THREE TIMES A WEEK

CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT
Rockland, Aug. 30, 1924.
I, Frank S. Lynde, who on oath declares that he is president of the office of the Rockland Publishing Co., and that of the issue of The Courier-Gazette of Aug. 28, 1924, was printed a total of 6,337 copies.

Before me, FRANK B. MILLER, Notary Public.
Take no thought saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed? But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matthew 6:31, 33.

Coolidge Philosophy and Doctrine

"Statutes must appeal to more than material welfare. Wages won't satisfy, but they never so large, nor houses; nor lands; nor coupons, though they fall thick as the leaves of autumn. Man has a spiritual nature. Touch it, and it must respond as the magnet responds to the pole."

PATTANGALL'S SOLE ISSUE

The people of Knox County are intelligent people. They know when Mr. Pattangall tells them the platform that the Klan is the sole issue in the present campaign that he is declaring, purely for partisan political effect, a thing that is not true. Mr. Pattangall himself knows that it is not true, but he is an exceedingly clever gentleman and he hopes by casting in the eye of his hearers this dust of a false "issue" to blind the vision of an occasional voter when he shall go to mark his ballot in the polling booth. Mr. Pattangall naturally desires to be elected Governor of Maine, an ambition that can be realized only as a great number of Republicans shall forsake their own party and vote for him—an unthinkable thing. In this momentous year when the Republican men and women of Knox County purpose to do their part in electing Calvin Coolidge and Gen. Dawes, we much misjudge them if they shall allow that purpose to be in any degree frustrated by voting to elect Mr. Pattangall Governor of Maine.

Next week will be staged that interesting event at the Country Club, the annual contest for the Cole Trophy, the winner of which has awarded to him the glory of beholding his name engraved upon the huge silver cup, to be admired by generations of golfers who shall come after him. The names at present thereon displayed are five in number—N. E. Cook Sholes, David H. Buffum L. E. Wardwell, Harry F. Ross and Victor P. Hall—the heroic victors of successive years, to which is now to be added a sixth name that shall issue out of next week's engagements. The arching blue of the skies overhead, the velvet green of the fairways underfoot, the heat of the sun tempered by breezes that alternately waft themselves from the background of mountain and the sparkling waters of the bay—here is the ideal setting that the Rockland Country Club furnishes for the exercise of the ancient and royal game, and may the best man win in it.

Hitherto conversation upon that cheerful and enduring topic, the weather, has held to the conviction that on the surface of Mars the temperature ran so low as that living there with the thermometer far below freezing point must involve high discomfort, but observations at Flagstaff establish the fact that the red planet is habitable with a thermometer running at 48 degrees. This means that when communication is established, as it is ultimately bound to be, we shall need to take along our semi-heavy wraps. It is interesting to note that this heat problem was solved through an instrument so delicate that it measures accurately the heat of a candle one hundred miles away. So astonishing are the achievements of modern science.

George Bernard Shaw in adding to his morose views of the world in general an attack upon American movies has as usual over-stressed the point, and yet he said some things that all of us can see the force of—this, for example:

"We shall soon have to sit ten minutes at the beginning of every reel to be told who developed it, who fixed it, who dried it, who provided the celluloid, who sold the chemical, and who cut the author's hair."

The automobiles have taken toll of the gravel-top streets about the city, filling them with numerous depressions large and small, that make travel over them an exceedingly bumpy process. It is both a difficult and expensive problem to deal with and will doubtless continue to be until some more permanent method of treatment can be adopted.

The heart stirs as one reads of the loss of the bark Wanderer in Tuesday's gale, driven ashore at Buzzards Bay, the last of the old square-rigged whalers. She had just been equipped to go upon a final voyage after whales. So piece by piece disappear the craft about which are woven the strands of romance.

With British unemployment jumped to a total of a million and a quarter we can scarcely look upon that country as yet very far recovered from the great war which theoretically ended six years ago.

LA FOLLETTE LOSING GRIP

Not Nearly As Strong Now As He Was Three Months Ago, Political Observers Say.

A tremendous swing of sentiment from La Follette early in June to Coolidge in August was reported to President Coolidge Wednesday as having been demonstrated by two polls of the same persons conducted in the Central and Northwestern States. John Barrett, formerly director of the Pan-American Union, came down from his old home at Grafton, Vt., to give this word to the President.

This was one of the busiest days the President had since his coming up to his old home for a rest. Alva B. Johnson, formerly president and now chairman of the board of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, had a brief chat with Mr. Coolidge, and declared that business prospects were excellent. Enlarged buying power on the part of farmers already has been shown, he said.

The money to be loaned Germany by American private capital, Mr. Johnson declared, will remain in the United States, being used to buy manufactured products. "We may survey the business outlook with entire confidence," said Mr. Johnson. "Fundamental conditions are sound and gradual improvement is taking place, which is much more desirable than boom or sudden spurt, which might be overdone and bring about a reaction. Prices of agricultural products are favorable. Wheat, corn, pigs, cotton, wool, in fact all the products of the soil and the bringing prices which should enable the farmer to pay his debts and supply himself with those things which previous conditions have compelled him to postpone. The enlarged buying by farmers is already evident."

"Settlement of reparations and financing of Germany's needs for raw materials should create demands for materials that the United States have to supply. Thus the money representing much of our subscription to the German loan will remain here. "The railroad situation is better, although car loadings are fewer than a year ago. With the movement of crops and general improvement of merchandise purchases we may expect substantial increase of traffic, of railroad earnings and railroad purchases. The country will steadily settle down to the certainty of the outcome of the Presidential contest and assume four years' continuance of Republican administration. The election of Coolidge and Dawes is assured."

Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, director of the speakers' bureau, outlined to the President details of a campaign tour to start from Plymouth, the President's birthplace, Sept. 9, and to extend to 17 States—"Carrying to the rest of the country the Plymouth appraisal of its most distinguished son."

Mr. Tilson did not suggest any further speeches by the President, he said after his conference, indications being that there is no definite plan now for Mr. Coolidge to make any further political speeches, though it is always pointed out that circumstances may arise which will make the President feel that he should issue some statement to clarify his position before the country.

Discussing the proposed political tour to start from Plymouth Mr. Tilson said it would begin with an old-fashioned rural Republican rally in Plymouth.

This will be attended by distinguished members of the Republican party who will discuss with the Vermont farmers the issues of the campaign, and immediately following the meeting will join with them in speeding the tourists on their way. The expedition will comprise six motor cars and, as it has been planned, will resemble, excepting for the types of vehicles utilized, the old-fashioned circuit riding campaign of early American politics.

Representative Tilson said after the conference, "will be the official designation of this mission. It is so named because the campaigning will be in the interests of the President and his running mate and will, in its nature, be a tour of the East to the Pacific Coast, travel the highway named for the great Emancipator."

The route to be covered is 5000 miles, and probably will mean 40 to 45 days of constant traveling. Meetings will be held in approximately 300 cities and towns, with night meetings taking place in the larger communities. The following States will be visited: Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon and Washington.

At the head of the Coolidge-Dawes-Lincoln tourists will be a motor coach on which will be displayed a reproduction of the President's birthplace. Another feature of the expedition will be the fact that it will carry an amplifying device which will enable all voters at open-air meetings to hear distinctly what these speakers have to say.

"California is strong for Coolidge," said young J. H. Brown of Fresno, "and there is no doubt whatever that his electoral vote will be in the Republican column in November."

"Michigan is safe as a church," said his father. "All the farmers are for Coolidge. La Follette has some strength in the East, but he will not threaten Coolidge's lead. The people of our section are tired of being led by demagogues. Coolidge suits us. We want tax reduction, and that is what Coolidge stands for."

A. D. Barker, who was a fraternity member of General Dawes at Marietta College, was equally optimistic about Ohio.

In explaining the polls showing the drift to Coolidge from La Follette, Mr. Barrett said:

"I am a voter in the central and Northwestern States through the distribution of correct and dependable information about the personality, policies and record of President Coolidge."

"Just before the national convention, or about June 1, this group sent out a confidential questionnaire to a carefully and impartially selected list of nearly 3000 'key' or influential voters in various communities of these States, including about 200 editors of country papers who were known to have independent or non-partisan leanings."

"Among other queries, it contained these: First, Is the so-called La Follette movement growing in your State to the degree that it may menace the success of both old parties? Second, Do you think La Follette may carry enough Western States to endanger the Republican or Democratic candidates getting a majority of electoral votes and so throw the election into Congress? Third, If the election were to be held now (early June) would you vote for Coolidge, La Follette or a Democrat like Mr. Adoo, Smith or Underwood?"

"Nearly 2400 replies were received. Answers to the first inquiry were approximately 1900 yes (79 per cent), and 500 no (21 per cent); to the second 1300 yes (54 per cent) and 1100 no (46 per cent); to the third 1200 La Follette (50 per cent), 900 Coolidge (37 1/2 per cent), 300 Democratic (12 1/2 per cent)."

"Immediately after the last Presidential acceptance speech, that of Coolidge, on Aug. 14, there was dispatched to the same original 3000 'key' voters practically the same questionnaire, with the substitution of the name of Davis as the Democratic candidate and the adding of a request for an explanation of any changes of opinion. Up to Monday, Aug. 25, answers had been received at Chicago (and telephoned to the above named members of the group) from about 2000 of the original 3000, with the following notable result and changes: First inquiry, 1100 yes (55 per cent), 900 no (45 per cent); second, 800 yes (40 per cent), 1200 no (60 per cent); third, 750 La Follette (37 1/2 per cent), 1050 Coolidge (52 1/2 per cent), 200 Davis (10 per cent)."

"The chief significant change is in the third inquiry, where the La Follette vote decreased from 50 per cent to 37 1/2 per cent and that for Coolidge increased from 37 1/2 per cent to 52 per cent. Next in significance is the decrease in the number who think La Follette can carry enough States to throw the election into Congress, 54 per cent to 40 per cent, and finally that of those who hold that his movement is now a menace in their respective States to the success of their old party, or from 79 per cent to 55 per cent."

OSCAR H. EMERY

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law

Camden, Maine

To the Citizens and Voters of Knox County:

As a candidate for County Attorney on the Democratic Ticket, I fully appreciate the fact that the candidates for this office are not to be given the benefit of a purely local election. Our State Election on September 8th, is not held to elect other than county and state officials, together with one U. S. Senator and four Representatives to Congress.

The election held in November is the election at which the President is elected. They are two distinct elections.

I hold that a public office is a public trust and each voter is given the opportunity to elect (or hire) a public official. The same good judgment should be used in doing this as in hiring any other servant. Unless the trust delivered into the hands of a public official is abused, the public official usually fills the position to the best of his or her ability.

I feel that I do not need to say that as a Judge of Probate for four years and as a member of the legal profession in the county for thirteen years I have faced my duties having in mind but one thing, to give the public the best I had. A lawyer is a public servant at all times.

I simply wish to call your attention to my candidacy in the September 8th election. The office of County Attorney if I am elected will be filled to the best of my ability.

Most respectfully,
OSCAR H. EMERY.

AMERICA'S WEALTH

A London Viewpoint Concerning It and the Causes Of It.

Asiators demanding vast public expenditures, their pet projects frequently tell us that England is "rolling in wealth," that it is "the richest country in the world." That, was, perhaps, true decades ago, but matters are very different now. England is poor, very poor, if compared with the United States.

The United States are fabulously wealthy. Although they possess only about one-twentieth of the population of the world, they have half the world's wealth and have more than half the world's gold, diamonds, furs, and precious stones of every kind.

The true wealth of a nation can best be measured by the condition of the masses. The prosperity of the American workers is almost unbelievable. More or less unskilled men, such as carters, milkmen, builders, laborers, etc., earn 45s. per week. Vast numbers of skilled workers earn £1,000 and more per year.

The assertion that America's wealth belongs to the few, that the high cost of living counterbalances the high wages prevailing, is incorrect. The average American worker has a little more than twice as large as that of this country. However, the United States has not merely twice the number of telephones and motor cars that there are in this country, but have 15 times as many telephones and two motor cars. Millions of unskilled workers have not only roomy houses which belong to them but have a telephone, a motor car, and other luxuries of which English working men scarcely dream.

Before the war England's savings came to about £400,000,000 per year. Although the American people are terribly extravagant, their savings are estimated to come to £2,700,000,000 per year. Last year the Americans spent on motor cars and trucks alone £750,000,000. If we add the expenditure on garages, etc., the motor car expenditure last year exceeded £1,000,000,000.

It is frequently stated that the United States owes its vast wealth to the possession of a fruitful agricultural plain, extensive forests, rich mines, etc. That explanation is fallacious. Every student of American economics is aware that the bulk of America's vast income is derived from the farms, mines, and forests, but by the factories and workshops.

The United States are foremost in the world, not only by the production of its wheat fields, cotton lands, forests, coal mines, iron mines, etc., but by the output of its manufacturing industries. With existing arrangements this country can produce 12,000,000 tons of steel per year. That figure has never been reached. The United States can produce at least 55,000,000 tons of steel per year. The production of steel is the backbone of the world's industry.

Why are the Americans foremost in the world, not only in the output of food and raw products but also in that of manufactured goods? The reason is obvious to all who are acquainted with economic conditions on both sides of the Atlantic. It is the production of goods made from copper, brass, rubber, leather, etc. America's superiority is overwhelming. In view of these facts Cobden's prophecy, "England is, and always will remain, the workshop of the world," is ridiculous.

Goods produced must be consumed. They are consumed and enjoyed chiefly by the working masses. Production being three times as great in the United States as in England, workers receive not merely three times as much money but receive three times as much real wages in the form of goods which they can buy. Hence the American workers are infinitely better fed, clothed, and housed than the British workers.

The American worker recognizes that prosperity consists in an abundance of useful goods and nothing else, and that such abundance cannot be created by insisting on high wages in respect of an utterly insufficient output. He recognizes that capital and the labor-saving machinery which his friends, not his enemies. Hence the American worker can afford a motor car and other things which in this paradise of trade unionism, of Socialism, and of co' canny are the privilege of the rich and of the well-to-do.

STRAND THEATRE

One of the most artistic and lavish productions yet made by Cosmopolitan Productions is its film version of Vicente Blasco Ibañez's latest novel, "Enemies of Women," which will be shown today. Cosmopolitan has made every effort to make "Enemies of Women" one of the most beautiful pictures ever made. It is being distributed by Goldwyn-Cosmopolitan. The action of the picture takes place in Monte Carlo, in Nice, Paris and in Russia. In order to have the locations entirely accurate, the entire company was sent to Europe and spent six weeks in Monte Carlo, Nice and Paris. The interior sets were made on a lavish scale. These were designed by the noted Viennese artist and designer of the theatrical and operatic sets, Joseph Urban. His set for the palace of Prince Lubimoff is one of the most gorgeous ever built for a motion picture. In it the abilities of this master craftsman are revealed at their best. The set of the Prince's villa at Monaco is just as beautiful in its way, but not on so big a scale as the palace set. The decorations, costumes and lighting of these scenes were under the direction of Mr. Urban. Many of the gowns worn by Alma Rubens in "Enemies of Women" were created by Poiret in Paris.

A novel which made a profound sensation was "The Man From Brodsky's." The screen version will be seen Labor Day and Tuesday. Hollingsworth Chase, American diplomatic representative at the Duchy of Rapp-Port, in Central Europe, is a ball game by the Duke and is introduced to the beautiful Princess Geneva. He attends the concert given by Prince Karl. Chase later witnesses Karl's unwelcome attentions to the Princess and attacks him. A duel follows, in which the Prince, bested, Chase is compelled to resign his post as a result of this incident. He goes to London, where he is engaged by the law firm of Sir John Brodsky Co. to go to the island of Japan to defend the interests of a will contest. Under the will of the late Duke, the Princess is to receive the two grandchild heirs of the respective owners of the island, a place rich in valuable stones, are to marry within six months of the filing of the testament for probate. Both heirs, however, have already married, but all the will's requisite of living on the island, prior to the probate, some means of fulfilling the conditions imposed. The natives, who are to get the land in the event that the heirs fail to carry out the testator's wishes, are under the leadership of Isulu, who seeks the isle for his own rule. Princess Geneva comes to the island to visit Lady Depingham, one of the heirs. Robert Bowne is the other heir. Desperate but futile attempts are made by the natives to bring about supposedly accidental deaths of the heirs. Then they decide on a direct attack. A terrible struggle follows between the white and the natives. The Princess is wounded and carried to the island, and the natives, Hollingsworth Chase joins the heirs and leads the defense. How they are finally saved and how Chase wins the hand of the Princess are told in dramatic sequence in this film—adv.

The southern side of Park street is to be paved this season as far west as the termination of the paving laid last year. Half the day when all of the rough spots will be ironed out of that much used thoroughfare.

The Republican orator who sat on the stage at the Democratic rally in The Arcade, Thursday night, will be heard in Post-office square at 7.30 to-morrow. His subject will be "The Stars and Stripes, vs. the Red Flag."

Bath Times: "The West Virginia may be the last one but she is certainly a good one." How good she is can only be appreciated by those who have such exceptional opportunities to see her as Rockland people have.

The concrete bases for the new traffic beacons which are to be tried out in the congested districts have been completed and new signals will be in operation soon. The same type have proven thoroughly successful in several Maine cities.

Partitions are down and the new connecting arches plastered in the Stonington Furniture Co.'s big new store. Work in remodeling the new section is being pushed, indicating an early occupancy of the whole block. Proprietor Marcus is still carrying on in the old store.

Bangor also wants a little of the publicity which comes from the trial of big warships on the Rockland course, but instead of referring to the Rockland course, or even the Monroe island course, they tell about "The West Virginia's extensive trials in the lower bay."

The sweet corn acreage in Maine this year is 14,341, as compared with 13,695 acres last year. The increase is not due, however, to Knox county which planted this year but 122 acres, as against 178 last year. Nor yet is it due to Lincoln county, which planted 118 acres this year against 157 last year.

The Children's Playground drew a good crowd for its closing exercises yesterday afternoon. Many youngsters and parents were assembled at 4 o'clock and applauded the dances by Ruth Dorgan, Sylvia, Jennie and Sophia Cohen, Ruth and Florence Smith and Mildred Sweeney. Play Director Dorothy Blaisdell is a long way from fulfilling the old jingle about the "lemonade made in the shade" but she manufactured eight gallons of the delicious beverage and could have used eight more the way the youngsters drank it. A line of cars was given from 7 until 8 o'clock by Rockland Band.

An Indian axe unearthed 300 feet from the St. George's River road, two miles below Thomaston in 1913, by Axel Nelson, has been added to the wonderful collection in Norman W. Lermond's museum in Warren. The axe is of the double-headed type, one end doubtless being used to cut and the other to bob his hair a la Aborigine.

Labor Day will be devoted largely to the dance at Oakland Park with the Douglas Melody Men as the attraction. This fine musical organization played in Rockland last season and was very happily received. The management of the park received with extreme regret the decision of the "Water Carnival" promoters that their show, a pyrotechnic display, could not be given at Oakland because of the roughness of the sea.

The transport Mount Vernon which bore the name of Kronprinzessin Cecilie when she sailed into Bar Harbor in 1917 with $10,000,000 in gold aboard to escape capture by the British, has gone to the junk heap. The Cecilie's arrival at Bar Harbor made a tremendous sensation, and many of her passengers, including a number of Austrian army officers, came through Rockland on their way to their respective destinations.

George K. Robinson is making a brief visit at his former home in this city, after spending a vacation with his family in Calais, and friends in Bangor and elsewhere. Mr. Robinson has been for the past four years cashier of the Mexican-Sinclair Petroleum Corporation at Vinat Terminal, seven miles from Tampico, Mexico. The average output of the corporation at that point is about a million barrels a month. Steamship companies in the Gulf of Mexico that loads there, and Mr. Robinson had the pleasure of meeting Capt. Fred S. Packard of Rockland. He also met a Capt. Flynn of Harrington, who is a brother of Mrs. John G. Snow of this city. Mr. Robinson likes the Mexican climate very much and says that the U. S. Public Health Service has done much good there, yellow fever having been practically eliminated the past two years. Baseball and bull fights are the chief sports.

HER BIG GUNS ROARED

Superdreadnaught West Virginia Wakens Echoes On the Maine Coast, and Does Good Speed Stunt.

U. S. S. West Virginia came back to port last night, having completed her severest test, a 12-hour run at full speed.

The promise given by her standardization trial, on which she attained a speed of 21.66 knots an hour, was borne out by this endurance test, for the huge craft averaged 21.4 knots an hour, while racing up and down the Maine coast. The horsepower which she developed on this prolonged run was 30,500. The quantity of fuel oil used is said to have been about 40,000 gallons, much of the supply having been taken from the U. S. S. Patoka before the battleship departed from Rockland harbor.

The 12-hour endurance run was completed about 11.30 p. m. Thursday. Yesterday gun-firing tests were conducted off Mt. Desert Rock. All of the guns were fired without casualties, but probably caused something of a sensation along that section of the coast, because their reverberations could be heard many miles.

On the completion of the gun-firing the following tests or "stunts," as the naval officers call them, were conducted: Steering tests at full speed ahead and astern, and reversals from full speed ahead to full speed astern, and from full speed astern to full speed ahead.

When these had been successfully completed the West Virginia returned to Rockland and additional steering tests were conducted for the purpose of obtaining tactical data.

Rear Admiral G. H. Burrage, president of the Board of Inspection and Survey, stated last night that the West Virginia trial would occupy four more working days as four complete standardization tests are to be made on the Rockland course. Admiral Burrage and the other members of the Board do not hesitate to express their satisfaction over the fine showing made by the West Virginia thus far.

Dr. H. W. Frohock was aboard during the endurance run, and in his inimitable style will tell in an early issue of this paper what a modern warship is like, when seen through the eyes of an acknowledged lubber.

FIRST FAMILY REUNION

Asa P. St. Clair Thinks It Was Held By Descendants of Col. Asa Payson, Sometime in the '70s.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

I notice in Thursday's issue your suggestion that the custom of family reunions probably originated in Knox county. I think this is correct. I think the first family reunion was a gathering of the descendants of Col. Asa Payson of Hope, held in the early '70s. I have been at some pains to ascertain the actual date, but am unable to learn it. I was present at that gathering and am certain it was at least 50 years ago. It was held at Beauchamp Point, in Rockport. And the Paysons have held a reunion annually since that day.

No records were kept of those early gatherings. Three years ago the Foggers were invited to the Payson organization, as there had been several marriages between the two, so that many were connected with both families.

Can any of your readers give the date of that first gathering at Beauchamp Point? Asa P. St. Clair.

DEMOCRATIC ORATORY

William R. Pattangall, Democratic nominee for Governor; Bertrand G. McIntire, Democratic nominee for Representative to Congress; and Fulton J. Redman, Democratic nominee for United States Senator have devoted their efforts very largely to Knox County this week, making a tour very similar to that which was conducted by the Republicans. Their meetings were for the most part very successful, finding their climax Thursday with the rally in the Arcade and last night with the rally in Camden, at which Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson also spoke. Mr. Pattangall in all his speeches directed a scathing attack upon the Klan, before receptive audiences. "Pat" is one of the best campaigners in the country, and many citizens went to his meetings with more regard to his oratory than his politics.

New York Herald-Tribune—The calm simplicity of Mr. Coolidge's speech of acceptance is a refreshing draft after the rhetorical exuberance of Mr. Davis, emulating the governor of New York and endeavoring to be rough. But in reality there is careful precision, for vague and rhythmic generalities, there are hard specific facts, for loose promises of undefined projects there are clear plans for action. Principles, not personalities, are its subject matter. The whole speech breathes that lucidity, moderation and homespun dignity which he could not forget if he would.

ROCKPORT BOY

Sailing in China Where Snakes of Remarkable
Character Are Found.

Dated at Chinkiang, China, on board the steamship Kanowet of the Tampa Inter-Ocean Steamship Co., July 29, comes the following communication:

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
Enclosed please find clipping from the North China News of July 23, which I thought possibly you might care to print. You will notice that this remarkable steamer came from the State of Maine, which may be of interest to many who read your paper. Please add that in my opinion it should prove particularly interesting to members of the Royal Hants Club of Rockport, of which I am a member, and should receive their careful consideration. After giving this article the consideration due all real sensational news, mail one copy to me at P. O. Box 133, Rockport, Maine.

Chief Officer, S. H. Hanover.
The article to which Chief Officer Spear alludes bears the heading "Snakes of the C. M. S. Kiangfu" and is reprinted here for the entertainment of the readers who delight in having unfolded to them tales of wonderful things that are so common in China.

A foreign officer and two sailors killed and eaten by a large snake on a river steamer is a story which is being told by the wharf coolies and sailors of the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company.

"Tall" snake stories have been told by both foreign and Chinese regarding the snakes of Shanghai and Ningbo, but certainly the chief prize of the Annamites is the master of the steamer which has always ordered the boat-swain to detail two sailors to feed the snakes with the choicest and daintiest parts of the foreign and Chinese mess. These snakes according to the story were unable to change themselves from being large to so small that they were invisible to the human eye, they were in fact "Joss" snakes.

According to the story, it seems that two snakes, a male and female, have been the chain locker of the S. S. Kiangfu for the past few years, and the master of the steamer has always ordered the boat-swain to detail two sailors to feed the snakes with the choicest and daintiest parts of the foreign and Chinese mess. These snakes according to the story were unable to change themselves from being large to so small that they were invisible to the human eye, they were in fact "Joss" snakes.

The First Real Meal
About six months ago the female either died or at any rate disappeared and male has been getting more cross and angry to those that fed him and when fed he would hiss at the sailors and his breath would cause them to be about to reach Kiangfu, made an investigation. All that was found was blood all over the clothes and matting of the bunk where the two sailors turned in.

In the morning as the vessel was about to reach Kiangfu, made an investigation. All that was found was blood all over the clothes and matting of the bunk where the two sailors turned in. The officer consulted with the captain and it was decided to kill the snake as there was no doubt but that he had killed and eaten the two, even to the bones. The officer took his gun and went into the chain locker where he found the snake which was very large and heavy with sleep. He fired two shots from the gun into the body, the snake awakened and then made himself so small that he could not be seen. It was thought that he might have escaped to another part of the vessel and a close watch was kept, but he could not be found.

That Was the End of Him
That night the officer went to his room just after midnight, he had a watch on deck until twelve. In the morning the quartermaster went to call him at 5:30 and saw his head resting on the pillow, but there was no body. The bed clothes were not disturbed and there were no signs of disturbance and no blood. This scared the crew as they knew that the snake was angry and might kill the crew, so they made "Joss" the "God of the Reptiles" during the rest of the passage. When the vessel arrived in Shanghai they placed the flag at half mast and when the vessel was tied up the whole crew left and would not return any more, neither could the company find the spirit of the snake they sold the steamer but only on condition that she should be destroyed and never again be permitted to sail. They knew that, if she was permitted again to sail, all on board would have been destroyed.

The wharf coolies declare that they have seen the snake several times since, always at night and winding himself around the chain with his head out of the hawsepipe apparently looking for more victims. He is said there, they say, and will be kept the whole vessel is destroyed and the chain burnt as, if the chain is ever sold to another vessel, the snake will follow it.

Belong Proper Talk
The writer's "boy" told the story as it was told him by one of the sailors and when the writer pointed out the improbability of such a thing the boy said:—
"This fellow proper talk Master, what for China Merchants sell Kiangfu? What for no can run no more? Plenty Chinese have tell me have I take you to plenty Chinamen tell you belong true."

The old Kiangfu is the oldest steamer on the river and came here from the State of Maine, U. S. A. In a sailing vessel over 50 years ago. "Joss" has always been considered the "Joss" of the China Merchants fleet and the company thought so much of her that when it was decided that her days of usefulness were over, they would not permit her to be sold other than to be broken up. The flying eagle that was a prominent figure on her mast has been presented to the U. S. Consul-General, S. S. Cunningham.

There may have been snakes aboard at one time or another, but they were of the kind that are only seen in dreams.

The meeting of the Maine Federation of Women's Clubs in Portland Sept. 29-Oct. 2, promises to be the largest ever held by this organization. The big reception to be held Monday night will be made as informal and social as possible. This reception will be held in the dining room of the Woman's Club House on Spring street, and there will be continuous serving of refreshments. The automobile ride around the city, for which the Portland Chamber of Commerce will furnish 100 hundred automobiles; the free concert to be given in City Hall, when everyone will have an opportunity to hear Portland's beautiful organ and some of Portland's vocalists, the fine program, the smaller social affairs, the meeting with women from all over the State, the play to be given by the Conklin class, called the Woman's Cabinet, and many other interesting features, make the affair of great interest and pleasure. There will be special rates on some of the railroads, and many of the women, of course, will make the trip by motor.

Frederick Russell Wiley, aged three years, will be host at a family reunion of Smiths and Wileys to be held at the Fred A. Smith home tomorrow. His mother, Mrs. J. C. Mrs. Loring Woodbury, who has been the guest of her mother, Mrs. Susan Greenlaw, has returned to her home in Ipswich, Mass.

Friday of last week the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Field, Cedar street, was the scene of the annual reunion of the Hatch family. Sixty were present, coming from Stoughton, Camden, Rockport and Massachusetts. A picnic dinner was served.

There were 15 children in the party who, grouped together in front of the house, had their pictures taken. Although it was a beautiful day and much time was spent out of doors, within there was music, laughter and merry-making. The party fanned in from the 11 months' old Master Robert Taylor, son of Mrs. Ruth Taylor, of Malden, Mass., to the oldest, Mrs. Field's mother, Mrs. Susan Greenlaw, who is 81 years young, and who before her marriage was known to her room, none forgot to be invited to her and were glad to hear her merry voice and to greet her once more. It was a happy company and each enjoyed a delightful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cassens entertained the Kailor class Thursday afternoon and evening at their home on Camden street at a lawn party and picnic. Crocheting, sewing, tanning and conversation occupied the attention of the members, while the youngest one present, with cunning ways and baby smile, was the cynosure of all eyes. A group picture was taken, after much trouble and anxiety on the part of Carl, to get it arranged to his ideas. About 45 sat down to the evening meal, the tables being set up on the lawn, which furnishes a beautiful view of the harbor and the woods behind. All partook of the bountiful repast which had been made ready by a most efficient committee. After supper some expected to hear music and there was a little. A few listened in at the radio, but the lure of the perfect evening was too great, and the most of those present preferred to "give the first watch of the night to the red planet Mars."

AROUND THE PLANT

Crockett 3-Hoist House Riddled—Bonus System At Gas Kilns—Capt. Green Retires.

Ben Ames of Crockett 3 received shoulder injury last Thursday by being hit by a gin block on drag.

A siphon water tank has been installed at the crusher, for water circulation to keep bearings cool on crushing machine.

Everett Condon is manager of a base ball team he recently organized, which he has named "The Thomaston Giants." They defeated the South Thomaston team last week by a score of 16 to 15. The feature of the game was the pitching of Fred Luscomb of the South Thomaston team.

The hoist house at Crockett 3 was riddled in great shape Sunday when bluff was blown. One window was completely taken out, the glass in the others broken, and one huge piece of rock came through the side and landed at opposite end of building.

Charlie Makki had a narrow escape from injury, as he was standing at inside corner of building within a few inches from where the rock came through. No way has yet been discovered to tell just what a "blow" is going to do.

Twelve hundred barrels a day has been the schedule for this month. This increased production brings back Fred Sistrare and Edward Sullivan.

There are at the present about 1,500,000 staves in the stock storage building. There is room for as many more and they are due to arrive before the snow flies.

Schooner Sarah Maple was down from Ellsworth last week, bringing 188,000 staves, all loaded on deck. This method of unloading saves the trouble of taking them out of the hold according to the captain's figuring.

Gregory

Barge Rockland finished loading last Wednesday, taking 6,173 from this shed and 5,623 from the Point.

Forrest Day is wearing goggles, to prevent a recurrence of an experience with lime burn in eye.

Ernest Grover and Mervyn Flanders were taking 12-hour shifts for a few days last week so that Frank Leo could have his time off.

Part of the Bird kiln has been removed and the top of shed changed, so that the air-dump car can be used when the new coal pocket is filled.

Frank Wardwell has not been working for several weeks owing to a recurrence of leg trouble, the result of injury received some time ago. He is at the home of his son Willard.

The retaining wall for coal pockets is nearing completion. This wall extends from kiln 7 to kiln 11 in rear, with end wall, and is 60 feet in length, 8 feet thick, its height varying from 10 to 20 feet.

The passageway between kilns 7 and 8 has been walled up at rear entrance and converted into a lobby for Mr. Sawyer's mason crews. This gives a room 21 feet in length, 8 feet in width and 12 feet high, which has been equipped with electric lights.

This passageway has always been more or less of a nuisance, a sort of catch-all, of no special benefit to operation.

Production for the week of August 16 was an improvement over the week before, kiln No. 8 taking the lead with 10,937; No. 3 was second with 10,904; the others being: No. 5, 10,824; 6, 10,551; 1, 10,500; 2, 9,977; 7, 9,722; 4, 9,614; 11, 918. For the week of August 16 No. 6 led all the kilns with 11,174; No. 8 being second with 11,044; the others were: 1, 10,891; 10, 10,447; 5, 10,107; 3, 10,104; 7, 9,584; 4, 9,544; 2, 9,074; 11, 918.

Hydrate Mills

Corrugated steel for extension now under construction arrived last Thursday, and work on roof began Saturday.

Warren McFadden returned to work last week, after being out a week from scalp injury received while loading barge Rockharbor.

Jacobs large and small and No. 1 Wednesday from the Berwick, which returned for another load Friday.

Self closing covers for rubbish cans and new safety containers for gasoline have been added to equipment.

Charlie Wade and Percy Nash of the repair crew did a particularly good job of construction on the double bin in the stock room.

The four months record without a lost time injury was broken Aug. 14, when Veto Leo stepped from a platform 13 inches in height and fell striking on his shoulder. How he ever managed to fall on his shoulder from that short distance is a puzzle, but he did and will probably be out three or four weeks in consequence.

George McLaughlin, a former employee, has shipped a cook with Capt. Sam Peterson on the barge Rockland.

The little Burgess and the big Burgess kilns are being demolished and the materials used for ballast for the Enterprise wharf repair job.

Gas Kilns

Arthur Kahler and Percy Gray are two new men in the jobbing crew.

Six kilns are now in operation with the probability of one or two going out soon for repairs.

Installation of the storage tanks will be completed in about two weeks. Steel chutes with hinged gates, connecting elevators with tanks, have been put by the Snow company.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS

What Our Home Artists and Others Are Doing To Forward the Interests of Musical Art.

One of the chief music centers of New York has passed into the hands of interests outside the profession—the Aeolian Buildings, sold to the Schulte Retail Stores Corporation, which operates a country-wide chain of tobacco stores. The sale was made for a sum said to be in the neighborhood of $6,000,000. The Aeolian Company will continue to occupy the building and to manage Aeolin Hall until May 1, 1929, and possibly longer. In the present building is a concert hall, seating about 1300 people, in addition to the large public display room and executive offices of the Aeolin Company, including music roll and phonograph demonstration rooms and recording departments. The offices on the upper floors contain the headquarters of many of the concert booking managers, such as Antonio Sawyer, Inc., Fortune Gallo, Hansel & Jones, S. Huruk, Daniel Mayer, Jules Dalber, etc.

I note that the Chicago Civic Opera will open its season Nov. 5 under the musical direction of Giorgio Polacco with Ponchielli's "Gioconda," the probable cast including Rosa Raisa, Kathryn Meisle and Giacomo Rimini. Shortly after reading this notice, I came across an item by Mephisto in Musical America about this opera which seemed apt:

"If I wanted to introduce a person who had never heard opera to this form of musical entertainment, I think I would select 'Gioconda.' Here we have compressed in one work the whole cycle of Italian singing, melody, ballet, melodrama, effective arias, ensembles—in short 'La Gioconda' is chockful of tunes and excitement. I learn 'Gioconda' will open the season of the Chicago Opera Company with Rosa Raisa, Anseau and Augusta Lenska will sing the alto or mezzo role, but if she sings the former, Miss Van Gordon will probably sing the other part."

Mephisto added further interest to this item by a few words concerning the Metropolitan's opening performance. He says: "All I can tell you is that Jeritta will sing the title role on some warm evening in November; the reviewers will look bored as usual; the old-timers will swear at the unrolled orchestra chairs; the noted vocal teacher will stroll through the foyer bowing to all comers; the unwilling conductor will be dragged to the stage; the electrician will switch on the light at the wrong moments; at the end of the first act the orchestra players will nudge each other and ask, 'Say, Tonio, what's the name of the opera we have been playing tonight?'"

"Has your daughter developed along musical lines at school?" "I should say so! Just ask her to name any record you want and she will tell you what's on the other side!"

The effect of music on animals was made in a test. It was proved that the animals which enjoyed music of the jazz type were the baboons, the closest relative to the human race—if we disagree with William Jennings Bryan. Jazz numbers lashed the tigers into fury, but the baboons danced in their cages. The Russian bear went into tantrums when a saxophone solo was played. An elephant seemed entirely oblivious of the playing of the orchestra ensemble, but shied when the bass viol was played, trumpeted in joy or anger the roll of a drum, and appeared vastly delighted with the trombone. The mountain lions paid no attention to the music whatsoever—simply walked back and forth in their cage in calm content. Mary the ape, took a quiet interest in the music, smoking incessantly throughout the whole two hour scene.

The concert season will soon be upon us, and already the public is being enlightened as to the intentions of many of our fine artists on "opening night."

Although Jascha Heifetz, violinist, is scheduled to give a concert later August in the Auditorium at Ocean Grove, he will really not begin his season until his New York recital on Nov. 15.

Mabel Garrison, soprano, begins her season as soprano soloist at Bangor on Oct. 3 at the Maine Music Festival. She then hurries to Dayton to sing in the Garden Scene from "Faust" and a miscellaneous program on Oct. 6 then jumps to appear at the Worcester Festival Oct. 8-9.

Medie Alcock, contralto, begins her activities on Oct. 3, when she appears in the Alda Quartette at Rutland, Vt. She intends to tour with this quartet during October. It is said that every available moment of her time is taken until the opera season commences.

Mario Chamlee, tenor, begins his season early in September, with a tour on the Pacific Coast. Edward Johnson, tenor, will begin his season in his native Canada, singing on Oct. 3 at Hamilton, Ont. Mr. Johnson together with Clarence Whitill, baritone and Marion Telva, contralto, are to appear with Mabel Garrison at Dayton Oct. 6.

Reinold Werrenrath begins his season in Pennsylvania about Oct. 17 and will continue through the season at his usual pace of between 60 and 70 engagements.

Louise Homer and Louise Homes Stires, contralto and soprano, will begin their season together with a joint concert at Saginaw, Mich., Oct. 9.

Some of the artists are not appearing until November, among them being Joseph Hofman, who will appear in Symphony Hall on Nov. 2. Hulda Lashansky, soprano, who begins her extensive tour Nov. 12, Moriz Rosenthal, pianist, with a piano recital in Denver, Colo., on Nov. 15, and Felix Salmond, cellist, with a tour in the west.

Among the artists to appear at the Berkshire Festival to be given in Pittsfield, Mass., Sept. 17 to 19, I note the names of George Enesco, violinist; Jacques Gordon, violinist; Hans Kindler, cellist; Olga Samardoff, pianist; Devora Nadvorney, contralto; and Edith Bennett, soprano.

Mephisto has been chasing up the big politicians who are musical in a way that has been demonstrated, either by voice or skill on an instrument, and he announces that Robert La Follette is the owner of a beautiful trained voice of baritone quality. He says that "Perhaps this voice will give him an advantage over his opponents, for most of the campaigning this time will be done over the radio. His enunciation is also excellent—unlike most singers."

A concert to be given Sept. 21 to open the new Temple of Music in Roger Williams Park, Providence, with a chorus of 350 voices and Marie Sundelius, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, as soloist. Accompanied numbers will include "The Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah," "Hail Bright Abode" from "Tannhauser," "He, Watching Over Israel from 'The Elijah,' Song of the Adventurers by Converse, and the Inflammatus from Rossini's "Stabat Mater." The chorus is under the direction of John B. Archer.

WORST FORM OF INDIGESTION

Disappeared Under the Fruit Treatment—"Fruit-a-lives"

People are often amazed when they hear of a case like Mrs. Hammond's. Yet it is the most natural thing in the world to eat plenty of fruit for Indigestion, Dyspepsia and other stomach troubles—and to try and overcome Constipation and Biliousness by eating figs and prunes.

"Fruit-a-lives," made of the intensified juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes combined with tonics, will relieve stomach and bowel troubles. Mrs. E. C. Hammond, 218 Sykes St., Groton, N. Y., says: "Last February, I started using 'Fruit-a-lives' for Indigestion and Constipation of the worst kind. 'Fruit-a-lives' entirely relieved me and I would not be without your valuable 'Fruit-a-lives' in the home."
