DO YOU KNOW?
That many automobile owners carry insurance that covers injuries to others or damage to the property of others, but if their own CAR IS DAMAGED, THE POLICY DOES NOT PAY A CENT!
That you should carry insurance PROTECTING YOUR OWN CAR, because the other fellow very often either will not or cannot pay for the damage he does to your car.
That we have a SPECIAL FORM of this insurance AT A VERY LOW RATE, SOLD BY NO OTHER COMPANY, THAT DOES NOT REQUIRE YOU TO DEDUCT $50 or $100 FROM EVERY CLAIM.

thought, and held for a reasonable time, is going to bring a big return. To show how values have grown where I am located I can call your attention to the fact that some business properties have jumped from $10 a front foot to $450, and I think there is an even larger future.

"The great highways, schools and banks, the great financial interests and the great vision of the progressive men and women are responsible for making Florida what it is today. Everybody is a booster, and if the same spirit could be shown in Maine the result would be a tremendous boom toward making Maine the great summer playground of the nation.

"To illustrate how some properties down there have appreciated in value I can quote a Rockland man—Frank H. Whitney, who tells me that 15 years ago he could have bought the land at the corner of Fourth street and Central avenue in St. Petersburg for $2000. Today the land alone is worth $150,000.

"They call St. Petersburg 'The Sunshine City,' and sunshine is certainly what they capitalize down there. Summer flannels and straw hats offer to most people an appeal which overcoats and overalls do not possess. If you do any slipping in St. Petersburg it will be on a banana peel and not on ice. Next winter will see the biggest season Florida has ever known. The hotels on the West Coast are nearly all booked up already.

"Large pullman buses, carrying 30 or 40 persons, are much in use in that State and are an excellent means of transportation, much in use by the real estate developers.

"Florida is famed not only as a tourist State, but is making rapid strides in fruit and produce. Thousands of acres are being brought for truck farms, and here is found another reason why the price of land is taking such a jump. Rural lands which are today selling for forty dollars or fifty dollars an acre will in the near future be worth a great deal more. Among those who are investing in farm lands are people from the Dakotas, Montana and other Western States. When they buy they become permanent residents.

"St. Petersburg has a musical organization known the country over as the 'Kettle Band.' Traveling in its own pullman car it is about to start on its summer tour, coming as far North as New York and then striking Westward. The band is maintained by the St. Petersburg Chamber of Commerce and progress is being made in the city. St. Petersburg now has a permanent population of 43,000 and entertains each season 75,000 tourists. Among the most prominent of these winter visitors is Cyrus H. K. Curtis, who summers in Camden. He is a great booster for St. Petersburg and Maine. I was very proud of our State when it won first prize in the States Festival last winter for having the best float in the parade.

"The New York Giants and Boston Braves had their spring training quarters in St. Petersburg. I have frequently had the pleasure of meeting Babe Ruth, who, by the way, is a heavy investor in the Pasadena Estates. I found this Home Run King very pleasant, but didn't try to discuss the fine points of baseball with him. Thomas Melghan, the well known movie actor, and his associates, bought 10,000 acres near our properties in Ocala, and other large financial interests are buying large tracts to hold for future development.

"While it is true that investors are often disappointed in not making sudden wealth through Florida real estate I have never known of a case where the buyer waited a year or two and failed to make a good return.

"The East Coast of Florida has also had a big year—the biggest season, in fact, for Palm Beach, West Palm Beach and Miami.

"Outside of meats which are high priced, the cost of living in Florida is much cheaper than it is in the North, and you do not have to buy coal and heavy clothing. A tourist's expense depends upon whether he lives in an expensive hotel, or rents a small bungalow.

"I was glad when the 'Boom Maine' movement started, and I hope the people of this State will get behind Gov. Brewster and the committee. I always believed that it pays to advertise, and Maine, with its great opportunities, should be easily able to convince the world that it can equal in summer what Florida offers for winter.

"It always seemed good to get The Courier-Gazette, and I was never so busy but that I read it from top to bottom. I saw many pleasant things, and I was saddened when it brought news of friends who have passed on."

"THE CHARM SCHOOL" SCORES
High School Annual Senior Play Made a Decided Hit Last Night—Who and What It Was All About.

Rockland's fine new High School auditorium was given a fitting christening last night in the very successful presentation of "The Charm School" by the Senior Class. A good crowd was on hand at the opening, and a capacity house is bound to obtain tonight when the fair fame of the play is broadcast. Not only was the production received with enthusiasm from the first but the specialties and the orchestration by Marsh was liberally applauded. Mayor Snow in a few brief opening remarks regarding the fine $150,000 structure, its financing and its meaning to the youth of the community was given closest attention.

"The Charm School" is possessed of an amusing plot whereby a young automobile salesman who has pronounced ideas on matters of education, suddenly finds himself possessed of a deceptively boarding school for girls, and has thrust upon him as a part of his faculty four good looking but rather frivolous young women. The story runs rapidly from one highly amusing incident into a still more complex situation with a sustained interest and fine vein of humor persisting to the final vigorous smack.

Raymond Perry in the male lead as Austin Bevans has a splendid opportunity to display real talent and a retentive memory. David McKenzie (Dwight Mosher) as his crutious adviser precipitated several amusing situations, especially with their intimate friend George Boyd (Horace Maxey) who proved that he knew mathematics but not women and found himself in the embarrassing position of being in love with the same girl as the leading actor.

The Simpkins twins were possessed of a remarkably clever make up and had no difficulty in getting a laugh any time. Homer Johns proved himself a most amusing and kind hearted deep dyed villain and none would have suspected Philip Rounds of possessing such a fierce temper or frowning voice. He carried through several bits of very difficult acting with spirit and vigor which demanded and received applause.

Elise Benedotti (Miss Joanna Patterson) proved a beautiful and very capable leading woman, carrying off a very difficult part with grace and naturalness. She it was who was the first victim of Bevans' "idea" of running a girls' school to create charm instead of cold intellect.

Elizabeth Knight as Sally Boyd made a distinct hit with her bubbling humor and natural wit. One of the finest characterizations seen on a local stage in many moons was made by Miss Winifred Eichen in the part of the displaced head of the school. Her dignity, beautiful enunciation and perfect poise won universal commendation. Another part that called for exceptional retentiveness of memory and was carried through letter perfect was the sore smitten Miss Hays (Miss Alma Nutt) who combined considerable quick wit with some fine lines to make a thoroughly enjoyable character. And that insouciant quietude by a blue-eyed innocent, Muriel Doughty (Miss Marion Marsh) were too deliciously natural for words.

To Miss Doris Black was freely given full credit for the uniform excellence of the evening's entertainment. She coached the play and supervised the details as a part of her course in English to the great satisfaction of an appreciative Senior Class and a well pleased public. The specialties included a fine saxophone number by A. Fein, twice recalled, and a comedy sketch by Herbert Prescott and Norman Waldron as the Claret Sisters which carried the house by storm.

No show can be stronger than its management, whatever the talent may be, and this is the formidable organization lined up behind general manager Miss Doris Black.

MAIN STREET AS IT LOOKED BEFORE THE 1853 FIRE

(SCENES FROM AN OLD PANORAMA—NO. 4)

[This is one of a series of 8 views of the west side of Rockland's Main street, made from a panorama painted about 1850. The Courier-Gazette includes communications from its readers in connection therewith.]

The steeply faintly shown near the extreme left of this picture belonged to the original Methodist church on Union street, to which the present remodeled structure succeeded. To the right of it is the spire of the original Universalist church, also on Union street, which also gave way to the present building, erected in 1875.

At the picture's left (Main street) the building shown was for a generation occupied by Reuben M. Pillsbury, then by Nathan A. Packard, now by the Chinese laundryman. It is one of the three small buildings of the period on that lot, known as "Sanborn's Row," and owned by Miss Lucy A. Farnsworth.

The identity of the next building is not established. That on the corner (Spring street) was built and occupied by Ambrose Snow, and later by Wilson & White, groceries, and was scorched by the big fire, which did not spread south of Spring street. This stretch of ground between the R. M. Pillsbury store and Spring street was shortly following the picture occupied by the block erected by J. S. Willoughby and Caleb G. Moffitt, in which was Moody's drug store, Moffitt & Earle, tailors, Walter J. Wood, hardware, etc. The present block succeeded the first one, which fire destroyed, and has as tenants the Guarantee Clothing Store, C. W. Sheldon's drug store, V. A. Leach, dry goods, W. A. Johnson, drug store, and various office tenants overhead.

Crossing Spring street, the wooden building shown was occupied by Larkin Snow, corn and flour. Following the fire a 3-story brick block was built, where Mr. Snow did business, followed by John Wakefield and Allen Litchfield, and then by the Legrande Restaurant, in the times preceding prohibition, when its proprietor Charles S. Coombs did a roaring business with the granite cutters of those days. On the second floor Dr. Trussell, dentist, and Dr. C. N. Germaine had offices. In the third story was the armory of the Rockland City Guards, where public dances were held. W. O. Hewett's dry goods store last occupied the building, which was torn down to make way for the modern structure of the Security Trust Co.

The next building was owned by William A. Farnsworth, a foremost merchant of the times, where he carried on his grocery business and suffered by the fire a loss of $13,000. The building that he put up on the ruins still stands and houses the shoe business of Walter H. Spear.

Next north is the store of Samuel Pillsbury, "West India goods and groceries," one of the rich merchants of that day. It was in the rear of this building that the fire broke out. Mr. Pillsbury's loss was $15,000.

The next building was the restaurant whose sign read "Peter De Pray for Eatables." Mr. De Pray was a Portuguese something of a character about town. A small fire one time broke out in his restaurant during his absence. Coming up the street Peter met a friend. "Where's the fire?" he asked. "In your place," was the answer. Peter was incredulous. "That cannot be," said he, "for I have the key in my pocket."

Following the big fire Samuel Pillsbury built on the land between School street and the Farnsworth store a handsome 3-story brick block with iron front which in the progress of years sheltered many tenants—Dr. F. G. Cook, druggist, Jacob Shaw, dry goods, W. P. Hurley, shoe store, W. J. Coakley, druggist, Huston's bookstore, and others. Mr. Coakley became its owner and sold to David Talbot, who rebuilt it into the beautiful building that shelters the W. O. Hewett Co. department store.

The fifth picture in this series will show the section between School and Limerock streets, including the old Commercial House, which was destroyed in the fire.

UNION RECOVERING
Masons Vote To Build Two-Story Structure — Many Sightseers.

Hundred of sightseers have visited the ruins of Union's big fire since Monday morning, and are unanimously of the opinion that the disaster could easily have been a much more serious one.

Union Lodge of Masons took prompt action, voting to build a two-story frame structure, about 60x30 on a site which has not been selected, but which will probably be, a little apart from the congested business section. There will be stores underneath the hall. The Lodge had $1500 insurance on its portion of Monck's block.

Gordon & Lovejoy in or near whose store the big fire started have resumed business in the James Fossett place.

Thomaston 8, Union 4

Thomaston High increased its string of victories yesterday at the expense of Union, which, however, gave the champions a good battle up to the 7th inning. Feehan was going at his usual clip and fanned 16. The score:

Thomaston 2 0 0 1 1 2 0 X—8
Union 0 1 2 1 0 0 0—4

Base hits, Thomaston 7, Union 6. Errors, Thomaston 3, Union 4. Batters, Feehan and Vinal; Newbert and Grinnell and McFarland and Newbert.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM
If I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

THE DESTRUCTION OF SENNACHERIB
The Assyrian came down like a wolf on the fold,
And his cohorts were gleaming in purple and gold;
And he slew and he looted, and he laid waste to the land,
And the sheen of his spears was like stars on the sand.
When the blue wave rolls nightly on deep Galilee.

Like the leaves of the forest when summer is green,
That host with their banners at sunset were seen;
Like the leaves of the forest when autumn hath blown,
That host on the morrow lay withered and brown.

For the Angel of Death spread his wings on the blast,
And breathed in the face of the foe as he passed;
And the eyes of the sleepers were dazedly and chill,
And their hearts but once heaved, and for ever grew still.

And there lay the steed with his nostril all wide,
But through it there rolled not the breath of his pride;
And the foam of his gaoping lay white on the turf,
And cold as the spray of the rock-battering surf.

And there lay the rider distorted and pale,
With the dew on his brow, and the rust on his mail;
And the tents were all silent, the banners alone,
The lances unlifted, the trumpets unblown.

And the widows of Ashur are loud in their wail,
And the idols are broke in the temple of Babel;
And the night of the Gentile, unsmote by the sword,
Hath melted like snow in the glance of the Lord!

—George Gordon Byron.

The Courier-Gazette

THREE TIMES A WEEK

CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT
 Rockland, Maine, May 19, 1925.
 Personally appeared Frank R. Lydell who on oath declares that he is president of the office of The Courier-Gazette, and that of the issue of this paper of May 16, 1925, there was printed a total of 6,301 copies.
 Before me, FRANK R. MILLER,
 Notary Public.

But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly. For your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him.—Matt. 6:6, 8.

ENTERTAINING GOVERNORS

When Governor Brewster brings to Maine his fellow-Governors of other States, in the highly commendable conference which he has arranged, we wish he might regard with favorable eye the multiplied advantages that Rockland offers for the place of meeting. It is a part of the program, as we understand it, to give the visitors a view of Maine's magnificent seacoast. Nowhere can this be more advantageously obtained than in the region in the midst of which is set the splendid seaport Rockland, with its spacious harbor where a navy might ride and a vicinity of mountains and islands that supply an ideal scenic accompaniment.

It is suggested that the presidential yacht Mayflower is to bring from Swamscott to the conference President Coolidge, and that in the connection there will be a demonstration by the Army and Navy dirigibles and airplanes. Here again Rockland is the ideal spot. The Pictoka with her mooring mast for the dirigibles has already been here and has knowledge of our superb harbor facilities. For the airplanes, our spacious Community Park supplies landing grounds ample and perfect.

When to these natural advantages are added the beautiful and commodious Samoset Hotel as a place for the entertainment of the visitors, it is difficult to imagine any section of the coast so perfectly equipped as this for fulfilling the widespread desire that the Governors' Conference shall register the highest possible success.

We are confident that Governor Brewster will give ample consideration to these briefly suggested details which bear so close a relation to that success so greatly desired.

MONEY FOR THE BRIDGE

People everywhere in Maine receiving letters mailed in Bath are impressed by the statement printed upon the reverse side of the envelope:

$3,000,000 of Idle Money

Set to work in Maine for the Carlton Bridge, making the connecting link in the Atlantic Highway, crossing the Kennebec River at Bath, means a big help in booming Maine, both for the present and future. Not to add one cent to our taxes, but to be paid for by the M.C.R.R. and tolls. Can you afford to vote against it? The prosperity of one section materially aids that of all.

Vote for the Kennebec Bridge Bond Issue.

Here is a publicity device of Bath's enterprising business men that others of us may with profit to the great issue cordially adopt. It would be difficult to put into narrower compass a more popular argument in favor of the Bridge. That so great an improvement is possible to be brought about without a dollar of taxation should appeal with irresistible force to every citizen who has at heart the progress and betterment of all sections of his State.

Vote for the Kennebec Bridge bond issue?

Why, of course we will!

Rockland streets had never previously enjoyed such emancipation from dust as last summer presented, a result chiefly attributable to the use of calcium chloride. We know of houses, situated in spots where the dust had a particularly vigorous go at them, which throughout the long summer months would hardly be able to practice the luxury of open windows because of the prohibition of dust. Last year for the first time they had a freedom for which the housewives could scarcely express their gratitude. The city street department has the matter seasonably in hand, with 160 barrels of carbide waiting the proper moment for application, which will increase over last summer the treatment of street surface and visibly add to the comfort of housekeeping.

There was something different—elusive but singularly pleasing—about the atmosphere surrounding "The Charn School" as presented by the Senior Class in the new High School auditorium last night. It arose from the fact that for the first time our boys and girls were able to present their school play in their own quarters, with the vitally interested parents and friends comprising the audience. The situation bred an intimacy that was charming.

Congratulations to the plucky and enterprising Union people, who almost before the ashes of Monday's great fire are cool have gone about the business of rebuilding.

MAINE'S INDUSTRIES

Some Startling Figures Relative To Products of Our State.

The products of manufacturing establishments in Maine during the last year of the biennial census, 1923, increased 18.6 percent in value, the number of wage earners employed in these concerns increased 10.1 percent, while the wages paid to employees showed the same rate of increase, over the preceding census year, 1921, according to figures issued by the department of commerce.

The total value of Maine's 1923 products of manufacturing houses was $402,650,000, as compared with $339,562,000 in 1921.

The average number of wage earners employed during the last census year totaled $3,227, as compared with 75,710 in 1921; the total wage payments were $91,854,000 and $83,429,000, respectively.

The cotton goods industry is the leading one in Maine as regards the number of wage earners, but according to the total value of products the paper and wood pulp industry is the most important in the state.

The paper and wood pulp industry, which employed 12,485 wage earners in 1923—about nine tenths as many as were employed by the cotton goods industry—reported a total output valued at $106,812,000, an increase of 21 percent over the 1921 total, $83,321,000.

In the cotton goods industry, the average number of wage earners increased from 12,264 in 1921 to 13,450 in 1923, the percent of increase being 4.1. The total value of products for this industry amounted to $46,702,017 in 1923, as compared with $41,928,154 the preceding census year.

Boots and shoes, other than rubber, were manufactured to the value of $38,832,522 in 1923, as compared with $36,341,811, the number of wage earners increasing from 8,730 to 9,737.

Maine and Massachusetts, which represented the New England states in the canning of sardines, Maine having 29 such plants and the Bay State one in 1923, produced 1,219,675 cases valued at $5,288,865, most of which were in quarter-pound cans, 100 to the case. This is the word from the bureau of fisheries, Department of Commerce.

Converting the output pack to this standard, the 1923 output shows a decrease of 32 percent over the 1922 pack, the totals being 1,272,277 and 1,869,719, respectively a decrease of 579,442. The decrease in value was $461,244, or 8 percent. This indicates a substantial increase in prices.

ADDRESS TO PARENTS

"Light the Torch of Knowledge," Her Advice To Mothers.

Miss Grace Leigh Scott of Indiana, Lecturer for the Department of Social Morality of the National W. C. T. U., spoke at the Congregational church Monday night on the importance to the community of mental as well as physical hygiene.

Urging mothers to become practical in dealing with their children, Miss Scott said: "You should protect your children from sordid thoughts on the great facts of life by teaching both sons and daughters yourselves of being which they should know. Teach the boy and girl the sacredness of the great life plan of continuity, the creative instinct and its control, and there will be no possibility of early mistakes. You have the first chance. The mind of your child is yours to write upon if you will. Put there the thoughts that should be there in all their purity."

Outlining a possible means for better understanding between mothers and their children and urging that mothers be not too "timid to speak to their own children about things they should be the first to reveal to them," Miss Scott said: "Does your home protect the innocent thoughts or have you allowed the world to open its door and thus close yours? Light the torch of knowledge that your child may walk life's path in safety."

Summarizing the present aspect of social morality Miss Scott said: "There is danger lest young people feel that we are trying to maintain the obsolete and antiquated ideals of the dead past. What we must do is to show by precept and example that social purity is essential to present day happiness and the welfare of the community, that it is the only sane foundation stone upon which society and civilization can long endure. To this end, parents must give time to the affairs of their children and the frankest understanding must exist between them."

The Ship McNear
 Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—Replying to M. M. Brown, relative to the ship McNear. I do not know who it could have been that he was serving on board of, unless it was an uncle of mine who was on the McNear forty-four years ago. To my knowledge, I never saw the ship. A very regrettable fact in my life is that I never was able to go to sea, except for the little sailing trips that I have taken. I did, however, have an uncle, Charles McNear, who used to go to sea on my grandfather's ship. He has been dead several years.

"FORTY" MINSTRELS

Great Plans In Making For the Show To Be Presented June 1.

There is a whole lot doing on the Forty Club minstrel show proposition. The subject was first broached at the Monday luncheon Monday and was received with great enthusiasm. The idea is for the club to stage the show, do all the work and then turn the proceeds over to the High School Athletic Association which at present is in the unhappy position of being possessed of multitudinous liabilities but no assets.

Phil Jones and Arthur F. Lamb are to direct the show, P. A. looking after the general song and dance end while A. F. attends to the difficult matters of orchestration and talent. A preliminary meeting was held at the "Tough Old Job, Directing and All," Says Phil.

Elks Club Tuesday night and about 25 prospects appeared and the general situation was discussed. A rehearsal will be held tonight in the Universalist vestry at which part of the show can be lined up. Next week will see vigorous work in full stride and the show will be presented on or about June 1. While the affair will be under the auspices of the Forty Club additional talent will be invited to help out the ensemble.

Some high lights are already visible. A comedy sketch destined to make history is being prepared by Trainer and Peterson while Lou Cook has that "Doodle Doo Doo" song letter perfect already. Of course President Bird and E. R. Vezzie will sing and that velvet baritone of the director will be worth the price of the ticket. As director of the minstrel Mr. Jones is taking things seriously and driving hard. "It's a tough job," says he.

The famous Forty Club Augmented Jazzmulous Orchestra which has made such a fine name for itself of late will furnish music. It is planned to have 16 in the circle and to make the choruses as large as possible. Male voices will be featured in all sorts of harmony, solo, duets, quartet, double quartet and double octet.

CANTON FIELD DAY

Department of Maine Is Planning For Big Affair In Portland.

Department Commander Elmer W. Nickerson of the Department of Maine, Patriarchs Militant, has issued general orders relative to the 32d annual Council Meet and Field Day, which will be held in Portland, June 9 and 10.

The Council will be held at Odd Fellows hall at 4 p. m., the 9th. Each Canton is entitled to send two delegates. Supper will be served at 6:30 and after the Council meeting there will be buffet lunch and a couple of hours of social get-together.

The parade on the following day will move at 9 a. m., and will be followed by a three-hour sail around the islands of Casco Bay, and a full-course dinner at Long Island.

Dinner will be followed by Brigades Formation, competitive drills for a cash prize and sports. At 8 p. m. the Grand Decoration of Chivalry will be conferred by Gen. Aug. Hostenstein, general commanding, of St. Paul, Minn. This exercise will be followed by a military ball in Frye hall.

Every Canton in the department is urged to carry its banner in the parade.

LOS ANGELES COMING

Giant Dirigible Will Fly Over Maine During Governor's Week.

The great dirigible Los Angeles, will be in Maine for the conference of Governors June 28 to July 4.

There will be a great popular demonstration of air-craft from the Navy Department including also naval planes as well as the great Zeppelin.

Messages from Washington relate that Gov. Brewster has conferred with the Navy Department, Admirals Moffat and Secretary Wilbur and they will co-operate in every way to make the Governor's Conference at Poland Spring a great national event.

The Navy Department will seize on the opportunity to make experimental flights to the lakes of Maine which they have long wanted to do, to observe them as landing places—thus fitting them into conditions which may arise in future. Out of it will come also determination of landing fields in Maine.

It is expected that at least nine planes will make the trip to Maine for this purpose—six army planes and three naval.

The big air ship will make a circumnavigation of Maine, from Poland Spring around the State and back again, with the Governors as passengers. It is not yet decided whether the big boat Los Angeles or the great ship Shenandoah will be commissioned for the trip to Maine.

President Coolidge is hoping to come, but does not feel it safe to make a positive appointment. All things will be directed to his visit to Maine however for the Conference and by the Presidential yacht, Mayflower, which in that case will be harbored at Portland and will be used to bring back the party from Bar Harbor to Camden and from Camden on July 4 to Portland.

The Executive Committee of Governors having charge of the Conference is made up of Brewster of Maine, Trinkle of Virginia and Hardee (Ex-Gov.) of Florida.

The business sessions and conferences of Governors will be held at Poland Spring early in the week and the remainder will be spent in looking over the State of Maine.

This gathering in Maine is almost wholly due to the work of Governor Brewster who has made it in his way to seek the session as a feature with the purpose to make the northeast corner of our country a bit better known to the executives of the nation.

"NOT THE TOWN, IT'S YOU"

If you want to live in the kind of a town like the kind of a town you live in, you needn't slip your clothes in a grip And start on a long, long hike You'll only find what you left behind For there's nothing that's really new It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town.

It isn't the town—it's you.

TEACHERS CHOSEN

At the meeting of the Rockland School Committee Tuesday night these teachers were elected:

Allen W. Allen, Charles C. Phillips, Anna C. Coughlin, Lena K. Sargent, Ruth B. Spear, Beta E. Calderwood, Robert W. Sawin, Ralph A. Hanna, Raymond D. Bowden, Ethel L. Howard, Doris L. Black, Marion Norton, Mrs. Whittemore, Ellen J. Cochran, Rose C. Penney, Mrs. Bernice Young, Eleanor L. Griffith, Jessie L. Conant, Mary A. Browne, Ruth E. Staples, Ida E. Carey, Mary H. Nichols, Sara N. Jones, Hazel A. Mitchell, Edith Arcey, Helen D. Perry, Maude A. Smith, Mae Perry, Lena Miller, Ellen F. Thompson, Anna Coombs, Effie J. Perkins, Cora E. Hall, Jeannie D. McConchie, Eva Childs, Anna H. Swimm, Margaret A. Buttimer, Phyllis Wylie, Madelyn Philbrook, Phyllis E. Browne, Mary Buttimer, Thelma E. Russell, Virginia Bean, Alpheus L. Whittemore, Philip A. Jones, Ellis G. Thayer.

Several positions remain to be filled, and this will be done at the committee's next meeting.

PARK THEATRE

The final showings of the Paramount picture, "Madame Sans Gêne," starring Gloria Swanson takes place today. "Madame Sans Gêne" is based on the French stage success by Victorien Sardou and Emile Moreau and has to do with a flirtations little French laundress, who becomes a Duchess and a power behind the throne of France in the days of Napoleon.

Tom Mix in "The Riders of the Purple Sage" and "East of Broadway" featuring Owen Moore will be the double attraction for Friday and Saturday of this week. "Riders of the Purple Sage," the Fox motion picture based on Zane Grey's novel, brings Tom Mix back to the West after his successful foray into merry England as Dick Turpin.

"East of Broadway" is a comedy-drama of the fall and rise of an ambitious youth's endeavors to join the New York police force and win the hand of the girl he loved.—adv.

STRAND THEATRE

"Two Shall Be Born," today's feature is a story of today, with most of the situations laid in New York. Miss Novak's role is that of a young Russian countess who comes to this country at the death of her father, and, unspoiled by title and position, gives her heart to a democratic American boy. Mr. Harkin is the sort of youth whom every true American admires, who refuses to wed the girl selected for him by his father, and becomes a traffic cop rather than consent to the paternal demands. Sigrid Holmquist—Whitman Bennett would seem from his selections to have a weakness for blondes—is the alluring New York girl whom Harkin's dad has selected for his son and heir, and who doesn't lose out even when the boy chooses another, and Frank Sheridan plays the role of the father.

For Friday and Saturday Manager Dondis offers a thrilling photodrama called "White Fangs," in which will be seen the wonder dog, "Strongheart." The picture has a wonderful climax, and is full of absorbing situations.

With this feature is the third in the series of "Go-Getter" stories and kingrams to date.—adv.

Marston's Orchestra plays at Appleton tonight.

Secretary MacDonald is sporting the latest thing in number plate slogans. Look it over.

Melons have made their appearance in the local fruit markets; likewise plums.

Warren is having a remarkable run of suicides this season; more than 100,000 being taken one day.

Is it any comfort to anybody to know that a month from next Monday the days will begin to shorten?

The Elsie C. Quar house on Bay View Square has been sold to Grover C. Knight through the L. W. Benner real estate agency.

Materials for the Samoset Hotel's new water tower are being hauled through the streets by Fred M. Blackington. The tower was described in a recent issue of this paper.

The members of Edwin Libby Post, G. A. R., by invitation of Rev. C. A. Knickerbocker, will attend memorial services at the Universalist church next Sunday at 10.30 a. m. All other patriotic bodies and organizations are invited to join with them in this observance, and asked to meet at Grand Army hall at 10 a. m.

A decidedly difficult feat has been performed by the E. H. Crie gift-shop organization this week with delicately little fuss. The fragile and bulky stock has been removed from the old store and placed in the fine new quarters at Jones' block at The Brook, with only one day's disturbance of business. The official opening will be deferred a week or two until the new goods are in and the final touches given by the decorators.

Saturday will be a red letter day for the foot tortured of Rockland, for it will see a demonstration of free foot comfort at the L. E. Blackington men's furnishing and shoe store. A representative of the famous Dr. Scholl will make free pedo-graph pictures and show the road to foot ease. Mr. Blackington throws his store open to all comers during the day and urges everybody to take advantage of this opportunity to consult a specialist free of charge.

R. J. Mayhew has bought a double tenement, known as the Jones property, at The Highlands, and will erect a cider mill there.

The Knox and Lincoln League game to have been played in Vinalhaven yesterday was postponed to Monday, June 1st, on account of the Washington trip of the Vinalhaven Seniors. Saturday's games will be: Lincoln Academy in Rockland, and Thomaston in Camden.

Two tent shows have already been booked for Portland this season. One is the 101 Wild West and the other Hagenbeck's circus and menagerie. The first appears on June 8 and the second on June 25. It is also expected that the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey show will appear there in June.

The Municipal Officers have ordered a hearing for June 1st at 7.30 p. m. relative to condemnatory proceedings on the house at the corner of Beech and White streets. The property has been declared to be in "a dilapidated and dangerous condition" and the owners are asked to show cause why it should not be judged a nuisance, or dangerous, and dealt with according to law.

Maryland strawberries are in the market, and have the real eastern flavor.

King Solomon's Temple Chapter will have work on the Royal Arch degree tonight.

Limerock Valley Pomona meets with Penobscot View Grange, Glen Cove, Saturday.

A fine salmon caught at Alford's Lake by A. C. Jones was on exhibition at the Rockland Hardware store yesterday.

Members of the local B. & P. W. Club may obtain keys to the club room at Carver's Book Store, upon payment of 25 cents. It is hoped every member will secure one.

Poles for the new Port Clyde power line are all set and construction work will be resumed next week. About 10 days will be required after the task is again taken up.

F. E. Thompson for the last two years clerk at the Hotel Rockland, leaves Thursday for his home in Lewiston. He returns to Rockland the first of June to assume the position a day clerk at the Thorndike Hotel.

Patrolman John Raymond Fogarty has tendered his resignation owing to the fact that he expects to have employment in another city. The resignation will be acted upon at the next meeting of the City Government.

Black & Gay Cannery, Inc., are packing dandelion greens at their Thomaston factory, and will continue to do so as long as the season lasts. In conjunction with this work they will begin packing baked beans the last of the week.

At the recent money raising campaign held by the Littlefield Memorial church $2714.46 was given or pledged. The following amounts were raised by the different teams: Team A, Harry P. Chase, captain, $249.24; Team B, Earl C. Randall, captain, $205; Team C, Carl Chaplin, captain, $434.40; Team D, J. N. Farnham, captain, $211.44; Team E, Stanley Gregory, captain, $163.40; Team F, Mrs. Charles Atherton, captain, $367.24; Team G, Miss Grace Dorman, captain, $156.70; Team H, Miss Mabel Seavey, captain, $212.50; Team I, Mrs. Eva Snow, captain, $384.54.

Leslie D. Ames, thrice illustrious master, and C. L. Robinson recorder of King Hiram Council, have issued the following notice regarding the council's big meeting in Waldoboro: "On Friday, May 22, under a dispensation, a special assembly of King Hiram Council, No. 6, R. & S. M., will be held in Waldoboro, opening at 4 o'clock sharp, standard time. All of the degrees will be conferred during the afternoon and evening. Candidates are requested to be present at 3.30 p. m. sharp. Supper will be served at 6.30 p. m. by the Eastern Star at 50 cents per plate. Before the banquet there will be a parade led by the Council Band. The companions of Waldoboro have worked hard to make this meeting a success, which means a good time to every companion that attends, and have assured the Council of a good big class of candidates. Come and bring a candidate."

A preliminary meeting of the baseball moguls was held yesterday forenoon, where there was an informal discussion of the season's prospects. It goes without saying that Rockland will have a strong local team, as it did last year, and a better one if possible. The first game will be played on the late afternoon of Memorial Day at Community Park, between Rockland and Warren. Warren on this particular occasion will draw upon other towns, and will come down to the Rockland line with an outfit which will make everybody sit up and take notice. Cross of Camden will probably pitch, as he is a fixture on the Warren team. There will be a meeting of the Rockland Baseball Association at the American Legion rooms next Monday evening at 7.30, and every member is asked to be on deck with some helpful suggestion.

The Veteran Firemen's Association meets tomorrow night.

Chester Fissette, auto mechanic, has entered the employ of S. Nilo Spear.

Postmaster Ernest Rawley of Tenant's Harbor has just taken delivery of an Apperson sedan.

Wearers of straw hats who wish to be "in the swim" this season, should also buy fancy bands to replace the plain ones. Look very nobly.

"The Charm School" plays again tonight in the auditorium of the new High School building. There are cars to the Highlands after the show.

This is the day of the opening at 15 Limerock street when the new Rogers barber shop will begin its career. A full description of the fine plant will appear Saturday.

All children and young people of the Congregational Sunday school and parish are cordially invited to the annual children's circle to be held Friday at 6.30 in the vestry of the church.

Members of King Hiram Council desiring transportation to Waldoboro for the big special assembly tomorrow can have it by applying to R. U. Clark at Gregory's clothing store.

There is an abundance of bay haddock in the local markets, and a few native halibut, the latter retailing at 35 and 40 cents. Macleavel are also very plentiful at 22 to 25 cents. Penobscot River salmon will not be in the market to any great extent for two or three weeks.

On the coming Saturday the Knox Book Store will have been in existence one year, and in order that the event may be properly commemorated the proprietor, Harry Cohen, is having a special sale for Friday and that day. The enterprise has more than justified Mr. Cohen's expectations.

A patriotic entertainment will be presented at the Methodist church Monday evening. The proceeds will go towards the pledge made for the church budget by the Senior choir. A pretty program brimming back memories of days gone by is well illustrated. The final rehearsal will be tonight and every member is urged to be present.

The county commissioners are to have a road hearing in Cushing soon. The location decided upon by the selectmen in 1924 was not approved by the town meeting last spring, with the result that a petition of 107 signers, headed by O. H. Woodcock, has been presented to the county commissioners, asking that the work be done in accordance with the original plan.

P. P. Bicknell, manager of the Livingston Manufacturing Co., has returned from Barre, Vt., where he was called to attend court in a case brought by his company against the Granite City Co., which for several years were the Barre agents of the Rockland concern. The suit was brought to compel an accounting and settlement on the part of the agents. The court granted every claim filed by the Livingston Manufacturing Co., which has since received a check for $1875, covering its claim in full.

Austin M. Titus of Union blew into town yesterday with a coat of tropical tan, accumulated on the waters of Alford's Lake while fishing for salmon. His string this year has reached 13, a three-pounder being his largest. Whether he is high liner, or whether the honor belongs to Lendon C. Jackson of the Rockland Hardware Co. is a matter which has not been threshed out. The weather thus far has not been especially favorable to fish—being a trifle too cold and a trifle too windy.

Saturday will be "Poppy Day" with the Ladies Auxiliary of the American Legion, and the school children will sell the little blue red reminders of Planders Field for a dime or a dollar, whichever you feel like giving. The proceeds are used locally by the Legion women for the relief of orphans of veterans and for disabled soldiers. There is no expense of administration, every penny being devoted to the worthy cause. Last year $80 was obtained and it stretched a long way. "If I break my baby's bottle I can get an other to replace it" said one widow to the Auxiliary investigator. There are 1000 poppies to be sold for whatever one feels like giving. The sale has the full sanction of Community Chest.

The Rockland plumbers (Local 570) played host Tuesday night at a banquet given in the Thorndike Grill in honor of the Portland plumbers (Local 217) who are working on the Samoset Hotel job. It was a very joyous affair, and the service was of the Thorndike's best. At the tables were Harry C. Duffey, Frank D. Healey, Edward R. Brock, George A. Judkins, Albert W. Thomas, Harry E. Moody, J. Herbert Everett, George W. Wiggins, Edgar L. Newhall, Willard C. Chapin, Charles H. Ring and Fred P. Winslow of Rockland, A. A. Brown, Sidney Smith, Stanley W. Lynch, Robert M. Blake, Harold Solon, James A. Brackett, Robert W. McCubrey, C. J. Barblek, Guy C. Mahoney, Edward H. Anderson, Carroll Campbell and John T. Sherman of Portland.

P. F. Dondero, who will again manage the Oakland Park properties this season, is working hard to get the dancing pavilion in readiness for the opening ball on the night of Memorial Day. The inside of the hall is being painted and the floor will be refinished. The veranda will be extended to the western side and southern end of the building and boxes will be provided for the comfort of the dancers and spectators. The mirage ball, which proved a popular feature last season will again be in position. We shall have two of the finest orchestras that can be found in this part of the State. Mr. Dondero told a Courier-Gazette reporter, "One is John Grindle's Orchestra which has been broadcasting this winter from WFL, and the other is Bert Meyer's orchestra of seven pieces from Boston."

FISHING NOTES

At Port Clyde the Port Clyde Fish & Cold Storage Co. has started the season.

Schooner Corinthian has been taking on bait there this week. They are coming in pretty freely, and fish dealers are finding out that they can always depend upon getting what they need. The company is more or less hampered by a scarcity of help. Just now they need help in nearly every department.

Up to Saturday last the catch of mackerel by the New England fleet footed up 18,716 barrels, as compared with 14,645 barrels for the same period last year.

THE HOUSE ON THE DOWNS

By G. E. Locke

Given a murder, a moonflower, a paper cutter, a naturalist, a man with a wife much younger than he, two kypsees, besides several minor characters, all living in a house where strange noises are heard at night and still stranger occurrences startle the household both by night and day, and readers who are looking for thrills will experience plenty of these, both pleasant and unpleasant. The mystery of all these happenings is sustained to the very last, when it is explained in such a totally unexpected way that it leaves the reader no longer wondering at his own failure to account for that which has puzzled not only a whole household, but shrewd detectives as well.

This story must be considered one of the author's best creations.

Published by L. C. Page & Co. Dr. Joslin and others who are making a study of diabetes are unanimous in their opinion that diabetes is very frequently associated with overweight after 40 years of age.

HOME GROWN FEED

STAR GAZING SEASON

Address By Dr. Seukle, Manager of Jefferson Farms.

Planet Saturn, With Its Three-Ring Circus, An Object of Great Interest.

In any consideration of home grown feeds for Central Maine the production of hay and ensilage is of paramount importance for they form the basis for the profitable and economic feeding of the majority of the farm animals produced in this section. Since the principal livestock of the section are cattle and sheep the hay should be largely leguminous hay with the possible exception of that fed to the horses.

Leguminous hays particularly the clovers grow naturally in this section and while practically all our soil needs liming to grow the best clover hay still it is possible to grow clover and mixed hays of good quality by the selection of the proper seed mixtures. On heavy or sour soils this, of course, means the use of lime to a large extent with possibly sweet clover in some cases.

The ensilage should be made from corn or other farm crops such as sunflowers, second cutting clover, oats and peas, soy beans and corn, vetch and rye, etc.

Saturn, with his three rings, brighter than at any other time of the year, opened the summer star gazing season on May 2. Saturn will be found in Virgo in the east, between Virgo and Libra. Saturn comes into opposition with the sun on that date, a bulletin from the American Nature Association says, and does some things, opposed to what the earth does, reports an Associated Press despatch from Washington.

By opposition it means that the earth will be between the planet and the sun. Saturn will be nearer the earth on May 2 than at any other time during the year. The planet will rise at sunset, be on the meridian due south at midnight and set at sunrise.

Although one of the more distant planets, Saturn will be just a little matter of 821,340,000 miles away on May 2. Uranus and Neptune are still more distant. Neptune is nearly 3,000,000 miles from the sun. Uranus can be picked up as a faint sixth magnitude star.

Other features on the May star gazing program are the Big Dipper and the huge water snake, Hydra, that fills most of the southern sky below the celestial equator with his two riders, Corvus and Crater. Bootes and Arcturus will be seen in the east, the brilliant Vega in the northeast and Capella in the northwest.

In the western sky will be Leo, while Denebola, which is in the tip of the Lion's Tail, will be almost exactly due south. Regulus and the Sickle in Leo will be to the southwest of the zenith. Virgo, another of the spring groups, lies just to the east of Leo.

An idea of space in the sky is given by the distance Saturn is from the earth. New measurements of Mira have been taken this year and it is found to have a diameter of 250,000,000 miles, outclassing Betelgeuse and standing second in girth only to Antares, with its diameter of 400,000,000 miles. The earth with its 8,000 miles diameter would rattle around inside of Mira like a pea in a cask.

Mira is estimated to be a distance of 165 light years from the earth; that is, the light of Mira takes 165 years to travel to the earth at the rate at which it travels of 186,000 miles in a second. We see Mira today as it was 165 years ago when the light we now see left this star.

THE BUSY GRANGERS

Farmers Take Strong Stand For Enforcement—Other Matters.

In every section of the United States the Grange organization is strongly declaring itself on the side of law enforcement, pledging the united and hearty support of its great membership—numbering nearly one million alert farm people—to a vigorous campaign in support of universal law enforcement. Local Granges are appointing enforcement committees, strong Grange resolutions are being adopted and sent to national and state legislative bodies, and the full force of Grange influence is being outspokenly aligned on the side of law and order. The spirit of the Grange is accurately expressed in the declaration of the Ohio State Grange at its recent annual session, attended by 2000 delegates and members:

"So long as the 'good citizen' winks at or takes a hand in breaking the laws against speeding on the highways, overloading the roads and bridges, desecration of the Sabbath, displaying obscene literature and pictures and genteel forms of bootlegging, the criminal classes will take aid and comfort from such delinquency and will govern themselves accordingly."

Contentment and disrespect for laws is the crying evil of the age, being bred and nurtured not by felons in their cells, but by "substantial" citizens who do not realize that a law ought to be obeyed, even if there is no other reason than that it is a law.

No matter how able or vigilant our officers may be, ideal conditions of law enforcement will never prevail until there is a full and widespread realization of individual duty and responsibility for such enforcement. We therefore resolve that the Ohio State Grange stands unequivocally in favor of the rigid enforcement of all laws.

The Idaho Grange fight, in behalf of more economical State administration and for a more equitable distribution of the tax burden, is gaining momentum and much attention has been attracted to the survey recently made by the State Grange that revealed how unjustly to the farmers the present taxation basis in Idaho is working out. There is much force in the declaration made in his annual address by W. W. Deal, master of the State Grange:—

"If all the taxable land in Idaho shares its just responsibilities in support of government and education, including the development of our resources and building up of our highways, we will not need to cry 'Red-trench' or 'Reduce' in our economy development; but sufficient funds will be forthcoming without placing any burden upon the farmer, the business man or the home owner."

During the past winter scores of Granges throughout the country have done practical Americanization work, which has proved of immense service, especially in rural communities into which many alien people have come. Discussions of phases of American history, marking local historical spots, historical pageants and discussions of many live public questions have been valuable means of such education; while some subordinate Granges have conducted definite Americanization classes for the young people in the community.

The new superintendent of Juvenile Grange work in the United States is Mrs. Eugene A. Eckert of Illinois, succeeding Mrs. Harriet H. Dickson of Ohio. New Juveniles are being rapidly organized and this branch of Grange work is taking on growing significance. These youthful Patriots have definite activities prescribed, work degrees, carry out special features, engage in community projects and are trained for later membership in the "Big Grange," when they reach the eligible age of 14 years.

The Grange is everywhere urging upon its membership the better keeping of farm accounts and is giving prominent place in its discussions to the value of an efficient system of bookkeeping on the farm. Frequently such discussions take the form of comparative costs of producing certain farm crops, and the members are urged to keep records of the different branches of their farm operations. All in line with the Grange contention that farming must be put upon a strictly business basis if its workers are to gain an adequate reward for their labors.

MATINICUS ROCK
 Mrs. A. J. Stevens is visiting here, a guest of her parents, Keeper and Mrs. A. J. Beal.

Keeper Austin B. Beal's new power boat was delivered to him at this station last Friday by Capt. Napoleon Beal from Jonesport.

Willard R. Hill and Eleanor M. Beal are two busy bodies these days. They attend school and in addition are making a tiny garden and setting hens and ducks.

It sounds good to hear about the warm weather in America. Here's hoping it reaches out this way, the sooner the better.

Keeper Arthur J. Beal had a power boat built at Matinicus. The craft was launched last Thursday under the name of Eleanor and towed to the Rock.

The younger set declared a holiday last Thursday and sailed for Matinicus, looking over so spick and span, but on their return, oh my! They were met in the usual way at the ship and there was quite a breeze.

A Married Woman's Advice

MRS. ELIZABETH STANTON

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—"In my early married life my health was not very good. I had inward weakness and suffered with pains at times, also with backaches and nervousness. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did more for me than I could have believed possible had I not had the actual experience. One bottle was all I found necessary to take at that time to be fully restored to health—all signs of inward weakness disappeared. I am glad to recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to every woman who is ailing for it is a reliable and trustworthy remedy."—Mrs. Elizabeth Stanton, 45 Union St.

Your health is your most valuable asset. So, why not get this Prescription today from your druggist, or write Dr. Pierce, President of the Invalids' Hotel, in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice, or send 10c for a trial pkg. of tablets.

RAISING CHICKENS

Prof. L. P. Gardner, U. of M., Tells How To Save 90 Per Cent of Them.

The brooding of chickens is probably the most important and also most difficult part of the whole poultry business. The great foundation for the statement that half the chicks that are hatched die, to brood chicks successfully it must first be assumed that the eggs come from stock which is healthy and vigorous and that the eggs have been properly hatched.

Brooding equipment: The movable colony house and coal stove brooder are probably in most common use commercially. The latter is more common use but for early brooding in this state does not seem to furnish sufficient heat.

The floor of the brooder house should be covered with a layer of sand and some kind of litter such as chaff, cut straw or shavings. The stove should be in operation for a few days before the chicks are brooded.

The chicks should be allowed to remain in the incubator for 48 hours. When being removed to the brooder care should be taken that the chicks are not chilled. The temperature under the hover should be held at about 100 degrees F. and for the first day the chicks are usually confined close to the hover until they learn to locate the source of heat.

The chicks should not be fed for 48 to 72 hours after hatching. Feed in small amounts and feed often. No exact rule can be laid down as to amount of food, but it is the usual practice to begin by feeding five times a day. A small handful of feed to each 50 chicks or what they will clean up in 10 or 15 minutes. Keep your chickens hungry and busy. A satisfactory starting feed is rolled oats and hard boiled eggs. The inertness from incubation may be used for this purpose. If the eggs are from disease free stock they may be fed raw. About one egg to twenty-five or thirty chicks. This starting feed is usually discontinued after three to five days, the chicks being gradually changed to a ration of fine scratch grain and dry mash.

The scratch grain may be any good commercial scratch grain or made up of two parts of fine cracked corn, one part cracked wheat, one part oatmeal. A dry mash which has been recommended is made up as follows: 200 pounds yellow corn meal, 100 pounds bran, 100 pounds middlings, 100 pounds rolled oats, 50 pounds meat meal, 25 pounds bone meal. The mash feeding is started when the chicks are about one week of age. At first the chickens are allowed the mash for 15 to 20 minutes a day, the time being gradually increased until the mash is before them at all times. At this time the scratch grain should be fed three times daily. This ration may be used throughout the growing period and it is recommended that the ration of scratch grain to mash should be three to two. If sour milk is available it should be given the chicks as a drink at all times. Chicks should be allowed out doors as early as the weather will permit and be allowed plenty of range and green feed throughout the entire growing season.

Dogbane and Other Banes

I am glad to learn the name of the milky plant with the tiny pink bells, but "dogbane" is such an unlovely word to be coupled with such a lovely blossom that I am inclined to rebel and call it something more appropriate. "Fairy Bell" would just fit the blossom, only that this name has already been appropriated (locally at least) by our old friend, the parlar maple or alouin. Still, on looking up the plant and its relatives in the botany, perhaps dogbane is appropriate, after all, for this plant is looked upon with suspicion and some of its near relatives are deadly poison. We used to be told, that milk of this pretty plant would kill warts and we called it "wart weed," so perhaps it has poisonous properties which entitle it after all to the unlovely name of dogbane.

For a great many years there was a path worn from the barn just below the Wilson Richards house, down across the Lovejoy field, then diagonally across the Cleveland fields to the Cleveland house. In later years I think the path takes a turn on entering the Cleveland field and follows the wall straight down by the Lovejoy orchard to the Kilm Hill road. In the olden days the upper path was one of my favorite resorts, for along the wall in the Lovejoy field grew yellow violets, which in those days were the only yellow ones I had ever seen and I have seen very few of this particular kind since. They grew close by the wall, tangled up among the hazel bushes, and were sometimes a foot or more in height, with the rather short-stemmed flowers growing from the axils of the leaves.

Down in the Cleveland field near the lower boundary grew several tall, sparsely branched trees which I think now may have been balm of gileads, though at that time I thought of them as sentinel poplars, and in the shade of these trees grew a handsome plant, the name of which I never learned until after I had grown up and moved away. It grew a foot high, with large handsome leaves, and in late summer bore many bunches of attractive large red berries. In the bog pastures I occasionally found plants exactly like it but with large waxy looking white berries. I know now that these were Baneberries or Actaea, but I never knew whether they possessed baneful properties or not, but whoever named them probably understood their nature and named them accordingly.

A variety of Solanum, the woody nightshade, has attractive looking berries, but I was always warned not to eat them as they were poisonous. A plant of this grows behind my barn every year, though I have repeatedly noted it out, fearing children may eat of the berries; but it persists in coming up each year. It is a pretty vine and I would be glad to let it remain if I were sure it is harmless.

After I grew up I made it a point to experiment with all berries said to be poisonous, taking a berry in my mouth to get the taste of it, then ejecting it and rinsing my mouth thoroughly with water, and so far I have not found one whose taste would be at all likely to tempt the appetite of a child. I have never so hungry. In fact, I found them all extremely nauseous and distasteful, so I think it very doubtful if a child will ever eat enough of any of them to injure him.

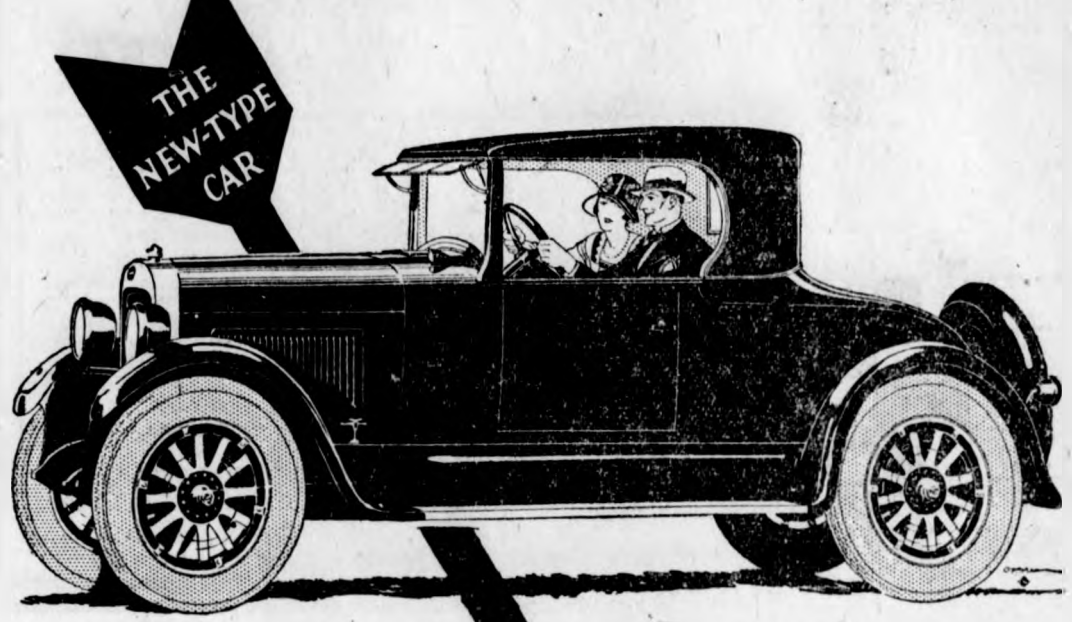

There is a species of Elder which opens its bright red berries in July. I noticed it in several front yards on the Northport camp-grounds. Years ago there was one bush just below Fred Sherer's house, on the opposite side of the street, and unless destroyed within a year the tree will be behind the mountain across the road from the place where Hoyt Emerson now lives, but which is better known to older residents as the Brad Sherer place.

One summer when I was at Thore-dike Station I found quantities of these bushes along the railroad track and when my hands broke out in blisters and itched tremendously my boarding house mistress suggested that I must have encountered poison elder in my trips after berries. It was the first I had ever heard of the poisonous properties of this bush and after my hands had healed I went straight to those bushes with experimental purpose. Carefully passing my hands over the leaves and twigs, I withdrew from the scene and awaited events. In a day or two I had unmistakable proof that the plant is poison, for I had to dose that hand with salt and soda for a week or more to kill the blisters.

A few days later the little girl of the house, seven years old, began to look flushed and feverish and soon began scratching her hands. Her face swelled so that she could barely open her eyes, her hands and arms were soon a mass of sores, so that water dripped from them constantly and they had to be swathed in cloths. On investigation it was learned that she and another little girl had gathered berries of the poison elder and rubbed them on their cheeks to make them red. The other child was poisoned also, but I did not see her so do not know the extent of damage done in her case. I came home soon afterward, leaving the little girl still bandaged and sick, so I don't know how long it took for her recovery.

I relate this, not because I think it particularly interesting but because it has always seemed to me that this plant should be generally known as dangerous. Even my botany makes no mention of this danger, and I find that persons who know the plant at all, consider it as just an ornamental shrub. It should be taken into consideration, however, that often a plant which is noxious to some is perfectly safe for others, as I myself can testify, for I can handle poison ivy with perfect safety unless it is

A large delegation from town attended the funeral services of George A. Winchenbaugh at South Waldboro Sunday.

Ernest Barter of Boothbay and Miss Marlon Gentner of Bremen were united in marriage by Rev. Jay McWhidee May 2.

H. R. Johnson and L. W. Parsons were delegates to attend the Pythian Grand Lodge held at Pythian Temple, Portland, Wednesday. They left Tuesday in order to attend a special meeting that evening at which the first degree was worked.

Masons of Waldboro are making great preparations for the visit of King Hiram Council tomorrow. The session opens at 4 o'clock and works until 6 when the Council and its hand will make a short parade and supper will be served at 6:30 by the Eastern Star. The evening session will open afterwards and the work finished. In addition to the work and festivities in the hall, it is planned to have dancing in the square and the Waldboro land has been engaged for the occasion.

Eaton-Moody

A pretty home wedding took place Thursday, May 14, at 5 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Asa L. Moody when their daughter, Marie Marguerite, became the bride of Irving Eaton of Providence, R. I. The home was beautifully decorated with green and cut flowers and the ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreen decorated with white bells and pink and white flowers.

Eaton, father of the groom, officiated. The bride was lovely in gown of white broadened satin with tulle veil and she carried a shower bouquet of roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Grace L. Clark of Gardiner and Miss Ruth M. Carney of Augusta. Miss Clark wore orchid canton crepe trimmed with ostrich feathers. Miss Carney was gown in honey dew canton crepe with ostrich feathers. Both bridesmaids carried carnations. The flower girls were Miss Marjory E. Plugg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thurlow Plugg of Nobleboro and Miss Eleanor M. Plush of Waldboro. The ring bearer was George Farnish of Waterville. The girls were charmingly dressed in white canton crepe, one with shoulder ribbons of honey-dew with maline and one with orchid while both carried baskets of flowers. The ring bearer was Miss Helen Virginia Eaton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Eaton of Augusta and she wore white canton crepe with orchid and honey-dew ribbons and carried the rings on a silver tray. The wedding march was played by Miss Florence Wilson of Portland, who wore a beautiful gown of yellow embroidered crepe de chine. The best man was Frederick Eaton, brother of the groom. After the ceremony refreshments of sandwiches, coffee, ice cream and cake were served. The wedding cake was made by Miss Rose Plugg of Portland. Mrs. Plugg guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Eaton left amid showers of confetti for a trip to Havana. They will be at home after June 1 at 335 Angell street, Providence, R. I. The groom, who is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is assistant Phillipsdale, R. I. The bride is a graduate of Lincoln Academy and Shaw's Business College. She was employed at Edwards & Walker's in Portland for three years and for the last two years and a half has been private secretary to George S. Williams, general superintendent of Central Maine Power Co. in Augusta.

George N. Winchenbaugh, Hon. George N. Winchenbaugh, a prominent and respected citizen died at his home at South Waldboro Thursday evening after a short illness. He was born in Waldboro August 16, 1845, the son of Jacob and Julia Ashborn Winchenbaugh. He had been active in town offices since 21 years old, serving with great credit as selectman, assessor, tax collector and deputy sheriff. He also was elected representative to Legislature where he served with the same faithfulness which he has shown in town offices. A man of excellent judgment and wise decisions, his place will be soon be filled. He leaves a widow, Mary E., three sons, Percy C. of Waldboro, Morton L. and Fernald G. of Medford, Mass., two daughters, Mrs. LaForest Cash of Waldboro and Mrs. Albert Cushman of Friendship, a brother, Sanford of Waldboro, and two sisters, Mrs. Brainerd Bidder and Miss Sarah of Somerville, Mass., and eleven grandchildren. The last services were held at his late home Sunday afternoon with Rev. W. R. Patterson officiating. Interment was in the family lot at South Waldboro.

THOMASTON

Edwin Curran of East Boston, a native of Thomaston, died suddenly in that city Sunday. The funeral will be held Friday from A. D. Davis & Son's undertaking parlors at 2 p. m. standard.

Mrs. Fronie S. Teel of Frenchboro who has been a recent visitor at the home of her cousin, Miss Hortense Wilson, has gone to Vinalhaven for a visit.

Mrs. E. W. S. Berry of Augusta, who came to attend the funeral of her uncle, John Bunker, returned home Tuesday.

Mrs. Lucy Wood was down from Warren Tuesday. Mrs. Wood finds life on a farm a very busy one.

Mrs. Leticia Starrett went to Portland Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Leighton of the Knox Hotel have returned from Boston where they attended the Hotel Men's convention and exposition. The Leightons are seeking after new ideas in hotel management and for that purpose they will attend the annual meeting of Maine Hotel Association at Augusta today. While in Boston they met Capt. Amos Dow at the Adams House.

At the Congregational vestry May 29 there will be a sale of rummage in the forenoon and of cooked foods, etc. flowers and plants in the afternoon. Harris Shaw and Mr. Hiffert of Boston spent Tuesday with Mr. Shaw's parents. They returned to Boston Wednesday morning, taking Henry B. Shaw with them. He is expected to remain a week.

Rev. H. S. Kilborn has returned from Boston.

The reservoir near Eureka engine house is receiving a permanent cover of cement.

Ernest O'Connell of Milford, Mass., is the guest of his brother, R. H. O'Connell.

Willis Spear is at Megunticook Lake for a day or two.

Mrs. Willis Spear is in Camden. Neighbor Kirkpatrick has two kennels of beagles that attract considerable attention. A few minutes conversation between Herbert and The Courier-Gazette correspondent was very informing. Some beagles have a long line of ancestry dating back in England for 200 years, the record being so carefully kept as that of the royal family. Some of the English stock has been brought to America. Great care is being taken to keep the blood pure. The prices these beagles command appear large to one unacquainted with the business, $35 to $100 each is readily paid by the followers of the hound.

The funeral of William L. Knowlton who died on Hupper's Island, St. George May 19 will be held this (Thursday) afternoon at A. D. Davis & Son's undertaking parlors at 2 o'clock daylight. The burial will be in Rockland.

The game on the home grounds Wednesday resulted in a victory for Thomaston, score 8 to 4.

Fred Redman is having repairs made upon his house.

The filling and grading in connection with the Mill River bridge is nearly completed. It has been planned to build a dam below the bridge to hold the salt water back from the cement work.

Attention now centers largely in the approaching Senior Class play, "Adam and Eve" which will be presented in Watts hall, June 3 at 8 p. m. Rehearsals are under way and indications point to a very successful evening.

WARREN

Mrs. A. T. Nowood and party including Mrs. Leroy Nowood, Mrs. H. D. Sawyer, Mrs. Howard Nowood and son James motored to Bangor Monday.

Harvey Kallach of Waltham, N. H., is the guest of relatives here. Mr. Kallach was at one time boss of the cardroom at the Georges River mill.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Andrews have returned from their recent Boston motor trip.

Miss Edna Rogers is visiting Mrs. Ella White in Waltham.

Dana Smith has been confined to his home by illness for several days. O. E. Starrett motored to Portland late Sunday and Monday accompanied by N. C. Crawford.

Miss Lillian Russell of Portland spent the weekend at her home here.

Arnold Teague is the owner of a Ford touring car.

Mrs. Bessie Brown is driving a new Ford touring car.

The first baseball game of the season was played at the Warren field last Saturday afternoon between the Warren and Waltham teams with a score of 14-2 in favor of the home team. The Warren lineup for 1925 is—Robinson, c; Cross, p; Walker, R; Averill, 2b; Kallach, 3b; Moody, ss; Borenstein, lf; Wentworth, cf; Berry, rf; Thomas, umpire; W. H. Hennessey, R; Kenniston, mtr. Warren expects to play in Rockland on Memorial Day.

An especially large catch of alewives was taken Monday, the count registering 6,500 fish, a record for one day with 3 men fishing one trap.

Almore Spear has disposed of his Ford sedan and is now driving a new Hupmobile.

W. F. Thomas has been having a few days enforced rest on account of a lame knee.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Hubbard of Yonkers, N. Y., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bines, South Warren road.

The evening meeting at the Baptist church next Sunday will be given over to a Memorial service with special music, commencing at 7 o'clock, standard time. All members of the G. A. R., the W. R. C., Sons of Veterans, Ladies Auxiliary, American Legion or any other patriotic organization are especially invited to be present.

Capt. Israel Snow and daughter Kathleen have returned from a delightful trip of two months duration covering the Canal Zone and the West.

Mrs. John E. Hanley of West Roxbury, Mass., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Brown, Summer street, returning home Saturday. Mrs. John I. Snow gives a thimble tea in her honor this afternoon.

Mrs. Lucy Glover, who spent the winter in Florida, and who for the past month has been the guest of her son Jack in Orono, has arrived home, the accompanying her from Orono.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Brewer and family of Revere, Mass., who have been visiting their mother, Mrs. Sadie Brewer the past week and calling on friends and relatives, returned home in their car Monday.

Mrs. Sylvia Merrick who has been employed at Knox Hospital, has returned to her North Haven home where she has employment for the summer season.

The American Legion Auxiliary will meet for sewing in the Legion room tomorrow afternoon. The poppies for "Poppy Day" will be distributed to the children at the close of school.

Golden Rod Chapter, O. E. S., meets Friday night.

Miss Josephine La Cross who has been employed the past few months at the F. J. Simonton Co. store has returned to her first love and is again teaching school, this time in Cushing, District No. 1. Miss La-Crosse is active socially and with her customary energy will impart knowledge to the youngsters of Cushing. Miss Lois Rose who has been mistress of District 1 is compelled by ill health to retire for the remainder of the year.

Miss Sadie Marcus is in Boston for the weekend.

Clifford Crockett and granddaughter Ruth who have been spending a few days in the city, left for Boston last night. They expect to return for Old Home Week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jenkins have gone to Peabody, Mass., to visit their son, Clarence for two months.

On another page today appears the Educational Club's list of committees which will serve picnic suppers and nightly with Mrs. Ida Simmons as general chairman again. Cut out and preserve.

Everett F. Kallach is home from Medford, Mass., where he spent the winter with his sister, Mrs. Lewis Dewar.

Mrs. E. W. MacDonald has returned from Bristol, Conn., where she visited her former home.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Barter arrived this morning from Boston where Mr. Barter has been receiving hospital treatment for the last two months.

A. W. Merchant has opened his summer cottage at Pleasant Beach, where he plans to spend most of the season.

Mrs. Edwin L. Harriman has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ida Leonard at "The Everglades" and is now at Knox Hospital to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Capt. David Connors arrived home yesterday from Sailors Snug Harbor, Staten Island, New York, and will spend the summer here.

A. U. Patterson of Vinahaven was in the city yesterday, the guest of his grandchildren.

Mrs. L. H. Rhodes and niece, Miss Jennie Young, arrived Tuesday from Brookline, Mass., and are the guests of the Misses Young, North Main street. Miss Young, who has been the guest of her aunt for several weeks, goes to her home at Matineux today while Mrs. Rhodes remains here a few days longer.

Miss Mabel Doucette of Rockport has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Alvin Small the past week.

Mrs. C. F. Ingraham of Bangor is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Gurdy.

B. C. Redonnet of Wisconsin was in the city yesterday on business. He dined last night at Wessawesken and later enjoyed the performance of Gloria Swanson in "Madame Sans-Gene" at the Park.

Owassa Camp Fire Girls are having a cake and candy sale at the Maine Music Store Saturday afternoon. Members are asked to be at their Guardian's tonight to complete arrangements.

Frocks are tucked their entire length and sometimes both vertical and horizontal tucks are employed in one dress, says the Dry Goods Economist. Tucked yokes, tucked sleeves and tucked jackets are noted on many of the new designs. One important shop displays a white crepe de Chine blouse, the body of which was entirely tucked to a little below the waistline allowing the peplum-like pieces to flare slightly. Another shows a sports ensemble, the skirt of which was tucked to simulate pleats. A third makes a sports suit, the pockets on the coat of which are finely tucked.

Agents of the Northwestern Mutual in Knox County will meet at the Narragansett Hotel tomorrow. District Agent Louis A. Walker of this city will preside.

"THE WONDER DOG"

Facts Concerning "Strongheart" In "White Fang" at the Strand.

He is the first animal to achieve international fame as an actor. Despite the fact that he is a dog he gets a large mail from film fans who want his photograph.

He is unusually big and strong for his breed.

Other dogs may imitate him. None can ever look like him.

No one is ever allowed to talk "baby" or "mushy" talk to him. His trainers talk to him in a dignified way, just as though he were a human being. As a matter of fact his owner, Jane Murfin, and all those who have anything to do with him treat him not as a dog but as a human being.

He has an attendant with him day and night.

His day begins at 7 o'clock when he takes his morning exercise. This generally consists of a cross country run with the trainer, which he is very fond of.

He eats one meal a day, at 6 o'clock in the evening, and it consists mostly of raw meat.

He doesn't care much about women, although he accepts them as a part of the general scheme of things. A prominent magazine writer who "interviewed" him spoke of him afterwards as the star "who eats raw meat and dislikes women."

He understands four languages—French, German, English and Studio, and particularly the latter. He knows the meaning of such words as Lights, Camera, Fade Out, Cut and such as well as the studio people themselves.

His favorite sports are playing baseball, wrestling and swimming. He likes to take long hikes, particularly if he can get into rough mountain country. If there is snow on the ground so much the better.

WRECKS AROUND NANTUCKET

Hard Year Also Was 1882 For Knox County Vessels.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Again I copy from the book "Wrecks Around Nantucket, 1684-1915."

Sept. 10, 1882, the three-masted schooner Annie L. Henderson, 42 tons burthen, Capt. Isaac Fountain, of and for Boston from Appalachicola, Fla., with a cargo of yellow pine flooring, struck on Rose and Crown shoal in thick weather. A portion of her cargo was thrown overboard but the vessel sprung a leak and filled and the crew abandoned her in their boat, landing at Wainfleet. During a storm the following night the vessel came off the shoal and was seen from the tower next day about 15 miles south of the island. A boat's crew was mustered in the afternoon, who boarded the fishing smack Osprey, lying off Tom Never's Head, and started next morning in search of the derelict, which was then sighted some 12 miles off, after passing South Shoal lightship.

By this time the wind died away to a dead calm. The party from the shore and three of the smack's crew took a boat and rowed to her. On reaching the vessel they found her boarded by the crew of a cutter, who were about to strip and set fire to her as a dangerous obstruction to navigation. A bargain was struck whereby they gave her up to the new comers, who made sail on her, and with the assistance of the smack worked her into New London, which they reached on the night of the 20th.

(From Dad's diary—"1882, Sept. 12, Annie L. Henderson, Capt. Isaac Fountain, lost on shoal. W. H. Crocker, mate, all saved. Sept. 12, W. H. Crocker came home from Boston this morning; Capt. Fountain came also.")

My brother Will lost all his clothes, and although there was much adverse criticism of Capt. Fountain for abandoning the schooner, presumably it was the logical action to take. It is one thing to sit around a stove in a store and tell what you would do and quite another thing to be on a schooner on Rose and Crown shoal, leaking and likely to go to pieces any minute.

Free Demonstration

We now have at this store a man who has studied Practipedics—the science of giving foot comfort—at the American School of Practipedics and is today a Graduate Practipedist. This special training includes the study of foot anatomy, the causes of foot troubles and the most scientific means of giving immediate and lasting relief. We are anxious to have all foot sufferers of this community meet this foot expert and learn how unnecessary it is to suffer from foot aches and pains. To afford you this opportunity, a special demonstration will be given

SATURDAY,

MAY 23

Everybody is cordially invited. Come and bring your friends for there is a treat in store for all those with any form of foot trouble. Your difficulty may be only a sore corn or it may be a weak and broken down arch, weak ankles, callouses on the soles, bunions, crooked, cramped toes, excessive perspiration, ill-smelling feet, or rheumatic-like pains in the feet and legs.

Examination and Advice FREE

If so, it means that the arch across the ball of foot has broken down. We can promptly correct this trouble.

Without removing the shoe, our Practipedist will be able to make a careful analysis of your troubles, and will explain to you how easily such difficulties can be overcome by the use of and Remedies. These scientific devices were originated and perfected by Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, recognized as one of the world's greatest foot authorities. These appliances and remedies when properly handled by a skilled Practipedist, such as the one in our store, will quickly relieve and correct some of the most stubborn cases of foot ailments.

Dr. Scholl's Methods Produce Wonderful Results

There is a Dr. Scholl Foot Comfort Appliance and Remedy for every foot trouble. Each device is scientifically designed to overcome one particular ailment or abnormality. We adjust every Dr. Scholl Arch Support to meet the individual requirements of every foot.

Don't miss this exceptional opportunity. There is no charge for this service, nor are you under any obligations to make a purchase.

LEAGUE SEASON ENDS

Strawberry Special a Fitting Climax — Thompson's Close-up of Legislature.

The special May meeting which last night closed another successful season for the Baptist Men's League, was in many respects one of the best of the year. The members enjoyed the delicious strawberry shortcake served in connection with the regular supper; they found many felicitous features in the business meeting; and they were highly pleased with the address of Representative Rodney L. Thompson and subsequent open forum. It was a fitting close to the two fine administrations given by President Joshua N. Southard, and left every member looking forward eagerly to the resumption of meetings next fall.

The supper was prepared and served under the direction of Mrs. Ernest E. Hager, who drifted into service some of the ablest cooks conneted with the Ladies' Circle. Almost everybody had a second helping of the famous shortcake, and the special May meeting gained many advocates.

Spoke at Last Night's Meeting

An orchestra of three pieces furnished music during the supper, and nothing must do, but that the crowd sing "Sweet Adeline" before it got down to business.

Two new members were admitted—Ellis G. Thayer and M. L. Patrick.

Those officers were chosen—President—Fred A. Carter.

Vice Presidents—Basil Stinson and Maynard Marston.

Treasurer—Almon Bird.

Secretary—J. E. Bradstreet.

Auditor—Herman Hart.

Phil Jones was appointed music director for next year, and will provide some special stunts for the meetings.

Mr. Bradstreet asked to be relieved of his reticular duties, and A. E. Brumberg was elected to fill the vacancy, considerable of a demonstration being given in his honor.

Upon motion of W. O. Fuller it was voted that the League send felicitations to its first president, E. J. Hicknell, who is convalescing from a very serious illness experienced while on a Southern trip.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to the retiring president, Mr. Southard; and to the ladies who have prepared and served such excellent suppers during the season.

President Southard made a happy little speech in acknowledgment, declaring that it had been a great pleasure for him to serve; that he had met some very fine men; that he had nice letters from speakers who had been here, and that he should never forget his experience.

Representative Thompson presented an intimate picture of the last legislative session, illuminated by interesting sidelights as projected by a man with a keen sense of humor. He told of some attempts to secure freak legislation, and described at considerable length the great fight for the passage of the Kennebec Bridge bill and resolve. He declared that the bridge fight is by no means over, and said that other interests would fight it to a finish in the September referendum election. Mr. Thompson also devoted some time to the Passamaquoddy power bill, the League's interest in this measure being exhibited by subsequent interrogatories at the open forum.

Representative Thompson was at his best, and though his address was informal it was counted one of the best the League has ever listened to.

Rodney Made a Hit

Teaching evolution is barred in the public schools of Tennessee. A law prohibiting such instruction was passed by both houses of the sixty-fourth general assembly and was signed by the governor.

"Men and Ships and Sealing Wax"—The Story of a Thomaston Boy Who Made Good.

(By Charles R. Flint)

Chapter XIX—China

China has always sent to us as ministers men who were not only able, but clever as well—men who could hold their own in any country. But probably the ablest of all the Chinese who ever visited this country came as a minister of finance. The story of His Excellency, Kang Yu Wei, who is known as the Modern Suge of China—and is thus recognized by his own people as well as by foreigners—who exerts a powerful influence with the Chinese abroad, and who was almost the unofficial Emperor of China, has never been told. He is a highly cultured man of position who devised a splendid plan for a Chinese educational system and other developments—a plan which, had it been put in force, would have given us a different China today. His ideas were accepted and about to be put into execution. But they involved a change from memorizing the Chinese classic to a more practical education, and this antagonized the gentry class, finally resulting in the overthrow of the Emperor Kwang Su and the ascendancy of the fierce old Empress Dowager, who was the special guardian of privilege and the ancient regime. She lost no time in ordering the arrest of Kang Yu Wei, but Kang, who always had about him a kind of secret service, escaped to Tientsin where he fortunately missed the Chinese steamer. If he had caught it he would have been beheaded. He boarded a British steamer and the captain of it protected him. The British government knew him as a great scholar and asked the Consul General of Canton to guard him from dupe. The Empress Dowager beheaded his brother, Kang Kwong Yen, and his principal followers, and put a price of $300,000 on Kang Yu Wei's head. And until the death of the Empress, Kang went about the world working for the cause of China, knowing that a fortune and probably high honors awaited the man who killed him. Several attempts were made on his life. He never mentioned to me that there was a price on his head, but at night a faithful servant slept at the door of his room. He was a figure out of a novel—an Oriental of commanding presence and fortune. It takes a good deal of a man to keep about him followers who cannot be tempted by riches.

Chinamen in official circles could not receive him, but the edicts which he wrote for the Empress Kwang Su brought about the awakening of China, and he is the recognized head of nearly every Chinese society outside of his native land. He is the idol of the people. When I called on him a short time after his birthday he showed me a large number of gold tablets, which he had received from Chinese societies throughout the world, congratulating him on his birthday and wishing him long life. He bought an island near Stockholm, where he resided, an estate in Peking, and asked me to offer $240,000 for an estate on Long Island. He and I had many meetings, when he first knew him he could not speak English, but his daughter, now the wife of Lo Chong, ex-Chinese Consul-General in Singapore, acted as interpreter, and we got on famously. Mrs. Lo Chong was recently the representative of China at the International Women's Conference of Europe. Kang Yu Wei discussed with me the possibility of his talking with President Diaz of Mexico, concerning the admission of coolies to develop Mexico. He stood ready to finance the undertaking.

During our many discussions I must have asked very many questions of Kang Yu Wei, some of them quite personal, and his daughter repeated all but one of them to him. While we were discussing Mexico, I asked: "Can your father wield sufficient influence to bring about the emigration of so many coolies?" "The question is not, can," she flashed, "it is will be."

And that was the end of that question.

Just what he did I do not know; his actions were inscrutable. I imagine that he was working in China as well as other countries. I know he had many reports and visitors each day. But he never seemed busy. Some time afterward, when he was in Peking, he called me and a plot existed to kill the Empress Kwang Su and begged me to use my good offices with the President and the Czar of Russia to prevent it. I sent a copy of the cable to Washington and to St. Petersburg. Ten days later the official news of the Empress's death was received. It was reported that the Empress's physician had been paid a large amount of money to administer a slow poison. Behind the delightful simplicity of the Oriental are certain complexities of character!

Two other interesting Chinese visitors to this country were Prince Tsai Tao and Lord Li, the latter the son of Li Hung Chang. I met them at a luncheon at the residence of Charles M. Schwab on Riverside Drive, to which also came John D. Rockefeller, Jr. I presented Mr. Rockefeller to His Imperial Highness, Prince Tsai Tao and to Lord Li. The Prince did not speak English, and Lord Li spoke to Mr. Rockefeller.

"I am pleased indeed to meet you," he said, "I have heard much of your father."

"I am glad to meet you," replied Mr. Rockefeller, feelingly, without noting that he was acting as a proxy, "I have heard much of your father."

And both were happy in reflected light.

Lord Li is now one of the important business men of Shanghai, but he did not take any office under the Republic because of his loyalty to the Emperor.

steam yacht Arrow, which, it will be recalled, was the fastest yacht in the world. His Highness was accompanied by Commissioner Wang and members of his suite; my guests included Chauncey M. Depue, Judge John Bassett Moore, and John Bisham Walker.

The Prince was very much impressed by the skyline of New York as we steamed around the city and down the bay. On being asked to write in the log book, he said he would like to read what had been written in it by others, and his attention was called to the following, signed by Frank A. Munsey:

"To a New England Boy. The New England boy is born with two great overshadowing purposes in life—purposes that are his whole life from the cradle to the grave: getting on in the world, and getting into Heaven."

The Prince, as well as the rest of the company, was much interested in this statement of the great publisher; but Senator Depue, with a twinkling in his eye, wrote under it:

"But the methods of the one close the door to the other."

His Imperial Highness wrote in Chinese the text of a poem by the Chinese poet Li Po, composed fifteen hundred years ago, when he sailed through the Yangtze Gorges.

John Bisham Walker wrote:

"Pressing about the Sound this beautiful afternoon in company with distinguished Chinese, I am reminded, as we pass the many light-houses, that the literature of China was produced in quiet places. Does not this suggest that it was a mistake on the part of our government to make Ministers Plenipotentiary of our literary men? Would it not be better to give them posts in the sequestered lighthouses? Would they not, instead of curbing their fancies at the overloaded tables of England and France, then give us a literature worth while?"

Prince Pu Lun is now regarded as the first citizen of Peking and is a prominent doctor of letters.

In the "Thieves Market" at Peking I stumbled across, and bought, the private seal of the Empress Dowager. How it got there I cannot imagine. I wrote to Prince Pu Lun that I would be glad to restore the seal to Her Majesty. But I never heard from him; the Empress was none too amiable, and I imagine that the Prince did not dare to let her know that he knew where the seal was.

Behind the visits of all these Orientalists lurked a hope of somehow lessening the rigors of the Exclusion Act. In an address which Dr. Wu Ting Fang, Chinese Minister to the United States, made at the University of Pennsylvania—which had conferred on him the degree of LL.D.—the distinguished diplomat took up, among other things, the disagreeable features of the act—which is of course a very sore point with the Chinese. He had a rare gift of being able to discuss fluently on the weak points of oriental civilization, and then quickly, but with the utmost ingenuously, expose an occidental weakness. I recall that in his address he spoke mournfully about the Chinese system of binding the feet of women.

He told how it arose, how widespread it had become, and what a terrible blot it was upon the otherwise fair character of China. He asked that the women in the audience sympathize with the poor, unfortunate women of China, and as he finished he added, half mislingly: "I wonder if it is more harmful than wearing corsets?"

A committee called on Dr. Wu to request him to address a society connected with one of the fashionable churches of Washington. (Casual mention was made of the fact that the youthful pastor of the church had recently resigned to labor on the Pacific Coast.)

"Why did he resign?" asked Dr. Wu.

"Because he had received a call to another church," was the reply.

"What salary did you pay him?"

"Four thousand dollars."

"What is his present salary?"

"Eight thousand dollars."

"Ah," remarked the disciple of Confucius, "A very loud call."

....

China had just conferred on me the order of the Double Dragon, and I was on the card to follow Wu's address. I then made a point which I have not before or since heard of: I voted, but which I think is still pertinent. In my address I said:

"Instead of the Chinese coming to the United States, if China would make it an inducement for our industrial leaders to go to China it would be a powerful addition to her political, as well as to her industrial strength."

"But his countrymen may say to him, as he has said to us tonight: 'The Chinese Exclusion Act remains on your statute books.' I admit that subordinate officials have not always shown the consideration due to Chinese scholars and merchants landing on our shores, but this has been corrected. As to the wisdom or unwisdom of a free intermingling of the yellow and white races, I can add nothing to what has already been said. That is a question for the sociologists to expound. But, as a practical man of business, I can point out the best economic method for giving the Chinese the greatest benefit of our advanced industrial systems."

"Instead of a large number of Chinese coming to the United States, the sound economic policy—and it can be made effective at once—is for the Chinese to induce American brains and money to take an important part in the development of their unlimited resources. For example, if 3,000,000 Chinese came to the United States, it would cost at least $200 to cross the Pacific Ocean, establish themselves, and return—$600,000,000."

"If concessions were given to our industrial leaders of demonstrated capacity, and the methods were adopted under which the United States has made the greatest industrial progress in the history of the world, the Chinese would receive, in a larger market for their agricultural and other products, in increased wages, over five times what the 3,000,000 Chinese could save from their wages in this country.

"Minister Wu has studied our industrial progress and with positive personal knowledge can assure his countrymen that we have captains of industry capable of making that statement good."

I invited some of our industrial magnates to dine at my home that they might meet His Excellency, Wu Ting Fang. They found him among the cleverest and most charming of men. He spoke English exceedingly well—so well that he was able, when occasion demanded, to simulate a man knowing little English. Among the guests was E. H. Harriman. His Excellency, in order to pave the way to asking a great number of questions he had on his mind, himself offered to answer any questions asked concerning China, an offer which I announced on proposing His Excellency's health. E. H. Harriman, also a human questionaire, began greedily. He snapped out six questions, all of which Wu Ting Fang answered.

"The seventh was a question that should not have been asked, as Mr. Harriman very well knew, for it touched upon state secrets which the Minister could not reveal. It was an awkward moment. We had promised to answer any questions. How could he save his face? I expected Wu to waver on his offer to answer. But a bit of wit, turning quickly, he said: 'Mr. Harriman, you have asked me six questions and I have answered every one of them. I ask you only one question.'"

"What is that?" said Harriman.

"It is said that you control 50,000 miles of railroad. How did you get it and how do you keep it?"

In the roar of laughter, the Harriman question was forgotten. And, also, it may be mentioned that Mr. Harriman forgot to answer the question put to him!

Wu came to our family Christmas dinner that year. He appeared in a very handsome Chinese costume that deeply impressed all but the children. To them it seemed to suggest a masquerade. He was a delightful dinner guest, always interesting, always urbane; but in putting he was rather a spectator than a participant, for at that particular period his diet consisted solely of nuts.

The attitude of the Chinese has been more friendly to the United States than to any other country; they have never forgotten the remission of the Boxer indemnity. They sent Ambassador Tong Shou Yi on a special mission to Washington to thank the United States for its liberality in the interest of Chinese education. I have never met a more impressive official—dignified, elegant, possessing the first order of ability. One of his sons-in-law is now Minister of Foreign Affairs; the other is Minister to the United States. He accepted my invitation to meet at my home at dinner men of prominence in our business and financial center, but on the death of the Empress Dowager His Excellency went into mourning and he returned to China via Europe.

It is not generally known that China delayed entering the Great War for two months so as to be able to act as a neutral in the purchase of certain warships from the neutrals; and those ships would have been bought had it not been for inexplicable delays in Washington. After China had secured warships as a neutral she would have joined the Allies—which would have added two fleets of modern war vessels to the naval Allied power.

MONTH IN THE OPEN

One of the Advantages of the Citizens' Military Training Camps.

The enrolling campaign for the 1925 Citizens' Military Training Camps of New England is now on in full swing and, in present indication, the enrollment will be one of the largest since the beginning of the movement in 1921.

Already Massachusetts has enrolled over 60 percent of its quota of 1564. Maine over 50 percent of its quota of 312.

In Knox County application blanks and full information may be obtained from Kenneth V. White, clerk at C. J. Moore drug store, Rockland. Two students have thus far enrolled from this county—Cecil Benson of Rockland and Robert C. Mansfield of Union. Lincoln boys who have enrolled are Loring A. Crowell of Waldoboro and Maurice H. Wood of Newcastle. Hancock county is sending a large delegation.

These training camps are an outgrowth of the famous "Plattsburg idea." They are summer camps conducted for the youth of the nation by the government. They are not primarily military training camps in purpose, plan, or program, but national schools for physical health and a thorough understanding of the obligations and privileges of good citizenship, a thoroughly American institution.

The place to train young men is in a camp where they receive expert physical direction, athletic coaching and military instruction, together with an opportunity for mental and moral development. Here they learn the lessons of discipline, obedience, courtesy, consideration, self-reliance, co-operation and a democratic feeling toward their fellowmen, so necessary to business and professional life. The camps have the commendation of church men, educators, business and professional men and women, fraternal and civic societies.

Athletes are very important to these camps and are specially featured in the daily schedules. They include water sports, boating, tennis, baseball, track and field events for which prizes are awarded in the form of medals, cups and pennants.

"Good Citizenship" is the foreword of the camp and their product—a fine young American with a trained mind, body and character that fits him to give a good account of himself in his business or professional career and in upholding the ideals and purposes of his government.

These things are accomplished by the close association of young men of every walk of life in that most democratic of all environments, military discipline, under instructors chosen for ability and fitness for this special work. The results are often surprising and have been repeatedly testified to by parents, employers and communities.

The Citizens' Military Training Camps represent a conscious effort on the part of the Government to counteract what appears to be a menacing spirit of irresponsibility that has grown up since the close of the World War and what has become to be generally acknowledged as an age of unrest.

Special attention is given to diet and an abundance of nourishing, well cooked food is provided. Religious services of all denominations are provided on Sunday mornings. Parents, relatives and friends are welcomed in camp, and are invited to visit the students on weekends.

The Citizens' Military Training Camps provide a month in the open in the most delightful of surroundings. The barracks are sunny and thoroughly ventilated. The students arise in the morning, breakfast, and march in company formation to their various drill fields where they receive their military drill and training, which feature is followed by calisthenics when they bare their chests and arms to the sunshine, expand their lungs, reddens their blood, strengthen their hearts, develop their muscles, and in general, acquire a condition of 100 percent health nowhere else to be obtained in the entire country.

The busy day is over at 5 o'clock, when the students are free to partake of the various recreations and entertainment features provided. There is a well-stocked library, several pianos, pool tables, and facilities for card playing.

All this is free—travel expense to and from the home, food, shelter, uniforms, hats, shoes and 30 days of thorough enjoyment.

SCOTIA LOBSTERS

Influx of Them Busts Bottom Right Out of the Market.

So great has been the receipt of Nova Scotia lobsters at Boston during the past few weeks that the bottom has all but fallen out of the lobster market, says the Atlantic Fisherman. Fishing conditions in Nova Scotia have been unusually favorable, with lobsters plentiful and of large size. Many Maine lobster fishermen are engaged in other lines of fishing until such time as the price of lobsters advance to a point where it is profitable to fish for them. With frozen herring, the only bait available, fetching 5 1/2 cents a pound, and lobsters bringing but 15 to 20 cents a pound, the fishery is unprofitable.

According to the Yarmouth (N. S.) Telegram, 5,389 packages of lobsters were shipped by the fishermen between Brier Island and Liverpool during the month of March. The last shipment of the month consisted of 1089 crates by the steamer Prince George from Yarmouth. The lobsters sold at Boston for $30 per crate.

A prominent lobster dealer of Yarmouth stated that the 5,389 packages would average 175 pounds each, making a total of 943,000 pounds. If the lobsters sold at a most conservative average of 23 cents, the total amount returned for the month of March would be $216,890. These figures indicate the great value of the lobster fishery to that section of the Nova Scotia coast. In addition all the canneries along the coast are working to capacity. The price paid for the small lobsters has ranged from eight to twelve cents—adding thousands of dollars more to the lobster yield.

According to report, there is a new type of lobster being caught in Nova Scotia waters this year. The fishermen of Shelburne, Yarmouth and Queen's counties have noticed a pronounced difference in the type so far this season, the fish averaging a very much larger size, with comparatively few small ones. In one instance, which may be taken as an average, out of a total catch of 86 lobsters not more than 29 were under nine inches.

Another proof that the type is changed is offered in the marked difference in the tails of this year's catch, which are widely flanged and spread instead of being close knit and round. Furthermore, red spots appear on the shell, instead of the usual even, unbroken dark color.

It is said that this type of lobster was seen to some extent on the coast of Maine last year, but Nova Scotia fishermen say that it is a new type to them. If this type runs to a larger size, the Canadian fishermen will be pleased to have the new visitors take up a permanent residence along the shore of Nova Scotia.

CAMDEN BOY ENLISTS

ATLANTA PHYSICIAN PUTS KARNAK TO TEST

Dr. Charles L. Moore Makes a Searching Investigation Regarding Merit of Sensational Medicine.

NOW INDORSES IT IN HIGHEST TERMS

The highest tribute that can possibly be paid a proprietary medicine has just been accorded Karnak, the sensational new medicine that is accomplishing such remarkable results.

Dr. Charles L. Moore, a physician of 48 years' general practice, comes out and states in unconditional terms that Karnak is without a doubt a most extraordinary medicine. Such endorsement is indeed convincing, for the physician will not recommend any medicine until he positively knows it will produce the results.

"I am frank to say that Karnak is the most efficient medicine I have ever used for building up a run-down sluggish system," declares Dr. Moore.

Entering the Civil War at the age of 14 and graduating in medicine with a M. D. degree from the University of Maryland and a D. D. S. degree from Baltimore Dental College, Dr. Moore has spent 48 years in the practice of medicine in Georgia. He is now retired and resides at 1168 Peachtree street, Atlanta.

Following is Dr. Moore's report on his test of Karnak:

"In my 48 years of active practice I have never been an advocate of the unlimited use of the majority of medicines, but after my own experience with Karnak, I do not hesitate to recommend this medicine to anyone."

"My own personal experience with Karnak is that it increases my appetite to where I eat like a growing boy. It thoroughly cleansed my system of all impurities, and I actually feel ten years younger as a result of taking Karnak."
