HIGH SCHOOL CHAT

Miss Coughlin was the speaker at the teachers' supper held at the Legion hall last Friday evening. Her subject was "The Discovery of America Through Literature" and the paper was extremely interesting and instructive.

The gymnasium is fast nearing completion. The new lights have been installed, the balconies are almost finished and the floor will be laid this week.

Clocks have been installed in all the classrooms. These and the bells for changing classes, are electrically controlled by the master clock in the main office.

Miss Black has returned to school after a ten days' leave of absence.

Rehearsals for the Senior play,
"The Chorus School," are well under way. This production will be given about the middle of May.

Gold pins will be awarded to those on the honor list in typewriting by the end of another week.

Mr. Phillips' beaming countenance is due to the fact that he has his car again fresh from the paint shop.

The new seats for the auditorium have arrived.

Assemblies will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for the remainder of the year.

The tax collector has completed the list of all unpaid taxes and they will be turned over to the printers for publication next week. It is particularly interesting to note that the list this year is not only of the 1924 delinquents but all of the previous non-payers up to 12 years ago—adv.

FOR A SEVENTH TERM

Supt. H. C. Hull Will Again Have Charge of Rockland and Rockport Schools—His Achievements.

At a joint meeting of the Rockland and Rockport school boards in Mayor Knowl's office Thursday night, Harry Colville Hull was re-elected superintendent of the union for a seventh consecutive year.
The session was an entirely harmonious one, and quite to the contrary of what might have been expected from some of the flimsy newspaper stories which had appeared.

Supt. Hull's election came on the first ballot, by a vote of 6 to 4. The three members of the Rockport committee were a unit for Mr. Hull, who also had the backing of three of the Rockland members—L. E. Blacking-ton of Ward 4, Dr. H. W. Frohock of Ward 5 and A. W. Gregory of Ward 1, according to report. In any event the election was made unanimous and the incident closed.

Supporters of Supt. Hull had given out the following statement to substantiate their claim that he should be re-elected.

A list of the noted achievements of the Rockland School System during the six years of Superintendent Hull's administration is most noteworthy. They challenge an achievement attained by any like system in Maine. The public have asked that a few of them be given publicly.

Grand Jury Reports Seven Indictments—Breach of Promise Case.

Seven indictments were returned by the grand jury which came in Thursday morning. Two of them were against Francis L. Curtis of Monticello, one for manslaughter charging him with responsibility in causing the death while driving an automobile of Walter C. Shorey, a seven year old, in Danversville Mills on March 23, and the other with driving an automobile without a license.
The other five indictments are against Carl Hughes, son of the contractor who is building the Edgecomb cut-off, and who is charged with cruelty to animals. There are three other cases against Hughes coming up from the lower court on appeal, hearing having been waived by him upon arraignment, thus making a total of eight cases against him now in Supreme Court.

A jury which retired Wednesday afternoon at 4.30 in the $10,000 breach of promise action brought by Florence Knott 54, against Elmus C.
Oliver, a Danversville farmer, came in at midnight with a sealed verdict which revealed she was allowed $393.
75. The plaintiff came on from Nebraska in 1919 after she and Mr.
Oliver had been led to correspond through a matrimonial agency and she at first kept house for him but it appeared that Oliver deserted when the matter of marriage was considered. At a term of court last year she recovered $150 for services and then brought the breach of promise action in October which was carried over to this term.

DO YOU KNOW THEM?

Information Wanted Concerning Joseph Entwistle and Frank Cook.

City Clerk Keene has received an inquiry from North Grafton, Mass., concerning Joseph Entwistle, who died in that town April 26, and who claimed to have been a former resident of Rockland and Surry in this State. He had no means—although it was understood that there was an insurance policy in Worcester—and was to receive pauper's burial unless information came from parties interested.

The same mail brought to Clerk
Keene a communication from John McMahon of 75 Myrtle avenue, Whitman, Mass., who desires information concerning Frank Cook, who, he says, formerly made his home with Patrick Maloney and sister at the Head-of-the-Bay. Cook was born in Roxbury, Mass., and would be about 40. Mr. McMahon has heard that he was killed in the World War, but had not been able to verify the report.

City Clerk Keene would be interested to receive information concerning either of the above persons.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week.
The loss of these things is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

NOW THE DAY IS OVER
Now the day is over,
Night is drawing nigh,
Shadows of the evening
Steal across the sky.

Now the darkness gathers,
Stars begin to peep,
Birds and beasts and flowers
Soon will be asleep.

Jesus, give the weary Calm and sweet repose;
With thy tender blessing
May mine eyelids close.

Grant to little children
Valiant hearts of Thee;
Guard the sailors toiling
On the deep blue sea.

Comfort every sufferer
Watching late in pain;
Those who plan some evil
From their sin restrain.

Through the long night watches
May thine angels spread
Their white wings above me,
Watching round my bed.

When the morning wakens,
Then may I arise,
Pure and fresh and sinless
In Thy Holy Eyes.

Glorious to the Father,
Glory to the Son,
And to Thee, Blest Spirit,
While all ages run.

THREE TIMES A WEEK

CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT
 Rockland, Maine, April 29, 1925.
 Personally appeared Frank S. Lydie who on oath declares that he is president in the office of The Courier-Gazette, and that of the issue of this paper of April 28, 1925, there was printed a total of 6,503 copies.
 Before me, FRANK T. MILLER, Notary Public.

Is not this the fact that I have chosen? To loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke?—Isaiah 58:6.

It has become a commonplace to say that the development of radio ranks among the world's greatest marvels. Increasing world intercourse is one of its striking features. More and more our American listeners are able to hear the British, French, Italian and other stations across the water, as well as all the Latin-American stations to the south of us, while our programs are equally picked up abroad. Speaking of the universality of the growth, the president of the Radio Corporation of America, General Harbord, epitomizes the situation thus: "Broadcasting nationally and internationally, is developing an indispensable service in present day life. In the rural home and the city home alike, it has come to fill an important role, namely, keeping in touch with the outside world. In the rural home especially, radio has meant a new outlook on life. It has brought entertainment, the speeches of prominent men, the latest news, weather forecasts, crop reports and other items direct to the farmer and his family, no matter where he is located. It has given the young boy and girl of the country some of the advantages of their city cousins, and in a large measure, made rural life much more attractive." Truly an amazing age we live in, and they tell us that things yet more extraordinary lie only a little way ahead.

Everybody privileged to see the procession of automobiles whooping through Main street this morning, bearing their joyous burden of 400 Rockland boys, acknowledged to a glow of the heart as the enthusiastic crowd sped away toward its picnic destination. The men who conceived the happy idea and all who joined themselves in any manner to the task of exploiting every detail contributing to its success, will receive their reward in the knowledge that they have done a handsome thing for the boys of Rockland, a thing that the boys themselves will remember all their lives.

INSPECTED H. S. BUILDING
 Rotary Club and Guests Have a Highly Enjoyable Afternoon.

Rotary luncheon yesterday had as guests George E. Allen (president) and Dr. Archie F. Green of the new Camden Rotary Club, who brought with them a cordial invitation to the Rockland club members to take part in the Camden club's charter night, next Tuesday. Other guests were Mayor Snow, President W. C. Bird and Dr. Harold Jameson of the Forty Club, Supt. H. C. Hull, Principal A. W. Allen, and W. G. Bunker of Augusta, architect of the new High School building. Secretary Rounds read a letter from President Bertolotto of the new club in Naples, extending hospitality to any Rockland Rotarians visiting Italy. New clubs also heard from in New Zealand and Japan indicate the world-wide spread of this order.

A communication from Supt. Hull solicited the interest of the club in the case of a young girl ill from malnutrition. It was voted that, the case coming properly into the sphere of the Community Chest, the Rotary members would heartily support that institution in caring for the case.

The luncheon adjourned to the High School building for an inspection of the plant which most of the gentlemen saw for the first time. They met the student body in the handsome and spacious auditorium for half an hour of fun, the guests occupying the stage, from which prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Rounds and brief remarks were made by Mayor Snow, W. O. Fuller, Pres. William C. Bird of the Forty Club and George B. Wood, general chairman of the great boys' scramble that takes place today. The student body returned the compliments with school yells and songs under lead of Physical Director Phil Jones, who in turn led the visitors in songs of the Rotarians.

Altogether it was a good deal of an afternoon.

THE RANGELEY RENAMED
 Will Be Chauncey M. Depew, in Honor of Good Old Scout and Statesman.

Chauncey M. Depew, who recently celebrated his 81st birthday, has given the Hudson River Day Line permission to name its newest steamer after him. The steamer was formerly the Rangeley of the Maine Central Railroad, operating out of Bar Harbor. It will be used as an extra boat to supplement the company's present fleet of six vessels and will operate frequently between New York and Indian Point, near Peekskill, Mr. Depew's birthplace.

The announcement stated that Mr. Depew, in accepting the honor, recalled his long and close intimacy with Commodore Alfred Van Santvoord, founder of the Albany Day Line, the precursor of the Hudson River Day Line.

THE BOYS' SCRAMBLE

Rockland Treated To Remarkable Sight This Morning—Young America's Big Day.

Seventy-eight motor cars headed to the gunwales with happy Rockland boys passed through Main street at 9 o'clock this morning, headed for an up-river destination, said to be Sandy Point, Searsport.

The affair is one of the national features of Boys' Week, and is designated as "Boys' Scramble." The Rotary Club sponsors the movement but has had the hearty co-operation of another new Rockland organization known as the Forty Club.

Unique in Rockland's history was this morning's parade. It was headed by the police patrol car, whose siren did not cease until the line of cars had passed the city limits. The next car contained Col. Walter H. Butler, who was transportation officer, in charge of the parade; and State Patrolman C. B. Wentworth. The third car was that of George E. Wood, general chairman of the Boys' Scramble.

Each of the 78 cars was decorated with flags, and each carried placards indicating the nature of the affair and boosting the Kennebec Bridge. The boys were decorated with whistles, bells, horns, supplemented with a lung power which was little short of marvelous. One car carried a horn such as is used on vessels in foggy weather, and one boy was playing a symphony on a brand new zinc wash tub.

Every boy was supplied with a box lunch, and there was also a vast quantity of ice cream, soda water and peanuts. It was apparent to everybody that the boys had a grand time ahead of them.

"Gee, I hope there'll be a lot of juveniles," exclaimed one lad as he clambered aboard an automobile. His wish was probably gratified.

STRAND THEATRE

Richard Keith, an artist in "School For Wives," which is being shown today, is a much sought-after young man. In the course of a few years two girls propose marriage to him and he accepts both—conditionally. Richard is in love first with Betty Lynch, but because she is rich while he is poor, and her fortune, moreover, is "tainted," he lets her "pop the question." He "yesses" her only on the condition that she will renounce her father's gold, and she agrees. After the divorce—there is a divorce, unfortunately—Richard is "comped" by a member of the aristocracy, but this time he is less ready to take a chance, so he imposes a condition which can't be met. This is well for him, for he meets up with Betty again, their differences are reconciled.

"Gambling Wives" the feature attraction for next Monday and Tuesday, tells the story of two young women who pursue different lives. One believes that happiness lies in the home; she gambles that wealth is the most important thing, and so she gambles for money and marries wealth—adv.

MORSE WON THE MEET

But Rockland Athletes Made a Brilliant Showing In Some Events—Other Sporting Matters.

Morse High School of Bath was the winner of yesterday's track meet at Community Park by a very sizable margin, scoring 75 points while the local athletes were making 38. The victors showed their superiority in the running events, and it was not until the sixth event on the card that Rockland High was credited with a first. This was in the hurdles, which Ripley won very handsily.

Rockland was third in the mile run, but endurance seemed to be one of Morse High's strong points, for that team won all three places in the half mile.

The hammer throwing which was not supposed to have been listed in the events, according to Principal Allen, was easy money for Bath, first place going to a young Morse Samson by the name of Cullen, who hove the 12-pound object 132 feet and 1 inch, and then looked around hungrily for more worlds to conquer.

Rockland High did not get into the picture on this event.

The victors captured a first and a tie in the broad jump, but could get only a second in the high jump, and was completely outclassed in the pole vault.

The local athletes while not expecting to win from Bath, were handicapped by the absence of their coach Phil Jones, who was ill in bed with a temperature of 100.

Morse High sent a squad of 13 men, in charge of the coach, Dr. Alkazy. They were all fine appearing lads and their department and sportsmanship on the field commended itself to all who attended the meet.

Harvard Small was captain of the team, and Harry Pinson was manager. Supt. A. P. McAlary of the Camden & Rockland Water Co. acted as starter of the meet, and was right in his element, for he is an old track man himself, and was a star in his day.

He started an interschool track meet at University of Maine a few years ago. A. C. McLean and Charles Wotton of Rockland and Herbert Morse of Bath, all trackmen in other days, were the judges.

E. B. Nease made an excellent announcer, and Orel E. Davies held the watch. Cecil Benson was the official scorer, and attended to a multitude of other duties on the side.

The ground was a bit heavy for the events, and the cold easterly wind which swept across the field made it extremely uncomfortable for everybody, including, of course, the thinly garbed athletes, who were compelled to huddle together to keep from freezing.

Small of Bath was the individual star of the meet, scoring 12 points. He was closely pressed, however, by Green of Rockland, who scored 11 points.

The summary:
 100-yard dash—Won by Hamilton of Bath, Green of Rockland 2d, Carleton of Bath 3d. Time 11 1-5 s.

220-yard dash—Won by Carleton of Bath, Fales of Rockland 2d, Rice of Bath 3d. Time 27 s.

440-yard dash—Won by Small of Bath, Brown of Bath 2d, Carleton of Bath 3d. Time 55 s.

880-yard dash—Won by Pinkham of Bath, Green of Rockland 2d, Fales of Rockland 3d. Distance 27 feet.

220-yard hurdles—Won by Ripley of Rockland, Small of Bath 2d, Pinkham of Bath 3d.

Half-mile run—Won by Dunton of Bath, Palmer of Bath 2d, Hathorne of Bath 3d. Time 20, 25 s.

Throwing 12-pound hammer—Won by Cullen of Bath, Bonney of Bath 2d, Small of Bath 3d. Distance 132 feet, 1 in.

The daily papers have had a good deal to say this week about Rockland joining the State baseball league this summer. This, of course, was purely speculation and imaginative. Such a proposition would cost from $6000 to $8000, and conditions in Rockland make this prohibitive. Rockland is a good ball town, but would be out of its depth with a professional team, costing $600 a week. Even in the old days, when there were vastly more sports in Knox County than there are now it would not have been possible to put such a proposition across.

The seniors at Cushman Classical Institute failed to win the interschool meet Tuesday, but it was certainly not the fault of that sterling Rockland athlete, Dick Reed, who went down in history as the star of the meet, garnering six places for a total of 30 points. The Kennebec Journal says that he had everything his own way in the sprints and won the broad jump at 20 feet 5 inches. Reed was first in 100-yard and 220-yard dashes, discus throw, high jump shot put and broad jump. By virtue of being the high point man of the meet he won the silver loving cup. Dick's accumulating honors in the field of athletics are being watched with much pride by the folks in his home town.

PROGRAM EVERY DAY

National Music Week To Be Observed In Rockland Beginning Tomorrow.

George Harvey, formerly ambassador to England, now editorial writer for the Washington Post, says, in one of his editorials:

"Some of the ideas of the efficiency of the Budget Bureau may be gained from the fact that in four years it has pruned from executive estimates a total of $1,203,771,928. And, which is more, there is going to be more slaughter—at least so long as the Indomitable Gen. Lord remains on the field."

Since taking up the duties of his office, Gen. Lord is credited with going over all requests from the different departments for appropriations, with a fine-toothed comb, and cutting out everything he considers unnecessary. Gen. Lord is quoted as saying:

"It is the unalterable intention of the President of the United States to cut taxes down and relieve the people, all of whom are affected by taxes. There are hundreds of active, live organizations created and operated for the purpose of getting money out of the Federal treasury. There is but one organization, the Bureau of the Budget, created and operated for the protection of the treasury."

Maine people, who are acquainted with Gen. Lord, know he will stick to his guns until the last shot is fired to prevent the treasury from being raided by these "hundreds of active, live organizations created and operated for the purpose of getting money out of the Federal treasury."

Monday evening at Strand Theatre Mrs. Kathleen S. Marston, contralto, and Charles A. Rose, basso, will sing.

Wednesday at 4 p. m. a program will be given from the Fuller-Cobb-Davis ballroom evening at Strand Miss Adelaide Cross, soprano, will sing Schubert's Ave Maria and Miss Margaret Harrington will sing the aria which she rendered April 29 before the Maine Federation of Music Clubs in Portland.

Thursday evening, Wight Philharmonic Society will sing choruses from Aida and Carmen, at the Park.

Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock a junior program will be given—the place to be announced.

Friday evening at the Strand the Universalist quartet will appear. Miss Gladys Jones will sing the negro spiritual, "Goin' Home." At the Park Bernard Kaler will sing "The Singers" and Miss Addie Kimball in Indian costume will sing "By the Waters of Minnetonka."

The Music Memory Contest for which the schools have been preparing, will take place Saturday morning at the Strand.

ONLY DATE THIS SEASON

Wyman Packard of this city is managing the Gayety Theatre, Portland, with considerable success.

Benjamin Clough who has been laid up the past six months with a leg injury, has entered the employ of W. M. Little & Co.

Three trips a week, now on the Matineus and Cribhaven line. The Colista D. Morrill sails Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

W. L. White, a New York journeyman barber of many years' experience, has entered the employ of George H. Shute, the Northeast barber.

Robert U. Collins, real estate broker, has sold the Lake cottage at Crescent Beach to James Jones of Rockland. He has also sold the property at Young's Point, consisting of two cottages and lot to W. Scott Young. The owner of the property was Mr. Damon of Carmel.

The impression that daylight saving advocates are mostly confined to the cities is being disproved by the eagerness with which many of the country towns are signing the referendum petitions. Norway, Skowhegan, Houlton, Springvale, Fairfield and Pittsfield, New Gloucester and Lee are a few of the towns which sent in petitions for daylight this week. Last year Camden, Rockport, Thomaston and Warren had daylight saving and several other communities were virtually on that scale. In this vicinity a great many have been lamenting that they have had no opportunity to sign the referendum petitions.

--a steady source of dividends

ONE of the many reasons why Central Maine Power Company's earnings have been steady through all conditions of boom and slump, inflation and deflation, war and peace, is that its earnings come, not from one or two big cities, but from 193 communities.

These communities depend for their business on varied industries and varied commerce. If some are in a slump, others are sure to be in a boom.

Central Maine Power Company's earnings from power come, not from a few big industries but from more than 500 industrial enterprises. Included in these 500 industries are over 100 different KINDS of businesses.

It is because the earnings of Central Maine Power Company are always steady, through all kinds of times, that the Company has always been able to pay dividends. We believe it will always continue to pay dividends, for all time to come.

If you wish for a safe investment, backed by a business vital to the homes and industries in 193 communities, buy Central Maine Power Company 7% Preferred Stock.

The village postmistress, Arabella refuses to listen to Lem's pleas of matrimony until he catches a real crook. So added to his own desires to catch a criminal he has added prize of Arabella's hand to speed him in his quest.

JENNIE CONLON DERRY

In the death of Jennie M. Conlon, wife of Fred L. Derry, which occurred April 22, Rockland, and especially that part in which she was best known, meets an irreparable loss.

She was born in Thomaston where the greater part of her life was passed. Eleven years ago she moved into her new home, built on the site of the late Cornelius Hanrahan's homestead, which home and its gardens were among the most attractive in the city.

She loved the beautiful in ever form, but her greatest love and sympathy was bestowed on her friends, who were numbered in many walks of life. Those who knew Mrs. Derry best and met with her are cheered by the thought that they are better for her having lived among them.

She was a devout member of St. Bernard's church, where funeral services were held last Saturday, and burial was in Thomaston.

The abundance of beautiful flowers was mute evidence of the affection in which the deceased was held.

Low-cost Transportation

Star Cars

With the Million-Dollar Motor

Coupe $715—f. o. b. Lansing, Mich.

11,273 MILES ON A SET OF TIRES

THE small gasoline consumption of the Star Car and its freedom from expensive repair bills are supplemented by unusually low tire replacement costs. Here is evidence. Sixty seven Star owners report driving 755,300 miles on 67 sets of tires, an average of 11,273 miles per set of tires.

One owner reports that he replaced his first tire after driving 21,000 miles, and after driving 31,000 miles is still using the two original front tires. Many others report having driven upwards of 15,000 miles before replacing tires.

Would you like to enjoy such economy and service. Come in and we will give you some additional Star facts that will easily demonstrate the Star's superiority in the field of low cost transportation. Let us show you why the Star is so reliable and economical.

CAPT. FRANCIS R. MADDOCKS

In the recent death of Capt. Francis R. Maddocks, Ovi's Head Jones one of its oldest residents. Although he had been in ill health for a number of years his death came as a shock to his family and friends.

Tuesday, April 21, saw a decided change for the worse and the end came Wednesday evening. "Capt. Frank" as he was known to the young and old of the community, was born in Lincolnville, 34 years ago, coming to Ovi's Head when a very young boy. In 1884 he was married to Ernestine Dyer, and by this union there were three sons and three daughters, all living except the son John, who died several years ago.

Those who came in contact with Capt. Maddocks always found him kind and thoughtful, always interested in the public enterprises of the village as well as being much interested in governmental affairs at home and abroad. On these questions he was exceptionally well posted. He was a very successful master mason, having followed the sea all his life until his retirement 20 years ago. During his sea life he commanded the following vessels: Harriet, Edward Stanley, Caroline Knight, Alleghany, Adrian, George Fleeting, George Perry, St. Elmo, Ann Eliza, and William Rice. He was master of the last named craft at the time of his retirement. With his sterling qualities and kindness toward others he always won the confidence and esteem of his fellow associates. In his home life he was ever found a kind and loving husband and father. Those left in sorrow by his death are his wife, and five children—Mrs. Addie F. Strout, Mrs. Edith F. Ginn, Miss Daisy Maddocks, Manford and Fred Maddocks, together with one sister Helena, and brother Eugene in the West.

MRS. ROSE ROGERS

Mrs. Rose F. widow of Thomas J. Rogers, died at her home, 13 Carroll street, Thursday morning. She is survived by a son, George A. Rogers, of South Portland; three brothers, John H. Dearborn, with whom she made her home, Ivory W. Dearborn of Westbrook and Fred A. Footman of Lewiston; three daughters, Mrs. Annie Arlin of Bangor, Mrs. Angie Doak and Mrs. Ethel M. Hart of Rockland. Funeral services will be held at the Burial Parlor this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The Saturday Night Club meets this evening at the Country Club.

Members of the Country Club enjoyed themselves famously Thursday evening when a double bill was presented, consisting of a roast beef supper, and a dance. In the absence of Mrs. R. L. Knowlton, who was scheduled to be chairman of the committee, Mr. Knowlton officiated in his usual acceptable manner. Other members of the committee were Mr. and Mrs. E. M. O'Neil, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Adriel U. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Orne, Mr. and Mrs. Ensign Olin, Dr. and Mrs. T. L. McBeath and E. B. MacAllister. Marsh's Orchestra furnished music for the dancing, in which about 30 couples participated.

The report of the Woman's Educational Club meeting and other important matters are unavoidably deferred to Tuesday's issue.

Rev. and Mrs. B. P. Browne leave Monday for Boston where they will attend the evangelistic conference at Tremont Temple. They expect to return Friday.

Last Wednesday evening the World Wide Guild of the Littlefield Memorial church entertained the Guild girls of the Camden Baptist church. Those present were Mrs. Ernest Holman, Marjorie Beveridge, Jeannette Stahl, Winifred Burkett, Theresa Shuman, Margaret McAuley, Ruth Young, Harriet Pinkham, Sylvia Langman, Amy Brown, Elsie Clark, Helen Holman, Lillian Clark, Alice Yates and Louise Dyer. Supper was served at 6:30 by Mabel Seavey, Evelyn Jacobs, Ruth Allen and Dorothy Choate. Games were played. The Guild song and yells were given just before the good nights were said.

Mrs. A. B. Packard is seriously ill with pneumonia, two nurses and several physicians being in attendance. Last night she was considered as holding her own.

The first meeting of the Girls' Friendly Society was held at St. Peter's parish rooms last evening. Mrs. Charles Hull was appointed president of the branch. Ruth Pillsbury was elected chairman and Lillian Parker secretary. Eight girls were present with several associates. Mrs. Esther Bird gave the group its first lesson in basketry. Each girl sketched her own design, to be worked out later in the baskets. Refreshments were served and each girl received a May basket filled with candy.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Allen left today for Madras, to attend the funeral of Mr. Allen's uncle, Willis Allen.

Following the custom which they inaugurated several years ago the ladies of the First Baptist Circle yesterday morning served a May breakfast in the vestry. The affair was under the chairmanship of Mrs. Annie Simmons, whose committee comprised Mrs. E. B. Ingraham, Mrs. Elmer S. Bird, Mrs. Ernest Hager, Mrs. H. L. Hix, Miss Carolyn Erskine, Miss Alice Erskine, Mrs. Charles Lindsey, Mrs. L. W. Fickett, Mrs. Harold Glidden, Mrs. Coeta Whitmore, Mrs. George A. Brewster and Miss Elizabeth Hager. The tables looked very pretty with bouquets of jonquills and the tempting interior decorations. The breakfast was patronized by about 100 persons, who came away abundantly satisfied.

HER 90th BIRTHDAY

A group of Ash Point folks went Thursday to the home of Mrs. Hannah Rackliffe, who lives with her son, Patrick, and daughter, Clarice, at Ballyhack. The occasion of their visit was Mrs. Rackliffe's 90th birthday, and being oldest woman in the town of Owl's Head it was considered eminently fitting to extend greetings in this manner. A birthday cake had been provided by Mrs. Walter Bray, and Mrs. Rackliffe's callers supplemented this with a basket of fruit and a number of appropriate gifts. Mrs. Rackliffe is no longer blessed with good vision, but her memory is little short of marvelous and in the course of a most interesting afternoon's chat she recalled very clearly incidents which had taken place three-quarters of a century ago. In the visiting delegation were Rev. and Mrs. H. E. White, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mrs. Charles Crowley, Mrs. Linwood Dyer and daughter Eleanor, Mrs. H. R. Curtis, Mrs. George Hurd and Charles Harvey. The occasion was a very happy one for the nonagenarian, as it certainly was for her visitors.

THE WAY OF A SHIP

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
"Ships are but boards, sailors but men."—Merchant of Venice.
Early in April as I came over the Charlestown bridge on the Elevated, I saw for the first time the Japanese steamer Raifuku Maru loading at pier 40, a staunch looking steamer of 3867 tons. To look at her you would not have been afraid to trust your life on her; but she now lies at the bottom of the ocean, a thousand fathoms deep. Even the steamers that reached her could not save the crew. "Ships are but boards." She was only seven years old, no fault of the steamer, cargo shifted, nothing could save her.

Excellent for obstinate constipation. C. H. Moor & Co., Druggists.

THE WAY OF A SHIP

In the same paper that told of the loss of the Japanese steamer was printed the story of the 54-foot Satellite, manned by three Friendship men, caught in the same gale—boat sprang a leak, motors out of commission, got canyons enough on her to work her into Provincetown. "There are three things which are too wonderful for me," yea, four, which I know not, and one of them is, the way of a ship in the midst of the sea. Boze. Somerville, Mass.

OUR GRANGE CORNER

Limerock Valley Pomona Has Fine Entertainment At Wessaweskeag.

Limerock Valley Pomona met with Wessaweskeag Grange, April 25, with Worthy Master Frank E. Post in the chair. Ethel Rowell welcomed the guests and Fred W. Cassens responded for Pomona with a pleasing original poem. Robert McIntosh favored the Grange with a vocal solo, accompanied by Mrs. Ralph Nutt and responded to an encore. Harold Nash entertained with a story and Mrs. Charles Watts and Miss Susie Sleeper played a duet. Georgia Snow read a selection. Mrs. Charles Watts gave a piano solo. Mrs. Ella A. Sprague recited and responded to an encore.

"Knox County—the most beautiful spot in Maine—do we wish it to be the playground of America?" was discussed by Fred A. Blackington, Harold H. Nash, Fred W. Cassens, Post Master Samuel E. Norwood of Knox Pomona, Worthy Master Post, James C. Morse, Clark E. Pomona, and Post Master Jesse A. Tolman. All desired summer visitors.

After a fine supper, the Pomona degree was conferred on a class of candidates. After the degree work, the lecturer of Wessaweskeag Grange, offered a piano duet by Miss Susie Sleeper and Mrs. Charles Watts. Mrs. Harvey Hooper sang, playing her own accompaniment on the piano and assisted by Mr. Hooper on bass viol. They were three times recalled. Georgia Snow gave a reading. Robert McIntosh gave a vocal solo, accompanied by Carleen Nutt, and was three times recalled. Little Crowley gave a reading and Mrs. Charles Watts and Mrs. Leroy Wiggin gave a piano duet and were recalled.

During the meeting the resignations of Mr. and Mrs. Guy C. Sheldon, as assistant and lady assistant, were received and Charles H. Pendleton and Miss Flora Young elected to those offices and duly installed by Worthy Lecturer Gould. After the close of the meeting a social dance was enjoyed. About 95 members were present.

The next meeting is to be held at Penobscot View Grange, some time in May.

IN THE REALM OF MUSIC

What Our Home Artists and Others Are Doing To Promote the Interests of This Engaging Art.

We know that the Rubinstein Club was wise in choosing Miss Esther Harrington, soprano, with Mrs. Ruth Sanborn, accompanist, to appear on the program of the concert given this week in connection with the Federation of Music Clubs in Portland. It being felt that these two young women would perform in a manner that would reflect credit on the club as a whole—yet it was none the less gratifying to chat with someone who attended this concert Thursday evening and to hear a first-hand report of our two Rockland artists. While I do not disclose the name of my informant, I will say that she is distinctly musical, both by training and sense appreciation, and very fair in her judgment. She tells me that Miss Harrington in the first place was a thing of joy to behold—charmingly dressed in a semi-evening affair, in one of the red-brown shades, with the feather trimming that is so popular at the present time, well groomed and with splendid poise, yet appearing extremely youthful. One woman in the audience was heard to say: "How old do you suppose she is—more than seventeen?"

Miss Harrington sang without notes, and gave her number, "Face, Face," from "Forza del Destino," with ease and assurance, her voice being full and round, well placed, and ringing with expression, style and sweetness. She made a fine impression, which manifested itself the moment she began to sing, and the narrator tells me she overheard someone say Miss Harrington's number was played in a brilliant, finished manner, standing out to quote my narrator, from the other accompaniments by its high order. The Rubinstein Club was further represented at the concert by Mrs. Dora F. Bird, Mrs. Emily Stevens, Mrs. Mayron W. Benner and Damiel K. Gardner.

As many readers know, Miss Harrington is a pupil of Lillian Sprague Copping, of this city, having studied with no other teacher, and it is needless to add that Mrs. Copping is justly proud of the fine appearance and splendid performance of her pupil. The Rubinstein Club also feels very proud of both Miss Harrington and Mrs. Sanborn. I am permitted to quote the following letter which Mrs. Copping received yesterday from George Thornton Edwards, the distinguished Portland musician and author of the well-known work, "Music and Musicians," of Maine, and well known in Rockland, where he assisted in organizing the Liberty Chorus during the war: "My dear Mrs. Copping: May I congratulate you on your charming pupil, who sang so delightfully at the Federation Concert this evening. Miss Harrington is certainly a credit to her accomplished teacher, and I congratulate you both. Cordially yours, George Thornton Edwards, Portland, April 29, at 10.30 p. m.

Miss Augusta Healey of this city, who is at present in Portland, was among the fortunate ones to attend the McCormack concert, and very thoughtfully sent me a program, which I am giving below. Mr. McCormack was assisted by Lauri Kennedy, cellist. Miss Healey writes in the margin of the program: "All Mr. McCormack's numbers were wonderful and the cellist was fine, too. Both responded to many encores."

Mr. McCormack

I note from reviews of Mr. McCormack's recent recitals that he is receiving particular notice on such songs as those by Handel and Bach. I have heard him sing "Oh, Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me?" and it is hard to believe there is anything in vocalism lovelier than the legato he uses in this number. Edwin Schneider accompanied both artists, and it is needless to say that he was all that could be desired in this capacity. His years of service with Mr. McCormack is a testimonial to this.

Another Rockland lover and promoter of music is gone into the Great Beyond—A. Ross Weeks. What a great love he had for music, and up to only a few years ago kept in active touch with it. My acquaintance with him covered only a few years, and the beginning of it was through music—singing in different choruses, etc. Who doesn't remember him in "The Mikado," especially in the "Tit-willow" song? He loved band music, too, and had a fund of humorous stories to tell about his band days. His life touched music in many ways, and always with it was that jolly, friendly, kindly manner that endeared him to all who knew him. It made his scores of friends heartick, especially those bound to him by ties of affection. To see him yielding to the encroachment of the illness that laid his hand upon him. A sweet, fine gentleman, whose memory will always linger with his countless friends.

In reading the account of services held at the Pine Street Methodist Episcopal church in Portland last Sunday which was attended by Old Fellows and Rebekahs in observance of the 106th anniversary, I noticed the Knickerbocker Quartette as supplying music. The name naturally attracted my attention because of the interest we feel in Dr. C. A. Knickerbocker, pastor of the Universalist church in this city, although I believe the quartette is not a namesake of his.

Mrs. Ruth Sanborn tells me that her plans for the Memory Contest during National Music Week are beginning to shape themselves along the desired lines. She says the public school pupils have shown the keenest interest and feels that the final contest will be vitally important. The co-operation she has received from the pupils has been rather a surprise to her, and a way to shape themselves along the desired lines. She says the public school pupils have shown the keenest interest and feels that the final contest will be vitally important. The co-operation she has received from the pupils has been rather a surprise to her, and a way to shape themselves along the desired lines.

PARK THEATRE

"The Air Mail," a Paramount picture featuring Warner Baxter, Billie Dove, Mary Brian and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., will be shown for the last time today. "The Stormy Sea" with an all Star Cast will complete an excellent program for today.

William de Mille's latest Paramount production, "Men and Women," which comes to the Park on Monday and Tuesday is a fine domestic drama laid in New York City. It has to do with a young married couple and their longing for the finer things of life—even though they be beyond their means. Near disaster is the result. Featured in the leading roles of the production are Richard Dix, Nell Hamilton, Claire Adams and Robert Edison. Dix is a bank cashier and Miss Adams plays his wife. She craves pretty clothes. Hamilton, in the role of Ned Seabury, is assistant to Dix in the bank. He has been gambling in Wall Street with great success. He loves Mrs. Prescott and presents her with valuable gifts, much to the displeasure of the husband. The upshot of the whole thing is that Dix invests some bank funds in Wall Street and they are wiped out. He faces prison until the wife pleads with the men higher up that she alone is his wife. The husband stole that she might have nice things to wear and intended to pay back everything when he "cleaned up" on the market. Her plea saves him and he is given another chance.—adv.

The High School paper, "The Cadron" has gone to press. With Philip Rounds as editor-in-chief it can't help being "a good number."

COMMON THINGS

Often Overlooked, But Highly Entertaining When Once Looked Into With Inquiring Mind.

By Adella F. Veazie

Some Childish Adventures

I had always been taught that no snake in this part of the country possessed fangs, therefore no snake could harm me, but for some reason, never quite clear to me, all snakes must be treated as enemies and killed, if possible, so naturally I killed every one I encountered. My usual method of murder was to jump on the victim with both feet, then holding the squirming creature down firmly with one foot I banged his head with the heel of the shoe on the other foot until he ceased to squirm and his head was reduced to a shapeless mass.

I was playing on a big flat rock under a birch tree at the edge of the first gully in "Jonty's" pasture, when I saw a movement at the side of the rock and stepped off to investigate. The head and shoulders (does a snake have shoulders?) of a big black snake were thrust forth and my duty became plain to me: I must kill that snake. So, picking up a long branch which had been broken off—I had probably broken it myself at some former time, swinging among the trees—I marched heavily forth to conquer. The branch was about six feet long and rather awkward for a small girl to handle, but taking it by its smaller end I aimed a blow at the snake, with the stout butt-end, which missed him. He raised his head, pulled himself out a little further and took his turn at striking. His aim was much surer than mine and his teeth became so firmly fixed in the wood of my weapon that he could not withdraw them.

By this time I began to grow scared, for this snake certainly had teeth and I knew no difference between teeth and fangs. He must be killed, however, so I held bravely to my weapon and pulled hard on it, bringing out a couple more feet of snake whose teeth still clung tenaciously to the business end of the branch. Once more I pulled and brought out another long section of snake as big as my wrist. By this time I began to wonder how I could kill him. He had my club and wouldn't or couldn't let go. I dared not jump on such a monster and there were no stones near with which I might crush him. For once in my young life I used a little reason and when I had given one more desperate yank, and only succeeded in yanking out more snake, I dropped my club and hiked for home, touching only the high spots on my way.

That snake must have been fully five feet long—I thought him nearer ten at the time—and it scared me so that I never dared play under that tree again, and to this day I hesitate to stand on that rock though I know the snake must have died years ago. Afterward, the difference between teeth and fangs was explained to me, but I was told at the same time that a black snake of that size might coil about me and give me a hard squeeze—perhaps choke me—but I have never encountered one of any size since, so have had no opportunity to allude to demonstrate his choking abilities.

Another time I was over in "Jull-ann's" back field, on the big knoll above where the hay barn now stands. Strawberries grew abundantly there and all along the stone walls were hazel bushes, blackberry and blackberry trees with an occasional blackberry vine. As I stood looking about and enjoying the view I heard a rustling among those hazel bushes by the wall, and turning my head in that direction I found the bushes shaking violently. In those days I had no discretion whatever, but always went diving headlong into any situation which seemed to require investigation; so down the short hill I sped, grasped a cluster of hazel bushes in either hand and holding them wide apart I gazed down at the cause of the commotion. Entirely unafraid and self-possessed, he stood and gazed back at me with bright inquisitive eyes as though he would say:

"Who are you and what do you think you are going to do?"

This we stared for some little time, a mutual admiration society, out there half a mile from any dwelling, with words all about us, two of nature's children with none to molest us or make us afraid. After a while, not knowing what sort of an animal I had found, and seeing that he had no intention of retreating, I slowly backed away and went on with my berry picking. When I got home and reported my discovery, describing his black and white stripes and his bushy tail and adding that he was so tame that I could have caught him easily, a general shout of laughter went up and for a long time afterward I was teased unmercifully. Late that fall some one showed me a dead skunk, the perfume of which still lingered about him, and then I realized that what might have happened to me had I attempted to capture my pretty striped friend.

Since that time I have seen a good many of these much maligned animals, but never one so large as the one I found that day in the hazel bushes. Had I been at all frightened I might think my fears magnified his size, but I had no thought of fear. No animal had ever harmed me and I had no idea that one would ever attempt to do so. Since that experience I have always claimed that a skunk will not trouble you unless you trouble him first, and a magazine article which I read last year agrees with me on this point. It was written by the manager of a skunk farm and a picture showed his little girl seated in a chair with pet skunks all about her, one standing on its hind feet with front paws on her knees. Of course there had been deodorized, but the article stated that those which had not been subjected to this process were just as harmless and safe to handle provided they were not injured or frightened. A few years ago, riding down the Kiln hill with Freeman Smith's wife, we saw a mother skunk and three little ones playing about the site of the old creamery and those skunk kittens were as cunning and playful as any cat kittens I ever saw.

Writes John Dwyer from Hyannis, Mass.: "Those bulbous roots to which Adella Veazie referred in a recent article are called in my part and they are some thing in my field. The grass grows from one to five feet in height."

COUNTRY BLESSINGS

Knowing the Wild Flowers Lends Great Joy to Rural Life.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:

One of the greatest blessings of living in the country is to know the trees, shrubs and smaller plants within one's own locality. Thanks to the school teachers, who for several years past have sought to interest their young pupils in these matters, we now seldom encounter persons entirely ignorant of them. In olden times many persons knew the wild plants, for they hunted them out for their medicinal qualities.

During any season in New England there are delightful places to study Nature. A stroll beside some bright and sunny brook, or in a woodland path leading over hills or through a valley, gives much pleasure to a soul attuned to the beautiful.

Study from text books is necessary, but the essential requirement is to study plant life in its own habitat, especially when entered by the butterfly, bees or dragon flies flitting from flower to flower. And the birds are always with us in such places. The sea shore carries its own special vegetative life as well as its own birds, from which the inland differs.

Searching for a new flower, often finding one unexpectedly, trains the power of observation and affords great joy. Afoot, afield or astream affords relaxation as well as healthful recreation. Now is the time to revive our interest over old hunting grounds, if new ones are not available.

"F. C. R." of Manchester, N. H. in a recent communication to the "As the World Wags" column of the Boston Herald, said: "Not long ago I noted in your column somebody's exultant claim of having found the first harbingers of spring, to wit, certain pussy willows in bloom. Thoreau said, somewhere, that he had spent 30 years in seeking the first sign of spring, and I believe he died with the quest unended. Though I do not attempt to say what we can consider the first sign of spring, it is certain that the tale is old when willows announce it. The witch hazel blossoms in December and January, year in and year out, as does the cultivated lilbert, yet most of our writers seem to have overlooked them."

I know nothing of the lilbert, but I am sure the witch hazel in Union, Maine, blooms late in October and in November; and the seed capsules of the previous season remain on the shrubs with the touselled clusters of yellow flowers. That I am sure about, but I am told that in January or December these capsules of the previous year split suddenly and forcibly eject the four seeds of 15 to 45 feet! So that makes the witch hazel the last to bloom instead of a harbinger of spring.

In February I walked over frozen snowbanks and plucked a few bare sprigs of Forsythia (Golden Bell), cherry, plum, lilac and apple branches. I placed them in water with charcoal and sprinkled them occasionally with tepid water and kept them in a warm room. Late in March these branches were a delightful sight. They blossomed in their regular outdoor order—first the Golden Bell, then the plum and later the lovely pink clusters of Chamaedaphne calyculata (Cassandra or Leatherleaf), Potentilla palmaria (Sweet Chokebush) earlier than Tussilago farfara (Coltsfoot); the insignificant Antennaria, especially A. neglecta (Pussy's Toes or Ladies' Tobacco); and Chrysopsis amurensis (Golden saxifrage) earlier than I find the arbutus.

Soon those delicate little white violets will be found in their mossy dells. Their flowers are of indescribable purity, and their fragrance delicious. Lillian A. Cole, Union, April 13.

Since that time I have seen a good many of these much maligned animals, but never one so large as the one I found that day in the hazel bushes. Had I been at all frightened I might think my fears magnified his size, but I had no thought of fear. No animal had ever harmed me and I had no idea that one would ever attempt to do so. Since that experience I have always claimed that a skunk will not trouble you unless you trouble him first, and a magazine article which I read last year agrees with me on this point. It was written by the manager of a skunk farm and a picture showed his little girl seated in a chair with pet skunks all about her, one standing on its hind feet with front paws on her knees. Of course there had been deodorized, but the article stated that those which had not been subjected to this process were just as harmless and safe to handle provided they were not injured or frightened. A few years ago, riding down the Kiln hill with Freeman Smith's wife, we saw a mother skunk and three little ones playing about the site of the old creamery and those skunk kittens were as cunning and playful as any cat kittens I ever saw.

Writes John Dwyer from Hyannis, Mass.: "Those bulbous roots to which Adella Veazie referred in a recent article are called in my part and they are some thing in my field. The grass grows from one to five feet in height."

First of a series of advertisements regarding the telephone situation in New England

To Maine Telephone Users

We need more telephone revenue. It can come only through an increase in rates paid by telephone users. Therefore, we are planning to file a revised schedule of rates with the Public Utilities Commission of Maine, before which our case will be presented in complete detail.

Our purpose in making this announcement is simply to assure our customers that this action is necessary. In no business is the good-will of customers more vital than in ours. Therefore, we feel that we ought to state the reasons for our need of increased revenue, and this we plan to do in succeeding bulletins.

Stated briefly, we cannot continue to give you adequate service at the rates you now pay, because they do not fully cover the costs of serving you. What we are asking is only a fair increase in rates to meet the necessary outlay made in your behalf.

EMPIRE THEATRE

Today will be the last opportunity to see "In Love With Love," featuring an all Star Cast. There is also chapter 14 of "The Riddle Rider."

When "Honor Among Men" opens at the Empire Theatre Monday for a two day run a new star will make his debut in local motion picture circles. It is Edmund Lowe, the sterling actor who created the feature roles in the William Fox screen version of "The Fool" and "The Silent Command." This picture, which is an adaptation of Richard Harding Davis' novel "The King's Jockey," is a romantic story of love and loyalty in the midst of royal intrigue and trickery.

In the role of Prince Kalony, known because of his loyalty to a deposed monarch as the King's Jockey, Mr. Lowe has a part that is ideally suited to his temperament and dramatic qualifications. William Fox has given this production an extravagant presentation and has surrounded it with a splendid cast for his bow as a star. Claire Adams is the leading lady.—adv.

BIRD'S ROOFS

PROSLATE FOURS

Bird's Proslate Fours are 40" long and are extra heavy. They form three layers of waterproof and spark-proof protection on the roof.

1. They have an unusually smooth, even surface of natural red, green, or blue-black crushed slate.
2. They have the distinctive arched cut-out.
3. They are four-in-one shingles, are quickly laid and save labor and nails.

Proslate Fours are made by Bird & Son, Inc., (Est. 1795), manufacturers of Neponset Twin Shingles, Shingle Design Roll Roofing, Paroid Roofing, Neponset Black Building Paper and Neponset Board. There's a Bird product for every sort of building!

We are headquarters for Bird's roofings, building papers and wall board.
