toward it the moment they enter the room of a night," counseled my wise older sister when we were young girls out on the farm, and a reading lamp was the center of the family circle.
Since then, through observation, I have learned how important all our lighting arrangements are in a home. For the eyes of all do seek the light, though they may not do so consciously, nor would remember having done so. If there chance to be anything peculiar, they do notice, either to admire or disapprove, and certainly if the "chimney" chance to be smoky or the window draperies torn—well, be to the responsible one!

Put dark, badly cracked shades up at the windows, and nothing you can do, otherwise, in furnishing the room, will remove the gloomy, poverty-stricken aspect. But replace them with new, brightly colored shades, and there is a sense of cheer, cleanliness, and neatness that is worth more than all the expensive bric-a-brac one may accumulate.
There are so many devices for lighting fixtures these days that one's taste is plainly exhibited by her choice; and since these come in all prices, no one is hampered by the beautiful because of small means. I have seen really artistic wicker and paper shades for electric bulbs in the fifty, and the shade of color are to govern one's choice, considering, of course, the furnishings already in the room.

Window draperies, as the frame of the all-important daylight entrance, like wise may be inexpensive, but must be carefully chosen. Shades are no longer in the best taste for ordinary rooms or homes. Better no draperies at all than dirty, would-be fiery, or loud, gorgeous patterns that fairly stare at every corner. Sometimes, for various reasons, one may not be able to show her real taste in her selections of home furnishings; but she can keep the home lights clean, and cleanliness is both "next to godliness" and mighty near to beauty.

The One-Crust Pie.
Stretch the pastry for the "one-crust pie" over the outside of the pie plate and press the edges firmly against the edge of the plate. Prick the center of the crust with a fork.
The baked crust will be of the desired shape and can be easily removed from the pie plate and put on a large plate or platter ready for the filling.
The above method is very simple and will save the housewife the disappointment of the shrunken and misshapen one-crust pie.

Fruit as a Saver of Sugar.

Too often in these enforced days of sugar saving (and from the dire prophecies of the grocerman yesterday as to a sugarless Christmas), the value of fruit in the diet is ignored, or is not even known. Fruit is a valuable item of diet, rich in mineral ingredients, acids and body-regulating substances. And you rarely see it on the table in the average house. It is only considered to be good between meals, or to cook with the addition of the valuable sugar; when, as a matter of fact, fruit, many of them, contain sugar that the body needs and can be used as a substitute for numberless "sweets" we religiously consume.
At the present time dates are plentiful and cheap. They contain a large percentage of sugar. They can be used, and in the using of them the body will not require so much other sugar.

Grapes are always good, and they are one of the most nutritious fruits known. In addition to sugar, which is present in large proportions, they contain many other body-building elements. Apples, bananas, oranges are good, though it is conceded that the latter are somewhat expensive. Yet when it is known that a single orange contains seventy-five calories of the odd twenty-five hundred to three thousand needed for the daily stocking of the bodily system, one can realize that three or four oranges would not do badly for lunch, and they would help clarify and clear out a system clogged up with too much pastry and sweets. A single apple also contains approximately seventy-five calories, and, like the orange, is a body regulator, containing in a bulkier and more generally "roughage" character a greater amount of cellulose.

This year quinces have been fairly abundant, and they are excellent sugar savers if put up. Of course with them one must have sugar, and that is hard to get. But if the housewife can squeeze a little from her allowance from the grocer, she would do well to preserve a little of this excellent fruit. It will take the place of sugar when "sugarless" Christmas arrives.
The apple is such an excellent article that I cannot refrain from coming back to it. They are not so expensive now and they make an excellent dessert, either for dinner or for luncheon. Cooked as a breakfast dish they require less sugar than preserved fruits or prunes or cereals. As for a heavier dessert bananas and cream are excellent, or grapes with cream of the richest, as a light dessert. How to Keep Oiled Paper. I have discovered a simple and satisfactory way of handling oiled paper. I unroll the sheets and fasten one end of all of them into a skirt-hanger with felt grips and hang it on a nail on one side of the cupboard. When I want a sheet, instead of the old way of unrolling all the sheets to get one, I simply slip one out of the skirt-hanger.—Mrs. F. C. Minn.

Rice and Peanut Butter, a New Combination.—Boil one-half cupful of rice until tender, to boiling salted water. Pour over it one pint of this white sauce, to which one-half cupful of peanut butter has been added. We will find this a tasty combination.—E. W. Wash.

Baconed Macaroni and Cheese.—Our family enjoys baked macaroni with cheese much better when strips of raw bacon are placed over the top of the dish just before putting it in the oven.—H. L. Mass.

New Use for Gem Pens.—Grease your gem pens and use them when baking apples, green peppers, tomatoes, etc. It keeps these fruits and vegetables to much better shape, and they look more appetizing when served.—M. C. L. Mich.

To Drop the Cookies Easily.—When making cookies or drop cakes, try using a teaspoon. Dip it in hot oil, and press each time before putting in the mixture and the dough will slide from the spoon without the aid of a knife or other spoon to push it.—W. M. Me.

To Remove Paper from Dates.—Take off the cardboard wrapping and place the package of dates in a warm oven for a few minutes. The paper comes off like magic, and the dates are softened just enough to come apart and stone easily, without being at all sticky.—Mrs. E. O. S. Colo.

Fruits and vegetables from your garden, which have been stored in boxes, baskets, barrels and bins, could be sorted over to remove decayed specimens which may infect the rest.

FRANKLIN AT HEAD OF LIST

His Book, "Way of Wealth," Has Had More Reprints Than the Work of Any Other Author.

Greely's advice, "Young man, go West," is changed by A. Edward Newton to this:
"Young man, get a hobby; preferably get two, one for indoors and one for out."
Riding a hobby differs from riding a horse, said the wise lunatic, in that you can get off the horse.
Anyhow, Mr. Newton takes his own medicine, and for some 30 years he has ridden a hobby all over the continents in search of rare books. Girard writes in Philadelphia Press.
He's a collector, he is, and his home contains an immense and highly valuable library.

"What is the prize book in the whole world?" I asked him.

"The Gutenberg Bible," said he, "for which Henry E. Huntington paid $50,000."

This son of the old Southern Pacific railroad builder has what Mr. Newton deems easily the greatest private library on earth. He thinks it possible to write a book about book collecting which would interest the rank outsider who does not know a first folio from a side of sole leather, but Mr. Newton, whose style is delightfully whimsical, has succeeded in doing it.

A copy of Ben Franklin's "Cato Major" was found in a Chester county garret not long ago and was afterward sold for $300, so Mr. Newton reports.

Of all the books and pamphlets Franklin turned out in his Philadelphia press, that one, said the famous printer, was his best job typographically.

Franklin did so many things first that folks rarely remember that he also printed the first translation of a Greek classic that was issued in America.

No one has yet matched the old sage in another respect—400 reprints of a single work. Franklin's "Way of Wealth" has passed that number.

There are 400 editions of it printed in England, 55 in France, 11 in Germany and 8 in Italy.

It has been translated in Russian and Chinese.

All other best sellers have been back of the map by that unique output of the Boston lad who some one wittily said "was born in Philadelphia at the age of seventeen."

EIGHT CHILDREN HAD CROUP.
"I have eight children and give Foley's Honey and Tar to all of them," writes Mrs. P. Bahlkamp, 2044 Herman St., Covington, Ky., "they all were subject to croup."

"It loosens mucus and phlegm, stops that strangling cough, makes easy breathing possible and permits quiet sleep. Contains no opiates, Children like it. Sold Everywhere."

"What's this?" said Elsie's mother, as the child handed her a familiar looking quart box.

"That's what you sent me to the drug store for, wasn't it?"

"I said cold cream, child."

"Well, that's the coldest I could get, mamma."

CUT THIS OUT—IT IS WORTH MONEY.

DON'T MISS THIS. Cut out this slip, enclose with 5c to Foley & Co., 2855 Sheffield Avenue, Chicago, Ill., writing your name and address in plain ink. You will receive in return a trial package containing Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, for coughs, colds and croup. Write: Kidney Pills and Foley Cathartic Tablets. Sold Everywhere.

During a brawl in a Chicago resort an Irish girl poked her eye with a stick, and he immediately started proceedings against the offender.

"Come now," said the magistrate, "you don't really believe he meant to put your eye out?"

"No, I don't," said the Celt, "but I do believe he tried to put it farther in."

GIVES PERMISSION TO USE NAME.
Eugene Palmer, Lawrence, Mass., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar relieved me of a cough from which I suffered for weeks. You have my full permission to use my name in any advertisement for Foley's Honey and Tar checks colds, cuts the phlegm, soothes inflamed membranes, clears breathing passages. Sold Everywhere."

"It's a mighty good thing," said Uncle Eben, "dat de Ten Commandments were handed down direct, instead of being 'biked to go through de hands of a lot of committees.'"

MINISTER WANTS TO HELP.
It is only natural that one who has been relieved from suffering should feel grateful and wish to help others. Rev. W. M. Swindole, 518 Elm St., Macon, Ga., writes: "My kidneys gave me much trouble before I took Foley Kidney Pills. I am now able to do a word for Foley Kidney Pills." Sold Everywhere.

Mrs. Thriceodd-Well, Elsie, how do you like your new papa?

Elsie—Oh, mamma, do go on marrying men like that; he's given me a whole dollar.

WAS RESTLESS WITH PAIN.
E. W. Kitt, R. F. D. 2, Shorter, Ala., writes: "I took Foley Kidney Pills as I was restless at night with pains in my back and side, and they did me good. I can truthfully say Foley Kidney Pills is the medicine for kidney trouble." They relieve rheumatic pains, stiff, swollen joints, lameness, soreness. Sold Everywhere.

MAID—If he has proposed, why don't you accept him?
Mabel—I can't make up my mind whether I would like him when I got him home.

WINTER WEATHER AND HEAVY FOODS.
Extra work put on digestive organs in cold weather leads to indigestion, biliousness, bad breath, bloating, gas, constipation. Foley Cathartic Tablets cleanse the bowels, sweeten the stomach and benefit the liver. I got relief from constipation, stomach troubles, and griping pains. Stomach persons like the light, free feeling they bring. Sold Everywhere.

DON'T BE MISLED.
Kidney trouble is dangerous and often fatal. Don't experiment with something new and untried. Use a tested kidney remedy. Begin with Doan's Kidney Pills. Used in kidney troubles 50 years. Recommended here and everywhere. A South Paris citizen's statement forms convincing proof. It's local testimony—it can be investigated.

Ask Any Doughboy Who Was "Over There" and he will tell you that American railroads are the best in the world.

He saw the foreign roads—in England and France, the best in Europe—and in other Continental countries—and he knows.

The part railroads have played in the development of the United States is beyond measure. American railroads have achieved high standards of public service by far-sighted and courageous investment of capital, and by the constant striving of managers and men for rewards for work well done.

We have the best railroads in the world—we must continue to have the best.

But they must grow.

To the $20,000,000,000 now invested in our railroads, there will have to be added in the next few years, to keep pace with the nation's business, billions more for additional tracks, stations and terminals, cars and engines, electric power houses and trains, automatic signals, safety devices, the elimination of grade crossings—and for reconstruction and engineering economies that will reduce the cost of transportation.

To attract to the railroads in the future the investment funds of many thrifty citizens, the directing genius of the most capable builders and managers, and the skill and loyalty of the best workmen—in competition with other industries bidding for capital, managers and men—the railroad industry must hold out fair rewards to capital, to managers and to the men.

American railroads will continue to set world standard and adequately serve the Nation's needs if they continue to be built and operated on the American principle of rewards for work well done.
