Parish Hill.
Services at Parish Hill Baptist church every Sunday at 10:30. Sunday school at 11. Sunday evening service at 7:30. Thursday evening prayer meeting at 7:30 o'clock.
The Sunshine Club met with Mrs. Thyrta Dudley on Jan. 29. There were seventeen members, three guests and five children present. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Abbie Abbott on Wednesday, the 11th, instead of Thursday.
Archibuteo is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Cole. Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Thyrta visited her son at the Central Maine General Hospital in Lewiston Saturday.
Mrs. Edward T. Brown went to Boston last Thursday for a visit of a week or two.
Notwithstanding the condition of the roads, quite a number of the Parish Hill School students, who reside in this village attended the fair given by the school at South Paris Friday evening and reported a very successful occasion.
Those reported on the sick list last week are Mrs. Henry D. Hammond, Charles H. Hammond, Miss Marian Hammon, Glenn Ross and Edward Carlson. All are reported improving at this time. Mrs. Abbott is recovering from the death of her son, Mrs. Emily Burke at Palo Alto, California, on January 21st. Mrs. Burke has spent several weeks at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Stella M. Lunt. Owing to the infirmity of advancing years, Mrs. Burke has been unable to mingle with the summer crowd here, but she and her daughter had the pleasure of her acquaintance found in her lady of culture and refinement whom it was a pleasure to meet.
Thursday afternoon and night gave us, in common with the rest of the north-eastern section of the county, the most violent storm of the winter. The country roads were piled deep with snow and the accompanying northeast gale did its worst of piling up some sizable drifts. Friday morning the most common mode of locomotion was with the aid of snowshoes or skis. Friday night the storm turned to rain and formed a hard crust which made the roads very difficult to travel and caused some of the young people, and some who are not so young, for sliding, snow-shoeing, etc.

On Thursday evening of this week at Academy Hall you have the opportunity of hearing the famous Swane River Quartette, the finest musical organization of its kind in America. When these "colored boys" step up in front of you to begin to harmonize, it will carry you back to old Virginia and you won't be able to make your feet behave. Besides singing, the quartette introduces piano, guitar and mandolin, a reader, the famous Swane River piano harp, the only one of its kind in the world, and Mr. John Gantt as solo singer. The quartette is under the management of the White Entertainment Bureau of Boston, is making a great "hit" wherever it appears. The talent is paid by a friend of the Oxford Democrat, Sixteen cents will be charged to pay local expenses. Come and bring the whole family. If the roads are not good the snow-shoeing will be, so come anyway.

Bryant's Pond.
Mrs. Anna (Russell) Billings passed away at her home in the Chase district on Friday evening, Jan. 30th, aged about 71. Through weeks of constant suffering, dating back to the early fall, she had been tenderly cared for by her daughter, Mrs. L. B. Billings. She was a lady highly esteemed among her associates in the community where she had passed so many years. Her husband, Mr. L. B. Billings, died in 1905. Of their children, three survive, Mrs. Lela Brown of Oxford, Herman E. Billings and Benjamin R. Billings of Woodstock. The funeral service was held on the following Monday afternoon at the Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Chester Gore Miller of South Paris.

Maine Notes.
The adjutant general of Maine has just completed compiling all available information concerning every registrant in Maine of every classification. The list comprises nearly 200,000 names and contains the military information of each. At the close of the war Provost Marshal General Crowder ordered the records of all the states packed up and sent to him at Washington. After a while, the adjutant general succeeded in having the classification lists and original registration cards sent to him, from which the present list is compiled.

The time for filing petitions for a referendum on the revenue passed at the special session of the legislature in November has expired. The revenue bill, which was passed by the legislature, is now before the federal constitution granting women the right to vote expired at midnight Friday, and there were no names filed. Shortly after the adjutant general of the session, persons interested in the anti-suffrage movement circulated petitions asking for a referendum on the question if it should be decided that the states should go direct to the people on the proposition of giving women the right to vote, but the supreme court declared there could be no referendum on the revenue passed by the legislature. As the question now stands in this state, the legislature has ratified the amendment to the constitution of the United States giving full suffrage to women. In September the voters will pass on the legislation giving women of the state the right to vote for presidential electors in November.

Oxford County Notes.
Mrs. Mary Hastings, widow of Major D. R. Hastings of Oxford, passed her ninety-second birthday, January 30th.
Captain Le Maitre, of the French army, who was liaison officer of the Yankee Division, of which the 108th Regiment formed a part, was in Rumford last week and lectured there Thursday evening. He spoke good English and was an interesting lecturer. He entered the army at the beginning of the war as a Second Lieutenant, was promoted twice, wounded four times and decorated five times. He is studying in Boston at the present time.

West Paris.
Corporal William A. Swan died Monday night, Feb. 2, at St. Mary's Hospital, Lewiston, from diabetes, which he had been ill for several months. He went to the hospital in the morning of the day of his death. He was the son of Osgood J. Swan and the late Mary A. (Pearl) Swan and was born Aug. 1, 1890. His parents came to West Paris about twelve years ago. At the time of his enlistment he was employed in L. M. Hammon's shoe factory, and after his return from war he worked in his factory as long as health permitted.
Corporal Swan enlisted May 7, 1917, in Co. D, Second Maine Regiment, which afterwards became the 108th Infantry. He was stationed at Saco for a time, but transferred to the company at Augusta and Westfield, Mass., and after that to Hoboken in September, 1917. He was in the St. Agunt attack May 10, 1918, the Aisne-Marne battle July 17-26, 1918. He was killed Sept. 12, 1918, near Marcellinville, Sept. 25-26, 1918, Verdun sector Oct. 20-Nov. 11, 1918. Entered service as a private and was promoted to corporal.

March 28, 1919, landed in Boston April 5, Discharged April 28, 1919, at Camp Devens. He was in five battles and went over the top twelve times. He was brought to the home of his aunt, Miss Ella Shepley, where he had lived since his illness, and the funeral was held at the Methodist church. Rev. H. A. Markley and Rev. H. H. Hathaway officiated. The bearers were from the American Legion of South Paris and other comrades in uniform attended in a body. The white casket was draped in the American flag. There was a large quantity of exquisite flowers. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends and relatives, and as he was familiarly called, was a general favorite in the village, and all were anxious to show their reverence for one who had so gallantly served his country. A poem written by Fannie Waterhouse was read by Rev. H. A. Markley. Besides his father he is survived by two brothers, Harry and Walter Swan.

Local Fact and Fancy.
Although national prohibition has become a fact, there seem to be difficulties in the way of enforcement. This has a local aspect, because the town of Maine and the County of Oxford, where such things have been known for "so many years," but it has been left to Chicago to create a new phase in the history of the nation. Bethel.
Those attending Pomona at Bryant's Pond from Bethel last Tuesday were Mr. and Mrs. Levi Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mason, Zenas Merrill, Mrs. Gertrude Brown, Mrs. Fred Philbrook, Mrs. Mae Godwin, Mrs. Irving French, and Mrs. and Mrs. Lyman. The W. C. T. U. met with Mrs. Ira Jordan Tuesday afternoon. An interesting program was carried out, after which Mrs. Harry Jordan presented a tract, and after that something good had been touched on.

Dr. Collins-Carter of New York is the guest of his son, Phil. N. Carter, who is boarding at Maple Inn. H. W. Boyker is to occupy Mr. Bingham's house for the remainder of the winter. Mrs. Levi Barker is leaving for New York last week. Mr. Boyker has gone to Santa Barbara, Calif., for the rest of the winter. Miss Maria Poole went with her mother for a short time to the house of her father, Mr. L. B. Billings. We are glad that Mrs. Abbie Carver is so far recovered that she has been able to nurse, who has been caring for her.

Hebron.
With weather so favorable that it seemed specially made for the occasion, the Seniors of Hebron Academy enjoyed their annual ride to Poland Springs on Tuesday. The usual excellent dinner, games, dances and after-dinner speech were the order of the day. Mildred Richmond was toastmaster. The chaplains were Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Sargent, Prof. A. L. Field and Miss Mabelle Butler. The Senior Class held their annual banquet at Sturtevant Home on Friday evening.

Albany.
Friday morning there was plenty of snow. It snowed hard Thursday afternoon and all night. The last was much like the gravel, the first light. Looks as though it could not blow a wind come up. It will bank up the buildings and even the water pipes. It will also keep out some of the cold. The road breakers are starting out, guess the rolling will be hard. Andrew Eastman was on the Greenwood road taking the snow Thursday. Bonnie O'Leary, an old man of about two years, drove from Dixfield Thursday, took dinner at Locke's Mills, then came to S. G. Dean's. It snowed hard when he got up at the station at Leoben Nasson's house. He is younger looking than men many years younger.

Byron.
Dr. Taylor went to Mexico with a span of horses on business last week. The snow that came last week has given pretty good sledding, and logging all along the line seems to be quite good. C. W. Richards was in town recently on business. He has teams. Mrs. Kate Thomas died on Sunday. Her husband was on business several weeks. Funeral on Wednesday, the 4th. E. G. Knapp and Robert Whyte, bondsmen for E. E. Poland, are going to Paris to attend his trial there during the term of court now in session for the shooting of Thersan at the lake last fall.

Northwest Albany.
George Miller visited friends in Lovell over the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Myron Morrill of Mason called at Lela Miller, Sunday. P. E. Rolfe was up to see his folks, who are in feeble health this winter. Mrs. Geo. Rolfe of West Bethel Flat visited her sister, Mrs. W. W. Rolfe, Sunday. Chas. Rolfe is on the sick list. Very cold weather the last of January.

Blackfield.
Very little to report this week except snow. Roads are very hard to travel. Rural mail was on a very bad trip. Milk teams not able to make their trips. Considerable sickness is reported. Mrs. E. H. Nix, Luther Ingraham, C. T. Whelan and E. T. Wagon have all been quite ill during the week. The dance to have been held Friday evening by the American Legion post was called off on account of the traveling.

West Paris.
L. K. Lovejoy has just sold a pair of oxen for five hundred dollars. The price tells the story the kind of oxen they were. Shirley Widner has his pulp and wood job. Frank Barrett is hauling wood and timber for O. O. Tracy. E. E. Ratson is sawing birch for Bruce Chase. Manley Farrar is hauling white birch to Dixfield.

Persons living on the roads between South Paris and West Paris have been asked to decide whether they will have their cars towed to the nearest garage or whether they will have them towed to the nearest garage. The town of Maine and the County of Oxford, where such things have been known for "so many years," but it has been left to Chicago to create a new phase in the history of the nation.

What is Profiteering?
Editor Democrat: We read in the newspapers frequently of prosecutions for profiteering. The reason given is always selling above the normal or usual price—unreasonable, and in many cases, a violation of the law. Apply this test to the concrete case mentioned in a former Democrat. We find nothing of the kind in the case of the dealer in the village of Oxford. This was a light weight suit, presumably for spring, summer and fall trade. I am informed dealers in ready-made clothing make a profit of 10 to 15 percent on their goods. This is a fair profit for a dealer in a small town. The dealer in the village of Oxford is a fair dealer. He is not a profiteer.

There is a large range of all dainties materials. I believe our charming, nuns and crepe de chine to be unrivaled, sir. A little mad underfoot today, sir, but warmer—much warmer. Yes, sir! Thank you, sir! Good day, sir! And Sergt. Steel (D. C. M. and four chevrons) bowed me into the street.

Huns Have a Town Crier.
The officers of the regiment have nothing on the burgomaster of Polch when it comes to having a striker. The only difference is that the crier, being a stranger, is not a member of the town. The town of Polch is a small town, and the crier is a stranger. The town of Polch is a small town, and the crier is a stranger.

At one of the Canadian army camps there was a cowboy wedding fairly and enough cowboy gear—radiator shirts and neckwear with the inevitable sheepskin "trews," not to mention the six-shooters—could be found to rig out an accompanying band which would have disgraced the Wild West. After the ceremony the cowboys, who were all suitably mounted on untamable bucking mustangs and bronchos, gave vent to fearsome yells, and wildly escorted the happy pair to the noisier wedding on record.

Goldenrod Maligned.
A protest has recently been raised against the time-honored project of adopting the Goldenrod Prevention association, in defense of the goldenrod. It is asserted that while the pollen of the goldenrod may cause trouble when applied directly to the nostrils or used in large quantities for room decoration, as a cause of hay fever it is one of our most beautiful flowers. Says Doctor Scheppergel, "and well merits its selection as the national flower of the United States."—Scientific American.

ON DUTY, AS EVER
Ex-Sergeant Merely in Another Line of Trenches.
In Fact, One-Time Commander Thought Him More Valuable in Civil Life Than During the Hot Days in France.

At breakfast that morning, says a contributor to London Punch, Joyce had announced firmly that if I really loved her I would take me the pattern up to town with me and "see what I could do." What she failed to realize was that, if I ventured alone into the midst of so intimately feminine a world as Bibby & Renner for the purpose of matching stuff called pink georgette, I should become virtually incapable of doing anything at all. The whole nerve-racking business was that he found me as soon as he did.

"Good afternoon, sir," he said in a most ingratiating voice. "What can we have the pleasure of showing you, sir?" He was tall and handsome, with a perfectly waxed mustache and a faultless frock coat. He bowed before me with a solicitous curve to his broad shoulders, and the way he massaged one hand with the other had a highly soothing effect.

"Pink georgette, sir? Certainly, sir." To my inexpressible relief, he seemed to consider it the most likely in the world. "Miss Robinson?" he called; "pink georgette." With a polite wave of the hand, he motioned me toward the lady. He hovered about while I opened the bit of tissue paper containing the pattern, and murmured my thanks to Miss Robinson. His very presence gave me confidence.

When it was all over, he came up and led me away. As we emerged into the stronger light near the door I peered at him closely. Then I touched him on the arm and beckoned him behind a couple of Paris models. I took hold of his hand and wrung it fervently. "Serge, Steel," I said, "you always did have the knack of being in the right spot at the right moment. I have not set eyes on you since that hot day in 1916, when you brought up the remnants of 14 platoon and pulled me out of that tight corner at Guillemont. That was a valuable bit of work, sergeant, but nothing to this—simply nothing!"

The solicitous curve had straightened from his broad shoulders. His hands had ceased their soothing massage. His heels were together, his arms glued to his sides, his eyes glaring at a fixed point directly over the top of my head. "I thought you was, sir, as soon as I saw you. But of course I was going to see anything but you did." It was not the ingratiating voice now, but that rasping half-whisper he always used for nocturnal conferences in the front line. "Never heard anything of you, sir, since you went down with a slightly after pneumonia. But your pardon, sir, but you looked a bit windy as you came in just now, so I thought I'd keep in just now... Yes, sir, got my ticket last month—only been back on my old job a fortnight."

I tapped the parcel that Miss Robinson's own fair hands had made up for me. "This is a good issue, sergeant?" I asked. "Sound, reliable, and all that?" "Couldn't be better, sir. I had my eye on her. We only drew it ourselves lately. That's the stuff to give 'em—perfect, perfect, perfect. But your blinding, lovely... those art shades are to be very fashionable this season, I assure you, sir." Imperceptibly his hands had resumed their message, the solicitous curve had returned to his broad shoulders, his voice was the large range of all dainties materials. I believe our charming, nuns and crepe de chine to be unrivaled, sir. A little mad underfoot today, sir, but warmer—much warmer. Yes, sir! Thank you, sir! Good day, sir!

Nealy Wedding.
At one of the Canadian army camps there was a cowboy wedding fairly and enough cowboy gear—radiator shirts and neckwear with the inevitable sheepskin "trews," not to mention the six-shooters—could be found to rig out an accompanying band which would have disgraced the Wild West. After the ceremony the cowboys, who were all suitably mounted on untamable bucking mustangs and bronchos, gave vent to fearsome yells, and wildly escorted the happy pair to the noisier wedding on record.

NEEDED IN BUSINESS WORLD
Urgent Reasons for Transplanting Returned Soldiers From Army to Civil Life Without Delay.

Your cosmopolitan doughboy who has shaken hands with the king of England, danced with the princess of Rumania, learned the slang of a dozen nations and cocked a knowing eye at all the choicest sights of the Continent, may sound extremely sophisticated, but wait until he is back in the States and see what a furrin travel has done for him! It has made him love, not Europe less, but home more, and he hardly tries to conceal his grand passion under a poker face, either. For he has been homesick and weary for months, and the Goddess of Liberty looks like an angel, and New York harbor like heaven, to his fond eyes.

As a national asset, then, the soldier is perhaps our best citizen, and because the A. E. F. as a whole is rapidly enthusiastic about its homeland and her interests, America may look to her soldiers for real inspiration in citizenship. These are the men to put into our business life as rapidly as they can be transplanted from army to civil jobs.

To make the transposition more simple and effective, the war department through Col. Arthur Woods, assistant to the secretary of war, has set up the wheels of a great machine, which is working night and day to co-operate with all employment agencies for the sake of the returned soldier who has no job. But more than that, this great employment system operates for the good of America. Colonel Woods carved in the form of a cross, giving special significance to the order, to which Nurse Cavell belonged. Another huge block of granite near by has a big lion carved on it, with head erect and mane bristling. Trampled beneath its feet is a serpent, writhing, but defeated. The total weight of the memorial, when finished, will be about 170 tons, with a height of about 40 feet. The group probably will be erected near the British National gallery.

Tasting With the Nose.
The sensation of taste, while of common and constant experience, is highly complicated in its nature. What is commonly called taste is not a simple sensation at all, but rather a complex. In addition to the actual functioning of the apparatus properly pertaining to the sense of taste, the tongue reserves an impression of various other sorts, all of which go to make up this complex. As finally recorded in the consciousness, the taste of any substance has to do with its heat or coolness, perhaps with a mild amount of pain, certainly with stringency or acidity—which are in themselves further complexes of thermic and tactile sensations—and above all with smell. The reader will probably agree that ice cream and coffee are entirely different from their true selves when served at inappropriate temperatures; and it is a matter of common experience that the keenest taste may make the most ludicrous errors if asked, blindfolded and with his nose stopped to identify substances placed in his mouth.

Famed Rest of Nod Men.
The Diamond bar, famous for nearly 50 years as a part of the old Auzerais house, of San Jose, Cal., is being fitted up for a new and more comfortable place for the Auzerais house, on West Santa Clara street, housed five presidents of the United States and was for a time the abode of a king. It was built in 1863, according to John E. Auzerais of San Jose, and the barroom was the meeting place for the men whose names have been written into the history of California.

Fresh-Air Flend.
Katie wanted very much to go outside the yard, which was inclosed with a wire fence and gate. By and by she ran into the house and said: "Oh, mother, if I cannot go outside, can't I just leave the gate open to let in a little fresh air?"

BE CAREFUL AFTER FEVER, COLD OR GRIP
Many Fatal Cases of Kidney Trouble Can Be Traced to Such Infectious Disease.

Cold, fever and infectious disease often leave the kidneys weak. So little attention is given to the condition of the kidneys during recovery from the original trouble that a severe attack of kidney disease often follows. Here's how it happens. The kidneys are worked hard enough in healthy times. They have to filter the blood. In any germ disease the blood is loaded with extra poisons made by the disease germs. This overwork tends to weaken the kidneys. After colds, grip, scarlet fever, typhoid, measles, pneumonia, diphtheria, tonsillitis or chicken pox, watch for backache and urinary disorders, and promptly use Doan's Kidney Pills. South Paris people have found Doan's Kidney Pills made by the Doan Bros. & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Food Drafts
The American Relief Administration has established war houses filled with staple foodstuffs, in certain European cities where food conditions are most acute. The food available in Central Europe is insufficient to keep the population alive, and under these circumstances money becomes as much paper, as far as nutrition is concerned. A hungry person wants food, not money, and by means of these Food Drafts needs can be cared for. This Bank is prepared to sell orders on these warehouses, in the form of Food Drafts, which can be forwarded to friends, relatives or any other person in Europe.
