said concerning Loan and Building Associations:

"These excellent agencies of thrift and encouragement of home building and owning continue to play an important part in our financial activities. In communities of sufficient size and prosperity to support them they should be afforded every encouragement, as they have demonstrated themselves to be the most effective agencies of systematic savings on a large scale yet devised."

Shares in the April issue are now ready. Deposits

GEN. LORD AS A TEXT

Esten W. Porter Uses Former Townsmen To Illustrate Point For O'Flaherty Service.

One of Esten W. Porter's duties as general manager of the O'Flaherty Service in Greater New York is the compilation of a series of booklets, descriptive of the suburban communities. His latest work in this line is a handsomely illustrated folder entitled "Tarrytown-on-the-Hudson—a town rich in legends, and where stands Sunnyside, which is the home of the famous American author, Washington Irving."

It is the object of the O'Flaherty Service to interest New York stores in suburban advertising as offered by daily and weekly newspapers within a radius of 50 miles around
New York and offering New York merchants 5,000,000 potential customers—the world's richest and most compact market—as Mr.
Porter's convincing booklet explains it. The O'Flaherty service is no experiment. It has been used with splendid results by many of the most progressive merchants of New York for more than twenty years.

Mr. Porter, with a finger constantly on the public pulse, uses as a text of his latest circular his former fellow townsmen, Gen. Herbert M.
Lord, Director of the Bureau of the Budget. The application is thus:

"An important personage. It is his duty to see that the United States gets full value for every dollar expended; that no money is wasted;
that the various departments and bureaux live within their means and, if possible, save something out of their appropriations."

"Another important personage is manager of the Family Budget, the Woman Who Buys. She holds much the same relation to the home that Gen. Lord does to the Government.
She is the counselor and consulting expert for the entire family—and her responsibility is heavy. To her and her's Advertising News is of the greatest importance."

SUMMER COTTAGES AND BOARD

About this time of year The Cour-

by persons who wish to come to this part of Maine during the summer season. They seek to rent a cottage or to find board. There is no prepared list of such accommodations anywhere to be had, but there ought to be. We propose carrying in our columns of classified advertising announcements of this character, which the paper will convey to distant points and copies of which we can mail in response to inquiries for information.
The attention of those with boarding accommodations, or cottages for rent or sale, is invited to this opportunity to obtain publicity at very small cost.

Maine Music Company Loses Entire Stock, When Blaze
Works To Third Floor of Wilson & White Block.

The stock of the Maine Music Company in the Wilson & White block was ruined Saturday by a fire which broke out in the basement of that establishment and nearly reached the third story of the building before it was extinguished.

The second and third stories of this block serve as an annex to the Thorndike Hotel, and the rooms presented a bedraggled appearance after the fire, particularly on the second floor, where the firemen had been forced to cut numerous holes, and where tons of water had been poured.

The demand for rooms is always comparatively light at the weekend, and it so happened on this occasion
that the only tenant of the annex was Mrs. C. H. Berry, who has a suite of rooms there. Mrs. Berry made a hasty exit with her personal effects, and a few minutes later the attractive rooms which she had been occupying were flooded with water and smoke.

The business of the hotel was not interrupted in the slightest degree;
in fact the guests in the main portion of the house would scarcely have known there was a fire had it not been for the noise incidental to the operations of the Fire Department.

*****

Louis W. Fickett, one of the proprietors of the Maine Music Company, which has now undergone two baptisms of fire under the present ownership, told a Courier-Gazette reporter that his first knowledge of the impending disaster was furnished by a thin wreath of smoke which made its appearance near the northern display window.

"I believe the place is all right!" exclaimed Mr. Fickett.

His stenographer and a traveling salesman, to whom the remark was directed, thought he was joking, but quickly changed their minds when he opened the door leading to the basement and was confronted by a volume of flame and smoke. Mr.
Fickett ran to Central Fire Station and notified the firemen.

A general alarm was quickly sounded.
When Mr. Fickett returned to the store the smoke was so dense that he could save nothing but the valuables contained in the drawers of the safe.
Miss Arnold, clerk and stenographer, saved a few articles which could be most conveniently taken. The stock contained 20 pianos, together with three belonging to other parties, and stored in the basement. Early in the afternoon the pianos which had not been badly damaged were removed to Mr. Fickett's stable and expert tuners and finishers were hastily summoned from Bangor and Portland. There were also 20 large Victrolas in stock.

Mr. Fickett was at loss to account for how the fire had started. A small fire had been started in the heater
during the early morning, and later it was fixed for the day by putting on more coal. The basement had been inspected by Chief Albert R. Havener within a week, and his report had been to the effect that it was "immaculate." This report was confirmed by an insurance inspector who visited the basement shortly afterward.

*****

The proprietors of the Maine Music Company are Louis W. Fickett of Rockland and C. B. Snow of Portland.
Approximately $16,000 worth of stock was being carried at the time of the fire. Mr. Snow came to Rockland immediately upon receipt of a telegram from Mr. Fickett.

This fire was fought upon difficulties because of the great volume of smoke with which the block was soon enshrouded. The fire was practically all at the rear of the buildings, but it spread rapidly upward between the partitions. One of the chemicals worked two streams at the rear of the block and three were operated from the main street side.

Gas masks loaned by the American Legion proved of much assistance, but even then the firemen were obliged to take turns. Edward Walker, Thomas E. Shannon and Laurence Colson were overcome by smoke, but soon recovered, after being carried into the open air.

The fire started about 11:35 and the all-out was not sounded until 3:20
p. m.

*****

Losers by the fire, all of whom were well covered by insurance were:

Mrs. Emily C. Hitchcock and William W. Case, owners of the White & Case block; Maine Music Company, E. M. O'Neill, proprietor of the Thorndike Hotel; Amos P. Richardson, tailor; and the Little Flower Shop. The aggregate of the losses would probably be less than $30,000.

There has been universal praise for the manner in which Chief Engineer Havener handled the fire, and some of the warmest praise came from traveling men, who have abundant opportunity to see how such fires are handled in other cities. Chief Havener's remark to a Courier-Gazette reporter was thoroughly characteristic of the man: "You can't fight a fire
unless you have good men with you.
That's what I had."

Mayor Snow was well pleased yesterday to receive the following letter from E. W. MacDonald, secretary of the Rockland Chamber of Commerce:

"I want to take this opportunity to not only call the attention of the City Fathers, but every citizen of Rockland, to the fact that the Rockland Fire Department is to be commended for the most excellent work done Saturday at the so-called Maine Music Company fire. A short time ago I heard some very severe criticism of the Fire Department, and it so happened that last Saturday I was in a position to witness its work in fighting a most stubborn blaze, and I again assure you that it was of the highest order. There was not a minute wasted, and the fight was carried on with the best of judgment on the part of every fireman present.

"I believe that Rockland is very fortunate indeed, in having a volunteer department such as it has, but the time is fast approaching when we must look forward to a larger regular department. Before this can be done it might be of interest to those who are in the habit of criticizing to watch the work of this department so that they may see and be convinced.
I would be pleased to have you notify Fire Chief Havener of my feelings in this matter."

A GROUP OF CHAMPIONS

F stands for Females and Freshmen, sometimes called Frosh. In the case of this particular group it also stands for Champions, because to that Freshmen girls belongs the distinction this year of having won the interclass basketball series, the biggest indoor event of the school year. Pep is the password in Rockland High School nowadays but if you will note the tall girl in the upper right hand corner you will find another cause for pep, as the tall girl is Dot Green, the coach. Dot's work on the varsity teams has stamped her as a human dynamo. She is smiling, and what coach would not smile after winning a school championship with material compiled from the entering class. The players in the above group are: Top row, left to right—
Ruth Koster, Captain; Annie Leonard, Mabel Fales, Mary Sylvester, Dot
Green, coach; bottom row—Evelyn Perry, Florence LeGage, Estelle Hall, Alice Hodgkins and Alice Merrick.

THEIR LIBERTY WAS BRIEF

Andrew Cronk Brought Back To State Prison and Kehoe To the County Jail.

Thomas Kehoe who ran away from the Knox County jail last Thursday was recaptured aboard the trawler Osprey in Portland Saturday, and was brought back yesterday by Turnkey Rokes. From the Press
Herald's report of his capture the following extracts are taken:

"Quivering when his hiding place was discovered, Kehoe came slinking out like a wet dog into the engine room. 'What's the matter?' inquired Patrolman Brown, who was first come upon the much hunted convict.
Still shaking, Kehoe replied that he was afraid he would be shot if he showed himself. When assured that no such thing would happen if he came along quietly and did not try to escape again, he readily accompanied the officers on deck and then to police headquarters, where he was locked up."

"The Portland police received information late Saturday afternoon from Rockland authorities that they believed Kehoe had come here on the trawler."

"A description of the escaped convict together with the information that he was probably hovering around the waterfront was read out to the day class of officers at roll call Friday morning, and Patrolman Brown, shortly after going on duty, made a visit to the Osprey. A search of the vessel, however, failed to disclose
the presence of Kehoe, while Capt.
Wise told the officer that a maximum Kehoe's description had signed up for the trip to the fishing banks, but that he had not showed up, having disappeared from the vessel late Saturday afternoon.

"The officers on searching the vessel, demanded that Capt. Wise muster his crew on deck for an inspection.

Kehoe, however, was not among them,
and the officers further demanded that all missing members of the crew be produced. The captain was unable to do so, and the officers then announced their intention of giving the ship another searching."

"This time, they were successful and it was when Brown peered into the stove-hole that he discovered Kehoe half buried in a pile of soft coal. Kehoe readily admitted his identity, and according to the order was over. Kehoe, at the time of his escape, had served part of a 90 days' sentence for a misdemeanor."

"The Osprey, when the officers made their last and successful visit to the ship, was making ready to cast off for a trip to the fishing grounds, and in 15 minutes more, according to the story told the officers by Capt. Wise, the trawler would have been well on her way down the harbor."

*****

Andrew Cronk, alias Cronkite, the convict was captured in St. John, N.
B. last Thursday, and brought back to the Thomaston State Prison Saturday. He complained of sore feet, and at no time showed any inclination to give trouble to State Probation Officer Fish, in whose charge he was. It will probably be some time before he has another opportunity to get sore feet by running away from prison.

Cronk is reported to have told Deputy Warden Colgan that he spent two nights in Rockland after escaping from State Prison, and slept where he could look into the police station.

TEN DIVORCES GRANTED

Heavy Alimony Allowed In One of the Cases in Lincoln County Supreme Court.

At Wiscasset Thursday Associate Justice John A. Morrill granted the divorce libel of Eleanor A. Leighton, prominent Portland society woman,
from her wealthy husband, Dr. Adam P. Leighton, on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment. In addition, he granted her alimony of $400 a month
as long as she lives or remained unmarried. The case was uncontested by Dr. Leighton. Mrs. Leighton is a daughter of Silas B. Adams, a well-known Portland business man.

Nine other divorce decrees were granted by Justice Morrill during the term: Wesley C. Love of Southport, from Anna Love, residence unknown; Alice P. Dalton of Wiscas-set, from Joseph P. Dalton of Massachusetts; Alta M. Brown from Arthur F. Brown, both of Wadoboro; Dora A. Butler, from Charles L. Butler, both of Wadoboro; Hortense A.

According to Major Leander A.
Clapp, in charge of the New England
District of recruiting for the Marine Corps, a number of Maine men are being received at the Portland Recruiting Station and at the Boston office, 402 Atlantic Avenue. It is not often that the U. S. Marine Corps opens its doors to a large number of recruits and when it does there is usually a rush of men to get in and "sit on top of the world" with the Marines. A great many men between the ages of 18 and 35 years are needed and any Rockland man anxious to join the Corps should get in touch with the Portland Station. A card to the Boston Office, 402 Atlantic Avenue will bring any information desired.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

TO A BOY
I wish you gladness every day,
I wish you strength to push ahead;
May no obstruction bar your way,
No dangers fill your heart with dread.

May you be firm and unafraid
When you are nipped for being right;
May failure leave you undismayed
When you have tried with all your might.

May all the rich rewards of chance
Be placed within your reach, and all
The sweetest pleasures of romance,
To you in fullest measure fall.

And better than all else beside,
More splendid than the widest fame,
I wish your watching mother's pride
In every triumph you may claim.

WISDOM AND UNDERSTANDING—When then cometh wisdom? and where is the place of understanding? Behold, the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom; and to depart from evil is understanding.—Job. 28:28,29.

"KEEP COOLIDGE"

A very good suggestion is put forth by a business man, namely, that every business concern in Maine write a personal letter to five of its acquaintances in different parts of the country, inviting them to consider Maine for their vacation. The letters can offer to supply printed matter and information, to enable the people to plan their trips, and as the State of Maine Publicity Bureau, with headquarters in Portland, is ready to offer every assistance in this respect, replies could be turned over to them. The Publicity Bureau is publishing a new edition of its general booklet "Maine Vacationland the Year Around" which describes all of the resort sections of the State. It also publishes a guide book in which is listed all of the hotels, camps, boarding houses, farms and other places of public entertainment as well as a list of boys' and girls' camps and those catering to business, professional and other women who like the out door life freedom with the daily routine of the boys' and girls' camps but who cannot register for the season, their vacation period being confined to two or three weeks. Camps where men during their vacation may receive setting-up exercise and some other features of the boys' camps are also being organized. This literature is for free distribution to any one who may be interested to come to Maine.

In their report to the Methodist quadrennial conference, now in session at Springfield, the bishops took strong ground against war, condemning it as "the law of the jungle." Emphasizing the duty of America to use her vast resources and wealth for the succor of other nations, the bishops endorsed the statement of President Coolidge that the nation could not maintain itself by material prosperity alone. "We believe profoundly," they said, "that the United States of America should co-operate with the other nations of the world in bringing about world justice and world peace. We, therefore, give our hearty endorsement to the proposition that our country shall become a member of the permanent court of international justice. And it is our firm conviction that all nations should agree to submit to impartial tribunals all disputes that threaten the world and which cannot be adjusted by the usual process of diplomacy." The bishops recommended the removal of the present "amusement ban" of the Methodist discipline, which, they say, "has proved an embarrassment to many pastors and to the largest success of the church," and failing to correct "the evils named as detrimental to the recreational life of our people." It is probable that this recommendation will come in for a stormy discussion.

Recalling those heart-breaking early years of the World War, how anxiously we watched the papers for news of the Russian armies under command of the Grand Duke Nicholas as they poured themselves mightily upon the eastern armies of Germany, promising great success, only in turn to be themselves poured upon and pushed back in defeat, Grand Duke Nicholas, the brilliant figure of that period, passed into obscurity, from which the news dispatches are just now lifting him as the hope of the Russian exiles in Paris, that he may be called back to lead a party for the restoration of Russia to a condition socially and politically that shall enable her to take equal place once more among the nations of the world. This hope builds itself upon a belief that the present soviet regime is tottering and needs for its overthrow only the coming into action of a strong leader who can rally the divided forces of the unhappy country. Nicholas is believed to be the man.

President Coolidge's decision to cut out official handshaking was so sensible an act that we hope he will adhere to it. He weakened a little bit when the party of school children came in on him, and that perhaps was natural, but it is a silly piece of business to shake hands every week or two with several thousand citizens whose names he cannot possibly recall should he ever afterwards meet them on the street car.

Germany's parliamentary election indicates almost the first real note of promise since the armistice was signed. The forces that have won are favorable to the adoption of the Dawes plan for the rehabilitation of Europe's industries. If Germany will really go to work the great problem of reconstruction is solved over there.

CITY COUNCIL'S BUSY NIGHT

Curfew Law Seeks Another Trial—Appropriation Resolve Totals $223,152.—City Asked To Repurchase Fire Horses—Carver For Assessor; Philbrook For Patrolman.

LAST NIGHT'S MEETING IN A NUTSHELL

James F. Carver elected assessor for three years to succeed G. K. Merrill.
Harold W. Philbrook elected patrolman to succeed John H. Post, resigned.

City accepted the late ex-Mayor Butler's bequest of $3000 for purchase and erection of striking and illuminated clock.
Next week designated as Cleanup Week.

Move to purchase fire horses sold by City left to the Council as a committee of the whole.

Order passed for a fire alarm box at the corner of Spruce and Maverick streets.

The city budget, covering a period of 10 months, and amounting to $223,152, was adopted.

Plea for Curfew Law presented by Knox County Ministerial Association.

Voted to cover Lindsey Brook at the point where it passes the High School building.

Under ordinary circumstances the City Council plays its May engagements to empty seats, but this is not an ordinary year, and when the city fathers gathered around the horseshoe table last night they beheld a "gallery" which occupied the entire seating capacity, and overflowed into the corridor. It is not quite clear what caused this large attendance, particularly of women—but the night's proceedings ran such a wide gamut, that nobody could have felt neglected. The business was transacted with the utmost harmony. Twice only did the interest lag and this was on the second and third readings of the salary and appropriation resolves. City Clerk Keene put on extra speed as he waded through the dry details, but some of the women could not repress a yawn, and for the moment they were doubtless envying their fortunate sisters who were listening to the Nearerjazz concert.

The high spots of the City Council meeting have been alluded to in the introduction of this article. First on the program was the election of city officials not chosen at the sessions in March and April. Interest largely centered on the assessorship for which there had been four candidates, including G. K. Merrill, the Democrat whose term has expired. The contest gradually simmered down to Fred H. Sanborn and James F. Carver. An agreement had been reached before the meeting, for Mr. Carver received the appointment and unanimous confirmation. He is elected for three years.

Mrs. E. D. Spear was appointed and confirmed as a trustee of the Public Library.
The resignation of John H. Post, as patrolman, was accepted, and the Council proceeded to the election of his successor, Mayor Snow presenting the names of Harold W. Philbrook, Jesse Lincoff, Earl V. Chandler and George C. Simmons. The result:

	First Second	Ballot Ballot
Philbrook	2	4
Lincoff	2	1
Chandler	3	2
Simmons	2	1

Waiter J. Fernald was confirmed as deputy marshal, the position which he has so capably filled for a number of years.
The matter of reimbursing the police for temporary absence, on account of illness was left to the police committee.

"I think we should outline a policy and adhere to it," said Mayor Snow.

The City Council was officially informed by Alan L. Bird that the late ex-Mayor Edward A. Butler had made a bequest of $3000 to the city for the purchase and erection of a striking and illuminated clock, with the suggestion that it be placed in the Court House tower if arrangements can be made. Mr. Bird's communication was accompanied by one from City Solicitor E. C. Payson relative to the acceptance of the gift.

A SUIT OF BLUE is sure of Her approval. In fact there is any color that becomes you more?

This season it has the stamp of smartness. In addition to plain blues, different shades, here are many variations and mixtures of blue that are very attractive in color effects. Price $35, $39.50. Some have extra trousers. Special shirts in blue; neckwear too. Exclusive and new to decorate you. Straw hats too.

useless. They still have a reasonable tenure of life, but not suitable for the city's use and as such the city was entitled to sell them. As to their repurchase I would say that the city's funds are not too replete, yet humanity has a great claim, and I would suggest that the Council give the matter full consideration."

The matter was finally left to the City Council as a committee of the whole.

The report of the committee on Accounts and Claims showed the monthly roll of bills to have a total of $13,722.

Aldermen Ulmer and Duncan presented the following list of one-way streets under the summer traffic regulations:

School Street—One way going west to Post Office; two way going west from Post Office.
Spring Street—One way, going east.
Elm Street—One way, going east.
Oak Street—One way, going west.
Park Street—One way, going west.

Parking
Park Street—On both sides, west of white line.

Orient Street—North side.

Oak Street—North side.

Elm Street—South side.

School Street—North side, west of Post Office drive.

Limecock Street—Both sides, west of hydrant near Main street.

Tillson Avenue—East of Hotel, both sides.

Alderman Ulmer stated that there were some objection to the limits on Tillson Avenue and Park street.

"Practice is the only thing that will tell what is best," said Mayor Snow.

The rules could be adopted as police regulations, which could be modified. The committee might find other occasions where a better arrangement could be made, but it is necessary to have prompt action.

Alderman Richardson referred to the criticism which has been made about the speeding of fire apparatus on Main street, and intimated that there would be less trouble if motorists did not all race for the fire the moment alarm sounded.

"I think the alderman is right," said Mayor Snow. "As regards the speed of fire apparatus the chief assures me that it should not exceed 25 miles an hour on Main street during the rush hour. I think some of the complaints have been a little exaggerated."

The matter of moorings at the public landing was discussed. Alderman Holmes of the City Property committee reported that the harbor master had promised to give the matter prompt attention.

The committee on Fire Department reported adversely on the petition of Rev. H. E. White and others asking for a fire alarm box at the corner of Spruce and Maverick streets, and Alderman Richardson suggested that the district be provided with a number (54) by putting a wheel on the fire-alarm repeater which is to be installed at Central Fire Station.

Alderman Chase was insistent upon a box. He said the community was a congested one, made up of wooden houses, few of which had telephone with which to notify the fire station, and much valuable time would be lost in getting to the box at Bird's store or near Dr. W. M. Spear's residence.

Alderman Richardson admitted that the conditions were bad, and that there was necessity for a box, but had hoped that the assignment of a number and the use of a wheel at the fire station would solve the problem.

The order for a box, presented by Alderman Chase, finally had a passage.

A license was issued to the Dondis Amusement Co., owners of Strand Theatre.

City Clerk Keene read a communication from Samuel Blodner of Methuen, Mass., asking for a license

WHERE ARE WE AT?

A Pertinent Question In Regard To The Present School Controversy—Law May Be Invoked.

While the excitement relating to Rockland's school affairs appears to have subsided in a considerable measure, question still exists as to the legal status of the present school committee, and the legality of Supt. H. C. Hull's election. The faction which is opposing Supt. Hull makes no secret of its intention of invoking the law, probably through a bill in equity, asking for an injunction or restraining order.

Nobody is more anxious than Mayor Snow to have the validity of the school committee's acts threshed out. If the new charter is in error and the committee has been chosen illegally, he desires to have the matter remedied before grave complications ensue.

Intimation has been made, openly, that if Supt. Hull will resign, the members of the old school board will follow his example leaving the City Council free to ratify the present school committee as elected last March. Mayor Snow makes it very plain that he will be a party to no deal; also that if legal mistakes have been made in the election of either the school committee or Supt. Hull he desires to have them straightened out, and he has already taken steps to that end.

The belief that Supt. Hull was not legally elected is based on several grounds, none more conclusive, perhaps, than the result of the second ballot, which according to members present, showed five votes opposed to Mr. Hull's election, four in favor of it and one vote a blank.

The committee to receive, sort and count votes announced that 10 votes had been cast, and that six were necessary for choice. Those who contend that this was an illegal declaration of the ballot say that the blank vote should not be counted and that the number necessary to choice would consequently be five instead of six—in which event Mr. Hull would have been defeated.

Sustaining this contention is the well-known book on parliamentary law, known as Roberts' Rules of Order. On page 195 of that book is found paragraph 46 of Article VIII, which says in part: "All blanks are ignored as simply waste paper, and are not reported, the members who do not wish to vote adopting this method of concealing the fact."

On page 191 in the same article and paragraph appears this clause:

"When a quorum is present, a majority of votes cast, ignoring blanks, is sufficient for the adoption of any motion that is in order."

Had ballot No. 2 been declared legal it would have had the effect of defeating Mr. Hull, and should have been so declared, it is claimed. And in such event a third ballot could not have been taken without a motion to reconsider, made by one of the prevailing side, on the same day or the next day.

The public does not for a moment harbor thought that the school board intended to take any action prejudicial either to personal or community interests. With that fact in mind The Courier-Gazette hopes the matter can be adjusted from an entirely impersonal angle, with view only to what is legal and proper.

to establish a merry-go-round in this city, and run a few games of skill.

"We have plenty of games of skill now," said Alderman Ulmer. "I move we play ours and let Blodner stay where he is." And the board so voted.

The salary resolve had its final passage.

The appropriation resolve, or city budget, is made up for ten months in order to complete the calendar year, which, under the new charter, coincides with the municipal year. It carries a total of $223,152.11, itemized thus:

The City Council found itself confronted with an old acquaintance known as the Curfew Law, anxious for another trial.

Mayor Snow said he had received a number of requests for the adoption of such a law. The police force is limited and has much territory to cover, but under a curfew law the police would have power to send home any children they found in bad company. The mayor did not intend to be put on record at this time as favoring a curfew law or viewing it with disfavor.

Rev. W. S. Rounds appeared before the Council in behalf of the proponents.

"The question of the advisability of a curfew law was brought before the Knox County Ministerial Association," said Mr. Rounds, "and met

THE POLITICAL WORD

Charles D. Hillis of the Republican National Committee expressed the belief that Coolidge would be nominated on the first ballot with 1629 of the 1109 votes.

Mr. Hillis said that, at the meeting of the National Convention in Cleveland Wednesday, the feeling was general that the candidate for Vice President should be from the West, and that, likewise, the chairman of the committee on resolutions should come from that section.

"In all probability," said he, "a delegate from the West will place Coolidge in nomination. Early in January, I predicted that President Coolidge would have not less than 1000 delegates on the first ballot. Now I am prepared to say that he will be nominated on that ballot with at least 1629 votes, even if Senator Johnson carries the California primary. Senator La Follette will have 25 votes of the Wisconsin delegation and 13 votes of South Dakota."

Mr. Hillis said further that the committee on arrangements had agreed unanimously to the nomination of former Senator Burton of Cleveland, as temporary chairman of the convention. Senator Wadsworth of New York is to be the permanent chairman.

We are in accord with the general expression of regret that Gov. Cox should feel it best to decline to be a candidate for the U. S. Senate. His service as Governor of Massachusetts warrants the belief that he would represent that State in the national councils.

Railroads Industrials

Public Utilities

IN making up one's list of investments it is well to give a careful analysis of the daily quotations to determine the class of securities to buy—Railroad, Industrials or Public Utilities.

This is a good barometer to be guided by as it affords a fair comparison between the different classes from day to day.

There are many reasons why industrial securities maintain their high standard in these lists

1. They are engaged largely in the production of the necessities of life—that people must have.

2. They are not limited in the profits they make.

3. The world is their market, they are not confined to a small area for their output.

4. That while industries are partly dependent on railroads, neither Railroads or Public Utility Companies could operate profitably without industries.

The Sawyer Boot & Shoe Company's 7% Preferred Stock, with the participating feature to net 8%, makes an ideal industrial investment.

The Sons of Veterans Auxiliary has its regular circle supper Wednesday at G. A. R. hall. Mrs. Emma Douglass is chairman of the supper committee. Officers are requested to be present at the meeting as there will be initiation.

John J. Wardwell was in Machias last week and recaptured the three-masted schooner Frederick J. Lovatt, on which repairs have been made since the craft was in collision with the Steamship Everett in the Vineyard last September. The Lovatt will proceed light to Port Greville, N. S., to haul out for caulking, painting, etc.

"Patchy" Saville and Linwood Rogers will manage the next local boxing bout, which is to be held in the Arcade, May 28. One of the principals in the main bout will be Thomas Flanagan of Biddeford, who has met some of the best boys of today, without having the K. O. pinned onto him. Attempts are being made to have Freddie O'Brien of East Boston sent into the ring against him.

The tugboat Eugene Spofford, which is being built by the Camden Yacht Building & Marine Railway Co., is timbered out and partly ceiled and the shaft log has been installed. David Wardwell of Rockland is master builder of the craft, which was designed by another Rockland shipbuilder John J. Wardwell. The boat will become the property of the John L. Goss Corporation, Stonington.

Willard E. Overlock of Washington was in the city Saturday, accompanied by Dr. Sarborn of Waldoboro, and at Knox Hospital submitted to a "going" over which left him in a rather more cheerful frame of mind. An X-ray was taken of his injured leg, and he was assured by Dr. Walter M. Spear that he could return home for continued nursing. Here's hoping for the early recovery of The Courier-Gazette's valued friend and Washington correspondent.

The Penobscot Bay Dental Club held a free extracting clinic Saturday at Dr. Peaslee's office, Thomaston. This clinic was given under the auspices of the local Red Cross Nurses, who were assisted by Misses McLean and Rogers of Lewiston. Miss McLean, a former Rockland girl, is now doing dental hygiene work.

All members of the Rockland Veteran Firemen's Association are requested to meet at their hall 457 Main street Friday evening in full uniform, at 6:45. The Drum Corps also will be present and a parade will start from the hall, where the hand tub Albert R. Havenor will meet and proceed to Tillson avenue for a preliminary try-out. This will be the first time the tub has been out this season. Foreman Havenor plans to have it put in first class shape for the season's musters.

Parker F. Norcross entered upon his new duties yesterday as retail salesman for Albert C. Jones, the Apperson dealer for Knox and Waldo counties. Mr. Norcross will have charge of the retail sales, as Mr. Jones is the Maine representative on wholesale for Apperson Motors. This connection will allow Mr. Jones to devote his entire time to the wholesale end. Ray Hall, Hall's Garage, Damariscotta, has taken the agency for Apperson cars in Lincoln county. C. D. Young, a prominent lumber man in Lincoln county with a residence in Damariscotta, has recently taken delivery of an Apperson sedan.

Rev. James H. Gray, who was pastor of Pratt Memorial M. E. Church from 1915 to 1917, and who subsequently became presiding elder of the Rockland District of the Eastern Mission Conference, died Sunday at his home in Boothbay Harbor, aged 55 years. He was a native of Point Elgin, N. B. and graduated from the Boston University school of Theology. Rockland and Rockport were among his numerous pastorates. He was regarded as one of the strongest pastors who ever occupied the local Methodist pulpit, and was held in especially high esteem by all denominations. Ill health compelled him to retire from the superintendency two years ago. The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon in Boothbay Harbor.

Trawler Teal landed a cargo of fresh fish at Portland the last of the week, and in the parlance of the street it was "some" cargo, for it weighed out at 342,000 pounds. A Portland paper says: "She being loaded to her deck, the fish hold being plugged so tight that it was necessary to use some of her empty coal bunkers to take in the overflow. It being without question the biggest lot of fish ever landed by one vessel at this port. The bulk of the catch will be landed at Burnham & Morrill's where the steamer was docked, but after discharging a few thousand pounds of halibut and 20,000 pounds of mixed fish will go into the sheds of the Dirigo Fish Co. The catch was made on the Western Banks, where the fish this year seem to be found in greater plenty than ever before. Complaint is made that beam trawling is destructive to the fish species and without question considerable waste attends its operation, but the off shore fisheries show no falling off in the catch, although there is no disguising the fact the in shore fishermen do not find the fish as easily as in years gone by."

The Black and White minstrels, that was given by Rockport High School last Friday will be repeated in Union at Town hall Friday, May 9th.

The police are often called from their beats to answer the telephone gong, only to find that it is some child who wants to know the time of day. This is one form of annoyance; another is found in the multitude of calls which come in after a fire alarm, when the police themselves have all they possibly can attend to with their machine at the same time and they get away from him. Turning the corner of Spring and Main streets one of the horses fell and before he could get started again a hold-up of the pair had been made by Lyle E. Blackington. Turning the corner of Spring and Main streets one of the horses fell and before he could get started again a hold-up of the pair had been made by Lyle E. Blackington. Had the article made their getaway on Main street somebody would probably have been injured and property destroyed.

The solitary Vinhaven hit was made by Cassie in the 6th inning. Feenhan, as usual, distinguished himself at bat, making a home run and a double. The home run, technically was only a three-bagger, as the ball was imperfectly relayed back into the diamond.

Condon, the new backstop, was a busy individual, with 21 chances, on which he made but one misplay. The other Thomaston players did not have work enough to keep the chill off.

Davidson, the Vinhaven pitcher, had good speed, but rather a tendency to grove the ball. With better support, however, he would have held Thomaston to a much smaller tally.

Clever Rockland Pitcher Had 19 Strikeouts—Feenhan Fans 20 In Easy Victory Over Vinhaven.

I SAW RICH ELLIOT

At Saturday's game in Thomaston and the Senator were that look of complacency which loyal fans the world over are wont to wear when the home team is winning. Senator Elliot's specialties are business and politics, but he would instantly plead guilty to having a warm corner in his heart for athletic sports. I saw him reclining on the safe side of the catcher's fence, watching with unmistakable satisfaction as "Tippy" fanned an even score of the Island batsmen.—The Sporting Editor.

The case with which Thomaston High School has already defeated Lincoln Academy and Vinhaven, coupled with the report that Camden is weak in the box this season, makes it quite apparent that the pennant race in the Knox and Lincoln League is between Thomaston High and Rockland High—in other words, between Feenhan and Rising. The cold and rainy weather, scheduled for a league game until next week. The standing:

Thomaston 12, Vinhaven 0

When you write the word "Feenhan" you have written the full account of this game which took place on the Thomaston grounds Saturday afternoon. A word or two might be said about the chilly weather to be sure. The only lacking evidences of winter were snowdrifts and Aurora Borealis.

The cold and rainy weather did not seem to affect Feenhan's pitching arm, however, for he struck out 20 V's and allowed only one hit. Davidson was the only man to reach third, and there were but two other innings in which the Islanders saw first base.

GARDENS THAT PRODUCE RESULTS

The Amateur Gardener Is Lured Back To the Soil By Thoughts of Spring.

By Seth W. Shoemaker, Director, School of Agriculture, International Correspondence Schools, Scranton, Pa.

Gardening is a favorite pastime to many city dwellers and a source of considerable income to people in all walks of life.

Is your garden producing an income and better health for you? Have you ever thought of the possibility of making an attractive as well as a profitable garden in your backyard?

Many backyards will yield as much as $100.00 worth of vegetables in a season. Few gardens will yield less than $10 to $20 worth.

Perhaps equally as important, there is health to be dug out of the soil. The digging will produce an appetite and the results of intelligent digging will supply the means to satisfy the appetite.

There is nothing mysterious about this process and nothing especially difficult except the inclination to put a little "time and effort" into the work. With the minimum amount of the above condition of their soil, but many conditions that are considered unfavorable are not really so bad as they seem and it is more a question of adapting the soil to the vegetables or of planting the kinds of vegetables that will do well on the soil you have than it is to be discouraged in the matter.

In planting any garden, unquestionably the first thing to do is to start with a paper and pencil. Much time, some backache, and many heartaches will be avoided by simply making out a plan that may be systematically followed.

The beginner at least will be wise to confine his garden to paper for the first few days.

Gardening on paper merely consists in making a diagram of the garden to be, including those vegetables which you would like to have and which you perhaps will be able to grow with the best success.

The accompanying drawing illustrates a plan that may serve as a working basis for almost any home garden. It has been designed for a garden 50 feet by 90 feet that will be occupied during the season, and is arranged with necessary economy of the land in question. It may serve as a guide for a plot of any size.

After the plan has been made and the space arranged for the various crops, the varieties of each crop to be planted must be determined on. This is a very important step and will be discussed later on in this column.

ROCKPORT

William E. Murphy is attending Grand Lodge in Portland.

Mrs. Lillian Millman of Bath was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Cora Whitney, last week.

Mrs. R. A. Burns was at home from Bates College for the weekend. Mrs. Sarah Buzzell of Simonton spent Sunday with her sisters, Mrs. Nancy Tibbitt and Mrs. Annie Deane.

Mrs. O. E. Page returned Tuesday from Newton Center, Mass., where she has been spending the winter with her son, Rev. Arthur Page and family.

Mrs. Burleigh Feyer returned Saturday to West Somerville, Mass., after spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eben C. Crockett.

Miss Lovina McDermott has returned from Boston where she has been spending the winter and will be employed in E. H. Crie's during the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Sylvester of Camden were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berry Sunday.

Mrs. Annie Laurie Small, who has been confined to her home by illness, is reported to be improving, which is pleasing to her many friends.

Miss Madeline Jones of Rockland was the guest of Miss Katherine Roberts Sunday.

Rev. Arthur Page of Swanton, China, who is on a leave of absence, and has been spending the winter with his family in Newton Center, Mass., is a guest at the home of his mother, Mrs. O. E. Page on Spear street.

Mr. and Mrs. Page expect to return to China sometime in August. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robbins were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brann Sunday.

The minstrel performance given at Union hall, Friday evening, May 2, by the members of the Rockport High School assisted by local talent, was enjoyed by a large audience and was one of the best musical entertainments ever given in Rockport. The program follows: First Part—Interlocutor, Harry McDonald; Ends—Lowell Payson, Lloyd Rhodes, Ross Spear, Leon Poland, Huse Tibbitts and Francis Dow; musical numbers—Opening chorus, entire company, "My Jungle Bungalow"; Raymond Payson, "Old Plantation Moon"; Angie Welt, "I Didn't Ask, He Didn't Say, So I Don't Know"; Lowell Payson; "Chile Con Carne"; Marie Brann; "I'm Just Too Mean To Cry"; Reta Packard; "As Long As I Have You"; Francis Dow; "My Sweetie's Sweetest Than That"; Helen Clancy; "The Pirate Bold"; Huse Tibbitts; "It Ain't Goin' To Rain No Mo'"; Leon Poland; "Hula Lo"; Ross Spear; finale by entire company, assisted by "De Honey Dwarf Band." Second Part—Celebration of Coon Town Wedding; Character Song, Mrs. Loring Phillips; Song, "The Bunch of Grapes"; Meservy; clog dance, Walter Nutt; finale by Assembly Chorus. Miss Charlotte Cross was the accompanist of the evening, with cornet parts by Cleveland Whittier. The chorus was strong and well supported by Miss Cross who deserves special mention for her able support, as does also Mrs. Ruth Sorenson as musical director. Mrs. Ruth and Miss Brann were especially good in their solo parts as well as Miss Clancy in her song and dance, and Miss Packard in her song, "I'm Just Too Mean To Cry." Raymond and Lowell Payson received hearty applause and Leon Poland in his song, "It Ain't Goin' To Rain No Mo'." Several times the chorus was recalled several times on the program which was very popular. The saxophone solo, by Master Ashley Nutt in costume, Harry McDonald as interlocutor were good. The exact proceeds at his part in a very easy manner. The entire evening was a success and was exceptionally good and performed this writing were not known but it is expected that they will clear about $100 and those who took part and had the affair in charge are to be congratulated for its success.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pittman of Salem, Mass., visited his brother, B. A. Pittman, this week, also his father, W. H. Pittman on Appleton Ridge. The trip was made by auto.

As the result of his season's work Frank Perry has the pelts of more than 50 muskrats on exhibition.

Ed. Richards was a guest over Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perry, returning to his work in Camden Monday.

So far as has been observed by the writer, C. A. Towle is the first in the neighborhood to have done any planting, which includes sweet corn. If damp weather is favorable for its sprouting it surely ought to be sending forth a sprout here and there.

The gay and festive fish peddler is again with us, and fresh cod and haddock tickle the palate after a term of months spent chewing the dry, but delicious codfish, and even the ill-tiptian smelt has a place on the bill of fare all its own.

May night came, but not ushered in as usual by a May ball to the disappointment of many.

The annual meeting of the Community Association was held in Community hall Thursday evening, preceded by a delightful fish chowder supper served under the direction of Mrs. J. C. Melvin, assisted by Mrs. Fred Buzzell, Mrs. Ernestine Buzzell and Mrs. H. C. Annis served. While the tables were being prepared the members were delightedly entertained with vocal selections by Mrs. Cody with Mrs. Tullinbloom at the piano. The committee in charge wish to thank all those who provided food and material for the supper.

The midweek public dances will be resumed beginning next Thursday night and thereafter every Wednesday night. Music will be furnished by Dean's orchestra. Billy Dean has lately acquired a new piano player in the person of Mr. Kenney of Providence, R. I. and he is said to be a wizard. The usual Saturday night community dances will also be continued, as heretofore. Ice cream and wafers will be on sale.

PULPIT HARBOR

Capt. Solomon Parsons is getting about 200 pounds of fish a day from one tub of trawl.

Murray Stone of Camden was in town for the weekend.

Will Sampson, Augustine Whitmore, Herbert Parsons and William Ladd are painting their boats and getting them ready for the summer season.

Edward Dorr who has been caretaker of the beam trawlers that are moored in Wooster creek has given up the job. A Mr. Stanley of Swan's Island has charge at present.

Rodney Hunt and Joseph Belmont are painting the floats and landing tugs at the Norton cottage. Capt. Herbert Cooper is putting the boats in prime order. F. A. Joyce who is caretaker, is doling things up in grand style getting ready for the family due to arrive about June first. Mr. Morrow who has leased the cottage for the season will arrive about the middle of next month.

Martin Joyce who is driving team hauling pulp wood at Vinalhaven, called on his father, F. A. Joyce, Sunday.

VINALHAVEN

Mrs. John Carter and daughter Abbie of Rockland arrived Friday and are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Almond Miller.

The Maine Farmers' Supply Company has started business with a small crew which they expect to increase right away. They have had an unusually large sale on chicken shells this season. Schooner Ella E. Dora, Capt. Fred Wood of Orland, has been engaged to furnish material for the work.

Vinalhaven High played Thomaston High at Thomaston, Saturday, with a score of 12 to 0 in favor of Thomaston. Quite a party accompanied them in Capt. Edward Greenleaf's motor boat.

Walker Field has been in town the past week.

Leah Arrey and Muriel Chilles were in Rockland Saturday.

Lyford Ross and sister Elizabeth, visited their father, James Ross, at Knox Hospital Saturday.

Sgt. Galahad Corps of Girl Reserves will present their minstrel show May 23. The performance will consist of three parts—one, minstrels; part two, musical numbers and readings; part three, a one act play entitled, "Carrotty Nell." It will be given at Memorial hall.

Misses Lida and Rita Greenleaf visited Rockland Saturday and also witnessed the ball game at Thomaston.

The American Legion had a large attendance at the May Ball given in Memorial hall Thursday night, music by Lane's Orchestra.

Franklin Square House, Boston, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Joyce.

Mrs. M. G. Perry who spent the past week in Boston, returned home Saturday morning.

C. E. Mills arrived last week having taken the greater part of the winter in Los Angeles with his son, Dr. Lloyd Mills.

The concert given by the North Haven Band at the church Friday night was a success in every way. Besides the numbers by the band the school children sang in a very acceptable manner. A trio by Misses Alma Duncan, Florence Smith and Louisa Bray was a pleasing addition, also the mandolin and guitar number by Miss Alice Stone and Rev. M. G. Perry. The boys received a generous amount in their collection.

Caldwell hall will open to the public May 16 with a grand May ball. Elimination dances will be one of the features.

Mrs. A. B. Cooper will have a collection on sale Saturday for Mothers' Day.

There will be special music at the church next Sunday and in the evening Rev. M. G. Perry will give an illustrated lecture on "Norway."

SWAN'S ISLAND

Swan's Island, Capt. Maynard Herrick, is again in commission and buying lobsters at Mackerel Cove.

Most of the fishing boats at Mackerel Cove and at Joyce's beach have been repaired and launched in the water. The gale was heavy and damage would have been much greater had not the local fishermen seen the accident early. They went to the rescue and hauled the boat out on the shore.

The Parkhurst Fisheries Company of Gloucester has leased the fishstand formerly owned by John and Stanley. The gale was heavy and damage would have been much greater had not the local fishermen seen the accident early. They went to the rescue and hauled the boat out on the shore.

Walter Robinson and Maynard Robinson, both of Boothbay Harbor, visited the island and went to Frenchboro and thence to Bar Harbor where they will sail a boat back to Boothbay Harbor.

Miss Beatrice Stockbridge, one of the honor students of Rockland High School, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seth G. Stockbridge at their home in Atlantic.

Harry Sager and family of Old Harbor are preparing to move to Atlantic where they will occupy the house of Merton Staples.

Work of eliminating the dangerous turn in the highway near the house of Capt. Roscoe Kent is well underway. The roadway will be straightened and considerably widened.

Since the advent of the automobile it has been a very dangerous corner. Hanging May baskets is now in vogue.

Andrew C. Smith has taken over the management of the general store formerly conducted by Clarence Smith.

George Smith and Mr. Daggett of Ellsworth and Capt. Carter of Bar Harbor have been business visitors to the island.

Mrs. Mary Stanley who some years ago used to be postmaster at Minturn, whose home is now in New London, Connecticut, and her daughter, Mrs. Ellen Bridges, also from New London, have been guests of Mrs. Hattie Stanley at Old Harbor.

Mrs. Bridges has returned home, and Mrs. Stanley plans to spend the summer on the island.

Walter Stanley and family of Minturn have moved to Boston.

Capt. and Mrs. Emory Joyce have returned from Portland where they spent the winter. Capt. Emory is now busy getting summer cottages in order.

Haddock is plentiful in the bay though the fishermen here as elsewhere are hampered by the scarcity of bait.

Captain and Mrs. Butman of Old Harbor made the trip from Portland to Swan's Island in a motor boat, stopping one night in Rockland.

The steamer Vinalhaven remained at her dock at Swan's Island all day Thursday, on account of the storm and there was no mail to or from the island.

Smelts are running in the brooks.

A FEW CHOWDERS

THERE is no more substantial, warming dish to serve on a cold night than some form of chowder. It may be corn, fresh fish, clam, or salt codfish; all are appealing when well prepared. A few fresh clams are to be obtained the following will be enjoyed:

Clam Chowder.—Clean, pick over one quart of clams, using a cupful of cold water; drain, reserving the liquor and heat to the boiling point, then strain. Chop fine the hard parts of the clams, cut pork into small pieces, using a one and one-half inch cube of fat salt pork to try out in an iron frying pan; add one sliced onion, fry for five minutes. Parboil four cupfuls of potatoes cut into cubes for five minutes in boiling salted water; drain and put a layer of the potatoes in the bottom of the chowder kettle, add the chopped clams, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour, add the remaining potatoes, sprinkle again with salt and pepper and add two cupfuls of boiling water. Cook ten minutes, add a quart of milk, the soft part of the clams, and four tablespoonsful of butter. Boil three minutes, then add eight milk crackers split and soaked in cold milk to moisten. Reheat in clam water and add a tablespoonful of butter and flour cooked together. Add to the chowder just as it is ready to serve as the clam liquor has a tendency to curdle the milk.

Loyster Chowder.—Remove the meat from a two pound lobster and cut into small dice. Cream two tablespoonsful of butter, add the liver of the lobster (the green part) and two milk crackers; scald a quart of milk with a slice of onion, remove the onion and add milk to the lobster. Cook the body bones ten minutes in water to cover, strain and add to the chowder. Season with salt and pepper and serve at once.

Corn Chowder.—Take a can of corn, four cupfuls of diced potatoes, one and one-half inch of salt pork, one sliced onion, four cupfuls of milk, eight crackers, three tablespoonsful of butter and salt and pepper to taste. Combine as above. (© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

THE STAFF OF LIFE

Many Ways of Making It Are Found In Many Lands.

"Though bread may pose as the pancake, the scone, the tortilla, the carta di musica, and the biscuit in various countries, getting the where-withal to buy it or the preparation of it is of necessity one of the chief interests of man and woman in every clime—even though in the South Sea Islands it grows on trees," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"The Arab woman digs a pit in the sand and builds a hot fire in it. Then she rakes away the embers and plasters her dough on the hot sides, when the bread is done, she picks it off with a pair of tongs.

Arabia's "Wrapping Paper" Bread
"The deliciously crisp Persian bread which is bought in enormous flat, pancake-like sheets, sometimes 20 inches long is prepared in a number of ways, but that customarily seen for sale in the capital city of Persia is baked in large ovens in which the dough is spread out on great piles of red-hot pebbles. And in older days there was no profit-making in the staff of life in the Persian kingdom. A baker who left the straight and narrow path of his just profits was thrust into his own oven and nicely browned.

"In some parts of the Arab kingdom the husband does the household marketing and after having purchased various necessary commodities, he then buys a large sheet of native bread, which is of doughlike pliability, and rolls up his purchases in it.

"The Egyptian baker makes 'puff-balls' because he wishes to get the largest loaf out of the smallest amount of flour. One writer describes it as a hole wrapped in a crust. The dough is rolled out as thin as a pie crust and the edges of two pieces joined all around; the heat does the rest.

In Norway "The Bread Hangs High"
"The Ecuadorean woman follows a very interesting old custom. She bakes bread in the shape of people and animals for All Saints Day.

"The Sardinian housewife has a big baking day once every week. Flour is kneaded in large earthenware bowls and rolled very thin on a table that is so low that the cook must kneel before it. Nearly every home has its own flour mill made of black lava and fashioned almost like those unearthed at Pompeii and Herculaneum. The woman performs the whole process of cleaning and grinding the wheat, sifting the flour, and baking the bread. She uses very little yeast and her baking must be done to a turn because the supply must last for a week. ## THOMASTON

Mr. and Mrs. George Gilchrist who spent the winter in Florida, were in town Saturday.

Maynard Shaw and Miss Alice Cotter of Lewiston were guests of Mrs. Henry Shaw Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. J. E. Walker will return Wednesday after several weeks absence in Brooklyn and Hyde Park.

Baseball at Thomaston Saturday resulted in two victories for the home team. Thomaston vs. Vinalhaven, 12-0; Thomaston 2nd team vs. Tenants Harbor, 4-3. Thomaston High will play Rockport Independents at Thomaston tomorrow.

Alyne Peabody has offered his bowling alley for sale and plans to carry on a real estate business. He has listed the Bunker blacksmith shop and property on Beechwood street.

Cap. and Mrs. E. L. Montgomery who have been spending the winter in Shelter Island, N. Y., are expected home Thursday morning.

Village carrier service is very popular and is on the increase. New patrons are being taken on frequently.

Rev. R. H. Short and H. B. Shaw went to North Haven Monday to attend the Lincoln Baptist Association.

The Mission Circle of the Baptist church will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. E. P. Starrett.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Strout went to Brunswick Saturday to visit their son Alfred, who is a student at Bowdoin College. They returned back Sunday.

A quiet wedding ceremony was performed May 4, at the Baptist parsonage, when Miss Doris Winocap of Warren was united in marriage with George A. Ronquist of Vinalhaven, by Rev. R. H. Short. After the ceremony the young couple returned to Warren.

Mrs. Cyrus Newbert and son Russell of Gardner visited Mrs. Newbert's sister, Mrs. E. K. Wincham, back Sunday.

William Tarbox returned to New York Monday.

Thurman Sidelinger who has worked at steamfitting at the prison has returned to his home in Minot.

James L. Peyer is very ill of pneumonia. He is 60 years old.

Vernard Achorn, Raymond Young, Stephen Barry and Stanley Kellogg who represented T. H. S. in the track races at Orono Saturday did not return as victors in the half mile and mile runs, but they did have a great time.

Anson Bucklin, who has been out several weeks on account of sickness, resumed business Monday morning.

Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Peaslee and Mrs. Marian Shrader will motor to Portland today.

The Thomaston Academy which stood out so conspicuously has quite lost its identity in the structure now termed the High School building.

A catalogue of the names and students of the Academy dated April 15, 1857, contains the names of many who have been influential in town as well as school affairs. The board of trustees consisted of M. R. Ludwig, president; A. J. Fernald, secretary; Capt. Oliver Jordan, treasurer; Hon. John Hedges, Hon. William Singer, Hon. Alwood Levensaler, John D. Barnard, Esq., Albert P. Gould, Esq., Hon. Joshua Patterson, William C. Burgess and Isaac F. Chapman. The instructors were A. K. P. Knowlton, A. B. principal; Miss Mary A. McGuire, assistant and H. M. Byron, teacher of music and piano.

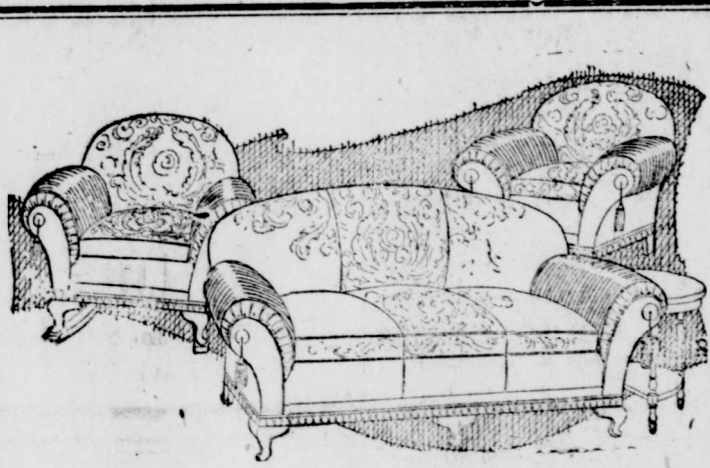

The students were principally from Thomaston. Other places that contributed were Brooklyn, Union, Appleton, Warren, Nantucket, Mass., Rockland, South Thomaston, St. George, Cushing, Belfast, Jefferson and Topham.

Of those whose names appear in the catalogue the following are known to be living: Mary J. Watts, Alfred C. Strout, Lucy Woodhull, Aroline Leonard, Antoinette D. Jordan, William J. Tobey and Sarah E. Morton.

Other surviving members of the Academy whose names do not appear in the catalogue, yet who were students are Mary T. Levensaler, Sarah G. Fales and A. M. Morrison of Meduen, Mass. A communication from Mr. Morrison recently appeared in the Courier-Gazette.

A letter from Mrs. Abbie F. Rice who is visiting friends in Flushing, N. Y., is so interesting that it will be well placed in the columns of the Courier-Gazette. It is noteworthy as showing the modern way in which visitors are now being entertained.

Mrs. Rice writes "I noticed in Thomaston items of The Courier-Gazette that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson were in Thomaston the 23rd. Two weeks ago Sunday I attended the First Presbyterian Church in New York City with Charles F. Flint and we four, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, C. R. Flint and myself, occupied a pew together while listening to the service of splendid music and a scholarly sermon by Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick. The Gibsons have beaten me to Maine opportunity of listening in the way of preaching on Sunday and addresses at other times by nearly midnight to get the benefit of the judges on the debate between Dr. Stratton of the Calvary

Baptist Church and Dr. Potter (Presbyterian) held in Carnegie hall, Manhattan, Subject, Resolved "That Jesus was entirely human and not incarnate deity." Every word came to our hearing as distinctly as if we had been in presence of speakers, and bursts of applause were frequent in which we sometimes joined. The strong Baptist man won out on negative side as we felt sure (in listening to both sides) he would. This radio set with its "loud speaker" has brought to us sermons by such preachers as Dr. G. Campbell Morgan of London, Dr. Stiles of St. Thomas' Episcopal, Manhattan, Dr. Codman, Congregational, Brooklyn and Dr. Kellogg, Presbyterian, Manhattan. Then we attended the Continental Congress in Washington by radio. Heard introductory address and presentation of speakers by the President General of D. A. R., followed by addresses by President Coolidge, Ambassador J. C. G. Howard and Gen. Pershing. It was a wonderful evening.

CAMDEN STRAND THEATRE

Thursday and Friday nights will be the red hot nights in Camden for the American Legion Minstrels will be playing at the Opera House. There is little question that this will be the fitting climax of a season of extra fine shows. There are 50 trained voices in the chorus and the end men have a great line. There are also vaudeville acts in addition. Tickets are now on sale.

The whist party which was given by the Friends in-Council at Masonic hall Friday afternoon for the benefit of the School Health Fund netted a substantial sum for that worthy object. The party was a social success as well. There was a dainty coffee and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Wallace Easton was called to Stoughton last week by the death of her mother, Mrs. Amos Small.

Miss Julia M. Amis who has been spending the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Amis, returned Saturday to Boston.

This year Miss Amis is teaching in Needham High School.

Mrs. Charles Rice is seriously ill at her home on Alden street.

Miss Bessie E. Benson has gone to Bangor for a visit of several weeks with her uncle, Dr. Amos E. Small.

J. H. Hodgman as delegate and Mrs. J. A. Brewster as alternate from the Congregational church, leave this morning for Skowhegan to attend the State convention of Congregationalists to be held in that town May 7 and 8.

Mrs. Eugene W. Herick has returned to her home in Dexter after a two weeks visit with her mother, Mrs. H. S. Upton.

Carl Carlson of Lincolnville has returned from Knox Hospital where he underwent a serious operation and is convalescing at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Charles Atkins.

Masonic assembly Wednesday evening of this week. Dean's orchestra.

The Legion Minstrels Thursday and Friday of this week. Dance the second night. Marston will furnish music.

David Stewart spent the weekend in Waterville, the guest of his brother.

D. J. Dickens has bought a new Chevrolet touring car and W. G. Williams a new Dodge.

Mrs. Peter McGrath arrived from Boston Saturday and will spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Ritterbush.

Mrs. Lottie Pitcher has returned home after a ten days' visit in Portland.

Rev. and Mrs. R. H. Hayden, Mrs. C. O. Montgomery and Mrs. Julia Burgess were dinner guests in Rockland of Jarvis C. Perry last evening, followed by attendance on the Nyberg concert.

Wonderful values in coats and dresses, just arrived at Cutler-Cook Co., Rockland.—adv.

EMPIRE THEATRE

In "The Dancing Queen" Universal attraction now being shown in the Empire Theatre, Herbert Rawlinson, co-starring with Alice Lake, does his fighting mentally. Hereafter Rawlinson has appeared in a number of Universal screen successes which called for demonstration of real stic prowess on his part. Irving Cummings directed from the Saturday Evening Post story, "Clay of Calina," by Calvin Johnson.

A western picture and a scenic will complete the program.

The attractions for Wednesday and Thursday will be Bryant Washburn and Alice Lake in "The Love Trap".

The entire story is one of compact character. The action is supposed to take place in three days. The denouement is thrilling and the mystery well sustained. The love element, too, is most effective but in every way this is a "different" picture. There is a strong vein of comedy supplied to balance the drama.—adv.

Fannie Hurst's startling matrimonial ideas have reached the screen at last. They will be visualized Wednesday and Thursday nights when "Daring Youth" will be presented by a cast of such popular stars as Norman Kerry and Bob Daniels.

The well-known authoress Fannie Hurst, contented, at the time of her marriage, that too much familiarity caused marriage to lose its romance. As a result she and her husband keep separate establishments and make appointment with each other over the telephone. This scheme is worked out in the current attraction at the Strand, but probably with far different results than Miss Hurst had ever anticipated.

In the screen version romance, instead of remaining fresh with absence, ripens into jealousy. The various incidents leading up to the final climax and denouement furnish one of the most interesting sequences ever offered screen patrons.—adv.

PARK THEATRE
Today will be the last showing of Mae Murray in "The Fashion Row." Miss Murray's dual role, besides presenting her as a droll little Russian peasant girl, gives her opportunity for display of a hundred magnificent gowns worn by Olga Farnova, the Russian tragedienne adored by Broadway.

For the opening scenes of "Fashion Row" it was necessary to build at the Hollywood studio an actual theatre, that will be recognized as an exact reproduction of a New York playhouse.

Dan Mason in "Pop-Tuttles Tacties" and the International News completes the bill.

Revising the noted stage success of 1883, "Goodman Blind," which opens a two-day engagement at the Park Wednesday. Retaining the dramatic power of the original, which opened in London and later, came to Wallack's theatre in New York, the screen version is said to surpass the stage play in the realism made possible by the removal of stage limitations.

In the leading role first played by Wilson Barrett, co-author of the play with Sir Henry Arthur Jones, later by Kyrie Bellew in New York, is David Butler, the young Fox star who has distinguished himself in the film world in a period of two years.

Clayde Rubeck has the dual role of Annie Robe, then the "sweetheart of Broadway"—adv.

Patterson, at Ingraham Hill. The Duncans enjoy Danvers very much and Mr. Duncan was pleased to receive an offer to remain another year as head of the commercial department at a substantial increase in salary. He is a graduate of the Rockland High School and was connected with the commercial departments of the local school and Bangor High before making his present satisfactory connection at Danvers.

The Harmony Club will have a rehearsal Wednesday night with Miss Bernice Richardson, Claremont street.

Benjamin Wiggins has returned from New York.

Owing to the mock trial Thursday evening for the members of Edwin Library Relief Corps there will be no public supper but a picnic supper instead. Mrs. Mary B. Cooper is to be prosecuting attorney and Clara Curtis the counsel for defense. The case to be tried is that of Miss Ella Day, whom the prosecuting attorney accuses of having a "still" in her possession. The judge is Mrs. Margaret Paladino. A great deal of interest is being shown and it is hoped the counsel for defense will leave no stone unturned to clear the defendant.

The May meeting of the Methodist Women's Foreign Missionary Society will be held at the home of Mrs. C. E. Merritt, 104 Pleasant street, Thursday afternoon at 2:30. Mrs. Mary Perry Rich will have charge of the program and Mrs. Leroy Chatto will conduct the mystery questions.

LADY KNOX CHAPTER
Daughters of the American Revolution Hold Their Annual Meeting.

Mrs. Hester Chase's charming Talbot avenue residence was yesterday afternoon the scene of a delightful meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution, as the Lady Knox Chapter closed for the season.

The business, literary and musical program was followed by delicious refreshments served by the hostesses, Mrs. Cross, Miss Cochran and Mrs. Chase.

Mrs. Ethel Hayden of Camden extended an invitation, which was accepted, for June 2, for an afternoon of bridge and mah jong at her home, the new rectory, to be preceded by a luncheon at Green Gables. A picnic flag day will be held at Mrs. Chase's farm. The following officers were elected for the coming year:

Regent—Mrs. Mary B. Cooper. Vice Regent—Mrs. Mary Perry Rich. Secretary—Mrs. Hester Chase. Treasurer—Miss Kitty Coburn. Registrar—Mrs. Anna J. Thorndike.

Historian—Mrs. Mabel Sherman. Auditor—Mrs. Lucie B. Walsh.

The chapter voted to continue gifts to the Knox Hospital and to replace flags on Revolutionary soldiers' graves at the cemetery.

Miss Thorndike favored the chapter with an interesting reading from State Librarian Dunnack's Maine book, "The First Naval Battle of the Revolution."

The musicale included two vocal solos, "The False Prophet" and "Miss Spring" by Miss Adelaide Cross; three selections "When You Are Truly Mine," "The Berceuse from Jocelyn" (encore), and "Woodland Dance" by Miss Lucy Marsh and Miss Adelaide Cross, with Miss Marion Marsh at the piano; and violin and piano selections by Misses Elizabeth and Alberta Knight.

The program by these talented young women was highly enjoyed.

The picnic committee for the season will comprise Mrs. Eva Wisner, Mrs. Mabel Sherman and Mrs. Mary Cooper.

WHAT THE WOMEN FOLKS ARE TO LOOK AT THIS SEASON.

Blouses still show a good deal of the Chinese feeling, in design and in trimming detail. This applies both to the long tunic styles and the short overblouse. The peasant sleeve, gathering into a narrow wristband, is a new note, coming as it does in the wake of the short sleeves, and the sleeveless blouse. Jabots continue to touch the high spots of the blouse mode, and the scarf collar is a detail that becomes increasingly important.

The Very Last Word

The satin suit is the last word in the two-piece combination. It is seen in strictly tailored development, and again with soft touches, like collar and cuffs of cream colored lace. Pippings of red are used to enliven the black satin suit, with the inevitable black and red buttons and possibly a red trimmed narrow belt, to accentuate the color scheme. These suits are seen with the three-quarter or longer jacket, as well as with the hip length coat. Odd as it may sound, a silk coat trimmed with frills of white lace on collar and sleeves is smart and distinctive looking. Lace trimming for coats and suits is a logical outcome of the lace vogue in general.

Flannel Capes For Summer

An innovation in light summer wraps is a smart little cape of flannel. This tailored in light or dark colors and collared with fur. In the higher-priced lines alpaca is gaining favor, plaids being particularly smart, as well as two-tone checks. Interesting details in sports wear are the use of buttons as trimming, and the introduction of seals as a relief from the much-used monogram. They are being seen more and more. Belts are being seen more and more, and appear to be getting wider. Some are placed in back only.

Black Satin and Gold Kid

That one item of dress influences another is certain. More and more is the costume idea developing. Due mention should be made of the growing importance of the combination of black satin and gold kid. We first noticed it in hats where a band of gold kid, a rosette, or even quills of gold kid filled the function of adornment on a black satin chapeau. Next in line came the black satin or patent leather slipper piped in gold, to which combination gloves also fell heir, combining black kid with gold pyramid inserts in the cuffs. The extravagance having been dealt with the next partook in the complete costume idea when the black satin coat came into being. This coat depends on a restricted use of gold kid in a tiny bordering scallop and a bird motif for its trimming.

Scarfs For All Hours

Scarfs of all fabrics swing merrily on the shoulders of women in spite of their representation in every phase of life. Women adhere more and more closely to them, there being a different kind of scarf for each occasion.

To be smart in the street, one's throat must be muffled in the gayest printed affair which is wound around the throat, both ends hanging frontward underneath the coat. This is either the mannish tallie or the ensemble costume.

When it comes to formal afternoon wear either the dress wears a scarf of its own fabric or selects a contrasting medium of softly striped, plaided or flowered chiffon. In the evening, every gown must needs trail a matching scarf edged in marabou or ostrich. The only alternative is a shawl or matching ostrich boa.

Roman Stripes Rule

Roman stripes continue their gay and luminous race. Daily we find new adherents to their creed, the latest being Shetland sweaters and scarfs striped in the softest pastel shades. Worn with the soft colored flannel skirt, the effect is charming. Belts, which are rapidly gaining momentum, give full recognition to the Roman striped craze in adopting brightly striped ribbons for their newest medium and using leather and a buckle as fastening. Again bags decide on stripes for their center motif, bordering the silk with colored kid or leather for both practical and decorative purposes. Other eye-lopes prefer the striping throughout, omitting the leather altogether, while on others, merely a striped band appears on the black silk or leather. The newest five to six foot scarf in exclusive shops uses Roman striped or plaided chiffon as fabric.

Wearing The Right Shoe

The right shoe for the right costume is the motto of the well dressed. The advent of roller-skates revives the use of calf, especially in tan shades, for oxfords—with real or imitation lacing—boogie shoes, perforated pumps, one or two-strapped

White and red is a world beater for a striking combination. In fact, the old hunting scenes of England are to be reproduced, insofar as the colors worn are concerned. Instead of the red coat and white "pants" of the English huntsman, the summer girl may adopt a red jacket, a white skirt, a black hat and black suede shoes, and be in good form for an outing at either a seaside or a mountain resort. If one hesitates to go the limit in a combination of red and white, it is permissible to adopt a white dotted Swiss for summer wear, but the dots must be of red. The accessories must of course, be red, but white has first call, insofar as area is concerned. Dry Goods Economist.

WOMAN'S EDUCATIONAL CLUB

Fritz Kreisler, says that "This is a period of interpretation rather than of creation. There are many fine artists, great artists. I can think of no other period when there was such an abundance of really great talent. I think the young violinists are remarkable. I am not sure that composers and vocalists, but our composers are not keeping pace with them. There has been an after-war reaction, but it is not a renaissance. The results of the war have been almost as disastrous as the struggle itself. I think the best thing is to wait instead of creating it. But we can't be too pessimistic after all. If we fought up, there were many years between masterpieces in the past. They didn't come one after the other. We look back at them, and they seem to have come naturally for five years or so don't come. If a few years from now a great masterpiece should appear we would not talk about the barren years between; we would remember only the thing that had actually been produced. I am not pessimistic, but I do believe that there will be a change, that a period of creation will come."
