Narrow Escape.

A BOY, STEPHEN, JR., OF
"The Boys' Club," has been rescued from a narrow escape
from a fire in his home.

"Extending to the end of my toes
and to my head," said the boy
after the fire had been put out.

"Which made me delirious!"
"From agony!"
"It took three men to hold me on my bed!"

"The doctors tried in vain to relieve
me, but to no purpose."
"Morphine and other opiates?"
"No, sir!"

"After two months I was given up to die!"
"When my wife
heard a neighbor tell what Hop Bitters had done for her, she at once got and gave me some. The first dose eased my brain and seemed to go hunting through my system
for the pain."

The second dose eased me so much that I slept two hours, something I had not done for two weeks. Before I had used five bottles,
I was well and at work as hard as any man could, for over three weeks. But I worked too hard for my strength, and taking a hard cold,
I was taken with the most acute and painful rheumatism all through my system that ever was known.

"I called the doctors again, and after several weeks they left me a cripple and gave up on me, as they said. I met a friend and told him my condition. He said Hop Bitters had cured him and would cure me. I looked at him, but he was no nearer a cure than I was. I was in less than four weeks I threw away my cane and was able to walk. I was well and using the Bitters five weeks, until I became well and my mind living, and have been so for six years since."

It has also cured my wife, who had been sick for years, and has kept her and my children well and healthy from two to three bottles per year. There is no need to be sick at all of these Bitters are used.

J. J. BARK, Ex-Superior.

"That poor invalid wife, Sister, Mother,
or daughter!"

"Can be made the picture of health!"

"With a few bottles of Hop Bitters!"

"Some genuine without a touch of green Hops on the white label. When all the vile, poisonous stuff with 'Hop' or 'Hops' in their names is gone."

THE HOMEMAKERS' COLUMN.

I think it will rest me to say a word about washing. Your correspondent has a good way for a small family; but no woman should wash by strength by large washings without proper machine—a good washer and wringer.

By a good washer I mean one that will wash sheets, pillow-cases and the cleaner
part of the laundry in less than an hour to rise in the line in the morning sun; and one that will wash the underclothes,
sweats, etc., in less than an hour.

In such a washer, and with a good wringer, a washer that will clean white blankets and heavy woolen shirts
and drawers perfectly without rubbing
such machine I have used for six years.

The agent that sold me the machine said
that it was the best he had ever used.

I have used it for six years. The agent

Supplement.

PARIS, MAINE, JUNE 9, 1885.

For the Democrat.

"BIRD HILL."

A correspondent of the DEMOCRAT recently spoke of "Bird Hill," and suggested that the name should be changed to Bryant Hill, as the birds have gone away. This suggestion set me to thinking of the changes on this Hill since I lived there half a century ago. The old school house where I first went to school in 1832, is still standing, and this is about the only thing that remains essentially unchanged. It was in this same house that I taught my first school thirty five years ago. In 1832, I well remember that Eliza Walker taught the school, and also for two or three successive seasons thereafter. She was a pious woman and an excellent teacher, and when she died, which was in 1834, I thought there could be no more school, for I had never learned of any other teacher and supposed there was none.

Bird Hill was previously called Berry Hill, and Levi Berry from Paris was the first settler in the neighborhood. He felled his first trees in 1820, near where the school-house now stands. His log house stood a little below and east of the school-house, the old cellar hole of which could be seen a few years ago with tansy, catnip, and peppermint growing around it. His son, Levi Berry, Jr., lived on the opposite side of the road, his son, William, on the place afterwards occupied by John Bird, and his son Leonard, on the place since occupied by Daniel Dunn. John Lapham who had married a daughter of Levi Berry, lived on the place where Samuel Bird afterwards lived. So there were five Berry families living on this Hill within a radius of half a mile, and it was appropriately called Berry Hill. But the Berrys did not remain long, and prior to 1835, all had returned to Paris. Deacon John Bird bought the William Berry place, Lyman Bird the Levi Berry farm, and Samuel Bird the John Lapham place. Thereafter the neighborhood was called Bird Hill. The three brothers Bird were the sons of John Bird of Norway, and all are dead. I well remember a mistake made by the good Elder Witham of Paris, which brought a smile to the faces of his audience. He had preached at Locke's Mills, and when he finished, he gave notice that a meeting would be held in the evening at "Partridge Hill," at the school house near "Lyman Partridge's." Of course we all understood that he meant "Bird Hill," and "Lyman Bird," but the audience smiled as stated, and had a good laugh at his expense after the meeting was over, in which he heartily joined.

Beyond the John Bird place, lived Eli Estes, a worthy man with a very pleasant family. He died many years ago of cancer, and the place has since had several owners. I think it now forms a part of the Bonanza Stock Farm of Mr. Carpenter, who has lately distinguished himself in that region. The next place along the same road was the John Estes place. He was the father of Rev. Dr. Estes. A little farther along was the Daniel Estes place. Daniel Estes was a brother of Eli, and they were the sons of Richard Estes, who lived on the river road below Bean's Corner. But these two last mentioned places were on the northerly slope of Bird Hill, which at that time was called Kimball Hill.

Next south of the Lyman Bird place was Eli Cushman's farm. He began here in the woods and spent his whole life here. His widow still occupies the place. Abraham Jordan lived a short distance east of the road on the place where his son John afterwards lived, and still later, Moses Cummings. Deacon Abraham Bryant's place was west of the town road, and his house was also reached by a private way. Some forty years ago, Richard Jordan took the farm on which John B. Knight had made a beginning. He built good buildings, and afterwards sold out to John Chase from Paris. I think Mr. Chase's son still lives there. Richard Jordan afterwards built upon a part of his father's old farm. Peter Ayers bought the Leonard Berry place; he afterwards went to Pennsylvania and died there. I saw the barn raised which is still standing on this farm; it was fifty-two years ago. The place was afterwards bought and occupied by Daniel Dunn from Paris, and later by his son, Daniel, Jr.; both died here, and also their wives.

How well I remember some of the teachers who kept the school here. Eliza Walker of blessed memory was the first. She was a sister of James Walker of Walker's Mills. She was followed by Sally Ballard. The first male teacher whose school I attended, was Charles A. Kimball, who still as then, resides in Rumford. Later along, the summer school was taught by the wife of Jedediah Kimball, whose maiden name was Richardson; by Nancy Andrews, who afterwards became the wife of Alonzo Howe. Emma Mason was a model teacher. She became the second wife of Dea John Bird, and is still living. A daughter of Phineas Frost taught one or two terms here. The winter terms taught by Alden Chase of Woodstock, who always made the boys to the line; by Gilman L. Blake, by Benj. M. Clark of Bethel, and for two terms by Rev. Benj. Dunham who was then settled over the Baptist Church in Bethel, and living at Middle Interval. He always opened his school by prayer, and generally kept his eyes open and upon us boys during the services. I fear we needed watching. He died many years ago. Other teachers I do not so well remember.

The changes on the Berry or Bird Hill within fifty years, are no greater than in almost every neighborhood in the town. On the road running parallel to the Bird Hill road, between Locke's Mills and Androscoggin River, the changes within thirty years have been quite remarkable. Not an old settler is left, and most of the farms have passed out of the families. A generation has grown up who knows not from personal knowledge that such persons as Solomon Annas, Thomas Goss, Clark Kimball, James Lapham, James A. S. Bartlett, Eli Foster, Ebenezer Bartlett, Phineas Frost, Evi Needham and Enoch Stiles occupied the farms along this road in 1850 and a little earlier.

"All things change in this world, I ween. Faces and faiths and friends and flowers. Nothing is now as it once hath been. For all things change, in this world of ours." Augusta, May 24th, 1885. INDEX.

SEVEN THOUSAND BACHELORS.

A community has been discovered numbering at present seven thousand souls, which has flourished for many centuries, though no woman has ever been permitted or known to set foot in the country. Few of the inhabitants, indeed, have any definite idea of what a woman is. The whole class of ideas and sensations ordinarily associated with the words mother, sister, wife and sweetheart, are to them unknown; and what is equally singular, crime is also unknown, or nearly so, while on every side are to be seen evidences of temperance, piety, and good order.

The home of this eccentric but happy people is in the easternmost of the three peninsulars which project from the north coast of the Greek Archipelago. It was anciently called Aetoepean, near Monte Sancto, and is about forty miles in length, and from two to nine miles across. It terminates in Mount Athos, a conical mass of limestone rising abruptly to a height of 6500 feet. Between this bold headland and the main coast is a beautiful plateau, clothed throughout with woodland, which is gay with flowers, rich with odors, merry with songs of birds, and canopied by the brightest of all blue skies. The cultivated fields are all diversified with groves of oak and chestnut, while olive and fig trees are there indigenous. To this secret Paradise the sons but not the daughters of Eve are admitted, and such has been the custom as far back as history reaches, the peninsula being religiously guarded at all points against the approach of women.

The inmates are natives of every part of the Turkish Empire where the Greek language is spoken, and are consigned to the societies either in infancy or early life by their fanatical parents. The first years are spent in tilling the land, tending the vines, helping in the housework, or engaging in some handicraft.

For three years the candidate is a probationer; then, if he has proved able to keep the monastic vows, he receives his first tonsure and becomes a monk. The discipline is severe, ordinary church service seven hours a day, extraordinary fourteen, and sleep five. One hundred and fifty-nine days in the year they have one meal only a day, and at this eggs, cheese, fish, wine, and oil are forbidden.

The prohibition against women extends to the sex universally. From time immemorial no cow, mare, goose, duck, hen, or female of any kind, has ever been permitted to make acquaintance with hill or valley, farmyard or kitchen, in the Mount Athos territory. There are in the convents some good libraries, containing about fifty thousand volumes in all, and manuscripts seven hundred years old are by no means uncommon. Altogether these venerable males have a happy time of it.

DR. BARCLAY'S WAY.—When Dr. Barclay, of Gustavus, Ohio, visits a patient his stay is likely to be prolonged through the day and perhaps through the night as well. He will sit down and draw pigs, horses or faces for the sick one, tell dry stories, or if there is a violin in the house, he will fiddle the patient into good humor, but all the time he will keep a good watch of him and never leave him till he has found out the utmost secret of the disease, or some one has come to take the physician off to relieve a more urgent patient. You may never find him at home; the only way to get him is to start out upon his trail, and follow it until he is run down.

Of course many stories are told of such a man. One of them is especially good. The doctor's wife undertook to look after him a little, when they were first married. She thought she would go around with him, and hurry him up, not forgetting to keep an eye on collections. So she started out with the doctor, and when they reached the first patient, she said she would not go in, but would wait until he should come out. She waited.

An hour passed, and then another. She did not like to give it up, but the doctor came not, and finally, forced to seek her lord, she found him with his feet up to the fire, fast asleep.

There are cases on record in which the good doctor, instead of exacting a fee, has handed a five dollar bill to a patient to whom it would be "better than medicine."

GREENWOOD ITEMS.

GREENWOOD, June 2.

My writing stick once more in hand I take. A note of passing incidents to make. And this I do, kind reader for your sake.

There was some frost on the morning of the 28th, still more the 29th, and a very little the 30th ult.

Mr. E. E. Wentworth's farm is situated on a high of land, nearly west from here, and about two and a half miles distant. His fields ascend gradually to the north-east, at the south of which is a small ravine, about 20 feet deep, which inclines to the east at an angle of about 15 degrees. Some winters this ravine is filled level full of snow, and being in plain sight from my dooryard, it is the last snow to disappear in the spring. Mr. Wentworth informs me that he has seen snow there until the 21st of June. Yesterday, being the first day of the month, and seeing a plenty of snow there, I thought I would take a morning trip over and see how it looked at close quarters; so starting about 5 o'clock in the morning before breakfast, I arrived at Mr. W.'s just as he was milking. I told him my errand, and he said, "O yes; you are after something for the DEMOCRAT."

But I would like to know how he knew. He accompanied me to the spot, about 50 rods from the house, and found the snowdrift 34 paces long, 5 wide, and 2 feet deep. I slid on it, ate what I could of it on the spot, and brought away a pail full of it, so as to have some ice water for breakfast. Mr. W. is quite a student of nature; he showed me a number of pear trees that he grafted on to wild pear stock six years ago, which were in full bloom; he says they will do well for a while, but eventually the scion will outgrow the stock so as to break off. He then took me down into the woods about 20 rods to an old brush pile, and told me to look in a certain direction "and see what I could see;" I did so, and saw a partridge sitting on a nest of 12 eggs under the corner of the pile. He told me the number of eggs she had under her, for although we stood within eight feet of her she did not budge an inch. I had seen partridge's nests before, with the same number of eggs, but never with the old bird on. I arrived home in just three hours from the time of starting, with a first-class appetite for breakfast. The Journal correspondent who crossed over a snow drift a few weeks ago, one foot deep on Patch mountain, will please take notice of the first part of this story.

This must answer for the present time. But soon will give a simple tale in rhyme; And though not rising to the scale of prime, The sentiment, perchance, may be sublime. so look out for it. L. D.

A REMARKABLE DREAM FULFILLED.

The Home Farm in its historic notes of Norridgewock, says:

Two boys of about fourteen years were once standing in the street in front of the Court House, when one said to the other "I dreamed last night that you were presiding as judge in that Court house, and I was called upon to act as chaplain." The dream was received with a laugh of incredulity, passed from their thoughts as an idle vagrancy, and did not recur to them till thirty years afterwards when the dream in every particular was fulfilled. One of the boys graduated from Bowdoin College and entered the ministry, in which he holds an honorable position, and the other studied law, and was at length, appointed judge of the Supreme Court of Maine, which office he still honorably fills.

This remarkable coincidence was fulfilled in the persons of Hon. Charles Danforth, now judge of the Supreme Court of Maine, and Dr. Charles Allen, presiding Elder in one of the Maine districts of the Methodist church—both born and raised in Norridgewock.—Ad. vocate.

—The Prince of Wales' tour in Ireland has done much to discredit the Parnellites, and much to draw Ireland into closer sympathies with the world. It has shown that the agitators who live on conspiracy and the revolutionists who live on murder, are powerless with the Irish nation when its heart is stirred by the sight of kindness and courage.

Scientific men held seventeen distinct theories as to the cause of earthquakes. But any old Californian will tell you that just as soon as the house begins to shake, the scientist will skip down the stairs, for all the world like the man who hasn't the faintest idea regarding the real cause of the disturbance.

WHAT THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT DR. R. C. FLOWER'S REMEDIES.

March 1885. FLOWER MEDICINE CO., BOSTON, MASS. "I have been suffering for some four years past with a chronic disease, rendering me very miserable. Almost everything I ate disagreed with me, and there was no one thing that I could eat feeling sure that it would agree with me. About two months ago I made up my mind to try your Liver and Stomach Sanifire. Previous to this I had been treated by physicians, and had also tried about every preparation on the market without benefit. I have now taken five bottles of the Sanifire and am feeling like a different person. I eat with a relish anything my appetite craves, and never experience the least distress or inconvenience. I approached a doctor and said the other day with fear and trembling, but after taking it, did not feel any discomfort. I relish my food and it always agrees with me and my general health is better than it has been for years. W. R. MORGAN, 6 Maine Place, Lynn, Mass.

"I feel as if I had been cured of my disease. Dr. Flower's Nerve Pills have done for me what the best medical talent of Philadelphia and Boston could not accomplish. They have entirely cured me of a nervous prostration, which was the curse of my life, and which I had feared for business. Every pill's worth its weight in gold. A. A. BROWN, 31 India Street, Boston, Mass., May 1885.

"Your Liver Sanifire has been worth a dollar a drop to me. After three long years of indescribable suffering and treatment by physicians of various schools without relief, I commenced the use of your Sanifire. I am today a living example of its merit, and wish that every member of the great army of sufferers from liver and stomach troubles could be made familiar with the fact that they can be cured. G. F. T. MOFFATT, M. D., D. D. S., 132 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass., writes:

"I have found in Dr. Flower's Nerve Pills a remedy that I can heartily recommend. Their action is prompt, and their good effects permanent. H. W. FISHER, 42 Tremont St., Boston, writes: "Since I have been taking Dr. Flower's Liver and Stomach Sanifire I can say to you I would rather pay Ten Dollars a bottle than to be without it. Its beneficial effects have far exceeded my anticipations, and I do not overstate the truth when I say it has made a new man of me. I heartily recommend it to all sufferers from liver and stomach troubles, as I believe it to be a good remedy."
