THE FAIR.

The Fair is over. The gate receipts are turned in to the anxious board of trustees. The cows and oxen after an exciting, and to them rather disquieting, outing chew their cuds once more in their own familiar stalls—unless their attractions have proved effective to a change of owners, for weal or woe. The fruit and vegetables have returned to ignominious obscurity in the cellar. The lemonade vender has gone into some more permanent if less lucrative business, and the dust lies undisturbed on the deserted race track.

The Fair is worthy of consideration in several relations. It has still some bearing on the agricultural interest of course. However great the incidental attractions of the race track become, or the balloon ascension, or the acrobats, the main dependence for a successful Fair must be on the farmer and his wife. We want to be reminded annually of the fact that "the profit of the earth is for all; the king himself is served by the field." We are impressed with the dignity of that fundamental industry, and, seeing it divested of the dust and weariness in which it greets us, we are charmed with its noble rewards, and proofs of intelligent progress. We soon weary of the fakirs and are pained at the brutality of the race course, but turn with unremitting interest to the exhibit of the real farmers and housewives. Frequently this fall we have heard visitors to one or another of the fairs say, when questioned about the trotting side-show: "I didn't notice it, I was looking at the cattle all the while." We are coming to the conclusion in our own mind that the best and most reliable attraction of an agricultural fair is not in the side issues that savor of the circus, but in a good, complete exhibit of the fruits of labor in the field, orchard and kitchen.

There are many reasons why the Young Men's Christian Association should receive support at the hands of Rockland people. As we have often said, it is the only agency in the city that is actively dedicated to the help of young men. It is the only positive force for good whose energies are directed purely in that direction. The influences for the opposite direction are many and insidious. The boys of our city, and those coming to it for longer or shorter periods, necessarily pass under the influences either of right or wrong. The stronger the arm of the Y. M. C. A. the more effective its work. Having behind it not only the churches, to which it rightfully looks for support, but also the moral and financial encouragement and support of business men, it can be counted upon to accomplish all that its promoters designed in combating the harmful tendencies of things that exist in this community as well as in all others. The business men of Rockland can well afford to make the local association a warmly supported and richly endowed institution. In proportion to its means will its work be beneficial.

The third consecutive season of success, and the last more pronounced than the preceding two, would seem to guarantee the permanency of the Maine Music Festival. The Courier-Gazette hopes this is assured. To the genius of one man the achievement primarily is due. It is to be hoped that he may be spared to bring his great enterprise still further along the way to permanency, till it shall stand where nothing may cast it down should ever lay aside his baton. He has done great things for the cause of music in Maine. No men nor any body of men ever have done one-tenth part so much.

The elements seem reluctant to allow the great international yacht race; but meantime with each additional trial the stock of the British challenger rises and that lends increased interest to the contest. Shamrock is a good one, that none must deny, but we still bet our cookie on Columbia.

If ever the gallant Dewey is a candidate for President it will be of the Republican party. And that might be a grand idea, five years hence.

Dewey is indeed a great man. Even the yellow papers cannot succeed in making him ridiculous.

When Boston welcomes Dewey will Aginaldo Atkinson take to the woods?

Give the sidewalks shoveled.

THE MAINE FESTIVAL.

Its Third Season Even a Greater Success Than Any Preceding.

Last week was entirely devoted to the cause of Music, so far as any event of importance engrossed the minds of the people of Maine. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday saw the triumphs of the Festival in Portland. Thursday, Friday and Saturday witnessed an equal success in Bangor.

The Rockland chorus—the Wight Philharmonic Society—took its innings at Portland, being a part of the Western Festival. Fifty-six members were in attendance from this chorus. Rockland sent besides some 40 patrons, most of them to Portland, and nearly as many to the performance when the great Sembrich appeared. Altogether our city did very well by the Festival. Of the great success of the various concerts and matinees this article does not purpose to treat in detail. The chorus exhibited marked progress over its work of the preceding years, and sang grandly. Mr. Chapman, the peerless director, had them under perfect control and accomplished wonders in the various selections, notably on the second night when the grand oratorio of The Messiah was rendered, with a spirit and appreciation that fairly uplifted the great audience in attendance. The chorus "For Unto Us a Child Is Born" was given with a finish and power that the visiting artists declared never to have been surpassed, and evoked from the audience thunders of applause.

The closing day brought forth a "Maine Day" for the afternoon and Sembrich for the evening. It is of special interest to Rockland people to know that the sensation of the afternoon, that which called down the loudest demonstrations of approval, was the composition of James Wight.

Our city's musical leader. On the program this was given to its composer's disgust as a "Two Step." In reality it was a military march, dedicated to Wm. R. Chapman and entitled "Our Guiding Star."

Mr. Wight was loudly greeted as he stepped upon the stand and seized the conductor's baton, with a wave of which the great orchestra got instantly into action. Mr. Wight's march is a composition of high musical merit. It has all the lightness, grace and abandon of Sousa's most popular numbers, but of which, however, it is in no sense inferior. Full of originality, it moves forward with a swing that sets your blood to tingling and your feet instinctively to marking time. Presently the trombones cut in with a greenish tint, and the march "has you for keeps." The orchestra played it nobly, enjoying the composition as fully as the listeners did. On its conclusion, audience and chorus united in applause that rocked the auditorium. Mr. Wight again and again bowed his acknowledgments. A large bouquet of beautiful roses was passed up to him and the applause increased until the occasion was made an ovation to the modest and popular Rockland conductor. This success was repeated at Bangor.

Mr. Wight has already received many requests for his march for band use, to which it is especially adapted. Should he see fit to publish it there is no reason why it should not become one of the popular marches of the day. It is interesting to note that the reception given Mr. Wight on this occasion was next to that accorded Madame Sembrich, the most notable of the world's Festival.

Of Sembrich there is but little needs be said, save that she came, was seen, and conquered all hearts. The people of Maine listened to the world's greatest soprano and went wild over her. The other singers ably sustained their reputations and gave uniform delight. The orchestra of 55 pieces was a noble band of home-raised musicians who become more and more each year a credit to the genius of their director. Of that director, Wm. R. Chapman, there remains little to say that has not already been said. The man is a positive wonder. What he has accomplished in Maine doubtless never would have been done but for him. He must be very proud of this third consecutive season's success. And a word of equal praise is deserved by his able wife, his faithful conductor in all plans and most admirable manager of business.

The success of Portland was duplicated in Bangor. As to the financial outcome no definite statement is yet given but it is believed the expenses, heavy though they be, have been met. Already arrangements are making for the festival of next year.

The Rockland people who went to Portland enjoyed themselves mightily. Thus early most of them are laying plans for next October, being resolved not to lose the supreme enjoyment of such an event.

SATISFY YOUR APPETITE.

When going on your picnics or sailing on the bay. Your appetites no doubt increase in an uncertain way. The inner man must be supplied or pleasure is dull and dreary. And if you have poor food to eat it makes you very weary.

But if you go before you start to C. E. Rising's store. And buy some pastry and fresh bread you need not worry more. All kinds of sandwiches he makes according to your order. Which can't be beat by any man on old Maine's rocky border.

If you have lived about these shores for any length of time. You've eaten New Domestic Bread eight cases out of nine. For it's the leader in the trade and sells like hot cakes, too.

To beat it just one whit is hard for anyone to do. At shore resorts, hotels and stores, you find this brand of bread and promptly buy it. HICKS GOES FREE

Judge Campbell Decides That Evidence Was Not Sufficient.

When James Kennedy confessed to having a hand in the Holman and Perry burglaries he gave County Attorney Johnson the names of several others who were alleged to be connected with the now notorious housebreaking affair.

Among the names was that of Ward N. Hicks or N. Ward Hicks (the goos by both names) a tramp painter. Upon Kennedy's description Hicks was arrested in Bath last Tuesday and brought to this city for trial on the charge of breaking, entering and larceny. The trial began Saturday morning before Judge Campbell in the police court rooms, Hicks pleading not guilty.

The first witness was William Kennedy, who testified that he had known Hicks for several years, sometime last spring bought certain household articles of him, and then, being in a crumb cloth, rug, a pair of lace curtains, a stand clock and two silk portieres—portieres Mr. Kennedy called them.

The hearing then adjourned to Warden Smith's office in the Maine State Prison, where James Kennedy and Susan Thompson were expected to identify Hicks as the man who "cracked the crib." But to the dismay of County Attorney Johnson neither Kennedy nor Mrs. Thompson would admit having seen an accurate description of Hicks the previous night, and intimidated in emphatic terms that he thought his prisoners were lying. The couple proved unyielding, however, and the trial adjourned to Monday at 2 p. m.

County Attorney Johnson brought in as witnesses for the State William Kennedy and wife, Daniel Barter, Ernest V. Thompson, Ida Kennedy, Deputy Sheriff Thomas and Edw. Lothrop. The burden of their testimony was to the effect that James Kennedy and Mrs. Thompson both knew Hicks. Mrs. Perry, whose house was one of those burglarized, was present to prove property but when she stated that the stand clock to which the case against Hicks had narrowed did not belong to her, County Attorney Johnson surrendered, and Hicks was discharged without day.

County Attorney Johnson threatened to have some indictments for perjury as he is satisfied that some wholesale lying has been going on in connection with this burglary case.

C. M. Walker appeared for Hicks.

Great preparations are being made by the state and city officials for the entertainment of Admiral Dewey on Oct. 13 and 14. The program, as outlined now is as follows: Oct. 13 Admiral Dewey will arrive from Northfield, Vt., in the early evening by special train.

He will be met by a reception committee, and later in the evening will be given a dinner by the city. On the following day he will be the guest of the commonwealth. At noon there will be a parade of the Olympia's crew, marines from the navy yard and the entire state militia. After the parade has been reviewed by the governor and the admiral, Dewey will be present at the return of the flags to the commonwealth by the regiments carrying them during the Spanish war. During the day there will be a patriotic chorus of school children in some hall where Dewey will visit. In the evening Governor Wolcott will give a dinner to the admiral, and there will be a display of fireworks on the Common during Dewey's stay. Mayor Quincy will present him with a valuable memento of the occasion.

The first performance in the English language of Emile Bergerat's drama, "More Than Queen," was given by Julia Arthur at the Park theatre last Wednesday. The house was crowded to its capacity by an audience who cordially welcomed the actress and applauded a production which for magnificence of costumes and wealth of beautiful scenery has never been excelled. Miss Arthur as Josephine, won and deserved a splendid triumph, one that will take precedence among all her former successes. She realized the character as perhaps no other American actress. Miss Arthur has given the character intelligent study and her conception is perfect. Judging from the size and enthusiasm of the audiences at the Boston theatre during the past week, the Bostonians are greater favorites than ever with the actress.

"The Serenade" was greeted by large audiences at every performance. There are several new members who made agreeable impressions, and who were very favorably received. The Bostonians close their engagement at the Boston, Saturday. This week "Robin Hood" will be put on.

McQuinn lg, Savage c, Bernardini rg, B. Connors rt, Jellison re, A. Carter qb, F. Connors lb, Allen r, lb, H. Carter fb.

Rockland-Baker re, Smalley lg, Simmons rg, Beaton c, McDougall lg, I. Cross lt, Richardson le, F. Tibbets qb, Brown r, G. Merchant lb, Frost fb, referee, Murray umpire. They were the two teams took their appointed stations, the result of the game became at once a foregone conclusion. On the one side were men whose average weight is 144. Against them was a team whose average is 168, as was learned later on good authority. Twenty-four pounds to the man was the sum and substance of Bar Harbor's physical superiority over the Rockland team, and that tells the whole story.

The kick-off was made at exactly 3.15. Steadily the ball was advanced until within five yards of Rockland's goal. Then, in a scrimmage, Frost became disabled. During that first few minutes he had played a wonderful game. Whether a play was around the right or left ends or through the center, "Sharky" was there. Richardson was substituted at fullback and J. Tibbets took Richardson's place at left end. This reduced the average weight of the Rockland team to 144, but these figures do not express by a hundredth part the advantage gained by Bar Harbor through this unfortunate accident.

Four touchdowns were made by Bar Harbor during the first half, but no successful kicks for goal. An attempt to break through McDougall was made by the Rockland boys, but every play made by Bar Harbor resulted in greater or less advantage to the home team.

At the opening of the second half, Billington was put in left tackle, Stover left guard and Wescott center for Bar Harbor. Rockland got five yards on a foul tackle after a sharp debate between the umpire and referee. Immediately afterwards the ball was lost by a bad fumble and the second scrimmage carried it across the visitor's line. A sixth touchdown followed.

The Rockland boys now made a heroic stand against overwhelming odds. Richardson's kick-offs were marveled of beauty, going into the crowd behind Bar Harbor's goal posts with unerring accuracy. For the first time Bar Harbor was stalled. Brown made a gain of several yards, then a fumble gave the ball to Bar Harbor. Rockland's line gave way and P. Connors sprang up the field and made the home team's seventh touchdown. The place kick was successful. The eighth touchdown followed, with the suddenness of a thunder-clap. Richardson made another pretty kick-off. Bar Harbor fumbled and it was Rockland's ball.

The visitors pulled themselves together for one supreme effort. Merchant carried the ball to within eight yards of Bar Harbor's goal line. Brown attempted to run around the right end and lost considerable ground. Brown tried a punt, but was hampered by his nearness to the line. Bar Harbor dropped on the ball, and scored the last goal in three downs.

The start for Rockland was made at 10.30 Sunday morning. A large crowd had gathered on the wharf to witness the return of the team, and it seemed only appropriate that the stay-at-home should be greeted by a song to suit the occasion. Accordingly, one was composed and sung to the tune of "The Quilting Party" as the boat steamed up to the wharf, and it was the joint production of Messrs. Tibbets and Smalley.

THE FIELD OF SPORTS

The Bar Harbor Football Outing and Other Matters of Timely Nature

The first football game played by Rockland High School this season has resulted in a crushing defeat to the team of 47 to 0, and Bar Harbor has done the deed.

Manager Holmes had chartered the steamer W. G. Butman for the trip to Bar Harbor, and at 5.30 Saturday morning found the members of the team at Tillson's wharf ready to start, but owing to an expiring delay the party did not get under way until 7 o'clock.

The sky was delightfully clear, but as the Butman passed Owl's Head a vicious swell became somewhat in evidence, and the party began to succumb to motion sickness. The steamer was tossed in a manner frightful to an inexperienced landsman. Smalley's rollicking college song died on his lips; Tibbets began to wonder why he was being shepherded to eat potatoes with unbecoming haste; Felix Staples got scared and put on a life-preserver; and then—Snow broke the ice and fed the fishes. And there were others.

At 1.35 p. m. the landing was made at Bar Harbor, where the party was met by Mr. Joy, the genial manager of the home team, who conducted the Rockland boys to the hotel. The party was then taken to the Clinton team and Jason League, though not as fast as the National League.

Concerning the late Mary Payson Fogler, whose death is noticed on the 5th page of this issue, another correspondent writes: Mrs. Fogler died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mortimer Vogler, at South Hope. She was the daughter of Col. Asa, and Hannah Hewitt Payson of Hope and has always lived in that town. In her younger days she was a teacher and possessed a mind of rare intelligence and she took an active interest in the advancement of science and thought in the world until her mind became clouded by the weight of years and illness. She was the mother of five sons and one daughter. Oscar, the eldest son, died when a young man. Prentiss died at his home in August a few years ago, having held positions of trust in the state. Henry H. has been an active business man of South Hope; John N. has been engaged in banking business in this state and Kansas, and late paymaster in the U. S. A. Lyman S. for years clerk to state secretary and during the past year assistant paymaster in Porto Rico, and Mrs. Martha Vogler, who with her husband, Mortimer Vogler, has given the mother such constant and loving care through the three years of trial and suffering which preceded her death. She was an ardent Universalist in faith and found comfort and consolation in the presence of the "Man of Sorrow" throughout her long and trying illness and expressed a great desire to be resting at home with Him. As a wife and mother she left nothing to be wished for, and she will be remembered for her earnest, constant life and her wise and loving counsel. Neighbors and friends mourn the loss of a true and faithful friend, and the home where she filled so large a place will seem so desolate. But with a life full of years she has reached her desire and the Rewarder of good works will comfort those who remain even as He receiveth her to glory.

When Doctors Disagree

Herbert M. Fish, a progressive and respected resident of Cape Vincent, N. Y., said: "The doctors disagreed in my case, one said I had the grip, another that it was jaundice, and so on. I tried many remedies but did not receive the slightest benefit. I began to feel rested and restored. The end of the tenth box my physical condition was better than it had been for years and I was a well man."

LOVES A DUSKY MATE

Infatuation of An English Girl For An African Barbarian

SHE DID A-WOOING GO

Followed Him To London and Admired Him At The Ethiopian Show.

The Wealthy Girl's Fancy Attracted Her Friends Who Are Determined To Break Off The Match—The Wedding Postponed—An Extraordinary Romance Not Yet Ended.

Verily Africa is fast becoming civilized. An English girl has actually fallen in love with a dusky African.

An ordinary girl is she, but one with an abundance of money and a small share of good looks. Her name is Florence F. Jewell, and she is the daughter of J. Jewell, a mining engineer, who made a fortune in the West.

Miss Jewell happened to be at Bloemfontein, the capital of the Orange Free State, some time ago, and there one sultry afternoon her attention was attracted toward a young Matabele warrior.

He was clad in his picturesque, if decidedly barbaric, native costume, and the ordinary traveler would have seen in him nothing more than a savage.

She was told that he was a pure-blooded Matabele, that he was known as "Prince" Lobengula, and that he professed to be a relative of the famous Matabele king of that name.

She learned further that he was going to England, where he had made a great deal of money in his time in finding out who he was.

WHAT A BLESSING.

Many People in Rockland Learning To Appreciate.

What a blessing it is. Sought after by thousands. Rockland is a finding it out. Many a miserable man is happy now. Nights of unrest, days of trouble. Any itching skin disease means this. Itching piles means it. Eczema just as bad, and just as bad to cure.

But Doan's Ointment relieves at once, and cures all itching of the skin. A blessing to a suffering public. Here's Rockland people to back our statement.

Mrs. Wm. McDougald, of 49 Thomas-street, says: "My son James, fifteen years of age was troubled with a skin disorder which broke out on his body in patches as large as my hand. It almost drove the boy mad with itching both day and night. It heated up and then broke out in another place and was as annoying as ever. He could not help but rub or scratch it to allay the itching and then it would irritate and inflame making it sore. I had him apply various remedies but without any beneficial result, so at last I got Doan's Ointment at Donahue's drug store. He used it a few times and all signs of the humor left him."

Doan's Ointment, price 50 cents per box, for sale by all dealers. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

WITH THE MILLINERS.

The Openings of Saturday Were Well Attended—What Was Seen.

Every year brings marked changes in millinery. There is a decided change in the crowns of all the hats for the coming winter. They are larger and higher than formerly. A great many soft velvet, jetted lace, applique silk crowns are made, folded into soft, becoming shapes. Some of the brims are wide and droop over the face, while others flare from the face, while a becoming roll of velvet in direct contrast to the facing of the brim lies against the hair. Colored facings either tucked or folded are very pretty and will be very popular. A very dainty facing and also a very trying one to the complexion of most ladies, is made of white chiffon folds. They are very handsome and take an experienced hand to fashion them.

The turbans are very large with high brims and are becoming to all faces. They are trimmed with quantities of velvet, fur, birds, breasts, etc. The heavy side front trimming looks odd to us at first but we soon get used to the new effects. The old style of trimming on the left side is still the right thing even when a bunch of plumes is placed directly in the center. A large bow or chert velvet is placed at the left to offset the front effect.

The grays and casters shades also black and white, are the leading combinations. All shades of pink from the dainty shell to the brilliant cerise are used with brown and black.

The large velvet hats are usually of black or brown velvet. Other colors in velvet being used more for trimmings and facings. Taffeta silk, corded, tucked and stitched makes very stylish bows. Bonnets composed entirely of taffeta are very handsome. Very few of the bonnets have ties. Most of them resemble small hats. They are made of about the same materials as the large hats. The breast and birds used being some smaller.

Saturday, the millinery openings at Miss C. A. Barnard's, Mrs. N. B. Dunton-street, says: "My son James, fifteen years of age was troubled with a skin disorder which broke out on his body in patches as large as my hand. It almost drove the boy mad with itching both day and night. It heated up and then broke out in another place and was as annoying as ever. He could not help but rub or scratch it to allay the itching and then it would irritate and inflame making it sore. I had him apply various remedies but without any beneficial result, so at last I got Doan's Ointment at Donahue's drug store. He used it a few times and all signs of the humor left him."

long gray plume. A handsome lace facing on a large brown velvet hat was one very becoming feature. Black velvet tucked made a very pretty crown to one pretty hat.

Miss Carrie Barnard's northern window was very prettily arranged; streamers of rose pink ribbon caught up with bunches of black tips, gray birds wings and breasts helped to make the window a success. The hat shown in the window was composed entirely of sable fur with a tulle feather. The hat was a beauty.

Miss Barnard had her usual supply of tasty hats and bonnets. Some of her prettiest combinations were gray felt with gray and white trimmings, a castor velvet with three castor shades for trimming. A number of the hats were trimmed with entire birds. Some had beautiful silky braids.

Kid McCoy and Joe Chynski fought six rounds in Chicago Friday night. The contest was declared a draw, although McCoy clearly outpointed the Californian.
