The Rights of One Stockholder.
More importance than appears on the surface may attach to a case heard in Portland recently by Justice Haley, from whose decision an appeal has been taken to the law court.

A man holding one share of stock in a large power company organized under the Maine law, but doing business in a western state, applied to the clerk of the corporation in Portland for permission to copy certain portions of the records of the company. This was refused. He thereupon petitioned the court for the writ of mandamus to compel the clerk to allow such copying of the records. After a hearing Judge Haley granted the petition, and an appeal was taken. The case is somewhat colored by the fact that the petitioner is an investment broker, and that what he wanted was to get a list of the stockholders, possibly for his personal use in soliciting business from them, though that was not his ostensible purpose. But this is a question of motive, and whether true or not, can hardly affect his rights as a stockholder, even though he owns but one share.

It may not at first glance appear that there is any particular importance to this matter, yet it involves the question whether a stockholder has any rights that the officers who manage the corporation are bound to respect. Not so very many of us, to be sure, are in the stockholding list, yet business is getting more and more into corporations all the time, and the stock of at least some of the larger corporations is being distributed among a constantly increasing number of small holders.

It is well understood that a few men holding the offices of a corporation, even though they may own much less than a majority of the stock, are able to control its affairs absolutely, without regard to the interests of the other stockholders, and the big business of the country, as far as its management is concerned, is concentrated in the hands of a comparatively few men. Whether this concentration of control is a good thing or not may be debatable, but it is a fact.

A stockholder in a stockholders' meeting has little more function than voting for a board of directors, generally on a slate already made up; indeed, even the small stockholder is an unwelcome guest. A man who had secured a small block of Standard Oil stock a few years since went into a stockholders' meeting, after some difficulty in locating it (the meeting was in New Jersey, not at 20 Broadway) and was well aware that his presence caused embarrassment to the managers. In the stockholders' meeting of another mammoth corporation only recently a stockholder not connected with the management—not a small stockholder, but a man of large wealth who owned a considerable block of stock—ventured the suggestion that the corporation investigate the conditions of labor in its numerous plants, and the suggestion, though eventually acted upon, was received by the management with the concern with unbecoming annoyance, as something that the man had no business to make.

As an illustration of the concentration of control of the records, it is a fact that the records of one of the largest of the corporations are, in fact, kept in a massive double-locked volume, two of the officials having the separate keys, so that not even the directors could inspect the records except in the presence of these two men.

In the case cited, Judge Haley decides that any stockholder has the right to inspect the records of the corporation, and to make copies of such parts of them as concern his interests as a stockholder, the right of the stockholder being one of those parts. If the full court so construes the law as to reverse Judge Haley's decision, it will indicate that the process of concentration of control of capital is materially aided by the organization of Maine corporations, and that any stockholder who is not a director or officer of the corporation should expect little consideration.

Death of Judge Foster.
After an illness of several months, Hon. Enoch Foster died at his home in Portland on Saturday. Judge Foster was for a long time one of the distinguished residents of Oxford County, in which most of his life was spent. He was born in Newry May 10, 1838, and in early life became a resident of Bethel, which was his home until his removal to Portland only a few years since. In 1860 he entered the Maine College, but later served in the Thirteenth Maine Regiment as second lieutenant, and was promoted to first lieutenant. He served three years with the regiment, which was in the Department of the Gulf, and participated in Butler's expedition in the capture of New Orleans and under Gen. Banks in the Red River expedition. Returning to Maine he graduated from Bowdoin College in 1864, and then studied law in the office of his relative, Reuben G. Foster of Waterville, attended the Albany Law School, and was admitted to the bar in 1865.

He was county attorney of Oxford County from 1865 to 1874, state senator in 1874 and 1875, and Justice of the Maine Supreme Judicial Court from 1884 to 1886. After leaving the bench he removed from Bethel to Portland and opened a law office there, having for a time as his partner Oscar H. Hersey, and later and up to the time of his death his son, Robert C. Foster.

East Sumner.
At this writing the fields and pastures look greener than last June. But 62 years ago at this date it was good sledding, and 8 inches of damp snow lay on Nov. 10. The date is remembered as the family of Rev. B. G. Willey moved into Sumner from Conway, N. H., on that day. Mr. Willey was a brother to the Willey family with his family of seven persons perished by an avalanche in Crawford Notch in 1826. We have no record of the date of the great slide through the Notch. The location of the Willey house is plainly discernible just before reaching the Crawford Falls by rail.
We have received local post cards from Mrs. Linnie Packard from Detroit, Chicago and Kansas City, while she was en route to Los Angeles.
Mrs. Lucy Campbell, who visited at East Sumner last May, has completed her fifteenth trip across the continent, and is now in Los Angeles. Probably her next trip East may be via the Panama Canal.
A son was born last week to Mr. and Mrs. O. Wagner.
We hear that Mr. R. Fogg, Lauren Keene and Allen Irish contemplate spending the winter in Florida.
James G. Gammon, it is said, will make his lumbering quarters at Hartford instead of East Sumner this winter.

Greenwood.
Our young cart attended Mrs. Hayes' auction Saturday, and brought home several small articles, one being a harp—no David's harp of solemn sound, but a fine musical instrument; and already the children can play a part of several tunes so it is to be understood what they are trying to grind out.
Sunday gave us the downpour of the season, so that the next day a crew turned out and repaired the roads so as to make them passable, but "only that and nothing more."
Tuesday we took a walk through the neighborhood, calling first on Ernest Brooks' family, and found them apparently contented and happy in their new home. The next was on the family of Lewis Libby, to see their eight weeks' old baby; and it is seldom one sees a prettier little kid than he is. They have had three sons born to them, the last the second, and it is hoped they may be more fortunate with this one.
Those who had not sold their apples last week had at last, and are packing them for shipping; price 25 cents less per barrel than formerly.
And now the news comes that Will Swan has shot a deer, it being the first one, although he has been after them nearly every fall since he was old enough to carry a gun.
Winfield Emmons has just left here after a three days' visit, spending much of the time in hunting big game; but was for a long time one of the best hunters in the county, and it is a failure as many others have done.

The widow Abbie Hayes sold her goods at auction one week ago, as before mentioned, and next Saturday will start for Florida, together with eight or ten others, with a view to settling there for good, if it can be arranged.
And now that fatal disease, a sort of hemorrhage of the throat, has attacked the pigs, one having died of it yesterday and another today. Perhaps the approach of Thanksgiving Day has something to do with the fatality.

East Bethel.
Z. W. Bartlett visited Oxford on business the first of the week.
Gene Rayford has moved to the Abbott farm, recently purchased.
Mrs. S. E. Rich is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bean.
Mrs. W. C. Howe of Waltham, Mass., visited relatives here last week.
Mrs. H. E. Bartlett is visiting relatives in Cambridge and Lowell, Mass., and attended the National Grange in session at Manchester.
A. M. Bean has returned from a hunting trip with bears, brown, black and white.
Wallace Farwell is working for Porter Farwell.
Russell L. Swan is visiting in Lynn and Worcester, Mass., and attended the National Grange in session in Manchester, N. H.

West Lovell.
Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Lord have spent the past week with their daughters, Mrs. Corne Fox.
W. S. Fox has been at home suffering from rheumatism.
Mrs. M. A. LeBaron and Mrs. Kate Williams are attending the National Grange at Manchester, N. H.
Mr. O. E. Andrews picked apples at Z. M. Allister's and at W. H. Smith's and A. O. Wiley's in Stow last week.
Mrs. Joan McAllister remains about the same, not able to sit up.

Bethel.
The heavy rains of Sunday caused a freshet along the Androscoggin at Bethel, but the water lowered last during the day, and all roads became passable along the intervals in the afternoon.
Miss Marion Mansfield was organist at the Congregational church Sunday and will fill the position when Miss Mildred Haggood has filled so faithfully for the past three years. The best of wishes will follow Miss Haggood to her new home in Auburn, where she is to reside. Miss Haggood will be married to Mr. Harry Lyon Saturday, and a host of friends regret that she is to leave Bethel and wish her joy and happiness.
Percy Farnum was the guest of Winfield Wright at Brunswick Saturday and Sunday. He went to attend the Bowdoin-Maine football game.

A very interesting meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association was held at Gould Academy with Prof. Hanson as leader. The topic was Social Purity. It was one of the most interesting and helpful meetings of the year.
The Young Women's Christian Association is planning to make comfort bags for the Seamen's Friend Society.
It was with regret that Bethel people learned of the death of the eminent surgeon, Dr. Charles McBurney of New York. Dr. McBurney spent some months at Dr. Gehring's in 1908.
Hollis Colledge, who met with a severe accident by falling from the staging of the recent last fall, has recovered, and Henry Austin and family have moved into the house Mr. Austin purchased recently.
The red, white and blue supper and sale under the auspices of the W. R. C. was a success.
Nov. 20th the ladies of the Universalist society will serve their annual chicken pie supper.

Wednesday, Nov. 19, Miss Sanderson of the Colby T. Lyman will talk to the W. Y. C. A. of Gould Academy. Not only members but their friends are invited to attend.
Mrs. Elmer Allen is entertaining her parents from Cumberland.

West Bethel.
"They all take wing,
Every beautiful thing,
Leaving but half understood
The things that were left behind."
Whether they wander betimes,
Birds of the forest and the heights,
Priests of the more and the day,
Folks of the more and the day,
Shelter of home and of rest,
Linger and wander and fall—
All but my love for the last
Hastened the stay all too brief;
All but my love for the last
Hastened the stay all too brief.

O FUDGE
There is but one real Fudge in South Paris, because there is but one that comes to you just as it comes from the confectionery kitchen.
Others lose their value by being exposed to the air, absorbing moisture, and collecting dust.
The real Fudge is the Fudge that we make. It's made fresh, and kept clean, free from dust by our protecting glass cases. Special
Monday and Saturday
14c. Per Pound
This price is for pound boxes only, smaller quantities at regular prices.

Ground Gripper Boots
We have been selling this line of boots for both men and women for more than two years, and our sales have increased constantly during this time. They are good for everyone to wear who wants comfort and satisfaction, but they are especially good for people who are suffering with flat feet, broken arches and other foot troubles. We have scores of customers who have been greatly benefited by wearing them. It can be truly said of them that when GROUND GRIPPERS go on, foot troubles go off.
We have a good stock on hand constantly for men and women. The price is $5.00, and they are as good or better than many so called medical shoes that cost a dollar or two more. Do not be deceived, take nothing but the real GROUND GRIPPER, they are imitated but never duplicated.
We are the only agents in this part of the state.
