A BUSY SHIPYARD
Sounds Queer, But It's a Fact—You'll Find It At Boothbay Harbor.

Rice Brothers Corporation at East Boothbay are employing regularly about 60 men and have all the work they can handle. Four steel beam trawlers are being built. The company has no difficulty finding workers, both in steel and in wood, as so many yards have been shut down. They have other work ahead in steel construction as soon as these beam trawlers are completed and besides have equipped fully to build wooden vessels of any size or description. For many years Rice Brothers specialized in building launches and sailboats and did a tremendous business along these lines, making a large number of stock boats each year and having special orders for many other boats. They went out of this small craft business for a time when they rebuilt their plant for steel ship construction and built only government vessels and beam trawlers during the war. The company has turned back to the building of wooden or steel pleasure and commercial boats just now, feeling that under the present conditions they can in this way be assured of steady work at the plant.

HEILMAN AND HORNSBY
Were the Champion Sluggers in the Big League This Season.

Harry Heilman, Detroit slugging outfielder, won the 1921 batting championship in the American league by .0903 of a point, according to unofficial figures. Heilman's boss, Manager Ty Cobb, gave him a merry chase for the title. They were virtually tied when the season closed with .390 each, but the figures when carried out to four percentage points gave Heilman .3904 and Cobb .3901. Ruth of New York was third with .377; Sisler, St. Louis, last year's champion, was fourth with .371, and Speaker, Cleveland, fifth, .357. Heilman participated in 149 games, was at bat 602 times, scored 113 runs and made 235 hits. Last year he ranked 23rd in the batting list with .309. Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis Cardinals' star second baseman, topped the National league batters with .398 the unofficial averages showed. This figure is an increase of 86 points over his total last year when he also was the senior organization's champion hitter.

THE BIG WINDJAMMERS

The big schooners which sailed away from here not so very long ago are sailing back again, one by one, the first to go being the first to come back. The Edna May arrived yesterday from Norfolk with a big cargo of coal and dropped anchor in the lower harbor to wait her turn under the diggers. The Ernest Mills is coming and the Ida S. Dow which has been going elsewhere for some time, is also on the way. The schooners that have been here the longest seem to be the ones that move with the greatest difficulty, as those which have been at anchor ever since early last spring are still here, but some that have been here only a short time have moved numerous times.—Portland Press.

DEMOCRATS BOOM MULLEN

It is learned in Augusta that great pressure is being brought to bear upon Hon. Charles W. Mullen of Bangor to induce him to accept the Democratic nomination for governor. Democrats in Eastern Maine believe that the standard bearer in the next campaign should come from that section. They also feel that in Mr. Mullen they have a candidate who will command the united support of the Democratic party and also the large independent vote. His friends point with pride to his record as mayor of Bangor, State senator and member of the Public Utilities Commission.

GREEN'S ISLAND

Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Witham returned to their home Tuesday. Mrs. Witham will not return here until another spring. They are well liked and will be greatly missed. The Smith family who spent the last two weeks of September at the Bray House, returned to their home at Springfield, Mass., last Saturday. Mrs. Mary Noyes and Mrs. Fred Robbins returned to Vinalhaven last Saturday. Mrs. Noyes was the guest of Mrs. Robbins and other friends at Southwest Harbor for a week, where a most enjoyable vacation was spent. Mrs. Robbins was the guest Saturday night of Mrs. Noyes at Vinalhaven. Mrs. Robbins returned to her home at the lighthouse Sunday having been absent three weeks. Joseph Butler and son William are at the pound again for the winter. Fred Robbins went to the city last Monday and returned to Vinalhaven that night, where owing to weather conditions he was the guest over night of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Dudley.

THE SIMONTON SCHOOLHOUSE

Which Revived Several Pleasant Memories of Far-Off Days.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette: Passing the schoolhouse at Simonton's Corner recently, I recalled that that was the school where I received my (so-called) education 50 years ago. I don't know if it is the same building, but I could not help but compare its present appearance, the clean white paint and tidy yard, with our old building, with its weather-beaten clapboards, carved with many initials and uncouth hieroglyphics, its worn thresholds, cracked window-panes, and the unsightly woodpile on the front lawn.

The interior was of the same general aspect. The plaster was cracked, the old box stove was red with rust, and the benches bore the marks of many jack-knives. Such were the conditions of many district skules in the late 60s. Of my teachers I remember only a few. The first was Caro Gushue (nee Simmons) of Appleton, beloved by all the scholars. At that time the teachers were "boarded round." I recollect that when Miss Gushue was boarding at our house, a young aunt of mine was visiting there, and the girls slept together. One night, a mischievous cousin parked a big bull thistle in their bed and laughed with fiendish glee at the screams of the girls when they jumped in with their thorny companion. Then there was a teacher who had formed the habit of dismissing school, to go buggy-riding with her sweetheart. She was finally dismissed, but soon took up housewifery as an occupation. Lizzie Bickford, Augusta Harding and Addie Hart were other teachers whom I remember.

Of the male teachers, John Simonton was my favorite. He was afterwards a Methodist minister. Then there was Gordon M. Hicks, Joshua P. Simonton, Joseph W. Coombs, and my father, William F. Brown, who was also of the school committee for nine years. Joe Coombs once gave me a "barekin" spanking (for whispering) and was interviewed by my mother on account of it. I believe he cut out that method of punishment thereafter. But in between kickings we used to have glorious times. In the summer we would make for "the ole swimmin' hole," and play four old cat. In the winter we had a splendid hill to slide on, right at the schoolhouse door. The does not seem to be missed much. The old well-sweep in the apple tree at the Andrew Simonton house, where we used to get our drinking water, is gone, also the long picket fence by the orchard, where we used to run with a stick and rattle the pickets, till the neighbors would chase us away. Among the first things I missed was the absence of the deep cuts in the road, which used to be made by the passing lumber wagons. But the old quarries are idle now. No more can be heard the noon whistle at the pump house. The dump, where the lime chips were carted, is grass-grown, and buttercups and dandelions are growing in the quarries. I hope my Somerville Censor (Boze) will let this story alone. It is out of his jurisdiction (Clark's Island). He isn't supposed to know whether I am lying or not. Besides, I never said a darned word when he wrote about his little red schoolhouse, and bragged about his $16 per month that he received for teaching. But Reed, of Chicago, gave him his come-uppance. That ought to hold him for a while. M. M. Brown.

PARK THEATRE

"The Woman God Changed" is the title of Friday's feature. This photoplay, independent of its dramatic story, is protographically a gem and well worth going miles to see. The story deals dramatically with the fortunes of a dancing girl, who, after slaying her common law husband for discarding her for another, escapes to Tahiti whither she is traced by a detective. Then follows a thrilling denouement which fairly grips the spectator. Seena Owen and E. K. Lincoln head an unusually fine cast of players. The Saturday attraction presents Eileen Percy in "Big Town Ideas." It is all about a railroad lunch counter girl, who, while ministering to man's inner wants, secretly cherishes one great ambition—to see that grand and wicked New York. One day, while engaged on a "stack of wheat," she overhears a conversation, gets to the heart of a big bond robbery, earns a handsome reward, and finally sees the great metropolis, leaning on the arm of a blushing groom, who earlier in the story she had saved from an unmerited sojourn in prison.—adv.

BLETHEN FOR POSTMASTER

His Nomination Has Been Sent To the Senate—Has Thrice Served Rockland As Mayor.

The postmaster contest, which has been attracting such widespread attention the past few months, culminated yesterday with the announcement that the President had sent to the Senate the nomination of G. Herbert Blethen. Originally there were 12 candidates, but nine of these were eliminated after the Civil Service examination. The three leaders of the competition, in the order named, were Mr. Blethen, N. F. Cobb and E. K. Gould. Congressman White solved

G. Herbert Blethen, Who Will Be Rockland's Next Postmaster

his difficult problem by recommending the candidate with the highest rank. George Herbert Blethen was born in this city April 2, 1865, the son of John and Mary Blethen. His father was for many years superintendent of the Bodwell Granite Co.'s plant at Spruce Head. "Bert," as he has been known from boyhood, was educated in the city's schools and at the Rockland Commercial college. He took to the granite business as naturally as did his father before him, and at Spruce Head, working in various capacities, he obtained a valuable knowledge of the stone business in all its departments. Entering the employ of John Peirce he became superintendent of the Clark Island Granite Works. When this plant was sold to John C. Rodgers, Supt. Blethen was retained on the staff, and continued with Mr. Rodgers from 1898 to 1904, dividing his time between the Clark Island plant and the New York office. During the time the concern handled such important contracts as the Atlantic Mutual Building, the 145th street (New York) bridge, Howard Gould's summer residence at Port Washington, the Hartford postoffice extension and Williamsburg bridge. Supt. Blethen had charge of the granite work on all these jobs. Mr. Blethen next became associated with Arthur McMullen as superintendent on stonework or some of the most important contracts that the eastern granite manufacturers have handled in the last decade. In the front rank of these big jobs was the Hartford stone arch bridge, a structure 1250 feet long, which was three years building, and cost approximately $3,000,000. Other notable contracts which called for Supt. Blethen's services were the Manhattan bridge in New York, the Potomac river bridge, the National Bank of Commerce in St. Louis and 21 bridges in the reconstruction of railroad lines across the Hackensack Meadows. Mr. Blethen also served as general manager of the stone-yard which was established at the Southend in 1908 by the Arthur McMullen Co., and which was known as the Rockland Granite Co. This concern at one time employed as high as 170 men and had a payroll which reached $12,000 one month. It went out of existence when the general decline in the granite business began. Mr. Blethen was subsequently in the market business for a while. Mr. Blethen was a member of the Board of Aldermen in 1909 and 1910, and there manifested so much interest and ability in municipal affairs that the Republican party selected him as its standard bearer the following spring. He occupied the mayor's chair three years at a period when the city was undertaking and carrying out an ambitious program in the way of permanent improvements. As chairman of the Republican county committee in the State and Presidential elections Mr. Blethen waged the most thorough and systematic campaign that the Republicans of Knox county had offered in more than a score of years, and he had the satisfaction of seeing the entire county ticket swept into office by amazing majorities. When he announced his candidacy for postmaster the general sentiment was reflected by the statement so often heard: "It belongs to him."

The new postmaster is an Odd Fellow, Mason and Elk and represents one of the city's oldest families. He has served in political and industrial capacities and can be relied upon to admirably administer the affairs of the Rockland postoffice. He will enter upon his new duties as soon as the formalities connected with filing a bond are complied with.

Mr. Blethen's wife was formerly Marietta S. Rawson. They have three children—Mrs. George W. Roberts, Miss Gladys B. Blethen and Miss Dorothy R. Blethen.

TO POSTOFFICE CLERKS
Assistant Postmaster General Tells Them How To Meet The Public.

Clerks at the postoffice are looking over a new suggestion from Hubert Work, first assistant postmaster general regarding meeting the public. The suggestion says: "In meeting the public at the window, bear in mind that you are the pivot or turning point; while the public is at one end the postmaster or the department is on the other. No matter how well our business may be conducted there will always be errors of omission as well as errors of commission and these errors are prone to produce a lack of confidence in the postoffice department and works toward the destruction of its efficiency; hence, you, as the pivot of turning point, must make it your business to hold this confidence and steady the efficiency. Be a good listener. Keep cool and settle it if you can. A finished transaction is an asset, unfinished business is a liability." Shoes are not acceptable for mailing in ordinary shoe boxes and double faced corrugated boxes are recommended. The ordinary shoe box is not strong enough. If preferred, shoes may be wrapped in tough wrapping paper without being placed in containers.

Dr. J. A. Richan Tells of Trip To Triennial Convocation in Asheville, N. C.

The triennial convocation of the General Grand Chapter of the Royal Arch Masons of the United States has passed into history. The sessions were held in Asheville, N. C., and among the 18 delegates from Maine who made the trip there were none who enjoyed it more than the two representatives who went from Knox County, Dr. J. A. Richan of Rockland and Dr. W. D. Barron of Camden. The total number of delegates was 385, and the party was accompanied by 125 women. The visitors found that it was rather an up-hill job getting to Asheville as that city is 2300 feet above the level of the sea. It prides itself on its even temperature, and lived up to that reputation while the Masons were there. But it was the rainy season, and the visiting delegates were awakened every morning by the pitter-patter on the roof. The showers proved of brief duration, however, and the bulk of each day found Old Sol on the job.

Automobile sight-seeing trips were provided for the visitors and one of them was through the famous Vanderbilt estate "Biltmore," which is so extensive that there are 12 miles of automobile road on it, and a dairy farm with at least 300 cows. The sightseers were not permitted to enter the buildings, nor even to make snapshots of them, but they saw enough to make an interesting memory for a lifetime. On the mountain they also saw a hospital for returned soldiers.

A number of the Maine delegates had the pleasure of meeting Lieut.-Commander A. R. Cobb, who some years ago was a frequent visitor in Rockland, and who is a great admirer of Maine.

Dr. William F. Kuhn of Kansas City, Mo., was elected grand high priest. Portland, Maine, was selected for the triennial convocation of 1924. In Washington, upon the return, the Maine delegates had a day of sight-seeing, and visited the headquarters of Gen. George Washington's lodge. At Hotel Raleigh Mrs. Richan and Barron dined next table to "Uncle Joe" Cannon, former speaker of the House of Representatives. Dr. Richan spent a few minutes in company with William N. Richan, a brother whom he had not seen for six years. He is employed in the surgeon-general's office.

TEXTILE WORKERS

To See An Exposition In Boston With Nearly 400 Exhibits.

One of the largest aggregations of cotton manufacturers ever assembled in this country will gather in Boston, Nov. 2, when the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers holds its annual meeting. This convention will take place in conjunction with the International Textile Exposition which will be held in Mechanics Building from October 31 to Nov. 5, where the largest and most important display of cotton machinery the world has ever seen will be on exhibition. With 387 separate exhibits covering 125,000 square feet of floor space, it is a foregone conclusion that practically every important new machine and device will be on exhibition and a large proportion of these will be shown in actual operation. The cotton manufacturing industry today stands out as one of the leading industries in the country, employing approximately 750,000 people. The total valuation of cotton produced in 1919 (12,028,732 bales of 500 pounds each) was $1,377,919,000. Another important gathering in Boston during the week of October 31 will be that of the New England Association of Commercial Engineers who have the Power Show which will occupy the entire lower floor of Mechanics Building under their auspices.

The three-story building which is being erected for Herbert E. Burdette, building contractor, near the corner of Main and Water streets is in frame and partly boarded.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

Whatever your occupation may be and how ever crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life, with a bit of poetry.

—Charles Eliot Norton.

THE LASS O' BALLOCHMYLE
'Twas even—the dewy fields were green,
On every blade the pearls hung;
The zephyr wafted round the bean,
And bore its fragrant sweets along.
In every glen the mavis sang,
All nature listening seem'd the while,
Except where Greenwood echoes rang
Among the braes o' Ballochmyle.

With careless step I onward stray'd,
My heart rejoiced in Nature's joy,
When musing in a lonely glade,
A maiden fair I chanced to spy;
Her look was like the morning's eye,
Her hair like Nature's vernal smile,
Perfection whisper'd, passing by,
Behold the lass o' Ballochmyle!

Fair is the morn in flow'ry May,
And sweet is night in Autumn mild,
When roving thro' the garden gay,
Or wandering in a lonely wild;
But woman, Nature's darling child,
There all her charms she does compile;
Even there her other worth are fold'd
By the bonny lass o' Ballochmyle.

Oh, had she been a country maid,
And I the happy country swain,
Thro' shelter'd thorn the lowest shed
That ever rose in Scotland's plain,
Thro' woe's winter wind and rain
With joy, with rapture, I would toil,
And nightly to my bosom strain
The bonny lass o' Ballochmyle.

Then pride might climb the aliptry steep,
Where fame and honors lofty shine,
And thirst of gold might tempt the deep,
Or downward seek the Indian mine;
Give me the cot below the pine,
To tend the flocks or till the soil,
And every day have joy divine,
With the bonny lass o' Ballochmyle.

—Robert Burns.

KNOX HOSPITAL

"I never did anything with greater heartiness," said a business man, "that to contribute to the recent fund for the nurses' home of the Knox Hospital. If ever there was an institution in our city that more deserved the friendly aid and cooperation of our people than this hospital and the faithful attendants who carry on the exacting details of its work, I have yet to hear of it." Readers of The Courier-Gazette do not need to have called to their attention the fact that the columns of this paper have steadily borne testimony to the place that the hospital occupies in the affairs of this community. It is bewildering to look back into the past when there was no such agency of mercy and relief nearer hand than Portland. If through any unhappy chance the hospital were to be wiped out of existence we should find ourselves without it thrust back into the bogs of the dark ages. Day and night its splendidly equipped operating room is busy and constantly its accommodations are taxed to their utmost to care for the stream of patients that without interruption continue to knock upon its doors. Those doors are never closed. In particular one should bear in mind that cases seeking relief do not get turned away for lack of money. The free treatment dispensed by the hospital each year totals a large sum and provides the reason why each year—as does every hospital that lacks an endowment fund—it has to depend for a portion of its income upon the gifts of the generous.

"Why Is Milk So High?" asks the Boston Herald, and adds:

"Grain is back to its pre-war level, if not below. Cows are cheap if you want to go into the milk business. We have on hand, in America today, the largest reserve of milk and milk products in our history. Why, then, is milk so high? Why does not its retail price respond to the obvious changes in the industry? Do the producers exact too much? Do the retailers charge too much? Do the cart drivers charge too much? Are taxes on the business too high? What is the matter? Here is a commodity which, by all the recognized laws of trade, ought to be cheap once more. It is not. Where does the trouble lie?"

In connection with the interesting subject of lobsters The Courier-Gazette has lately been favored with a series of breezy communications. Milk under present conditions should supply an equally fertile field for discussion. Perhaps along some of the lines above hinted at by the Boston paper some of our bright contributors may like to say a word pro and con. Possibly several words.

An interesting announcement comes through the Belfast Journal that the New York publishing house of Crowell & Co. are publishing, in several volumes, the manuscripts of the late Dr. P. P. Quimby of Belfast, which were recently sold to that firm by Mrs. George A. Quimby, widow of the son of the noted physician. "The letters of the late Mary Baker Eddy to Dr. Quimby," the Journal adds, "are included and will be published also, not to create controversy but as documentary evidence." The late Mr. Quimby ("Our George") once told The Courier-Gazette the story of these manuscripts that had been left him by his father, and which, he held, established the doctor as the originator of Christian Science. We should regard their publication, upon that account if no other, as likely to arouse interest and discussion in many directions.

Employers and employees are a unit in the conviction that now is the time to let contracts for construction work. A great many men are out of employment, the weather for some weeks to come will be the best for out-of-door work, and the soil has a minimum of moisture and is in the best possible condition for foundation laying. States are reported to have at hand an aggregate fund of $450,000,000 for road construction purposes, and no better time than the present can be found for putting that money to work. Private capital, too, that has been set aside for building purposes should hesitate no longer, but engage at once in the work at hand.

The Fordney emergency tariff law, which took effect May 27 last, was a measure designed mainly to protect the farmer in his production of food-stuffs. The effect of that bill may be inferred from the fact that during the first full month of its operation, that is June 1921, we imported $19,000,000 worth of foodstuffs in crude condition and food animals compared with $48,000,000 for the month of June 1920. Manufactured foodstuffs, imported during June 1921 totaled $21,000,000 in value, compared with $17,000,000 for June, 1920.

A "cocoanut squall" is making a pretty note on the desk of the cocoanut squall editor, waiting for callers to admire its neat form, marked with curiously alternating stripes of yellow and green. Vinat Wallace, who has been growing them for the past 25 years on his Cushing farm, says they are as good in flavor as they are in looks. Mr. Wallace also raises a fine brand of watermelon, Colos Early, growing them in a sandy loam. Next time he comes to town he promises to bring one of 'em to the watermelon editor.

THOMASTON WON

Belfast Footballists No Match For Lads From the Home of Knox.

The Thomaston High School boys are evidently not content to rest upon their laurels as baseball champions of Knox county. Although comparatively new at football they have started in at a smart clip, holding Camden to a 6 to 0 score in their first game, and winning yesterday from Belfast High 32 to 14.

Yesterday's game was featured by the home team's forward pass. E. Lindsey made one touchdown by a 50-yard run, after receiving a pass from L. Sawyer. Feehan made a 60-yard run after receiving a forward pass from Sawyer. Thomaston's defensive work was good. Durham started for Belfast, in all around work. The summary:

Thomaston High: A. Lindsey 16, Thornton 16, Brown and Vinat 16, G. Newbert 16, Libby and Copeland 16, Strout 16, E. Lindsey 16, Feehan 16, L. Sawyer 16, H. Newbert 16, E. Sawyer 16.
Belfast High: Bailey 16, Greenleaf 16, Pottle 16, Tuttle 16, Creamer 16, Knight 16, Roberts 16, Durham 16, Grady 16, Staples 16, Nickerson 16.
Score: Thomaston 32, Belfast 14.
Touchdowns: L. Sawyer, H. Newbert, E. Lindsey, Feehan 2, Durham, N. K. Larson. Goals from 20-yards: L. Sawyer 2, Staples 2, Roberts, Turner, Empire, McCobb. Head linesman, Hanly. Time, 12-m. periods.

K. Ps. IN WARREN

Knights of Pythias to the number of 200 held a district meeting with Georges River Lodge in Warren yesterday. The Grand Lodge was represented by Louis A. Jack of Lisbon Falls, grand chancellor; Edgar J. Brown of Waterville, grand keeper of records and seals; and Clarence G. Richards of Damariscotta, past grand chancellor. Arcana Lodge of Thomaston conferred the rank of page on four candidates. A banquet was served. There may be another district convention later in the month, in this city.

PLEASANT BEACH FIRE

The cottage at Pleasant Beach, owned by Dr. Frank T. Smith of Troy, N. Y., caught fire at 7:30 this morning while workmen were tarring the roof, and was completely destroyed, together with the garage, which had furnished rooms above. Loss about $2500; insured. This cottage was the largest of the so-called Wright cottages.

Patrons of the Knox Registry of Deeds, who find the indexing system such a handy one, are probably not aware of the fact that they are indebted to Civil Engineer O. H. Tripp, who is also secretary of the Knox Bar, for its inauguration some years ago. Under the old system the law required that the register, within one hour after receiving an instrument for record should enter it on a book with the names of the parties, the date, and the time of recording the document. A monthly index was made in alphabetical form, giving the names of the parties, the volume in which the instrument was recorded, and the page. While on a visit to a registry of deeds in New Hampshire Mr. Tripp found a much more satisfactory system and caused it to be introduced here. Under this arrangement the entry book and index are now combined. The names of the parties to the instrument are given, together with the location of the real estate conveyed, the time of entry, and the volume and page where the instruments are recorded.

THE WORLD SERIES

The Yankees won first blood in the World Series yesterday, defeating the Giants 3 to 0. The contest continues until one of the teams has won five games, and results are being promptly bulletined at The Courier-Gazette office. Yesterday's summary:

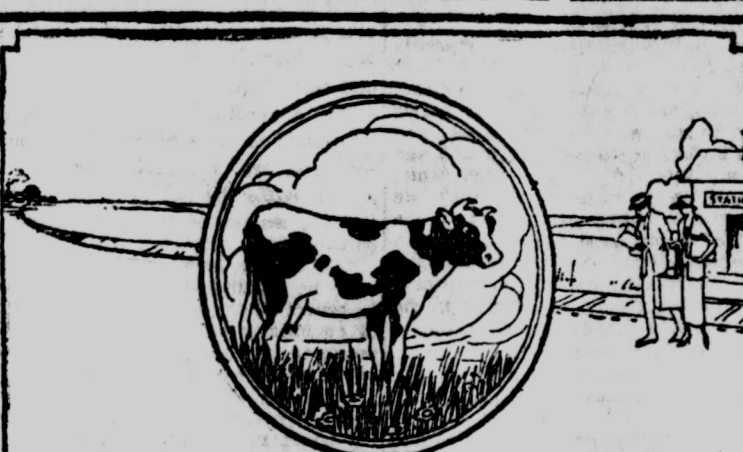

Yankees 1 0 0 1 1 0 0 0 3
Base hits: Yankees 7, Giants 5. No errors. Batteries: Mays and Schanz; Douglass and Snyder.

THE NEW AUTO PLATES

Secretary of State Is Getting Ready For Another Big Season.

The jump in automobile registration at the Department of State which began with the first day of October on account of the reduced rate for the remainder of the year, is closely followed by the announcement by Secretary of State Ball of the preparations for the coming year. Secretary Ball said that a carload of automobile plates for 1922 was now on the road, shipment having been promised for some time. That means that it will be only a few weeks before the new plates will be assigned.

The new plates will be dark blue in background with white numerals, the general size and appearance of the plates being as for the past few years. A departure in dealer's plates will be made next year, with the addition at the bottom of the plate of the word "dealer." This is designed to prevent the purchase of a dealer's plate and the use of such a car for ordinary or pleasure riding purpose, as has been quite a common custom. The highway police and automobile inspectors will next year see that a dealer uses his plates only for the purpose intended and not for pleasure riding. Plates will also be issued for trailers.

The Cow That Starved in Clover

A certain cow, though pastured in beautiful meadows, was attracted by the more tempting appearance of distant fields. Shunning the abundance at hand, she wandered afar, always finding the new spots less appetizing and less plentiful, and always leaving them untasted for the new fields inviting her on.

Growing hunger only spurred her on until finally, exhausted by it, she fell to the sands of a desert whence she never again arose.

People who shun the stores at home because of the allurements of those in larger towns often find themselves getting less than they expected. Get in the habit of seeing your local dealer first. If he hasn't what you want, he will gladly get it. You'll be helping him to serve you better by helping him to make it pay.

THIS BIRD REAL POLLYANNA

No Imaginable Adverse Circumstance Can Keep "Cucuboro" From His Fit of Laughter.

The real Pollyanna of the feathered tribes has just arrived at the bird house in Central park, for if any one can bear up under the name of Cucuboro and still keep cheerful, it shows one of those persistently gay natures that nothing can mitigate. Of course, Cucuboro has won a better deal from the public at large than he did from the ornithologists who saddled him with his gloomy scientific appellation, for the people of Australia, where he comes from, recognize his propensity to "Keep Smiling" by calling him the "Laughing Jackass."

And, equally, of course, he has earned this sobriquet, for he is reported to thrive on vast quantities of water—no matter what other beverages are available—and to have a habit of laughing before he gets up, an hour or so before sunrise. Now, any one who can laugh an hour before dawn on just plain water—even Pollyanna and her followers never did anything so blatantly cheerful as that.

This knickerbird, for that is his family, is sometimes hailed as the settlers' clock, because of his regularity in bursting out into a spasm of wild, rhudd laughter, that surpasses any alarm clock in rousing the inhabitants of the Australian bush, while it is more than probable that a relapse into this fiendish merriment that takes him about sunset serves for the dwellers in the hinterland as a dinner bell, cathedral chimes, and factory whistle, all in one. They show their gratitude by making a pet of him and protecting him in his merry chorus—New York Post.

SPAIN GAVE WALES DAFFODIL

First Flowers Said to Have Been Received in Exchange for a Consignment of Coal.

According to an old legend, the first batch of daffodils ever seen in Wales reached there in return for a consignment of coal. The daffodil is indigenous to the Bilboa district, some of whose seafaring inhabitants were about two thousand years ago conveyed by the flow of the Gulf stream to Pembrokeshire. There they saw the inhabitants digging what is now known as anthracite, and making fires with it. They also noted that the Welsh were sun worshippers. Taking some of the anthracite back with them, the Spaniards realized its immense superiority over charcoal for the purpose of smelting iron ore, for which the country round Bilboa was celebrated even in those days, so an expedition was organized to procure further supplies from Wales.

As barter for the "black stones" the Spaniards took a consignment of daffodil bulbs, because they thought that people who worshipped the sun would be impressed by the beauty of this flower as it unfolded itself and displayed its form and color, and that in its corona and radiating petals they would see reflected the glory of the sun. Thus used as barter and carefully cultivated by the ancient inhabitants of Wales, the daffodil eventually became the floral emblem of the country.

Pity the Telephone Girl.
One hundred telephone calls a minute, as is usual after any sporting event, were coming in over the wires at the News office after the Kentucky Derby. The majority of the calls were inquiries as to the results of the race, which was won by Behave Yourself in 2:04 1-5.

One enthusiastic baseball fan asked the telephone operator who won the game between the Indians and the Colonels.

"Behave Yourself," was the answer, and a cracked receiver at the other end of the line was the reply.

A little later some one asked how the race was at the quarter.
Another became indignant when the girl replied: "Behave Yourself," thinking she was "kidding" him.—Indianapolis News.

Colonial Styles Endure.

In many parts of this country there has been a decided tendency among manufacturers of furniture to comb European mansions, palaces and museums for possible inspiration in the domestic arts, apparently oblivious to the fact that we have in America what generally is considered one of the most graceful, simple and beautiful types of decorative art—that of the colonial period. That this style is authentic and of intrinsic value, artistic and useful, has been abundantly proved.

That manufacturers have been wise in modifying extreme period designs to meet modern conditions in this country seems pretty well established.

Woman Juror Caused Trouble.

The question as to whether women will make successful "jurymen" has been raised in England by the recent collapse of a woman juror in a Manchester court. The woman became ill and almost swooned during the hearing of a charge of malicious wounding. She finally collapsed, had to leave the court and a substitute had to be found. Of course, the trial had to begin all over again.

Bread of Idleness.

Wife (gladly)—Thank goodness, John, the five-cent loaf has come back again.

Husband (sadly)—Yes, and so has the five-dollar loaf—the boss laid a lot of us off today.—Boston Transcript.

Boys' and Girls' Clubs To Hold Annual Contest Nov. 12—County Agent Busy.

The Boys and Girls Clubs of Knox county will hold their annual contest in this city Nov. 12, the exhibit and exercises being held in the Methodist vestry. Eight clubs will participate. A banquet will be served. Business men and banks have already provided the nucleus of a fund, but more money is needed if the young people are to have the encouragement which the culmination of their season's work deserves. County Agent Wentworth will have charge.

Oscar Wilbur, state specialist in poultry, held a series of culling demonstrations in poultry throughout the county during the month of September. Poultry raisers evinced much interest and derived undoubted profit.

The executive committee of the Knox & Lincoln Farm Bureau will have a meeting in Warren Oct. 18, to make preparations for the annual meeting which will be held in that town Nov. 8.

Albert K. Gardner, crop specialist for Maine, will assist County Agent Wentworth next week in holding community meetings. The object is to see what work will be taken up in the agricultural program for next year and to prepare for the membership campaign and annual meetings.

C. F. Prescott was added to the list of measurers of wood and bark, at Monday night's City Government meeting.

The decision of the Western Union Telegraph Co. to remove certain of its poles which it is no longer using puts up to the city the matter of getting other accommodations for its fire alarm and electric light wires in that location. An arrangement with the Western Union to retain the poles, or with the Central Maine Power Co. to use the latter corporation's poles will probably be made.

Bird Branch of the Sunshine Society will meet with the president, Mrs. W. B. Miles, next Monday. Every member is requested to be present, as there is business of importance, and election of officers.

The summary of City Treasurer Virgin's monthly report, presented at the City Government meeting Monday night showed these figures—Balance from last month $19,736; receipts, $17,966; disbursements, $22,269; balance to October, $15,272. Marshal Gilchrist reported 26 arrests, 18 of which were for intoxication. O. B. Lovejoy's tax collections amounted to $11,773. There was expended on highways and sidewalks the sum of $1892.

The Baptist Men's League will hold its first meeting of the season one week from next Wednesday night. The entertainment committee was in session Tuesday at the office of its chairman, Senator R. L. Thompson, and plans were made to secure able speakers on a great variety of topics. The League is now getting well along in years and improves steadily with age. The good suppers, good fellowship and good programs make it an ideal organization.

An interesting event at the Highlands tomorrow afternoon will be the flag-raising at R. J. Mayhew's new cider mill on Cedar street. The flag has been presented by friends of Mr. Mayhew, and will be flung to the breeze at 2 o'clock, directly following the car which leaves Park street at 25 minutes of that hour, and which will take the public free one way. Cider pressed during the exercises will be served to those who attend the ceremony.

A. C. McLoon is home from Boston with a new Oldsmobile coupe.

Ralph U. Clark, who has been in the employ of Richard's Market the past year, enters the employ of J. F. Gregory & Son next week.

One good way to help Rockland High win its game in Camden Saturday is to send along a good bunch of loyal rooters. The game is called at 2:30.

Monday Sept. 26 was a happy day for the inmates of the Almshouse when a little surprise of ice cream, candy, fruit and flowers was given them by various storekeepers and other friends. Arnold Nelson kindly offered the use of his car to convey the good things to the farm.

Charles Esnacy of Liberty visited Rockland Tuesday and by excessive use of hard cider reached a stage which attracted the attention of Patrolman Niles. The latter being a kindly disposed official advised the Liberty man to start for home if he wished to be at liberty as well as in Liberty. "I guess I'll stay down for the day," replied Esnacy. "I'm inclined to think you're right my friend," said Patrolman Niles, and the two proceeded up Spring street arm in arm. Mr. Esnacy not only stayed all day, but he stayed all night, and yesterday morning in Municipal Court complained about the high cost of lodging in Rockland to wit: $17.62 for a single night.

Additional members are desired for the chorus choir of the First Baptist church. This is an excellent opportunity for young persons to secure acquaintance with good music and a training under an experienced director. If this announcement interests any readers, and further information is desired, it can be had of Mrs. Eleanor Cote Howard (telephone 143-1) or of W. O. Fuller, chairman of the musical committee.

Before he quits office Postmaster Donohue is hoping to establish a auto truck mail service whereby the morning mail would arrive here between 8 and 9, instead of 11:05 as now, and would leave at 4 p. m. The postal officials in this division have endorsed the move and Postmaster Donohue is using his persuasion on Washington.

The kindly game laws no longer throw their mantle of protection around rabbits—not till next April, at least—and local hunters are once more bragging about having a better bound than the other fellow. Close season on rabbits is April to September, inclusive, and during the open season no person shall use any snares, traps or other devices in the hunting, pursuing or killing of wild hares or rabbits, or hunt or kill the same except in the ordinary method of shooting with guns in the usual manner; provided, however, that it shall be lawful to catch wild hares or rabbits in the common box traps during the open season. Violation of this law entails a fine of $10 and costs for each offense.

Friends of Standish Perry, who admired the excellent work he did for the Bowdoin football team last fall, will regret to learn that he is not to be back in the game this season. Late in the summer an operation was performed on one of his wrists in which a broken bone had been revealed by an X-ray examination. The recovery from the operation is necessarily slow and will not permit Mr. Perry to go out with the squad. This is particularly unfortunate as it is his Senior year, consequently his last opportunity to shine in a Bowdoin uniform. Mr. Perry was home for the weekend, with the team's quarterback, Robert Phillips, as his guest.

Winslow-Holbrook Post holds its first regular meeting of the season tonight, and it will be of especial interest, as plans are to be made for Armistice Day.

George M. Simmons is showing at his salesroom on Tillson avenue models of the new "Six" in seven-passenger, sedan, coupe and touring types; also the Reo speed wagons of latest model. It is not difficult to see why the Reo is such a popular car, and why Mr. Simmons is having so many sales.

Excellent progress is being made in remodeling the interior of the Y. M. C. A. building, where a cosy home is being provided for the Athletic Club. The public will learn more about this club in due season.

Kittredge's drug store, corner of Main and Park streets, looks quite like a new place now that the new sign made by C. E. Emery has been placed over the entrance. The raised gilt letters on a green background are very conspicuous. The old sign had been there 40 years and was decidedly shabby.

An attractively designed porch built upon the entrance to Sibley Hospital adds to the appearance of that institution.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Perry are soon to occupy the residence on Limerock street, which they bought from the estate of the late Supt. G. A. Stuart.

The Bath Times football strategist saw the game at Brunswick last Saturday, and while Bowdoin was defeated 9 to 0 by Rhode Island State, the newspaper man got a most favorable opinion of the Brunswick eleven, which he says, is further advanced at this season than it has been at a corresponding period for many years. "With due apology to Bates, Maine and Colby, he says many of the Bowdoin players are doing well in the championship series." A lot of Knox county fans are going to the games which begin one week from Saturday, to see if his hope is correct.

Alice Hart Mansfield and Maggie Brown were taken to the Women's Reformatory in Skowhegan yesterday following the conviction of the former for having illegally sold drugs to Emma Wheeler, and of Maggie Brown for being an idle and disorderly person. Mrs. Mansfield stoutly maintained her innocence in the matter of selling drugs, but admitted that she was drug addict.

Miss Clementina Butler, base secretary for the New England Branch of the W. F. M. Society, which meets here next week, was born in India. She has spent seven years in Mexico, has since been two winters in India and visited mission fields of all denominations. Miss Butler's escape in disguise, after staying alone to protect students of one of the Methodist schools, in the troubled days preceding the occupation of Vera Cruz, is a thrilling tale. The young people and children should hear these stories and all about the Jubilee in Boston in 1919. Rev. Homer E. Work, formerly of India, but now professor of missions in Boston University School of Theology, is to be the anniversary speaker. You cannot afford to miss hearing these speakers.

Edwin Libby Relief Corps is to have fortnightly suppers this winter, instead of going on the time-honored weekly schedule, and every member is expected to serve at least once or provide a substitute. The names of the house-keepers hereafter will be published a month in advance. Tonight's housekeepers are Mrs. J. F. Cooper, Mrs. Esther Candage, Mrs. H. T. Mullen and Mrs. David Curtis. Those who will serve Oct. 20 are Mrs. Henry L. Higgins, Mrs. Ralph Choate, Mrs. Raymond Easton and Mrs. Julia Bridges. A new arrangement will also be in vogue this winter as to payment for suppers. Members who work at the Corps meetings, from 2 to 5 p. m., and furnish for the supper, will have their supper free; those who furnish food, but do not work will pay 10 cents for their suppers; Corps members who do not furnish for the supper will be charged 25 cents, and the general public will pay 35 cents.

Extraordinary local interest was manifested yesterday in the first game of the World Series between the New York Yankees and the New York Giants. The score is bulletined by The Courier-Gazette at the end of each half inning. Many watched the bulletin board, and scores of inquiries were received by telephone from points as far distant as Stonington. The games begin at 2 o'clock, and the first returns are received shortly after. Call us as often as you like.

"The Old Peabody Pew" is to be given in the Methodist church, Friday evening. The scene is laid in the old Tory Meeting House, which has been undergoing for several years, more or less extensive repairs under the leadership of Mrs. Jeremiah Burbank and her band of loyal Dorcas sisters. The story of Kate Douglass Wiggin is an imaginary one of the meeting and parting of two unloved lovers; the secret waiting of the woman, the hopeless struggle of the man, and the glad reunion of the two in the house of the Lord, where their friendship had blossomed into love. The play is supported by a strong cast of characters, all of whom have taken part in a number of amateur performances. The reader's part is taken by Mrs. William Ellingwood and Miss Mabel Lamb will preside at the organ. The play is to be produced under the direction of Mrs. George Nash and Mrs. William Ellingwood who have been in communication all along with Mr. Cummings of the University of Maine who was the original Justin in Kate Douglas Wiggin's own presentation of the play at her home in Boston, Maine. The public is kindly requested to give its loyal support to the play as the proceeds are to be used to finance the meeting of the New England Branch of the Womans Foreign Missionary Society, which convenes in this city next week.

$83,858.30 was mailed October 1 as dividends to the holders of Central Maine Power Company Preferred Stock. This was the company's 60th uninterrupted preferred stock dividend.

Virtually all of this money stayed in Maine. Much of it was distributed among the customers of the company—among the people who make the earnings possible. One out of seven of our customers owns stock in Central Maine Power Company.

Our stockholders today number 7091—and the number is steadily increasing.

These people get not only what has proved to be an exceptionally safe investment and a fair yield but they aid also in financing Maine's big job—the job of developing its water power. Maine's industrial future depends largely on doing the necessary part of this job NOW.

CAMDEN'S BIG TREES

Some big old trees in Camden. Look at those majestic oaks on the Hillier and Wardwell places just back of Whitehall. Mr. Seaverns has been pruning out the dead wood and restoring the old oak trees on the Hillier place, known also as "Mountain Arrow." One of the trees was so far gone that it had to be cut down, and on counting the circles of growth from the heart out the number was found to be 135, making that as the age of the tree. The rest of the trees in their restored condition look as if they might stand for another century. —Camden Herald.

"STAPE" VOTED "NO"

A Humorous Incident in the Career of the Late Washington Attorney.

Hon. Lindley Murray Staples of Washington who died the other day had the distinction possessed by only one other man, the late Hon. William Dickey of Fort Kent, of being able to go to the Legislature any time he wanted to. He sat in the Senate for a long time off and on and whenever he felt the need of a three months' stay in Augusta all he had to do was to let the fact be known and he was forthwith sent there.

On one occasion, during the session when Hon. Forrest Goodwin of Skowhegan was president of the Senate, there was a happening which among other things shows how well disposed everybody was toward "Stape." There was some measure up before the Senate on which a yea and nay vote was being taken. It was a question on which the Republicans who were in the great majority were voting yes and the Democrats, for the sake of keeping the record right, were voting no. Staples stepped out of the chamber for some reason or other just before the question was stated and the vote begun. If he had stayed away until it was over it would have been all right but he happened to blunder back into the chamber just as his name was called. The members all round were giving him stage directions in more or less audible tones to "Vote, No."

Inasmuch as he was a great practical joker himself he smelled a rat and thought they were trying to get him into some kind of a hole, so he addressed the chair and said, "Mr. President, I think I shall have to be excused from voting. I do not know what the question is. I was not in my seat when the question was put." President Goodwin brought his gavel down with a ferocious bang and shouted, "The gentleman from Knox should have been in his seat; the gentleman from Knox will vote 'No'."

The secretary called "Staples of Knox" and "Stape," not knowing whether the president was also joshing him or not, voted "No" in a hesitating way. There was a grand laugh both at the president and at the venerable Senator from Knox, but it was all right, and Forrest Goodwin really was helping him out.—Portland Press.

BLOCKHOUSE IS GONE

Historians Find No Trace of Once Important Defense in Cushing.

"You can seek and seek for days and not find a trace of the old Hederson blockhouse," writes Sam Conner in the Lewiston Journal. It will make no difference if you have as a guide one who is well versed in the history of the town of Cushing. He may have delved deeply into the story of that particular section of the town known as Pleasant Point and yet, if asked to take you to the place where this ancient defense stood, his answer is sure to be: "I can't."

Every trace of this block house has disappeared. No effort was ever made to preserve it, and yet it was, in its day, one of the important fortifications of the Maine coast. It commanded the entrance to the St. Georges river. At that time this was a decidedly strategic stream on the North American continent. Actually this river has figured in some of the most important phases of American history. For a long period it marked the boundary of the British and French possessions in what is now the State of Maine.

This fort was erected in 1744. There is no definite information available at this time to show what it looked like, but the supposition is that it resembled all other blockhouses built in those days; that a picture of those in Edgecomb, Winslow, Fort Kent and elsewhere in Maine, would be an accurate reproduction of this general appearance of this.

The specific purpose of the blockhouse was a protection against Indians hostile to England and to such others as might desire to injure the settlers.

Its first commander was Capt. Thomas Henderson whose name it bore. Capt. Henderson fought under the English flag in the French and English war of 1744. He was a distinguished service. It was this which caused the government to give him command of the block house at Pleasant Point when it was erected.

Capt. Henderson married the widow of David Dunbar who was the surveyor of the King's woods in Maine and Governor of Sagadahoc. They raised a family of children one of whom, Dunbar Henderson, succeeded his father as commander of the block house in 1756, upon the parent's death. Col. Samuel Henderson, who commanded the Third Maine Cavalry in the Civil war and was afterward governor of the "Togus Soldiers' home," was a direct descendant of Thomas Henderson.

Originally what was known as Pleasant Point took in the whole section of what today constitutes the lower part of the town of Cushing it. In the years which have passed there has come a transposition in titles and what is now generally called Pleasant Point is not the original point so titled. The real is the next one below it and which comprises the site or the original farm settled about 1635 by John Brown who came there from Bristol.

A part of this original John Brown farm is now owned by Carl R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific railroad, who has a fine cottage there. Mr. Gray's mother was born in Cushing, the daughter of Capt. George Davis.

The name of Pleasant Point has been perpetuated and today there is a Pleasant Point postoffice in the town of Cushing. It is but a short distance from the original Pleasant Point and very close to that section of the shore line so called, while it provides much convenience for all who live in the vicinity. The postmistress there is Mrs. Massa Maloney.

There figures in the history of Pleasant Point and likewise of the town of Cushing the name of Rev. Robert Rutherford, whose oldest daughter Jane, according to the inscription upon the old tombstone in the cemetery at Pleasant Point, "departed this life, Feb. 7th, 1759, aged 72 years." The Rev. Rutherford is buried in the Knox lot at Thomaston.

Rev. Robert Rutherford was the first Presbyterian clergyman who came to Maine. He was born in Ireland in 1688 and came to Maine as chaplain for David Dunbar at Pemaquid, where he preached until 1734. Following the death of David Dunbar and the marriage of the widow to Capt. Thomas Henderson, Mr. Rutherford went to Cushing where he resided until his death which occurred Oct. 18, 1756. This was about 1774. He was also, for eight years, the preacher at St. Georges fort at Thomaston and missionary in Cushing, Warren and other places in the vicinity.

On Jan. 26, 1743, Rutherford bought of Gen. Waldo lots 56, 57, and 59, bordering on the St. Georges river near McCobb's narrow. He joined Bird and Hathorn points and built a log house on one of the lots. The cellar is still extant. The farm on which this house was erected is now owned by Mrs. Vincent R. Taylor. In 1765 after Rutherford's death his children sold these lots to George McCobb who married Ann Maria Rutherford, one of the daughters. Each lot contained 100 acres.

Rev. Robert Rutherford had a family consisting of five daughters and two sons, Hon. Josiah Drummond (deceased) of Portland was a direct descendant of this clergyman.

It is to be regretted that some steps are not taken to locate this ancient blockhouse's site and to erect a suitable marker so that its location and its history may be perpetuated for future generations.

MATINICUS ROCK

Can't toddle for a while—we've broken our record.

Keeper A. J. Beal and family have returned from Jonesport, where they made a short visit.

F. O. Hilt and A. J. Beal have a few obster traps overboard; Henry Conary is getting a small string of traps ready.

Keeper N. B. Fickett got a black luck last Thursday, one of the best yet, and the same day Henry Conary caught a large mackerel.

A. J. Beal may have been a bashful nan—but never again—after the greeting he received from the ladies when he returned from a vacation.

By the way, if some one has a two-minute record for the Edison photograph will they sell or lend to us, one we can use when we want to toddle?

Skipper Hilt has had much to say in favor of St. George, his native home. We of course listen with courtesy, but he recently received a barrel of apples from the C. C. Robinson arm that were surely some fruit. We are obliged to give in when proof is brought to our very door.

Tuesday morning, Sept. 25, around one o'clock, Str. Hibiscus anchored off the boat slip. There was some moving on the Rock; everybody had to get up, and when the sun came into view E. E. Conary, family and furniture were being boated ashore; M. D. Jott, family and furniture were taken aboard steamer Hibiscus to go to Great Duck Island Light Station. Before they left we had a song and a little wee dance.

SOUTH HOPE

Mrs. A. J. Simmons, daughter Elsie, and son Chandler, who have been visiting relatives in town, left Saturday night for Marlboro, Mass., where they will visit relatives.

Miss Alice Engleson and Gwen Conary of Rockland have been the guests of Miss Russle Day, the past week.

Mrs. Margaret Foster of Whitthrop, Me., is visiting Evelyn Vining.

Miss Marion Taylor of Winnesquam, N. H., after a two weeks visit with relatives, went to Marlboro, Mass., Saturday where she will visit for two weeks before her return to New Hampshire.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Harris and sons Ernest and George of Whitinsville, Mass., were here the past week visiting relatives. They made the trip by automobile.

School was closed Wednesday and Thursday to give the children a chance to attend the Union fair.

A number from here attended Pomona Grange at East Warren Saturday.

The community was saddened the past week by the death of Mrs. Julia M. Howard, aged 91 years. Until four days before her death she was in good health and unusually smart, taking an interest in all around her, reading the daily papers and assuming many household duties. "Aunt Julia," as called by all her friends and neighbors, has always led an exemplary life, being a Christian of the Advent faith. She has been a devoted mother and grandmother. Mrs. Howard was the widow of the late Sanford Howard and leaves two sons Ernest and Delmer also four grandchildren, Frances Howard, Ruth Crabtree and Hazen Howard of South Hope and Harold Howard of Belfast. All have the sympathy of the entire community.

NORTH APPLETON

The chapel at North Appleton Sunday afternoon held an appreciative and attentive audience, which listened to a stirring sermon by Rev. E. E. Harrison of Searsmont. Mrs. Harrison's text was: "Is there no balm in Gilead; is there no physician there?" In forceful language the speaker brought home to her hearers the great truth that "they who be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick." A good song service was enjoyed, and the closing hymn, "The Great Physician," was most appropriate. Mrs. Harrison has kindly consented to speak at the chapel again Oct. 16, at 3 p. m. Next Sunday the Sunday school meets as usual at 2 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

When I wrote the item about the big fish driving the tethers in from sea, I didn't think I would have positive proof of the fact so soon. Last Thursday when Mr. Shea and Mr. Elwell went to the weir they found a whale had followed the fish nearly into the pocket where the fish are taken out with a dip net. Elbert Burton and his brother Harley, both born and brought up on the coast, saw the big fish and believed it was 50 feet long. Mr. Elwell goes them ten feet better. Ed didn't want to look horns with that fellow for fear he would get his back up and put the weir out of commission. So he drove strong stakes at the mouth of the pocket and the next morning the big chap was out of sight. It is barely possible our friend over on Matinicus might have seen him passing out to sea. Mr. Elwell told me Sunday morning that he had told his wife that they had caught nearly all kinds of fish in the weir but a whale, and now they had caught him.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Haskell and Mr. and Mrs. George Haskell and baby made us a friendly call Sunday in the new family car. They were en route to Spruce Head. Ed likes to look the old quarry over once a year and live those good old times over again in his mind. The Haskell run a poultry farm over to the Head-of-the-bay and Ed says the hens are doing fine. Later on I intend to look the plant over, to get a few points to be made in my own little business. George says he will be pleased to drive down any day and take me over and bring me back. Nothing like having a few good friends to lean on when one is growing old.

The press informs me that September, 1921, will be recorded as the warmest September for the past 50 years. I don't think anyone will doubt it. Last week when the kids came out from school at noon they went to our quarry hole and went in bathing.

The ever-bearing strawberry plants look as though it was July instead of October. Some of the plants that grew from this year's runners are loaded with fruit. I never saw the like before—and I have had a few strawberry plants to care for in the last 40 years. If you have any doubt about the kind of fruit come down and try it.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Crockett and Howard, Jr., died on his Sunday. Mr. Crockett is in the plumbing line in Rockland and says business is good. He could keep two more good workmen employed if he could get them. It appears that plumbers like granite cutters are hard to get.

Many cars passed our home Sunday. I dare say there were a thousand, as the boy said about the dogs, but I am quite sure there was more than Capt. Lee Dunn's and Ed Haskell's.

RECORD WHIST HAND

At a bridge whist game in New York Bridge Whist club Thursday, one player held all the diamonds and scored 716 points. Experts said it was the first incident of its kind on record, that the greatest number of cards of one suit previously known to have been held in one hand was 10. Henry C. Dottenheim was the fortunate player. He hid seven diamonds and was doubled by his opponent after he had hid six hearts. He redoubled, and scored as follows: 196 below the line on game; 100 for a grand slam; 100 for keeping his contract redoubled; 70 for five honors in one hand, and 200 for winning the rubber.

Health Hints

Furnished by Red Cross
No. 12—Play

Mr. Office Worker, how many more years have you got to live? If you are more than 35 years old, you are living longer than the law of averages allows you.

Statistics of one of the greatest life insurance organizations in the world, based on the mortality of thousands of office workers show the startling fact that American indoor workers die at an average age of 35 years, just when they should be in the highest prime of their lives.

You've only one life to live and there's lots to be gotten out of life in happiness and accomplishment before the last page of the chapter is turned. Why cut your span in half?

Play more. Those two words sum up the root of the whole problem of vitality and health for the man who must work indoors. The average man has at least 1400 hours a year in which he can play. Recreation and play sets up a barrage against disease, strengthens the system, makes life more worth while.

Stop chasing the dollar after office hours. Forget your worries in the evenings and get out of doors. See how it feels to throw your pole out once more in the old swimming hole, take a plunge in the river or swimming pools of your city; get out on the golf links or the tennis courts, challenge your neighbor for a game of horse-shoes, see if you still remember how to throw a baseball, try out your batting eye again.

There is some kind of play for every kind of men. And play is the best kind of insurance you can buy. It's about the only thing that's "good for you" that also is lots of fun.

Play hard and you'll be alive and enjoying "business as usual" long after the other fellow has chased the dollar and the high cost of living into the cemetery.

MATINICUS

The bold, baffling, bellowing, breezes blow blusteringly. The big, black, bounding billows of boisterous, beligerent brine break booming on bleak bluffs and beaches. Br-r-r-r-r!

What? Sugar advertised at five and six cents per pound? Oh, Sweetness! This was not always thus.

In a recent issue of this paper the correspondent at Owl's Head writes an interesting item answering one of our "little questions" to wit: "Of what use is a fish warden?" I doubt, in fact, I fear me much, that many readers can subscribe to all of that writer's conclusions. To tell the truth, some verbal answers have been forthcoming that were far, far different. But these questions are not of the sort that can be answered definitely, and each one has a right to his opinion.

Owl's Head is one of nature's beauty spots. Anyone who has been so fortunate as to have visited there, or to have ever caught a glimpse of it while sailing past, can testify to that; and we now learn what an innocent, conscientious, law-abiding class of citizens reside there. It surely seems to be an ideal community; a veritable bit of Paradise, so as to speak. Let me see—Wasn't it at Owl's Head where somebody shut the fish warden in the refrigerator?

Ever hear of the Matinicus Band? When it was in its prime the leader received a message from a man on the mainland, requesting the services of the organization at his brother's funeral. Much gratified that the fame of his musicians should have traveled so far, the leader made the necessary arrangements, and then asked the man why he had picked the Matinicus Band to serve. The man said, "I want your band to play at the funeral, so that everybody will be sorry that George is dead."

It has been mentioned in the papers that women's fashions are about to change again—that the short, short skirt is doomed. Oh, well! As Abe Martin says, "Goin' back 'long skirts again is less like lookin' the barn door after the horse has been stolen."

Lewis Chandler, South Thomaston Boy Gets 10 Months In Jail.

Showing as little concern as a case hardened criminal, Lewis H. Chandler, aged 14, sat in the prisoner's dock at Municipal Court Tuesday afternoon and heard Judge Miller impose upon him a sentence of 10 months in Knox County Jail. It was the third time he had been before His Honor within a few months, and this time he had pleaded guilty to the grave charge of attempted criminal assault.

The Chandler boy is one of nine children belonging to a South Thomaston family. His first offense, so far as the attention of the law is concerned was breaking, entering and larceny in the night time at Handley's store in South Thomaston. He was sentenced to the State School for Boys, but the sentence was suspended during good behavior. He then broke into another store in South Thomaston and was sent to jail for a month. When this sentence was given the boy remarked coolly that it would give him time to "hatch up more deviltry."

"And you certainly did," said Judge Miller Tuesday, reminding the boy of what he had said.

The complainant Tuesday was Jennie Trull aged 18, who is employed in the family of R. H. Snow, and who has an excellent reputation. She was attacked Saturday in Buttermilk lane, while returning home. She made a vigorous struggle, and her outcries brought assistance.

It is made of a dark-colored suiting, and simply trimmed with ruffles of moire ribbon to match. Straps of the material at the sides support the ribbon belt. If one wishes to remodel a last year's frock, ribbon used in this way will give it an entirely new aspect.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY

For School Teachers and Mothers.

Today the subject of correct and comfortable shoes is a live issue in every community. Doctors and nurses and men and women interested in the public welfare are recognizing the physical and mental advantages of shoes which conform to the natural foot, as opposed to shoes which please the eye and plague the physique.

Teachers and mothers have a wonderful opportunity today to get the younger girls a sensible example by wearing correctly built shoes. Many a young woman will reach the full bloom of happiness in correct shoes who may reach the operating table if she throws an unnatural strain on her nerves and her internal organs by constantly wearing pointed or poorly shaped shoes with high French heels.

Cantilever Shoes are recommended to be worn by school teachers and mothers who wish to be sensibly and well dressed. The arch of Cantilever Shoes is flexible like the foot arch. There is no strip of steel concealed in the shank of these shoes as in ordinary shoes. The well curved shank provides restful and healthful support, which obviates the tired feeling of long standing or walking. The flexible shank gives the arch muscles freedom to exercise, which corrects or prevents weak or fallen arches.

Comfortable toes, moderate or low heels, as you prefer, a natural shape which means comfort and good circulation are other enjoyable features of Cantilever Shoes.

Wear Cantilever Shoes and show the coming generation of womanhood that correct shoes are graceful and stylish, besides conducive to health and happiness. For this good influence you will be rewarded by the enjoyment of physical and mental comfort.

guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Robbins. Miss Lullie Gilchrist has returned to her home in Fall River, Mass. Rev. E. S. Ufford will hold a meeting here Sunday at 2.30.

Mrs. Virginia Lathrop

Mrs. Virginia (Andrews) wife of Ellisha Lathrop, aged 77, died at her home Saturday, Oct. 1, after a brief illness of heart trouble. Deceased was born in East Union, May 10, 1844, daughter of the late Lewis and Sarah (Webb) Andrews. She had been a life-long resident of this place and in her departure we realize that another friend and neighbor has gone from us, but her kind words and deeds will ever be held in grateful remembrance by those with whom she has been associated so many years. Mrs. Lathrop was of a quiet and retiring nature and found her greatest comfort by her own fireside. She held a strong hope of future existence, and looked forward with untiring confidence to a fairer and more glorious life beyond where she should join her loved ones who had passed on before. Funeral services were held from her late home Tuesday. Rev. E. S. Ufford of Union officiating. The many floral tributes bore testimony of love and sympathy. Besides her aged companion, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Fred Rankin of Wattham, Mass., who was with her mother during her last illness; and Grace M., who resides at home. There is a brother, Franklin Andrews of Thomaston, and two sisters, Mrs. Amanda Hart and Mrs. Nettie Moody of South Union. Much sympathy is extended the family.

American Sapphire Fields.

One of the government experts at Washington gives a striking description of the treasure that the state of Montana possesses in sapphires. The only systematic mining for these precious stones in the United States is done in that state. The annual output exceeds 500,000 carats, including the stones that are suitable for cutting as gems and those that are useful only for mechanical purposes. It is said that the lapidaries in Montana do finer work than is done on the stones that are sent to London to be cut. Montana might well be called the "Gem State," in view of the fact that her output of precious stones exceeds the production in that line of all the rest of the United States.

This eminent hoosier has for years been acclaimed one of the greatest of American authors. "The Turnout," "Seventeen" and the Penrod stories, are only a few of the many from his pen that have made fame, popularity and wealth for him. In 1919 his work, "The Magnificent Ambersons," won the Pulitzer prize for the best story published during the year, "presenting the wholesome atmosphere of American life and the highest standard of American manners and manhood." His tale, "The Oriole," which you will have an opportunity to follow in serial form in this paper, is one of those fascinating, extremely humorous depictions of child life which best illustrate his talents.

APPLE MARKET WEAK

Heavy Receipts and Warm Weather Cause Temporary Depression—Move In Fruit Growers' Behalf.

The following quotations are from the weekly "Apple Market Letter" issued by Kingman & Hearty, Inc., commission merchants, Boston, under date of Sept. 30:

The apple market is so much weaker and prices so much lower than we thought it advisable to send out an extra market letter to post our shippers. Receipts have been heavy all week and with the warm weather we are having, prices have dropped on all varieties and the common varieties clean up hard, even at inside prices. We do not see a prospect of improved market for a week or ten days at least.

Also cannot advise shipment of any winter varieties such as Baldwins, Starks or Ben Davis for a few weeks as the trade is not ready for them yet, particularly with the market glutted as badly as it is on fall varieties. This market would have held up or gone higher had it not been for Nova Scotia—continued heavy receipts from this section are not cleaning up.

Plant More Trees

An agreement was entered into Saturday at the office of the Commissioner of Agriculture, Washburn, between the Maine Department of Agriculture, College of Agriculture, Farm Bureau, Maine Fruit Growers' Exchange, and the Extension Service, which it is believed will be of practical benefit to the fruit growing interests of the State. The object of the movement is to interest farmers all over Maine in the planting of apple trees of the best and most practical varieties and to secure for them the best prices and the assurance that the stock will be true to name and free from disease.

In the agreement as signed, each of the contracting parties undertakes to perform some specific part of the work. The Extension Service and Farm Bureau will interest the farmers in ordering trees. These orders will be collected by project leaders and forwarded to the Maine Fruit Growers' Exchange which will undertake to locate reliable nurseries and secure best possible prices.

The Department of Agriculture will examine the stock at the shipping points under the personal supervision of the State horticulturist, and the College of Agriculture will complete the program by providing all purchasers with full instructions as to the setting of trees and their care and protection before and after setting.

The movement has been under consideration for some time, and it is felt that it will aid in promoting the fruit industry in Maine. The signers are: P. P. Washburn, for the Department of Agriculture; Julien Emery, for the Farm Bureau; H. P. Sweetser, for the College of Agriculture; W. H. Conant, for the Maine Fruit Growers' Exchange; L. S. Merrill, for the Extension Service.

EMPIRE THEATRE

Famous people appear in the cast of "The Mystery Road," Friday's feature. The story largely deals with the trials of Myrtle Sargot, portrayed by Miss May, a little French peasant girl, before whose cottage stretches a long white road, which, blank as that of her future, beckons her on with its suggestion of mystery and romance. Her mother having died, and her drunken father being anxious to marry the keeper of a low cabaret, he determines to dispose of the girl by marrying her to Pierre Naval, a stolid, drunken boor, quite unfitted to be the mate of any charming girl. In flight down "The Mystery Road," she seeks freedom and meets her fate.

You'll agree that the funniest picture you have ever seen is "Seven Years Bad Luck," which comes for Saturday. For the first time in years, the moving picture lover is privileged to see a roaring comedy which has not the slightest suggestion of slapstick humor in any of its five reels. Max Linder returns to the screen after a notable record in the Army of France during the late war. To see him again is to know how much he has been missed. You may divine that the "Seven Years Bad Luck" comes to Mix through the breaking of a locking glass. There is a series of convulsing episodes which, until he has seen the picture, are beyond the imagination of the layman—adv.

HOW OLD VETERAN

KEEPS HEARTY

Now 77 Years Old, But Can Eat Anything That Comes Along.

W. E. Alden, of Curtis Corner, Me., writes the Priest Drug Co., Bangor, Me.:

Have had a very bad stomach trouble for many years, in fact ever since I came out of the army in '65. Have tried a great many indigestion remedies (so called), and employed several doctors, but got only temporary relief from any of them. About two years ago I received a sample of Priest's Indigestion Powder, and the four doses of the sample gave me such immediate relief I sent for a small package and took as per directions and, marvelous as it seems, it cured my stomach trouble of so long standing. Fixed me so I could eat anything and have it set good. Sour stomach, gas, violent pains all gone. I have also given doses of it to several others, and it has always given good results. I keep it by me, and at any symptoms of the return of my old troubles one or two doses sets me all right again.

For sale by all druggists. If your dealer does not carry Priest's Indigestion Powder, insist on him ordering it from the wholesaler or Priest Drug Co., Bangor, Me. Samples sent free. Mention paper in which you read this advertisement—adv.
