

PLAN OF THE NEW CITY BUILDING.

Complete Description of the Structure Which Is To Be a Credit and Saving to the City of Rockland.

The Courier-Gazette in this issue is at considerable pains and expense to demonstrate to its readers what is now being done by the city government in the way of providing a new police station. We feel that the end justifies the means in that it will satisfy many readers.

Readers in full at the time his recommendation was made, was to have a two story brick building erected on the site of the present lockup. The means for doing this were to be found in the $5000 trust fund left to the city by the late Joseph Farwell of Unity and the plans had been drawn up for a duplicate of the steam engine on Spring street and intended to be built alongside. This would not only give us very good looking structure but would furnish ample accommodations for a police station and municipal court room.

gine house will be put to precisely the same use as they are now. In the basement of the duplicate building, which will have a frontage of about 31 feet and extending back from the street about 50 feet, will be the police station. The station proper will occupy a space of about 2500 feet in the center of which will be arranged to steel cages after the same fashion as the county jail with a corridor extending around them. A separate cell will also be located in the basement together with a watchman's room and a room for lockers.

To the left of the broad, handsome entrance on the first floor will be the office of the city clerk and tax collector, about 1700 feet, and to the right of the entrance the marshal's office about 1500 feet. Opening off from the city clerk's office will be a strongly constructed vault and a commodious closet, while the marshal's office has two annexes in the shape of a closet and a private office where consultations may be had with the chief of police.

The rear half of the first floor will be devoted to a municipal court room about 2000 feet, from which the vault is also accessible. The prisoners will be taken up from the basement by a rear staircase on the interior and landing directly into the dock. This floor also affords accommodations for two women's cells.

The second floor will be devoted to offices for the overseers of the poor, assessors, city treasurer and board of registration. The office to be occupied by the assessors is marked school board in the above diagram, but as the school board meetings are infrequent they will not conflict in the least with the use of the quarters by the assessors. These offices will be well lighted, are commodious and open off into the vault as was the case on the first floor.

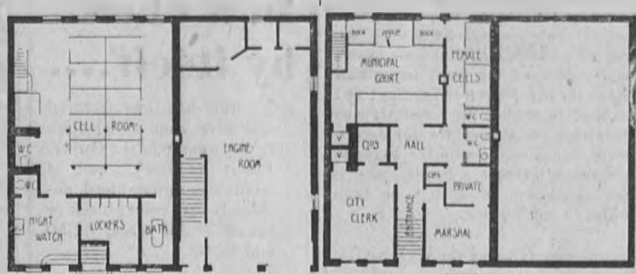

The third floor gives space for the board of aldermen's room about 2000 feet, a common council chamber about 3000 feet, a committee room opening off each, a coat room, a toilet room and the lobby. Each floor as a matter of fact is thoroughly provided with closets and nothing that can contribute to convenience seems to have been overlooked by the architect.

The plans and specifications were placed in the hands of the local contractors Monday and an extra set has been kept at the office of the city clerk on Lincolnton street for the use of out of town parties who may wish to furnish a bid. The committee decided not to limit the field to Rockland contractors but in the case of an out of town contractor being the successful bidder a clause will be placed in the contract requiring him to employ Rockland labor, not necessarily implying that everybody employed must be a local workman, but where good men can be obtained at the going wages Rockland is to have the preference. It is to be hoped for the benefit of all concerned that the lowest bid may be furnished by a Rockland man but this of course rests with them. Bids for plumbing, heating and piping have also been asked for. All work on the new building is to begin just as soon after the contract is made as the successful bidder can get material upon the spot and the specifications call for the completion of the work by Jan. 1, 1898.

The committee is already busy upon the preliminary details which is a task of no small proportions in itself. Arrangements have been made with the county commissioners by which the basement of the court house may be used for prisoners temporarily, the marshal payable by the city, has been established at 35 per cent or considerably less than $300 a year on the $7,900. To offset this the city will save $550 a year in the way of rental so that instead of costing anything to put up the fine building which we have attempted to describe, but to which the code do better justice, the city will be saving almost $250 a year. This affords Rockland an opportunity guaranteeing that the utmost care shall be taken to preserve the cleanliness of the quarters and to prevent them from becoming in any way a nuisance. This step taken the work of tearing down our last dingy, decrepit, otherwise known as the lockup can begin the moment a contract has been signed for the construction of the new building. Arrangements have also been made whereby the five city horses, the hook and ladder truck, and the city tools may be stored at Arthur H. Crockett's stable on Lindsay street. A watchman will sleep at the stable which is already provided with a fire alarm tapper and the efficiency of the fire department will in no wise suffer from the transfer, which at best will be but for a short time. These quarters were obtained at very reasonable terms thanks to the pride Mr. Crockett takes in seeing the new building go up. And the C.G. is glad to state that this city stable will be erected just west of the fine building which we have attempted to describe, but to which the code do better justice, the city will be saving almost $250 a year. This affords Rockland an opportunity to know how much it is possible to do on a comparatively small sum and what is still better with no increase in the municipal debt. When Mayor Butler read his special address before a joint convention of the city government a few months ago, and urged the need of immediately replacing the old lockup with a modern police station, neither he nor the members of the city government dreamed that, figuratively speaking, the foundation had been laid for not only a new police station but for an ornamental and commodious building affording ample space for city offices and city government rooms, such as the above plan represents.

It all came about in this way. Mayor Butler's idea, presented to our $5000 trust fund left by the late Mary C. Titcomb. Six thousand dollars it was figured would put up such a building as Mayor Butler recommended, very handsomely, and the city government, more than pleased with the suggestion voted unanimously to go ahead. A committee comprising Aldermen Eaten, W. Porter and Arthur A. Blackington, and Councilmen Frank A. Winslow, Emory R. Thomas and A. W. Gregory was appointed, this committee organizing the succeeding day with Alderman Porter as chairman and Councilman Winslow as secretary.

HAINES' ATTEMPTED ESCAPE

The Notable Incident in Thomaston Prison Affairs Again Brought to Mind.

The Willis tragedy in Charlestown reminds many Maine men in the attack of convict Sam Haines in the Thomaston prison a few years ago. Haines was sent to prison for life for the killing of an officer sent to arrest him; the murder was very brutal and unnecessary. Haines, a small, mild-mannered man, was allowed some freedom about the prison; he used to make trinkets with a knife and sell them to visitors. One day he came up to the guard room, the bar between the yard and freedom, with his tray of nutmeg and knocked on the door. When the guard appeared Haines threw into his eyes some acid which completely blinded him. Haines dropped his trinkets like lead and dashed through the guard room to the outer door, to which he had a key.

But he had not reckoned on the presence in the room of another man. His attack had been made at a time when commonly but one man was on duty there. On this day a belated guard was there. He was behind the door as it opened and the instant he saw what had happened he leaped for a loaded Winchester rifle which always stands in the corner there. Haines heard him and turned swiftly. He drew a long knife and, dashing about to disconcert the aim of the guard, made for the latter like a tiger, with blazing eyes. But the rifle was too much for him, and the guard was cool. Carefully aiming the weapon at the infuriated man before him the guard fired; Haines fell, but through the lung.

When Haines recovered, after a time in the hospital he was taken to court in Rockland and was there sentenced by Justice Peters, to solitary confinement for one year. It was a dreadful punishment but it fitted the offense.

and was undoubtedly just. Haines was locked in a solitary cell where for one year he saw nobody but one keeper, was forbidden to speak aloud, was deprived of the services of a barber and was held rigidly to cruel rules devised for such men as he.

At the end of his time the warden took him over to Rockland for another sentence, and asked the court to send him back to the cell for another year. Justice Peters refused to do so. One of the guards who went with Haines to Rockland on that occasion told me the other day that on the way over, from the car on which the party was riding, Haines saw the men working in the quarries in the hot sun. "If it was that or the cell for me," he said, pointing to the sweating backs of the crew, "I'd take the cell."

Such punishment as this is what Herbert Willis escaped by dying of his wounds in Charlestown jail.—Lia O. Type in Bangor Commercial.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured in 3 Days.

Morton L. Hill, of Lebanon, Ind., says: My wife had Inflammatory Rheumatism in every muscle and joint, her suffering was terrible and her body and face were swollen all beyond recognition; had been in bed for six weeks and had eight physicians but received no benefit until she tried the MYSTIC CURE FOR RHEUMATISM. It gave immediate relief and she was able to walk about in three days. I am sure it saved her life."

STATE AGENTS

THEORIES AND TEACHINGS OF PRES. ANDREWS

I.

The resignation of the President of Brown University has excited a degree of curiosity doubtless in the minds of many readers of The Courier-Gazette, to know just what are his published views that have cost him his position. I shall endeavor to present the fundamental truths, or principles, of his argument against the prevailing monetary standard as set forth in his book entitled "An Honest Dollar." The most concise statement of them may be put into a few sentences:

1. A period of falling prices is not due to falling costs but is a time of widespread distress to all classes except those who are possessors of wealth in the form of gold or based on it.

2. The cause of such falling prices is the appreciation, or steady increase of value, of the gold money.

3. The continued existence of the gold standard perpetuates the fall of prices with all its train of hardships.

4. The origin of the gold standard is the ignorance of Lord Liverpool, his contemporaries and successors, about monetary science and experience. But once adopted by such a leading power as England it drew after it in course of time all the other great nations.

5. A return to a bimetallic currency basis would produce a contrary effect to the gold standard in rising prices and general prosperity. I propose now to take up each of these general propositions and give President Andrews' grounds for his belief. There has not yet been a calm and unprejudiced discussion of the money question among the people of the United States. It was pitched head over heels into the last presidential campaign and knocked about with more view to getting votes than to discovering the true path to peace and prosperity. It will doubtless be discussed with less heat at the next session of congress, to justify the several speakers in the positions that they occupy with more or less reason. In the full between, a good opportunity may be afforded to the large but noisy class who would like to be persuaded in their own minds as to what principles are supported by past experience and on rational grounds.

1. Falling prices must be distinguished from falling costs. They may occur together, the former on account of the latter. They may have no such relation to each other. The price of woolen goods may fall while the cost of producing them remains as high as ever, costs may even rise while prices are falling. For prices may fall simply because the money in which they are estimated is rising. This is a confusing decrease of cost of production, not a decrease of cost of production. It is the impulse to hoard. Appreciation of money tempts holders of money and of titles certain to be paid in money to cling to these and not to invest in industry. It intensifies the demand for bonds and depresses that for stocks. This present is the age of bond holders. That all are so anxious to invest in bonds is from an industrial point of view an alarming symptom. If there is anywhere to be had a mortgage on wealth already realized, it practically certain to be realized, everyone rushes for it, while new undertakings which once would have been thought full of promise and would be so still but for the money difficulty, strong capitalists avoid, unless they can engage in them under special shelter or guarantee, like a trust or a very high tariff. It is to be hoped for the benefit of the logical relation between the gold standard and a high protective tariff. The tariff is said to be brought in to remedy the evils produced by depreciating money. "Irresponsible, dishonest, unbusinesslike," is the cry, and go on trying to produce unbusinesslike. Some of them by sweating their help have a little success. The winners however speedily find their way into bondholders' pockets. One set of weak producers falls; another rises and runs the same course. Always some are making the endeavor so that the bondholder never falls of supporters. For my part I pity the class of small, brave industrialists who as much as I do the men who toil for wages. They are all made greater alike. A business situation which thus coddles the bondholder and snubs the stockholder cannot be healthy."

It is interesting in this connection to remember that this was written soon after the Wilson bill became law, and President Andrews made this prediction: "The McKinley rates have been lowered somewhat and if the change had been preceded by proper monetary reform the reduction might be permanent, and perhaps in a little time, with the approval of all made greater still. But I fear that it cannot be permanent. Unless monetary reform comes soon, the tariff which the Democrats have been at great pains to give us will speedily be ripped in pieces and rates of duty be imposed higher than those of the McKinley act. A low tariff policy can never be established in these United States so long as gold alone continues the basis of our currency." In these and other paragraphs that I have not room to quote it may be seen that Dr. Andrews convicts the gold Democrats of great inconsistency. It is the appreciating gold dollar that induces a continuous fall in prices, and this in turn necessitates high protection to home industries. The attempt to maintain a gold standard and dispense with a protective tariff, if our author is correct, is like increasing the patient's fever and discharging the physician simultaneously.

The effects of falling prices due to an increase of the purchasing power of the gold dollar are thus enumerated: Robbing debtors by compelling them to pay on deferred obligations more than they owe—not more dollars but more valuable dollars; giving to creditors all the advantage of improved means of production in addition to what was usually and legally due them; depriving industries of all kinds of incentive to work by a constant decrease of the value of the product without a corresponding decrease of cost of production; protective tariff and trust, exclusive offered to counteract the fall of prices, which is however actually the rise of the value of the gold money—strikes, lockouts and similar disturbances of peace and prosperity.

We can't get lower than this, and about the actual relation of the prevailing money standard to the long continued "hard times," it would certainly indicate an irreducible want of sympathy and conscience in Dr. Andrews' Waterbury view of these and yet come to the trustees' requests to keep them to himself. He may be wrong; these convictions of his errors. But unless he is wrong in his ideas of the cause of long-standing evils he would be inexorably wrong in putting his light under a bushel. F. S. BICKFORD.

THE FIRE BUG

Insurance Commissioner Is Laying Plans to Jump On His Neck—Two Many Fires.

If the Maine fire-bug is as wise as he has been busy he will spread his wings and clear out while there is yet time, for Insurance Commissioner Carr is after him with a stick which is getting sharper all the time.

The stick which Mr. Carr is using is the law passed by the last legislature, and though it isn't so long nor so strong as he might wish, it is doing good work. The law is that relating to the investigation of fires with a view to ascertaining if incendiary origin.

The law went into effect May 30 and the insurance commissioner's office is just finding out what was accomplished during its initial quarter.

"We are well pleased with the way it is working," says Mr. Carr, "and if it continues to do as well during the next nine months we hope to have something mightily satisfactory in the way of a report for the first year."

"This depends so largely on the work of city and town officials that I should like to urge them to fresh endeavors. The law says: 'When property is destroyed or damaged by fire it shall be the duty of municipal officers in cities and towns to immediately notify the insurance commissioner of the same, and to investigate, or cause to be investigated, the cause, circumstances and origin of the fire, and especially to examine whether it was the result of carelessness or of design.' Now that clause which says 'or design' is the most important, for it is the duty of the commissioner to appoint their chief engineers as investigators, he would have an opportunity to commence his investigations even while the fire was in progress. It is much easier, something to ascertain the cause of a fire while it is burning than when there is only a pile of smoking bricks. But it is a minor matter who investigates the fires, so long as they do their work speedily and thoroughly."

"Here is the way we like to have it done," and the commissioner held up to view a 51-page type-written report of a Portland fire.

"Of course we don't expect small towns to do things up to quite this manner, but we hope to receive full accounts of all fires. I have stated the authorities of most of the cities and some of the larger towns and find them all eager to assist. When we give the figures they are startled. In Maine last year there was a property loss by fire of $10,000,000 which was supposed to be an extraordinary or unknown. Think of that, over half a million 'doubtful'! It's too much. In six months, in the city of Portland in a total loss of $3,500,000, $14,000,000 was returned as doubtful. We can't get lower than this, and about the actual relation of the prevailing money standard to the long continued 'hard times,' it would certainly indicate an irreducible want of sympathy and conscience in Dr. Andrews' Waterbury view of these and yet come to the trustees' requests to keep them to himself. He may be wrong; these convictions of his errors. But unless he is wrong in ment and the arrest of the suspected fire-bug in Portland is due to this department.

"We hope to show fire-bugs that it is dangerous to set fires in the State of Maine. If they once get it into their heads that we are going to investigate fires of a suspicious nature, they will be mighty careful how they set them. There may not be so many convictions under this law, for it is harder work to convict a man of arson than of murder, but if properly enforced it will greatly reduce the moral hazard."

Insurance Commissioner Carr is hopeful—I've already mentioned that fact several times. He thinks that the end of this work will be the creation of the office of fire marshal. Massachusetts has one and could not keep house without him. He is Marshall Whitcomb and she says him a good round salary and does it gladly, for he saves her citizens uncounted thousands every year. He has a record for convicting 85 per cent of his arrests and has the state so thoroughly covered with deputy marshals that it is next to impossible for an incendiary to get away.

So great is his name for certainty that lawyers counsel his arrests as almost certain convictions. There is a good story told in this connection.

There was a fire in a suburb of Boston in the home of a German.

Whitcomb went out to investigate. He jumped the German and his wife for two hours in the presence of a stenographer.

In a short time the papers were served, charging the German with arson. He sent for a lawyer.

"He beat a fire with my house and my day say I set it on fire to purpose and I want a lawyer," he told the attorney.

"Have you told anyone about this fire?"

"Nein."

"Haven't talked to anyone?"

"Vell, dat lah. My wife, Katrina, und me talk mit Mr. Whitcomb, und told him how we did not set der fire."

"That settles it, man," cried the lawyer, "What you need is an underwriter, not a physician."

IN A CORNER OF THE LIBRARY

In the August number of Cosmopolis a story by Mrs. Steel will appear under the title of "Fire and Ice."

It is reported that Dr. Conan Doyle refused the task, lately undertaken by Quiller Couch, of completing Stevenson's "St. Ives."

Signor Crispien has been writing his memoirs. They will appear, promptly, this Winter under the title of "Seventy Years of Italian Life."

Mme. Grand's new novel will be brought out by the Appletons about Nov. 1. It is said that this book will trace the development of a woman genius from her girlhood to her marriage.

The Century will publish next month a new edition of Joseph Jefferson's "Autobiography," with a supplementary chapter. The last volume of Professor Shonks' "Napoleon" will also be issued in September.

A series of "Lectures on Landscape" originally delivered at Oxford in 1893 by Mr. Ruskin, and not hitherto published in book form, is to be printed in a volume this fall by George Allen with a number of illustrations.

The translations from Maurus Javal are to be continued, and the English publishers propose, in fact, to bring out all his best-known works. The next tale in the series will be "The Lion of Janina; or, the Last of the Janissaries."

McClure's Magazine for September will contain a new ballad by Kipling—a dramatic personification of English rule in Egypt. There will also be a humorous story by Robert Barr, reciting the discomfiture of a New York confidence man by a kindly but ingenious and resolute newboy.

One of the sumptuous art books of the coming Christmas season will be a large volume entitled "Christ and His Mother in Italian Art." The pictures will be selected from those devoted to the Madonna, to the Holy Family, to the Nativity, to the Crucifixion and to various incidents in the life of the Saviour. The Rev. Canon Eytton and Julia Cartwright (Mrs. Ayl) will edit the book.

The passionate appeals to heaven for rain made by the poets of the August magazines show the disadvantages magazine editors labor under from having to make up the numbers of their periodicals a year or so in advance. These poems were doubtless written in some dry season, and the editors had no means of knowing last year that they would be a misfit this season. A weather bureau with a long-distance predictor would be a boon to those gentlemen.—Indianapolis Journal.

The list of new books on the Harper press includes several promising titles. "Certain Accepted Heroes," by Henry Cabot Lodge is presumably a work of History. "March and Music," by Mme. M. Marchand, will appeal to musical students. "Poultry Higgles" "White Man's Africa," which has been running through the Magazine is to come out in volume, and among the works of fiction there will be one production, "Mrs. Keith's Crime," by that vivacious and skillful writer, Mrs. W. K. Clifford.

Our English friends have a somewhat eccentric taste in American poets. Walt Whitman is their first choice and Joaquin Miller the second. This seems to be one of the former an elevator boy in this country, said to have become a literary lion in London. Both Whitman and Miller must have come from the present English laureate, and the new negro bard will not amount to much, if he fails to show more fire and felicity than Austin has done at any period of his career.

The Macmillan Co. has issued the first instalment of an edition of Boswell, in the Temple Classics series. There will be six of the beautiful little volumes. This series is one of the best among those which give us reprints of the masters. Carlyle's French Revolution, in the "Temple" form, is a delight to possess, and the Boswell is quite as welcome. From these we may expect to see the announcement of a one-volume edition of Boswell, edited by Percy Fitzgerald. The unique feature of this edition, which is printed in double columns from a new font of type, will be a biographical dictionary of all the persons mentioned in the book.

The Putnam have issued another edition (the seventh) of that admirable manual, "Authors and Publishers," which was first published in 1883, bearing the initials of G. H. and J. B. Putnam upon its title page. The work is now considerably larger than it was. It is comprehensive in fact, to the last degree, and gives clear and accurate information as to all the steps necessary to be taken in the publication of a book that an author safely upon it. Finally, the book has been printed in really handsome form, with beautiful type on good paper. The cover is artistic and dainty.

A friend of Jean Ingelow's, setting a few recollections of her upon paper, says that she "never lost a sort of wonder at her fame." She would have been perhaps more surprised than ever if she could have foreseen the tributes to her work which have appeared since her death. Long since left in obscurity by readers to whom the world does not look for final judgments on poetry, she seems nevertheless to have been appreciated everywhere. The fact is evidence of her great virtue, a virtue which promises to keep her work alive for some time—sincere feeling. She may have been unimpassioned, even mediocre, but she was genuine and possessed a tenderness, as the result, which touches the imagination with unmistakable persistence.—N. Y. Tribune.

"At 94 years of age Grandma Lamson is a regular reader of The Courier-Gazette; she has had wide experience in newspaper reading and declares your paper to be the best published. This was a remark casually dropped by a gentleman at the cashier's desk in renewing his subscription the other day.

The strongest feature of The Courier-Gazette—it has many strong ones—is its home news. That is what renders it especially acceptable to home readers. People who have a wide knowledge of Knox county affairs, such as this elderly lady possesses, find a constant source of delight in perusing its well-laden columns of news and gossip from the numerous towns.

The paper sent to you twice a week for only two dollars a year.

The best Republican campaign documents this year are the daily reports of increasing business and the general revival of prosperity.

The ship owners and outfitters of the Pacific coast have good reason to believe in the Klondike bonanza. There are more ways to get gold than thawing it.

The amount taken out of Uncle Sam's pocket by "antidumping importations" is estimated at $32,000,000. It is only one more item connected with the mistake of breaking down the first McKinley tariff.

When a farmer can not help being prosperous he is bound to cease being a Populist, and this is the situation of thousands of American citizens who voted for Bryan last year on account of the depression of agriculture.

A Salt Lake crank asserts that "Our farmers have not made good wages in five years," and all because free silver has been rejected. The farmers are too busy with 80c wheat and paying of mortgages to listen to such rant.

The Republicans created the "luck"—all of it except the large crops—which is going to aid them in the canvasses of the next few years. Good times always help the party which is in power, especially when that party, as in the present instance, made the good times.

"Gold is appreciating!" shriek the silverites. Oh, no. A gold dollar will buy less wheat or other farm products and less commodities in general than it did six months or a year ago. A gold dollar will buy less labor than it formerly did. Commodities and wages are "appreciating," and not gold.

The present dynasty in Spain has two sets of enemies, the Carlites and the Republicans, but neither of them is very formidable at this time. Americans would be glad to see a republic established in Spain, and in every other monarchical country, but the chances for a republic in Spain are shadowy. The Republican experiment in that country a quarter of a century ago did not turn out happily, although it did as well as any reasonable person had a right to expect. The masses of the Spanish people had neither the education nor the training which would have fitted them for self-government, nor have they now. Of course a double rebellion, or an uprising of the Republicans and Carlites simultaneously, under able leaders, would be a serious menace to the present unpopular house. But the Republicans never had able leaders, though they had an abundance of good talkers and able writers. In the matter of leadership the Carlites have always been poorly equipped except during their first rising two-thirds of a century ago.

ADVERTISING STEADILY.

It is a well-established principle of advertising that the steady advertiser is the successful one. Look at the concerns that have made fortunes and you will see that this is true. It is equally true of the local merchants. Whether he advertises little or much he should have his announcements steadily before the public. The Courier-Gazette, going steadily twice every week into all the homes of Knox county, is the paper for local merchants to advertise in.

The new city building, soon to arise on Spring street, full particulars of which are printed on another page, will be another milestone marking Rockland's substantial progress. It is the credit of Mayor Butler's administration that even in the face of prevailing financial stringency, ways and means have been found to make this addition to the city's property, not only without increasing the burden of the tax payers but actually lightening that load by a small though satisfactory reduction in current expenses. These things emphasize the wisdom of electing to office men who are capable of intelligently directing municipal concerns and originating ideas for the city's betterment. It is very easy to administer the affairs of a city when nothing is to be done; but to strike out new suggestions that shall be as valuable as this latest enterprise requires brains graced by independent thought and a capacity for business organization. Good bye to the Spring street disgrace, and thanks to the city government. And thanks besides to the county commissioners for their generous proffer of the court house cells while the new lockup is building; and as well to Arthur B. Crockett, who furnishes his stables for fire department uses at such reasonable terms as practically makes it a donation and is particularly commendable as an exhibition of public spirit.

RALLY ROUND THE FLAG

Edwin Libby Post, G. A. R., issues a Circular to the People Regarding its Fair.

Edwin Libby Post, G. A. R., of this city, is leaving no stone unturned that in three days, Sept. 21, 22 and 23, shall be a great social and financial success. The voting contest is daily gathering momentum and by the opening day of the fair nothing else will be talked of in this city and vicinity. The Post desires to define its position a little more clearly before our citizens has issued the following circular:

"To the residents of Rockland and vicinity: 'Edwin Libby Post contemplates holding a three days' fair to occur Sept. 21, 22 and 23. To make a success of the undertaking they wish the assistance of the citizens and ladies of Rockland in making the arrangements and bringing the results to a successful issue. For several weeks they have been doing preliminary work and holding committee meetings at G. A. R. hall. They are now ready for final suggestions and arrangements. Previous fairs have been held by the Post, one in 1882, the second in 1886, the third in 1889, the fourth in 1894, all of which were successful. 'It has been the aim of the G. A. R. to see that none of its members should call upon the town. How well that policy has been carried out must be very evident.

"Therefore they very properly call upon the people to assist in the good work of making the coming G. A. R. fair a great financial success.

"In the Spring of 1891, Edwin Libby Post purchased the Lovejoy property on Limecock and School streets, as a site for a memorial building. They paid for all of the available funds with the exception of enough to properly care for their charity cells.

"In 1893, they offered to give their interest in it to the Rockland Public Library if they would erect thereon a memorial building, giving the Post the free use of a hall therein during their existence as a Post, which would be only a comparatively few years. Owing to the hard times they were unable to raise sufficient funds to erect the building and the offer of the Post was not accepted.

"In 1895 the building on the lot being so much out of repair that they could not rent it without a large outlay, they concluded to remodel it into a hall for their own accommodation. This makes them good home, but they find themselves in debt $2,000, which is quite a burden to carry, on which to pay interest, outside of their regular expense of keeping up the organization and their relief work.

"Since Edwin Libby Post was organized they have paid out for charity about $4,600 besides individual contributions to quite an amount. This has been fairly easy in the past. But now their members are getting old, without the ambition or ability to work for the public as in years past. When we consider that the war closed 32 years ago we can plainly see that the youngest who participated to any extent must now be past 50 years of age and the average about 60 years.

"They purchased the above named property for a public purpose and as they have never asked the citizens to erect a monument they now ask them to assist in securing to them this lot of land so that some day there will be erected a memorial building that shall show to future generations that Rockland citizens remembered the men and boys who filled her quota, when the calls came to unite her government. To continue their work and secure this property they call upon the citizens to assist in the good work.

"For these reasons the fair of Sept. 1897 is to be held. And as the boys rallied in those terrible years of war to protect the homes and property of the citizens, let the citizens rally and give Edwin Libby Post the assistance needed to make their fair a financial success. Per order of EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE."

The Shakers of Mount Lebanon, a community of simple, honest, God-fearing men and women, have prepared the Shaker Digestive Cordial for many years, and it is always the same, simple, honest cordial medicine that has helped to make the Shakers the healthy, long-lived people that they are. The Shakers never have indigestion. This is partly owing to their simple mode of life, partly to the wonderful properties of Shaker Cordial, which invigorates the stomach and all its glands so that after awhile they don't need help. As evidence of the honesty of Shaker Digestive Cordial, the formula is printed on every bottle. Sold by druggists, price 10 cents to $1.00 per bottle.

HYLER AND WARDWELL WINNERS

Of Bicycles Given By The Courier-Gazette—Both Popular Young Ladies—Result of An Exciting Contest.

THOMASTON.
Miss Eva R. Hyler.....16,144
Miss Alta McCoy.....13,394
Miss Cecelia M. Roney.....8,643

CAMDEN.
Miss Fannie Wardwell.....22,064
Miss Blanche Sullivan.....11,000

Total vote.....68,221

The contest is over. And with it the excitement, the excitement and the hard work which attends such contests.

The contestants are glad and to be so. The young ladies, who won and who will have the pleasure of riding first-class bicycles, are happy, while the young ladies who lost but who made a gallant fight are disappointed, but, nevertheless, are satisfied that the contest was conducted fairly and the count made with eminent justice to all concerned.

The contest commenced in our issue of Saturday, June 26, and the coupons commenced at once to come in.

The young ladies entered into the contest with commendable spirit and zeal.

Three contestants appeared in Thomaston, Miss Eva R. Hyler, Miss Alta McCoy and Miss Cecelia M. Roney. In Camden there were two, Miss Fannie Wardwell and Miss Blanche Sullivan.

This may seem a small number to enter into such an important contest but the fewness of the contestants made it all the more exciting, as every one of the young ladies enjoyed the possession of a large circle of friends.

It was evident from the start that the vote would be a big one but no one thought the total vote would reach such enormous proportions.

The single coupons were cut from the papers and there were thousands of them, but the large majority of the coveted slips of paper were obtained by the faithful, persistent canvassing made by the contestants themselves.

The publication of the many letters received from known and unknown friends from all parts of the Union would make mighty interesting reading.

The contest closed Thursday evening and as early as six o'clock the people began to gather at the C-G. counting room and with them came votes in large and small quantities.

Those immediately interested brought the coupons in valises and boxes, and the gentle men selected to do the counting looked on with eyes bulging out at the idea of the work laid out for them.

The clock tower was attended with outward calmness but inwardly hearts palpitated with unusual palpitation.

The contestants all wore a look of confidence yet each realized that all could not be winners.

George E. Torrey, who has a timepiece that never varies a second from government time, was selected as time-keeper and as the closing hour approached he stood in the window and announced the quarter minutes.

On the exact second he called "Time's up," and as he parted his lips to make the announcement Fred Shepherd shoved in a single coupon for Miss Hyler. Fred performed valiant work for this young lady and he desired the honor of depositing the last vote. It must have been a mascot.

Counters were put at work at once. They were E. R. Davis, Arthur P. Wardwell, Charles Moran, W. S. Keene and E. G. Copeland.

Their work seemed to be an endless job but they plunged into it with determination and the little slips of paper rapidly disappeared under the manipulation of nimble fingers.

The counting was interestingly watched by a crowd that filled every available space in the office, while another crowd lined the sidewalk in front of the windows.

From Camden, Thomaston and all parts of the city came anxious enquiries over the telephone regarding the progress of the count, showing that more than the contestants were interested.

In three hours the job was completed and the counters, spectators, contestants and ourselves heaved sighs of relief.

The contest was over and so was all the excitement which attended it.

Miss Hyler and Miss Wardwell have the congratulations of numerous friends, while Miss McCoy, Miss Roney and Miss Sullivan come in for sympathy.

The votes have been carefully preserved and will be kept for two weeks in case of any dispute or any request of contestants or friends to have them recounted. At the end of two weeks the votes will be destroyed.

The total vote of 68,221 is the largest ever polled in any contest run by this paper and we doubt if it has ever been beaten by any paper in the state.

The vote shows is evidence that the contest was a success from start to finish.

We take this opportunity of extending our thanks to all who in any way aided in the success, especially thanking the young lady contestants.

We know the successful young ladies will enjoy their bicycles and we rejoice with them. All voted The Courier-Gazette a great paper and several requests have been made for another contest. Perhaps the requests will be granted.

WHIFFS FROM SALT WATER

The Bath Iron Works has again proved to be the successful bidder on the new lightship, bids for the construction of which were reflected a vast amount of credit upon Commodore J. Pierpont Morgan, who planned the Government, making four in all.

John S. Emery & Co., Boston ship brokers, have sold the schooner Two Brothers, 81 tons, to Capt. E. N. Everett of Somerville, and the vessel has since been resold to parties in Weymouth N. S. and will be placed under the British flag. She will engage in trade between Nova Scotia and Boston. The Two Brothers was built at Damariscotta in 1833.

The deepest dive on record is said to be that of a man in the employ of W. J. Meyers, at the wreck of the ship Cape Horn of Pichidangy Bay, Chili, in 1869, at a depth of 340 feet. He brought up three bars of copper, but died after his second descent. Another diver named Christiansen recently recovered some material from the wreck of the tug Maritime, at Seattle, in 196 feet of water.

A calculation of the charges effected during the month of July for the transportation of American grain to Europe shows that it will involve the payment of over two millions of dollars to foreign shipowners, principally British, for the service, in any month of the cost of marine insurance on the cargoes. Whether this cost is borne by the consumer to any extent, as some argue, or not, the fact remains that if American ships had carried this grain the American owners of those ships would have been the much in pocket, and that much less gold to be exported to England would have been necessary.

All Records Broken.—A Big State Fair. "We have broken the record this year," says secretary Twichell, "and booked more and better stock and exhibits than have ever been seen at Lewiston. John A. Peters, Jr., of Ellsworth, is coming with his Jersey—the Herick Farm, Orono, with those noted R & Potted cattle, and hundreds of others, old as well as new exhibitors, will be there. It is to be the best exhibition of Maine stock ever seen. Hon. F. P. Bennett of Boston is to show his celebrated American Rambouillet sheep, and this feature will be simply immense. The show of Jerseys will far exceed former years, while other breeds will be as well represented.

The woman's race, with eight or more entries, will be one of the great attractions, with the marvelous horseless carriages. Race and make entries include nearly all the fast ones of Maine and insure sport never equalled on this track. Grand Army Day and Grange Day, with the best speakers of Maine and New Hampshire, in the big tent, will please thousands. The celebrated Knickerbocker Male Quartet of New York will occupy City Hall each evening. There's no end of entertainment, new, fresh, clean. Meet your friends at the Maine State Fair. Special trains from everywhere. Take a vacation Aug. 30, 31, Sept. 1, 2, 3, and go to Lewiston.

Miss Grace M. Ulm..... 164
Miss Caro A. Billings..... 163
Lulu M. Achorn..... 162

The list is open to all. Let anybody enter who wishes.

In addition to the piano contest which the members of Edwin Libby Post, G. A. R., are running, they will award two bicycles by a similar method. Votes will be sold at 25 cents each, and for every 25 cents worth of goods bought at any of the following stores a vote will be given free:

C. A. Haskell, Fruit and confectionery
E. E. Simmons, " "
F. H. Wainey, " "
Farmers' Exchange, " Grocery
W. T. Duncan, " "
H. H. Flint, " "
S. H. Hall, " "
D. W. Tins, " Fish Market
John T. Lathrop, " "

The wheels—a lady's and a gentleman's—will be on exhibition at J. F. Gregory & Son's store. The members of the committee, from whom votes may be obtained, are John W. Ulm, Maj. C. B. Greenhalgh, William Steele, T. C. Saunders and H. S. Hobbs.

TALK OF THE TOWN

A trifle Fallish o' nights.
Chas. Marr of Union was in the city Monday.

Frank Temple has opened a store at the head of Limerock street.

The Luce-Ulmer house on Park street has been treated to a new coat of paint.

A. H. Ulmer has treated his house and barn on Grace street to a new coat of paint.

Brook Cross sustained a sprained arm Tuesday, the result of being thrown from a team.

Quite a number of local Masons saw Amity Lodge, F. & A. M., work the third degree at Camden last night.

Fishing schooner Estelle S. Numan discharged 30,000 pounds of fresh mixed fish at C. E. Weeks, Wednesday.

R. C. Runkin does his classes in dancing Friday evening, Aug. 27. Further particulars will appear in our next issue.

Mevin O. Pease has presented the public library Lingard's History of England in 13 volumes, a rare and appreciable gift.

Baggage Master George Dudley of the Lewiston-Rockland route has been in charge of the Nobleboro excursion train this week.

Joe Donovan is acting as fireman aboard the steam yacht Hlawarra, owned by Eugene Tompkins of Boston Theatre. The yacht sailed for Boston Monday.

Frederick Gray of Camden who sells handsome painted and varnished boats, had brought in and disposed of 25,000 pound lilies up to last Tuesday. His is a familiar and popular figure along the street.

The famous cup defender Vigilant was in the harbor for a few hours Tuesday. Row boats commanded a premium as anxious people to go out in the harbor and get a close view of the beautiful craft.

Tickets are selling rapidly for the Krebbel Shakespearean recital, to be given at Philharmonic hall Monday evening. The fame of the lecturer and the interest of the subject indicate a most instructive and delightful evening.

The annual hay rack ride from Rockville passed through the city Tuesday. The rack was gaily decorated with green boughs and judging from the sounds which emanated from the moving bower the picnickers were having a merry time.

The cannon and shells recently donated to Edwin Libby Post by the government were placed in position on the Grand Army lot yesterday. The city is to lay a granite curb along the western side of the lot and will have the roadway neatly graded.

The candy shop made a centerpiece for the dining-table at the Bay Point sup, by A. C. Clarke, on exhibition at the T. H. Donohue pharmacy. It is a splendid piece of workmanship. Mr. Clarke leaves the hotel in September for the Boston Food Fair.

"Black Diamond," the colored bootblack and singer, is plying his craft to advantage about our streets these days. "Black Diamond" came from Bangor with a chip on each shoulder and ready to put the gloves on with anything in town for $25 a corner. It is strongly suspected that this offer is 95 per cent wind, however.

Rockland's delegation to the Grand Army camp in Buffalo left this week. Commander Cilley of Edwin Libby Post leaving Wednesday night in order to attend the annual reunion of the Army of the Potomac in Troy. It is thought that the veterans will be to hold the city in honor of the capital of Cincinnati and Richmond, Va., the capital of the one time Confederacy, is a candidate for the honor in 1899. The Young Men's Club is sending circulars broadcast asking for the return of the request and will send a big delegation to Buffalo with the same end in view. The circular, one of which was received by Col. L. D. Carver, is certainly a manly, straightforward document, save the serious accident proved to be only a heavy man falling and John was up and away as lively as his young partner. The degree corps went to work at once conferring the first and second degrees upon T. W. Sullivan, John E. Shialda, Jas. A. Hill, Vic. Testa, Chas. L. Lynch. The candidates were much pleased with the workings of the order. Edw. Morton of Boston made things very lively with his banjo. It was a treat, one of the features being "A Hot Time in Old Town Tonight," with chorus by the whole party. They raised the roof or as one expressed it "the hurricane deck." Many thanks are due Mr. Morton for his volunteered services not forgetting the colored gentlemen whose name was not learned. The Knights returned at an early hour, well pleased with the trip. There was no moon but with the genial Capt. Creed aboard there is no need of moon.

My Dear Julia:—

You may think I am about to change
my profession when you read my first prescription this week, but, really, I am not. I propose to stand by my present profession as long as I am needed in it and perhaps a little longer. Well, here is my reason for saying what I have—an excellent recipe for cake, which I trust
will make some one watch the Good Book. This was sent me by a kindly woman, and I am grateful for it. It is called

SCRIPTURE CAKE.

Before making this cake read all the precepts of Scripture carefully.

One cup of butter, read Judges v, 25;
two cups of sugar, read Jeremiah vi, 20;
three and one-half cups of flour, read
I Kings iv, 22; two cups raisins, read I
Samuel xxx, 12; two cups figs, read I
Samuel xxx, 12; one cup almonds, read
Genesis xlii, 11; one cup water, read
Genesis xlii, 20; six eggs, read Isaiah x, 14; a little salt, read Leviticus ii, 13; one large spoon of honey, read Exodus xvi, 31; apiece to taste, read I Kings x, 2. Follow Solomon's advice for making good boys, found in Proverbs xiii, 14, and you have a good cake. Use two spoonfuls of baking powder.

I received a letter from Lillie Bridge a few days ago, in which she sent me some of her favorite recipes, and I am sure you will be glad to have a copy of them.
The first one is

CHICKEN TOAST.

A delicate and delicious toast it is:
Chop cold chicken fine; season with pepper, salt and butter; add a little milk—
just enough to cover the chicken; simmer fifteen minutes and serve hot on butter toast. Of course, in this you could use the bits of chicken left over from roast of boiled one, and it is an excellent and economical way of using them.
Some other good rules which she sent me
were for cakes, and if there is one article of food above another which tries the nerves of women to prepare it is cake,
so here are the prescriptions for this nerve-destroying work.

MY FAVORITE WHITE CAKE.

One cup of butter and three cups of powdered sugar, rubbed to a cream; add
one cup of sweet milk, five cups of flour,
the whites of twelve eggs, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one cup of shredded citrus.

CUP CAKES.

One cup of butter, two cups of sugar,
one-half cup of sweet milk, four eggs,
beaten separately; three and one-half cups of flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of cream tartar;
flavor with lemon or vanilla.

A very nice sponge cake can be made from the following rule, and the quantities are sufficient for two good-sized loaves.
Just try it some day and let me know if you have any better one.

SPONGE CAKE.

One pound of sugar, one-half pound
of flour, nine eggs, leaving out three yolks; the juice and grated peel of one lemon; and one and one-half wineglass
of water. Pour the water over the sugar, and let the mixture come to a heat.
Beat the eggs separately, and add the whites to a stiff froth and the yolks until they are thick; put them together and add the hot sugar and water gradually,
and beat the whole until cold; then add
the flour and the lemon. I am sure you will find all of these rules of Lillie Bridge's reliable and ever so good.

In this last recipe the table of measures which I sent you some time ago
should prove of some value.

It won't be very long now before the summer wanderers will

Fold their tents, like the Arabs,
And silently slip to their home
(this with apologies to our beloved Longfellow), and then I shall write you something which may be of especial interest to you. Until then, take life as easily as possible, is the advice of Yours sincerely,

COMFORT JONES,

Doctor of Cookery.

Dorchester, Mass.

BREADED TOMATOES.

Pare and slice the tomatoes, and, after seasoning well with salt and pepper,
dip each slice in beaten egg and then in bread crumbs. When all the slices have been treated in this manner, dip them again in the egg and crumbs; then place
them in a frying basket and plunge them into boiling fat. Cook for a minute and a half.

CODFISH CROQUETTES.

Mix well two cups of codfish, picked fine and freshened, and two cups of mashed potatoes. Make into small, flat cakes. Dip into well-beaten eggs and roll in fine cracker crumbs. Fry in hot fat, the same temperature as for oysters.
Serve with a garnish of parsley sprigs.

PRESERVED ORANGE PEEL.

Preserved orange peel is useful for putting into cakes and pies with raisins
or wherever dried fruits may be used.
Wash and boil it in several waters, until
it can be pierced with a straw. Drain, and when cold remove the white inner skin with a spoon. Then put in a dish and make a syrup of half a pound of sugar to half a pint of water. Put the syrup over the fire and when it boils put in the peel and cook slowly until clear.
Then boil quickly until the surplus syrup is absorbed. Spread the peel on plates and put in a warm place over night to dry. This peel is very nice in Indian pudding.

CHILI SAUCE.

Chop fine eighteen tomatoes, six
onions, six peppers and one or two artichokes. Add to this six tables, spoonfuls of sugar, six of salt and four and one-half cups of vinegar. Boil this one and one-half hours.

BROILED TOMATOES.

Three or four good-sized tomatoes,
properly sliced, are quite sufficient for a small family service of broiled tomatoes.
After peeling them and chilling them to keep them firm, slice them. Season with salt and pepper and dip them in oil, and then in sifted bread crumbs. Melted butter may be used in place of the oil.
Cover them well with a little oil to keep
in the heat, and broil for eight minutes, turning them when brown. If they "run," pridge a little flour or powdered bread crumbs over them. They should be a rich brown when done. Serve them on a hot platter with a little maitre d'hotel
sauce spread on each slice.

CORNSTARCH PUDDING.

Mix one quart of milk, one large table-
spoonful of cornstarch, one cup of sugar and one or two eggs. Beat the milk, add the sugar in the cornstarch previously
mixed smooth with a little of the milk,
add the beaten eggs, flavor, and pour into moulds to cook. Serve with sweetened cream or milk.

RICE GEMS.

One cup of cold boiled rice, one egg, one
cup of milk, one cup of flour and a pinch of salt. Beat in hot iron pan, pour it have been well buttered. These "gems"
are excellent for breakfast or for tea.

FRITTER BREAD.

(Miss Winter.)
Two eggs, one cupful milk, flour to make a fritter batter. Make a batter of the eggs, milk and flour. Cut stale bread in slices or squares an inch thick and dip in batter. Have Coddleone very hot, and fry until light-brown. Season with salt and pepper.

PINEAPPLE CUSTARD.

Mix well one cup of sugar and three eggs; add one quart of milk and set on the stove to thicken; when done set it away to cool; pick to pieces a ripe pineapple and put sugar over it. When ready to use put the pineapple in the custard
and serve.

ALMOND CAKE.

Three-quarters cup butter, one cup
sugar, half cup sweet milk, three eggs whites and yolks beaten separately, two cups flour, two level teaspoonfuls Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder, and one pound almonds blanched and sliced stirred in last. Bake a few whole ones to put on top of king.

BREAKFAST BREAD.

Mix one and one-half cups of corn meal,
one and one-half cups of flour, a pinch
batter the size of an egg, two eggs, half a teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of sugar and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add milk enough to make a thin batter. Pour in a well buttered pan and bake in a very hot oven.

APPLE CUSTARD.

Pare, core and slightly stew apples sufficient to cover the dish; mix milk and well beaten eggs in the proportion of six eggs to a quart of milk. Season to taste with sugar and nutmeg, pour over the apples and bake twenty minutes. Vanilla is best for flavoring custard with apples
in it.

VEAL SALAD.

Cut cold veal into small pieces, and add an equal quantity of chopped cabbage and two hard-boiled eggs, chopped
rather fine; season with celery salt.
Pour over this a good dressing; mix well,
set it away to cool, and garnish with celery tips before serving.

POTATO OMELET.

Remove all the inside from a large,
freshly-baked potato; rub it through a wire sieve; mix into it carefully the beaten yolks of three eggs, a few drops of lemon juice and season with salt and pepper. Just before cooking stir in very lightly the whites of three eggs beaten
stiff; put an ounce and a half of butter
into a clean omelet pan and when it is hot pour in the mixture. Fry gently until a light brown underneath; then set the pan in the oven until the top is brown slightly. Turn out on a paper sprinkled with chopped parsley, fold over,
slip on a hot dish and serve.

A BERNON ON FOOD.

James A. Ten Eyck, trainer and father of "Ned" Ten Eyck, the champion carman and winner of the Diamond Sculls at the Henley Royal Regatta in England,
last month, has this to say on the food
subject: "There is nothing, in my judgment, equal to Shredded Wheat. I discuss it, and I am a perfect food to train on, and to live largely on before training. Instead of any other kind of bread or cereal, I keep it in my house—
would not be without it."

The boy champion carman is properly built, perfect in bodily structure, and is so for the reason that his father, who has always trained him, is a believer in plain and natural food, the best of which, he says, is Shredded Wheat.

Ned Ten Eyck's father gave the boy a chance and he succeeded.
The foundation of all personal success
is found in a good, strong, healthy body,
and this is made possible only through proper food. Mothers, give your boys a chance—don't handicap them with improper food—don't compel your boy to be a failure. This also applies to your daughters. That you may understand this subject of proper food, send your name and address to the undersigned
and receive a treatise on proper food and a number of recipes.

UNION

Wednesday morning August 4 at 7.15
o'clock there was a pretty wedding at the Methodist Episcopal church, Houlton. The contracting parties were Miss Edna Annette Stone and Charles Ralph Bryant. Miss Abbie Smith of Oxbow was bridesmaid and Mr. J. A. Glendenning, operator at Houlton station was best man. The young lady ushers were Miss Jennie Porter and Miss May Can-loom, cousins of the bride. The church was very prettily decorated with flowers and ferns.
The Houlton band of which Mr. Bryant is a member was present and played a wedding
march as the bridal party entered the church.
The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. B.
Phelan, pastor of the church, in a very pleasing manner. Mr. and Mrs. Bryant left on the 8.40 a. m. train for Rockland. They were the recipients of many valuable and useful gifts
among which was a nice organ from the bride's father, a fine clock from Mr. and Mrs.
C. E. Brainerd of Calais, a beautiful banquet lamp and a set of oak dining chairs from the groom's friends at the B. & A. station, a beautiful silver and cut glass berry dish and two pieces of ancient cut glass were presents from the bride's aunt Mrs. V. B. Smith, an elegant silver cake basket from the groom's brother
W. J. Bryant, a beautiful silver and gold berry spoon from the groom's brother O. S. Hey-son, who is conductor on the B. & A. R. R.
Among other presents were many rare and costly pieces of china and silver ware, table linen and bedding. The total number of presents was ninety-two. Mr. Bryant was a resident of Union but now holds a position as freight cashier at Houlton station
on the B. & A. R. R. Mr. and Mrs. Bryant have the best wishes of their many friends for a long and happy wedded life.

DWIGHT, Illinois, Oct. 13, 1896.

To whom it may concern:—
There is but one Keeley Institute authorized by the state of Illinois as such
in the state of Illinois, and that one is located at Portland, under the management of J. D. Lovett. His physicians are especially instructed at Dwight, Ill., by Dr. Keeley, in the correct administration of the Keeley treatment
for the cure of alcoholic inebriety and drug habits.

A Keeley remedial are manufactured by us at Dwight, Ill., and cannot be purchased for use in the state of Illinois except by the Keeley Institute

injured one day last week by a fall from the steps of the cottage—A. D. Witherly and wife of Cambridge, Mass., called on friends here last Saturday—There was a very interesting meeting at the Heights last Sunday. Mrs. Mattie Hull spoke in the forenoon, her subject being "Why do we need a spiritualist's control?" In the afternoon F.
A. Wiggins of Boston gave a fine lecture, his subject being "Consciousness." Quite a large audience was present. The steamer Bodwell arrived at about 10.30 with a goodly number from Rockland, Rockport and Camden—Among the recent arrivals at the Heights are, L. M. Staples, Esq. of Washington, Mr. L. C. Morse and family of Rock-

VERONA PARK CAMPMETING

ROCKPORT, Aug. 18, 1897.

This meeting which began Aug. 8 and is to close Aug. 22 is in successful operation. The first Sunday found a large audience. The principal speakers were Mrs. Juliette Veau of Massachusetts and F. A. Wiggins. Both speakers are very able and gave great satisfaction. Mr. Wiggins' address was followed by his wonderful recitation of names upon folded pieces of paper, and answering questions written on the same. Most of these papers were not unfolded, simply held in the hand. Scores of these were read and not a single failed note. Many persons were greatly comforted by the messages received.
Mr. Wiggins remained until Saturday the 14th
speaking several times through the week.

Meetings are held every day except Monday. The lectures have been of a high order and the social meetings very interesting and instructive. Sunday the 15th was Temperance Day and there were nearly a thousand people on the grounds. All temperance workers were cordially invited to come and single together in one common cause with no reference to sect or party. There were many church members present. The great audience was held fast by the eloquence and logic of the several speakers. Mrs. F. W.
Smith of Rockland gave a scholarly address
on the evolution of the Temperance Reform, showing the advances made and the great
light thrown upon the subject by the researches of science, demonstrating conclusively that alcoholism is a disease and that all diseases can be successfully treated, and are so treated at various temperance hospitals without the use of such stimulants.

This lecture was followed by a stirring
address by Mrs. M. J. Wentworth of Knux and a beautiful inspired poem. In the afternoon Charles A. Abbott and Prof. E. L.
Pierce of Charlestown, Mass. took the lead.
These gentlemen are past high officials in various temperance organizations in Massachusetts and have been prominent workers
for 25 years in that reform movement,
being co-workers with John B. Gough, Neal Dow and others. Mr. Abbott opened his remarks by bringing the greeting of 300 reformed, industrious men in Charlestown alone
whom he had helped reclaim. Prof. Pierce has been charter of the Hunker Hill reform club for 12 years and superintendent of one of the largest juvenile temples in Boston, composed wholly of colored children. The addresses of these noble men came with great power from their souls and went directly to the hearts of their hearers.

They are both excellent singers and their
many songs have been an inspiring force throughout all the meetings. They came to Augusta some two weeks ago on their vacation.
They have fallen in with the proceedings of the people and are attending all the meetings freely giving their valuable services. The campers surprised them one day by the presentation of a beautiful quilt as a slight memento of their appreciation.

In addition to the speaking of these gentlemen, spirited remarks were made by Mrs.
Veau, Mr. Mann of Brewer and a gentleman from Pittsfield, Mass. Altogether it was a grand demonstration. All were satisfied and many delighted with the day's proceedings.
Verona is one of the loveliest spots on the Penobscot river. All visitors are charmed with its beautiful scenery. Nature has done much for the place and it only needs the cultivation of a few hundred dollars in adornments
to make it the most attractive place in Maine.

THE MERRYCONOE

Capt. Ed. Archibald's Steamer Getting
Lots of Advertising These Days.

The excursionists on the steamer Merry-conoe and Castine were given a little excitement in coming up the river Sunday, says
the Bangor Commercial, by what seemed at one time to be a genuine race between the two boats. The people on the Castine were at a little heightened The Merryconoe came up through the Huckleport narrows just as the Castine was leaving the wharf at Bucksport. The black hull of the Merry-conoe kept creeping up on the Castine and the boats were nearly abreast by the time the flats below Winterport were reached. The Merryconoe was on the starboard side but the Castine in keeping the most direct route
bugged in close to the flats as the two boats approached them. Then the Merryconoe closed in toward the Castine. She hoisted her whistle once, the Castine's captain interpreting that she wanted the right of way. The Cas-tine answered back with a toot but did not change her course. Instead, however, the captain jingled the speed bell and the little boat forged ahead. The Merryconoe then dropped to the stern and cruised onto the port side pretty close to the Castine's stern. It was from fear that the Merryconoe would jump into the Castine that the passengers on the latter boat held their breath for a moment.
Once on the port side the Merryconoe passed rapidly ahead. Capt. Connel of the Castine said he only wished he had clean fires and be would about them that they didn't have it all their own way. The Merryconoe arrived at the pulp mill wharf at South Haven about 10
or 15 minutes ahead of the Castine.

Belmont Age: "Sunday two excursions
from Bangor, the Catherine and American Eagle, landed about seven hundred people,
very hotel and restaurant being taxed to its utmost to feed them."
Where is the marine editor of the esteemed
Age? Where is the editor of the department of Indian terms? Where is the editor of the bureau of general knowledge and universal information? Where are these gentlemen?
"Merryconoe" is the name of the steamer
which was beaten by the Catherine the other day, in the river. Seek out a man with a caterpillar inflammation in his head and give him
a dollar to say "American Eagle" as fast as he can. Then you will have the proper name for the steamer. The error is natural for common folk with poor ears; but I am surprised at the absence of my friends of the Age, the marine editor, the editor of the department of Indian terms and the editor of the bureau of general knowledge and universal information.

THOMASTON

The lecture of Mr. L. F. Sturtevant of Rockland at the Congregational church, Monday evening drew a very select audience. The subject "An Evening with German Poets" was handled in an intellectual manner. That Mr. Sturtevant has made a thorough study of his subject was evident to every listener.

Mr. Elijah Jameson of Boston is making his annual visit in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilman W. Fales left Tuesday for their new home in Roxbury, Mass.

Miss Hattie Rose of Boston has been spending her vacation in town has returned to Boston.

Capt. George Masters of San Francisco was recently accidentally shot during a fracas on board a ship which he was pilot. While the officers were playing a game of cards, the second mate fired upon one of the crew, the shot missing its mark and taking effect in Capt. Masters' thigh. From information received it is judged the wound was not severe.

Capt. Samuel Waite and wife of Tenants Harbor were in town Wednesday—J. A. Creighton & Co. are making repairs on their wharf—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Massey of Bangor are guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Massey.

Walter Andrews has leased the eastern store in Levenshall Block and will manufacture men's and boys' clothing—Miss Mary Parker of Massachusetts is in town—Mrs. Perry Locke has been in town for a few days as the guest of Mrs. W. J. Willey—Miss E. Brown is visiting relatives in St. George.

A large number of excursionists from towns on the Penobscot came in on the electric cars Tuesday and visited the prison.

James McManus arrived home from sea Tuesday. He made the voyage from Philadelphia to Japan and returned via the ship Joseph B. Thomas. He came east from the Pacific coast overland.

Mr. E. K. Wisniewski and family attended campmeeting the present week at Nobleboro.

By invitation of T. A. Carr the Knox County Board of Fire Unions held their monthly meeting at the rooms of the Thomaston National Bank, Wednesday.

George Massey of Thomaston has been granted an original pension.

Capt. F. F. Curling is having his residence painted—Mrs. DeCosta and son have returned to their home after a few weeks visit in town.

A horse attached to a wagon loaded with lumber was frightened into running by the electric car, Thursday forenoon, and making a dash through the corner came in collision with Dr. J. E. Walker's carriage wrenching a wheel from it. The horse ran a large and powerful animal not easily controlled when frightened.

Charles Diamond and William Whalen, who reside at the Meadows, came down town Monday for a lark. They loaded up with bar juice and started on a drive up Main street at a reckless pace. After an upset and a narrow escape from several collisions they were taken in charge by Officer Peabody and locked up. An evening session of the court was held for their benefit. Judge Sturtevant pronounced two dollars and costs, amounting to $9.60. Next!

Advertised letters Aug 16; Thomas Collins, E. P. Patterson, Charles L. Snow.

Mrs. Dudley Walker, Jameson, and W. E. Vinal, F. A. Washburn, C. H. Washburn and others went to Friendship Thursday on an outing.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Crandon, Edwin S. Crandon, wife and son of Chelsea, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Crandon Wednesday.

Meets Joseph Clark and E. C. Williams were in town Thursday on business relating to the repairing and remodeling of the church at Wylie's Corner. They informed their correspondent that the work had been completed at a cost of $800. The church will be dedicated August 31st. On Thursday, August 26th the highest temperature was an "offering" supper at which all good things edible will be supplied. If stormy the 26th the supper will be served the 27th. The managers hope at this time to raise a substantial sum to help pay the bills incurred in remodeling.

Charles Sherman of Cushing was seriously injured Thursday in attempting to subdue a frightened horse belonging to James McCarter. The horse that had been securely fastened to the electric light pole in front of the store of W. E. Vinal became restless after standing a short time, climbed upon the sidewalk, which is elevated above the road, overturning the wagon. The noise frightened the animal so that he began to circle around the pole rapidly. Young Sherman grasped the horse by the head but was quickly and violently thrown to the ground under the horse's feet. In falling his head either came in contact with the pole or was struck by one of the animal's feet inflicting a scalp wound and causing concussion of the brain. The injured man was carried into Dr. J. E. Walker's office where he became delirious for a time. He later recovered consciousness and was conveyed to his home.

Yonah H. Shabbar, a Persian, gave a very entertaining and instructive lecture on the life, customs and manners of his people at the Baptist vestry Tuesday evening. The one hundred or more people who composed the audience received a large amount of information about a people and country of which they had but a slight knowledge. Mr. Shabbar is an educated gentleman and not only speaks well but sings in a delightful manner.

Miss Nellie Willis of Hallowell is visiting her uncle E. A. Willis—Maurice Moran is clerking in W. W. Hodgdon's market—C. H. Washburn has his full crew at work at his sail loft on sails for schooners Sissie Plummer and Mabel Jordan—Thomaston was well represented at the Shibles' reunion at Oakland.

Wednesday—Mrs. Maria Merrill and daughter of Danvers, and John L. Sands of Cambridge are visiting Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Sturtevant—Sch. Thomas H. sailed Thursday for New York with time from J. A. Creighton & Co.

The Knox Hose Company have declined the challenge of the Eureka company to a hose race. The Knox boys are evidently students of fire-terminology, as they informed Knox Co. that they did not consider them in their class, and advised that they get a reputation before seeking to race them. Why not a race between the Eureka and W. O. Masters companies?

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Wellman of Portland, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. W. W. Baskin at the J. A. Creighton & Co. steam mill discharged a load of lumber for James Overlook Thursday—Sch. Julia Ann arrived Wednesday from Bangor with lumber of Gleason Young of Warren.

W. W. Baskin at the J. A. Creighton & Co. steam mill discharged a car load of corn into the elevator in 1 hour and 20 minutes Thursday morning.

Sch. Ella F. Crowell of the Barges, O'Brien & Co. line fleet, has been on the railway at Port Clyde having her keel repaired.

Wm. Renner has been appointed a day guard at the prison in place of W. P. Heal who terminated his term of service Saturday.

The guard-room at the prison is receiving a freestone nodding. The work is being done by Edward A. Chase, an inmate.

Six bushels of string beans were served to the prisoners at dinner recently and they ate them as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. Brown.

The beans came from the prison garden where large quantities of all kinds of vegetables are being raised to make variety in prison fare.

The residence occupied by Deputy Warden Wagon is being connected with the prison sewer.

According to reports there will be a goodly representation from this town take in the excursion on the Gov. Bodwell to Northport, Belfast and Temple Heights tomorrow.

The guard-room at the prison is receiving a freestone nodding. The work is being done by Edward A. Chase, an inmate.

A car will leave this town to connect with the boat.

CAMDEN

Will Mansfield of Boston is the guest of his parents at "Brookside"—Claude Roberts has returned from a three weeks visit in Vinalhaven—Mrs. E. P. Alexander, who has been visiting here, has returned to Belfast—George Mansfield and Charles Paine are visiting in Union.

Are opposite the scene of the given Camden people to visit Belfast, Northport and Temple Heights Sunday. The Gov. Bodwell will leave the Boston & Bangor steamship wharf at about 9.15 a. m. and no doubt Camden will be full of goods taken. Saturday was pay day at the mills, a fact probably realized by the thieves. Knowing this the robbers must have been committed by some one cognizant of the facts and the work of apprehending the guilty parties should not be a hard one. The victims can ill afford to lose the money as it represents hard earned wages.

Mr. and Mrs. George Waggatt and children are visiting in Vinalhaven—Mrs. John Danton and three children of Brattleboro, Vt., are guests of the Misses Danton, Mechanic street—Miss Marian Smith of Hartford, Conn., is guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Whitmore—Miss Minnie Gould of East Union is the guest of Miss Alice Drake.

Percy Moore who has been guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Aldus, has returned to his home in Bangor—Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Noyes of Waltham is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George S. C. Dow, Miss Doris, Bangor, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Webster, Dover, N. H.; W. A. Rensen, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Newton, Hartford, Mrs. E. W. Fairbanks and son, Dorchester; Mrs. Hattie M. De Sachel, Charleston; J. R. Fairbanks and wife, Hyde Park.

Miss May Bickmore of Boston is visiting here—Herbert Annie of South Brimfield, Mass., is the guest of his sister Mrs. Hattie Annie—The merry-go-round has gone to Northport (Harbor)—Mrs. Ralph Tyler, West Roxbury, Mass., is visiting relatives here—Miss Maud Hall of Hartford is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Whitmore.

The sale of tickets for the "The Sunshine of Padua" will be produced in the Opera House this evening is the largest for an out of town attraction in the history of the present opera house. A full house is assured. The company will use nothing but its own strength and the little back of it. Those who attend will see one of the very best things ever seen in this town.

According to reports there will be a goodly representation from this town take in the excursion on the Gov. Bodwell to Northport, Belfast and Temple Heights tomorrow. This is an opportunity our people should not miss. The steamer will stop at the Boston & Bangor wharf.

Merit Talks

"Merit talks" the "One True Blood Purifier" Hood's Sarsaparilla. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses actual and unequalled curative power and therefore it has true merit. When you buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, and take it according to directions, to purify your blood, or cure any of the many blood diseases, you are morally certain to receive benefit. The power to cure is there. You are not trying an experiment. It will make your blood pure, rich and nourishing, and it has delivered the general disease, strengthened the nerves and build up the whole system.

The double murder was promptly announced on The Courier-Gazette bulletin board Wednesday afternoon and a crowd of excited people read the news with horror. Charles E. Bicknell who had been one of Capt. Whitman's most intimate friends was one of the first to see the telegram and he it was who telegraphed to the editor of the paper, asking him to hold from her so long as possible the fact that murder had been committed. Mrs. Whitman is now at Mr. Bicknell's home almost prostrated by the great blow.

PROPRIETOR'S HOP

The Annual Ball at Bay Point Wednesday Evening a Prominent Social Event.

The proprietor's hop or annual ball at Bay Point Hotel, Wednesday evening, will go down into social annals as the most successful function in the history of this popular resort. The affair was under the management of Edmund Elton of Boston, who has done so much to promote social interest at Bay Point this season and who upon this occasion fairly outdid himself. The number of invitations was limited to 250 and the hotel guests entered into the thing with a zest that could lead to but one result—the charming affair which followed.

The hotel was radiant with myriads of brilliant lights, and the dancing hall garbed with red and white bunting and evergreen interspersed with a profusion of ferns and golden rods presented a scene that was like a glimpse of fairyland. The orchestra played the music which proceeded from this source was of the most divine character, due to the able direction of Bertha Boardman Elton, to whose talent we pay a more fitting tribute elsewhere in this issue.

The concert program proved a rare treat and was all too brief to suit the pleasure of the audience. The numbers were as follows:

Overture Aurora Schlegel
Chinese Episode Bendix
Selection, "Wang," Morse

The grand march began shortly after 9 o'clock, led by Miss N. P. Deane. There were about 50 couples in line, the following being a list of the beautiful costumes worn by the ladies:

Mrs. M. K. Lawrence, Boston, cerise and white silk.
Mrs. W. T. Cobb, Rockland, white silk and chiffon, diamonds.

Miss Elizabeth Field, Boston, white organdie over yellow tulle slip, yellow trimmings, diamonds and pearls.
Miss Field, Boston, heliotrope silk with Dresden figures, yellow and jet trimmings.

Miss Grace Simonton, Rockland, white organdie over pink tulle slip.
Miss Mary Fogler, Rockland, Dresden skirt, pink velvet waist trimmed with fur and chiffon.

Miss Prosser, New York, white silk and muslin.
Miss Steitz, Philadelphia, heavy green and white peas de soie, Duchesse lace, diamonds.

Miss Elizabeth Steitz, Philadelphia, blue silk, blue and white chiffon and green satin, pearls.
Miss Ryder, New York, white satin and tulle, diamonds.

Miss Grace Ryter, New York, pink silk and chiffon.
Miss Bessie Noble, Philadelphia, white chiffon over white satin trimmed, pearls.

Mrs. S. C. Noble, Philadelphia, yellow brocade, white lace, diamonds.
Miss Johnston, Minneapolis, white organdie over pink.

Miss Mary Johnston, Minneapolis, white organdie over pink, pearls.
Miss Neale, Washington, heavy blue tulle. Miss Bertha Drew, Boston, green mousseline de soie over pink, trimmed with apple blossoms.

Miss Braine, Brooklyn, pink silk.
Mrs. N. P. Sewell, Rockland, black velvet handsomely brocade, diamonds.
Miss Martha Babcock, Boston, white muslin.

Miss Blanche Allen, Boston, pink silk.
Miss Mariel Thomson, St. John, yellow organdie.
Miss Hattie Brown, Baltimore, white organdie over pink.

Miss Louis Sutherland, Montreal, blue muslin, diamonds.
Mrs. Proctor, Boston, pink moire, diamonds.
Miss A. P. Wheeler, Montreal, white muslin.

Miss C. E. Ross, Brooklyn, black lace, over white silk, imported gown, diamonds.
Miss Niebuhr, Brooklyn, heliotrope peas de soie.

Miss Florence Russell, Boston, white muslin.
Miss Emma Russell, Boston, white muslin with pink.

Mrs. Sargent, Waltham, black over yellow organdie, opals and diamonds.
Mrs. C. H. Brown, Baltimore, black chiffon and lace, diamonds.

Mrs. True P. Pierce, Rockland, white satin and chiffon, pearls.
Miss C. C. Greene, Providence, white costume, diamonds.

Miss Wood, St. Louis, white tulle over green silk, violets.
Miss H. D. Wood, St. Louis, old rose and green velvet, white lace, diamonds.

Miss B. Wheeler, Montreal, black satin, Louis Seize jacket.
Mrs. Dr. Shepherd, Boston, blue and pink silk, white lace, diamonds.

Mrs. Gutierrez, Bloomfield, N. J., grey silk, diamonds.
Miss Gair, Brooklyn, cerise silk with lace.

Mrs. Robert Gair, Brooklyn, blue silk.
Miss Lucy Gair, Brooklyn, white chiffon silk.

Miss S. Faulhaber, New York, yellow silk with white silk mulle.
Miss M. Faulhaber, New York, pink satin, lace.

Miss Helen V. DeVoll, New Bedford, blue organdie.
Miss Ella Boardman, Boston, blue green tulle, lace.

Bertha Boardman Elton, Boston, cerise tulle, lace.
Mrs. Neale, Washington, Parisian costume, rose and blue, old point lace.

Mrs. Wheeler, Montreal, black brocade, cape de point lace, diamonds.
Miss Averill, New York, black brocade, white and gold vest, pale green chiffon.

Mrs. Hooker, New York, black and white muslin, Spanish lace.
A noticeable feature of the ball was the number of young men present, among them being: Louis Sutherland, Montreal; Mr. Bates, Washington; F. W. Johnston, New York; H. Johnston, Boston; A. Johnston, Minneapolis; E. M. Babcock, Boston; Dr. Wheeler, Montreal; J. R. Thompson, St. John; George Wells, Quincy, Ill.; Henry L.

AN OPEN LETTER

From Miss Schner, of Columbus, O., to Alling Women.

To all women who are ill—it affords me great pleasure to tell you of the benefit I have derived from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I can hardly find words to express my gratitude for the boon given to suffering women in that excellent remedy. Before taking the Compound

I was thin, pallid, and nervous. I was troubled with leucorrhoea, and my menstrual periods were very irregular. I tried three physicians and gradually grew worse. About a year ago I was advised by a friend to try Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and Vegetable Compound, which I did. After using three bottles of the Vegetable Compound and one package of Sanative Wash, I am now enjoying better health than I ever did, and attribute the same to your wonderful remedies. I cannot find words to express what a Godsend they have been to me.

Whenever I begin to feel nervous and ill, I know I have a never-failing physician at hand. It would afford me pleasure to know that my words had directed some suffering sister to health and strength through those most excellent remedies.—MRS. MAY SACHNER, 1484 E. Rich St., Columbus, O.

Greene, Providence, R. I.; Leonard Gutierrez, Hingham, N. J.; Henry D. Foster, New York; Charles A. Drew, Newton, C. B. Pearson, Washington, D. C.; H. B. Wilcox, Summit, N. J.; Thos. Hooker, New York; S. C. Neale, Washington, D. C.; I. Sargent, Waltham, N. J.; Montreal; Henry Reuter, Boston; Robert Gair, Jr., Brooklyn; George W. Gair, Brooklyn; Dr. Milton Powell, New York; Robt. A. Cummings, Winchester; G. Washburn, Boston; M. K. Lawrence, Boston; and Edward Elton, Boston.

The order of dances, exclusive of the three extras, was as follows:

Bay Point Hotel
To Mount Battie
Fascination
Up to Date
Dancing in Bars
Tommy Atkins
Lancers
Danube Waves
Our Guests
The Proprietor
Future Success

Intermission occurred after the second waltz when the guests adjourned to the dining hall and seated themselves before what Proprietor Sewell termed a lunch, but which in reality was more of the nature of a banquet. The dining hall was magnificently decorated and it is worthy of note that the floral effect was produced entirely from the hotel gardens. The "lunch" included salads, cold Edward Elton, Boston.

No more elaborate or elegantly prepared collation could have been conceived and it speaks wonders for the Bay Point cuisine. The ball was a brilliant success from the moment the grand march started and there was never so much as a ripple to disturb its smoothness. When the entrancing strains of the last extra had died away the participants were ready to vote by acclamation that for selection and thorough enjoyment the proprietor's hop at Bay Point for 1897 had had no superiors within their memory.

In conclusion we wish to state that Edmund Elton who has had charge of entertainment at the Bay Point this season and who has made himself very popular with the guests, is a prominent member of the dramatic profession, having lived with many of our leading artists including Monahan, Salvini, Willard and Hansfield. He is a young man of superior education and talents, and was born in Lancashire, England, some 26 years ago, and though still a young man he has already established a enviable reputation in his chosen profession. It has been said of him that in his reading of Shakespeare he has no superiors and few equals. He is a trained athlete and is an expert at all games requiring strength and skill and is possessed of an unusually fine physique. Though it is not generally known Mr. Elton is also an artist of remarkable ability some of his water-colors comparing with many of our leading water-colorists and his talent in this line is shown in the decorations used at the Bay Point this season on different occasions. He has proven himself to be a valuable help to Mr. Sewell this season.

His wife Bertha Boardman Elton is a musician of great talent and has the reputation of being America's leading cornet soloist. P. S. Gilmore said of her playing "her tone is the finest I ever heard." She has travelled all over the world with many of our leading bands and has conducted orchestras for several years with great success. As well as being a cornet soloist she is a composer and pianist of rare ability. Mrs. Elton has charge of the music at the Bay Point this season, and it has been voted by the guests to be the best that the house has ever had.

Capt. J. E. Achorn who is visiting his old Rockland home for the first time since he removed to New York, seven years ago, finds youth renewed with the good Rockland air at the rate of a pound of added flesh per diem. Capt. Achorn is accompanied by his wife and son.

A company of 25 ladies and gentlemen of the Catholic society held a delightful picnic at Oakland Tuesday.

The event was in honor of Miss Margaret Ormrod, organist at St. Vincent's church, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss Julia Coughlin of Ceresdale, Pa., who are guests of Miss Minnie Coughlin.

An excursion was made to Bartlett's Harbor, North Haven, Wednesday evening on the W. G. Butnam and a good time enjoyed.

The excursion was under the auspices of Helen Fair and Luther Smith, of the Fuller & Cobb force. The number of tickets had to be limited to the capacity of the boat and when the time of starting came it was found that there were more persons desirous of going than could be accommodated and much to the regret of those having it in charge they were obliged to leave a dozen or more on the wharf.

The sail over was delightful, and Capt. Butnam an ideal captain for the occasion. Upon arrival of the party at the Cobb-Blake cottage they found a delicious smoking hot fish chowder, made by Mr. Farr, awaiting them and to which ample justice was soon done by the hungry crew. The next course was fried fish followed by watermelon, bananas, pears, lemonade, etc., after which the time was happily spent in various ways. It was a happy, congenial party, and an all around good time was the result, everybody coming home well satisfied and declaring it one of the best of times. They arrived home at about 11 o'clock. Bartlett's Harbor is a nice place to go and Messrs. Cobb and Blake everything possible to have their guests enjoy themselves, and it is hoped that another of these excursions may be given soon that all can take in.

Quite the social function of the season was the reception given by Miss Jennie Blackinton at her home, 34 Main street, Tuesday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. A. DeWolfe Blackinton and her niece, Miss M. E. Cornelia Galpin, both of Danmore, Pa. Something like 300 invitations were issued and the gathering at the Blackinton residence between the hours of 3 and 5 p. m. was a representative one of Rockland society. Nearly every apartment of the residence was decorated, the arrangement of flowers, evergreens, ferns, vines, etc., being of the most tasteful and pleasing character. Sweet peas and ferns were the characteristic decorations of the parlor or reception room, while in the sitting room the beautiful and ever popular golden rod lent an exquisite touch to the decorations.

In the dining room was a profusion of sweet peas and carnations, with asparagus fern artistically trained from chandeliers to the tables. The orchestra had a point of vantage in the hallway where the green effect characterized the decorations. The refreshments were of the order usual to such occasions served in a dainty and graceful manner by Mrs. A. J. Grimes of Paines, Ill., Miss E. W. Palmer, Miss Fannie Cummings, Miss Callie Clenden, Miss Nellie Clark, Mrs. E. B. Ingraham, and Mrs. J. M. Blackinton.

The punch bowl was under the supervision of Mrs. Anne Burkmar, Miss H. I. Hix, Miss Ethel Russell and Miss Jennie Allen. The music for this occasion was furnished by Crockett's orchestra and every number was rendered in a manner that made the event doubly pleasing to every guest. Mrs. A. C. Mather furnished the decorations.

Miss Lyons gave a lawn party at her residence, 112 Linerock street, Thursday afternoon, at which about fifty of her friends from this city, Thomaston and Camden were present. A delicious picnic dinner was served in the orchard after which there was an interchange of thought on the beautiful lawn. In the evening tea was served and there came a musicale, led by Prof. Roberts. The event was one replete with pleasurable delights for which the guests desire to extend thanks to their hosts.

At the Bangor House on Tuesday night was Senator Frederick S. Walla of Knox county, who, with Mrs. Walla, was on his way from Bangor to his summer home at Northport. The senator came up from Northport the other day to attend the reunion of the 26th Maine regiment, in which he served in the war of the rebellion; on Tuesday evening he and Mrs. Walla came up from Bangor over the trolley line and on Wednesday morning they left for Northport again on the Bangor steamer. Senator Walla looks well and is well; apparently the Northport in Knox county is picking up a bit and that everybody down that way is reasonably happy. In a few weeks more he will go back to Bangor to pass the winter. It was the senator who was recently made the hero of an interesting social event down the bay, in recognition of his services in the capital last winter in the interests of his constituents.—Bangor Commercial.

UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE

A Great Scheme Which Finds Its Origin in the Fertile Brain of a St. George Boy.

Under the caption "A Great Scheme For Universal Knowledge," a recent issue of the San Francisco Chronicle printed the following article which will interest many of our readers and especially those who will recognize in Prof. Albert S. Rickmore, a former Kansas county boy:

Professor Albert S. Rickmore, who has charge of the department of public instruction in the American Museum of Natural History in New York city, is now in San Francisco. He has just completed a tour through Southern California, and will return to his home tomorrow, going east by way of Mount Shasta and the northern route.

Professor Rickmore's mission in this state is one of the most far-reaching importance, and its results open up such a vista of possibilities that it is hard to attempt to arrive at any estimate of the good that will be worked by reason of his coming.

The American Museum of Natural History, from the date of its foundation in 1869, has along for several years, remaining simply what its name implied—a museum for the gathering together and exhibiting of every object coming from the four corners of the globe that would be likely to interest students and the public generally. Gradually, however, as the organization grew in wealth and importance, many other branches were added, and great special departments were formed until the museum came to be recognized by the School Board of New York as a most valuable aid to education in the city.

Teachers in the public schools of the Empire State have to teach their pupils a good deal of natural history, but the text-books on this subject provided for their use have been far from satisfactory. It was considered by the department that if the teachers of New York city could visit the Museum of Natural History regularly and be taught by object lessons something of the branch of study, great good would result. The trustees of the museum willingly took up the proposition, and three years ago they secured the services of Prof. Rickmore, inaugurating a department of public instruction and placing him in charge.

A course of regular lectures on various natural history subjects was decided on, and the work was entered into as quickly as possible. Out of this small beginning has sprung a vast system that within the next few years may extend itself into every state and territory in the Union, exercising a power for good on future generations that will have a large share in shaping the destinies of the nation and will impress its results indelibly on the standard of national intelligence.

At first Prof. Rickmore got twenty or thirty teachers interested in the plan, and went along in a modest sort of way taking them among the collections, explaining the meaning of the exhibits and showing them a corner of a strange and delightful world that they had never seen or heard of before. Soon the interest spread. Hundreds of instructors in the city begged for the privilege of attending the lectures, and all were made welcome. The lecture hall of the museum was thrown open and a system of picture lectures, talked and illustrated with really beautiful stereoscopic views, was introduced. The inestimable good that was being done by these lectures soon became apparent, and from all parts of the state came requests that in some manner the schools outside of New York city should share the benefit of the instruction.

The trustees considered the matter, and finally decided that a stenographer should attend each lecture given by Prof. Rickmore and take verbatim reports of what he said. These reports were printed by the museum, and together with the original stereoscopic views used in illustrating each lecture, were sent to the Superintendent of education in every city in the state with a population of over 5000 people. These superintendents placed the lectures in the hands of competent teachers, and in a few months arrangements were so perfected that Prof. Rickmore in the lecture room of the museum, talking to a few hundred people, was really addressing 80,000 school children in every part of the state.

The interest of the boys and girls was aroused at once. Lessons in the geography of their country, its birds, flowers and products no longer remained a dry and tedious study when presented in the form of pleasant talks embellished by beautiful pictures. It was found that they learned more in a week under the new system than in a year under the old. Prof. Rickmore began to travel over the state accompanied by expert photographers. Gradually the children in schools in Western New York were shown by faithful pictures the wonders of New York city, its buildings, its commercial centers and its immensity. The children in New York city had presented to them views of a section of their state that at once showed them a thousand times better than any book learning the things that existed in the western portion of their commonwealth.

Then came requests from the Department of Education of Massachusetts that the children of Boston and surrounding cities be put in possession of some of these illustrated lectures. The same application was received from all the New England States. Once more the trustees held a consultation, and it was then that the probabilities of the future growth of the system made themselves apparent to Prof. Rickmore and the board.

He decided that the professor should travel with his photographer all through the United States gathering material for future lectures by his own observation and the aid of the camera, that these lectures should be delivered from time to time during the summer and winter course of the present year, and that copies of them together with duplicates of the pictures should be sent to every department of public instruction in any state in the Union that made a request for them with no compensation except the actual cost of reproduction. So it happens that next fall hundreds of thousands of school children all over the Eastern States will be seated before canvas screens looking at photographs showing the wonders of California and the features of San Francisco and depicting in the most attractive manner possible the history of a portion of their country concerning which they know at present practically nothing.

Prof. Rickmore, now about to return to his home, has his diaries filled with information and his valises packed with beautiful photographic plates. He has traveled widely in Europe and all over the old world and has learned to be a discriminating glancer from nature. California will have no cause to regret that his training includes this knowledge, for it is no casual observer that has come into her hills and valleys to choose from their material sufficient for his purposes. That he is enthusiastically impressed with California is putting it mildly. He said last night:

"What has struck me more than anything else in this state is the development that has come in its history since the days of 1849, and many of my pictures have been taken with the purpose of showing the real extent of that development. Then the energy of the people and the manner in which they have planned out their great public and business enterprises is another thing that I am going to dwell on strongly in my talks in the East. I have been in California a month—

Fifty Years Ago.

This is the stamp that the letter bore which carried the story far and wide. Of certain cure for the loathsome sore that bubbled up from the tainted tide of the blood below. And 'twas Ayer's name And his sarsaparilla, that all now know, That was just beginning its fight of fame With its cures of 50 years ago.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is the original sarsaparilla. It has behind it a record for cures unequalled by any blood purifying compound. It is the only sarsaparilla honored by a medal at the World's Fair of 1893. Others imitate the remedy; they can't imitate the record:

50 Years of Cures.

A month that to me will always remain a delightful memory, came into the state by my wife and Dr. Dwight L. Elmore, one of the most expert photographers in the world. We went to Los Angeles and all through Southern California, from Coronado Beach to San Cruz, and then struck through a city of vines and olive trees, the land of the orange groves of Southern California, in their tasteful grouping, their sure windings, and the constant evidence of careful cultivation and thrift displayed in every side, far beyond anything of the kind I ever saw on the shores of the Mediterranean. At Redlands we photographed Smiley heights, showing a garden on one side and a barren, uncultivated space on the other. This picture fully illustrates the possibilities of the soil of the state. We have been among the indescribable grandeur of the Yosemite valley, through the Big Trees and Mariposa groves; all through the Lick Observatory and down to the Mount and among the Monterey cypresses, and then to Palo Alto and the Stanford University. In San Francisco we have taken several photographs of various streets and buildings in order to show the styles of architecture and to display before the eyes of our Eastern school children and teachers a city of whose extent and charm they have no knowledge. We have also taken some excellent pictures of the sea rocks. No such exhibition of wild animals in their native state exists in the neighborhood of any large city in the world. The flora of California are deserving of special study for our purposes, and there are many on their way out here a man and his wife who have made it their life business to photograph flowers and then paint the negatives in colors true to nature for the people to work. We hope to get some of the most beautiful magic lantern pictures from the flora of California that have ever been exhibited.

Regarding the vast scope of the new branch of work taken up by the museum, Prof. Rickmore is, of course, enthusiastic. He said: "A phase of our innovation that particularly appeals to me is its possibilities of fostering better feeling between capitalists and their employees. I received a request a few months ago from the firm of Studaker Brothers of South Bend, Ind., asking me what museum would charge to send them out a copy of one of my lectures, with a set of lantern slides. We forwarded the things for nothing, and the other day I heard from them. They had given the lecture, with the illustrations, in one of their warehouse to all their employees, and the affair had been a success beyond the most sanguine expectations. They intend to continue the work. Since then I have heard from other firms, all of them announcing their desire to do the same thing for their men.

"We said that the children in the schools love the work, and that they are benefited enormously by it. They will grow up in the possession of a knowledge of their country that will tend toward their welfare in a hundred ways. Their minds are being broadened, and they now learn greedily what before was to many of them a task of perfunctory drudgery.

"There is no question about it. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier. This is proven by its wonderful cures of blood diseases.

When you suspect what you are cooking has been scorched because you have neglected it for just one moment too long left the vessel building the food from the fire and stand it in a pan of water for a few minutes. In almost every case the scorched taste will entirely disappear.

SHORT NOTES OF THE DAY

Pugilist Bob Fitzsimmons is at Newport, R. I., and is the social lion of that fashionable watering place.

The German Government has presented to the United States a written protest on the subject of duties on sugar.

Capt. George A. Johnson, of Chicago, while at the river preparing to start his yacht in a race, dropped dead.

Gen. Nelson A. Miles, of the United States army, has arrived in Berlin and is being paid high honors by the nobility.

The Japanese Government has placed with the Vulcan works at Berlin an order for a 980-ton battle-ship to cost $2,000,000.

The Navy Department has ordered the new gunboat Marietta, now at San Francisco, put in commission on September 1.

The Secretary of the Treasury has received a conscience contribution of $10 in an envelope postmarked Springfield, Mass.

President Crespo, of Venezuela, has issued a decree warning all foreigners not to interfere in any way in the forthcoming elections.

The steamboat Fritz, owned by R. B. Bradley, of Cairo, Ill., blew up fifteen miles south of that point, and ten deck hands were killed.

The small-pox scare at Montgomery, Ala., is rapidly subsiding. Only thirty cases are at the pest house, and twenty of these are convalescent.

The steamer City of Para, from Panama, is in quarantine at San Francisco. One of her passengers died of yellow fever during the voyage.

Dr. E. L. Eaton nominated by the Iowa Probationists for Governor, has been declared ineligible, and S. P. Leland named in his stead.

Tip Baron von Thielmann the retiring German Ambassador to the United States, has been appointed Secretary of the Imperial Treasury.

Notices have been posted all over Clayton, N. M., warning all negroes to leave and nearly all the negroes are preparing to move.

Mme. Leo Delibes, wife of the eminent French composer, has died in an asylum and school for poor children at Cligny la Garene, near Paris.

Fifty-six persons were killed outright and fully as many injured in an explosion in a Bulgarian cartridge factory on the Danube near the City of Varna.

The will of Washington Covington, a wealthy citizen of Peoria, Ill., bequeaths $100,000 toward the establishment of a university at that place.

In an explosion of the boiler of a saw mill at Blackton, Ark., two white men named Horn and Pettit were killed and two negroes seriously injured.

The settlement of the big strike at the Fulton mills, at Atlanta, Ga., was the work of ex-Secretary Hoke Smith. An agreement was reached on terms suggested by him.

The firm of Morris & Coder, of Jersey City, N. J., has been dissolved because one of the partners objected to the use of profane language on the part of the other.

While photographing a drill of the Fire Department of Atlantic City a biograph machine was run down by a chemical engine and wrecked. So far as the films were concerned.

The Canadian Collector of Customs at Ottawa, Ont., has been instructed to give the benefit of the reciprocal tariff to Germany and Belgium. The claims of other countries have not been considered.

A freight train plunged through a bridge over the Washburn River a mile north of Gen. O. Engineer Barney Reid was killed, and the firemen and one of the brakemen severely injured.

The Prince of Wales has offered to sell his famous racing yacht Britannia, which cost $100,000, for $30,000. A number of wealthy Americans are eager to purchase her.

While workmen were making an excavation at Anderson, Ill., they unearthed the tomb of an American chieftain which is supposed to be that of Chief Massasoit, who had his camp where the city now stands.

The Anglo-Egyptian expedition up the Nile, which left Meraca on July 29, attacked Abu Hamid on August 7, after an eight-day march. A fierce fight followed and the place was captured by the expeditionary force.

Two distinct shocks of earthquake were felt at Basalt, Colo. The motion was from northeast to southwest. Houses rocked, windows rattled and a number of barns were cracked, but no material damage was done.

William Shaffer, of West Pittston, Pa., was a bundle of rage as a hiding place for $500 belonging to a secret society. A member of his family afterward sold the tags to a peddler, and the money went with them.

Edward Harkins, a young man living at Easton, Pa., jumped from the Glendonas pension bridge into the river below, a distance of 100 feet. The water at that point is only 8 feet deep, but young Harkins was uninjured.

John Jacob Astor has donated $15,000 toward a fund to purchase Elmwood, the home of James Russell Lowell at Cambridge, Mass. It is proposed to convert the property into a park and throw it open to the public.

The entire Chilean Cabinet and the President of the Chamber of Deputies have resigned. The latter declares that it is impossible to govern the country under present conditions. The Conservatives, he says, are too exacting.

John McKimlin, a waiter in a Hoboken concert hall, and Mattie Martin, a screw-comb singer, were wedded on a trolley car between that place and Jersey City at 2 a. m., an accommodating justice of the peace performing the ceremony.

An epidemic of suicide is raging in Paris. From two to five cases are reported daily. In one alley of the Bois de Vincennes six bodies were found in one week. The morgue is full of dead bodies found in the Seine that there is no more room for them.

Several thousand Armenian agitators invaded Turkey from Persia. They killed 200 of the Mikisti tribe, including women and children. The wife of a chief was tortured to death. An effort is being made by the authorities to capture the marauders.

Rev. Frank N. Bristol, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Evanston, has accepted a call from President McKimley's church, the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal, at Washington, D. C. He will probably take his new charge early next October.

It is said that Gladstone in his youth was stung by a scorpion to such an extent that he consulted the famous actor Shakspeare for the cure. A favorable opinion was given, but Gladstone was subsequently induced by his friend Lord Stanley to abandon the idea of becoming an actor.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.
"Knee-Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The cure does greatly lessen; 75 cents.

THEOSOPHY—PERFECTIBILITY OF MAN

IX.

Even material scientists of the present day believe in evolution, but only so far as matter is concerned. They believe in the constant improvement and advance of animal and human form and in the progress of mind as governed by the material brain. But those who believe in something beyond matter, must believe that there is such a thing as evolution also on unseen planes, and the philosophy of the ancient wisdom teaches that it is the evolution of spirit that causes the evolution of matter. Thus throughout our whole inward as well as outward nature there must be a constant advancement toward perfection. Every one feels within himself a capability for further advance in one or perhaps many directions. In any activity in which he may be engaged he must be aware that with time and opportunity he will advance to a higher level of perfection. The consciousness of such possibility is the best proof of its existence, for it is that possibility or potentially itself speaking within us, and it will continue to speak more and more loudly as we advance.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-root, the great Kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention The Courier-Gazette and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietors of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

Miss Della Chivers, of Wichita, Kan., was overcome by the heat last week, and when restored to consciousness she commenced sneezing, and found that she could not stop. Medical advice was procured, but the doctors are still vainly trying to stop the sneezing.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

Countess Cowley has just won her suit for divorce from Earl Cowley, which began last October. The decree allows her £2200 a year for life.

They are the Magi, Wise Men of the East, who were in charge of the great adepts, Jesus of Nazareth, who reincarnated among men of lesser development in order to raise them to a higher spiritual condition. They are the only true gnostics, those who know everything pertaining to life upon this globe. These were the Mahatmas or great souls, living in seclusion upon this earth at the present moment, and whose existence is as much believed in by the millions of the Orient, as the existence of our great scientists is believed in by the thousands of our Western world. They are our older brothers. They are adepts in spiritual things as well as in mental and material science. It is not difficult for us to believe that a man, who has devoted himself to study and practice in a special science, is so skilled as to be able to teach the science that he has mastered. We teach with confidence, at from one who knows. Were it not for this confidence in those who are more developed than we, no university of learning could stand a single day, and our youth in a doubtful condition of mind would have no means of gaining the knowledge now given forth from schools.

Why should we set a limit to the advance of others, or a limit to the extension of our confidence in those who have gone beyond us? We may rest assured that high spiritual teachers are just as necessary to struggling humanity at large as are learned professors to a college.

If such teachers exist where are they? Since we do not see them it is perhaps difficult to believe in their existence. Most of us, however, have not seen the Tzar of Russia, yet we hear of those who have seen him and we believe in his existence.

Well, if we take the right means to do so, we may be of aid to every one in contact with those who have seen the highly developed beings who even without our knowledge, are at the present time in a thousand ways, aiding us to advance along the path they have trodden. Their work is not done on our material plane, but in the effect extend to material things, and it can be better accomplished away from us in space, where they have their own necessary conditions and surroundings. They have advanced so far beyond us that they do not belong among us in our every day physical life, though they are with us mentally and spiritually whenever need and opportunity summon them.

These Elder Brothers are at the extreme end of the line extending from them down through all grades of development until it reaches us and on to some below us. Thus humanity, like any well organized body, has its superior and inferior officers, all of which are necessary to order, harmony and success. We, of a lower do not need to come into personal contact with the earth's highest officials. They have their suitable agents for every grade of advancement, and we may rest assured that whoever comes to us with a pretended truth that quickens our spiritual aspiration, that warns our heart toward all humanity, that enlarges our desire and capacity for usefulness, we may rest assured that such an agent is in the service of the masters of wisdom, who do not despise even the smallest worker in the great edifice of brotherhood.
