"GINGER JAR" FIRST

Awards Made By Board of Judges In the Art Loan Exhibition.

The prize-winning pictures of the Art Loan Exhibition, held this week in the Supreme Court room under the auspices of the Knox Academy of Arts and Sciences have been announced by the board of judges, Charles Copeland of Thomaston and Boston and Arthur Spear of Friendship, Portland and Boston.

The prizes, pictures, artists and amount of awards are as follows:

Oil Paintings

First prize, $75, "Ginger Jar," Mrs. Esther Brock Bird, Rockland.

Second prize, $50, "Moonlight," William P. Burpee, Rockland.

Third prize, $25, "Island Ledges," Frank B. Morse, Long Island, Friendship.

Water Color Paintings

First prize, $50, "Pastel of a Girl," Albert W. Merchant, Rockland.

Second prize, $25, "Temporary Shelter," Mrs. Abbie Kirkpatrick, Rockville.

Third prize, $15, "Balm of Gilead," Miss Maud Hall, South Thomaston.

Drawings

First prize, $25, "Columbus Circle," Esther Brock Bird, Rockland.

Second prize, $15, "Illustration," Albert W. Merchant, Rockland.

Third prize, $10, "Jewelry Designs," Hope Greenhalgh, Rockland.

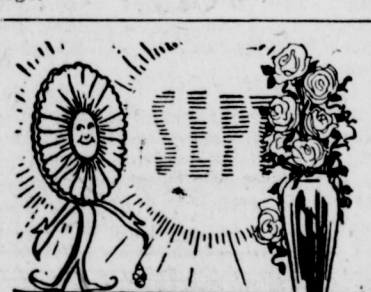

The exhibition, which was fathered by Curator Norman W. Leonard for the advancement of art and the encouragement of artists in the county and State, was well attended and an undoubted success.

A notable feature of the awards is that F. B. Morse is a fisherman, 33 years old who has never had a lesson.

Charles Dana Gibson who was to have been on the board of judges was unable to be present.

BIG ENTERING CLASS

The entering class at Bowdoin college will exceed in numbers the class of last year, which in itself was a record breaker. To date 120 men have already been accepted, which is 20 more than last year at this time and applications are continually arriving. The entrance examinations yearly become more stiff and severe, and in spite of this, the classes gain in proportion. While nothing has been laid down as a rule, it is well understood that 500 is the desirable number of students for the college in toto, last year the student body numbered 506. It is going to be difficult to keep down to these figures, if the demand continues to come for admission as it now does. Of the 120 men admitted 52 per cent are from Maine, 35 men, or 39 per cent are from Massachusetts, which has always sent good numbers to this college.

IT'S STRENUOUS WORK

Being President of the United States—What a Thoughtless Public Expects.

Washington, Aug. 29—It is obvious that public men and the people generally are not forgetting and are not likely to forget the lesson taught by the tragic end of the life of President Harding. Whatever may have been the immediate cause of his untimely death the direct cause is universally recognized to have been overwork. Never again will the people of the United States expect, nor will public men permit, overtaxation of the strength of the President.

At the same time that President Harding was successfully urging upon the steel industry the entire elimination of the twelve hour day, he was himself working not less than seventeen hours a day. Moreover, his seventeen hours were practically continuous personal exertion, whereas men who work twelve hours per day in steel mills have considerable periods of rest.

The great majority of people, until their attention was otherwise called to the facts, looked upon the President's work day during his tour as only that portion of the day when he was engaged in delivering a public address. As a matter of fact it is quite probable that the time he spent on the platform making an address was as easy a period as any. During his transcontinental tour he made it a practice to arise as early as five o'clock in the morning in order to greet crowds assembled at stations. He met these crowds at all hours of the day until ten or eleven o'clock at night. He not only had to deliver short informal addresses to these crowds, but between stations he had to formulate in his mind the address he would make at the next stopping place.

Moreover, it was the custom of State Governors to meet the Presidential train at State lines and accompany it as long as it was traveling in their jurisdiction. It was necessary for the President to meet these Governors personally and to engage in conversation with them. Members of local reception committees expected a few words of conversation with the President. The burden upon him was not merely in conducting his part of the conversation but in listening to theirs. Close attention was necessary in order that he might make appropriate reply. The concentration of attention in listening was an even greater strain than his own part in the conversation.

It is practically impossible for a Presidential tour to be so arranged as to permit the President to observe an eight-hour or even a ten-hour day. Some relief can be obtained when the Presidential party stops for a day, for then early rising can be avoided and the day shortened somewhat at its end. Even on such occasions, however, it is difficult for the President to avoid meeting people all day long. Failure to respond to innumerable requests for conferences is certain to result in disappointments and hard feelings and this, of course, the President is anxious to avoid.

Unconsciously the people of the country have expected all Presidents to measure up to the capacity for endurance displayed by former President Theodore Roosevelt. Roosevelt not only had a strong physical constitution but had an unusual ability to secure rest during short periods between public addresses. When his train pulled out of a station he could drop down on a couch and be asleep almost instantly and could begin an address when awakened as the train approached the next station. Having become accustomed to the Rooseveltian strenuousness the people have thoughtlessly expected every other man who occupies the Presidential office to measure up to his capacity for work. The sacrifice of the life of President Harding to this unreasonable expectation has probably served to save all future Presidents from a similar ordeal.

BIBLE THOUGHT —FOR TODAY—

EVERY DAY:—This is the day which the Lord hath made: we will rejoice and be glad in it.—Psalm 118:24.

The American Legion is going a step farther than the limitation of arms conference, by asking President Coolidge to "halt the mad race for supremacy in military airships now in progress among the countries of Europe." France has taken the lead in this conflict which threatens the peace of the world today. She has 140 squadrons of military flying machines and intends to have 220 squadrons by the end of 1925. Included in the armament are planes which carry 75-millimeter cannons, planes which can transport six machine guns and their crews, enormous bombers, special fighting ships armored with battleship steel and actual troops—ships of the air. England is France's nearest competitor and in response to suggestions of its strategists, has voted an extra $27,500,000 to enlarge its air armada. It has been estimated, however, that even by 1925 England will be able to send aloft only 624 battle-machines to meet 1,530 that France will have ready. The creation of a separate air force by Italy, with extensive plans for its rapid development into a powerful fighting machine indicates that Italy will enter the race. Russia is employing German technicians and is using German machinery to advance toward its goal announced by Moscow as 10,000 planes. The American Legion is composed of men who know what war is, and there is justice and common sense in its appeal to have this competition stopped before it becomes necessary for the United States to expend millions for planes and equipment.

Seven ships of the line, six of them worn out in service, and the seventh—greatest of them all—still less than half completed on the launching ways, are being stripped preparatory to dismantling in accordance with the terms of the armament conference in Washington. The new ship is the Montana, on the ways at Mare Island. The others are the Georgia, Connecticut, Nebraska, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Vermont. All of these ships except the Montana, of course, were tried on the Rockland course, the Rhode Island, in fact, being the first battleship to have its builders' acceptance trial there. The Georgia will linger in the memory of Maine people as a product of the Bath Iron Works. It seems almost a pity to have so much valuable property destroyed, but wouldn't it be even more of a pity to have such ships still in existence destroying human lives the world over?

Probably a great many young men wonder why they do not have greater success when they embark on their youthful career. A. D. White, statistician of Swift & Co. knows, or believes he does, and probably the average business man will agree with his summing up. This is what he charges against boys and girls who lose their first jobs: Lack of sense of responsibility, unwillingness to work hard, lack of thoroughness, lack of principle. "The real secret of promotion," says he, "lies in constantly doing more than you are paid to do. Keep yourself unpaid; as soon as you are overpaid, you are bound to go backward."

The Germans are causing the English new uneasiness. Five years ago such a statement would have read naturally enough in the war columns. But this is not war news; it has to do with the activity of German farmers who have dumped thousands of tons of potatoes on the English markets fixing the price down to $27.50 a ton—at which rate the Englishmen say they are losing money.

POLITICAL BRIEFS

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 29.—Holding the Republican National convention next year in Cleveland as a memorial to the late President Harding will be an argument made by prominent Republicans in this city who will, within a few days, put the matter before President Coolidge and national chairman John T. Adams.

Nomination of President Coolidge as the standard bearer of his party in 1924 was advocated by Senator Weller, Republican, of Maryland, in a statement made public at his office Tuesday. "Calvin Coolidge is the heir to the policies and organization of President Harding," he said, "and is his logical successor. President Coolidge is sane, conservative and fair to the other man. He is a listener, not a talker. He does things and is not afraid. He is efficient. When he moves he knows exactly where he is going and does not have to go back. He is devoid of show and ostentation. He exemplifies the simple American life."

"Saw what your paper had about the Coolidge murder the other day," said A. E. Mather yesterday. "Reminds me that Dr. Coolidge's horse was brought to Rockland, after the murder, by Asa Black, grandfather of the late Col. G. L. Black, and attracted much attention around the streets."

THE WAR BURDEN

And How Some of the Other Nations Seem Quite Willing To Have Uncle Sam Bear It.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Great Britain and France seem determined that the people of the United States shall assume some eleven billions of dollars of additional war burden," declares the Republican Publicity Association, through its president, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "Under the reparations plan now being discussed in London and Paris, there is one predominant feature—the United States and Germany must pay. This country is evidently expected to forgive a large portion of all of the $8,500,000,000 owed by the British and French, which would mean, of course, the cancellation of all other debts due this country."

"For years the United States has been charged with a policy of 'isolation,' and of desertion of our allies when most they needed our assistance. For a while we were told that our duty was to join the league of nations and enforce all of the guarantees of the league covenant. When the American people said by an overwhelming vote that they wanted none of the league, we were warned that a commission would be sent to the American taxpayers by Europe could never be paid in gold, and that any serious attempt to pay it would bring chaos to the debtor countries. More recently Great Britain has signed an agreement for eventual liquidation of her share of the debt, and France announces that a commission will soon visit this country to make similar arrangements. These nations announce a willingness to pay, yet their public men continue to concoct schemes having evasion of the debts in view."

"Instead of fixing the reparations claims according to the principles set forth in the Versailles treaty and stating the amount, the British say, in effect, that the United States is demanding payment of its war loans to them, and that they must look to Germany for the money. France, likewise, insists that her own bill for damages must be increased according to the amount of her American loan for which the United States may demand repayment. Thus an attempt is made to put this country in the position of keeping Europe in a perpetual state of misery in order that we may not lose some money."

"It is an ingenious scheme, but our citizens ought to bear firmly in mind that we had nothing whatever to do with the causes of the war, that every life we have sacrificed and every dollar we have spent was lost by reason of European rivalries, and that every dollar of remitted debts must come out of the pockets of our people in the shape of taxes for the redemption of Liberty Bonds. If Congress should suddenly vote additional expenditures and corresponding taxes of $8,500,000,000, its members would be uneconomically voted out of office. Yet our tempers are sorely ruffled when the British and French governments suggest that we give them a guaranty of a similar amount. What they ask is to be relieved from the consequences of their own unwise diplomacy, which finally engulfed the world in the Great War and is largely responsible for their condition today."

PROLIFIC HAY FARM

R. T. Snow, who owns the Pearl Brook Farm, so called, has just finished haying, and has cut and harvested 232 loads of excellent English hay. He has all of his large barns full to overflowing. This farm cuts more hay than any other in Waldo county. Mr. Snow has also on this farm 40 acres of well kept orchards from which he will get a good crop this year. This was formerly the M. B. Smith place, which was carried on extensively, a part of which Mr. Smith converted into a tobacco farm, with good success.

LAMONT IS PLEASED

Over Resumption of Relations With Mexico — Interview With Banker Summering At North Haven.

Announcement from Washington yesterday that the United States and Mexico have agreed to resume full diplomatic relations was received with special interest by Thomas W. Lamont, who is at his summer home, North Haven.

Mr. Lamont is chairman of the international committee of bankers on Mexico, and as such is an important cog in the financial relationship between the two nations. To a Courier-Gazette reporter last night he gave the following statement:

"The international committee which has since October 1921 been carrying on active discussions with the Mexican government, resulting in the firm debt agreement of June 1922, is naturally gratified that the situation has developed so as to permit the resumption of diplomatic intercourse between the two countries."

"The chief duty of the international committee has been to safeguard the interests of the Mexican government's foreign bondholders in an amount approximating $500,000,000 principal and to safeguard such interests in a manner so as to conduce to the financial stability and to the credit of the Mexican government. To both such ends it is natural that the resumption of regular relations between the two governments should, in the long run, be a strong contributing factor."

"I should like to add the expression of my personal satisfaction in the pleasing announcement from Washington."

IN SPORTING CIRCLES

Wherein Lies a Tale of Woe Concerning What Might Have Been—The Bok Classic Today.

I SAW CARL MORAN

at the last local ball game, and practically all of those which have preceded it this season. Used to be a Twilight Leaguer, himself, but just because he has graduated into the class with the Rockland and Vinalhaven Old Timers is no sign that he has lost interest in this great summer sport. If possible he is a greater "Ford starter" than ever. Mr. Moran qualified in college as a catcher and debater, and I have certainly heard him exercise both powers in the "Forty T" section this summer. I do not recall that he was class prophet in either Rockland High School or Bowdoin College, but he has seemed to know how to do out the games pretty well.—The Sporting Editor.

The game for the Edward W. Bok prize of $250, between Rockland and Camden will be played in Camden at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Perry will pitch for the Hazards, who will have practically the same lineup that they had in the other two Camden games. Regarding the makeup of the Camden team, Gilbert Patten in the Camden Herald says:

"Taking the liberty of all scribes without authority, we are going to give the lineup of a Camden team that is in our judgment the best available for both batting and playing strength: Murray, 3d; Derham, rf; Curtis Bok, 2d; Grindle, c; Cottrell, lf; Cary Bok, p; Morin, cf; Chandler, ss; Magee, 1st; with Spiller, if he is eligible for this game, as a substitute pitcher. While it is doubtless true that Morin is not as good an out-fielder as Ferris Thomas, the fact that Ferris has been in a batting slump practically all season seems, in our judgment, to make Morin, who frequently hits when a hit is needed, the better man for this particular occasion. Besides Spiller, substitutes on the bench should be Wardwell and P. Thomas for second, short or third, giving two subs for these positions if more than one should be required; and Boynton, G. Thomas and Plaisted for the outfield, with Boynton or Plaisted to be used as pinch-hitter or hitters in any emergency when a hit may win the game or start a batting rally likely to win it. And, for the love of good sense, let's see a pinch-hitter tried once this season if such an emergency rises! We believe this chap Plaisted should have been injected into the game from the bench on one or two previous occasions, and we are not alone in thinking so."

Gilbert Patten was not in a cheerful frame of mind when he wrote for the Camden Herald the following about the recent Rockland-Camden game at Oakland Park (and who can blame him?)

"When will Camden learn to put a good team and a good pitcher against Rockland? When will the management of our team understand that the one thing Camden fans care most about, want to see more than anything else, is Rockland? Nothing can hurt the interest of the loyal supporters more than to see Camden continuously and persistently playing Rockland with a team that might be made a great deal stronger at a little trouble and expense. Batters and a pitcher—we must have 'em stand any show at all against Rockland. Rockland has a batting team; Camden hasn't—but there can be decided improvement in this respect. The baseball public of this town is calling for improvement, and it won't be satisfied unless an effort is made. Now is the time to make it, not after the season is over. If there is no attempt in that direction, a division of receipts taken in when Camden plays at Oakland Park will not half pay for the loss of prestige that the Camden Club will sustain. Give us some real baseball with Rockland and we'll support you if you get licked; but, for the love of suffering humanity, don't give us any more of this sort of stuff! This isn't begging, either; it's making a demand—the demand of the baseball supporters of the Camden team."

Much to the disappointment of what would probably have been the season's record crowd at Oakland Park, the game between Rockland and Camden did not materialize Thursday night or last night, the excuse being that Camden "could not get the team together." This in spite of the fact that Camden had engaged Foster to pitch and offered him a bonus if he would beat his home city. The flimsy and questionable argument used by Camden in ducking this date will not be discussed here; suffice it to say that the two teams passed up the best nights of the season and gate receipts that could not have been less than $200. The flimsy has also angered all true baseball sports who are trying to be loyal to the sport and their home teams.

ALVAH BABBIDGE

Alvah Babbidge died at his home on Elm street last Saturday, after a long illness. Mr. Babbidge was a veteran of the Civil War and was a member of the Edwin Libby Post of Rockland. Although he had been a resident here but a few years he made many friends, who regret his death. Funeral services were held at the home Monday, Rev. T. M. Griffiths officiating, after which the remains were taken to Rockland and laid at rest in the Achorn cemetery. The G. A. R. service was conducted by his Rockland comrades. The deceased was 80 years of age. He was tenderly cared for by his wife, who survives him.—Camden Herald.

If you want to save fuel this winter, come in and see us today

YOU cannot afford to waste fuel this winter. It is the public duty of every householder to make the most of every log in his woodpile and every pound of coal in his bin.

That is the purpose of the Glenwood Single-Pipe Heating System. Not only will it burn any kind of fuel—wood, coal, soft coal or coke—but it will cut down considerably the amount of fuel you generally use.

Glenwood Single-Pipe Economies

1—Heats the house, not the cellar.

2—Heats cool air drawn down from inside the house, not the cold air from outdoors.

3—Does not waste heat in walls and floors and up the chimney.

4—Heats the rooms themselves, not a long system of pipes.

5—Regulated as easily as a clock—by the Glenwood Regulating Damper.

Easily and Quickly Installed

We shall be glad to show you how this Modern system will save fuel for you this winter. Estimates will be furnished free if you wish advice on installation.

Pipe models of this same furnace may be had in several sizes for coal or wood.

SHUTTS WAS HERE

Miami's Chief Booster, Publisher and Politician Visits
Cyrus H. K. Curtis.

"Do I look like that man?" asked a stranger in the Thorndike Hotel the other day, pointing to a picture on the editorial page of the Boston Globe.

Wondering what kind of a customer he had on his hands Proprietor O'Neil looked at the picture indicated. "You sure do," he said. "And it was a picture of Col. Frank B. Shutts of Miami, Fla., member of the governor's council, publisher of the Miami Herald and leading lawyer, with Mrs. Shutts and daughter Elinor, who were in Rockland on their way to Camden where Col. Shutts passed the day with his friend, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, the well known publisher. Later in the season Col. and Mrs. Shutts will go to Battle Creek, Mich. Writing under a South Poland date Willard Delane had the following to say concerning Col. Shutts in the Boston Globe:

"There is one sure thing about Col. Frank B. Shutts of Florida—he's absolutely, positively and utterly certain that Miami is the greatest little city on earth."

"Why," says he, accounting of the glories of Miami, "the city's only 27 years old, and yet...." And then he goes on to tell you a humdinger of a place it is.

There are reasons aplenty for his being interested in Miami. He owns one of the daily newspapers there; this journalistic rival being Ex-Gov. Cox of Ohio, who recently acquired the other paper; he is president of the telephone company, head of the largest law firm in the city, helps run one or two of the banks, is a director of one of Miami's newest ventures—a big moving picture studio, where a dozen big pictures were produced last year—and Heaven only knows just what else.

Then, as a sort of diversion, he's on the staff of the Governor of Florida, hence the title of Colonel.

At present, however, Col. Shutts is neither penning stirring editorials nor dictating ponderous briefs. He's down here at Poland Spring taking a mid-summer layoff and enjoying the cool breezes that only New England knows. And yet if you start to talk about what a hot place Miami must be he will take issue with you at once.

"Why," says he, "we haven't had it hotter than 90 degrees in Miami any time this summer."

Col. Shutts is not a Southerner by birth. He hails from Indiana. But about 15 years ago he went to Florida.

on business, and liked Miami so well that he stayed.

"When I opened my law office in 1910 there were only 5,000 people there," he said. "Now there are 70,000. I think Miami is going to develop into one of the country's greatest agricultural centers. There's a whole empire awaiting development in the Everglades. Just to show you what is going on, take the case of a sugar company that a few years ago bought 100 acres and experimented in growing sugar cane. They have just bought 200,000 acres of everglade land near Miami and have put up one of the greatest sugar mills in the world."

"How are labor conditions?" I asked him.

"Good," he said. "That is, there's no labor troubles."

"Are you bothered by the migration of negroes to the North, as in some of the other Southern States?"

"No," he said. "I suppose that more than half the negroes in Miami are from the Bahamas. They don't want to go north, they can't stand the cold. As for those who are migrating, I think they're making a mistake. I think they'll come back."

"Do the negroes in Florida vote?"

"They can vote in elections if they want to register and pay the poll tax," he said. "But they don't vote. The only primaries held in the State are the Democratic primaries, which are white primaries. As the Republicans can't muster enough votes to entitle them to hold primaries, let alone to elect candidates, the negroes don't bother to enroll. I think a couple of hundred of them did vote for Harding for President."

"But everything goes along nicely. There's no trouble in Miami. The negroes live in one section of the city (though there's no law compelling them to) and the whites live in another. No white man goes into the negro section after nightfall, and no negro comes into the white section."

"The fact is," he said, "the white man is the negro's best friend and always has been and I'm no Southerner, either. My father fought in the Union army in the Civil War."

He spoke of the extensive advertising that Miami has had. "Ten years ago," he said, "the Chamber of Commerce spent $250 for publicity. This year it is planning the spend $140,000."

"How much of Miami's development can be credited to the efforts of Northerners?" I asked him.

"Very much," he said. "Some of the greatest development is due to Carl R. Fisher, formerly of Indianapolis. You can safely say that at least 75 per cent. of credit for Miami's growth must go to Northern capital."

Which, if it does not point a moral, at least affords this tale.

A young man wearing a tall hat and driving a coal team attracts attention on Main street these days. Time was in Rockland when "Casey" couldn't have pulled that stunt safely.

Kora Temple's annual State Fair ceremonial, at Lewiston, Sept. 6, the month of Moharrum, will include among the many features a visit from the Imperial Potentate, Conrad T. Dykeman.

Representative and Mrs. W. O. Rogers go to South Portland, to be guests of Senator and Mrs. Frederick W. Hinchey at Clydale Villa. A reunion of the 81st Legislature will be held there.

"How's that for high?" asked Dr. E. W. Pease yesterday. Had just seen a New York Hudson car numbered 1,450,798, and a moment later New Morgan, who sees everything, blew in with the same bit of information.

South Thomaston folks are still sounding the praises of the Rockland Band, which played for the Hix Memorial dedication. The band will have splendid patronage when it gives its dance in Wessaweske Grange hall next Friday night.

The feature picture at the Strand Theatre Sunday night will be "For Those We Love," starring Betty Compson. The Broadway Athletic field has benefited $106 from the Sunday evening entertainments thus far.

Edward G. Day has bought from Hiram Smith a 40-foot smack with a capacity of 200 bushels of herring, and is running for the Penobscot Fish Co., making five trips a week and getting very satisfactory fares. And Eddie will get them if anybody can.

Philip Ashley Smith, son of Rev. Ashley A. Smith of the Universalist church, Bangor, enlisted Tuesday of this week in the United States Navy. He is 19 years of age and a student of the Bangor High School, where he served three years in the Reserve Officers' Training School. Rev. Ashley Smith is well known in Rockland where he has spoken on several occasions.

William G. Robinson of Gardiner (and we came mighty near writing it Warren) is in the city and vicinity until after Labor Day, taking what the busy Kennebec grocer is pleased to call a vacation. He wanted to be on hand early for today's game between Camden and Hazzards of Gardiner, and will certainly yell lustily for the team from his city, realizing that it has a hard row to hoe when it beats Camden. He also plans to see the Rockland-Camden game Monday, when it is very certain that the Rockland team will be benefited by his well known vocal favor.

IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Week days—9 a. m. to 9 p. m.
Sundays—2 p. m. to 5 p. m.

In recognition of the passing of an author dear to the hearts of New England readers, the library is making a special exhibit of the books of Kate Douglas Wiggin. Most of these books have long been familiar to Maine readers who never tire of those stories so truly depicting Maine conditions and characters. We were especially pleased to be able to display at this time a series of books, edited by Mrs. Wiggin and her sister Nora Archibald Smith, which is new to the children's department. These books, bound in gay red covers, rightly earn the name "The Crimson Series" and contain much that is best in the poetry and fairy tales of the child world.

Harold Bell Wright's latest book, "The Mine with the Iron Door," and Oliver Curwood's new novel, "The Alaskan," have been added to the collection of recent fiction. Both books have received admirable press notice and are sure to be best circulators.

Under the heading "Tense" the Gaylord Triangle informs us that He said "Will thou?"
And she smiled!

In the prize contest of $2,000 which the Atlantic Monthly has just announced a fine compliment is paid to the work of another Maine writer. The prize, which is to be awarded to the person submitting the best manuscript of a story of adventure of the same general character and excellence as the work of the late Charles Boardman Hawes, is to be known as the Charles Boardman Hawes Prize. Although Mr. Hawes is a native of New York state he received his early education in Bangor and graduated from Bowdoin College in 1911. His two stories, "The Mutineers," and "The Great Quest" have been considered by many as the best stories of adventure since Stevenson. His third book, "The Dark Frigate," which was completed just before his death in July, is to be published by the Atlantic Monthly in October.

News from Gardiner informs us that the children's room in the Public Library there is nearly ready for occupancy. Thus we learn that our energetic former librarian, Miss Bartlett, has lost none of the enthusiasm and ability which characterized her work here, for at the writer's last knowledge the above mentioned "Children's room" was a much over-crowded, be-muddled office.

Joseph Lincoln's new book "Dr. Nye" has been added to the late fiction shelves and promises a large patronage, for many are the admirers of the books of that voluminous writer of Cape Cod fame.

Arrangements have been made whereby books may be reserved at the library. The system involves writing a request for a book to be reserved and paying a penny to cover the cost of the card and postage. Due to the great demand for the latest books of fiction only those books of fiction of which the library owns two or more copies can be reserved. Other than this any book in the library may be reserved. The system has been very successful in the scores of libraries in which it has been used and it is hoped that it will prove of great value here.

CARD OF THANKS

Through the columns of this paper we wish to express our sincere appreciation for the kindness shown us while in your beautiful city. We will always hold in grateful remembrance The Courier-Gazette, the members of the Grand Army Post, and also to our many friends who have made our sojourn here so very pleasant. We sincerely regret to leave here and will look forward with pleasure to our return in the spring. Mr. and Mrs. Libby.

AT 8:30 P. M. SHARP

This Week

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A review from the columns of this paper of some of the events which interested Rockland and vicinity for three weeks ending Aug. 30, 1923.

Morse & Davies, photographers dissolved partnership. Mr. Davies continued in charge of the Singhi studio and Mr. Morse took charge of the Bond studio.

An examination of teachers for State certificates was conducted by Frank B. Miller. Among those examined were: Bessie Bunnell, Rockland; Frances Kirk Spear, F. E. Russell, Adeline Keating, Alice M. Kallach, Ella A. Starrett, Warren; Harriet E. O'Brien, Thomaston; Myrtle L. French, Camden; Emma F. H. Blackington, Tyler S. Davis, Union; Caro Rhodes, Rockland; Loren Teel, Port Clyde; Augusta Albee, Rockland; Chester W. Teel, Port Clyde.

F. S. Berry resigned his position as collection agent for the Star, to resume his former work of manufacturing medicines.

Washington R. Prescott, county attorney was about to remove to Providence.

Walter J. Fernald opened a bowling alley on Main street.

Jonathan S. Gardner sustained a fractured leg as the result of a runaway accident at Northport. His companion, Fred Tuttle, was uninjured.

The 6th Maine Veteran Association held its annual reunion in this city. H. S. Hobbs was elected one of the vice presidents.

Mrs. E. E. Hastings won The Courier-Gazette's prize offered to the Rockland woman who would grow the finest sweet peas.

Louise Mills had one of his hands badly injured while repairing a bicycle chain at Robinson's shop.

The American Band was organized with Joseph Pray as leader and R. G. Ingraham as teacher. The members were H. E. Higgins, Joseph Pray, William Sanson, Merrill Conant, Fred Porter, Wallace Higgins, Charlie Auspand, Melburn Babbidge, William Kelley, Bert Stover, Eddie Gale, Charlie Perry, Hiram Ingerson, Ben Over, Jack Robinson, Robert Milburn and E. B. Ingraham.

Joseph E. Moore began practice in this city, taking the office vacated by Judge Fogler.

The house on the Old Thomaston road owned by Mrs. Priscilla McKellar Williams of South Thomaston, and occupied by Clarence Jones, was burned flat.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. McAllister of Grace street celebrated their golden wedding.

Machinists Welt and Griffin had a narrow escape when a slide of rock took place in the McNamara quarry.

The trustees of the Public Library organized with John S. Case as president.

Work begun on Charles H. Berry's residence on Middle street.

Rosa N. Allen resigned her position as teacher of French and Latin in Rockland High School.

Fred M. French opened a barber shop at the Northend.

Dr. J. A. Richan became director of the Methodist choir.

Hon. Sidney M. Bird and son Alan L. Bird, were making a tour of Europe.

A. S. Black defeated A. C. McLoon in the finals of the Y. M. C. A. tennis tournament.

The close of the Spanish War was being celebrated, and Co. H was back in Augusta.

Bert Bacheider and Addison Smith caught 113 white perch and pickerel in Crawford's Pond one afternoon.

Eben Lewis made a haul of 160 barrels of No. 1 mackerel at Matineus the first week in August. They averaged about 90 to the barrel and netted him $1000.

The Hook & Ladder Co. attended a firemen's muster in Bath. The steamer played 194 feet 3 inches, not enough to win a prize. The Tigers of Warren won second prize in the hand engine contest.

The lawn party and supper given by St. Bernard's church netted $275. Mrs. George E. McLaughlin sold 200 tickets.

Frank H. Hill of South Portland was elected superintendent of schools.

APPERSON

Everyone who has driven this new Apperson Six says that it is the easiest car in the world to drive. The mechanical gear-shift pre-selects the gears without taking the hand from the wheel or the eyes from the road. Merely push the Selector on the steering wheel post into the speed desired and throw out the clutch—the gears are shifted mechanically. This mechanical gear-shift stands paramount as the greatest step forward for easier, safer and more enjoyable driving.

The emergency brake lever is conveniently located on the instrument board. It is a positive brake of special Apperson design.

Apperson engineering has made steering effortless—the car responds to the slightest twist of the hand as it rests easily on the wheel.

Edgar Apperson has devoted 30 years entirely to engineering and this Apperson Six is his greatest achievement. When you get behind the wheel and put it through every test you will realize the general impression that Apperson is the most consummately engineered car in America is well founded. Drive this car today.

If interested, ask for demonstration.

BEST KNOWN DRUG MAN

In the Rocky Mountain Region, Is What They Say About Fred L. Andrews, Thomaston Native.

Denver newspapers published extended accounts the other day when the Davis Brothers Drug Co. moved into its new quarters. There were portraits galore and one of them would look very familiar to many Thomaston persons for it was a picture of Fred L. Andrews. With this portrait the Denver Post published the following:

There is probably no man in Denver today who knows personally more retail druggists in the mountain states territory than does Fred L. Andrews, secretary and credit manager for the Davis Brothers Drug company.

Mr. Andrews is a native of Maine, having been born in Thomaston in that State fifty years ago last month. He was educated in the public schools of his birthplace, graduating from the Thomaston High School in 1891. At that time he moved to Boston, where after completing a commercial course, he engaged in the fruit and produce commission business in Faneuil Hall market, where he continued until 1893.

In search of a climate less vigorous than that of New England, he came to Denver in 1900. Soon after his arrival he entered the service of the Bridgman-Quereau Drug company, with which firm he continued until it was succeeded by the Davis-Bridgman Drug company in November, 1901. He recalls very distinctly the early days of the Davis-Bridgman Drug company in its old location on Blake street, and it is largely through his efforts that the company, of which he later became a stockholder, the present Davis Brothers Drug company, has gained its position of prominence with the mountain states trade.

An engaging personality, founded upon affability and a desire to give people more than they expect, has endeared him, not only to his business associates, but to his many friends in the trade. Handling as he does hundreds of thousands of dollars of accounts annually, he occupies a position of great responsibility with the firm with which he started his business career in Denver.

Mr. Andrews, in speaking of the recent change in location of his company, said: "I feel that our firm is now, perhaps for the first time in its history, in a position to serve adequately the many good friends in the trade who, for the past twenty years have been our loyal customers, and I know that those newer business men who are constantly favoring us with their patronage will also share in the improved service which we are now in a position to give."

CUSHING

Miss Eugenia Holder has returned to East Boston.

John Jordan and Anthony Liesenfeld of Brooklyn joined their families at Mrs. Dorothy Schmidt's Saturday and will spend their vacation here.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Fales and daughter, Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Killerman, Miss Sadie Wing, Orrin H. Woodcock and Mina A. Woodcock motored to Penaquid Sunday to see Miss Orpha Killerman.

Clarence Freeman, Mrs. Fannie Freeman and Randolph Freeman motored to Washington Camp Ground, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. George Wild, son Howard and daughter Virginia of Detroit, Mich., and Fred Schmidt of Brooklyn are guests of Mrs. Dorothy Schmidt this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Clark and daughter Edith of New York City have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Fales.

The Ladies Aid supper served Friday evening at the town hall with Mrs. Mary Crute housekeeper was well attended. A pleasing feature of the occasion being so many of the "Gonia family" present. The proceeds were $20.95.

A delightful day for those present was spent at the shore with picnic dinner Aug. 20, the occasion being a surprise for "Mother Wales," who was visiting her son Clarence, and was given in honor of her 70th birthday. The 20th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Woodbury being only a few days later, it became a double celebration and complete surprise for both parties. It was a well filled table to which the company gathered at the noon hour and all did ample justice to the many good things provided. A very handsome birthday cake, the work of Mrs. Rose Wales, graced the center of the table. After the presentation of the second birthday cake and the wedding anniversary cake cheers were given for the recipients. The poem composed and read by one of the party for the wedding anniversary and the description of "Rose's cake" proved a pleasing feature. In the afternoon, following the ice cream and Mrs. Jordan's box of the chocolates, games were enjoyed, including an egg race, sack race, three legged race, etc., finally ending with a ball game, but it would take an expert umpire to tell how the score stood. Too soon came the time for departure and the guests were on their way. But its memory will linger long. Those present were: Mrs. Jennie Wales of Buffalo, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Woodbury of Rochester, N. Y.; Mrs. John Jordan and son Herbert, Mrs. Dorothy Liesenfeld and daughter Mildred of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. Dorothy Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wales, Orrin H. Woodcock and Mina A. Woodcock.

WALDOBORO

After being away for a number of years did you ever get lonesome and decide to take a trip back home?

You rode on the train or boat for a week or ten days feeling nervous, irritable and off your feed until you landed in the station.

Then you felt fine with the appetite of a horse.

Didn't that home grub taste fine—that rich, fragrant soup, that strictly fresh fish, that tender roast, done to a turn with plenty of thick brown gravy and the ice cream made with real cream and Oh! that coffee that was coffee.

Next morning how about that pain under your right shoulder blade that almost brought the tears to your eyes? that dull heavy ache in your right side that fluttering around your heart—didn't your back feel as though it would break in two?

Next time try one of Priest's Regulators and a teaspoonful of Priest's Powder in a glass of hot water before going to bed. All dealers, 50c and $1.50. The $1.50 bottle holds five times as much as the 50c size.

Sent Parcel Post prepaid and to any address.

Priest's Regulators the ideal tonic laxative for chronic constipation, 25c and 75c. The 75c size holds four (4) times as much as the 25c size.

UNION

At the Congregational church last Sunday the music was much enjoyed by the large audience present. The solo by Mrs. George Williams of Washington, D. C., was very fine and Mrs. Henry Stickney of Cambridge, Mass., proved herself an artist at the organ. Mrs. Stickney will play next Sunday.

The Congregational parsonage is being painted and decorators will begin on the interior next week when the pastor is away on his vacation. A steel ceiling is to be placed in the living room and other repairs made.

Mrs. Henry Stickney of Cambridge Mass., entertained a few friends at her bungalow on Tuesday to supper. Those present were Mrs. May Wallace, Rev. Bessie F. Crowell, Miss Florence Thurston, Miss Elizabeth Harding and Miss Amy Striley of Danvers, Mass.

Next Sunday morning at the Congregational church the pastor will preach on the subject "Lowest Thou Me." There will be special music by the choir with Mrs. Henry Stickney at the organ. Sunday school at 12 o'clock. At the union service in the evening the subject will be "The Communion in Christian Service." This service will begin at 7 o'clock instead of 7:30. The young people are especially invited to come and help in the song service. The service will be brief, attractive and helpful.

Two pictures entirely opposite in plot and characters will be shown at the Star Theatre tonight and Monday. Jack Holt who appears in "Nobody's Money" tonight has something new for him, a comedy-drama. He is as much a master of comedy as of heavier roles as he will show in this story of fun and thrills. Wanda Hawley and Julia Faye will be his leading ladies.

For Monday night Pola Negri will appear in her first picture made in America with an American cast and produced by an American director. The genius of this great star attains its really first full triumph in this powerful love story. It tells of a woman's love for an Arab chieftain for whom she forsakes all else, only to find herself forsaken in turn at the mercy of the desert. Conrad Nagel as the man who trusted her to his sorrow and Conway Tearle as the magnetic Oriental solve this emotional story the proper setting. The story is by Robert Hichens, the scenario by Ouida Bergere.

Things New and Old

Indexing receipts is a very common custom in most households. The indexing habit is a good one to form.

Another index covering household supplies and the place where they may be found will be of great use in time of illness or absence of the housekeeper.

For who has not spent hours looking for something important which might have been easily located if this method were followed.

In most households there are often several slices of stale bread to dispose of at the end of the week, or oftener. If your family is fond of griddle cakes manage to have them once or twice a week. Use five, six or more small slices of bread or the equivalent, cover with cold water and let soak until evening, then squeeze dry and cover the bread with a cupful or more of sour milk, adding more milk in the morning; soda and flour to make a batter to fry, using one to three eggs, depending upon the amount of cakes needed. These cakes will be tender and light as an omelet if properly made and baked. An occasional bread pudding using bread, milk, egg, sugar and some good flavoring like grated orange or lemon and a bit of jelly on top when serving, will keep the most active bread box empty. Of course the pudding is baked like a custard in a moderate oven. Raisins, dates, figs and nuts may be added to such bread pudding, giving variety.

Try this breakfast food: Toast stale bread until a golden brown and dry it as possible. Grind in the meat chopper or roll on the mulling board. Serve with sugar and cream.

In washing greens add a handful of salt to the water, then rinse well. The salt will cause insects to let go their hold on the leaves and they may be easily removed.

To avoid lumps in white sauces or gravies, mix the fat with the flour or cornstarch or with sugar to separate the grains, before adding the liquid.

A bit of vinegar added to meat that seems to be tough will do wonders toward softening the tough fibers.

SOME FALSE IDEAS

Which Have Long Been Current Regarding Abraham Lincoln—Now Being Corrected.

To prove what he states is the falsity of some of the current beliefs and conclusions as expressed in much of the literature on Abraham Lincoln, Dr. D. K. Dodge of the department of English, University of Illinois, this school year will conduct a course in Lincoln's letters and speeches. Dr. Dodge is regarded as one of the greatest living authorities on Lincoln.

"I expect to show by documentary evidence that Lincoln's famous Gettysburg speech was not scratched on the back of an envelope while he was riding to that famous battlefield, but was one of the most carefully prepared speeches and one upon which he worked about 10 days," Dr. Dodge said in announcing the course.

"The 'lost speech' supposed to have been delivered at Bloomington, Ill., was not lost at all, as it was delivered the next day at Galena, Ill. Contemporary newspapers described in detail the meetings at which Lincoln spoke, but it was not then the custom of reporters to attempt to quote the speeches and thus it was natural that no record of his remarks are found.

"Just as Washington's home paper called him 'an old fool' for signing the United States constitution, one Springfield newspaper ridiculed Lincoln's Gettysburg address, referring to his gestures 'as those of a clown.'"

This point is brought out by Dr. Dodge to indicate that much of the idealism with which Lincoln is regarded today was absent while he was President, and added that "criticism of President Wilson was very mild, compared with that which Lincoln met."

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Musey gave a dinner party at the Thorndike Hotel Thursday evening. Pink sweet peas featured the decorations. Each lady was presented with a Colonial bouquet, and each gentleman found a boutonniere at his plate. At the conclusion of the dinner party, the guests motored to Bay Point and took part in Mrs. Baldrige's dance at the "Barn."

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Riley and daughter Doris have returned to their home in Somerville, Mass., after spending two weeks in Rockland, Thomaston and St. George.

Mrs. Archie Bowley and daughter Inez, Mrs. Frank Harding and daughter Emma, sons Frank, Jr., and James, are guests of Mrs. James Riley, St. George.

Miss Betty Stanley, who has been visiting Mrs. Ida Davis the past week, returned to her home in Portland Friday.

Mrs. A. R. Bachelder was hostess Wednesday evening at a very pretty auction party in the Copper Kettle. The decorations were pink and white. Prizes were awarded in this order: Mrs. H. B. Fales, Mrs. George W. Phillips, Mrs. Charles Mitchell, Mrs. Charles W. Procter, Mrs. George W. Bachelder, Mrs. George Davis and Mrs. Harry Brown. Buffet lunch was served.

Miss Dorothy Blackington begins her vacation from E. C. Moran & Co.'s insurance office today, and will visit Portland and the White Mountains.

Miss Clara Whalen left last night for Kittery, Me., where she will attend the Andrews Taylor Still College of Osteopathy and Surgery. She will visit a few days in Rockford, Ill., before resuming her studies.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stewart are spending their vacation at Muscongus.

The surprise party given at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Holbrook, Swan's Island, Monday by Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Turner and Mrs. J. G. Roessler was greatly enjoyed. A very fine supper was served. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Turner and Mrs. J. G. Roessler of Chicago, Mrs. Ella Kast and Misses Bessie and Virginia Kast of Harrisburg, Pa., and Miss Bertha Smalley, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Holbrook and daughter Mary of Rockland. Mrs. Holbrook was presented by Mrs. Roessler a fine linen table cloth.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kennedy and daughter Mimi of Boston are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Jones, on their way to Quebec. This is the 13th anniversary of their last visit to Rockland.

Miss Augusta H. Maxcy, having been granted a leave of absence from the Security Trust Co., leaves Tuesday for Panama, where she will be the guest of her cousin, Ernest Cripps, for a few months. The remainder of the winter will be spent with her aunt, Mrs. E. I. Wooster, in Inglewood, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Cripps, who have been spending the summer in Maine, are also returning to their home in Christobal at this time.

Mrs. Pearl Dyer leaves today for Vinalhaven, where she will be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Dyer, for a week or more.

Marcus R. Mitchell, who left Rockland 22 years ago for Pasadena, Calif., is receiving a warm welcome from many friends in this vicinity. He plans to remain about two months and is at present a guest of his brother Edson, and sister Rosilla, at the old homestead in South Appleton. His daughter, Flora accompanied him on the trip and is delighted with what she has already seen of Maine. Mr. Mitchell is a successful building contractor and comes east for a much needed rest from his steady application to business during his long absence. Next week he plans to call upon old friends at Vinalhaven and North Haven.

Lloyd Harding and bride of Somerville, Mass., are spending their honeymoon in Rockland and vicinity.

Mrs. C. W. S. Cobb received a telegram last night announcing the illness of her husband, who had arrived in St. Louis Wednesday, from this city. If she is able to obtain reservations, Mrs. Cobb will leave for home tonight, accompanied as far as New York by her daughter, Miss Helen Cobb.

Miss Lena Thorndike entertained five tables of auction at "The Old House," Warren, yesterday afternoon. Prizes were won by Mrs. R. W. Hanscomb, a copy of "The Maine Coast," (C. Wilbert Snow's poems); Mrs. W. H. Rhodes, powder; Mrs. W. C. Bird, candy; Miss Charlotte Buffum, scissors, and consolation, Mrs. A. T. Thurston, cards. Dinner was taken at Hill Top Inn. The guests were delightfully entertained by the remarkable antiques with which the house is furnished.

Misses Lucy Fuller and Pauline McLeon entertained at the former's home, Talbot avenue, Thursday night, in honor of Miss Dorothy Whitney of Thomaston. Prizes at auction were awarded Miss Frances Flanagan and Mrs. Lucille Harry. The affair was in the nature of a shower for Miss Whitney.

Capt. John Kinney of the U. S. L. S. No. 42, a former Southend boy, is spending a few days renewing old acquaintances in this city and vicinity.

Mrs. J. M. Baldrige of Warrenton is ever ready to take advantage of an opportunity for the benefit of the social world and when she found that the Boothbay orchestra composed of Harvard students could be obtained for Thursday night she promptly arranged one of her well known dancing parties at The Barn, Warrenton. The college boys came fully up to expectations and the affair was one of the snappiest of the happy summer series.

Arthur Lawrence of Boston will spend the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Lawrence, Beech street.

Mrs. J. O. Stevens was hostess Thursday evening at an auction party held at her Talbot avenue home in honor of Mrs. Herbert Washburn and Prizes were won by Mrs. George W. Smith, Mrs. Glenn A. Lawrence and Mrs. Albert C. Jones. Guest prizes were awarded Mrs. Washburn and Mrs. Overlock. Buffet lunch was served. The honor guests were recipients of beautiful colonial bouquets.

MANK REUNION

Wednesday was a very unfavorable day for an open air gathering, but regardless of that, a goodly number gathered at the grove of Edwin A. Mank, and there held the ninth reunion of the Mank family. A bountiful dinner was served at 12 and afterward President E. R. Moody in his usual pleasing manner, presided over the business meeting.

The records of last year were read by Florence Flanders who was then re-elected to serve as secretary for the ensuing year, with E. R. Moody as president, L. L. Mank, vice president, L. L. Mank, treasurer and Hazel Bowers, historian. Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Mank were selected as entertainment committee, and Mrs. Iza Mank, Mrs.

Emma Walsh, Mrs. Emma Whitney, Mrs. Olive Leavitt, Mrs. Hazel Bowers and Mrs. Florence Flanders were chosen to look after the program and music. After defraying expenses there was $11.97 left in the treasury. It was voted to hold the next reunion at the same place.

Altogether this was a very pleasant gathering, yet through it all, there lingered near some of us, a strain of sadness, for the grim messenger had removed some of our most promising members—"old age, middle age and youth" therefore God is no respecter of persons and all bore with heavy hearts, in submission to his will.

Gossip of Singers and Players Well Known To Music Lovers In These Corners of Maine.

At the last Sunday night concert at the Northport Country Club, given August 26, one of the finest programs of the season was presented. This program included numbers by Mrs. Richard E. Stevens, a singer who never fails to give great pleasure; by Mrs. Walter Noyes of New York, who appeared at the Catholic Fair last week; by Mrs. C. T. Dumont, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. George F. Harriman at Northport, and who has a beautiful voice. A special feature of the program were violin numbers by Miss Sheila Bain of New York, summing at Northeast Harbor. Miss Bain, although only 15 years of age has already astonished musical critics with her phenomenal talent and fine technique. Auer of New York she has been carefully trained. At a recital recently given in Northeast Harbor Miss Bain gave the entire program, and the audience included some of the prominent musicians and critics of the country who are this season congregated in and near that resort. She was received with enthusiasm and gave the critics something to think about. Miss Faith Donovan of Bangor, cellist, also gave some delightful numbers to the program.

Read one of "Aunt Emma" Wight's inimitable stories: "Another funny experience was when the University Society here gave Queen Esther. A tenor from Boston had been hired for the occasion—a Mr. Tenney, who was a fine singer, and who took the part of Mordecai. Everything went well at the rehearsal, but at the performance Mr. Tenney, who had a long and lovely solo—right in the midst—forgot his words and music—couldn't think of either. He was supposedly dressed in sackcloth and ashes, and singing about the sorrows of his race or something of that nature. He just had to keep on singing, while I was playing his accompaniment. Of course when I found he was improvising, I was agast! But as he had a fine sense of melody, he composed a lovely solo which was easy to "vamp" for, so I followed on, until nearly at the end he suddenly fell into the original solo, and all ended well. Afterwards he rushed up to thank me for saving him from musical disgrace,—said he felt anything but pious as he knelt on the stage composing his solo!" There are probably many of our readers who remember this very performance and can, therefore, doubly enjoy this reminiscence.

Mephisto gives us a very interesting little item regarding the musical interests of President Coolidge. He tells us that "It is natural that there should be considerable interest among cultured people as to what will be the attitude of our new President, Calvin Coolidge, toward music and art. The name 'Calvin' and the fact that our President comes from New England would suggest that he might share the general prejudice with which his name and origin are associated. It will dispel a great deal of misunderstanding in the matter, however, if I quote from one of his addresses made some time ago his very strong appreciation of the value of music. He said: "Music is the art directly representative of democracy. If the best music is brought to the people there need be no fear about their ability to appreciate it." This emphatic declaration should dismiss once for all any apprehension that the White House will be run on narrow lines. Furthermore, it is known that Mrs. Coolidge is broad-minded, likes dancing, appreciates the value and charm of color, and while modest and unassuming, she is gifted with rare tact, has a very genial personality as might be expected from a woman who was originally a country school teacher."

Years ago, when only 18 and known as Grace Goodhue of Vermont, she visited the White House. As she stopped to examine the gold grand piano in the East Room, a policeman stepped up and told her to move on. She never realized then, when she was one of a party of young school teachers from New England to pay Washington a visit, that she would some day be the mistress of the mansion and of that gold piano. It happened in the Roosevelt administration.

At Ocean Grove, N. J., August 18, Galli-Curci appeared before an audience of nearly 7,000 persons. It was a gala night, both the audience and the prima donna being in holiday mood. The press notice of this concert stated

WITH THE RADIO FANS

(By Maud U. Lutton)

I neglected to say in last week's column that I had a long list of stations received by John M. Cunningham, 19 Traverse street, Rockland. His letter came just as I was about to take last week's column to the press. Mr. Cunningham writes that on a single circuit set which he built himself using only one U. V. 200 that he has received since May 1st 32 broadcast stations all over the country. He also enclosed a list of 14 stations which he picked up Saturday evening, Aug. 18, which includes about all the eastern stations and WCAP Washington, D. C., WJAZ and WJAZ Chicago and WIZ of Cincinnati for the long distance ones. These are excellent results for summer on a single tube and Mr. Cunningham's apparatus must be working about 100 per cent perfect.

Little details count big in radio as the more experienced operators have found out. Careful construction of the antenna is one of the most important features and a good ground is just as important. Not long ago I increased my reception range considerably by adding two more insulators to each end of my antenna and making my ground connection permanent by soldering. One often reads of receiving sets which bring in the "stuff" by attaching the bed spring as an antenna or the stove or wire laid on the floor as a ground. Such freaky-things sometimes do work, but for good consistent reception there is nothing like a good antenna and ground. The water pipe or a brass pipe driven into the damp cellar bottom with ground wire soldered to the top are both good grounds.

Clarence Rackliff of the "Keag" is building another set. He blew his first tube after only a few night's reception and he has experienced great difficulty getting another good one.

Great reception conditions Saturday night the 25th. WGY started its dance concert about 15 minutes late by my watch, but stuck to it longer than usual, which made up the loss which I suffered. While the players took intermission after four numbers I switched over to WNAAC's Copley Plaza concert and so had continuous "jazz" pretty nearly all the evening. WJAZ, Zenith Edgewater Beach station in Chicago, furnished the remainder of the program until about 12:50 at which time I quit in favor of a little slumber.

Picked up what I read as WLAA, Bellows Falls, Vt. This is a new one on my list this summer, although I got him several times late in the winter. Anyone else getting WLAA? I do not see their programs listed in my daily paper.

Ed Sanson reports reception from the new Radio Corp station, WCR, in Washington, D. C. Says it came in fine Friday night. I wasn't on long Friday and probably wouldn't have got them if I had been.

I am still waiting to hear the first report on anyone receiving WHN here. I thought I picked it out of a maze of heterodyning whistles Saturday night, but can't swear to it. It is listed at 360 meters and is no doubt one of the several stations East which heterodyne each other so badly.

WGY's concert tonight will contain popular numbers—both orchestral and vocal.

If 250 lusty-lunged sergeants of the regular army should get together and shout "Fall In," in their best drill-ground style, the effect would scarcely equal that of the voice amplifier recently purchased by the Signal Corps and installed in mobile form on a motor truck. The new equipment can be used to handle large bodies of troops, to make speeches and music audible to assemblies or to supply entertainment received by radio. The apparatus is technically known as a public address system. Sounds are picked up by a high-grade transmitter placed a few feet from the speaker, or near the bandmaster's stand, if music is to be handled. The electrical output of this transmitter is increased about a half-million times, using a four-stage vacuum tube amplifier. Then the current goes into a group of six horns, mounted on a folding tripod. Under ordinary quiet conditions, a compact crowd of 750,000 people could hear a man speaking in an ordinary voice, through the use of this system. Scientific American.

WATERMAN'S BEACH

Spruce Head Gets a Record Dance Crowd—Gossip About Dust and Rain.

Fine day Sunday, but we didn't have many callers. Jen and Mr. Hall went home Saturday and Mrs. Carrie Thompson went Monday. Miss Alice Blaney will take in a few more of the popular dances in the new Community hall before returning to Somerville, where she attends school.

I didn't get down to the dance Saturday evening, but I got a reliable report from it. I counted 12 cars that passed the house inside of as many minutes at 8 o'clock. Someone counted the cars parked near the Postoffice corner and declares there were 60 of them. Some of them brought more than 100 people, so I have figured there were 300 people in the village Saturday evening, a record crowd for Spruce Head. I am inclined to believe. About half of this bunch could get into the hall and enjoy the dance, but everybody had a good time if all reports are true. Winnie says she sold lots of ice cream and smokes but had some left to fill the bill over Sunday.

A flying craft of some build passed here Sunday afternoon bound West. It looked like a large one and was making good time. Our Razorville friend informs us that a flock of more than 14 airplanes passed over their town Monday. I can't find Razorville on my map but I know it is an inland town as they called that bunch of flying machines "flocks." Here on the coast we call them schools. That is if they are the kind that take to the water.

I told you in my last Tuesday's letter about the old-fashioned Rockland mud. That was before paving the streets with granite blocks was thought of. In those good old times they put limberlock chips in the road. They were soon crushed up and turned to dust and the first rain turned that dust into clay. Later on they put in cinders from the lime sheds, but in cinders was damp it would stick to the foot-gear and track into the house. That made the women as mad as hornets and of course they entered a protest and won out. This week we are sending you up some paving blocks cut by Sidney Jackson at old jobs in his quarry just a few rods from our house. They are about 14 inches long, 7 inches deep and 3 inches thick. Mr. Ross, your man who has charge of the city roads got his eyes on them and he told me if he could get them in the road and a little gravel worked into them they never would come out again. So Winslow sold him the blocks and Tuesday a big iron truck commenced to transport them to the city. Bet your sweet life those blocks will not crush up.

It is reported there was a negro in the schoolhouse woodpile Monday at 1 a. m. It appears there was a hide and seek game going on between the island and the main over some wet goods from parts unknown. If the reports are true several cases of the clear stuff were taken to Rockland in the officer's car.

A carload of Wiley's Corner friends called Tuesday. They were all strangers to me. Just called to see Uncle Charles and let me know they had heard of me through The Courier-Gazette. Thanks friends for remembering me. I am always pleased to meet my friends of The Courier-Gazette. Wednesday morning, we are having a fair sized rainstorm, for which we were thankful. The water holes were turned dry and the cisterns, ditches and I needed the rain badly so I could set out a bed of strawberry plants. C. D. S. G.

THE HOME RADIO

How to Make and Use It By A. HYATT VERRILL

XXI. TRANSMISSION OR SENDING

I have already described the difference between interrupted waves and continuous waves and how the human voice, or other sounds, if transmitted by the ordinary interrupted waves of a wireless telegraph sender, would be broken up and unintelligible. I have also explained how continuous waves are capable of carrying such sounds without breaking them up; but while sounds of voices, music, etc., cannot be properly transmitted over an interrupted wave yet code signals or alternating dots and dashes may be transmitted over continuous waves by means of instruments which break or interrupt such waves, so that a radio-telephone may be used to send both telegraphic and telephonic messages and a radio-telephone receiver will receive both.

The principal item and most essential part of the sending or transmission apparatus, known as the radio-telephone, is the device by which the continuous waves are produced. The instrument which was first devised for this purpose was an ordinary arc-light, but this has now given place to a device known as a vacuum-tube oscillator which is similar to an ordinary incandescent light with specially prepared filament and other devices. The operation of the arc-light was as follows: If a condenser and inductance coil are shunted across the current to such a light, the current is lessened as the condenser is charged and the potential difference across the arc increased. This still further charges the condenser which discharges through the coil and again becomes charged in the reverse direction, the whole operation being repeated over and over again with extreme rapidity—as many as one million discharges a second being usual. Diagrammatically this arrangement is shown in Fig. 56, in which A represents the aerial, B the ground, C the coil, D the telephone receiver, E the condenser, F the light, G the dynamo or other source of electricity. The vacuum-tube on the other hand, acts in a very different manner. When this is charged with electricity the filament discharges an immense number of electrons upon a plate with incalculable rapidity Fig. 57, and this, by means of various appliances, produces the oscillating currents of extremely high frequency, or continuous waves. Unlike the arc light, moreover, the vacuum tube is employed in receiving the incoming waves, varying the current through the filament and so altering the flow of electrons, thus transforming the vacuum-tube from an oscillator to a detector.

It must not be supposed, however, that an oscillator, a condenser, a coil and an aerial and ground are all that are necessary in order to send wireless telephonic messages. In addition, there are numerous appliances for tuning or adjusting wave lengths, modulating, amplifying and other purposes and in a large station these are very complicated and powerful. For example, the Westinghouse station at Newark uses five 250 watt tubes—two being used as oscillators and three as modulators—and which work in conjunction with two fifty watt speech amplifiers. The current used in lighting is ten volt A. C. with five amperes of radiation. For sending the sounds, microphones are used and to maintain an even cool temperature on the tubes a rotary fan is employed. In this station the coil or inductance is a flat or pancake helix wound with half-inch copper ribbon while a special motor generator furnishes a 2,000 volt current for the plate. The aerial is of the multiple-tuned type of six 150-foot wires at a height of 210 feet above the ground with a counterpoise of twelve wires on thirty foot spacers twenty feet above the roof and below the aerial. As a lead-in, a ten wire cage on hoops two inches in diameter is used.

This, however, is one of the largest and most powerful stations in the world and for amateurs nothing so complete, so large or so powerful is ever required. For ordinary purposes, a very small sending set is all that is necessary and even for the smallest a license is required, for while there is no objection to any one operating a receiving set and listening-in to anything that is in the air, a multitude of signals and sounds being sent is a great nuisance and interferes with every legitimate sending station by confusing the sounds and creating interferences. In fact, the greatest trouble in receiving is interference and it is far more difficult to tune out the weak waves from nearby amateur sending instruments than to tune to the desired signals from the large stations.

Also, it is far more difficult to construct and set up a transmitting set than a receiving set and hence I advise all amateurs to leave the sending alone, or else make no attempt to install or use a transmitting set until thoroughly familiar with the subject and no longer an amateur. But as no book on wireless telephony would be considered complete without a description and instructions as to rigging up sending sets, a few simple directions and figures are given.

The New Jewett Will Do It!
P.S. It's your move!

Climb a lot of hills the old car wouldn't make—pass most any car on any hill. Look under the hood; compare Jewett's power.		Get away first when the cop says "Go"—accelerate from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds in high gear. Try it with another car!
	Drive right by a lot of gas stations where you'd leave some money if you had a cumbersome or less efficient car.		Take the biggest loads over the toughest roads—Timken axles, rugged construction, extra long springs assure safe comfort.
Double your driving radius—reach new places—in the same driving time. Jewett travels faster, laughs at poor roads.		Let your wife or daughter drive—they don't have to learn, thanks to easy clutch, marvelous gear-shifting, easy steering.
	Have a car your friends will envy—one you're proud of in any company—beautiful lines, smart equipment.	2805 lbs.	Get a real car for your money—2805 pounds—200 pounds heavier than any car this size. Strong, steady riding, long-lived.
