SUCCESSFUL LIVING WHIST.

Rockland Enjoys a Presentation of This Popular Game.

The Hall Beautifully Decorated—A Large and Brilliant Assemblage—The Grand March—The Game Itself and Some of the Dances.

The fourth in the series of events given in behalf of the Public Library fund was "Living Whist" given with great success in Fawcett Opera House, Tuesday evening. There was a very large audience present. The guests at Bay Point responded liberally, and occupied an entire section beneath the northern gallery, while Thomaston, Rockport and Camden sent large delegations.

THE HALL DECORATIONS.
Were very pretty. The gallery front was covered with white cheese cloth, over which was fastened in graceful folds a delicate shade of pink of the same material, caught up at frequent intervals by sprays of dark green spruce. From the centre of the hall ceiling heavy streamers of pink and white fell to the corners and sides of the hall. The stage front was also brightened with pink and white, set off at the top with a wide strip of evergreen. The orchestra rail was touched up with white cloth and green sprays. At the corners of the stage on the floor stood ice wells decorated with pink and white, where cooling draughts were dispensed. The lions supporting the galleries were also draped in the prevailing colors.

At 8:30 Ned May and his efficient corps of ushers had seated the audience, and Messrs. J. Quinlan took possession of the orchestra pit and swung into the inspiring strains of a march. The anti-room doors were opened at the sound and the four players, Nathaniel Jones, W. P. Hurley, J. B. Porter, and C. E. Littlefield, marched to the centre of the hall bowed and took their stations in the corners.

THE GRAND MARCH.
Following them in suits were the cards, Kings leading and aces bringing up the rear. The Kings, Queens and Jacks were attired in elegant costumes secured in Boston. The Kings wore their crowns on their heads like other kings, and wore the usual velvet and gilt finery. The Queens were also regally attired, while the Jacks were in highly colored attire, tight and trunks with feathers in their head dress and fluffy wings.

The Kings were Charles Copeland of Thomaston, who kindly assisted the management of the abundant cool nature, A. H. Jones, A. M. Miller and Fred Simonson. They made a most excellent quartet of picture cards. The Queens were Mrs. S. F. Curtis of Manchester, N. H., a guest at Bay Point, Mrs. A. H. Berry and Mrs. Teresa Rankin of this city and Miss Lulu Bennett of New York. The rich costumes were very becoming and the ladies' movements, stately and full of grace, well adapted for the costumes and characters. The Jacks were unimpaired successes. They were Frank L. Weeks, Will Graves, J. H. McNamee and R. H. Crockett and contributed largely to the enjoyment of the occasion.

The various processional evolutions, the cross, pyramid, etc., were admirably done, and the various colors of the costumes made a most pleasing and brilliant picture, the audience showing their appreciation by frequent applause.

Then came the cut, Miss Blanche Kimball, six of diamonds, being the trump card. The shuffle followed, and Mr. Rankin then dealt the cards to the players and the game was on.

THE GAME.
Capt. Hurley played the ace of clubs, (Miss Reeve), who pulled to the center of the hall, joined there shortly by Mr. Littlefield's card, 7 of clubs (Mr. Richardson), Mr. Jones' card, 4 of clubs (Miss Perry) and Mr. Porter's card, 3 of clubs (Mr. Glover). The four cards were then placed in the center, and it was very pretty.

Miss Reeve, of Brooklyn, wore yellow china silk, trimmed with white lace and ribbon, skirt decorated with lace of white and black velvet.

Miss Perry, Empire costume of red, white and blue matching dress in white, and card represented by four black clubs on skirt.

This will show how all the tricks were played the four cards introducing some pretty dances, and then following the winning card from five four to the corner where the winners of the trick were making their bow.

SECOND TRICK.—Dance, Highland Fling. 2 Clubs, Miss Gay; 9 of clubs, Miss Gray; Jack Clubs, Mr. Gray; King Clubs, Mr. Simonson.

This dance is a very taking one, went off very smoothly and was loudly applauded.

Miss Gay wore light blue, very becomingly fastened; Miss Gray, light blue, round skirt and full bodice rounded at neck and kept in position at the waist by corset laced band of light ribbon.

THIRD TRICK.—Dance, Sally Waters. King Spades, Mr. Jones; 2 Spades, Miss Rhodes; 3 Spades, Mr. Parnelle; 4 Spades, Miss Hall.

Sally Waters is an odd dance and took amazingly.

Miss Lou Rhodes, creamy white serge with narrow pink stripe, half high bodice, spades on dress, tan and in hair; Miss Hall, white cashmere en traine, trimmings of marabout, moire ribbon, and garlands of white lace.

FIFTH TRICK.—Versouienne. Queen Spades, Mr. Curtis; 6 Spades, Miss Ayers; 9 Spades, Mr. Black; 3 Diamonds, Mr. Littlefield.

This dance requires a great deal of grace and dignity of pose, and was admirably done.

Mrs. Curtis, court gown of royal purple velvet, princess back opened over a tulle of yellow quilted satin edged with gold lace, vest cut to square neck, high Medici collar bordered with pearl beads, sleeves with large puffs at shoulder and elbows, and gathered into a cuff finished with gold lace, crown studded with jewels; diamond necklace; Miss Ayers, light blue costume, skirt decorated with black velvet spades, sleeves full to elbow and prettily finished with lace.

SIXTH TRICK.—Skaters Dance. Ace Hearts, Miss Adams; 4 Hearts, Miss Ludwig; 3 Hearts, Mr. Carver; 2 Hearts, Mr. Bass.

This dance was one of the pretty events of the evening. It is a jolly movement, and was well done.

Miss Adams, black costume, full bodice, low round neck edged with lace, fastened with Jack roses and short sleeves caught with same; Miss Ludwig, white dress, short sleeves laced high on shoulders with red ribbons waist graced by same, and handsome red feather fan.

SEVENTH TRICK.—Blue Danube. King Hearts, Mr. Copeland; 10 Hearts, Miss Rankin; 5 Hearts, Mr. Barney; 6 Hearts, Miss Duncan.

A most graceful dance, in which Mr. Rankin substituted for Mr. Copeland.

Miss Richardson, Empire costume of white muslin, bishop sleeves, and lace garniture; Miss Duncan in yellow mull, trimmed with yellow children, red girdle, gloves and shoes to correspond with card represented.

EIGHTH TRICK.—Oxford. 7 Hearts, Mr. Glover; 6 Diamonds, Miss Kimball; 9 Hearts, Mr. Hall; Queen Hearts, Mrs. Berry.

This is a new dance, a pretty one and one that was pleasingly given.

NINTH TRICK.—Bon Ton. 6 Clubs, Mr. Perkins; 2 Diamonds, Dr. Follett; Queen Clubs, Miss Rankin; 6 Clubs, Mrs. Jones.

The Bon Ton is a very taking dance and was well received.

Miss Rankin in her Queen's costume which was also a royal purple embellished with gold gullion and jewels, the tunic of richly embroidered white and gold brocade, white gloves and shoes; Mrs. Jones, white polka dot muslin, with full frill of Valenciennes lace, falling over the low-cut bodice, skirt bordered with flounces of the same, full sleeves and draped skirt.

TENTH TRICK.—Court Quadrille. 5 Diamonds, Mr. Porter; 7 Diamonds, Mr. Addison; Queen Diamonds, Miss Bennett; Ace Diamonds, Mrs. Coppinger.

A stately and graceful figure which was well executed.

Miss Bennett, of Brooklyn, N. Y., court gown of pale green, court train, fitting bodice, square cut and Medici collar edged with pearls, the white satin petticoat adorned with velvet gullion and jewels, gold and jeweled coronet; Mrs. Coppinger, pale green satin striped chiffon, over slip of green satin, red gloves and shoes.

ELVENTH TRICK.—Skirt Dance. 10 Clubs, Miss Simonson; King Diamonds, Mr. Miller; Jack Spades, Mr. Crockett; 8 Hearts, Miss Fogler.

The skirt dance fell into good hands. The two ladies are very pleasing, graceful dancers, and acquitted themselves perfectly. Mr. Rankin was sent by the King, (Mr. Miller) to appear in the dance, while Mr. Crockett made a most successful debut in this graceful accomplishment.

The dance was locally applauded. Miss Simonson wore cream white, accordion skirt, full bodice with low round neck, short puff sleeves caught up by gilt tulle, and gold belt; Mrs. Fogler, cream white costume, accented in pleated skirt, low round-neck bodice, waist cinched by draped Oriental girdle, knots of ribbon to match, at shoulder.

THIRTEENTH TRICK.—Dance, Fisher's Hornpipe. 4 Diamonds, Miss Snow; 10 Spades, Mr. Wakefield; 8 Diamonds, Miss Ingraham; Jack Diamonds, Mr. McNamee.

This was one of the favorite dances, and received a well merited share of applause.

Miss Adelle Snow, white cashmere, high-cut bodice, full pleated tunic, skirt with a corset belt of cashmere; Miss Ingraham, costume of yellow, with V-necked bodice with full ruching and front of skirt decorated with 8-spot of diamonds.

The gentlemen wore sashes of colors to correspond with the costumes of their partners each sash bearing the spot designation of the card.

TRUMP CARDS.
The Public Library acted wisely out of the presentation.

Prof. R. C. Rankin, under whose direction the presentation was made, is entitled to no little credit. He had a great many obstacles with which to contend, but in spite of them all gave our people a most pleasing entertainment.

Mrs. H. W. Thorndike was pianist, and fulfilled her trying duties most acceptably.

The management are under great obligations to Fuller & Cobb's force of clerks, who designed the decorations, furnished the material and put the most of it up, also to James Carver, Boardman Austin, Will Glover and F. A. Winslow for assistance.

J. P. Gould and Mr. Fisher of Oldtown, two well known attorneys, attended Living Whist.

The management wish to thank Mrs. E. J. Wardwell of Bay Point for her interest and assistance.

H. Bliss and wife of Washington were among the guests of the evening.

The same party went to Camden, Thursday evening and played the game for the benefit of St. Thomas church. There was a nice party present and the dances passed off in fine style.

Miss Brown, who is stopping at the Norcross cottage, Owl's Head, kindly consented at a late hour to fill a vacancy in the cast, and did it in a very artistic manner.

JUNKETING LAWYERS.
The Complimentary Excursion and Reception to Chief Justice Fuller.

The members of Knox County Bar tendered Hon. M. W. Fuller, Chief Justice of the United States, and other guests a complimentary excursion and dinner on Wednesday of last week.

The day was a delightful one for such a trip. Promptly at nine o'clock the new steamer Gov. Bodwell left Tillson's wharf for Camden where the Chief Justice is spending the summer and where he was received by the Knox Bar, preparatory to starting on the excursion.

The invited guests who attended were Chief Justice Fuller and Hon. L. Q. C. Lamar of the U. S. Supreme Court, Hon. Nathan Webb, Judge of the U. S. District Court, Hon. J. A. Peters, Hon. W. W. Virgin, Hon. L. A. Emory, Hon. T. H. Haskell and Hon. W. P. Whitehouse of the Supreme Court of Maine, J. J. Herriek of Chicago, H. C. Wallace, J. B. Stearns, Rev. D. C. Weston, J. S. Smith, Joseph Williamson and W. C. Philbrook.

The members of the Knox Bar who attended were D. M. Murland, Attorney General C. E. Littlefield, Judge G. M. Hicks, W. H. Fogler, M. A. Johnson, C. M. Walker, E. K. Gould, W. R. Prescott, L. R. Campbell, A. S. Littlefield, C. E. Meservoy, J. E. Moore, J. H. Hewell, L. M. Staples, H. Bliss, Jr., Rev. Robinson, T. R. Simonson, J. H. Montgomery, T. A. Hunt, M. T. Crawford, C. O. Montgomery, J. S. Foster and G. H. M. Barrett.

Leaving Camden the sail was up the river as far as Fort Point, touching at Northport, then across to Cuxine where a landing was made for dinner which was served at the Arcadia House. After dinner backboards were in readiness and a ride was had, visiting all places of interest including the remains of the old fort which was used in the war of 1812.

The party then embarked upon the steamer for Dark Harbor where a stop was made, but owing to the late hour in the day there was no landing. At 7:15 the party arrived at Camden where leave of Chief Justice Fuller, Justice Lamar and some of the other guests was taken.

The steamer arrived in Rockland a little after eight o'clock in the evening, the unanimous expression being that the day's outing had been an enjoyable one and one long to be remembered.

COUNTY CHAT AND COMMENT.

Matters of Interest to all the Residents of Prosperous Knox.

More About the Proposed Georges Valley Railroad—Some Vital Statistics—Probable Business—A Run of Living Whist.

The Lime Rock Railroad at Rockland was built on a five per cent. payment of the stock subscribed, the rest was raised by bonding the road. Merritt A. Johnson of Rockland is the attorney of the proposed road.

Union is entirely out of debt but the population is slowly decreasing, has dropped off more than 100 in the last decade. Now with an outlet for their products, Union's men of money are perfectly willing to invest in manufacturing and arrest the dry rot at once, and so much in earnest are they that they mean to have the dirt stirred in less than a month.

Union is on the broad grin, and in near perspective sees the train from Warren rolling into its beautiful village. James Mitchell of Bucksport, the well known railroad contractor, has been in consultation with the Georges Valley Railroad Co. directors and matters will be brought to a head at once. Last week we gave a few facts about Union and the Georges Valley section, and here are a few more:

Said one gentleman who had a mountain of lime casks—3000 of them in front of his house: "I haul casks to Rockland, fourteen miles, for two cents and one-half apiece, and bring back goods from Rockland, and this road will spoil my business, but we are going to have it if we build it ourselves. We expect the bond-holders will get it, but we only want the road here."

With an outside estimate of $100,000 as the cost of the road, and $40,000 to start with, the people feel sure that the Georges Valley Railroad is sure to go. Few roads are built with so large a proportional amount of the necessary funds at hand. The Maine Central is alive to the meaning of this tapping of one of the richest agricultural regions in Maine, and is favorable to the enterprise.

The people do not take very kindly to the Lewiston, Augusta and Camden railway scheme for the reason that Camden is not their natural outlet. Hundreds of thousands of lime casks and fish barrels go to Rockland annually and most of the marketing is done there, while all the heavy freightage is done between there and Rockland. As an illustration of the amount of fruit, etc., raised in town, we may speak of Joseph O. Cobb, who shipped last season over $900 worth of apples.

Besides Union the towns of Washington, Appleton, Hope and Liberty would be tributary to the road. Liberty for instance is fourteen miles from Belfast, the nearest railroad station. The proposed terminus is at Union Common a healthy and lively village picturesquely seated at the foot of majestic hills. The spot is known to many summer tourists.

In the ponds and lakes about is unrivalled fishing for perch, bass and pickerel. In the small brooks the trout are plentiful and the woods swarm with small game. Level, well shaded roads furnish beautiful drives. Wingate & Simmon's carriage shops are located here employing 25 or 30 hands the year round. The water power is enormous. The natural reservoirs cover 15,000 acres and these could be quadrupled by dams. South Union is another smart village one mile from the Common. Crawford's river runs through the village and furnishes really remarkable water power. In times of drought it never fails. In floods in never overflows and its anchor ice is unknown. The only way to account for this latter phenomenon is that the source of the river is but one mile away. Crawford's Lake, Fish Lake, Hobbs' Pond and numerous others feed the river and these in turn are fed by the whole western water shed of the Camden mountains.

The entrance to the Georges River, along whose upper valley the new railroad is to be built, is about thirty miles to the east of the Kennebec. Although it is one of the smaller rivers, yet for the distance of fourteen miles from its mouth it is one of the wildest and most beautiful rivers in Maine. It was the first river in New England to receive an English name as is shown in all the earlier maps; a name given in it honor of its first English discoverer, George Weymouth. It was even in the early colonial times noted for its stately forest trees, its lime and granite quarries, which for three centuries, like the icebergs from the glaciers of the North, have been annually detached from its banks and floated away in the shape of stately ships of 400 to 2100 tons and huge buildings of granite and lime, to form the navies and cities of the world.—Lewiston Journal.

Thomaston is inquiring for the electric railroad. Thomaston would give the road a big patronage.

Living Whist is having a decided run in the county. Thomaston, Rockland and Camden have been favored thus far.

Real estate deals and rumors of real estate deals keep the atmosphere hot. These be lively seasons for Knox.

OUR STATE.
Miss Dora Wiley of Bangor has resumed her former position in the "Old Jed Prouty" company.

Miss Josephine H. Hodsdon of Pownal has accepted the position of teacher of elocution in the Bridgton Academy.

Adjutant Wyman's quarterly report shows that there are 19 camps and 1518 members, Sons of Veterans, in good and regular standing in the Maine division.

Jackson Russell of Waldoboro, raised 27 bushels of strawberries this season. He also has half an acre of blackberries in flourishing condition.

A foot race between a gay old runner of 72 years and another hilarious old bode of 82, which took place at North Berwick, is to be recorded as last week's most notable sporting event in Maine.

Governor Burleigh, who has been slightly indisposed for the past few days, left Augusta for New Hampshire Wednesday, for a few days of needed rest and recreation, accompanied by Mrs. Burleigh.

A Lewiston tailor is so disgusted that he cannot refrain from telling of a swell young man recently graduated from college, who role to his place of business on a new $150 bicycle to pay him $1 on a debt for a suit of clothes. There are cases of this kind every day to try the souls of the suffering morticians.

A rich Boston lady has caused quite a buzz in Franklin county by purchasing a farm in the northern part of Farmington and laying plans to tear down the buildings and construct a ranch on the California plan. Maine's attractions are going to draw back many of her sons and daughters who left the old place to win their fortunes. Their eyes turn lovingly to her and the time will come when we shall hear no more about our abandoned farms.

SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSION.
The Sunday School excursion to Roberts farm, Vinellavon, on Tuesday, was a very successful affair. The day was all that could be desired, and many of our people visited for the first time this section of our town. There was a great variety and abundance of food, and several hundred children and adults were given a good dinner free of cost.

The band was present and discoursed music during the day. In the afternoon there was a game of baseball between the High Schools and a picked nine, the latter winning 17 to 8. Backboard and coaches were in demand, and did a good business carrying passengers to and from the grounds. The Roberts farm is located in the southern part of the town, and is a very pretty spot. It is the old Roberts homestead, and is owned now by Capt. E. S. Roberts, who since coming into possession, has put up some fine new buildings, removing the old ones. There are a class of rusticators who like just such places, and we predict that Capt. Lisle will some day have chance of taking a pretty round sum for it.

GOT THERE.
Dixmont, the trotting horse of Burgees & Bowers of Rockport, showed his mettle at Milo Tuesday, winning first money in the 2:30 class in a field of noted horses, and dropping his time to 2:37. The papers report Dixmont's fine trotting as the feature of the race.

POLITICAL POINTS.
The Camden Prohibits will fire the last gun at Megunticook, Saturday, Sept. 10, the last week day night before election. John Lloyd Thomas, Secretary of their National Committee, is the speaker.

OUTLOOK.

John Brown's fort has been moved from Harper's Ferry to Chicago. That battling western town will have Look-out Mountain yet.

The dead bodies of Earl Price and Arthur Kurtz of North Lansing, Mich., both about 8 years of age, were found last week in an unused ice chest. They had crawled into the chest to play and got caught.

The story that Borden was murdered by men whom he was instrumental in sending to prison for mutiny on the schooner Jefferson Borden is exploded. Borden was not on the vessel, and the ringleaders are still in Thomaston prison.

Arabs have annihilated the Congo Stato forces stationed at Bankamba, at the confluence of the Lualaba and Kasai rivers. Commander Hodister was captured by the Arabs, who subjected him to horrible torture, after which he was beheaded. Two white men escaped.

During the run of ill-luck at baccarat not long ago, ex-King Milan, who is notoriously superstitious, attributed his losses to the evil influences of a lady seated just behind him. Turning to her in a passion the exalted monarch said: "Will you have the kindness to change your place? I am losing because you are behind me." "But I was not behind you when you lost your throne," was the reply, and the conversation went no further.

A Bideford paper tells how a man from that city, who was ignorant of the lobster laws, went on an excursion the other day and pulled out with a gaff forty-six lobsters, all of which happened to be short ones, and how a fish warden watched the proceedings until the man finished and then had him arrested and fined, and seized the lobsters. Some people think an officer is appointed to prevent the breaking of laws as well as to punish wrong-doers.

The origin of aerolites, meteors, or falling stones may be, according to Flammarion, the volcanoes of our own planet. Many of these blazing masses, shot up with a force scientifically possible, may, after cycling space years or centuries or thousands thereof, return to the earth's orbit and be met by her. They then fall upon her surfaces and break into fragments or sink into her crust. The fact that the chemical constituency of these meteors is like that of volcanic products lends a color of probability to Flammarion's theory.

The great mound at Lake Alamosook, Orland, Me., which Mr. C. C. Willoughby of Augusta is now exploring under directions from Prof. F. W. Putnam of the Museum of Comparative Zoology Cambridge, is believed to have been a great tomb where mighty red men were laid at rest. Work in opening it has been carried on but two or three days yet, but already several sets of obelisks, arrowheads, gouges and slinkers have been found besides several single pieces, together with some twenty relics all of the same general type and believed to be of the same age as those found at Bucksport last week.

The Arab rising in the Congo Stato shows that the slave trade is not to be suppressed in the African interior without a struggle. It is too lucrative and too profitable for Tippoo Tib and his kind to give it up easily. Sooner or later, however, it must go. The Arab slavers have now to face on the Congo the strong and enlightened nations of the earth, the chief of which are signatories of the Brussels treaty. These nations will give of their treasure if necessary, and it is not likely that the torture and butchery of Europeans at outposts up the river and its alluents will be suffered to go long unpunished.—Portland Advertiser.

"Drop those stockings," Mrs. Elizabeth Daly, who lives at 651 East Thirteenth street, New York, sat bolt upright in bed. The early dawn had revealed to her a housebreaker in the act of putting her stockings into a bag. The burglar was startled at Mrs. Daly's command, and dropped the stockings.

"Don't get gay, now, or I may have to use this," he said, producing at the same time a long rusty knife. Then he bent down and picked up the stockings which had fallen from the bag. As the burglar searched under the washstand for a breastpin Mrs. Daly sprang upon his back, bearing him to the floor, the knife dropping from his hand. Mrs. Daly seized it. "Don't get gay, now, or I may have to use this," she said, and held the man until relief came.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., IS TO BURY HER WIFE.

Minutes of one of the secret meetings of the Iron Hall supreme officers were read in court at Indianapolis Saturday, in which Smerby told of the difficulties he had in managing State legislatures and said he thought it would cost $5,000 to secure the right to do business in Maine.

M. P. Dalton, a former Portland man, who left that city several years ago several thousand dollars in debt, has prospered in the West recently. The first money he received was sent east to meet his obligations, and every debt has been fully paid, though many of them had become outlawed. Such instances of honesty ought not to be rare enough to excite comment, but since there are people who take advantage of the common law to violate the moral law, it is gratifying to know that one more honest man has prospered.

ROCKPORT'S FINANCES.
The supervisor of schools reports the whole number of schools in the town of Rockport 722.

The apportionment to each scholar is $4.80.

The sum voted by the town for schools, From State school fund and mill tax, $2207.

The apportionment is as follows: Rockport School Corporation, $2.80 all others $2.00 Saturday and Mornings.

Outside of town, The return from the state High School fund is $250.

STEAMBOAT SPARKS.

SMART UNION.

All honor to the persevering, pushing, pertinacious people of Union! After years of discouragements, after encountering and surmounting various obstacles, the Georges Valley Railroad is to be built. The "Doodle Bug Road," as one of our short-sighted local contemporaries was pleased to style it, the "Wind Bag Road" as our other contemporary called it, has materialized and is under contract. Union, with her great water power, her varied industries and fertile acres, with her good people, her beautiful scenery and undeveloped resources is at last to have an opportunity to do something.

May the greatest prosperity wait upon such deserving enterprise, and may Union's territory flourish, and prosper to the utmost, is the hearty wish of THE C. G., which has always had confidence in the Georges Valley Road, faith in its promoters, and belief in our prophecy that the road would be built inside of ten years! Behold!

Don't forget that THE C. G.'s regular edition is 3500, often more and never less.

Our banking friends regret the resignation of Bank Examiner Blawie. He was an efficient, faithful and courteous official.

Williston Grinnell of Camden has bought the lively stock of W. H. Flisk of this city, and will dispose of the same.

Editor Mosely of the Hyde Park, Mass., Gazette, in the last issue of his paper has an interesting descriptive article on Rockland which we shall print next week.

Miss Lizette Jordan has been arrested as being the Pull River murderer. Possibly she may be the guilty one, but about all evidence we have seen of it is the fact that they cannot seem to prove that any one else could have done it.—Gardiner Journal.

We have heard some complaint at our present method of running in our personals. It is only a temporary arrangement. We have had so many personals the past few weeks that it was necessary to save space. When the "personal" season lets up we shall return to the old and more popular style.

The barbers of the city will meet in the City Council rooms, Tuesday evening, at 9:30, to complete arrangements for closing their places of business one or two evenings in the week. It is a wise move, and our consoling artists should let nothing shut them out from an occasional breathing space each week.

Complaint is made of the unruly and ungentlemanly conduct of certain passengers on the electric cars. Patrons of the road should bear in mind that good conduct is as proper on the electric car as in a parlor, and that profanity, the spitting of tobacco juice and boisterous conduct are out of place. The laws governing conduct in public places are very stringent, and it is a great deal better to call a halt at once, than to make it necessary for the company to make an example or two.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The Republicans and Democrats Both Have Rallies.

The Republican County Committee hopes to be able to arrange a big county rally to be addressed by McKinley and Reed or other big guns.

Attorney General Littlefield addressed a Republican rally in Bath, Thursday evening, and from all reports we are inclined to believe that he waked them up.

Previous to the Frye rally, Saturday evening, a flag-raising was held in front of the Tribune office. Ingraham's Band was in attendance, there were fireworks, and Mr. Frye introduced L. H. Campbell, esq., who stood on a dry goods box and made a most excellent campaign speech.

The Democrats had a rally in Farwell Opera House, Thursday evening which was addressed by C. F. Johnson of Newell, Democratic candidate for governor, and Harvey N. Shepherd of Boston. Saturday evening Senator Wm. F. Frye addressed a Republican rally in the same place. Both meetings were well attended.

A. H. Newbert, candidate for senator, L. K. Campbell, candidate for county treasurer, and Washington B. Prescott, candidate for county attorney, are at once to start upon a campaign tour of the county, engaging in presenting the issues of the campaign from a Republican standpoint, and instructing Republican voters in the new Australian ballot law. They have had made a complete set of paraphernalia and will set up a young booth wherever they speak. The dates thus far made are as follows:

Union, town hall, Tuesday, Aug. 23, 7:30 p. m.
Appleton, G. A. R. hall, Wednesday, Aug. 24, 7:30 p. m.
Washington, Thursday, Aug. 25, at the Mill 2 p. m.; town house, 7:30 p. m.
Hope Corner, True's hall, Saturday, Aug. 27, 2 p. m.
South Hope, Saturday, Aug. 27, 7:30 p. m.
Warren, Tuesday, Aug. 30, town hall, 7:30 p. m.

PLAU PRESENTATION.

N. A. Robbins of Washington, D. C., has been the Union's Son of Veterans a beautiful play. The formal presentation will occur tomorrow evening, and E. K. Gould, esq., will be one of the speakers.

WENT MADDEN.—Capt. Jere Farnham of California and sister, Mrs. Boyd, formerly of Rockland, also Mrs. Connor of Exeter, N. H., also Joseph Farnham, wife and son of the city visited relatives and friends here last week. Capt. Boyd and daughter will be here to join the company this week....Crops are looking well....Not much sickness here at present.

Captains White and Gage, who have been in charge of the Salvation Army here for some months, have been located at Concord, N. H., and Capt. Westhall and wife put in charge of the work here. Capt. Westhall is an old English Salvation Army officer with eleven years of service behind him. Capt. Edwards and wife, who preceded Captains Gage and White here, are in Camden.

T. A. Daly, the well-known actor, died in Boston Friday evening. He has been ill for a long time. He was one of four brothers who became famous on the stage. He was with the Hanlons in "La Voyage au Sues" and afterward starred in "Ya's a Harward," "Vacation," "Up Side Down" and "Irish Hearts and German Heads." He leaves a wife, an actress known as Lizzie Derious.

A concert will be given in Farwell Opera House next Sunday evening, in which Thos. E. Shea, Rose Stahl, Miss Frost and Mr. Greene of the Shea Co. will appear in readings, Messrs. Farwell Opera House, Rockland, Me., Monday, Aug. 29, fifth year of Denham Thompson and Geo. W. Ryer's play, "The Two Sisters; better and brighter than ever, with clever character acting by a selected company. Many amusing and interesting specialties such as violin playing, rock songs by a group, tenor, the whistling, doubleback and the master of all home players. "Only one world, two people in it, Wiley and I." Tickets on sale as usual.

At Farwell Opera House, to-night, Aug. 29, Vernon Jarhead, the vivacious French comedienne, will make her appearance in "Starlight," a musical farce-comedy, full of fun, good singing and dancing. Of the play and people in the cast an extensive stage....The comedienne brings an excellent company, and "Starlight" must be written a happy success. If the play were new, which it is not, there would be little need of describing it, for there is no plot to speak of. It is a farcical comedy, that has had an active and merry life for several years, which is the most practical sort of praise. We notice the name of Miss Lilyan Paul in the cast as singing the part of "Lucy." Miss Paul is highly praised by the city press. Tickets are now on sale.

FOUND DEAD.

A Well Known Citizen Meets With a Mysterious Death.

A telephone message was received here Saturday from Liberty that Reuben L. Winslow of this city had been found dead the evening before, on Moody Mountain, Seabrook. On receipt of the news Undertaker E. A. Burpee, J. F. Fogler and W. T. Cobb drove to Seabrook, and made arrangements to have the body brought here.

Mr. Winslow left here by private conveyance about three o'clock Friday afternoon for Liberty to attend the Saturday races. About six o'clock that evening his dead body was found in the road over Moody Mountain, lying face down, his horse grazing by the roadside about 300 yards away. Mr. Winslow's hat being in the carriage. There was no evidence of a runaway or other accident, and the body was not bruised. Mr. Winslow complained of not feeling well as he started on his journey, and heart disease is the most probable conjecture.

The body was taken to the Hyatt House, Seabrook, and was identified by James J. Tibbets of Rockport, who forwarded the news here. The remains arrived in Rockland Saturday evening, and the funeral was held from the home of deceased, Limerock street, Sunday at two p. m., Rev. R. W. Jenkin officiating. Deceased was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. David Winslow. He was 41 years of age and leaves a wife and five children, the oldest of whom is about 15. He had life insurance to the amount of $2000. Mr. Winslow for years was superintendent of a portion of the Cobb Lime Co.'s quarry department. He was a genial, kind-hearted, popular man, with a large circle of friends to whom his sudden death is extremely shocking.

Mrs. Winslow is the daughter of the late H. M. Brown and wife, and within six months has lost father, mother and husband.

BAY POINT.

The Fun Still Continues and the House Remains Full.

Mayor W. R. Brown and family returned to Passaic, N. J., Saturday.

Hon. J. E. Blahon and Col. F. E. Boothby and party of Portland spent Sunday at Bay Point.

Another delightful concert was given at Bay Point, Sunday evening, by Prouty's Orchestra, Ed. W. Prouty leader. The program was as follows: Hymn, "Come Thou Almighty King"; Overture, "Zampa"; Herold; Corset Solo, "Ourea Sublime Sweet Evening Star"; Wagner, by Mr. E. B. Gorham; Minuet from "Military Symphony"; Haydn; Romance, "Pilgrim of Love"; Baxette; Song, "Calvary"; Paul Rodney, by Mr. Prouty; Hymn, "Brightly Gleams Our Banner"; Sullivan; Celebrated Handel; Trio for piano, violin and cello, Haydn, Andante, Adagio and Rondo, by Miss Green, Messrs. Schute and Prouty; Coronation March from "The Prophet"; Meyerbeer. The instrumental work was especially good and the selections of the finest quality. The number by Hattie and the Minuet, with the trio were particularly pleasing. Mr. Prouty sang "Calvary" in a masterly manner. He was in especially good voice, and sang most effectively. Miss Green, the pianist, had some particularly difficult work during the evening. She is an artist, and can always be relied upon to do her part of the work without flaw or falter. Mr. Gorham in his very difficult solo showed what melody can be won from a cornet when properly played. His tone was very clear and beautiful. These concerts are rare treats.

SMASHED THE RECORD.

The trotting record has again been smashed. Nancy Hansen, driven by Budd Doble, trotted a mile over the Washington Park track at Chicago, Wednesday, in 2:07-4. This beats Sanol's record of 2:08-14, by one second, the longest feat of record-making known since 1884. In 1881, Maud S. lowered her own record to 2:10-4. This was beaten immediately by Jay-By-See, who won a mile in 2:10. Maud L. again regained her title of queen of the turf in 2:09-34. She afterwards lowered this record on the Cleveland, O., track to 2:08-34. She held the title of queen of the turf until 1891 when Sanol took the lead going in 2:08-14.

A CALAMITY HOWLER.

Showing How the Prices of Labor are Reduced.

John B. Howard has caught the disgruntled fever and has developed into an out-and-out calamity howler. He says the Electric Railroad is ruining the poor laborer. Before this railroad was built a man could walk to Camden and thus save 75 cents. Now if he walks to Camden he only saves 15 cents, as the Electric Railroad has reduced the pay of pedestrians from Camden to Rockland from 75 to 15 cents.

The McKinley bill is probably at the bottom of it all!

THE FOURTH.

Two weeks ago we announced the death within one week of three children of Capt. Horace Allen and wife of South Thomaston. This week another death is added to the list. Viru B., aged about 12 years, died yesterday morning of heart failure, a result of an attack of diphtheria. The family has lost four of six children since July 31.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS.

REPORTED FROM BROWN & COMPANY'S WEEKLY FREIGHT CIRCULAR.

Homeward freight from nearly all prominent foreign ports are down to about the lowest point ever known, which has something of a restricting influence upon outward business. Coastwise freights are inactive, with rates about steady for lumber and weak and irregular for coal. The fact that the railroad barges are delivering coal above bridges in Boston at going rates, with one cent additional per bridge instead of three cents as formerly, bears with pressing severity upon all competing vessels, in consideration of the extreme low freights prevailing from all coal depots.

CHARTERS.—Sch. Elbridge South, Trinidad to New York, Philadelphia or Baltimore, ex-plant, $1.87 1-2 option of Washington, $2.12 1-2 and discharged....Sch. Belle Bow, Hoken to Jacksonville, coal, $1, thence to San Domingo City and Palenque, lumber, at or about $1.50 and port charges....Sch. Dora Mathews, Fernandez to New York, lumber, $1.38 M. per day. Sch. Hattie Dunn, Baltimore to Galveston, $2.50....Sch. James Young, Perth Amboy to Portsmouth, 55 cents....Sch. Lizzie Carr, Perth Amboy to Beverly, 55 cents....Sch. Ella G. Kells, Hoken to Canine 45 cents....Sch. Nelson Bartlett, same 45 cents.

WARREN'S FIRE.

A Scene of Excitement—Good Work by the Town's People.

"I think there is a burglar prowling round," remarked Geo. G. Tague of Warren Friday morning about 2 45 as his slumbers were broken by a crackling noise that came to his half awakened senses. The burglar idea, however, was quickly dispelled as the distant about of fire reached his ears, for Alfred Grey had upon the discovery and sounded the alarm in stentorian tones. The rear end of A. Vinal's building in the village was enveloped in flames. People tumbled from their beds in precipitate haste, the mill bell broke the stillness of early dawn and the village was awake. Mill hands and others, under the direction of the Walker brothers, were hurriedly shackling hose and the fire efficient but no distinct fire department. banded up. Brimstone, Keelson, Moore, Nero and others, got together and to remarkably quick time had succeeded in planting the band engine near Frank E. Gordon's and was pouring a big stream upon the flames. But during this time the fire had been diligent. The whole interior of the building was on fire and nothing could be removed. The flames began to scorch the east end of A. M. Weather's building. The dining room connected with Grand Army Hall was burning like an oven and soon conveyed the blaze into the attic of Brown's Block. A frightened mouse, seeking self protection, was seen scampering along the ridgepole of the building.

Suddenly the G. A. H. Hall was brilliantly illuminated as if for a banquet, as the blaze lapped up the curtain and exposed the brightness within. Three streams of water in front from the force pump of the woolen mill and the fourth stream in the rear from the engine stubbornly resisted progress and they were skillfully directed by those who held the nozzle. It was a fierce and determined battle of water versus fire, and for an hour the victory hung in the balance.

Very congratulations have been resisted with better generalship. Disorder there was none. An occasional sharp order from a fireman directing the handling of the hose broke the monotony of cracking timbers and rushing waters. The boys bent to their heroic tasks like veterans and by degrees the blaze succumbed and the bell in the tower opposite struck the hour of five.

The result may be summed up as follows: Vinal's building, valued at about $1400, is a total loss, and was insured for about half its value. It was occupied below by Mrs. C. A. Sherman, millinery and dressmaking. Nothing was saved. The stock was well insured. The upper rooms were occupied by Elmer E. Huffer, barber, Frank A. Newbert assistant. Huffer also carried a small line of general furnishing goods. Total loss partially

THE FOURTH MAINE.

One of Its Gallant Officers Who Fell in the Fight.

A copy of the Belfast Journal of June 4, 1891, was handed us the other day by an old soldier and our attention called to the following extract from the Memorial Day oration delivered at Belfast last year by Col. W. H. Fogler of this city.

Among those who enlisted in Company K, 4th Maine regiment, in April, 1861, was Sheridan F. Miller, son of Samuel F. Miller who died here a few years since. At the time of his enlistment young Miller was but a boy in years.

His kindly disposition, his genial manners, his open heart, and his frankness and honesty of purpose made him a favorite among his school-mates and acquaintances at home. These same qualities, combined with a rare power of physical endurance and a courage which no danger could abate or lessen, made him a favorite in his Company and Regiment. In less than two years he had won his way by his own merit from the ranks to a Lieutenantcy of his Company.

At the battle of Chancellorsville, on the 2nd day of May, 1863, he was killed by a rifle ball. "Killed in action" is the brief official record of his death. And yet the time, the place and the incidents of his death are in the highest degree dramatic.

Gen. Hooker, commanding the Army of the Potomac, had crossed to the South side of the Rappahannock, and attacked Lee's army. The 11th corps, commanded by Gen. Howard, was on the right of the Union line. Late in the afternoon of May 2nd Stonewall Jackson, whose force had been massed during the day upon our right, made one of those fierce onslaughts for which he was so famous striking Howard's right flank with the fury of a whirlwind. Wholly unprepared for the attack, Howard's men broke and ran in confusion. It seemed for a time that nothing could stop Jackson's victorious advance. Unless he could be met and held and forced back, the battle must be lost, and the Union army placed in a critical condition. Fortunately, Gen. Pleasanton with his cavalry succeeded in holding the advance of the enemy in check until Gen. Sickles' corps, in which was the 4th Maine, could get into position to meet the rebel charge. Just at dusk, a desperate conflict ensued between the two lines in which Stonewall Jackson was killed. Sickles stopped the advance of the rebel line and regained a part of the ground lost by Howard. When night fell Gen. Sickles found himself hemmed up in the thick woods and cut off from communication with the balance of the Union army, with the enemy in force upon his front and right. If daylight should find him in that position it was extremely doubtful whether he could be able to save his corps from utter ruin. He determined to make a night charge upon the right of the rebel force in his front, and if possible, regain the Plank Road which would put him once more in connection with the rest of the army.

Forming his line in the dense woods just before midnight, under the light of the full moon whose rays struggled through the trees, with the caps removed from the rifles that his men might rely upon the bayonet alone, he charged the rebel lines. The enemy were on the alert. The charge was met by a terrific fire of musketry and artillery. The men of the third corps pressed on, driving the rebels from their position at the point of the bayonet. Gen. De Trobriand styled it a "mad and desperate battle." The rebel, Gen. Mahone said afterwards of the fight: "The Federals fought there like devils."

Gen. Doubleday, who was with Reynolds to the left of Sickles, says "a midnight battle commenced, and the shells seemed to burst in sparks on the trees. It was Sickles fighting his way home again." Step by step, through the dark forest was the rebel line forced back until, with a yell and a rush, the Plank Road was regained and Sickles and his gallant corps saved.

Right here, in the deep shadows of the woods, at the midnight hour, under the struggling beams of the full moon, the air overhead glittering with the burst of shell, in front the flash and smoke of musketry, fighting his way home at the bayonet's point, Lieut. Miller fell dead. A bold officer of his regiment said of him to me a few days since: "He was a noble fellow, a brave man, a gallant soldier." No more fitting eulogy can a soldier have.

A SEASIDE RIPPLE.

A Grand Army man who had learned to "Stand your ground, my braves," recently encountered at Narragansett Pier a southern woman's whims.

It is currently reported that at one of the hotels facing on the ocean, there was a disgraceful scene one day last week. The trouble arose over the wearing of a Grand Army button, and the rumour was raised by a woman who was quite near the head of the Confederacy.

She insisted that the gentleman who was at the same table with herself should either take off the button or be sent to another table, and the hotel proprietor was just foolish enough to fall in with her whims and request his guest to accommodate her in her wishes.

This is the first time that the Grand Army button has ever been insulted at the Pier. The wearer of the button firmly and manfully refused to comply with either of the requests of the irate southerner.
