Mean men worship wealth; great men pursue nobler deeds.

We print in full on our first page the masterly Boston speech of Gov. Roosevelt. If our Republican readers wish to know where the leaders of the party stand today, and where they are to stand in the great national contest of 1900, they can learn by a perusal of this speech. There is to be no dodging, no trimming. The nation, against its original inclination, was forced into a war out of which it issued gloriously. One of this war's fruits, unseen and unpredicted, left our flag planted on the priceless archipelago of the Pacific, where insurrection now prevails. The American flag there raised in honor will never be lowered while the loaded guns of an enemy are trained upon it. This is the message of Roosevelt and the dominant note in the utterances of Republican leaders. On these issues the party is to win as it has often before won on great issues affecting the progress and well-being of the nation.

Ex-President Harrison, just home from a foreign trip, says that there is any under-current in England against the South African war he did not see it. Doubtless there is such sentiment—would be strange if not—but when at war with a foreign foe the English people stand shoulder to shoulder against the enemy. When the fighting ceases there will be time enough to adjust internal differences over it. Here is an example in patriotism, ever characteristic of the Queen's subjects, that Uncle Atkinson and the other little-Americans may profitably contemplate.

That was a red-hot reception the Kansas people gave to Funston and the 20th Regiment on their arrival home last week. And the boys deserved it. Rarely have American troops marched back wearing the laurels of a more brilliant record than the 20th Kansas brings back from the Philippines. Meantime their gallant colonel, promoted to a brigadier, returns to the east, "to stay until the war is over."

Congressman Littlefield completed his stumping tour in the First District Saturday night. His meetings were largely attended and enthusiastic and gave no doubt of the easy election of Candidate Allen to succeed Mr. Reed. Mr. Littlefield will be at home for the next three weeks. Then he goes to Washington to take his seat in Congress.

Archbishop Ireland denies that he charged Gen. Funston with having looted Philippine churches. The archbishop merely inquired if charges to that effect, made by a San Francisco paper, were denied by Funston. Funston did deny them with emphasis and has brought suit against the paper uttering them.

Times are good in Rockland, but the prosperity we are entitled to never will permanently abide until there are established here industries that shall furnish employment and bring in new money to distribute in the form of wages. Our young men grow up and go away to seek their fortunes. They should be kept at home.

In the opinion of Gen. Lee the Cubans are not fit for the self-government that they are calling for. It is his opinion that should our troops be withdrawn and local government set up, anarchy would ensue with great promptness. If anybody is competent to judge in this matter it ought to be Fitzhugh Lee.

Senator Mason's bluff to resign has been called by his Republican constituents with hilarious promptness. Mason fails to represent Illinois at this time and the people would be only too glad to have him step down. The Illinois Republicans are with the Administration.

Aguinaldo's latest "proclamation" is a trifle less cocky. He recommends his followers to exhibit if possible some evidences of decency, inasmuch as Congress is soon to meet and it will be well to make a good appearance in order to turn legislation in their behalf.

Mr. Boutwell says frankly of the league to which he belongs that "We are trying to break down the policy of the administration." That is all that Aguinaldo asks and the only reason why he continues to shoot.

No, we don't believe the Atkinsonians really think their hero a "George Washington." We don't hear of any new babies in this country being named "Aguinaldo."

Active operations have begun in the Philippines. Aguinaldo will soon be knocking at the front door and asking to be let in out of the wet.

This is a busy day in many states with Republican victories predicted in most quarters.

The report of the Philippine Commission will be sorry reading for the little-Americans.

TODAY'S ELECTION RESULTS

Estimates of Leaders in the Five Doubtful States—Allen Victorious.

Elections occur in quite a number of the states today and are especially important because of the effect they are expected to have on the great presidential contest of next year. Particular interest is manifested in the outcome in Ohio, Iowa, Nebraska, Maryland and Kentucky, the five doubtful states, so-called.

In the last presidential election Ohio gave a Republican plurality of 47,497 and in 1896 gave a Republican plurality of 61,139 for secretary of state. This year it is a state election, the contestants being Judge Nash, Rep.; John H. McLean, Dem.; and Samuel M. Jones, Independent. Chairman Dick of the Republican state committee is of the opinion that Nash's plurality will not be less than 50,000; Senator Hanna says Nash will have a big plurality, but gives no figures; Chairman Seward of the Democratic state committee says that McLean will be elected by a substantial plurality; Ex-Governor Campbell claims that McLean will have 25,000. Candidate Jones is an unknown factor in the contest, and gives his idea of the situation in the following figures: Non-partisan, 335,000; Republican, 300,000; Democratic, 255,000. Senator Foraker says that Democratic opposition is not feared this year, but the independent strength has become an alarming factor. Still he looks for a Republican victory.

Iowa went Republican last year by 63,000, and Chairman Weaver of the Republican state committee says there will be the usual heavy majority this year. He claims that the legislature will be Republican and that a Republican U. S. Senator will be elected. Chairman Hoffman of the Democratic state committee claims that the Democratic candidate for governor, Fred E. White will be elected.

Next to Ohio, the hottest battleground state has probably been Kentucky. The state has usually been a Democratic stronghold and went that way for clerk of courts by a plurality of 17,804 in 1898. In 1895, however, the Republicans elected their candidate for governor and in the presidential election went Republican by 281. This year the Democratic strength is divided, the candidates Goebel, the regular nominee, and Brown the Independent Silver Democrat candidate. The Republican candidate is Hon. Wm. S. Taylor, who claims that he will carry the state with a plurality of 21,500. Chairman Barnett of Republican state central committee thinks there is no question but that his party will carry the state, and that the Republicans will have a majority on joint ballot in the next legislature. Chairman Handley of the Brown campaign committee claims that Goebel will be overwhelmingly defeated. Chairman Young of the Democratic state central committee figures a plurality not less than 37,600 for Goebel.

Maryland has been a Republican state in the last three years, having given McKinley a plurality of 32,224 in 1896. Col. Smith the Democratic candidate for governor is confident of a large majority. Lowndes, the Republican candidate for governor, is of the opinion that Republican harmony has been restored and the outlook is encouraging. The chairman of the Republican state committee expects a Republican plurality of 10,000 and that both branches of legislature will be Republican. The chairman of the Democratic state committee says there will be some big surprises in store for the Republicans, but only claims a majority of from 5,000 to 7,000 in the state. The Democrats and Populists, on a fusion ticket, have carried Nebraska for the last three years, although their plurality for governor in 1898 was only 2,721. Byran says that unless all signs fall the Republicans will be beaten today. The chairman of the Fusion state committee says that the Fusion majority will be 12,000. Senator Thurston firmly believes Nebraska will go decisively Republican and Asst. Sec. A. J. Johnson figures a Republican plurality of 7,000.

The special election in the First Maine District took place yesterday central with a new twist to it. Hear from Allen's plurality is 4650. The surprising feature of the election was Mr. Allen's majority of 2089 in York county, where his opponent Parker McKinney was thought to have a special strength. Thus does Maine endorse the administration. May it have an inspiring effect on the other states, which elect today.

MOST BEYOND RELIEF.

If It Were Not For Rockland Indorsement, People Might Be Skeptical.

No wonder people doubt. So many statements are made. Statements endorsed by strangers. From people living in distant towns. Don't know them and can't see them. Such endorsement has a hazy aspect. Rockland people want local proof. That's what we have here.

It's not beyond belief because it can be proven.

Read a citizen's testimony.

Mr. J. W. Leighton of No. 28 Rockland street says:—"I spent considerable money for a poor man, in doctoring and using kidney medicines, but I got little or no relief. Of late my kidneys troubled me more than ever with a dead aching pain particularly along towards morning when I would lie awake and roll from one side to the other trying to find a comfortable position so I could go to sleep again; but the chances were that I would lie awake until morning and suffer. There was also urinary weakness which was very annoying, more so at night. Well, I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Donahue's Drug Store. That one box did me more good than anything I ever tried. My back felt much better and stronger. I could rest more comfortable at night, and the kidney secretions returned to their usual condition."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers, price 50c. Mailed on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

A TALK ON TRUSTS

The Y. M. C. A. Debaters Shed Light On This Great Question.

There was a large attendance at the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Debating Society last Thursday evening, when the subject of "Trusts" came up for discussion.

The company involuntarily divided themselves into two parties, one speaking in favor of trusts and the other against them. Those who favored trusts were headed by Gardiner, Frank B. Miller, Chas. D. Jones, Frank H. Ingraham, W. T. Hovey and E. W. Porter. Gen. J. P. Cilley, E. K. Gould, Philip Howard, Mr. Lermont and E. M. Stubbs took the opposite side.

The argument in favor of trusts was that they are a product of the times. The cry that a great many men are thrown out of employment by them has been heard all through the ages. Men have struck and fought against most every introduction of labor saving machinery, but the machinery has come, and more men are employed today than ever before. Business cannot now be carried on with small capital and with the employment of a little labor as formerly. Large combinations of capital being necessary in order to produce manufactured articles economically. The times have outgrown the method of doing business on a small scale and people are not, as a rule lying awake nights expecting to be crushed by trusts. Many commodities are a great deal cheaper today than they were 40 or 50 years ago when no one had heard of trusts.

It is a mistake to think that the stock of the large corporations is owned by the wealthy for much of it is owned by the comparatively poor. Each state has the power to legislate against any unwarranted action by trusts and combinations and if they really did anything wrong they could easily be proceeded against. It is plain, however, that they are a great deal more productive of good than evil.

If we should abolish trusts because they have selfish motives we must put down all kinds of business for no one works, and sells, and buys for the purpose of benefiting the other fellow. Trusts are positively beneficial. Even the great trust known as the Standard Oil Company which has been abused so much, has reduced the price of kerosene oil from 75 cents to 12 cents a gallon. Every time the trusts endeavor to raise prices above a natural limit smaller companies spring up and undersell them thus putting a safety-valve upon the operations of the trusts.

The side opposed to trusts said that the industries formerly in the hands of the few were now getting into the hands of the many and this is likely to cause trouble in the near future. Trusts are formed for the purpose of controlling the prices upon articles and to resist competition. They do great harm and it is very hard for the law to convict them of their unlawful acts. There are no more a product of the times than a pickpocket is. Their only motive is selfishness, pure and simple. They cause the loss of employment to thousands of men.

The trusts we generally come in contact with are the Oil, Sugar, Baking Powder and Tobacco Trusts and most of these are lying in wait to take more rights than the people in general worrying about their future welfare and it is only a matter of time when they will finally be squelched. Corporations are without souls and they do many things which individuals never would do. You can hang a man but not a corporation. The very essence of the business of trusts is to enrich themselves and they have no thought for the welfare of the people in general.

L. R. Campbell, contrary to his usual custom, posed as a peace-maker between the two parties and made a conciliatory speech, saying among other things: "This is a golden age in which we live. The young men and the young women have better advantages today than ever before and I believe that the important questions of the day will be settled honestly and fearlessly."

This did not suit W. T. Hovey, who said that everyone who had expressed his views upon the matter had shown extreme selfishness. One, for instance, was frightened at the thought of the price of veal rising; another was blue on account of the prospect of a rise in the price of eggs; another was cross because brought on by a combination of English brewers; another was in the doldrums because sweatsuits of which he had partaken so freely in his younger days were on the point of getting beyond his reach; another was cross at the prospect of heavy biscuits for breakfast. A storm of applause and groans followed this statement and the meeting dispersed.

SAVE YOUR MAGAZINES.
Chaplain Plummer Has Use For Reading Matter at the Prison.

Chaplain Plummer says that there is a chance for some charitable inclined society or individual to help him in his work a great deal. He wants magazines of as late date as possible, and in these days of ten-cent publications there should be no reason why he should not be furnished with all that he wants.

As the matter now stands the chaplain sews together a new old magazine and starts it in Tuesday evening in cell No. 1 in the east wing. The following Tuesday he leaves it in cell No. 2, and so on until it has passed through the lot cells in that wing, staying a week behind each barred door. In this way it takes two years for a magazine to make the trip and it is rather ancient reading for the last man.

Mr. Plummer would like to have magazines enough to start one in each corridor of 18 cells, and if that were done a magazine would never be more than a few weeks old. It might be well to add that a magazine which is a year or two old would be classed as new and would be very gratefully accepted by the kindly chaplain.

The First District has done grandly by Mr. Allen. In view of the small vote predicted by reason of apathy his majority of rising 4500 is surprisingly large. The First District stands by the administration.

MRS. ANSON JONES.

She Is the Widow of the Only President of Texas.

One of the remarkable women of Texas is Mrs. Anson Jones, widow of the President of the Republic of Texas from 1844 to 1845, when the Republic ceased to exist. Mrs. Jones was born in Arkansas, July 24, 1819. In 1840 she was married to Dr. Anson Jones, one of the foremost men of the State. Dr. Jones had just returned from his post as Minister to the United States to take his seat in the Senate of Texas, when he met her, and at the time of the marriage was on the road to the Presidency, to which he was elected in 1844, and he signed the instruments which added the broad domain of Texas to the Union. The President found in his wife a woman equal to her high position, and she was of much assistance to him as an adviser as well as mistress of his home. In 1857 Anson Jones was defeated for a seat in the United States Senate, and this undoubtedly hastened the beginning of her widowhood. President Jones dying early in the following year, Mrs. Jones lost one son and much of her property during the Civil War. The oldest son, S. E. Jones, returned unscathed, and is still with his mother, the staff of her declining years. A daughter, Mrs. R. G. Ashe, is also a resident of Houston. In spite of her years Mrs. Jones is still active and in good health, and may often be seen in Houston, especially on the afternoons set apart for the meeting of her church association, in which she takes great interest.

The Engagement Ring.

Woman have gone on for ages past wearing their symbols of engagement and marriage, never asking why they do so, and husbands should move unmarked midst men and maidens. This is a state of things which calls aloud for alteration, and it is a consummation devoutly to be wished that the man should start with the custom of wearing first the jeweled circlet and then the plain gold one—outward and visible signs of engagement and marriage. The art says that are placed at its advantage, and from more than one point of view. For instance, how embarrassing for a young girl to be made acquainted at a dance with an apparently eligible and well-to-do man, a young man, who, after the polite formalities, suggests a stroll through the conservatory in lieu of dancing a certain number. What more natural than the wearing of the romantic spell at a moment upon moonlit conjugal youth? What more natural than the anticipation of a companionable, not to say tender, acquaintance? And what more disappointing than the meeting of a fact announced as the man bids the maiden adieu: "I would like to have you meet my fiancée."

No, the girls say there isn't a fair point about the existing conditions. They advocate the wearing of an engagement ring by the man, just as an engagement ring is worn by the woman. No one ever mistakes an engaged girl wearing the ring, the abject of conscious superiority, of condescending good humor, would stamp the young woman as mortgaged property. And with the assistance and addition of the ring, there is absolutely no chance for error. And what is true of engagements, so the girls contend, is even more applicable after marriage. A married man, wearing no band of service, if he accept the guilty criminal and suspicion-arousing slapping of the letter pocket—is in imminent danger of being engaged in dangerous converse by womankind. And by the same token, a woman, who is adopted by an accepted leader, would undoubtedly rebound to the credit everlasting of the pioneer. There is no reason whatever why men should not wear engagement rings, and every possible reason why they should. They cannot object on the score of not liking such a decoration; no man objects to wearing the badge of a particular office or a cross for some won for some heroic act. Let men, therefore, when they have won it, wear love's badge with greater pride and gladness than any other.

Velvets Next Winter.

The fashion prophets predict a velvet season next winter. All the tips and suggestions from Paris promise a revival of this rich fabric. An effort was made to introduce it last winter, but its costliness left it within reach of only the very wealthy. Consequently velvet was rarely seen. The up-to-date woman must, however, next winter have at least one velvet garment in her wardrobe or be out of the world. An extra fine quality of velvet is to be introduced which will be used exclusively for whole costumes for street and carriage wear. Dressy jackets will be of velvet, and fancy bodices, elaborately trimmed with black lace and jet or rare old pieces of point and duchesse lace, will be the ultra-modish garments of the winter wardrobe.

Velvet gowns have this in their favor—they need no trimming. The beauty of the costume consists in its rich simplicity. The man who saved in this respect can be added to the quality of the material, thus giving the woman who has to count her pennies an opportunity to be the proud possessor of one of these elegant toilets.

Speaking of modesty, we once heard of a left-handed girl who wore her engagement ring on her right hand.—Detroit Journal.

WOMEN OF SOCIETY.

CHARMING PERSONALITY OF SOME OF THOSE OF THE SOUTH.

An Amusing Incident That Happened to a Lady at a Railroad Station—She Took Charge of a Fruit Stand and Sold All Out.

Southern society women often unite in their charming personality an odd mixture of the stately manners befitting the traditions of their race, with an occasional freedom from conventionality, which would be impossible to our Northern social leaders, who generally in every-day life are far less formal in their ideas.

A rather amusing incident, which illustrates this decidedly attractive quality, happened not long ago at the railway station in B—. Mrs. X., the wife of a prominent Southern statesman and millionaire, who is herself famous in both continents for her beauty and charm of manner, was about to start North in her husband's private car with a large party of invited guests.

Passing through the station she was attracted by a tempting array of fruit for sale, piled on the counter of a booth, inside of which an old woman presided. She stopped and bought liberally, but found on reckoning up her purchases that she had nothing but a ten-dollar bill, which the crows were unable to change.

"Can't you get it changed somewhere?" asked Mrs. X. "Yes," said the fruit vendor anxiously, "but I cannot leave my shop."

"Oh, that will be all right," exclaimed the great lady. "I will take care of it until you come back. Only tell me your prices; how much is this, and that?" she continued, pointing to the different articles, which, besides the fruit in season, included cigars, cigarettes and a variety of other small wares. After receiving the information Mrs. X. lifted the entrance through the counter, and, laughingly pushing the old woman out of her booth, took her place, and with great composure began piling up the goods for sale to her friends.

Several of the men entered into the humor of the situation and began buying cigars and candy. This started the crowd, which rapidly collected, wondering, not without reason, the beautiful Mrs. X. continued the sale, audaciously raising her prices as the demand increased, and praising the quality of her "merchandise."

"Look at this peach," she said smilingly, to a rich old planter of her acquaintance. "One side is perfect, but because there is a slight imperfection on the other, you can have it for 25 cents. These oranges are perfectly fine," she continued to another victim. "I hope you will give me 10 cents apiece for them," and so on. Strangers, friends and acquaintances, all were called and started into buying.

The old woman returned, but wisely refrained from claiming her place, and remained a delighted spectator of the scene. In ten minutes Mrs. X. had disposed of nearly all the fruit and small wares, and the tin money box was full of coins and bills. Then the beauty paid her own account to the happy merchant from the change she had won, and amid the thanks and benediction of the latter, proceeded to her car.

"I never saw anything better done," said one of the spectators afterward. And with her it was only that upon a kindly act of a sympathetic woman."

Lillian Russell On Beauty.

Lillian Russell gives her idea of how women can be made beautiful. "I will say this, I have seen some very pretty women with not a regular feature. I have seen other women who are extremely ugly; yet whose features were as regular as those of Helen of Troy. If Paris were here to-day with the apple he would award it to the woman, not with correct features, but who had a good complexion, whose teeth were shaded by those mystic veils which record and hide their mystic feelings, whose hair was glossy and beautiful, whose neck was shapely and graceful, whose eyes were that of a queen. These even all be obtained, but it is unnecessary to add that they are never born with a person—they must be acquired. Of course, all will admit, if 100 girls were to grow up to womanhood all with the same care, some would turn out pretty and some would be ugly. That is natural. But the beauty specialist will tell you the ugly girls could have been made as attractive as the pretty ones."

"Johnnie, you talk too much." "See here, dad, am I to blame for my marrying into a talkative family?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Do not wash your hands and face with a common laundry soap, or if you do, don't complain when you find them rough, hard and chapped. Ordinary laundry soaps are good for scrubbing floors, but not for the skin. Ivory Soap makes a creamy lather that rinses easily and takes the dirt with it. The natural oil of the skin washed with Ivory Soap is not removed, and the skin is left soft and smooth.

The girl is the mother of the woman just as "the boy is the father of the man." The period when the womanly functions begin is one to be carefully watched and guarded. Irregularity or derangement at this time may be promptly met and cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. But neglect at this period may entail years of future suffering. Favorite Prescription acts directly upon the womanly organs giving them perfect vigor and abundant vitality. It removes the obstructions to health and happiness, and delivers woman from the cruel bondage of "female weakness."

You pay the postage. Dr. Pierce gives you the book. The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1000 pages, 700 illustrations is sent free on receipt of stamps to defray cost of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper book or 31 stamps for cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Grain-O Brings Relief

To the coffee drinker. Coffee drinking is a habit that is universally indulged in and almost as universally injurious. Have you tried Grain-O? It is almost like coffee but the effects are just the opposite. Coffee weakens the stomach, ruins the digestion, affects the heart and disturbs the whole nervous system. Grain-O tones up the stomach, aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. There is nothing but nourishment in Grain-O. It can't be otherwise. 15 and 25 cent packages.

The People's Physician to whom Thousands write for Advice

Dr. Green, 31 Temple Place, Boston, Mass., the famous and successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and discoverer of that grandest of all cures, Dr. Green's Nervous Blood and Nerve Tonic. If your family physician has failed to cure you, why not write about your case to this specialist? It will cost you nothing to get his advice and counsel, for he gives consultations absolutely free.

Hives are a terrible torment to the little folks, and to some older ones. Easily cured. Doan's Ointment never fails. Instant relief, permanent cure. At any drug store, 50 cents.

A ROYAL BATTLE

Spider and Hornet in a Scientific Fight.

There was a fight in the yard of a house on Germantown avenue, says a Philadelphia paper, between a spider and a hornet about which a privileged crowd of spectators went wild. There were no cries of fake, for the fight was to a finish. True, the contestants displayed marquis, Queensbury rules and fought under the unsportsmanlike regulations of the old London prize ring, but the affair was pulled off without the knowledge of the police and there was no interference.

The scrap started by the hornet getting tangled up in the spider's web. The spectators were drawn by the loud buzz of the hornet made in trying to escape, and they started fearing the spider because that wary beast stayed in his corner.

"Time" was called again and again. "Poke him up," suggested somebody loudly, but hardly the words spoken when the spider darted out. The fight was on. Betting five to four on hornet on account of heavier weight and longer reach.

Round 1.—The hornet jabs with his sting, but the blow falls short. Spider very nimble on his feet. Makes a rush but well met by hornet, who swats him with a wing blow. Fiddling in the center, both watching for an opening. The spider goes to his corner. End of round 1. Betting even, with few backers of hornet. It was the spider's round.

Round 2.—Spider rushes at opponent, who, as before, rears and strikes. Again the spider, by clever footwork, eludes the blow. The spider by his quickness makes the hornet look like a novice, but it is all over. Both hesitate to mix it up, and the crowd jeer. Round in hornet's favor, if anything. Betting brisk at even money.

Round 3.—Hornet comes up laboring heavily. Spider dances around him, but will not mix it up. Suddenly rushes in and lands a beautiful blow on the head, jarring the hornet. Breaks away before the hornet, who is growing weaker, can return. Another rush follows. Both mix it up heavily, the spider trying to land the finishing blow. Hornet fighting grandly. All over. The spider has just jabbed sting in solar plexus, the hornet gives a few convulsive struggles, falls and lies still. He is counted out and then eaten by his victor.

There was much dissatisfaction among the backers of the hornet, who declared that if the fight had not been dragged in the first place he would never have entered the web. Referee decides bets must be paid, however.

An Annoying Book.

The Arkansas Legislature will be petitioned to forbid the sale of a book. The citizens of Fort Smith have the petition well under way. The petition states that the book is calculated to prejudice the public against Fort Smith.

The book is the life story of the "Hanging Judge," the sternest of all American justices. It is the biography of Judge Isaac Charles Parker. The title is "Hell on the Border." Judge Parker was known as "The American Jeffreys." He sentenced 200 men to death. One of his chief executors alone hanged eighty-six men. His court was a continuous performance. He opened court at 8 a. m. and sat in judgment until dark. When he passed his first sentence he burst into tears. Notwithstanding that he afterward sentenced 190 men to death and sent 199 men to prison for life. He was burned and hanged in effigy in Indian Territory. On the day of his death there was a joyful riot in the old jail at Fort Smith, Ark.

He had two ruling principles: "Do equal and exact justice," was one, and the other, "Permit no innocent man to be punished, but let no guilty man escape." Men were hanged in squads, five at a time, on the Fort Smith gallows by his order. He was at once the most esteemed man in Arkansas and the most hated man in the Indian Territory. Though he passed the death sentence upon 190 men, Judge Parker was opposed to capital punishment. He administered justice according to the laws of his state. He quarreled with and won a victory over the Supreme Court of the United States.

George Maledon, slim, lithe, smileless and 68 years old, the man who hanged eight-eight men, Judge Parker's able lieutenant, the "Prince of Hangmen," as they picturesquely put it, in the West, the most famous executioner of modern times, is another figure of "Hell on the Border."

George Maledon was the hangman during most of Judge Parker's administration. He hanged eight-eight men. He was dubbed Judge Parker's "understudy." Very grim and picturesque is the humor of the West in such circumstances.

S. W. Harmon served on the jury in the famous "terrible court" a hundred times. He is the author of the memoirs of what he styles "a great court and a greater judge," to which he has given the title, "Hell on the Border."

Gracie's Sticker.

It is really not a father's fault that his little daughter supposes him to know everything. Children are born to have faith. But one parent should have expected trouble when his child began:

"Papa you went through the scientific course at school, didn't you?"

"Yes, dear; I spent two years on science."

"When you look in a mirror, the left side of your face appears to be on the right side, and the right side seems to be the left. The looking glass reverses it, doesn't it?"

"Then, why doesn't it reverse the top and bottom of your face the same way?"

"Why-eh-ah."—Pearson's Weekly.

How Johnny Replied.

On this particular evening his elder sister had told him to say to Mr. Hankinson that she had a bad cold and was sorry she could not come down.

On this occasion, also, he was in a bad humor.

Wherefore Mr. Hankinson said:—

"Where is your sister, Johnny?"

Johnny replied:—

Notice of Foreclosure

Whereas, J. E. Sherman and Rebecca Sherman, his wife, of Rockland, in the County of Knox and State of Maine, by the mortgage deed dated Aug. 26, 1898, and recorded in the Knox Registry of Deeds, Book 109 Page 156, conveyed to Levi S. Robinson, a certain parcel of real estate with buildings thereon, situated in Rockland in the County of Knox, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at stake and stones at the intersection of Suffolk and Fulton streets and opposite Ambrose Cobb's northeast corner; thence by said Fulton street south 70 deg. east fifty-six feet to stake and stones; thence southwest sixty-nine feet more or less to the original corner of the land of John F. Burton; thence by said line fifty-six feet to the center of a cedar post in the ground; thence north 83 deg. west by said Suffolk street north 13 deg. east seventy-nine and one-half feet to the bounds first mentioned. And Whereas, the condition of said mortgage has been broken.

Now Therefore, by reason of breach of condition thereof, I claim a foreclosure of said mortgage.

Dated at Rockland, Me., Oct. 30, 1899.

In Social Circles

George Brown of Co. H. is on a trip to Florida.

Capt. Peter Kennedy is on a business trip to Baltimore.

Cyrus W. Hills was home from Portland over Sunday.

J. C. White of Portland is the guest of his brother, W. S. White.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Randall Andros are spending the week in Boston.

Mrs. Nellie Sleeper, clerk at Flint Bros., is enjoying a short vacation.

A notable evening in music is in preparation by the Wight Philharmonic Society.

Mrs. A. P. Ginn of Trinity street is visiting relatives and friends in Bucksport.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Anson Crie have returned from a month's visit with friends in Massachusetts.

The Hilaria Club was entertained last evening by Miss Mabelle Hodgkins at the home of Miss Lucy Crockett.

Mrs. L. K. Elwell, who has been spending several weeks with her daughter in East Boston, has returned home.

Chas. Pillsbury, who is working for the New England Telephone Co. in the vicinity of Belfast, spent Sunday at his home in this city.

Word has been received of the arrival of Mrs. Carleton F. Snow at the U. S. Legation at Tokio, Japan, where she is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. A. E. Buck.

Fred R. Spear has returned to Michigan, where he has been contracted for building a life saving station, Mrs. Spear accompanied him as far as Rochester, N. Y., where she will visit her cousin, Mrs. Barnum.

Major Lord's leave of absence has been extended for a month. He will spend a week in Massachusetts lecturing and the balance of the time among his Knox county friends. Nov. 21 he will leave here for New York, sailing with his family for Havana, Nov. 26.

Edward Gonia has returned from Revere, Mass., where he has been nearly three months in the employ of his brother, F. M. Gonia, a contractor. Edward saw the Dewey parade in Boston on a lofty perch on a church roof which was being repaired.

Miss Jennie Frances Ingraham of this city has been engaged to sing second soprano in Herbert Johnson's Quintet Club of Boston, this winter. Miss Ingraham is also organist and choir director at the Universalist church, Broadway, South Boston.

The ladies' circle of the First Baptist church will be held tomorrow evening. The housekeepers will be Mrs. O. S. Andrews, Mrs. C. E. Bicknell, Mrs. F. M. Gonia, Miss Marcia Farwell and Miss Lena Miller. There will be an entertainment in the evening.

Yesterday marked the tenth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Davis and the event was observed in entertaining the Merry Meet Club, of which they are members. The event of the evening was the serving of a six course game dinner—a kind of dinner that Mr. and Mrs. Davis always know how to serve. The host and hostess were presented with a beautiful cut glass dish by the club, together with many articles of tinware, useful and otherwise. The presentation speech was made by Major H. M. Lord in most felicitous terms. There was fun galore during the evening, especially when Dr. and Mrs. Bisbee of Camden drove into the yard with a grocery wagon load of tinware of every description. It was an occasion to be remembered by those who participated.

The meeting of the Methebesee Club, Friday afternoon, was one of uncommon interest, owing to the fact that it was a sort of Rockland day. An interesting sketch of the city's history was read by Mrs. Mabel McLoon, some of Rockland's needs were pointed out by Mrs. Jennie Achorn, while Mrs. Sprague's paper descriptive of the outing and about Rockland was a carefully prepared document of exceeding interest. Mrs. M. E. Wentworth recited a poem on "Rockland," which was received with deep appreciation and vigorous applause. Two new members were admitted: Miss Grace Emery and Miss Viva Hall. Club colors of green and white were selected, together with a motto, "To learn and to help." At the next meeting Mrs. Anna Sawyer Cowns will deliver a lecture on "Concord."

BOSTON NEWS LETTER

Things Noted By Our Special Correspondent For Knox County Readers.

Boston, Nov. 4, 1899.

Joseph Barille, who for the past five years has been in charge of L.E. Bow's barber shop on City Hall avenue, now has the management of Mr. Bow's new shop in the Terminal station. This shop is one of the finest and best equipped in the country. There are fifteen chairs made of mahogany and of the latest pattern. The room is illuminated by a profusion of electric lights, over one hundred in all. Potted plants and ferns artistically distributed about the room make it a very attractive place, and "Joe" is to be congratulated on his pleasant quarters.

The Thomaston schooner Mabel Jordan, Capt. Balano, is loading at this port for Rio Janeiro with a cargo of ice and apples. For several years past the Jordan has taken a similar cargo to the Brazilian port. It is understood that the owners will receive $7,500 for the voyage.

Hon. Reuel Robinson of Camden was here for a few days last week.

Mrs. George Walker of Camden is visiting friends in this city.

Mrs. J. A. Havener, who has been making a visit here, has returned to Rockport.

W. G. Washburn of Thomaston made a short business trip to the city during the week.

Mrs. Fred Rising has been spending a few days with friends in town.

Mrs. L. E. Wade, who has been visiting here the past two weeks, has returned home.

P. W. Andrews of Rockport has been in town during the past week.

Miss Etta Pratt is visiting friends here.

Mrs. J. K. Hooper has returned to Camden after a short stay in town.

W. H. Pascal of Camden was here for a few days last week.

In "Papa's Wife," which begins its second week at the Boston theatre next Monday, Anna Held is presented with a gorgeous setting in which to display her charms, and is surrounded by a company of such ability as to compel her to show no mean ability to hold her own. That she does hold her own goes without saying. Fair to look upon she acts with spirit and daintiness as well as a thorough appreciation of the opportunities that her part affords. The audiences which have filled the immense auditorium of the Boston theatre during the past week testify to Miss Held's popularity with the theatre-going public.

James A. Herne begins his third week in "Sag Harbor" at the Park theatre next Monday. The delightful play is still receiving with the same tremendous enthusiasm that it enjoyed last week, and the high praise of "continuous tears and laughter" is again lavishly bestowed upon it. The managers of James A. Herne are about to begin in a unique and rather considerable way excursions from interior points within a radius of 50 miles of Boston for the special purpose of witnessing Mr. Herne's performance of "Sag Harbor." These excursions will be conducted on all lines running into Boston, and for the same a special form of ticket will be printed, covering not only transportation, but transfer across the city and admission to the theatre.

The average grand English Christmas pantomimes are such immense and expensive affairs that it is not considered good managerial policy to transport them to this country, and the production of Christmas pantomime is a feat that we have not taken up much on this side of the water in consequence. They are built on the other side of the pond for special holiday runs at the principal London theatres, and are seldom seen elsewhere, much less in America. A Manhattan production of the Hollis Street Theatre has been negotiating since early last summer for a Christmas novelty for his house this season, and last week in New York completed the arrangements for a grand production here—Christmas week of "Little Red Riding Hood," the great English pantomime which had such a successful run at the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh, last year. The author is no less an expert at this sort of work than Russell Allen, who also wrote "Cinderella" and "Sinbad, the Sailor." There will be an immense company of about 200 in this production, including 100 children, who will appear in some of the grand festival scenes and ballets. One of the most brilliant features is a scene in Toyland, where the stage is filled with toys and dolls in a gorgeous revel. As the children are out of school that week, and the performance will appeal strongly to them as well as the older folks, it is to be hoped, there will be a matinee every day.

Of all the stage productions of the past few seasons the one most difficult of all to describe, a writer in the New York Press says, is the latest effort of Charles H. Yale and Sidney R. Ellis, called the "Evil Eye, or the Many Merry Mishaps of Nod, and Nod, Wonderful Wanderings of Nod," which will be seen at the Grand Opera House next week. By some it is called "A Mechanical Trick Surprise." Some call it a "pantomimic spectacle," others call it a "kaleidoscopic vision of the realm of the fanciful"; again it is said that it is "veritable glimpse into the merry temple of Momus and the term 'opposite circus' is applied to it. Nod and Nod, born mutes, but making up for their lack of speech by swift and intelligent action, have a lovely sister named Gerda, who is the object of the love of a horrible villain who is a man with an evil eye. Despite the blighting effect of his evil eye, the twins save their sister and punish the evil eye. Some of the most of the miracles. There are: a human windmill, catapultic drawbridge, appearing and disappearing rooms. There is a flood of lovely music including the latest great ballad hits.

Give the Children a Drink called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee but is free from all its injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and stimulates the system. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and children, as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about one-fourth as much as coffee. 15 and 25c.

JEFFRIES THE WINNER

Gets Decision in the Greatest Contest of the Decade.

James J. Jeffries retains the championship of the world. Referee George Siler gave him the decision in the fight of the 25th round over Sailor Sharkey at the Coney Island Sporting Club Friday night.

In five rounds Jeffries had the better of the fight—in the twenty fifth round last three. During the other twenty Sharkey forced the issue and was at his man with both hands unceasingly. In those 20 rounds Jeffries' great weight and brawn helped him hold off the Sailor and in the 22nd round he swung a couple of vicious uppercuts that made Sharkey groggy. Tom came back again in the 24th and 25th, but was weakened greatly by Jeffries' vicious blows. One minute before the gong sounded to end the fight Jeffries' left glove came off and practically the contest was over.

It seemed at first as though it would be a short fight for in the second round Jeffries put the Sailor to the ropes with a left on the jaw and the referee began to call off the seconds as Sharkey knelt on the floor of the ring. But the third round on Sharkey with his vicious swings to the ribs and his jaw kept the crowd on its feet waiting for a knockout.

Jeffries weighed 212 pounds and Sharkey 25 pounds less, but the latter looked to be in better condition, the Californian being callow, with staring eyes and other evidences of not the best condition.

They shook hands and shaped up well. Jeffries led and then landed several times. He was generally over on the other hand the Sailor was wild, going into the fight with both hands and swinging wildly, but he did not land the first blow. In the second Sharkey was flopping around and he came in for a nasty left that rolled him over. It looked then as though Sharkey was clearly outclassed. As the fight went along round by round the Sailor fought his way into the hearts of those who yelled at Jeffries' capacity for punishment.

Sharkey's vicious punches began to tell and at the close of the 7th it seemed as though Jeffries could hardly walk to his corner and it seemed certain there would be a new champion.

Every round carried Sharkey across the ring at the start and he seemed to be the champion all over the canvas. In the fifteenth Jeffries made a bluff at forcing, but Sharkey was at him again and landed almost every time he swung. The Californian made a little effort to lead.

In the 22d Jeffries seemed to take on life. Just at the close of this round, the champion swung right and left on Sharkey's jaw and the latter was almost taken off his feet. He reeled and the gong saved him. He came back hard, however, in the next, but Jeffries had the better of it, putting in two right punches. The referee pointed to Jeffries' corner and his seconds and friends cheered wildly. The majority of those at the ring-side thought Sharkey would not get worse than a draw for the Sailor fought viciously, always after his man with judgment, and outpointed the champion. On the other hand Jeffries, while he had the better by long odds of the last three rounds, did very little leading in the other 22 and when he led he was either too high or too low, getting in but a few good punches.

After the contest Jeffries said: "Sharkey is the hardest and best man I ever met and I hardly expect to meet a better in the future."

Sharkey was inconsolable and cried like a child when he went to his quarters and refused to talk. But Tom O'Rourke, his manager, expressed the opinion that the Sailor should have received the decision.

THE SPORTING WORLD

Where Some of Our Peck Friends Are Playing—"Chummy" Gray at Home.

George E. Gray, or "Chummy" Gray, as he is much better known in the baseball world, arrived on the Boston boat Saturday morning and will play a fortnight's visit to his Rockland friends. He left Buffalo Friday with the full intention of going to Coney Island to see the Jeffries-Sharkey match, but missed a train connection and decided to keep on to Rockland instead. "Chummy" comes back home looking better every year and it is evident that his six months' exertion on the diamond agreed with him.

After a variety of experiences which have carried him north, south, east and west in this country, and into Canada, he has landed with the Eastern burg team of the National League and proven by his work in the last month or two of this season that he is thoroughly capable of "holding his job."

Previous to the close of the season he pitched nine games for Pittsburgh, winning four, losing three and tying one. In the remaining game he pitched part of the innings and practically won the game, but it was credited to the other pitcher. In two of the three games which he lost, Pittsburgh made but one score, and lost more through poor batting than on account of Chummy's pitching. His worth was early appreciated on the Pittsburgh team and it was not a small factor in taking that nine to its position at the head of the second division of the National League. Anyhow he has been signed for another year and gets an increase of salary which ought to be able to carry him through cold winter in comfortable style. He has been receiving $1200 a year for six months' work thus far and with a considerable increase it will be seen that he is doing rather better than when he sorted boards in the lumber yards.

Most ball players he has saved up quite a bit for a rainy day instead of blowing it all in. Sense as well as science is a prominent part of this young athlete's makeup.

The first half of the season brought us but little news of Gray for the reason that he was playing with Buffalo in the Western League, the doings of which we found no space in the Eastern press. He had a falling out with President Franklin during the summer, for which both were at fault, but the Western papers were full of the matter and "Chummy" was not discredited in many instances. The magnate and the player finally patched up their little difficulty and Gray again donned a Buffalo uniform, removing it only when he was sold to Pittsburgh for $1000.

Gray has been with seven professional teams since he began his career on the diamond and it reflects greatly to his credit that he has never been handed a release. That he has never met that fate is the cordial wish of his staunch friends at home.

Gray is of the opinion that the Association was not a particularly wise move owing to the fact that most of the players of repute have signed again with the National League and others are a little frightened about taking their chances of permanent positions in the new league.

While Rockland has no polo team this season, the sports are more or less interesting in the career of the players who have become well known here while in the Maine league. These former Maine players are now associated with the following teams:

New Haven—Whitcomb, Spencer, 2r, Manchester—Tarrant, 1r, Spencer, 2r, Walton, c, O'Hara, hb.

Portland—Campbell, 1r, Jason, 2r, McKay, c.

Amesbury—Dawson, 1r, Connolly, 2r, Perry, c.

Salem—Curtis, 1r, Moran, c, Furbush, hb.

New Britain—McGillivray, 2r, Doherty, hb, Burgess, c.

Waterbury—Woods, hb, Smith, g.

Hartford—Mooney, 1r, Cashman, g.

Providence—Lincoln, 2r, Mutaugh, c.

Lawrence—Turner, 1r, Dawson, 2r, Hadley, c.

Clinton—Schofield, 2r, McGown, c, O'Malley, g.

Boston Herald: O'Malley, late goal for Springfield, is playing with the club of his own town—Clinton—Billy Hamilton of the Bostonians is refereeing the games in Clinton. A good choice, surely—Dick Furbush got a great ovation upon his first appearance in Salem. Dick is as agile as ever—Moran, the Salem centre, is pronounced a "dead ringer" for "Kid" Conway of Providence.

Henry B. Bird went to Lewiston Saturday, where he was a witness of the Bates-U. of M. football game. The latter won 27 to 0. Other football games of note on Saturday resulted as follows: Harvard 16, U. of P. 6; Yale 24, West Point 6; Princeton 18, Brown 6; Colby 6, Bowdoin 6. Harvard appears to have a dead cinch this season.

"Chummy" Gray will spend the winter in Buffalo, residing at 106 E. Ferry street.

MR. INGRAHAM'S LUCK.

Camden Man Brings Back Handsome Buck From Milo Woods.

W. S. Ingraham of Camden was in Bangor Friday, on his return trip in the vicinity of Milo. He went in from that town and did his shooting near Sebols Lake. He was accompanied by Guide Wm. White, one of the best known woodsmen of that vicinity. Mr. Ingraham brought down two handsome bucks, each of which had good heads.

One of the animals was the finest buck seen in Bangor this year, says the Commercial, and had an exceptionally fine set of antlers.

Mr. Ingraham says that deer are exceedingly plentiful in that vicinity and that the men would be a poor shot who couldn't bring down some sort of a prize from that region. He saw many signs of moose but during his whole trip he failed to scare up a single partridge.

STOCKING LINCOLN COUNTY.

About eight thousand land-locked salmon were received Wednesday from the State Hatchery at Auburn, by Warden Abram Gamage, and divided between Damariscotta Lake and Biscay Pond. The fry ranged from 3 1/2 to 5 inches long and were in good condition—Damariscotta Herald.
